

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

Gov 5078.87.5

Harvard College Library

FROM

Clarence A. Bunker

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH RAILROAD CASES.

A complete collection of all the railroad law as decided by the American, English and Canadian courts of last resort.

Elaborate notes to the more important cases. As a means of giving the working lawyer a full collection of all the cases on the subjects treated, together with able and judicious criticism upon the points presented, they are simply invaluable.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH CORPORATION CASES.

This series presents a full collection of the cases in all the courts of last resort, both in America and England, on the law of private and municipal corporations other than railroad companies.

1.—SCOPE. Among the topics treated of will be the following:

PRIVATE CORPORATIONS.—Agency, Assessments, Building Associations, Dissolution of Corporations, Dividends and Earnings, Ecclesiastical and Religious Corporations, Elections, Mandamus, Officers, Organization, Powers, Stock and Stockholders, Taxation.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.—Assessments, Bonds, Powers, Ordinances, Poor Laws, Streets, Taxes, Intoxicating Liquors, Injuries to Person and Property, etc., etc.

2.—NOTES. The annotations are a special feature, being very full and exhaustive.

These works are issued in monthly Parts, each Part containing not less than 224 pages. Three Parts make a complete volume. When Part 3 is published, the Parts are returned to the publisher by the subscriber, and are bound in best law sheep and returned by mail WITHOUT CHARGE FOR BINDING. The subscription price is $4.50 per volume, including NOTES OF CASES.

EDWARD THOMPSON CO., Publishers,
Northport, Long Island, N. Y.

THE
AMERICAN AND ENGLISH
ENCYCLOPÆDIA
OF
LAW.

COMPILED UNDER THE EDITORIAL SUPERVISION OF
CHARLES F. WILLIAMS, ASSISTED BY THOMAS J. MICHIE.

VOLUME XXV.

NORTHPORT, LONG ISLAND, N. Y.:
EDWARD THOMPSON COMPANY, LAW PUBLISHERS.
1894.

Gov 5078.87.5

✓

Clarence A. Bunker

COPYRIGHT 1894.

By EDWARD THOMPSON CO.

All Rights Reserved.

MADE BY THE WERNER COMPANY,
AKRON, OHIO.
9-1-'94.

176-3
1-21

PARTIAL LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS, VOL. XXV.

Taxation	Sections I-XIV, XVI, XVIII, XX, XXII, .	FRANK H. BOWLBY, of the Rochester Bar.
	Redemption,	GEORGE E. BEERS, of the New Haven Bar.
	Remedies,	CHARLES C. BINNEY, of the Philadelphia Bar.
	Local Assessments, . . .	W. H. MICHAEL, of the Editorial Staff of the Am. & Eng. Encyc. of Law.
	Tax Sales,	DAVID S. GARLAND, of the Editorial Staff of the Am. & Eng. Encyc. of Law.
	Taxation (Corporate), .	EVANS WOOLLEN, of the Indianapolis Bar.
	Tax Titles,	DAVID S. GARLAND, of the Editorial Staff of the Am. & Eng. Encyc. of Law.
	Telegraphs and Telephones,	H. DENT MINOR, of the Memphis Bar.
	Tender,	EVERETT W. PATTISON, of the St. Louis Bar.
	Territories,	HENRY Z. JOHNSON, of the Boise City Bar.
	Testamentary Capacity,	CHAPMAN W. MAUPIN, of the Washington Bar.
	Threats and Threatening Letters, . .	W. H. MICHAEL, of the Editorial Staff of the Am. & Eng. Encyc. of Law.
	Tickets and Fares,	DAVID S. GARLAND, of the Editorial Staff of the Am. & Eng. Encyc. of Law.
	Words and Phrases,	THOMAS J. MICHIE, of the Editorial Staff of the Am. & Eng. Encyc. of Law.

TABLE OF TITLES AND DEFINITIONS.

See index for numerous sub-titles and definitions contained in the notes.

- Take, 1
 Tales, 2
 Talesman, 3
 Tallage, 3
 Tare, 3
 Tariff, 3
 Tavern, 3
TAXATION, 5
TAXATION (CORPORATE), 624
TAX TITLES, 674
 Teach, 741
 Teacher, 741
 Team, 741
 Teamster, 743
TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES, 744
 Teller, 893
 Temperance, 893
 Temperate, 893
 Tempest, 894
 Temporary, 894
 Tenancy, 894
TENANCY, JOINT. See Estates; Joint Tenants (and Tenants in Common).
 Tenancy at Sufferance, 894
 Tenancy at Will, 894
TENANCY BY CURTESY. See Curtesy.
TENANCY FOR LIFE. See Estates; Landlord and Tenant; Remainder; Reversion.
TENANCY FROM MONTH TO MONTH. See Landlord and Tenant.
TENANCY FROM YEAR TO YEAR. See Estates; Landlord and Tenant.
TENANCY IN COMMON. See Estates; Joint Tenants (and Tenants in Common).
TENANCY IN COPARCENARY. See Parcenary.
TENANCY IN DOWER. See Dower.
TENANCY IN FEE SIMPLE. See Estates; Real Property.
 Tenant, 895
 Tenantable, 896
 Tenant's Fixtures, 896
TENANT FOR YEARS. See Estates; Landlord and Tenant.
TENDER, 897
 Tenement, 944
 Tenendum, 944
 Tenor, 946
 Tent, 947
 Tenterden's (Lord) Act, 948
 Tenure, 948
 Tenure of Office, 948
TERM, 949
 Terminate, 952
 Terminer, 952
 Terminus, 953
 Terre-Tenant, 952
 Terrier, 953
TERRITORIAL COURTS. See Courts; Territories; United States Courts.
TERRITORIES, 953
 Testament, 970
TESTAMENTARY CAPACITY, 970
 Teste, 1018
 Testimony, 1019
TEST OATH. See Ex Post Facto Laws; Oath.
 Test-Paper, 1019
 The, 1019
THEATERS, 1020
 Theft, 1054
 Their, 1054
 Then, 1055
 Thence, 1056
 Thereafter, 1057
 Therefore He Brings Suit, 1057
 Therein, 1057
 Thereon, 1058
 Thereupon, 1058
 These, 1058
 Thief, 1058
 Thing, 1058
THINGS IN ACTION. See Choses in Action.
 Think, 1058
 Third or Thirds, 1059
 Third Party, 1059
 This, 1059
 Thoroughfare, 1059
 Thoroughly Dried, 1059
 Thousand, 1060
 Thread, 1060
THREATS AND THREATENING LETTERS, 1060
 Three Story, 1073
 Threshing Machine, 1073
 Throat, 1073
 Through, 1073
 Thrust, 1074
 Ticket, 1074
TICKETS AND FARES, 1074.

THE AMERICAN AND ENGLISH ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF LAW.

TAKE.—Take and its inflections have in many phrases in law a meaning but little apart from the vernacular; but in the law of eminent domain, wills, etc., they are used in technical or quasi technical senses.¹

1. See Abb. Law Dict.; Anderson's L. Dict.

"Taken" Implies a Transfer of Dominion or Control.—"In its usual significance, the word taken implies a transfer of possession, dominion, or control. A thing is not taken unless such a change of status is effected. In trespass, trover, or replevin, the taking is not accomplished until the goods are within the power or control of the defendant. A devisee takes under a will only when the possession and control of the devisor has ceased." Jersey City v. Morris Canal, etc., Co., 41 N. J. L. 70.

What Constitutes a "Taking" for Public Use.—For numerous decisions determining what constitutes a taking of property within the meaning of constitutional provisions requiring that property shall not be taken for public use without compensation, see EMINENT DOMAIN, vol. 6, p. 542 et seq.

"Take" in the Sense of "Arrest."—"Take" is the technical word used in all writs and precepts by which a sheriff or other officer is commanded to arrest the body. As thus used, the term is synonymous with "arrest." Com. v. Hall, 9 Gray (Mass.) 267; 69 Am. Dec. 285.

"Take" not Synonymous with "Steal."—In an action for malicious arrest, it was held no error to refuse an instruction for defendant that if such circumstances existed as would create a suspicion in a reasonable mind that the plaintiff had "taken" the articles, it would amount to probable cause. The court said: "To 'take' an article from another, and to 'steal' it, are not necessarily synonymous expressions." Stone v. Stevens, 12 Conn. 229; 30 Am. Dec. 611.

Take and carry away are the technical words used in charging larceny. See LARCENY, vol. 12, p. 762.

Game is "taken" when it is snared, though it is neither killed nor removed. Rex v. Glover, Russ. & Ry. C. C. 269.

"Taking" and Destroying.—A penalty for "taking or destroying" the spawn of fish, or for taking or killing fish, means an improper killing and not for, e. g., removing spawn from one bed to another. Bridger v. Richardson, 2 M. & S. 568; Rex v. Mallinson, 2 Burr. 679.

Power to "Take" Realty.—That the charter power of a bank to "take" real estate in payment of its debts, involves the power of subsequently selling the same, see Jackson v. Brown, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 590.

Held to Apply to Personality.—The words "taking" and "converting," as used in a statute authorizing arrest, in actions for taking or converting property, apply to personal property only. Merritt v. Carpenter, 3 Abb. App. Dec. (N. Y.) 285.

What "Taking" Will Amount to

TALES—(See also JURY AND JURY TRIAL, vol. 12, p. 340).—If by means of challenges or other causes, a sufficient number of unexceptional jurors doth not appear at the trial, either party may pray a tales. A tales is a supply of such men as are summoned on the first panel, in order to make up the deficiency.¹

Abduction.—(See ABDUCTION, vol. 1, p. 22.)

"Taking" for Purposes of Prostitution—(See also ABDUCTION, vol. 1, p. 22).—To bring an offender within a statute against "taking" girls from the custody of their parents or guardians for purposes of prostitution, it is not necessary that the "taking" should be by force, but the statute is satisfied if it is accomplished by improper solicitations or inducements. People v. Marshall, 59 Cal. 388. See also Reg. v. Mankietow, 22 L. J. M. C. 115; Reg. v. Timmins, 30 L. J. M. C. 45; State v. Jameson, 38 Minn. 21.

"Taken" in the Act of Adultery.—Art. 567 of the Penal Code of Texas reads as follows: "Homicide is justifiable when committed by the husband upon the person of any one taken in the act of adultery with the wife, provided the killing take place before the parties to the act of adultery have separated." It was held that a proper construction of the term "taken in the act of adultery," as used in the statute, does not mean that in order to avail himself of the protection afforded by the statute, and to justify the homicidal act, the husband should be an eye witness to the physical act of coition between his wife and her paramour, but it will be sufficient if he sees the paramour in bed with his wife, or leaving it, or in such a position as indicates with a reasonable certainty to a rational mind that they had just then committed the adulterous act, or were then about to commit it. But no knowledge otherwise acquired by the husband, however positive, of the adulterous intercourse between his wife and her paramour, will bring the homicide, if he slay the latter, within the purview of the statute. Price v. State, 18 Tex. App. 474; 51 Am. Rep. 322.

When an Appeal is "Taken"—"An appeal cannot be said to be 'taken,' any more than a writ of error can be said to be 'brought,' until it is in some way presented to the court which made the decree appealed from, thereby putting an end to its jurisdiction over the cause and making it its duty to send it to the appellate court. This is done by filing the papers, viz., the petition and allowance of appeal (where there is such a petition and allowance), the appeal bond, and the citation." Credit Co. v. Arkansas Cent. R. Co., 128 U. S. 261.

"Taken as True."—An instruction, where the accused is examined on his own behalf, that what he testified to against his interest is to be "taken as true," is not prejudicial error. The court said: "To say that they are to be 'taken as true,' as was done in this instance, is saying no more than that they are 'presumed to be true' or are conclusive for the purposes of the case in hand. 1 Greenl. Ev., §§ 27, 32; Webst. Dict., tit. 'Presume.'" State v. Brooks, 99 Mo. 137.

"Take" in the Sense of "Require."—An averment that "it will take" all of specified property to pay the debts of deceased is a sufficient averment of a necessity for ordering a sale. "Take" in this sense, is equivalent to "require." The sentence means that all the property will be necessary. King v. Kent, 29 Ala. 542.

"Taken" Held Equivalent to "Taken in invitum."—A statute provided that an estate by curtesy should not "be liable to be attached or in any way taken for the debts of the husband." It was held that "taken" meant "taken in invitum." The court, by Durfee, J., said: "The word 'taken' as used in the statute means in our opinion taken in invitum; for instance, if a tenant by curtesy initiate were to mortgage his estate, the statute would not prevent the mortgagee's enforcing his mortgage in so far as it could be enforced consistently with the rights of the wife." Briggs v. Titus, 13 R. I. 136.

"Take effect," "be in force," "go into operation," etc., are used interchangeably. See EFFECT, vol. 6, p. 171.

1. 2 Bl. Com. 365, followed in O'Connor v. State, 9 Fla. 225.

Octo tales and decem tales were the names at common law of the writs issued to summon such bodies of jurors. In the case of octo tales, eight, and in the case of decem tales, ten men, were summoned. 2 Bl. Com. 365.

TALESMAN—(See also JURY AND JURY TRIAL, vol. 12, p. 340).—A talesman is a juror summoned to fill up a panel, for the trial of a particular cause.¹

TALLAGE—(See also TAXATION).—Is a general word and includes all “subsidies, taxes, tenths, fifteenths, impositions, or other burdens or charges put or set upon any man.”²

TARE—(See also DRAFT, vol. 6, p. 1).—See note 3.

TARIFF—(See also REVENUE LAWS, vol. 21, p. 301).—The list or schedule of articles on which a duty is imposed upon their importation into the United States, with the rates at which they are severally taxed. Also the custom or duty payable on such article, and, derivatively, the system or principle of imposing duties on the importation of foreign merchandise.⁴

TAVERN—(See also INNS AND INN KEEPERS, vol. 11, p. 5).—A “tavern” is a house licensed to sell liquors in small quantities to be drunk on the spot. It denotes a house for the entertainment of travelers, as well as for the sale of liquors.⁵ Although the original definition of tavern was a place where liquor was sold

1. Shields v. Niagara Sav. Bank, 3 Hun (N. Y.) 479.

2. People v. Brooklyn, 9 Barb. (N. Y.) 550; quoting 2 Co. Ins. 532.

3. Draft and Tare Distinguished.—“Draft and tare, in a commercial sense and usage, have a separate and distinct meaning and application. The former is an allowance to the merchant when the duty is ascertained by weight, as in the present instance, to insure good weight to him. As defined in some books, it is ‘a small allowance in weighable goods made by the king to the importer.’ It is to compensate for any loss that may occur from the handling of the scales in the weighing, so that, when weighed the second time, the article will hold out good weight. The latter, tare, is allowed for the outside or covering of the article imported, whether it be box, barrel, bag, bale, mat, etc. Now, the tare in this case was allowed, but the allowance for the draft was refused. I cannot perceive any distinction between the two, as the right to the allowance of the one stands as express and explicit, on the statute, as the right to the allowance of the other. Both might as well have been denied as either; it is a mistake to suppose that the allowance of the tare covers that for the draft, for, as is seen, it is intended to cover a different loss, one incident to the weighing of the article, while the other relates to the loss from the rough outside covering of it.” Napier v. Barney, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 192.

4. Black’s Law Dict.

5. State v. Chambliss, Cheves (S. Car.) 220; 34 Am. Dec. 593; and in that case it was held that a license to keep a tavern includes the privilege of retailing spirituous liquors.

In Re Schneider, 11 Oregon 288, the following definition was given: “A tavern has been judicially defined to be ‘a house licensed to sell liquors in small quantities.’”

A tavern is “a house licensed to sell liquor to be drunk on the spot. In some of the United States, tavern is synonymous with inn or hotel, and denotes a house for the entertainment of travelers, as well as for the sale of liquors, licensed for that purpose.” Webst, followed in Rafferty v. New Brunswick F. Ins. Co., 18 N. J. L. 484; 38 Am. Dec. 525, where it was held that the mere retailing of spirituous liquors without a license does not constitute the occupant of a house a tavern keeper.

In its popular sense, as seen from the above definitions, the word tavern conveys the idea of being a place where liquors are sold. In its legal sense, this idea has usually, though not uniformly, been recognized. 2 Kent’s Com. 597 (a); Bonner v. Welborn, 7 Ga. 296; Overseers of the Poor v. Warner, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 150; Wortham v. Com., 5 Rand.

in small quantities, in the United States any house for the entertainment of transient guests is commonly denominated a "tavern," whether liquor is sold on the premises or not.¹

(Va.) 669; Com. v. Shortridge, 3 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 638; Hirn v. State, 1 Ohio St. 18; Linkous v. Com., 9 Leigh (Va.) 608; State v. Chamblyss, Cheves (S. Car.) 222; 34 Am. Dec. 593.

License For a Tavern Includes Privilege of Retailing Liquor.—Thus it has been generally held that a tavern license confers the privilege of retailing liquor upon the tavern keeper. Com. v. Kamp, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 309; Gray v. Com., 9 Dana (Ky.) 300; 35 Am. Dec. 136; State v. Chamblyss, Cheves (S. Car.) 222; 34 Am. Dec. 593.

In Hirn v. State, 1 Ohio St. 18, it was held that "the license to keep a tavern carried with it and conferred the privilege of retailing spirituous liquors, as clearly as if the same had been positively expressed." It was there said that "a license to keep a tavern, in its ordinary signification, was understood to be a license to retail liquors, and to keep a house of entertainment." But in State v. Cloud, 6 Ala. 630, it was held that a tavern license did not include the liquor license, the latter being thirty dollars and the former only ten.

1. St. Louis v. Siegrist, 46 Mo. 592; Curtis v. State, 5 Ohio 324; Foster v. State, 84 Ala. 451.

"An inn, tavern, or hotel, is a place for the general entertainment of all travelers or strangers who apply, paying suitable compensation." Bish. St. Cr. (2d ed.), § 297, followed in Comer v. State, 26 Tex. App. 509.

In State v. Fletcher, 5 N. H. 258, it is said: "It is the business of the taverner to provide food, drink, lodging and other accommodations for his guests, but this business may be exercised without selling spirits or wine in small quantities, and the sale of mixed liquors is, without doubt, a part of the common business of a taverner; but it is not necessarily so. It is therefore clear, we think, that when this defendant admits that he is guilty, as charged in the indictment, of exercising the business of a taverner without a license, we are not at liberty to understand this as an admission that he is guilty of selling spirits, or wine, or mixed liquor illegally, and to sentence him to pay the penalty prescribed by the statute for that offense."

But in Overseers of the Poor v. Warner, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 150; Bonner v. Welborn, 7 Ga. 296, it was held that houses of entertainment where liquor was not sold at retail were not taverns.

Tavern, Hotel, and Public House Synonymous.—"Tavern," "hotel," and "public house" are used synonymously in the United States; and while they entertain the traveling public, and keep guests, and receive compensation therefor, they do not lose their character, though they may not have the privilege of selling liquors. The distinction, as respects inn and tavern keepers, observed in England, under the common law, does not exist with us, and different names are applied to them, though "hotel" and "house" are used commonly to denote a higher order of public houses than the ordinary tavern or inn. St. Louis v. Siegrist, 46 Mo. 593, where it was held that "tavern," in a charter provision authorizing municipal authorities to "license and regulate taverns," includes a hotel.

Gaming.—(See also GAMING, vol. 8, p. 1045.)

A house of public entertainment, used both as a boarding house and tavern, though unlicensed, is within the prohibition of the Alabama statute against playing cards at a "tavern, inn, public house," etc. Foster v. State, 84 Ala. 451. In that case the opinion of the court was delivered by Somerville, J., who said: "An inn is a house of entertainment for travelers—being synonymous in meaning with hotel or tavern. It was formerly defined to mean 'a house where a traveler is furnished with everything which he has occasion for while upon his way.' Thompson v. Lacy, 3 B. & Ald. 283; People v. Jones, 54 Barb. (N. Y.) 311. But this definition has necessarily been modified by the progress of time, and the mutations in the customs of society and modes of travel in modern times. An inn, however, was always, and may now, when unlicensed, be distinguished from a boarding house, the guest of which is under an express contract, at a certain rate, and for a specified time—the right of selecting the guest or boarder, and fixing full terms, being the chief characteristic of the boarding house as distinguished from an inn."

TAXATION.—(See also titles indicated by cross-references in the following analysis and throughout the article.)

- I. Taxes and Taxation Defined,
- II. Nature, 12. [11.
 1. Taxes Distinguished From Debts, 12.
 2. Taxes Distinguished From Other Impositions, 14.
- III. Classification of Taxes, 16.
- IV. The Power to Tax, 18.
 1. Its Extent and Nature, 18.
 - a. Distinguished From Eminent Domain, 18.
 - b. Distinguished From Police Power, 20.
 2. Constitutional Restrictions (See also CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, vol. 3, p. 670), 21.
 - a. Upon Federal Taxation, 21.
 - b. Upon State Taxation, 22.
 - (1) Generally, 22.
 - (2) Restrictions in Federal Constitution, 23.
 - (a) Upon Export and Import Taxation; Inspection Laws, 23.
 - (b) Regulation of Commerce (See also INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 539), 27.
 - (1) Generally, 27.
 - (2) Taxes Upon Passengers, 31.
 - (3) Taxes Upon Freight, 31.
 - (4) Taxes Upon the Means by Which Interstate Commerce is Transacted, 32.
 - (5) Taxes Upon Privileges, Franchises, Gross Receipts, Capital of Corporation, etc., 33.
 - (6) Direct Taxation Upon Property as Such, 38.
 - (c) Equal Privileges and Immunities, 40.
 - (d) Duties of Tonnage, 43.
 - (e) Impairment of Contract Obligations, 47.
 - (f) Due Process of Law (See also DUE PROCESS OF LAW, vol. 6, p. 43), 54.
 - (3) Restrictions in State Constitutions, 55.
 - (a) Equality and Uniformity, 55.
 - (b) Taxation by Value, 65.
 - (c) Double Taxation, 66.
 - (d) Rate of Taxation, 69.
 - (e) Form of the Enactment (See STATUTES, vol. 23, pp. 140, 258), 71.
 3. Restriction by Treaty (See also TREATIES), 71.
 4. Legislative Exercise of Power, 71.
 - a. The Legislative Function, 71.
 - b. Mode of Exercise, 75.
 5. Delegation of the Power, 79.
 6. Waiver or Relinquishment of the Power, 83.
 - V. Purposes of Taxation, 87.
 1. Must be Public, 87.
 2. General Rule of Construction, 88. [90.
 3. What Purposes are Public,
 4. What Purposes are Not Public, 97.
 5. Must Benefit the Locality Taxed, 98.
 - VI. Things Taxable, 100.
 1. Polls, 100.
 2. Property, 101.
 - a. In General, 101.
 - b. Personal Property, 102.
 - c. Realty, 104.
 3. Occupations and Privileges (See infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes), 106.
 4. Instrumentalities of Government, 106.
 - a. In General, 106.
 - b. Offices and Officers, 106.
 - c. Property Used as a Means of Government, 107.

- d. Other Governmental Agencies, 108.
- e. Public Property, 109.
- f. Indian Lands, 114.
- g. National Banks (See NATIONAL BANKS, vol. 16, p. 143), 115.
- 5. Incomes; Income Taxes, 115.
- 6. Legal Process, 116.
- VII. Upon Whom Imposed, 117.
 - 1. General Principles, 117.
 - 2. Property, to Whom Taxed,
 - a. Generally, 119. [119.]
 - b. Ownership, 120.
 - c. Occupancy, 121.
 - d. Particular Estates, 122.
 - e. Trustees, Executors, and Administrators, Guardians, Agents, etc., 124.
 - f. Non-resident and Unseated Property, 127.
- VIII. Place of Taxation, 129.
 - 1. In General, 129.
 - 2. Taxes on Real Property, 130.
 - a. In General, 130.
 - b. Land Lying in Two Districts, 132.
 - 3. Taxes on Personal Property, 133.
 - a. General Rule, 133.
 - (1) Domicile (See also DOMICILE, vol. 5, p. 857), 135.
 - (2) Residence, Inhabitant, etc. (See also INHABITANT, vol. 10, p. 770; RESIDENCE, vol. 21, p. 122), 137.
 - b. Tangible Personal Property, 138.
 - (1) In General, 138.
 - (2) Animals, 139.
 - (3) Water Craft, 140.
 - (4) Logs and Lumber (See also LOGS AND LUMBER, vol. 13, p. 1018), 141.
 - (5) Property in Transitu or Temporarily Present, 142.
 - (6) Construction of Special Statutory Terms, 144.
 - c. Intangible Personal Property, 146.
 - (1) Debts in General, 146.
 - (2) Negotiable Paper, 146.
 - (3) Mortgages, 149.
 - (4) Miscellaneous Choses in Action, 151.
 - (5) Shares of Stock, 151.
 - d. Place as Affected by Ownership and Possession, 152.
- (1) In General, 152.
- (2) Corporate Property (See also CORPORATIONS, vol. 4, p. 272a), 152.
- (3) Railroad Property, 152.
- (4) Partnership Property, 152.
- (5) Property in Trust, 153.
- (6) Property in Hands of Guardians and Conservators, 154.
- (7) Property of Decedents, 154.
- 4. Poll Taxes, 155.
- 5. Miscellaneous Taxes, 155.
- IX. Exemptions, 156.
 - 1. Power to Exempt, 156.
 - 2. Strictly Construed, 157.
 - a. In General, 157.
 - b. Local Assessments, 160.
 - c. Restricted to Exempt Uses, 162.
 - 3. Customary Exemptions, 163.
 - a. Religious Societies, 163.
 - b. Educational Institutions, 165.
 - c. Eleemosynary Institutions, 167.
 - d. Cemeteries (See also CEMETERIES, vol. 3, p. 56), 169.
 - e. Railroads, 170.
 - f. Manufacturers, 174.
 - g. Stock (See also CORPORATIONS, vol. 4, p. 272d), 177.
 - h. Miscellaneous, 179.
- X. The Levy, 181.
 - 1. Meaning of Term, 181.
 - 2. How Made, 181.
 - a. Generally, 181.
 - b. The Apportionment, 183.
 - c. Levy by Subordinate Political Division, 186.
 - 3. Conclusiveness and Effect, 192.
 - 4. Exhaustion of Power, 193.
 - 5. Compulsory Levy, 195.
 - 6. Record of the Levy, 195.
 - 7. Commution of Tax, 198.
- XI. The Assessment, 199.
 - 1. Definition; Necessity for, 199.
 - 2. When Made, 200.
 - 3. By Whom Made, 202.
 - 4. How Made, 204.
 - a. General Rule, 204.
 - b. Listing, 205.
 - c. The Roll, 210.
 - (1) Form and Contents Generally, 210.
 - (2) Designation of the Person Taxed, 212.

- (3) Designation of the Property Taxed, 217.
 - (a) General Requirements, 217.
 - (b) Description of Personalty, 218.
 - (c) Description of Realty, 218.
 - (d) Distinct and Separate Parcels, 222.
 - (4) Valuation, 224.
 - (a) How Made, 224.
 - (b) Deduction of Liabilities, 227.
 - (5) Extending the Taxes, 230.
 - d. Authentication and Return, 231.
 - (1) The Authentication, 231.
 - (2) The Return, 234.
 - 5. Conclusiveness and Effect, 236.
 - 6. Liability of Assessors, 238.
 - 7. Compensation of Assessors, 240.
 - 8. Equalization and Review, 241.
 - a. Provision for, 241.
 - b. The Proper and Exclusive Remedy, 242.
 - c. Composition of the Board, 244.
 - d. Authority and Jurisdiction, 246.
 - (1) In General, 246.
 - (2) Boards of Equalization, 247.
 - (3) Boards of Review, 249.
 - e. Necessity of Notice, 251.
 - (1) Of Meetings of Boards of Review, 251.
 - (2) Of Meetings of Boards of Equalization, 255. [255.]
 - f. Proceedings of Boards, 259.
 - g. The Determination, 259.
 - h. Conclusiveness and Effect, 261. [262.]
 - i. Record of Proceedings, 265.
 - j. Appeal and Review, 265.
- XII. The Tax Lien, 267.
- 1. Nature of the Tax Lien, 267.
 - 2. The Lien of Municipal Taxes, 268.
 - 3. Validity of the Lien—Essentials, 269. [270.]
 - 4. Time When Lien Attaches, 272.
 - 5. To What Property the Lien Attaches, 272.
 - 6. Priority of Lien, 273.
 - 7. Termination of the Lien, 275.
 - a. In General, 275.
 - b. Statutory Limitation, 275.
 - c. Effect of Alienation, 276.
 - d. Effect of Judicial Sale, 277. [277.]
- XIII. Payment, 278.
- 1. Voluntary Payment, 278.
 - a. Opportunity to Pay, 278.
 - b. When Made, 279.
 - c. By Whom Made, 279.
 - (1) Generally, 279.
 - (2) As Between Owners of Different Estates, 281.
 - d. To Whom Made, 282.
 - e. How Made, 283.
 - (1) Generally, 283.
 - (2) Medium of Payment, 284.
 - f. How Established, 285.
 - g. Effect, 286.
 - 2. Involuntary Payment (See infra, this title, Remedies for Erroneous and Illegal Taxation; DURESS, vol. 6, p. 57; PAYMENT, vol. 18, p. 148), 288.
- XIV. Collection, 288.
- 1. How Provided for, 288.
 - 2. The Collector, 289.
 - a. Selection, Removal, Resignation, etc., 289.
 - b. Qualification, 290.
 - c. Authority, 292.
 - (1) Nature and Extent, 292.
 - (2) The Warrant, 294.
 - (a) Issuance, 294.
 - (b) Contents, 295.
 - (c) Execution and Delivery, 296.
 - 3. Method of Collection, 297.
 - a. Generally, 297.
 - b. Summary Processes, 299.
 - (1) Nature and Constitutionality, 299.
 - (2) Construction, 299.
 - (3) Different Kinds of Summary Methods, 301.
 - (a) Detention of Property, 301.
 - (b) Imposition of Penalties, 302.
 - (c) Restriction of Rights, 305.
 - (d) Seizure—Levy or Distress of Property (See also infra this title, Tax Sales), 306.
 - (e) Arrest and Imprisonment, 310.

- c. Collection by Action, 312.
 - (1) The Right to Proceed by Action, 312.
 - (2) Construction of Provisions for Action, 315.
 - (3) Different Kinds of Actions, 315.
 - (a) Actions in Personam, 315.
 - (b) Actions in Rem, 316.
 - (4) Procedure, 319.
 - (a) Generally, 319.
 - (b) Pleadings and Proof, 320.
 - (c) Defenses, 323.
 - (d) Application for Judgment, 326.
 - (5) The Determination, 327.
 - (a) In Actions in Personam, 327.
 - (b) In Actions in Rem, 327.
 - (c) Penalties and Costs, 330.
 - (d) Validity and Effect, 330.
 - (6) Appeal and Review, 332.
 - 4. The Return, 333.
 - a. Of the Warrant, 333.
 - b. Of Delinquency, 334.
 - c. The Return as Evidence, 338.
 - 5. Liability of the Collector and Sureties, 339.
 - a. For Official Action, 339.
 - b. To Account for Collections (See also PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378), 343.
 - (1) Extent of the Liability, 343.
 - (2) The Accounting, 348.
 - c. Remedies Against Defaulting Collector, 350.
 - (1) By Action, 350.
 - (a) The Right to Maintain, 350.
 - (b) How Prosecuted, 351.
 - (c) The Measure of Damages, 353.
 - (2) Summary Process, 354.
 - (a) Provisions for, 354.
 - (b) Nature and Validity, 356.
 - (c) Construction and Applicability, 357.
 - (d) Procedure, 359.
 - (e) The Judgment, 360.
 - d. Upon His Official Bond (See also BONDS, vol. 2, p. 448; PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378; SURETYSHIP, vol. 24, p. 714), 360.
 - 6. Compensation of Collectors (See also PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378), 363.
- XV. Tax Sales, 367.
- 1. Personal Property, 367.
 - 2. Lands, 368.
 - a. Power to Sell, 368.
 - b. Primary Liability of Personalty, 370.
 - c. Proceedings Before Sale—Notice, 372.
 - d. Conduct of Sale, 381.
 - (1) Time and Place, 381.
 - (2) Must Be by Proper Officer, 383.
 - (3) Quantity to Be Sold—And in What Parcels, 384.
 - (4) Illegal and Excessive Taxes and Charges—Omitting Back Taxes, 387.
 - (5) Competition at Sale—Fraud, 391.
 - (6) Who May Purchase (See TAX TITLES, vol. 25, p. 674), 394.
 - (7) Terms of Sale, 394.
 - e. Proceedings After Sale, 396.
 - (1) Report and Record, 396.
 - (2) Confirmation, 398.
 - (3) Certificate, 399.
- XVI. Forfeiture for Noncompliance With Tax Laws (See also TAX TITLES), 403.
- 1. The Doctrine, 403.
 - 2. Constitutionality; Construction of Statutes, 405.
 - 3. Redemption, 407.
 - 4. Waiver, 407.
- XVII. Redemption From Tax Sale, 408.
- 1. Definition, 408. [408.]
 - 2. Origin of the Right, 409.
 - 3. Construction of Redemption Statutes, 410.
 - 4. The Law Governing the Right, 410.
 - 5. Nature of the Right, 411.
 - 6. Effect of Redemption, 411.
 - 7. Mode of Redemption, 411.
 - a. The Essential Act, 411.
 - b. As Affected by Statutes, 412.
 - 8. Who May Redeem, 412.
 - a. The Rule, 412.

- b. Instances, 413.
 - c. Mortgagees, 415.
 - d. Payment by Stranger,
 - e. Part Owners, 416. [416.
 - 9. Period for Redemption, 418.
 - a. In General, 418.
 - b. Waiver of Requirements as to Time, 419.
 - c. Persons Under Disability, 419.
 - 10. Payment and Tender, 421.
 - a. In General, 421. [422.
 - b. Kind of Money Required,
 - c. To Whom Made, 422.
 - d. When Dispensed With, 423.
 - (1) Mistake or Fraud of Officer, 423. [424.
 - (2) Fraud of Purchaser,
 - e. Equitable Redemption,
 - 11. Amount, 424. [424.
 - 12. Notice to Redeem, 426.
 - a. Generally, 426.
 - b. To Whom Given, 428.
 - (1) In General, 428.
 - (2) The Owner, 428.
 - (3) The Occupant, 429.
 - (4) The Person in Whose Name Assessed, 430.
 - c. General Requisites, 430.
 - d. Contents of Notice, 431.
 - (1) The Expiration of the Time to Redeem, 431.
 - (2) Amount Due, 432.
 - e. Publication, 432.
 - f. Affidavit of Service and Publication, 433.
 - 13. Evidence, 435.
 - 14. Remedies, 435.
- XVIII. Distribution and Disposition of the Avails of Taxation, 437.
- 1. Settlement Between State and County, 437.
 - 2. Accounting Between Subdivisions of the State, 441.
 - 3. Appropriations, 442.
- XIX. Remedies for Erroneous and Illegal Taxation, 445.
- 1. Remedies of the State, 445.
 - a. Remedies by Legislative Action, 445.
 - b. Reassessment, 447.
 - 2. Remedies of the Taxpayer, 448.
 - a. General Rights of the Taxpayer as to Remedies, 448.
 - b. Abatement (Appeal), 456.
 - c. Certiorari (See also CERTIORARI, vol. 3, p. 60), 456.
 - d. Prohibition (See also
- PROHIBITION, vol. 19, p. 274), 465.
 - e. Injunction (See INJUNCTION, vol. 10, p. 857), 465.
 - f. Refunding and Recovery of Taxes Paid, 465.
 - g. Remedies Against Public Officers (See also PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378), 474.
 - (1) Official Liability in General, 474.
 - (2) Tort (Trespass), 477.
 - (3) Case, 478.
 - (4) Trover, 479.
 - (5) Mandamus (See MANDAMUS, vol. 14, p. 192), 479.
 - (6) Replevin (See REPLEVIN, vol. 20, p. 1071), 479.
- XX. Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes, 479.
- 1. Power to Impose, 479.
 - a. In General — Constitutional Limitations, 479.
 - b. Delegation of the Power, 482.
 - 2. Taxable Subjects — What Usually Taxed, 484.
 - a. In General, 484.
 - b. Particular Pursuits, 486.
 - (1) Professional Occupations, 486.
 - (2) Merchants, Dealers, and Manufacturers, 487. [488.
 - (3) Banks, Bankers, etc.,
 - c. Taxes on Corporate Franchises (See TAXATION (CORPORATE), vol. 25), 488.
 - d. Taxes on Legacies and Inheritances (See SUCCESSION TAXES, vol. 24, p. 431), 488.
 - e. Dog Taxes, 489.
 - 3. How Imposed, 489.
 - a. Mode of Imposing, 489.
 - b. Upon Whom Imposed, 491.
 - c. Where Imposed, 492.
 - 4. Collection (See also supra, this title, Collection), 492.
- XXI. Local Assessments, 494.
- 1. Nature and Purpose — Distinguished from Taxation Generally, 494.
 - 2. Principle of the Imposition — Benefits, 496.
 - 3. Power to Make, 498.
 - a. Statutes and City Ordinances, 498.

- b. Constitutionality, 501.
 - c. Construction of Statutes, 507.
 - 4. Improvements for Which Made, 507.
 - a. Streets, 507.
 - b. Sidewalks, 508.
 - c. Sewers, 510.
 - d. Drains, 512.
 - e. Levees and Dikes, 513.
 - f. Parks, 514.
 - g. Water Pipes, 514.
 - h. Miscellaneous Cases, 515.
 - 5. Apportionment, 516.
 - a. In General, 516.
 - b. By Benefits, 522. [524.
 - c. According to Frontage, 524.
 - d. According to Area, 526.
 - e. According to Value, 526.
 - 6. Property Assessable, 527.
 - a. In General, 527.
 - b. Public Property, 527.
 - c. Property of Railroads, 528.
 - d. Agricultural Lands in Cities, 531. [531.
 - 7. Assessment Proceedings,
 - a. Compliance With Statutory Provisions, 531.
 - b. Determination of Necessity, 532.
 - c. Petition of Property Owners, 533.
 - d. Ordinances, Resolutions, etc., 537.
 - (1) Necessity of, 537.
 - (2) Enactment, 537.
 - (3) Requisites as to Form and Sufficiency, 540.
 - (4) Publication, 544.
 - e. Notice, 545.
 - (1) Necessity, 545.
 - (2) Requisites, 546.
 - (3) Purpose of Notice—Right to be Heard, 548.
 - (4) Waiver, 550. [548.
 - f. The Assessment, 551.
 - (1) Time of Assessment, 551.
 - (2) Plans and Estimates of Expenses, 552.
 - (a) In General—By Whom Made, 552.
 - (b) What to be Included, 553.
 - (3) Determination of Benefits, 554.
 - (a) Commissioners, Assessors; etc.—Their Appointment, Qualifications, and Oath, 554.
 - (b) Duties of Commissioners in Assessing Benefits, 556.
 - (c) Report of Commissioners, 558.
 - g. Confirmation of Report and Assessment, 560.
 - h. Reassessment, 562.
 - i. Legislative Power to Validate Void Assessments, 562.
 - 8. Collection of Assessments, 564.
 - a. Demand, 564.
 - b. Personal Liability, 564.
 - c. Lien on Property, 566.
 - (1) In General, 566.
 - (2) Enforcement, 567.
 - d. Who May Collect, 567.
 - e. Pleadings, 569.
 - f. Evidence, 569.
 - g. Defenses, 570.
 - 9. Remedies, 571.
 - a. Appeal, 571.
 - b. Certiorari, 572.
 - c. Equitable Relief, 572.
 - (1) In General, 572.
 - (2) Injunction, 574. [575.
 - (3) Action to Quiet Title, 575.
 - d. Recovery Back, 575.
 - e. Estoppel, 576.
- XXII. Municipal Taxation, 576.
- 1. Its Nature, 576.
 - 2. Municipal and Corporate Purposes, 577.
 - a. In General, 577.
 - b. Taxation in Aid of Railroads, 578.
 - c. Sinking Fund Taxes, 579.
 - 3. Power to Impose, 580.
 - a. In General, 580.
 - b. By Necessary Implication, 584. [585.
 - c. Limitations on Power, 585.
 - d. Withdrawal or Alteration of Power, 590.
 - e. Power to Impose Special Taxes, 593.
 - f. Division and Consolidation of Districts, 594.
 - 4. Compulsory Taxation, 595.
 - a. Legislative Compulsion, 595.
 - b. Judicial Compulsion, 596.
 - 5. Submission to Popular Vote, 596.
 - a. In General, 596.
 - b. Notice of Election, 598.
 - c. The Proceedings, 599.
 - 6. Subjects of Municipal Taxation, 602.

- a. In General, 602.
- b. Public Property, 604.
- c. Property in Adjacent Territory, 605.
- d. Agricultural Lands, 605.
- e. Detached Territory, 606.
- f. Exemptions, 606.
- 7. The Assessment, 608.
- 8. The Collection, 609.
- 9. Taxes in Particular Districts and Quasi Municipalities, 610.
 - a. Generally, 610.
 - b. School Districts and School Taxes, 611.
 - (1) In General, 611.
 - (2) The Assessment, 613.
 - (3) Limitations and Restrictions, 615.
 - (4) Collection and Distribution, 615.
 - c. Highway Districts and Street and Highway Taxes, 616.
 - (1) In General, 616.
 - (2) Road Labor, 621.
 - d. Drainage and Reclamation Districts and Drainage Taxes. (See supra, this title, Local Assessments. See also DRAINS AND SEWERS, vol. 6, p. 2), 623.
 - e. Levee Districts and Taxes, 623.
 - f. Park Districts and Taxes (See supra, this title, Local Assessments), 623.

I. TAXES AND TAXATION DEFINED.—Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by law upon persons or property for public purposes or to accomplish some governmental end.¹ They are the enforced proportional contribution of each citizen and of his estate, levied by the authority of the state for the support of government and for all public needs;²—the regular, uniform, and equal contributions which the people are required to make for the support of the government,³ and for carrying out and making effective those

1. Taxes.—Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; Perry v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 318; People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 432; Judd v. Driver, 1 Kan. 455; Mitchell v. Williams, 27 Ind. 62; Allen v. Jay, 60 Me. 124; 11 Am. Rep. 185; Van Horn v. People, 46 Mich. 183; 41 Am. Rep. 159; Hawkins v. Carroll County, 50 Miss. 735; Matter of New York, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 77; Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 605; Davidson v. Ramsey County, 18 Minn. 482; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 599; Dalrymple v. Milwaukee, 53 Wis. 178; Brodhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624; 88 Am. Dec. 711; Citizens' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Topeka, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 655.

A tax is an imposition for the supply of the public treasury. Philadelphia Assoc., etc. v. Wood, 39 Pa. St. 73.

A tax is the means by which a burden primarily borne by the state is transferable to the citizen. Morton v. Comptroller General, 4 S. Car. 430.

Taxes are a public imposition levied by authority of the government for the purpose of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations. Northern Liberties v. St. John's Church, 13 Pa. St. 104; Citizens' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Topeka, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 655.

2. Opinion of Justices, 58 Me. 590; State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 Me. 518; Peirce v. Boston, 3 Met. (Mass.) 520; Baltimore v. Green Mount Cemetery, 7 Md. 517; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 479; State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 250; Morris v. Lalaurie (La. 1887), 1 So. Rep. 659.

Taxes are imposts levied for the support of the government, or for some special purpose authorized by it. Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; De Pauw v. New Albany, 22 Ind. 206; Geren v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 697; Whiteaker v. Haley, 2 Oregon 128; Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa. St. 69; Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 398; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 444.

The word "tax" or "taxes," as used in the Illinois revenue law, means any tax, special assessment, or cost, interest, or penalty. Blake v. People, 109 Ill. 504.

3. New London v. Miller, 60 Conn. 112; Board of Education v. Old things which are useful and which conduce to the public welfare and well being.¹

Taxation is the process or means by which the taxing power is exercised.² It is the exaction of money or services from individuals as and for their respective shares of contribution to any public burden,³ for the purpose of enabling the government to execute and discharge its functions.⁴

II. NATURE—1. Taxes Distinguished From Debts.—A tax differs from an ordinary debt in that its obligation does not depend on contract.⁵ Generally, in the absence of statute, the collection of Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; U. S. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 17 Wall. (U. S.) 322.

Taxes are the portion that each individual gives of his property in order to secure, or have, the perfect enjoyment of the remainder. Duer v. Small, 17 How. Pr. (U. S. C. C.) 201.

Taxes are the property of the citizen taken from the citizen by the government for governmental purposes. Opinion of Justices, 58 Me. 590.

A tax is a sum of money assessed under the authority of the state on the person or property of an individual for the use of the state. Allen v. Jay, 60 Me. 124; 11 Am. Rep. 185.

1. Hilbish v. Catherman, 64 Pa. St. 154.

Taxes are public burdens imposed generally upon the inhabitants of the whole state, or upon some civil division thereof, for governmental purposes, without reference to peculiar benefits to particular individuals or property. Roosevelt Hospital v. New York, 84 N. Y. 108.

Taxes are enforced contributions from persons and property, levied by the state by virtue of its sovereignty, for the support of the government. The state demands and receives them from the subjects of taxation within its jurisdiction, that it may be enabled to carry its mandates into effect and perform the functions of government; and the citizen pays from his property the portion demanded, in order that he may, by means thereof, be secured in the enjoyment of the benefits of organized society. Succession of Mercier, 42 La. Ann. 1135.

2. Taxation. — Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; Frost v. Flick, 1 Dak. 131; Black's Law Dict., tit. "Taxation."

The ordinary exercise of the taxing power is taxation. Adams v. Lindell, 5 Mo. App. 197.

Tax legislation means the making of laws that are to furnish the measure of every man's duty in support of the public burdens, and the means of enforcing it. Philadelphia Assoc., etc. v. Wood, 39 Pa. St. 73.

The term "taxation" applies to all assessments for public purposes which are called taxes and are authorized by law, including taxation for municipal purposes. Dubuque v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 Iowa 56.

3. People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266; Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; Taylor v. Palmer, 31 Cal. 240; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; 3 Am. Rep. 615.

Taxation implies tribute from the governed to some form of sovereignty. West Hartford v. Board of Water Com'rs, 44 Conn. 360. It is that tribute for the support of government imposed on property, in return for the protection and advantages which the government affords to the owner. Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1.

4. Opinion of Justices, 58 Me. 590. In Emery v. San Francisco Gas Co., 28 Cal. 345, it was held that the words "taxation" and "tax," as used in the California constitution, relate to such general taxes upon all property as are levied to defray the ordinary expenses of the state, county, town, and municipal governments.

5. State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; Bradley v. McAtee, 7 Bush (Ky.) 667; 3 Am. Rep. 309; De Pauw v. New Albany, 22 Ind. 204; Perry v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 318; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Dubuque v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 Iowa 60; Geren v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 694; Shreveport v. Gregg, 28 La. Ann. 836; Morris v. Lalaurie, 39 La. Ann. 47; Whiteaker v. Haley, 2 Oregon 128; Augusta v. North, 57 Me. 392; 2 Am. Rep. 55; a tax is not enforceable by an action of debt;¹ nor, in the absence of statute, does it carry interest;² nor is it the subject of set-off against an indebtedness of the taxing district to the taxpayer;³ nor is its nature as a tax affected by the fact that the Dugan v. Baltimore, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 499; Peirce v. Boston, 3 Met. (Mass.) 520; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., R. Co., 18 W. Va. 441; Hibbard v. Clark, 56 N. H. 155; 22 Am. Rep. 442; Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 398; Carondelet v. Picot, 38 Mo. 125; Jonesboro v. McKee, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 167; Shaw v. Peckett, 26 Vt. 482; Johnson v. Howard, 41 Vt. 122; 98 Am. Dec. 568; Webster v. Seymour, 8 Vt. 135; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472; In re Duryee, 2 Fed. Rep. 68; Crabtree v. Madden, 54 Fed. Rep. 426; Jack v. Wiennett, 115 Ill. 105; 56 Am. Dec. 129. But see San Francisco Gas Co. v. Brickwedel, 62 Cal. 641; Gould v. Baltimore, 59 Md. 378; Dunlap v. Gallatin County, 15 Ill. 7; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367.

The distinction between a debt and a tax is that between a man voluntarily binding himself to pay money to the government, and the government binding him to do so when he has no option but to pay. People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 340; 76 Am. Dec. 521; Perry v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 318.

1. Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 398; Perry v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 318; Crapo v. Stetson, 8 Met. (Mass.) 394; Andover, etc., Turnpike Corp. v. Gould, 6 Mass. 44; 4 Am. Dec. 80; Augusta v. North, 57 Me. 392; 2 Am. Rep. 55; Packard v. Tisdale, 50 Me. 376; Richards v. Stogadell, 21 Ind. 74; Hibbard v. Clark, 56 N. H. 155; 22 Am. Rep. 442; Dreaque v. Beasley, 26 Ohio St. 315; Shaw v. Peckett, 26 Vt. 482; Johnson v. Howard, 41 Vt. 122; 98 Am. Dec. 568; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441. And see Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472; Dunlap v. Gallatin County, 15 Ill. 7; Dennis v. Maynard, 15 Ill. 477; Carondelet v. Picot, 38 Mo. 125; Miller v. Hale, 26 Pa. St. 432; McCall v. Lorimer, 4 Watts (Pa.) 351.

This rule is not universal, there being cases holding that in the absence of a statutory remedy, or if the statutory remedy is not made exclusive, a right of action exists. See infra, this title, Collection.

Federal Taxes. — Independently of acts of Congress authorizing them, suits at law may be maintained by the United States to recover taxes duly assessed and levied. Garrett v. Memphis, 5 Fed. Rep. 860; Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. (U. S.) 227.

2. Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 398; Haskell v. Bartlett, 34 Cal. 281; People v. Hagar, 52 Cal. 171; Augusta v. North, 57 Me. 392; 2 Am. Rep. 55; Danforth v. Williams, 9 Mass. 324; Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 55 Tex. 314; Shaw v. Peckett, 26 Vt. 482; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; Crabtree v. Madden, 54 Fed. Rep. 426. See also Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 391.

In Warren R. Co. v. Belvidere, 35 N. J. L. 584, it was held that a certain percentage added to a tax at the time of its collection was not interest, but in the nature of a penalty for delinquency in payment, and a creature of the statute.

3. Hibbard v. Clark, 56 N. H. 155; 22 Am. Rep. 442; Himmelmann v. Spanagel, 39 Cal. 389; Wayne v. Savannah, 56 Ga. 448; Hawkins v. Sumter County, 57 Ga. 166; Augusta v. North, 57 Me. 392; 2 Am. Rep. 55; Peirce v. Boston, 3 Met. (Mass.) 520; Home Sav. Bank v. Boston, 131 Mass. 280; Nebraska City v. Nebraska City Gas, etc., Co., 9 Neb. 339; Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 398; McCracken v. Elder, 34 Pa. St. 239; Trenholm v. Charleston, 3 S. Car. 349; 16 Am. Rep. 732; Johnson v. Howard, 41 Vt. 122; 98 Am. Dec. 568; Humphreys v. Patton, 21 W. Va. 220; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; Apperson v. Memphis, 2 Flipp. (U. S.) 363; Crabtree v. Madden, 54 Fed. Rep. 426; Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75 N. Car. 1; Battle v. Thompson, 65 N. Car. 406; Weinstein v. Newbern, 71 N. Car. 335; Fitzhugh v. Cotton Belt Levee Dist., 54 Ark. 224; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 34 Md. 344; Morris v. Lalaurie, 39 La. Ann. 47.

The doctrines of set-off and counterclaim do not obtain in revenue matters. Morgan v. Pueblo, etc., R. Co., 6 Colo. 478.

In Kentucky v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co. (Ky. 1884), 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 428, it was held that where the state institutes an action against a citizen for the recovery of taxes, he may statute authorizing its imposition authorizes the institution of an action for its recovery.¹

Taxes are not assignable as debts;² nor are they provable in bankruptcy as such;³ nor are they within the purview of statutes relating to imprisonment for debt.⁴ And the repeal of a statute imposing a tax is not within the meaning of constitutional prohibitions against the passage of laws impairing the obligation of contracts.⁵

2. Taxes Distinguished From Other Impositions.—Taxes differ from subsidies,⁶ and from forced contributions.⁷ Speaking broadly, taxes may be said to include local assessments, the foundation of the right to impose the latter resting in the taxing power; but as the terms "taxes" and "local assessments" are used generally, the latter are not included in the former, the term taxation being deemed to embrace the raising of revenue for the general expenses and purposes of the government, while assessments are for improvements especially beneficial to particular individuals or neighborhoods, and imposed in proportion to benefits.⁸

rely upon a counterclaim or set-off to reduce or prevent the recovery, but cannot have judgment over against the state in the absence of legislation authorizing it.

1. Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472; State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220.

The government has the same right to enforce a duty as a debt and may enforce it in the same way. People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 340; 76 Am. Dec. 521; Perry v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 318.

2. McInerny v. Reed, 23 Iowa 410.

A person claiming as assignee of a tax cannot enforce its collection. McInerny v. Reed, 23 Iowa 410.

The assignment of a right to sue for and enforce taxes voted by a township, does not pass the right to the assignee discharged of the equities between the assignor and the taxpayers. Sully v. Drennan, 113 U. S. 287.

3. In re Duryee, 2 Fed. Rep. 68.

4. Appleton v. Hopkins, 5 Gray (Mass.) 530; Harris v. Wood, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 641; Ex parte Lynch, 16 S. Car. 32; Charleston v. Oliver, 16 S. Car. 47; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; San Antonio v. Mehaffy, 96 U. S. 312. And see Webster v. Seymour, 8 Vt. 135.

A statute abolishing imprisonment for debt does not prevent imprisonment for the nonpayment of taxes. Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; Appleton v. Hopkins, 5 Gray (Mass.) 530. And see Webster v. Seymour, 8 Vt. 135.

5. Augusta v. North, 57 Me. 392; 2 Am. Rep. 55; Mount v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 25; McQuilken v. Doe, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 581; Abbott v. Britton, 23 La. Ann. 511; Fenelon's Petition, 7 Pa. St. 173; Ross v. Lane, 3 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 695; Howe v. Starkweather, 17 Mass. 240; Mitchell v. Board of Trustees, 71 N. Car. 400; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Ketchum v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 41.

6. Tyson v. School Directors, 51 Pa. St. 9; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219; Sanborn v. Rice County, 9 Minn. 273; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410.

7. See Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; 35 Am. Dec. 159; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410.

8. See infra, this title, Local Assessments, where the distinction is discussed.

Constitutions generally recognize two modes of taxation, the one for general purposes, the other for local. Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349.

Where the purposes of an imposition are general, it is to be regarded as a tax in the most general sense of that word, and subject to the rules of law which govern taxes. Jones v. Water Com'rs, 34 Mich. 273; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 599.

Taxes are levied for general public purposes upon all alike, and are compensated for by the equal protection of government afforded to all; while

A license differs from a tax in that it consists of a right granted by competent authority to do an act which, without such authority, would be illegal, as distinguished from a mere rate or sum of money assessed upon the person, property, or business of the citizen.¹

So the terms "excise," "duty," and "impost," while used frequently as synonymous with "tax," and depending for their existence upon the power to tax, have a distinct meaning, an excise being an inland tax or duty imposed on certain commodities of home production and consumption, as spirits, tobacco, etc., or on their manufacture and sale, and being a fixed, absolute, and direct charge, not based on rules of apportionment or equality.²

assessments are laid for local purposes upon local objects and are recompensed in local benefits and improvements. Ridenour v. Saffin, 1 Handy (Ohio) 464.

Assessments upon property for local improvements are involuntary exactions, and in this respect stand on the same footing with ordinary taxes. Hagar v. Reclamation Dist., 111 U. S. 701.

Water Rates.—In Jones v. Water Com'rs, 34 Mich. 273, it was held that water rates paid by consumers are in no sense taxes. They are but the price paid for water as a commodity, and though a lien is given on property therefor, which is enforced in the same way as the lien for taxes, it is really a lien for indebtedness like that enforced on mechanics' contracts or against ships and vessels.

Street Cleaning.—In Reinken v. Fuehring (Ind. 1892), 30 N. E. Rep. 414, it was held that an assessment against an owner of property along the street required to be swept, to pay the expense of such sweeping, is not a tax, but a local assessment.

In Illinois, the rule that a special assessment finds its justification in the power of eminent domain has been changed, and the authority to require property specially benefited to bear the expense of local improvement, is now regarded as a branch of the taxing power. White v. People, 94 Ill. 604.

1. Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 50 Ga. 530; Chilvers v. People, 11 Mich. 43; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Robinson v. Franklin, 1 Humph. (Tenn.) 156; Jenkins v. Ewin, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 456; Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Nolan, 22 Fed. Rep. 276. And see infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.

A license fee is a price paid for a franchise or privilege, and is not a tax. Chilvers v. People, 11 Mich. 43; Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547. And see East St. Louis v. Wehrung, 46 Ill. 392.

Unless the imposition and payment of a tax confers some right upon the person paying it, which otherwise would not have existed, it cannot properly be called a license. Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; Chilvers v. People, 11 Mich. 43.

2. Cent. Dict.

The term "tax or taxes" has been applied to nearly, if not quite, every burden imposed upon persons, property, or business, for the support of the government; and in acts for raising a revenue for public purposes it seems to be used as meaning the same thing as impost, duty, or excise. State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 Me. 518.

Duties, excises, and license laws, having for their object the common benefit and protection, and designed for the prevention or mitigation of evils, are not acts of the taxing power. State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219.

A tax is a charge apportioned, either among the people of the whole state, or those residing within certain districts, which is required to be imposed in such a manner that it shall be shared in proportion to the estate, real or personal, which each person may possess, or in proportion to the benefits which each shall receive from the expenditure of the money thereby raised, while an excise is a charge imposed without any regard to the amount of property belonging to those upon whom it may fall or to any special benefit occasioned to those by whom the charge is to be paid. Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.)

The term "duties" in its widest signification is hardly less comprehensive than taxes. It is applied in its more restricted meaning to customs, and in that sense it is nearly a synonym of "impost."¹

III. CLASSIFICATION OF TAXES.—As the power to tax may be exercised in various ways,² taxes may be classified: First, with reference to the manner of imposition, as direct³ or indi-

268. And see Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Com., 133 Mass. 161. See also Com. v. People's Five Cents Sav. Bank, 5 Allen (Mass.) 431; Portland Bank v. Apthorp, 12 Mass. 252; Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Com., 133 Mass. 161; Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; 60 Am. Dec. 581; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491. See generally LICENSE, vol. 13, p. 514.

1. Duties and Imposts.—Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433.

In its common use, the term "duty" means an indirect tax imposed upon the importation, exportation, or consumption of goods. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 3.

A tax on interest paid by a corporation is an excise tax upon its business. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Slack, 100 U. S. 595.

The term "duty" signifies a tax, custom, or toll. Sheffield v. Parsons, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 302.

In a larger sense, an impost is any tax or imposition. Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433. See generally REVENUE LAWS, vol. 21, p. 301.

An impost, tax, or duty is an exaction to fill the public coffers for the payment of the debts and the promotion of the general welfare of the county. Worsley v. Second Municipality, 9 Rob. (La.) 324; 41 Am. Dec. 333. In the ordinary import of this term "impost," however, it is applied only to charges upon articles brought from a foreign country into the United States. Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419.

Customs are duties charged upon commodities, on their being imported into or exported from the country. Marriott v. Brune, 9 How. (U. S.) 619.

Tolls for the navigation of an improved stream are not taxes, duties, or imposts on the use of the stream, but are tolls for the enjoyment of improvements by which it has acquired a new value and increased navigability. Ben- jamin v. Manistee River Imp. Co., 42 Mich. 628. And see State v. Haight, 30 N. J. L. 447.

A tax differs from a toll in that a tax is a demand of sovereignty, while a toll is a demand of proprietorship. St. Louis v. Western Union Tel. Co., 148 U. S. 92; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232.

2. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (Foreign Held Bond Cases), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; Hodgson v. New Orleans, 21 La. Ann. 301. See infra, this title, Power to Tax.

3. Direct Taxes.—A direct tax is a tax demanded from the person. Abb. Law Dict., tit. Taxes.

There are three general classes of direct taxes: Capitation, having effect solely upon persons; ad valorem, having effect solely on property, and income, having a mixed effect upon persons and property. Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 479.

Within the meaning of the federal constitution, direct taxes are limited to taxes on land and appurtenances, and taxes on polls or capitation taxes. Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533; Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586; Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171; Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; Scholey v. Rew, 23 Wall. (U. S.) 331; Clark v. Sickle, 14 Int. Rev. Rec. 6.

The federal constitution requires capitation and other direct taxes to be apportioned in proportion to the census of enumeration last taken, and imposts and excises to be uniform throughout the country. Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433. And see Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. (U. S.) 317; Seabrook v. U. S., 21 U. S. Ct. of Cl. 39. And if a different or higher rate is charged, the excess may be recovered from the United States. Seabrook v. U. S., 21 U. S. Ct. of Cl. 39.

But, within the general use of the term, they are the taxes assessed upon the property, person, business, income, etc., of those who are to pay them. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 6. And rect,¹ or *ad valorem*² or specific;³ second, into general taxes⁴ and local taxes;⁵ third, into money taxes⁶ and taxes in kind;⁷ or fourth, with reference to the subjects of taxation, as property see People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 171; 74 Am. Dec. 86; Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586; Scholey v. Rew, 23 Wall. (U. S.) 331; Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171.

Taxes on expenditure or consumption are not direct taxes. Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171. Nor is an income tax under the internal revenue laws; it is an excise or duty. Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586. Nor is a tax on the circulation of a bank either a direct tax or a tax on its franchise. Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533.

1. Indirect Taxes.—An indirect tax is a tax levied on commodities before they reach the consumer. Cooley on Taxation (2d. ed.) 6. Indirect taxes may be said to embrace taxes upon imports and exports, excise taxes, and license and occupation taxes. See Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533; Scholey v. Rew, 23 Wall. (U. S.) 331.

A tax upon carriages by number is an indirect tax. Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171. So is a tax upon receipts, or a succession tax, or an income tax. Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 602.

2. Ad Valorem Taxes.—Ad valorem taxes are taxes or duties upon the value of the article or thing subject to taxation. Bailey v. Fuqua, 24 Miss. 497.

An ad valorem duty is a sum ascertained by a percentage of the value of the article. Anderson's Law Dict., citing U. S. v. Clement, 1 Crabbé (U. S.) 512.

In Cape Girardeau v. Riley, 72 Mo. 220, it was held that an ad valorem tax levied by a city upon all merchants upon goods in their possession, whether owned by them or consigned to them for sale at any time during a specified period, is an indirect tax on property, and not a mere arbitrary charge for the exercise of a privilege.

3. Specific Taxes.—A specific tax is a fixed sum payable upon an article or thing by name. Specific taxes include impositions of a specific sum by head or number, or by some standard of weight or measurement, and license taxes and taxes on business and occupations, stamp taxes, taxes on franchises and privileges, and other excise and custom taxes which require no as-essment beyond a listing and classification of the subjects to be taxed. U. S. v. Clement, 1 Crabbé (U. S.) 512. See Bailey v. Fuqua, 24 Miss. 497; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405.

In Jones v. Board of Water Com'rs, 34 Mich. 273, it was held that a water tax on vacant lots was not a specific tax.

4. General Taxes.—General taxes may be said to be taxes imposed throughout the state, or some civil division thereof. Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Dalrymple v. Milwaukee, 53 Wis. 178; Roosevelt Hospital v. New York, 84 N. Y. 108; though a tax relating to particular persons or things as a class is a general tax. Matter of Church, 92 N. Y. 1.

A law framed in general terms restricted to no locality and operating equally upon all of a group of objects, which, having regard to the purposes of the legislation, are distinguished by characteristics sufficiently marked to make them a class by themselves, is a general law. State v. Parsons, 40 N. J. L. 123.

5. Local Taxes.—These are taxes imposed upon a particular neighborhood, having a special interest in the object of the tax. See infra, this title, Local Assessments.

6. Money Taxes.—Generally, taxes are payable in money alone. Bryan v. Sundberg, 5 Tex. 418; Sawyer v. Springfield, 40 Vt. 305; State v. Halifax, 4 Dev. (N. Car.) 345. See infra, this title, Payment, for a discussion of the rule and its statutory qualifications.

The legislature may make such laws as it deems proper respecting the kinds of funds in which taxes shall be paid. Wallis v. Smith, 29 Ark. 354; Fuller v. Heath, 89 Ill. 296; Davis v. Burney, 58 Tex. 364; Marinette v. Oconto County, 47 Wis. 216.

7. Taxes in Kind.—See infra, this title, Payment.

As to the levy of taxes payable in labor, see Fox v. Rockford, 38 Ill. 451; Moore v. Jarron, 9 Up. Can. Q. B. 233; Dickson v. Galt, 9 Up. Can. Q. B. 257; In re Bannerman, 15 Up. Can. Q. B. 14; Robinson v. Stratford, 23 Up. Can. Q. B. 99; Streetsville Plank Road Co. v. Streetsville, 19 Up. Can. Q. B. 62.

taxes,¹ income taxes,² capitation taxes,³ succession taxes,⁴ privilege taxes,⁵ taxes upon corporations and corporate franchises,⁶ taxes on consumable commodities and luxuries,⁷ taxes upon amusements,⁸ taxes upon exports,⁹ taxes upon imports.¹⁰

IV. THE POWER TO TAX—1. Its Extent and Nature.—The power to tax is inherent in government. It is a legislative power and is limited only by constitutional provisions. Subject thereto, it extends to everything and to every person, as the legislature may see fit to apply it. Courts cannot control its exercise unless such exercise conflicts with constitutional limitations.¹¹

a. DISTINGUISHED FROM EMINENT DOMAIN.—While the power to tax and the right of eminent domain rest substantially on the same foundation, each being in a sense a right to take the property of individuals for public use,¹² there is a broad distinction

1. Property Taxes.—The term "property," when used with reference to taxation, includes everything which is the subject of ownership, and which is visible and tangible, and capable of valuation. People v. Hibernia Bank, 51 Cal. 243; 21 Am. Rep. 704; People v. Park, 23 Cal. 138; Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142.

As to the distinction between property and franchise taxes, see State v. Harshaw, 76 Wis. 230; Bradley v. People, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 459; Gilkeson v. Justices, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 577; Carter v. State, 60 Miss. 456.

2. Income Taxes.—An income tax is rather a duty or excise tax than a direct tax. Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; State v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 45 Md. 361; 24 Am. Rep. 511. See Wilcox v. Middlesex County, 103 Mass. 544.

3. Capitation Taxes.—Capitation or poll taxes, are taxes of a specific sum upon each person. "Head Money Cases," 18 Fed. Rep. 135; Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 480. See Clarke v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Houst. (Del.) 158; infra, this title, Things Taxable—Polls.

4. Succession Taxes.—See SUCCESSION TAXES, vol. 24, p. 431.

5. Privilege Taxes.—See infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.

6. Corporate Taxes.—See TAXATION (CORPORATE), vol. 25.

7. See REVENUE LAWS, vol. 21, p. 301.

Liquor selling may be taxed for the purpose of maintaining an asylum for inebriates. State v. Cassidy, 22 Minn.

312; 21 Am. Rep. 765; State v. Klein, 22 Minn. 328.

8. Taxes upon Amusements.—Amusements may be taxed, either under the general taxing power, or as a police regulation. Germania v. State, 7 Md. 1; Boston v. Schaffer, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 415; St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468; Wallack v. New York, 3 Hun (N. Y.) 84; Sears v. West, 1 Murph. (N. Car.) 291; 3 Am. Dec. 694; Trapp v. White, 35 Tex. 387. Such taxes are not taxes on property. Orton v. Brown, 35 Miss. 426; Meriam v. New Orleans, 14 La. Ann. 318; Baker v. Cincinnati, 11 Ohio St. 534.

9. Clarke v. Clarke, 3 Wood (U. S.) 408; Blount v. Munroe, 60 Ga. 61.

10. See REVENUE LAWS, vol. 21, p. 301.

11. The law of the text is elementary and fundamental. See, among many cases discussing it, Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273; M'Culloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 316; North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561; Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Clarke v. Rochester, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 446; Board of Education v. McLandsborough, 36 Ohio St. 232; Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 514; Young v. Thomas, 17 Fla. 171; 35 Am. Rep. 93; Ex p. Robinson, 12 Nev. 263; Tillotson v. Small, 13 Neb. 20; State v. Jackson, 31 N. J. L. 189; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 53. See infra, this title, Constitutional Restrictions.

12. On the subject of eminent domain, see generally EMINENT DO- between them.¹ Taxation exacts money from individuals as their share of a justly imposed and apportioned public burden,² while property is taken by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, not as the owner's share of a public burden, but as something distinct from and beyond his share,³ special compensation being required to be made in the latter case, because the government is a debtor for the property so taken,⁴ but not in the former, because the payment of taxes is a duty which creates no obligation to repay, otherwise than in the proper applica-

MAIN, vol. 6, p. 509; Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Stewart v. Polk County, 30 Iowa 9.

1. Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Baltimore v. Green Mount Cemetery, 7 Md. 517; Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; Goodrich v. Winchester, etc., Turnpike Co., 26 Ind. 119.

The principles governing eminent domain correspond to those controlling the police power rather than to those applying to the power of taxation, and its exercise has regard rather to the public need than to the public character of its object. People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400.

2. Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Baltimore v. Green Mount Cemetery, 7 Md. 517; Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; Goodrich v. Winchester, etc., Turnpike Co., 26 Ind. 119; Ridenour v. Saffin, 1 Handy (Ohio) 472; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; 3 Am. Rep. 615.

Taxation imposes a just and fair contribution to some public burden. The exercise of the right of eminent domain requires a contribution without reference in anywise to the ability of the party to make it. Ridenour v. Saffin, 1 Handy (Ohio) 464. And see Parks v. Boston, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 228; 10 Am. Dec. 322; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; 35 Am. Rep. 159.

3. Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266; Goodrich v. Winchester, etc., Turnpike Co., 26 Ind. 119; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Chicago v. Larned, 34 Ill. 202; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 278; Sanborn v. Rice County, 9 Minn. 273;

Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; 3 Am. Rep. 615; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 358. And see Parks v. Boston, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 228; 10 Am. Dec. 322.

Taxation operates upon a community or upon a class of persons in a community by some rule of apportionment; but the exercise of the right of eminent domain operates upon an individual or individuals without reference to the amount or value exacted from any other individual or class of individuals. People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266; Ridenour v. Saffin, 1 Handy (Ohio) 464.

Money cannot be exacted by the government by the right of eminent domain, except perhaps for the direct use of the state at large, and the state at large is to make compensation. The exigencies of a state government can seldom require the taking of money by virtue of this power, even in time of war, and never in time of peace. Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539.

4. Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Ridenour v. Saffin, 1 Handy (Ohio) 472; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 358.

Under the Illinois rule, compensation for private property taken for public use may be made by benefits, but when benefits are exhausted, it then becomes a question of taxation, and the principles of equality and uniformity must apply. Chicago v. Larned, 34 Ill. 203. But in State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458, it was held that special benefits cannot form any part of the compensation for private property taken for public use, unless they attach to, and become a part of, the property taxed. On this subject, see EMINENT DOMAIN, vol. 6, p. 509, and infra, this title, Local Assessments.

tion of the tax.¹ Constitutional requirements that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation, have reference solely to the exercise of the power of eminent domain.²

b. DISTINGUISHED FROM POLICE POWER.—So the power to tax is to be distinguished from the police power.³ Speaking broadly, it may be said that the demand made for money under the police power is secondary to the police regulation out of which the demand grows, while in the case of taxation the principal object is revenue, and this distinction is not to be lost sight of, even though the procedure for collection may be similar in both cases.⁴ If, as is sometimes the case, a tax is laid for the

1. Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266; Wynehamer v. People, 13 N. Y. 404; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Haas v. Misner, 1 Idaho 176; Goodrich v. Winchester, etc., Turnpike Co., 26 Ind. 119; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 77.

Taxation differs from eminent domain in that there is no thought of compensation by way of return for that which it takes and applies to the public good, further than that all derive benefit from the purposes to which it is applied; in other words, that the support of government and other objects of public utility promoted by taxation are supposed to return to the individual the same which has been taken from him as his share of the public burden. Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Washington Ave., 69 Pa. St. 352; Wynehamer v. People, 13 N. Y. 404; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266.

2. White v. People, 94 Ill. 609; Hessler v. Drainage Com'rs, 53 Ill. 105; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Nichols v. Bridgeport, 23 Conn. 189; Logansport v. Seybold, 59 Ind. 225; Warren v. Henly, 31 Iowa 31; Stewart v. Polk County, 30 Iowa 31; Martin v. Dix, 52 Miss. 53; 24 Am. Rep. 661; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 266; Kittle v. Shirvin, 11 Neb. 81; Hanscom v. Omaha, 11 Neb. 37; Allen v. Drew, 44 Vt. 175; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510.

In Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; 41 Am. Dec. 508, it was held that the exercise of the power to tax, for the purpose of raising money to construct a public work, cannot be regarded as an attempt to take private property for public use without compensation.

3. See, for definition and discussion of the police power generally, POLICE POWER, vol. 18, p. 739. See also LICENSE, vol. 13, p. 574; and infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.

4. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 586. See also Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Moore v. State, 48 Miss. 147; 12 Am. Rep. 367; East St. Louis v. Wehrung, 46 Ill. 392; Louisville City R. Co. v. Louisville, 4 Bush (Ky.) 478; Van Horn v. People, 46 Mich. 183; 41 Am. Rep. 159; People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 456; 4 Am. Rep. 400; Chilvers v. People, 11 Mich. 43; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219; Matter of New York, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 77; New York v. Second Ave. R. Co., 32 N. Y. 261; State v. Penny, 19 S. Car. 218; Columbia v. Beasley, 1 Humph. (Tenn.) 232; Collins v. Louisville, 2 B. Mon. (Ky.) 134; Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 50 Ga. 530; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 480; St. Louis v. Spiegel, 75 Mo. 146; St. Louis v. Boatmen's Ins., etc., Co., 47 Mo. 150; License Tax Cases, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 462; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418; State v. Hoboken, 41 N. J. L. 71; Mays v. Cincinnati, 1 Ohio St. 268; People v. Martin, 60 Cal. 153.

Laws relating to the licensing of butchers, victualers, hackmen, stage-drivers, etc., in a city, are branches of the law for good government, and not a part of a revenue system. People v. New York, 7 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 81.

It may be said that every burden imposed for revenue purposes is levied under the taxing power, irrespective of the name by which the imposition is designated. St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468.

double purpose of regulation and revenue, the imposition of such tax may be said to be founded upon each power.¹

2. Constitutional Restrictions (See also CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, vol. 3, p. 670)—a. UPON FEDERAL TAXATION.—Restrictions upon the power of the federal government to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, must be found in the Constitution of the United States,² and the only direct limitation therein contained is that no tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.³ It is provided also that capitation or other direct taxes must be paid in proportion to the federal census or enumeration, according to which the representation of the states in the proper branches of Congress is determined,⁴ that duties, imposts, and excises must be uniform throughout the United States;⁵ and that no preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of any one state over those of another.⁶ These are not, strictly speaking, limita-

1. See Temple v. Sumner, 51 Miss. 13; 24 Am. Rep. 615; Keller v. State, 11 Md. 525; 69 Am. Dec. 226. Kitson v. Ann Arbor, 26 Mich. 325; Walcott v. People, 17 Mich. 78; Ex p. Burnett, 30 Ala. 461; Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Mason v. Lancaster, 4 Bush (Ky.) 406; Aulanier v. Governor, 1 Tex. 653.

A license may include a tax, or it may not. If the exaction goes no further than to cover the necessary expenses of issuing it, it does not, but if it is made a means of supplying money for the public treasury, it is a tax. Mays v. Cincinnati, 1 Ohio St. 269.

2. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 110. And see Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418.

The inherent restrictions upon the power to tax growing out of its nature and out of general constitutional principles apply to federal taxation as well as to state taxation. See Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533.

3. Const. U. S., art. 1, § 9, par. 5; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; License Tax Cases, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 462; Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418; Whiteaker v. Haley, 2 Oregon 128.

In Turpin v. Burgess, 117 U. S. 504, it was held that the constitutional prohibition against taxing exports, when directed to the United States, acts in substantially the same manner as when directed to a state. The prohibition in both cases has reference to the imposition of duties on goods, by reason or cause of their exportation or intended exportation.

4. Const. U. S., art. 1, § 9, par. 4; Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533. And see Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 419; U. S. v. Louisiana, 123 U. S. 32.

When the United States statutes require a direct tax to be apportioned according to the last state assessment and valuation, the action of tax commissioners in substituting a different and higher rate is in excess of their authority, and the excess is recoverable from the United States. Seabrook v. U. S., 21 Ct. of Cl. 39.

5. Const. U. S., art. 1, § 8, par. 1; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 419.

Taxes imposed by the internal revenue laws upon gains, profits, and incomes, are excises or duties, and not direct taxes within the constitutional provision requiring an apportionment of direct taxes. Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586.

6. Const. U. S., art. 1, § 9, par. 5.

A law requiring vessels refusing or neglecting to take a pilot, to forfeit to the warden of the port one-half the regular amount of pilotage, does not give preference to the ports of one state over those of another, even though vessels engaged in a trade largely local in its nature are exempted from the requirement. Cooley v. Board of Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 299.

tions of power, but rather rules prescribing the mode in which the power shall be exercised.¹ Power to tax without apportionment extends to all objects except direct taxes,² but all such taxes, except direct taxes, must be laid and collected by the rule of uniformity.³

The requirement of the federal constitution that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives,⁴ applies to all laws which provide for the assessment and collection of taxes to defray the expenses of government,⁵ and to all laws, the principal object of which is to raise revenue,⁶ but not to laws under which revenue incidentally arises,⁷ nor to appropriation statutes, even though taxation necessarily follows.⁸

6. UPON STATE TAXATION—(1) Generally.—The power of the state to tax can be exercised only within constitutional limitations, which, however, are not to be implied.⁹

1. Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71.

2. Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533; Cooley v. Board of Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 299. And see Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586.

In Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. (U. S.) 317, it was held that Congress may impose direct taxes upon the District of Columbia as well as upon the territories, in proportion to the census required to be taken by the constitution.

3. Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71.

A tax act which recognizes the fact that its execution may be temporarily prevented, and which provides for the collection of the tax as soon as the authority of the government shall be reestablished, is not unconstitutional on the ground that the tax imposed is not uniform throughout the United States. U. S. v. Riley, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 204.

4. Const. U. S., art. 1, § 7.

Similar provisions exist in the constitutions of many of the states, requiring bills for raising revenue to originate in the popular or most numerous branch of the legislative department. Desty on Taxation 97, citing Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Opinion of Justices, 126 Mass. 557.

In England, all revenue measures must originate in the popular house of Parliament. 4 Co. Inst. 169; 1 Black. Com. 169.

5. Peyton v. Bliss, 1 Woolw. (U. S.) 173; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R.

Co., 58 Ala. 546. And see STATUTES, vol. 23, p. 140.

In Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546, it was held that a bill for reducing revenue which provides for collecting revenue is a bill for raising revenue.

6. The Nashville, 4 Biss. (U. S.) 188.

In U. S. v. James, 13 Blatchf. (U. S.) 207, it was held that the requirement of the federal constitution that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, applies to bills that draw money from citizens but give no direct equivalent for it.

7. The Nashville, 4 Biss. (U. S.) 188. And see Rankin v. Henderson (Ky. 1888), 7 S. W. Rep. 174.

Under the Massachusetts constitution, requiring all money bills to originate in the House of Representatives, the Senate has an equal right with the House to originate an inquiry into the returns made from the towns for the purpose of settling a valuation and of concluding on the proportion of ratable property within each town. Opinion of Justices, 126 Mass. 547.

In Rankin v. Henderson (Ky. 1888), 7 S. W. Rep. 174, it was held that a statute authorizing a municipality to impose a license tax upon certain occupations within its limits, the tax being for municipal purposes, may originate in either branch of the legislature, notwithstanding a constitutional provision requiring bills for raising revenue to originate in the House.

8. Curryer v. Merrill, 25 Minn. 1.

9. See Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; State v. Parker, 32 N. J. L. 426; Eyre v. Jacob, 14 Gratt.

(2) Restrictions in Federal Constitution—(a) Upon Export and Import Taxation; Inspection Laws.—The states may not, without the consent of Congress, lay imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing their inspection laws.¹ Goods become exports within this provision when they are separated from the general mass of the property of the state for the purpose of exportation.²

Goods imported do not lose their character as imports until they have passed from the control of the importer,³ or been broken up by him from the original packages or cases.⁴ The term "import" covers nothing which is not actually brought within the limits of the ports of the country to which it is sent.⁵

(Va.) 422; 73 Am. Dec. 367. And see People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; 76 Am. Dec. 521; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; 60 Am. Dec. 581; State v. Hayne, 4 S. Car. 403; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Marion County, 7 Lea (Tenn.) 665; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217; Cooley v. Board of Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 319; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Bank of Commerce v. New York, 2 Black (U. S.) 620; Bank Tax Case, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 200; Society for Savings v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 594; Providence Inst. v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Hays v. Pacific Mail, etc., Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596; Southern Steamship Co. v. Wardens, etc., 6 Wall. (U. S.) 31; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 283; Almy v. California, 24 How. (U. S.) 169; State Tonnage Tax Cases, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 139; Insurance Co. of N. A. v. Com., 87 Pa. St. 173; 30 Am. Rep. 352.

"If, from the imperfection of human language, there should be serious doubts respecting the extent of any given power, it is a well-settled rule that the objects for which it was given, especially when those objects are expressed in the instrument itself, should have great influence in the construction." Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 21.

1. U. S. Const., art. 10, § 10.

2. Clarke v. Clarke, 3 Wood (U. S.) 408; The Daniel Ball, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 565; Blount v. Munroe, 60 Ga. 61.

In Coe v. Errol, 116 U. S. 517, it was held that exportation is not begun until goods are committed to the common carrier for transportation out of the state, or until they have started on their ultimate passage to their destination, and that, until that time, they are taxable as a part of the general mass of the property of the state, but not as exports; and that the carrying of property in cars or vehicles, or floating it to the depot where the journey is to commence, is no part of the exportation. See also C. N. Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54; Turpin v. Burgess, 117 U. S. 504.

3. Clarke v. Clarke, 3 Woods (U. S.) 408; Low v. Austin, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 29; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Almy v. California, 24 How. (U. S.) 169; Duer v. Small, 4 Blatchf. (U. S.) 263; Keller v. State, 11 Md. 525; 49 Am. Dec. 226; State v. Pinckney, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 474.

Merchandise, when once sold by the importer, is taxable as other property, even though it still remains in the original packages. Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110.

4. Clarke v. Clarke, 3 Woods (U. S.) 408; Low v. Austin, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 29; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 122; Pervear v. Com., 5 Wall. (U. S.) 479; Cook v. Pennsylvania, 97 U. S. 566; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148; Lin Sing v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 534; State v. Shapleigh, 27 Mo. 344; Wynne v. Wright, 1 Dev. & B. (N. Car.) 19; State v. Pinckney, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 474.

5. Marriott v. Brune, 9 How. (U. S.) 619; Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486.

A purchaser of goods coming from abroad, the goods to be at his risk until

So long as the goods imported retain their character of imports, a tax in any shape is within the prohibition.¹ A tax upon the occupation of an importer is within the prohibition;² so is a tax upon the sale of imported goods in the original packages.³

Even after the thing imported has become a part of the general mass of the property of the state, it cannot be taxed merely because it had been imported or had been an instrument of commerce,⁴ though the mere fact that goods had been imported or that they are intended for exportation, does not interfere with their taxation to the same extent as other property within the state is taxed.⁵ In order to fall within the prohibition the tax must either be a duty levied on goods as a condition of or by delivered to him, is not an importer, and the goods may be taxed while in the original packages Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110.

1. In People v. National F. Ins. Co., 61 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 334, it was held that premiums of insurance upon goods imported from foreign countries, stored in bonded warehouses, were not taxable. But see People v. National F. Ins. Co., 27 Hun (N. Y.) 188.

In Almy v. California, 24 How. (U. S.) 169, it was held that a statute imposing a stamp tax on bills of lading for the transportation from any place within the state to any place without the state, of gold or silver coin, gold dust, or gold or silver in bars, or other form, imposed a duty upon the export of gold and silver, and, therefore, was unconstitutional. See also Ex p. Martin, 7 Nev. 140; 8 Am. Rep. 707.

In People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; 60 Am. Dec. 581, a tax which was not levied on the foreign owner of consigned goods in the hands of the consignee, but only upon their sale, was held to be valid.

2. Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110; Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; Low v. Austin, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 29; American Fertilizing Co. v. Board of Agriculture, 43 Fed. Rep. 609; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464.

The inquiry is upon what did the burden really rest, and not upon the question from whom the state exacts payment. Cook v. Pennsylvania, 97 U. S. 566; State Freight Tax Case, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 238.

3. Cook v. Pennsylvania, 97 U. S. 566; Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110; Bank Tax Case, 2 Wall. (U. S.)

200; Society for Savings v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 594; Daniel v. Richmond, 78 Ky. 542; People v. Moring, 47 Barb. (N. Y.) 642; People v. National F. Ins. Co., 61 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 341. But see State v. Peckham, 3 R. I. 289.

The right to import includes the right to sell. When the importer purchases the right to import by the payment of a duty to the general government, he purchases also the privileges of a market, and taxing the market is in effect taxing the import. Lin Sing v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 534; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110; Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 1; Pervear v. Com., 5 Wall. (U. S.) 478.

4. Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; People v. Moring, 47 Barb. (N. Y.) 642.

The power of the national government over commerce with foreign nations and among the several states, reaches the interior of every state, so far as it may be necessary to protect the products of other states and countries from discrimination by reason of their foreign origin. Guy v. Baltimore, 100 U. S. 434.

5. Coe v. Errol, 116 U. S. 517; Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110; Pervear v. Com., 5 Wall. (U. S.) 475; State v. Pickney, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 474; State v. Crawford, 2 Head (Tenn.) 460; Wynne v. Wright, 1 Dev. & B. (N. Car.) 19; Cowles v. Brittain, 2 Hawks (N. Car.) 204; Kenny v. Harwell, 42 Ga. 416; Cumming v. Savannah, R. M. Charlt. (Ga.) 26; Pittsburgh, etc., Coal Co. v. Bates, 40 La. Ann. 226; 8 Am. St. Rep. 519; Tracy v. State, 3 Mo. 3; Biddle v. Com., 13 reason of their exportation or importation, or a direct tax on the goods imported or exported or intended for exportation.¹

The restriction upon the taxation of imports by the states does not include articles imported from a sister state,² and a state is not bound to abstain from the passage of such laws as may be necessary or advisable to guard the health or morals of its citizens, even though such laws may operate to discourage importation.³ Nor are the proper fees, accruing in the due administration of the laws and regulations necessary to be observed to protect the government from imposition and fraud likely to be committed under the pretence of exportation or importation, in any sense a duty thereon;⁴ they are simply compensation given for service

S. & R. (Pa.) 405; Sharpe v. Speir, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 76. And see Hays v. Pacific Mail, etc., Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 282; C. N. Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54.

In Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622, it was held that coal sent by owners in one state to their agents in another, to be there sold for their account upon its arrival, becomes a part of the general mass of the property in the latter state and subject to taxation as such, in common with other property, and that the fact that some of it is subsequently sold for transportation does not alter the case.

In State v. Pinckney, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 474, it was held that a tax upon an importer estimated by the amount of his sales, is not unconstitutional, even though his sales embrace imported articles.

1. Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622. And see People v. Nat. F. Ins. Co., 27 Hun (N. Y.) 188; Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 73; Mager v. Grima, 8 How. (U. S.) 490.

In State v. Charleston, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 240, a per capita tax upon slaves, after they were imported from another state and had come under the protection of the laws of the taxing state free from any protection or authority from the state from which they came, was held to be constitutional.

Pilot regulations are not included in the term "imposts or duties on imports or exports." Cooley v. Board of Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 299; Baker v. Wise, 16 Gratt. (Va.) 139.

2. Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622; Pervear v. Com., 5 Wall. (U. S.) 479; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat.

(U. S.) 419; Hinson v. Lott, 40 Ala. 123; Board of Hay Inspectors v. Pleasants, 23 La. Ann. 349; Standard Oil Co. v. Combs, 96 Ind. 179; Pierce v. State, 13 N. H. 536; State v. Pittsburg, etc., Coal Co., 41 La. Ann. 465; Brown v. Houston, 33 La. Ann. 843; State v. Charleston, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 240; State v. Pinckney, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 474. As to such taxation, see infra, this title, Regulation of Commerce.

3. License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504.

4. Pace v. Burgess, 92 U. S. 372; Wardens, etc. v. The Martha J. Ward, 14 La. Ann. 287; Addison v. Saulnier, 19 Cal. 82; Green v. Mayor, etc., R. M. Charlt. (Ga.) 368; Clintman v. Northrop, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 45; Vanmeter v. Spurrier (Ky. 1893), 21 S. W. Rep. 337; Turner v. State, 107 U. S. 38. And see Patapsco Guano Co. v. Board of Agriculture, 52 Fed. Rep. 690; State v. Pittsburg, etc., Coal Co., 41 La. Ann. 465.

Inspection Laws.—The right to enact inspection laws is reserved to the states, but it is subject to the paramount right of Congress to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states. Neilson v. Garza, 2 Wood (U. S.) 287. And their scope is not confined to articles of domestic produce or manufacture; it applies also to articles imported and to those intended for domestic use. Green v. Mayor, etc., R. L. Charlt. (Ga.) 368.

In Clintman v. Northrop, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 45, inspection laws were held to be laws for the protection of the community so far as they apply to domestic sales from fraud and imposition, and in relation to articles designed for exportation, to preserve the character and reputation of the state in foreign markets.

properly rendered for the protection of the state.¹ The test whether a charge is for inspection or is a duty upon exports or imports is whether or not the charge is excessive or reasonable;² and any inspection fee will be regarded as an unconstitutional discrimination, and a direct burden upon commerce among the states, where there is no necessity for the inspection provided for,³ or where the requirement goes far beyond the necessity,⁴ or where it amounts to a discrimination against the products or industries of other states.⁵

1. Pace v. Burgess, 92 U. S. 372; Turner v. Maryland, 107 U. S. 38; Patapsco Guano Co. v. Board of Agriculture, 52 Fed. Rep. 690; Addison v. Saulnier, 19 Cal. 82.

Inspection laws, so far as they act on articles for exportation, are generally executed on land before the article is put on board the vessel, and so far as they act on importations they are generally executed on articles after they are landed, the tax or duty of inspection being usually a tax paid for services performed on land while the article upon which it is imposed is a part of the mass of the property of the state. Clarke v. Clarke, 3 Woods (U. S.) 408; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419.

2. Pace v. Burgess, 92 U. S. 372; Turner v. Maryland, 107 U. S. 38; Willis v. Standard Oil Co., 50 Minn. 290. And see Neilson v. Garza, 2 Woods (U. S.) 287; Brimmer v. Rebman, 138 U. S. 78; In re Rebman, 41 Fed. Rep. 867; Minnesota v. Barber, 136 U. S. 313. Unless it is manifestly unreasonable, the court will not adjudge it a tax. Willis v. Standard Oil Co., 50 Minn. 290. The point to guard against is the imposition of a duty under the pretext of fixing a fee. Pace v. Burgess, 92 U. S. 372.

The court will not assume, for the purpose of sustaining an act imposing an onerous inspection fee, that fresh meat will or may become unwholesome if transported one hundred miles or more from the place where slaughtered before it is offered for sale. Brimmer v. Rebman, 138 U. S. 78. And see Minnesota v. Barber, 136 U. S. 313.

The question, what is included under the term inspection laws, must be determined largely by the nature of the inspection laws of the states existing when the constitution was confirmed. Gibbon v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 119; Turner v. Maryland, 107 U. S. 38.

3. Voight v. Wright, 141 U. S. 62;

Minnesota v. Barber, 136 U. S. 313; Schmidt v. People, 18 Colo. 78. And see Farris v. Henderson, 1 Oklahoma 384.

4. Brimmer v. Rebman, 138 U. S. 78; Minnesota v. Barber, 136 U. S. 313. And see State v. Klein, 126 Ind. 68.

In Patapsco Guano Co. v. Board of Agriculture, 52 Fed. Rep. 690, it was held that a tax on fertilizers to defray inspection expenses will not be declared unconstitutional because it exceeds the actual cost of inspection, when no purpose to evade constitutional inhibition is manifested.

5. In re Rebman, 41 Fed. Rep. 867; affirmed 138 U. S. 148; Minnesota v. Barber, 136 U. S. 313. And see Neilson v. Garza, 2 Woods (U. S.) 287; Higgins v. Casks of Lime, 130 Mass. 1.

An inspection law which, in effect, excludes the thing inspected from importation or sale, is an unconstitutional invasion of the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. In re Barber, 39 Fed. Rep. 641; Swift v. Sutphin, 39 Fed. Rep. 630.

In Turpin v. Burgess, 117 U. S. 504, it was held that a stamp tax on manufactured tobacco intended for exportation, is not a tax or duty on exports, within the constitutional prohibition, because a larger tax is imposed upon manufactured tobacco not intended for export.

In Turner v. State, 107 U. S. 38, it was held that an inspection law requiring that tobacco of the growth of the state must be packed in hogsheads of a specified size, and that tobacco to be exported should be packed in the same manner, and further requiring an examination of the packages by an officer appointed for that purpose to ascertain if they are of the prescribed size, and imposing a tax for such inspection, is not unconstitutional as a discrimination between the state buyer and the purchaser who buys for the purpose of transportation.

With the consent of Congress a state may tax exports or imports for any proper purpose,¹ but the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States, and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of Congress.²

"Imports" and "exports" and "inspection law," within the meaning of the federal constitution, have reference solely to merchandise, and do not include persons.³ Nor does the prohibition apply to the imposition of taxes upon foreign vessels.⁴

(b) Regulation of Commerce—(See also INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 539)—(1) GENERALLY.—The power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states and with the Indian tribes, is among the powers delegated to the national government;⁵ so that any exercise by a state of the power to tax which acts as a regulation of, or a restriction upon, such commerce, conflicts with the federal constitution.⁶

1. Padelford v. Savannah, 14 Ga. 438; Virginia v. West Virginia, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 59; Green v. Biddle, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 1.

The consent of Congress may be implied from legislation; it need not be express. Green v. Biddle, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 1.

In Padelford v. Savannah, 14 Ga. 438, it was held that where a tax is levied by a state upon imports, it is to be presumed that Congress has consented to it, when nothing appears to the contrary.

2. Const. U. S., art. 1, § 10, par. 2; Neilson v. Garza, 2 Woods (U. S.) 287.

Inspection laws being subject to the review and control of Congress, Congress is the proper authority to decide whether or not a charge or duty is excessive. And an inspection law passed by a state must stand until Congress sees fit to alter it, even though the fee allowed is, in effect, an impost or duty on imports and exports. Neilson v. Garza, 2 Woods (U. S.) 287.

In Padelford v. Savannah, 14 Ga. 438, it was held that a state may tax imports for any purpose even without the consent of Congress, subject only to the power of Congress to revise and control the state law.

3. New York v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 10 Fed. Rep. 357; Henderson v. New York, 92 U. S. 259; New York v. Miln, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 102.

A state statute requiring the payment of a certain sum for each passenger, inspected to ascertain if he is afflicted with leprosy, coming into the United States by sea, and imposing a fine for non-payment upon the owners and consignees of a vessel bringing the passenger, is unconstitutional. People v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 16 Fed. Rep. 344.

A law of that nature cannot be sustained as an inspection law, for the reason that guilt, poverty, lunacy, orphanage and sometimes disease, cannot be ascertained by inspection of the person, and the inspection laws referred to in the constitution have reference to property and not to human beings. New York v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 107 U. S. 59.

4. Aguirre v. Maxwell, 3 Blatchf. (U. S.) 140.

5. See INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 539; Const. U. S., art. 1, § 8, par. 3; U. S. v. Bailey, 1 McLean (U. S.) 235; Palmer v. Cuyahoga County, 3 McLean (U. S.) 226; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; M'Culloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 425; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418; Lin Sing v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 534; Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co. (U. S. 1888), 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 307; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196.

6. See Cooper Mfg. Co. v. Ferguson, 113 U. S. 727; Walling v. Michigan, 116 U. S. 446; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Husen, 95 U. S. 465; Parkersburg, etc., Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Moran v. New Orleans, 112 U. S. 69; American Fertilizing Co. v. Board of Agriculture, 43 Fed. Rep. 609.

Intoxicating Liquors.—For the power of a state to impose a tax upon imports

The general rule is that the word "commerce," as used in this provision, includes not only the buying and selling and exchanging of merchandise and other commodities,¹ but also comprehends the entire commercial intercourse with foreign nations and among the states,² including navigation as well as traffic in its ordinary signification.³ It comprehends the transportation of persons⁴ and property,⁵ and interstate communication by telegraph or telephone.⁶ The term applies to the means and instruments by which transportation is effected, as well as to the transportation itself,⁷ embracing railroads,⁸ ships and vessels, together with their officers and seamen.⁹

The mode in which the tax is laid, whether directly upon the property in the hands of the owner, or upon the carrier as a tax upon his business,¹⁰ or in the form of a license fee required for the privilege of selling or otherwise disposing of the goods,¹¹ or of an imposition upon the receipts arising therefrom another state, see INTOXICATING LIQUORS, vol. 11, p. 603 et seq.

Exclusive Power in Congress.—As to when the power of Congress is exclusive, see INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 545.

1. U. S. v. Holliday, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 407; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; U. S. v. Bailey, 1 McLean (U. S.) 234; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 275; Mobile County v. Kimball, 102 U. S. 691; The Daniel Ball v. U. S., 10 Wall. (U. S.) 557; State v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 30 N. J. L. 473; People v. Brooks, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 469.

Commerce is the interchange or mutual change of goods, productions, or property of any kind, between nations or individuals. Council Bluffs v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 338; 24 Am. Rep. 773.

2. People v. Brooks, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 469; North River Steamboat Co. v. Livingston, 3 Cow. (N. Y.) 713; Mitchell v. Steelman, 8 Cal. 363; State v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 30 N. J. L. 473; Moor v. Veazie, 32 Me. 343; 52 Am. Dec. 655; U. S. v. Holliday, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 407; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 316; Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 3; Corfield v. Coryell, 4 Wash. (U. S.) 371; Groves v. Slaughter, 15 Pet. (U. S.) 449; Mobile County v. Kimball, 102 U. S. 691; New York v. Miln, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 103; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196.

3. See INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 541; NAVIGATION, vol. 16, p. 272.

4. See infra, this title, Taxes Upon Passengers; INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 541 et seq.

5. See infra, this title, Taxes Upon Freight.

6. See infra, this title, Taxes Upon Means of Transportation; INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 543; TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES, vol. 25.

7. See infra, this title, Taxes Upon the Means by Which Interstate Commerce is Transacted; INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 542.

8. See infra, this title, Taxes Upon the Means by Which Interstate Commerce is Transacted; INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 543.

9. See SHIPS AND SHIPPING, vol. 22, p. 710; NAVIGATION, vol. 16, p. 275.

10. State v. Carrigan, 39 N. J. L. 35; Erie R. Co. v. State, 31 N. J. L. 531; 86 Am. Dec. 226; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; Lyng v. Michigan, 135 U. S. 161; Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640. And see Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Raymond, 5 Dakota 356. A license tax upon the carrier's business. Com. v. Smith, 92 Ky. 38. Compare Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Gaines, 3 Tenn. Ch. 587; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Grant's Cas. (Pa.) 128.

11. Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Tiennan v. Rinker, 102 U. S. 123; Cook v. Pennsylvania, 97 U. S. 566; Guy v. Baltimore, 100 U. S. 434; Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; St. Louis v. Western Union Tel. Co., 39 Fed. Rep. 59; Webber v. Virginia, 103 U. S. 344.

from,¹ is immaterial, the principle being that when the burden of a tax falls on a thing which is the subject of taxation, the tax is to be considered as laid on the thing rather than on him who is charged with the duty of paying it.²

A stipulation inserted in the charter of a corporation engaged in foreign or interstate commerce requiring it to pay a bonus to the state, is not unconstitutional as an interference.³ A state may regulate its own internal commerce in such manner as it sees fit.⁴ It may enact such laws as may be necessary or proper to protect its citizens in their persons, health, and property, and to guard them against fraud, imposition, and oppression, by virtue of its police power, even though such laws may in some respects affect persons or corporations engaged in carrying on foreign or interstate commerce.⁵

1. Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; Lyng v. Michigan, 135 U. S. 161; State Tax on Railway Gross Receipts, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 284.

A state may tax money actually within the state after it has passed beyond the stage of compensation for carrying persons or property from state to state, in the same manner as it taxes other money or property within its limits; but a tax upon receipts of this class of carriage specifically is a tax upon the commerce out of which it arises, and therefore illegal. Fargo v. Stevens, 121 U. S. 230.

2. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 95, citing Western Union Tel. Co. v. Texas, 105 U. S. 460; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Cook v. Pennsylvania, 97 U. S. 566; Webber v. Virginia, 103 U. S. 344; Muriot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323.

Whenever the taxation of a commodity will amount to a regulation of commerce within the constitutional prohibition, so will the taxation of an inseparable incident or necessary concomitant of such commodity. Erie R. Co. v. State, 31 N. J. L. 531; 86 Am. Dec. 226.

The state cannot accomplish by indirect methods what it is forbidden to do directly. People v. Raymond, 34 Cal. 492; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; State Tax on Railway Gross Receipts, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 284; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 417; Wayman v. Southard, 10 Wheat. (U. S.) 1; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 283.

3. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 456; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 34 Md. 344; Com. v. Erie R. Co. (Tonnage Tax Cases), 62 Pa. St. 286; 1 Am. Rep.

399; Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418; 18 Am. Rep. 345. And see People v. Wemple, 117 N. Y. 136.

4. Wilson v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 184; Sears v. Warren County, 36 Ind. 267; 10 Am. Rep. 62; Council Bluffs v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 338; 24 Am. Rep. 773; Scott v. Willson, 3 N. H. 321; People v. Platt, 17 Johns. (N. Y.) 195; People v. Rensselaer, etc., R. Co., 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 113; Canal Com'rs v. People, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 448; Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 16 Fed. Rep. 193; Hall v. De Cuir, 95 U. S. 485; Pennsylvania v. Wheeling, etc., Bridge Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 432; The Daniel Ball v. U. S., 10 Wall. (U. S.) 557; U. S. v. DeWitt, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 41; Veazie v. Moor, 14 How. (U. S.) 568; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; License Tax Cases, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 462; The Montello, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 411; U. S. v. New Bedford Bridge, 1 Woodb. & M. (U. S.) 410; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Iowa, 94 U. S. 155; Peik v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 94 U. S. 163; U. S. Express Co. v. Hemmingway, 39 Fed. Rep. 60. This rule is not affected by the fact that the commerce is carried on in the navigable waters of the United States. The "Bright Star," 1 Woolw. (U. S.) 266.

5. Council Bluffs v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 338; 24 Am. Rep. 773; St. Louis v. McCoy, 18 Mo. 238; St. Louis v. Boffinger, 19 Mo. 13; Wilson v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 198; Kellogg v. The Union Co., 12 Conn. 7; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 102 Ill. 560; Kleizer v. State, 15 Ind. 449; New York v. Miln, 11 Pet.

The exemption from state interference attaches when property is purchased for transportation or otherwise segregated from the mass of the property of the state, even though not actually shipped,¹ and continues until it has passed from the importer's hands,² or has become a part of the general property of the state by the breaking up of the original packages.³

But when the transit is delayed or interrupted for any purpose not consistent with an intent to obtain immediate transportation, it is treated as at an end for the time being, and the protection is removed.⁴ When passengers arrive in port or at the place of destination, however, and mingle with the citizens of the state, they become subject to its laws and liable to taxation to the same extent as other persons within its jurisdiction.⁵

Commerce with the Indian tribes means commerce with the individuals composing the tribes,⁶ and the power of Congress to regulate it is the same as its power to regulate commerce with foreign nations,⁷ even though such commerce is confined within the limits of a state.⁸ But when thus confined, the power is

(U. S.) 102; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 82; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 548; Shirlock v. Alling, 93 U. S. 99; Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 1; Ouachita, etc., Packet Co. v. Aiken, 121 U. S. 444; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148; Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 113; Com'rs of Pilotage v. Steamboat Cuba, 28 Ala. 185; State v. Steamship Constitution, 42 Cal. 578; 10 Am. Rep. 303; Wardens, etc. v. The Martha J. Ward, 14 La. Ann. 287; Vanderbilt v. Adams, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 351; People v. Babcock, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 586; Charleston v. Oliver, 16 S. Car. 47; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Husen, 114 U. S. 622; Webber v. Virginia, 103 U. S. 344; King v. American Transp. Co., 1 Flip. (U. S.) 1; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; In re Wong Yung Quy, 6 Sawyer (U. S.) 442. And see INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 552; POLICE POWER, vol. 18, p. 761.

1. Clarke v. Clarke, 3 Woods (U. S.) 408; Pardee v. Freesoil, 74 Mich. 81; Blount v. Munroe, 60 Ga. 61; Connecticut River Lumber Co. v. Columbia, 62 N. H. 286. Compare Coe v. Errol, 116 U. S. 517.

Thus, in Ogilvie v. Crawford County, 7 Fed. Rep. 745, it was held that a cargo of corn, purchased for shipment and temporarily stored at the station awaiting transportation, the purchaser intending to ship immediately, could not be taxed. And so coal, lying in dock awaiting shipment to other states, is not taxable. State v. Carrigan, 39 N. J. L. 35.

2. Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; State v. Shapleigh, 27 Mo. 344. And see supra, this title, Export and Import Taxation.

3. Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275. And see supra, this title, Export and Import Taxation.

4. Hardesty v. Fleming, 57 Tex. 395; Powell v. Madison, 21 Ind. 335.

The property of citizens of one state sent across another state to markets in other states, which is delayed upon the road merely for separation and assortment for shipment, is not taxable in the state where the delay occurs. State v. Engle, 34 N. J. L. 425.

5. Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 405; Sinnot v. Davenport, 22 How. (U. S.) 227; In re Ah Fong, 3 Sawyer (U. S.) 145; Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 1 Cliff. (U. S.) 473.

6. U. S. v. Holliday, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 407.

7. U. S. v. Cisna, 1 McLean (U. S.) 254.

Under the power to regulate commerce with the Indian tribes, Congress has power to prohibit all intercourse with them except under a license. U. S. v. Cisna, 1 McLean (U. S.) 254.

8. U. S. v. Holliday, 3 Wall. (U. S.)

limited to the regulation of commercial intercourse with such tribes of Indians as exist as a distinct community governed by their own laws and resting for their protection on the faith of treaties and laws of the United States.¹

(2) TAXES UPON PASSENGERS.—A tax upon passengers or persons coming into² or leaving the state,³ or passing through it,⁴ or going from state to state,⁵ is in conflict with the constitution; though a mere measure for the exclusion of immigrants, either generally or of a certain class, is a police regulation and not a regulation of commerce.⁶ A specific tax upon passenger carriers is a tax upon the passengers.⁷

(3) TAXES UPON FREIGHT.—A tax upon freight which is carried or transported from state to state,⁸ or upon freight which is carried

407; U. S. v. Cisna, 1 McLean (U. S.) 254.

1. U. S. v. Bailey, 1 McLean (U. S.) 234.

2. Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 283; Henderson v. New York, 92 U. S. 259; Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622; Chy Lung v. Freeman, 92 U. S. 275; Smith v. Turner, 7 How. (U. S.) 283; Lin Sing v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 534; People v. Downer, 7 Cal. 169; State v. Steamship Constitution, 42 Cal. 589; 10 Am. Rep. 303; People v. Raymond, 34 Cal. 492; Clarke v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Houst. (Del.) 158. And see "Head Money Cases," 18 Fed. Rep. 135; Erie R. Co. v. State, 31 N. J. L. 531; 86 Am. Dec. 226; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Peik v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 6 Biss. (U. S.) 182.

A tax laid on all alien passengers arriving by vessel for the first time, is a burden upon foreign commerce, and the fact that an examination or inspection of the persons of such passengers is made, to see if they are good or bad, poor or rich, sane or insane, diseased or well, does not make the tax a tax to execute an inspection law. New York v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 10 Fed. Rep. 357.

In New York v. Miln, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 102, it was held that persons are not the subjects of commerce; but this was expressly overruled in the later cases.

3. Crandall v. Nevada, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 35; Clarke v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Houst. (Del.) 158; Council Bluffs v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 338; 24 Am. Rep. 773.

4. Crandall v. Nevada, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 35; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 283; Pullman Southern Car. Co. v. Nolan, 22 Fed. Rep. 276; Pacific Coast

Steamship Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 18 Fed. Rep. 8; Clarke v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Houst. (Del.) 158.

5. Southern Steamship Co. v. Board of Port Wardens, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 31; Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 16 Fed. Rep. 193; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 456; State Freight Tax Case, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Sweatt v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 3 Cliff. (U. S.) 339.

6. See Edye v. Robertson, 112 U. S. 580; In re Ah Fong, 13 Am. Law. Reg. N. S. 761; New York v. Miln, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 102; Henderson v. New York, 92 U. S. 265. And see POLICE POWER, vol. 18, p. 739.

7. Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 283; Chy Lung v. Freeman, 92 U. S. 275; Henderson v. New York, 92 U. S. 259; Pullman Southern Car. Co. v. Nolan, 22 Fed. Rep. 276; People v. Downer, 7 Cal. 169; Clarke v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Houst. (Del.) 158. And see Crandall v. Nevada, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 35; People v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 16 Fed. Rep. 344.

The requirement of a stamp to be purchased from the state and placed upon a passenger ticket is a regulation of commerce. People v. Raymond, 34 Cal. 492.

Congress may levy taxes upon owners of vessels bringing passengers from foreign ports into the United States. This prohibition applies to the states only. Edye v. Robertson, 112 U. S. 580.

8. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Hall v. De Cuir, 95 U. S. 488; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 456; Sweatt v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 3 Cliff. (U. S.) 339; Council Bluffs v. Kansas

through,¹ brought into,² or taken out of the state,³ is void as a regulation of interstate commerce. Nor can the tax be laid upon property carried into the taxing state and then taken out again, or upon property taken out of the taxing state and then brought back.⁴

(4) TAXES UPON THE MEANS BY WHICH INTERSTATE COMMERCE IS TRANSACTED.—A tax upon the means by which interstate commerce is transacted is an unwarrantable interference upon the part of the state with the power of Congress to regulate commerce.⁵ Thus, as to foreign and interstate business, telephone and telegraph

City, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 338; 24 Am. Rep. 773; Erie R. Co. v. State, 31 N. J. L. 531; 86 Am. Dec. 226; State v. Carrigan, 39 N. J. L. 37; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 282; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois, 118 U. S. 557; Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co. (U. S. 1888), 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 307; Baird v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 41 Fed. Rep. 592; U. S. Express Co. v. Hemingway, 39 Fed. Rep. 60; Pickard v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 117 U. S. 43.

In Brumagim v. Tillinghast, 18 Cal. 265, it was held that a stamp tax on bills of lading for the transportation of property from any point in the state to any point without the state, is in conflict with the federal constitution.

1. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; Indiana v. American Express Co., 7 Biss. (U. S.) 227; State v. Engle, 34 N. J. L. 425.

In The Daniel Ball v. U. S., 10 Wall. (U. S.) 557, it was held that there is no distinction between the authority of Congress to regulate an agency employed in commerce between the states, when that agency extends through two or more states, and when it is confined in its action entirely within the limits of a single state and a portion of the merchandise transported is destined to places in other states. See also Ex p. Koehler, 30 Fed. Rep. 867.

2. Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 282.

3. Almy v. California, 24 How. (U. S.) 169; Ogilvie v. Crawford County, 7 Fed. Rep. 745; Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; State v. Cumberland, etc., R. Co., 40 Md. 22.

4. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Osborne v. Mobile, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 479; Fargo v. Stevens, 121 U. S. 230; State v. Carrigan, 39 N. J. L. 35.

In Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 145 U. S. 192, 205, it was held that transportation from one point to another in the state by continuous carriage, was not interstate commerce, notwithstanding that the line passed without the state at some points. See Campbell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. (Iowa, 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 351.

5. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Texas, 105 U. S. 460; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323.

Transportation is the means by which commerce is carried on. Without transportation there can be no commerce between nations or among the states. Council Bluffs v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 338; 24 Am. Rep. 773.

States cannot tax that portion of interstate commerce which is involved in the transportation of persons and property, whatever may be the instrumentality by which it is carried on. Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196.

Statutes imposing taxes or other restrictions upon the transmission of persons or property, or telegraphic messages from one state to another, are void, even as to that part of such transmission which may be within the state, the contract for such transmission being a unit for the entire transportation companies are not subject to taxation,¹ and so of interstate railroads.²

(5) TAXES UPON PRIVILEGES, FRANCHISES, GROSS RECEIPTS, CAPITAL OF CORPORATION, ETC.—Taxes may be imposed upon franchises, occupations, and privileges, without reference to whether they are exercised wholly within or in part without the state.³ But foreign or through all the states through which it passes. Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois, 118 U. S. 557.

1. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Texas, 105 U. S. 460; Pensacola Tel. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 96 U. S. 1; Pensacola Tel. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 2 Wood (U. S.) 643; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois, 118 U. S. 557; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atty. Gen'l, 125 U. S. 530; Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 128 U. S. 39; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co., 5 Nev. 102; Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 55 Tex. 314.

The telegraph is an instrument of commerce, and telegraph companies are subject to the regulating power of Congress in respect to their foreign and interstate business. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Texas, 105 U. S. 460; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co., 5 Nev. 102; St. Louis v. Western Union Tel. Co., 39 Fed. Rep. 59; Ratterman v. Western Union Tel. Co., 127 U. S. 411; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pendleton, 122 U. S. 347; Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 128 U. S. 39.

Interstate Telephones.—A telephone passing from one state to another and transacting business between points in the different states, is engaged in interstate commerce, and a telephone company will not be enjoined from transmitting messages from one state to the other because it has refused to pay taxes on business thus transacted. In re Pennsylvania Teleph. Co., 48 N. J. Eq. 91.

See also INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 543; TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES, vol. 25.

2. See Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 16 Fed. Rep. 193; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323; Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Nolan, 22 Fed. Rep. 276; Gloucester Ferry Co. v.

Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 106; Appeal Tax Court v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 50 Md. 452.

Congress has power to hold commerce free from state taxation, whether it is conducted by individuals or by corporations. Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 106.

The cars used by a sleeping and palace car company are vehicles of transportation, and their use in receiving and delivering passengers at points widely separated is commerce. Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Nolan, 22 Fed. Rep. 276.

See also INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. 11, p. 543; TAXATION (CORPORATE).

3. Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 55 Tex. 314; District of Columbia v. Humason, 2 McArthur (D. C.) 162; Com. v. Ober, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 493; Information v. Oliver, 21 S. Car. 318; Ex p. Robinson, 12 Nev. 263; People v. Wemple, 117 N. Y. 136; People v. Wemple, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 434; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Mayer, 28 Ohio St. 521; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Lesueur (Arizona), 1888, 19 Pac. Rep. 157; Philadelphia Contributorship, etc. v. Com., 98 Pa. St. 48; Insurance Co. of N. A. v. Com., 87 Pa. St. 173; 33 Am. Rep. 352; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 114 Pa. St. 256; Howe Machine Co. v. Cage, 9 Paxt. (Tenn.) 518; Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 114; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atty. Gen'l, 125 U. S. 530; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Tax on Railway Gross Receipts), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 284; Society for Saving v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 606; Thomson v. Union Pac. R. Co., 9 Wall. (U. S.) 579; Pacific, etc., R. Co. v. Peniston, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 5; Osborn v. Bank of U. S., 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 859; Atty. Gen'l v. Western Union Tel. Co., 33 Fed. Rep. 129; Osborn v. Mobile, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 479; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Nolan, 14 Fed. Rep. 532; Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 93 U. S. 116; Provident Institution v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 456; Erie R. Co. v.

interstate commerce cannot be taxed by a state under the pretext of taxing a franchise.¹ Where the franchise or privilege is exercised and exists because of the necessities of the foreign or interstate transactions, it cannot be taxed.² Taxes may be imposed upon avocations and employments pursued in the state not directly connected with foreign or interstate commerce.³ And a citizen doing a general business within the state is subject to tax-

Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 497; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 107 U. S. 365.

Excessive Taxation.—If the state should undertake by excessive taxation of a franchise or privilege to obstruct or prohibit the business of interstate commerce, the constitutional provision would apply. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Nolan, 14 Fed. Rep. 532.

1. Philadelphia, etc., Steamship Co. v. Pennsylvania, 122 U. S. 326; Fargo v. Stephens, 121 U. S. 230; San Mateo County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 13 Fed. Rep. 722; State v. American Express Co., 7 Biss. (U. S.) 227; State v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 11 Biss. (U. S.) 561; Erie R. Co. v. State, 31 N. J. L. 531; State v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 30 N. J. L. 473. And see Moran v. New Orleans, 112 U. S. 69; Pickard v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 117 U. S. 34; Robbins v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 120 U. S. 484; Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Nolan, 22 Fed. Rep. 276; State Freight Tax Case, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232; U. S. Express Co. v. Allen, 39 Fed. Rep. 712; Wells v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 23 Fed. Rep. 469; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 262; Com. v. Standard Oil Co., 12 W. N. C. (Pa.) 293.

A license tax upon tow boats running from New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico, is an unconstitutional regulation of commerce. Moran v. New Orleans, 112 U. S. 69.

In Corson v. Maryland, 120 U. S. 502, it was held that an act requiring any one not the grower, maker, or manufacturer, selling goods within the state, to pay a license tax proportionate to the amount of stock in trade, whether situated within the state or out of it, is a regulation of commerce, and invalid as to persons living outside the state and selling by sample within it.

2. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 136 U. S. 114; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 106; Philadelphia, etc., Steamship Co. v. Pennsylvania, 122 U. S. 326; McCall v. California, 136 U. S. 104; Asher v.

Texas, 128 U. S. 129; Crutcher v. Kentucky, 141 U. S. 47; Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 127 U. S. 1; In re Houston, 47 Fed. Rep. 539; Harmon v. Chicago (Ill. 1891), 26 N. E. Rep. 697; In re Hennick, 5 Mackey (D. C.) 489. And see Stoutenburgh v. Hennick, 129 U. S. 141; In re Flinn, 57 Fed. Rep. 496.

A railroad which is a link in a through line of road by which passengers and freight are carried into the state from other states, and from that state to other states, is engaged in the business of interstate commerce and cannot be taxed by the state for the privilege of maintaining an office in it. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 136 U. S. 114.

An agency of a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, established within a state for the purpose of assisting in such commerce, is not taxable by the state, even though it may not be essential to the carrying on of the commerce. McCall v. California, 136 U. S. 104.

A railroad company whose only business within the state is the discharging of freight and passengers brought over its line from other states, and the receiving of freight and passengers to be sent over its line, and maintaining the necessary terminal facilities and the employment of the necessary assistance for that purpose, cannot be subjected to a tax on its corporate franchises and business in that state, such business being interstate commerce. People v. Wemple, 138 N. Y. 1.

3. Ficklen v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 145 U. S. 1; Robbins v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 120 U. S. 489; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 33 Fed. Rep. 121; Hynes v. Briggs, 41 Fed. Rep. 468; Ex p. Hanson, 28 Fed. Rep. 127; Pembina, etc., Min., etc., Co. v. Pennsylvania, 125 U. S. 181; State v. Emert, 103 Mo. 241; 34 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 168; 23 Am. St. Rep. 874; Ex p. Asher, 23 Tex. App. 662; Ex p.

ation therein, whether the business relates to interstate commerce or not;¹ but when the business itself is without the state, it cannot be taxed, even though it is effected and consummated through the employment of agencies within the state.² So taxes on gross receipts imposed alike upon all of a class were upheld by the earlier decisions, even though such receipts were derived in part from interstate transportation, such tax being regarded as a tax on a franchise; and net earnings were held taxable by state authority, Butin, 28 Tex. App. 304; Stoutenburgh v. Hennick, 129 U. S. 141; Pullman Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18; Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; State v. Wessell, 109 N. Car. 735; Titusville v. Brennan, 143 Pa. St. 642; State v. Richards, 32 W. Va. 348; People v. Wemple, 61 Hun (N. Y.) 53; Insurance Co. of N. A. v. Com., 87 Pa. St. 173; 30 Am. Rep. 352; Paul v. Virginia, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 183; Ducat v. Chicago, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 410; List v. Pennsylvania, 1 Interstate Com. Rep. 784.

When a local business is done, local regulations must be complied with. Wells v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 23 Fed. Rep. 469.

The fact that produce in which a retailer deals was produced in another state, and was never in the taxing district until carried there for delivery to customers, does not prevent the imposition of a tax upon the business in such district. Davis v. Macon, 64 Ga. 128; 37 Am. Rep. 60.

A tax upon purchases and sales does not violate the constitutional provision, even though some of the purchases are made without the state, the occupation taxed being entirely within it. State v. French, 109 N. Car. 722; State v. Stevenson, 109 N. Car. 730; Ex p. Brown, 48 Fed. Rep. 435.

In Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 73, it was held that a state law imposing a tax on money and exchange brokers who deal entirely in the purchase and sale of foreign bills of exchange, is not in conflict with the constitutional power of Congress to regulate commerce, the broker not being engaged in commerce, but rather in supplying an instrument of commerce.

A foreign corporation, seeking to do a business within a state, which does not fall within the regulating power of Congress, must comply with all the conditions imposed upon it by the legislation of that state. Crutcher v. Kentucky, 141 U. S. 47; Liverpool, etc., L.

& F. Ins. Co. v. Oliver, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 566.

Insurance.—The business of insurance is not commerce. Liverpool, etc., L. & F. Ins. Co. v. Oliver, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 566.

Mercantile agencies are not such legitimate or useful agencies of commerce as to put them exclusively within the regulating power of the federal government over commerce. State v. Morgan (S. Dak. 1891), 48 N. W. Rep. 314.

1. Ficklen v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 145 U. S. 1; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 107 U. S. 365; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 33 Fed. Rep. 121; Hynes v. Briggs, 41 Fed. Rep. 468; State v. Emert, 103 Mo. 241; 34 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 168; 23 Am. St. Rep. 874; Com. v. Gardner, 133 Pa. St. 284; 19 Am. St. Rep. 645. And see Biddle v. Com., 13 S. & R. (Pa.) 405; Mt. Pleasant v. Clutch, 6 Iowa 546; Sears v. Warren County, 36 Ind. 267; 10 Am. Rep. 62; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; 60 Am. Dec. 581; State v. Pinckney, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 474; Seymour v. State, 51 Ala. 52; In re Rudolph, 2 Fed. Rep. 65.

If the goods had been previously sent into the state, a license fee required for the privilege of selling them is not a tax upon commerce. State v. Emert, 103 Mo. 241; 34 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 168; 23 Am. St. Rep. 874.

City ordinances imposing a tax upon the business of a telegraph company within the state, which expressly exempts from its operation interstate and governmental business, are valid. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Charleston, 56 Fed. Rep. 419.

2. See Overton v. State, 70 Miss. 558; Richardson v. State (Miss. 1892), 11 So. Rep. 934; Fort Scott v. Pelton, 39 Kan. 764; State v. Agee, 83 Ala. 110; Ex p. Murray, 93 Ala. 78; Ex p. Resenblatt, 19 Nev. 439; State v. Bracco, 103 N. Car. 349; Martin v. Rosedale Tp., 130 Ind. 109; Hurford v. State, 91 Tenn. 669; Simmons Hardware Co. v.

without inquiry as to their sources.¹ But the rule seems to be well settled by the later authorities that state taxes upon the gross receipts derived from carriage or transportation into, out of, or through the state are within the prohibition of the constitution,² and that only such gross receipts can be taxed as are wholly earned within the state.³ It is not competent for a state to tax receipts of a business engaged in by persons or corporations

McGuire, 39 La. Ann. 848; Bloomington v. Bourland, 137 Ill. 534; Asher v. Texas, 128 U. S. 129; Robbins v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 120 U. S. 489; U. S. Express Co. v. Hemmingway, 39 Fed. Rep. 60; U. S. Express Co. v. Allen, 39 Fed. Rep. 712; Ratterman v. Western Union Tel. Co., 127 U. S. 411; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 128 U. S. 39; Ex p. Stockton, 33 Fed. Rep. 95; In re White, 43 Fed. Rep. 913; In re Nichols, 48 Fed. Rep. 164; In re Tyerman, 48 Fed. Rep. 167; In re Spain, 47 Fed. Rep. 208; In re Rozelle, 57 Fed. Rep. 155; In re Kimmel, 41 Fed. Rep. 775.

But it would be good so far as it applied to business wholly within the state. U. S. Express Co. v. Hemmingway, 39 Fed. Rep. 60; Rothermel v. Meyerle, 136 Pa. St. 250.

If the person whose business is taxed is merely the representative of the importer, the tax is invalid. Lyng v. Michigan, 135 U. S. 161.

A tax upon all drummers, so far as it applies to persons soliciting the sale of goods on behalf of individuals or firms doing business in another state, is a regulation of commerce. Robbins v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 120 U. S. 489. And see cases above cited.

1. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Tax on Railway Gross Receipts), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 284; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; Indiana v. American Express Co., 7 Biss. (U. S.) 230; People v. Wemple, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 434; American Union Express Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675; 27 Am. Rep. 582; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Com., 110 Pa. St. 405; Columbia Conduit Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 307; Pullman's Palace Car Co. v. Com., 107 Pa. St. 156; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 34 Md. 344; State v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 45 Md. 361; 24 Am. Rep. 511; Walcott v. People, 17 Mich. 68; Southern Express Co. v. Hood, 15 Rich. (S. Car.) 66; 94 Am. Dec. 141; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Mayer, 28 Ohio St. 521; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196;

Western Union Tel. Co. v. State Board, 80 Ala. 273; 60 Am. Rep. 99; Kneeland v. Milwaukee, 15 Wis. 454; Insurance Co. of N. A. v. Com., 87 Pa. St. 173; 30 Am. Rep. 352; Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 3 Brew. (Pa.) 387; Society for Savings v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 594; Provident Institution v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611.

Gross Sales.—A tax on gross sales is not unconstitutional. Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110.

2. Fargo v. Stevens, 121 U. S. 230; Pickard v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 117 U. S. 34; Philadelphia, etc., Steamship Co. v. Pennsylvania, 122 U. S. 326; Indiana v. Woodruff Sleeping, etc., Coach Co., 1 Interstate Com. Rep. 798; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Alabama, 132 U. S. 472; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atty. Gen'l, 125 U. S. 530; Ratterman v. Western Union Tel. Co., 127 U. S. 411; Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Texas, 105 U. S. 460; Pensacola Tel. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 96 U. S. 1; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pendleton, 122 U. S. 347; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois, 118 U. S. 557; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 128 U. S. 39; Indiana v. American Express Co., 7 Biss. (U. S.) 227; State v. Woodruff Sleeping, etc., Coach Co., 114 Ind. 155; 33 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 476; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Com. (Pa. 1888), 17 Atl. Rep. 175; State Treasurer v. Auditor Gen'l, 46 Mich. 324; 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 296.

This is so, even though the franchise of the company engaging in such commerce was derived from the state. Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co. (Pa. 1888), 17 Atl. Rep. 179.

3. State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 48 Md. 49; People v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 104 Ill. 476; People v. Wemple, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 434; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Com. (Pa. 1888), 17 Atl. Rep. 175; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Alabama State Board, 132 U. S. 472; Ratterman v. Western Union Tel. Co., 127 U. S.

not within its jurisdiction which are not received nor garnered and ascertained within the state.¹ But when the subjects of taxation can be separated, so that that which arises from interstate commerce can be distinguished from that which arises from commerce wholly within the state, the power to tax that which is wholly internal will be upheld.² And taxes upon franchises and privileges, measured by gross receipts,³ or by the amount of capital stock, without regard to its character or the manner in which it is employed,⁴ are valid.

411; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois, 118 U. S. 557; Parkersburg, etc., Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; U. S. Express Co. v. Hemmingway, 39 Fed. Rep. 60; Indiana v. American Express Co., 7 Biss. (U. S.) 227. And they must be receipts derived under franchises granted by the state taxing them. State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 48 Md. 49.

1. Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 11 Biss. (U. S.) 561; Indiana v. American Express Co., 7 Biss. (U. S.) 227. And see Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 262; Delaware R. Tax Case, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 229; People v. Eastman, 25 Cal. 603; Forsman v. Byrns, 68 Ind. 247; Herron v. Keeran, 59 Ind. 472; 26 Am. Rep. 87; Evansville v. Hall, 14 Ind. 27; State v. Woodruff, etc., Coach Co., 114 Ind. 155; 33 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 476; Davenport v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 12 Iowa 539; Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 268.

This rule applies to taxation of receipts derived under franchises not granted by the taxing state. State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 48 Md. 49.

2. Ratterman v. Western Union Tel. Co., 127 U. S. 411; Pacific Express Co. v. Seibert, 44 Fed. Rep. 310; 142 U. S. 339; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Alabama State Board, 132 U. S. 472; State v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 64 Wis. 89. And see Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 128 U. S. 39.

3. Maine v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 142 U. S. 217; Philadelphia, etc., Mail Steamship Co. v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 109. And see Western Union Tel. Co. v. State Board of Assessment, 80 Ala. 273; 60 Am. Rep. 99; State v. State Board of Assessment (S. Dak.), 1892, 53 N. W. Rep. 192; Pullman's Palace Car Co. v. Com., 107 Pa. St. 148.

There is no constitutional objection in the way of the legislative body prescribing any mode of measurement it may see fit in order to determine the amount it will charge for the privileges it bestows. Home Ins. Co. v. New York, 134 U. S. 594; Maine v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 142 U. S. 217; Horn Silver Min. Co. v. New York, 143 U. S. 305.

A franchise or privilege tax measured by the amount of gross receipts within the state as compared with those without it, is valid. See Maine v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 142 U. S. 217; 48 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 602; Atty. Gen'l v. Western Union Tel. Co., 23 Fed. Rep. 129; Massachusetts v. Western Union Tel. Co., 141 U. S. 40; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18; 46 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 236; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 492; State v. Housatonic R. Co., 48 Conn. 44; State v. New York, etc., R. Co., 60 Conn. 326; State v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 64 Wis. 89; State Treasurer v. Auditor Gen'l, 46 Mich. 224; 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 206; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Auditor Gen'l, 53 Mich. 79; People v. Wemple, 131 N. Y. 64; Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 3 Brew. (Pa.) 386; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Barnes, 2 N. Dak. 310, 395; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Brewer, 2 N. Dak. 306; State v. Morgan (S. Dak.), 1891, 48 N. W. Rep. 314. But see Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 63 Vt. 1; 46 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 346; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219.

4. People v. Campbell, 70 Hun (N. Y.) 507; (Supreme Ct.) 24 N. Y. Supp. 212. And see Honduras Commercial Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 54 N. J. L. 378. But see Corson v. Maryland, 120 U. S. 502.

A tax imposed upon all corporations doing business in the state, proportionate to the total amount of their stock, without regard to the manner of its employment and without reference to the character or amount of business done, is purely a franchise tax, and cannot be considered as a tax upon

(6) DIRECT TAXATION UPON PROPERTY AS SUCH.—The vehicles of commerce may be taxed as property, however, with the rest of the property of a state.¹ The prohibition of the constitution applies only when they are taxed in a manner different from the property of the citizens of the state in general,² or as instruments of trade.³

A tax on property which has been or may be the subject of commerce, where it is taxed as property, in common with other property within the state, is not a tax on commerce.⁴ Neither is a tax upon capital within the jurisdiction of the taxing power interstate commerce, even as applied to corporations engaged in such commerce. Horn Silver Min. Co. v. People, 143 U. S. 305.

The capital stock of a corporation engaged in interstate commerce may be taxed by taking as a basis of the assessment such proportion of the capital stock of the company as the length of its line within the state bears to the length of its line in other states. Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18; 46 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 236; Delaware R. Tax Case, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 497; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Atty. Gen'l v. Western Union Tel. Co., 141 U. S. 40; State Treasurer v. Auditor Gen'l, 46 Mich. 224; 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 296. And see Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Board of Assessors, 55 Fed. Rep. 206.

The same rule has been applied to taxes on interest upon loans, Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 3 Brew. (Pa.) 386; and to taxes upon rolling stock. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Alamance, 84 N. Car. 509; 7 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 238.

In Com. v. Smith, 92 Ky. 38, an act imposing a license tax upon express companies of $500 or $1,000 per annum, according to whether the line over which they operate is less or more than 100 miles in length, was held to be a regulation of interstate commerce because it lays an imposition upon the business of the company rather than upon their property.

1. Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 16 Fed. Rep. 193; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atty. Gen'l, 125 U. S. 530; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; Moran v. New Orleans, 112 U. S. 69; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Texas, 105 U. S. 460; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 107 U. S. 365; Delaware R. Tax Case, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; Gloucester Ferry

Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 82; Morgan v. Parham, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 475; Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 1; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18; People v. Tax Com'rs, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 157; affirmed, 58 N. Y. 242; Irvin v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 91 Ill. 105; People v. Tirney, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 357; Gunther v. Baltimore, 55 Md. 459; Camden v. Haymond, 9 W. Va. 680; Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Gaines, 3 Tenn. Ch. 587; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 513; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 609; and see Erie County v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 87 Pa. St. 434; Marye v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 127 U. S. 117; Atty. Gen'l v. Western Union Tel. Co., 33 Fed. Rep. 127.

A railroad bridge within the limits of a city may be taxed by it; and such taxation is not a regulation of interstate commerce or the taxation of an agency of the federal government, even though the bridge is used for the transportation of such commerce. Henderson Bridge Co. v. Henderson City, 141 U. S. 679.

2. Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 284; Walling v. Michigan, 116 U. S. 446; Jackson Min. Co. v. Auditor Gen'l, 32 Mich. 488; Johnson v. Drummond, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 419.

3. Howell v. State, 3 Gill. (Md.) 14; People v. Wemple, 131 N. Y. 64; Perry v. Torrence, 8 Ohio 522; Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 283; Sinnot v. Davenport, 22 How. (U. S.) 227. And see Northwestern Pac. R. Co. v. Raymond, 5 Dakota 356.

4. Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Pervear v. Com., 5 Wall. (U. S.) 475; Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.)

invalid because the capital is invested in commerce.¹ A tax on the capital of a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, proportionate to the property of the corporation within the state, is a tax upon the property and is not unconstitutional.² Tolls charged for the use of improvements whereby transportation is facilitated, are not taxes upon commerce within the constitutional prohibition.³

Where the subject has no taxable situs within the state and comes within its jurisdiction only for the purpose of carrying on interstate commerce, it cannot be reached.⁴ And the unconstitutionality of a statute imposing a tax upon commerce is not cured by including in its provisions subjects within the jurisdiction of the state,⁵ nor by the fact that there is no discrimination between 110; Haves v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596; Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622; Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; C. N. Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54; Corson River, etc., Co. v. Patterson, 33 Cal. 334; In re Wilson, 19 D. C. 341; Brown v. Houston, 33 La. Ann. 843; Pittsburgh, etc., Coal Co. v. Bates, 40 La. Ann. 226; 8 Am. St. Rep. 519; State v. Emert, 103 Mo. 241; 34 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 168; 23 Am. St. Rep. 874.

1. People v. Tax Com'rs, 104 U. S. 46; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 234; Union Tow Boat Co. v. Bordelon, 7 La. Ann. 195; Howell v. State, 3 Gill (Md.) 14; Jackson v. State, 15 Ohio 652; State v. Charleston, 4 Rich. (S. Car.) 286; Berney v. Tax Collector, 2 Bailey (S. Car.) 654. And see Waring v. Mobile, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 110; State v. Pinckney, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 474.

2. Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atty. Gen'l, 125 U. S. 530; Delaware R. Tax Case, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 206.

3. Benjamin v. Manistee River Imp. Co., 42 Mich. 628; Weimer v. Porter, 42 Mich. 569; Harmon v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 374; Kellogg v. The Union Co., 12 Conn. 7; Thames Bank v. Lovell, 18 Conn. 500; 46 Am. Rep. 332; Worsley v. Second Municipality, 9 Rob. (La.) 324; 41 Am. Dec. 333; McReynolds v. Smallhouse, 8 Bush (Ky.) 447; Wisconsin River Imp. Co. v. Manson, 43 Wis. 255; 28 Am. Rep. 542; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Keokuk Packet Co. v. Keokuk, 95 U. S. 80; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Louis, 100 U. S. 423; Vicksburg v. Tobin, 100 U. S. 430; Parkersburg, etc., Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Huse v. Glover, 15 Fed. Rep. 292; Palmer v. Cuyahoga County, 3 McLean (U. S.) 226; Wellamet Iron Bridge Co. v. Hatch, 19 Fed. Rep. 347.

Thus, a city owning a wharf situated upon a navigable river, may exact charges for its use by vessels. Cincinnati, etc., Packet Co. v. Catlettsburg, 105 U. S. 559; Leathers v. Aiken, 9 Fed. Rep. 679.

4. Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Nolan, 22 Fed. Rep. 276; Indiana v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 16 Fed. Rep. 193; Robbins v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 120 U. S. 489; Corson v. Maryland, 120 U. S. 502; Alabama v. Agee, 2 Interstate Com. Rep. 21; Crutcher v. Kentucky, 171 U. S. 47; Pickard v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 117 U. S. 34; Tennessee v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 117 U. S. 51; Walling v. Michigan, 116 U. S. 446; In re Hennick, 5 Mackey (D. C.) 489; Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Bain v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 105 N. Car. 363; State v. Pratt, 59 Vt. 590; and see Marye v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 127 U. S. 125; Appeal Tax Court v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 50 Md. 452. But see Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Gaines, 3 Tenn. Ch. 587.

The capital stock of a ferry company incorporated in one state and engaged in the transportation of persons and property between that state and another, is not subject to taxation in the latter state. Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196.

5. Philadelphia, etc., Steamship Co. v. Pennsylvania, 122 U. S. 326; Crut-

it and domestic commerce.¹ But these rules do not apply to the taxation of the property engaged in commerce or capital stock representing it, even though owned by a non-resident or a foreign corporation, if it has acquired a situs for taxation within the jurisdiction.²

(e) Equal Privileges and Immunities.—The clauses of the federal constitution which provide that the citizens of each state shall be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens of the several states,³ and which prohibit each state from making or enforcing any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States,⁴ and from denying to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws,⁵ constitute a limitation upon the powers of the states, and, among others, upon the power to tax.⁶

cher v. Com., 141 U. S. 47; Walling v. Michigan, 116 U. S. 446; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Freight Tax Case), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 232. And see Corson v. Maryland, 120 U. S. 502.

A law imposing a tax on persons selling goods to be shipped into the state from places outside of it, is an unconstitutional regulation on commerce between the states, and it is not divested of its unconstitutionality by a subsequent enactment imposing a similar tax upon like sales of the products of the state. Walling v. Michigan, 116 U. S. 446.

1. Robbins v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 120 U. S. 489; Brimmer v. Rebman, 138 U. S. 78; In re Rebman, 41 Fed. Rep. 867; Minnesota v. Barber, 136 U. S. 313. And see Asher v. State, 128 U. S. 129; Ex p. Murray, 93 Ala. 78.

2. Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18; 46 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 236; Marye v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 127 U. S. 117; Com. v. Gloucester Ferry Co., 98 Pa. St. 105; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Twombly, 29 Fed. Rep. 658; Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Hayward, 141 U. S. 36; Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Church, 17 Colo. 1; People v. Tierney, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 357. And see New York, etc., R. Co. v. Com. (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 412; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Board of Assessors, 55 Fed. Rep. 206. But see Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1.

This is the rule, even though the property consists of cars which pass from state to state. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Church, 17 Colo. 1.

A tax upon tolls paid by one railroad for the use of another which lies wholly within the state, is not a tax on interstate commerce by reason of the fact that the road paying the tolls is engaged in interstate commerce transportation, and that it is for the use of such transportation that the tolls are paid. Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co. (Pa. 1891), 22 Atl. Rep. 212.

Sleeping Cars and other rolling stock on railways may be taxed where they are used, although the owner thereof resides in another state. Pullman Car Co. v. Pennsylvania, 141 U. S. 18. See Gloucester Ferry Co. v. Pennsylvania, 114 U. S. 196; Hayes v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596; St. Louis v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 431; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 107 U. S. 365.

Where sleeping cars belonging to a foreign corporation, are run wholly within the state, the business may be taxed as a privilege. Gibson County v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 42 Fed. Rep. 572. And see Western Union Tel. Co. v. Alabama State Board, 132 U. S. 472. Such a tax is an occupation tax and not a tax on property. Pullman Palace Car Co. v. State, 64 Tex. 274; 53 Am. Rep. 758.

3. Const. U. S., art. 4, § 2, par. 1. See CITIZENSHIP, vol. 3, p. 252; CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, vol. 3, p. 677.

4. Const. U. S., 14th Amendment, § 1.

5. Const. U. S., 14th Amendment, § 1.

6. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Carland, 5 Mont. 146; 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 365; Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; San Mateo v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 13 Fed. Rep. 722. And see San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. Dinwiddie, 8 Sawy. (U. S.) 312.

All taxes or duties levied either directly or indirectly by a state upon goods imported from a sister state,¹ or which discriminate in favor of the products of the state imposing the tax,² or which impose a heavier burden upon citizens of other states than that imposed upon the citizens of the state levying them,³ are repugnant to these provisions, and are likewise void as constituting a regulation of interstate commerce.⁴ And taxes or license charges upon business or privileges imposed upon traders from other states are included within the prohibition, as well as taxes upon property,⁵ and the fact that Congress has not seen fit to legislate on the subject is immaterial.⁶

1. Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Guy v. Baltimore, 100 U. S. 434; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Robbins v. Shelby County, 120 U. S. 489; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; State v. Wiggins, 54 N. H. 508; Davis v. Dashiell, Phil. (N. Car.) 114; Van Buren v. Downing, 41 Wis. 122. Compare People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46.

The exaction by a state of wharfage from foreign vessels other than that exacted from its own, is unconstitutional. Guy v. Baltimore, 100 U. S. 434; The John M. Welsh, 18 Blatchf. (U. S.) 54.

2. Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Cook v. Pennsylvania, 97 U. S. 566; Williams v. Bruffy, 96 U. S. 183; Gibson Co. v. Pullman Southern Car Co., 42 Fed. Rep. 572; Ex p. Stockton, 33 Fed. Rep. 95; Webber v. Virginia, 103 U. S. 344; Osborn v. Mobile, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 482; Ex p. Thornton, 4 Hughes (U. S.) 220; Tiernan v. Rinker, 102 U. S. 123; Wiley v. Parmer, 14 Ala. 627; Vines v. State, 67 Ala. 73; State v. McGinnis, 37 Ark. 362; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; State v. Browning, 62 Mo. 591; Ex p. Rollins, 80 Va. 314; Ex p. Thomas, 71 Cal. 204; State v. Furbush, 72 Me. 493; Lemmon v. People, 20 N. Y. 608; Fire Department v. Wright, 3 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 474; Rodgers v. McCoy, 6 Dakota 230; Marshalltown v. Blum, 58 Iowa 184; Fecheimer v. Louisville, 84 Ky. 306; Joyce v. Woods, 78 Ky. 386; State v. Browning, 62 Mo. 591; Higgins v. Rinker, 47 Tex. 381. And see Ex p. Hanson, 28 Fed. Rep. 129; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 15

Wall. (U. S.) 232; Battle v. Mobile, 9 Ala. 234; McGuire v. Parker, 32 La. Ann. 832; Merchants v. Memphis, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 76.

Extent of the Invalidity.—A statute which discriminates against the products of another state in the imposition of a tax, is invalid and inoperative only so far as it discriminates. Tiernan v. Rinker, 102 U. S. 123.

3. Tiernan v. Rinker, 102 U. S. 123; Cook v. Pennsylvania, 97 U. S. 566; Guy v. Baltimore, 100 U. S. 434; Moran v. New Orleans, 112 U. S. 69; Webber v. Virginia, 103 U. S. 344; In re Watson, 15 Fed. Rep. 511; Pierce v. State, 13 N. H. 536; Bliss' Petition, 63 N. H. 135; State v. Lancaster, 63 N. H. 267; Wiley v. Parmer, 14 Ala. 627; Vines v. State, 67 Ala. 73; Crandall v. State, 10 Conn. 339; McGuire v. Parker, 32 La. Ann. 832; Pacific Junction v. Dyer, 64 Iowa 38; Marshalltown v. Blum, 58 Iowa 184; Chapman v. Miller, 2 Spears (S. Car.) 769; State v. Pratt, 59 Vt. 590; Fecheimer v. Louisville, 84 Ky. 306. But see Davis v. Dashiell, Phil. (N. Car.) 114.

4. See supra, this title, Regulation of Commerce.

5. Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418; Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 444; The J. M. Welsh, 18 Blatchf. (U. S.) 54; Ex p. Hanson, 28 Fed. Rep. 127; Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289; Vines v. State, 67 Ala. 73; Mason v. Lancaster, 4 Bush (Ky.) 406; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; State v. Browning, 62 Mo. 591; People v. Maring, 3 Keyes (N. Y.) 374; Higgins v. Rinker, 47 Tex. 381. And see License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; District of Columbia v. Humason, 2 MacArthur (D. C.) 162; State v. Wiggins, 54 N. H. 508; Marshalltown v. Blum, 58 Iowa 184.

6. Welton v. Missouri, 91 U. S. 275; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 418.

The effect of these provisions upon the taxation of foreign corporations has been dealt with elsewhere.¹ The federal constitution does not exempt the citizens of other states, or of the United States, from any condition which the law of the state imposes upon its own citizens.² And state taxes upon the property or business of a non-resident within the state,³ and license impositions for the privilege of carrying on business within the state,⁴ may be imposed upon him to the same extent as upon citizens of the state; it is only where a greater burden is imposed that the prohibition applies.⁵ Nor is a tax upon a business ex-

1. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS, vol. 8, p. 329; TAXATION (CORPORATE), vol. 25.

2. Com. v. Milton, 12 B. Mon. (Ky.) 212; Jackson v. Bulloch, 12 Conn. 38; Harrison v. Vicksburg, 3 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 581; Lemmon v. People, 20 N. Y. 607; Paul v. Virginia, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 168; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 122; Ex p. Thornton, 12 Fed. Rep. 538. And see Cole v. Randolph, 31 La. Ann. 535; Sledd v. Com., 19 Gratt. (Ga.) 819.

Statutes requiring the taxation of certain property, without allowing for mortgage or other liens thereon, do not conflict with the provisions of the federal constitution forbidding states to pass laws abridging the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States. Central Pac. R. Co. v. Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 35.

3. Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; Duer v. Small, 4 Blatchf. (U. S.) 263; Tiernan v. Rinker, 102 U. S. 123; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 33 Fed. Rep. 124; Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148; Delaware Railroad Tax, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 232; Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 73; Battle v. Mobile, 9 Ala. 234; Osborne v. Mobile, 44 Ala. 493; Fargo v. Auditor Gen'l, 57 Mich. 598; 22 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 217; Weaver v. State, 89 Ga. 639; Ex p. Robinson, 12 Nev. 263; Com. v. Milton, 12 B. Mon. (Ky.) 218; Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 55 Tex. 314; Pullman Southern Car Co. v. Gaines, 3 Tenn. Ch. 587; People v. Brooks, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 469.

In Padelford v. Savannah, 14 Ga. 438, it was held that an ordinance imposing a tax of a certain sum upon every hundred dollars of the amount of sales of all negroes, goods, wares and merchandise, or other commodity, within the corporate limits of the city, is not unconstitutional, even though a large number of such sales are of goods brought from without the state.

4. District of Columbia v. Humason, 2 McArthur (D. C.) 162; Ex p. Hanson, 28 Fed. Rep. 127; In re Rudolph, 2 Fed. Rep. 65; Sears v. Warren Co., 36 Ind. 267; McLaughlin v. South Bend, 126 Ind. 471; Mt. Pleasant v. Clutch, 6 Iowa 546; Sacramento v. California Stage Co., 12 Cal. 134; Standard Underground Cable Co. v. Atty. Gen'l, 46 N. J. Eq. 270; Lunt's Case, 6 Me. 412; State v. French, 109 N. Car. 722; State v. Stevenson, 109 N. Car. 730; Corson v. State, 57 Md. 251; Brown v. Houston, 33 La. Ann. 843; State v. Fosdick, 21 La. Ann. 434; Ex p. Burton, 28 Tex. App. 304; Hynes v. Briggs, 41 Fed. Rep. 468; License Cases, 5 How. (U. S.) 504; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 33 Fed. Rep. 124; American Fertilizing Co. v. Board of Agriculture, 43 Fed. Rep. 609; Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148; Woodruff v. Parham, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 123; Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676. And see Com. v. Maury, 82 Va. 882; Cuthbert v. Com., 85 Va. 99; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 107 U. S. 365; Harrison v. Vicksburg, 3 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 581; State v. Long, 95 N. Car. 582; Titusville v. Brennan, 143 Pa. St. 642; Territory v. Farnsworth, 5 Mont. 303.

5. See Howe Machine Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676; In re Watson, 15 Fed. Rep. 511; Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; Tiernan v. Rinker, 102 U. S. 123; Bliss' Petition, 63 N. H. 135; State v. Lancaster, 63 N. H. 267; Gould v. Atlanta, 55 Ga. 678; State v. Furbush, 72 Me. 493; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; Crow v. State, 14 Mo. 237; State v. Wiggins, 64 N. H. 508; Fire Department v. Wright, 3 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 478; Simrall v. Covington (Ky. 1890), 34 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 190.

tending beyond the state unconstitutional,¹ nor a mere municipal charge for the use of the streets or other accommodations of a city.² These restrictions do not prevent the states from exempting property from taxation when it is devoted to public uses in which all the people are alike interested.³ Nor does the requirement of a different mode of assessment of the property of nonresidents from that required for the assessment of the property of residents, necessarily amount to an unlawful discrimination.⁴ The prohibition of the federal constitution was not intended to secure the citizen of a state against discriminations made by his own state in favor of the citizens of other states,⁵ nor to secure one class of citizens against discriminations made between them and another class of citizens of the same state.⁶

(d) Duties of Tonnage.—The states are prohibited from levying any duty of tonnage without the consent of Congress.⁷ Duties of tonnage are taxes or duties charged upon vessels for the privilege of entering, or loading, or lying in a port or harbor;⁸ and are usually

1. Osborn v. Mobile, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 479; Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 93 U. S. 116; Southern Express Co. v. Mobile, 45 Ala. 404. In Sears v. Warren County, 36 Ind. 267, a license required to vend foreign merchandise was held to be valid. See also People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; Seymour v. State, 51 Ala. 52.

2. St. Louis v. Western Union Tel. Co., 148 U. S. 92; Philadelphia v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 67 Hun (N. Y.) 21. And see Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Riedsville, 101 N. Car. 404. But see St. Louis v. Western Union Tel. Co., 39 Fed. Rep. 59.

In Philadelphia v. Western Union Tel. Co., 40 Fed. Rep. 615, it was held that a city cannot tax a telegraph company occupying its streets, without legislative authority, and cannot, even if authorized, tax a company engaged in interstate commerce.

3. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Carland, 5 Mont. 146; 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 364. And see State v. French, 109 N. Car. 722; State v. Stevenson, 109 N. Car. 730; Ex p. Brown, 48 Fed. Rep. 435; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Barnes, 2 N. Dak. 310, 395; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Brewer, 2 N. Dak. 396.

4. Redd v. St. Francis County, 17 Ark. 416; McGuire v. Parker, 32 La. Ann. 832; Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U. S. 321; Pacific Express Co. v. Seibert, 44 Fed. Rep. 310; Kentucky R. Tax Cases, 115 U. S. 321. And see State Board of Assessors v.

Central R. Co., 48 N. J. L. 146; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U. S. 321.

If the rate of taxation is the same in both cases, it is sufficient. Hinson v. Lott, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 148. See also infra, this title, Equality and Uniformity; The Assessment.

5. Com. v. Griffin, 3 B. Mon. (Ky.) 208; Bradwell v. State, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 136; Slaughter House Cases, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 36. And see Downham v. Alexandria, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 173.

6. Com. v. Griffin, 3 B. Mon. (Ky.) 208; Bradwell v. State, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 136. The local policy of a state government as to its own citizens is not interfered with. Kincaid v. Francis, Cooke (Tenn.) 49.

7. U. S. Const., art. 1, § 10, par. 2; Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Parkersburg, etc., Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Booth v. Lloyd, 33 Fed. Rep. 593; Ex p. Insley, 33 Fed. Rep. 680; People v. Rensselaer, etc., R. Co., 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 131; North River Steamboat Co. v. Livingston, 3 Cow. (N. Y.) 743; Johnson v. Drummond, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 419.

The consent of Congress may be implied from legislation. Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 284.

8. Parkersburg, etc., Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Inman Steamship Co. v. Tinker, 94 U. S. 238; Southern Steamship Co. v. Port Wards, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 31; Cannon v.

estimated by the entire internal cubic capacity or contents of the vessel, expressed in tons, as estimated and ascertained by rules of admeasurement and computation established by law.¹ But any imposition, whatever its form and whatever it may be called, if really and substantially a duty of tonnage, is equally within the prohibition.²

New Orleans, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 577; Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co. v. Keokuk, 95 U. S. 80; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Louis, 4 Dill. (U. S.) 10; Aiken v. Leathers, 9 Fed. Rep. 679; Peete v. Morgan, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 581; Green v. Biddle, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 1; Virginia v. West Virginia, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 39; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Paul, 3 Dill. (U. S.) 454; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 280; The North Cape, 6 Biss. (U. S.) 505; Alexander v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 3 Strobb. (S. Car.) 594. And see Moran v. New Orleans, 112 U. S. 69; Cole v. Johnson, 10 Daly (N. Y.) 258.

The duty of tonnage which the constitution prohibits the states from levying, is a duty or tax on a ship, as such, without regard to the residence of her owner, whether it be a fixed sum upon its whole tonnage, or a sum to be ascertained by comparing the amount of tonnage with the rate of duty, when a ship, as an instrument of commerce, is required to pay a duty as a condition to her being allowed to enter or depart from a port, or load or unload a cargo, either upon her tonnage, her property, or as a license to her officers or crew. The North Cape, 6 Biss. (U. S.) 505.

1. Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Peete v. Morgan, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 581; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 283; Inman Steamship Co. v. Tinker, 94 U. S. 238; The North Cape, 6 Biss. (U. S.) 505; Sheffield v. Parsons, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 302; Alexander v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 3 Strobb. (S. Car.) 598; State v. Charleston, 4 Rich. (S. Car.) 289; Hackley v. Geraghty, 34 N. J. L. 332. And see John Kyle Steamboat Co. v. New Orleans, 23 Int. Rev. Rec. 19.

Duties, the amount of which is determined by comparison with the tonnage, are within the prohibition. Johnson v. Drummond, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 419. So are taxes according to towage. Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 9 W. Va. 178.

An imposition imposed by harbor commissioners to defray expenses on vessels entering the port according to the "length over all" in feet, is a tonnage duty within the prohibition of the federal constitution. Harbor Com'rs v. Pashley, 19 S. Car. 315.

2. Johnson v. Drummond, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 419; Alexander v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 3 Strobb. (S. Car.) 598; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 447; Cooley v. Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 299; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Paul, 3 Dill. (U. S.) 454.

In Southern Steamship Co. v. Port Wardens, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 31, it was held that a statute which entitles the master and wardens of a port to receive certain fees, whether called upon to perform any service or not, for each vessel arriving in the port, is repugnant to the prohibition in the federal constitution against the imposition of duties of tonnage.

Wharfage fees exacted from vessels carrying products of other states, cannot be regarded as compensation for the use of property owned by the city requiring the fees; they are a mere expedient or device to build up the domestic commerce by means of unequal and oppressive burdens upon the industry and business of other states. Guy v. Baltimore, 100 U. S. 434.

A tax upon a vessel in another state than that which contains its home port, which is lawfully engaged in interstate trade over public waters, is an interference with the commerce of the country, which is not permitted to the states. Morgan v. Parham, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 471.

In Hackley v. Geraghty, 34 N. J. L. 332, it was held that a fixed sum required to be paid by each vessel, without regard to its tonnage, is within the constitutional prohibition against duties of tonnage.

See also Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273; Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Booth v. Lloyd, 33 Fed. Rep. 593; Ex p. Insley, 33 Fed. Rep. 680; The North Cape, 6 Biss. (U. S.) 505; Cannon v. New Orleans, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 577; Gibbons v. Ogden,

Duties of tonnage differ from wharfage,¹ and from pilotage.² The fact that such impositions are graduated by the size or tonnage of the vessel, does not necessarily make them a duty of tonnage,³ the mode of making a charge in either case, whether according to the size or capacity of the vessel, or otherwise, having nothing to do with its essential nature,⁴ the test question being whether the charge is a reasonable compensation for services rendered or facilities furnished.⁵

⁹ Wheat, (U. S.) 1; Inman Steamship Co. v. Tinker, 94 U. S. 328.

1. Parkersburg, etc., Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Cooley v. Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 299; Ouachita, etc., Packet Co. v. Aiken, 121 U. S. 444; 16 Fed. Rep. 890; Cannon v. New Orleans, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 577; Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co. v. Keokuk, 95 U. S. 84; The Ann Ryan, 7 Ben. (U. S.) 20; Pelham v. Woolsey, 16 Fed. Rep. 418; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Louis, 100 U. S. 423; First Municipality v. Pease, 2 La. Ann. 538; Sweeney v. Otis, 37 La. Ann. 520; Wharf Case, 3 Bland (Md.) 361; State v. Charleston, 4 Rich. (S. Car.) 286; Sterrett v. Houston, 14 Tex. 153.

Although wharves are related to commerce and navigation as aids and conveniences, yet, being local in their nature, requiring state regulation for particular purposes, the regulation thereof properly belongs to the state in which they are situated, in the absence of congressional legislation on the subject. Parkersburg Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Ouachita, etc., Packet Co. v. Aiken, 121 U. S. 444; 16 Fed. Rep. 890; The Ann Ryan, 7 Ben. (U. S.) 20; Cannon v. New Orleans, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 577; Worsley v. Second Municipality, 9 Rob. (La.) 324.

2. Southern Steamship Co. v. Port Wardens, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 31; Pacific Mail Steamship Co. v. Joliffe, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 450; Cannon v. New Orleans, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 577; Cooley v. Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 299; Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co. v. Keokuk, 95 U. S. 80; The Charles A. Sparks, 16 Fed. Rep. 480. And see State v. Penny, 19 S. Car. 218.

3. Parkersburg Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Louis, 100 U. S. 423; Guy v. Baltimore, 100 U. S. 434; Cincinnati, etc., Packet Co. v. Catlettsburg, 105 U. S. 559; Keokuk

Northern Line Packet Co. v. Keokuk, 95 U. S. 80; Cannon v. New Orleans, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 577; Vicksburg v. Tobin, 100 U. S. 430; Lott v. Mobile Trade Co., 43 Ala. 578; Lott v. Cox, 43 Ala. 697. But see Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Paul, 3 Dill. (U. S.) 454.

4. Parkersburg Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Louis, 100 U. S. 423; Cooley v. Port Wardens, 12 How. (U. S.) 299; Cincinnati, etc., Packet Co. v. Catlettsburg, 105 U. S. 559; Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co. v. Keokuk, 95 U. S. 84; The Ann Ryan, 7 Ben. (U. S.) 20; Wharf Case, 3 Bland (Md.) 361; Sterrett v. Houston, 14 Tex. 153.

Penalties imposed for a refusal to obey rules with reference to places of landing, and orders of wharf masters on the subject, are not taxes on tonnage. Cincinnati, etc., Packet Co. v. Catlettsburg, 105 U. S. 559.

5. See Southern Steamship Co. v. Port Wardens, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 31; Freeman v. The Undaunted, 37 Fed. Rep. 662; Ouachita, etc., Packet Co. v. Aiken, 121 U. S. 444; 11 Fed. Rep. 862; Leathers v. Aiken, 9 Fed. Rep. 679; Sprague v. Thompson, 118 U. S. 90; Webb v. Dunn, 18 Fla. 721; Hackley v. Geraghty, 34 N. J. L. 332. And see The Ann Ryan, 7 Ben. (U. S.) 20.

Question of Law and Fact.—Whether a charge is wharfage, or a duty on tonnage, is a question, not of intent, but of fact and law; of fact, whether it is imposed for the use of a wharf or for the privilege of entering a port; and of law, whether, according as the fact is, it is wharfage or a duty on tonnage. Parkersburg Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691.

Burden of Proof.—In Ouachita, etc., Packet Co. v. Aiken, 11 Fed. Rep. 662, it was held that in order to establish that a rate of wharfage is greater than a fair and reasonable compensation for the use of the facilities offered, the evi-

That an imposition is not for revenue purposes, or that its proceeds do not go into the public treasury, does not prevent it from being a duty of tonnage;¹ and a tonnage tax cannot be employed, even for the purpose of carrying into effect regulations which the state has power to make.² But the imposition of a reasonable charge in the execution of health and inspection laws is not a duty of tonnage.³

The prohibition extends to vessels employed in commercial intercourse between the ports of different states as well as between different ports in the same state,⁴ and to vessels employed in the coasting trade⁵ as well as to those engaged in internal commerce;⁶ and it is immaterial whether the vessel belongs to the citizens of the state which levies the tax or to citizens of another state.⁷

The constitutional prohibition does not affect the right of the state to tax as property, and according to value, vessels owned by its citizens,⁸ even though such vessels are registered or dence submitted must enable the courts to say as a matter of fact, that such greater charge is made against the particular vessels of the complainant. See also Leathers v. Aiken, 9 Fed. Rep. 679; Parkersburg, etc., Transp. Co. v. Parkersburg, 107 U. S. 691.

1. Sheffield v. Parsons, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 302; Lott v. Morgan, 41 Ala. 250; Alexander v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 3 Strobb. (S. Car.) 594; Leathers v. Aiken, 9 Fed. Rep. 679; Huse v. Glover, 119 U. S. 543.

2. Johnson v. Drummond, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 419; People v. Brooks, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 469; Peete v. Morgan, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 581.

3. Morgan Steamship Co. v. Louisiana Board of Health, 118 U. S. 445, affirming 36 La. Ann. 666; Benedict v. Vanderbilt, 1 Robt. (N. Y.) 200.

4. Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; People v. Rensselaer, etc., R. Co., 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 131; North River Steamboat Co. v. Livingston, 3 Cow. (N. Y.) 743; Alexander v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 3 Strobb. (S. Car.) 598.

In Lott v. Morgan, 41 Ala. 250, it was held that vessels engaged exclusively in the towage and lighterage business, carrying passengers and freight from a harbor to vessels far outside, are within the protection of the constitution.

5. Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Lott v. Morgan, 41 Ala. 246; Howell v. State, 3 Gill (Md.) 14.

Steamboats are included as well as sailing vessels. Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204. And see Alexander v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 3 Strobb. (S. Car.) 598.

6. Congress does not possess the power to regulate purely internal commerce of the states, but it may enroll licensed ships and vessels to sail from one port to another in the same state, and vessels thus enrolled and licensed are entitled to the same privileges as vessels employed in the coasting trade. Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204.

7. Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Cases), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 202; Sinnot v. Davenport, 22 How. (U. S.) 238; Foster v. Davenport, 22 How. (U. S.) 245; Perry v. Torrence, 8 Ohio 524.

8. Cox v. Lott (State Tonnage Tax Case), 12 Wall. (U. S.) 204; Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 82; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273; Passenger Cases, 7 How. (U. S.) 402; Lott v. Mobile Trade Co., 43 Ala. 578; Lott v. Cox, 43 Ala. 697; Irvin v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 94 Ill. 105; People v. Roberts, 92 Cal. 659; Howell v. State, 3 Gill (Md.) 14; Guenther v. Baltimore, 55 Md. 459; Perry v. Torrence, 8 Ohio 522; People v. Com'r of Taxes, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 157; affirmed 58 N. Y. 542. And see Morgan v. Parham, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 472; Hays v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596.

enrolled by the United States under the federal statute requiring such registration and enrollment.¹

Tolls charged for the improvement of the navigation of a river or of other navigable waters are not taxes upon tonnage;² nor are license fees, charged for the privilege of maintaining ferries or towboats, even between different states.³

(e) Impairment of Contract Obligations.—The prohibition in the federal constitution against the passage by the states of any law impairing the obligation of contracts sometimes operates as a restriction upon the power to tax.⁴ When a law is in the nature of a contract, a repeal of the law cannot divest rights which have become vested under it.⁵

This prohibition extends to the obligations of the state as well as to those of an individual, and neither the state nor a municipality can, under the guise of taxation, relieve itself from the performance of its contracts.⁶ Concessions to municipal corporations and Vessels are subject to state taxation like any other property, and as such are liable to seizure for taxes due thereon. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374.

The assessment of a vessel owned in a city, by the city assessor, for city taxes, is not the imposition of a duty of tonnage. The North Cape, 6 Biss. (U. S.) 505.

1. Lott v. Mobile Trade Co., 43 Ala. 578; Lott v. Cox, 43 Ala. 697; Irvin v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 94 Ill. 105; Howell v. State, 3 Gill (Md.) 14; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273; Moran v. New Orleans, 112 U. S. 69.

2. Palmer v. Cuyahoga Co., 3 McLean (U. S.) 226; Northwestern Union Packet Co. v. St. Louis, 100 U. S. 423; Vicksburg v. Tobin, 100 U. S. 430; Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co. v. Keokuk, 95 U. S. 80; Cannon v. New Orleans, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 577; Leathers v. Aiken, 9 Fed. Rep. 679; Huse v. Glover, 15 Fed. Rep. 292; 119 U. S. 543; Sands v. Manistee River Imp. Co., 123 U. S. 288; Thames Bank v. Lovell, 18 Conn. 500; Worsley v. Second Municipality, 9 Rob. (La.) 324.

3. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 102 Ill. 560; New Orleans v. Eclipse Towboat Co., 33 La. Ann. 647; Chilvers v. People, 11 Mich. 43; People v. Babcock, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 586; Com. v. Gloucester Ferry Co., 98 Pa. St. 117; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis, 107 U. S. 365.

4. Murray v. Charleston, 96 U. S. 432; Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16 How. (U. S.) 369; Home of the Friendless

v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 430; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Tax on Foreign Held Bonds), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 3 Fed. Rep. 266; State v. New Orleans, 29 La. Ann. 863. See generally CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, vol. 3, p. 741.

5. Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16 How. (U. S.) 369; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Levee Com'rs, 37 Fed. Rep. 24; McGee v. Mathis, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 143; Osborne v. Humphrey, 7 Conn. 335; English v. Sacramento, 19 Cal. 172; Maguiar v. Henry, 84 Ky. 1; State v. Walsh, 31 Neb. 469; State v. Butler, 11 Lea (Tenn.) 493. And see State v. Com'rs of Railroad Taxation, 37 N. J. L. 229; State v. Union, 44 N. J. L. 259; Bunch v. Wolerstein, 62 Miss. 561; Deere v. Rio Grande County, 33 Fed. Rep. 823; Seibert v. U. S., 122 U. S. 284; 129 U. S. 192; Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 270; State v. Foley, 30 Minn. 350; State v. Young, 29 Minn. 474.

6. New Jersey v. Wilson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 164; Fletcher v. Peck, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 135; Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16 How. (U. S.) 369; Home of the Friendless v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 430; O'Donnell v. Bailey, 24 Miss. 386; Danolds v. State, 89 N. Y. 36; Lord v. Thomas, 64 N. Y. 107; State v. Young, 29 Minn. 474. And see Louisiana v. St. Martin's Parish, 111 U. S. 716; Jacoway v. Denton, 25 Ark. 625; Hawkins v. Filkins, 24 Ark. 286; McNealy v. Gregory, 13 Fla. 417; Chicago v. Rumsey, 87 Ill. 348; Edmonds v. Jagers, 19 Ind. 407; Mathney v. Golden, 5 Ohio other governmental agencies are not contracts, but remain subject to legislative control without limitation within the bounds of constitutional rules.¹ Exemptions from taxation granted upon conditions which are accepted are within the rule,² and stipulations with reference to taxation inserted within the charters of private corporations are contracts within the constitutional prohibition.³ The rule applies to statutes making obligations of the St. 361; Hazen v. Bank of Tennessee, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 115; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 87 Ga. 487; Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. McClure, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 511; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331; Groves v. Slaughter, 15 Pet. (U. S.) 449; Moultrie County v. Rockingham, etc., Sav. Bank, 92 U. S. 632; Marsh v. Burroughs, 1 Wood (U. S.) 463; Gunn v. Barry, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 610; Osborn v. Nicholson, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 235; Louisiana v. Jefferson Police Jury, 116 U. S. 131; Murray v. Charleston, 96 U. S. 432; De Vignier v. New Orleans, 16 Fed. Rep. 11.

The state cannot declare that one party to a contract shall not perform until the other presents evidence that he has paid his taxes. Robertson v. Land Office Com'r, 44 Mich. 274.

A state may tax any of its creditors within its jurisdiction for the debt due to him, and regulate the amount of the tax by the rate of interest which the debt bears, if the promise is left unchanged. Murray v. Charleston, 96 U. S. 432. But it cannot thus tax a foreign creditor. De Vignier v. New Orleans, 16 Fed. Rep. 11.

1. Layton v. New Orleans, 12 La. Ann. 518; Tinsman v. Belvidere, etc., R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 148; Jersey City v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co., 20 N. J. Eq. 360; Rader v. Southeasterly Road District, 36 N. J. L. 273; Williamson v. State, 46 N. J. L. 204; 44 N. J. L. 165; Spring Valley Water Works v. San Francisco, 61 Cal. 3; 8 Sawy. (U. S.) 555; Williamson v. New Jersey, 130 U. S. 189; New Orleans v. New Orleans Water Works Co., 142 U. S. 44; Blessing v. Galveston, 42 Tex. 641; Washburn v. Oshkosh, 60 Wis. 453. This rule includes quasi municipalities, such as drainage districts. Smith v. People, 140 Ill. 355.

2. New Jersey v. Watson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 164; Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16 How. (U. S.) 369; Pacific R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 36; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 41 Ark. 436; Franklin County Ct. v. Deposit Bank, 87 Ky. 370; King v. Madison, 17 Ind.

48; Bank of Illinois v. People, 5 Ill. 303; Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Gill (Md.) 288; Gordon v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 231; Bank of Cape Fear v. Edwards, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 516. And see Western, etc., R. Co. v. State, 54 Ga. 428.

Taxing the franchise and rolling stock of a railway company, violates a charter exemption, as well as taxation of the property itself. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 264. And see Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 269.

Where the grant or lease under which property is held, itself contemplates the payment of taxes by the grantee, it is subject to taxation at the will of the legislature without reference to charter privileges of the grantee. Hart v. Cornwall, 14 Conn. 228.

3. Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331; Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16 How. (U. S.) 369; Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 518; Pacific R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 36; Humphrey v. Peques, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 247; Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 264; Home of the Friendless v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 430; Washington University v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 439; Wales v. Stetson, 2 Mass. 143; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McLean County, 17 Ill. 291; State v. Newark, 50 N. J. L. 66; O'Donnell v. Bailey, 24 Miss. 386; First Division R. Co. v. Parcher, 14 Minn. 297; Worth v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Car. 291; 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 286; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Carland, 5 Mont. 146; 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 364; Franklin County Ct. v. Deposit Bank, 87 Ky. 370; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 10 Bush (Ky.) 43; St. Joseph v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. 479; Mechanics' Bank v. Kansas City, 73 Mo. 555; Western, etc., R. Co. v. State, 54 Ga. 428; Washington County v. Franklin R. Co., 34 Md. 159; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 48 Md. 50; State v. Union, etc., Bank (Tenn. 1892), 35 Cent. L. J. 169; Union Bank v. State, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 490; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v.

state or a municipality receivable for taxes; ¹ as well as to all valuable privileges extended by charter or statute which have been accepted and acted upon; ² including acts taking away the remedy for a breach of contract as well as to an impairment of the contract itself.³ The grant must have been made upon a valid and sufficient consideration, however, in order to constitute an irrevoc-

Kennedy, 74 Ala. 566. And see Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Levee Commissioners, 37 Fed. Rep. 24; Ohio L. Ins., etc., Co. v. Hamilton County, 16 How. (U. S.) 416; Thomas v. Scotland County, 3 Dill. (U. S.) 12; Harshman v. Bates County, 3 Dill. (U. S.) 150; Tomlinson v. Branch, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 460; Delaware Railroad Tax Case, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 498.

In Gordon v. Appeal Tax Court, 3 How. (U. S.) 133, it was held that the charter of a bank is a franchise, which is not taxable as such, if a price has been paid for it which the legislature accepted. But the corporate property is separable from the franchise and is taxable, unless there is an agreement to the contrary. But see Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Gill (Md.) 288.

Where the charter of a bank limits the right of a state to tax it a certain per cent. on each share of stock, and confines the right to tax to state purposes only, the legislature has no power to delegate the power to tax the bank to a municipal corporation. O'Donnell v. Bailey, 24 Miss. 386.

The acceptance of a new charter, or of the provisions of a statute omitting the right of exemption from taxation, is a waiver of the right conferred by the old charter. Stevens County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 36 Minn. 467; Seaboard, etc., R. Co. v. Norfolk County, 83 Va. 195.

1. Antoni v. Wright, 22 Gratt. (Va.) 833; McGahey v. State, 135 U. S. 662; Willis v. Miller, 29 Fed. Rep. 238; Keith v. Clark, 97 U. S. 454; Antoni v. Greenhow, 107 U. S. 769; Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 270; White v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 327; Chaffin v. Taylor, 114 U. S. 309; 116 U. S. 567; Allen v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 114 U. S. 311. See also McGahey v. Com., 85 Va. 519; Laube v. Com., 85 Va. 530; Amy v. Shelby County, 114 U. S. 387; Ex p. Ayres, 123 U. S. 433; McGee v. Mathis, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 143; Moore v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 338.

Where coupons cut from state bonds are made receivable for taxes, an act providing that expert evidence shall not be received as to the genuineness of such coupons, violates the obligations of the contract; and where coupons are receivable for taxes, and judgment has been recovered against a taxpayer for his taxes and costs, the taxpayer is entitled to pay the whole judgment with such coupons. McGahey v. State, 135 U. S. 662, overruling Com. v. Weller, 82 Va. 721; Com. v. Booker, 82 Va. 964.

A statute providing for the refunding of the indebtedness of an existing municipality in the bonds of another taxing district, and the collection and application of back taxes, does not violate the obligation of any contract when the new bonds exchanged for the old indebtedness would have been received if no exchange had been made. Amy v. Shelby County, 114 U. S. 387.

Refusal of Tender.—There is no violation of contract until taxes legally due are tendered and refused. Hagood v. Williams, 117 U. S. 52.

Not Applicable to Licenses.—Where state coupons are made receivable for taxes, debts, dues and demands due to the state, the obligation of the contract is not impaired by requiring payment for licenses to sell intoxicating liquors in lawful money of the United States. McGahey v. State, 135 U. S. 662. But see Harvey v. Virginia, 20 Fed. Rep. 411.

2. Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16 How. (U. S.) 369; Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 518. And see McGahey v. State, 135 U. S. 662; Atwater v. Woodbridge, 6 Conn. 223.

3. See Van Hoffman v. Quincy, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 535; Antoni v. Greenhow, 107 U. S. 769; Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 270; White v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 307; Chaffin v. Taylor, 114 U. S. 309; 116 U. S. 567; Allen v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 114 U. S. 311; Rahway v. State, 44 N. J. L. 395; Morten v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430. See also Tracey v. Reed, 38 Fed. Rep. 69; Collins v. Collins, 79 Ky. 88.

cable contract;¹ or conditions must have been imposed by the legislative enactment which were accepted and acted upon;² though when the conditions of the contract are accepted and acted upon, it will be presumed to have been made upon a sufficient consideration.³

A reasonable limitation upon the enforcement of a right is not an impairment of the contract out of which it springs;⁴ nor is a contract impaired by a mere change in the method of taxation;⁵ and if, in any fair construction of the legislation, there is a reasonable doubt whether the contract is made out, this doubt must be

A mere change of remedies does not impair the obligation of the contract. Antoni v. Greenhow, 107 U. S. 769. And see Cape Girardeau County Ct. v. Hill, 118 U. S. 68; Moore v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 338; Rosseau v. New Orleans, 35 La. Ann. 557.

But the obligation of the contract is impaired if a legal equivalent of the remedy formerly existing is not furnished. Seibert v. Lewis, 122 U. S. 284. And see Moore v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 338.

Where the holders of bonds issued by a municipality, are entitled to payment by taxes collected in the same manner as ordinary taxes, a statute permitting the tax collector to give bond for the collection of ordinary taxes without requiring him to give bond for the collection of special taxes, impairs the obligation of the contract incorporated in the bonds. Edwards v. Williamson, 70 Ala. 145.

Who May Complain.—Complaint of an impairing of the obligation of a contract must be made by one of the parties thereto, or by persons claiming under him, and not by a third party. Hagar v. Reclamation District, 111 U. S. 701.

1. See Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 575; West Wisconsin R. Co. v. Trempealeau County, 93 U. S. 595; Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 93 U. S. 116; St. Vincent College v. Schaefer, 104 Mo. 262. And see infra, this title, Waiver or Relinquishment of the Power.

It must have been a grant as distinguished from a mere license. Derby Turnpike Co. v. Parks, 10 Conn. 522.

2. Pacific R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 36; New Jersey v. Wilson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 164; Armstrong v. Athens County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 281; Home of the Friendless v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 430; Washington University v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 439;

Gordon v. Appeal Tax Court, 3 How. (U. S.) 143; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 527; Parker v. Redfield, 10 Conn. 495; Osborne v. Humphrey, 7 Conn. 339; Western, etc., R. Co. v. State, 54 Ga. 428; King v. Madison, 17 Ind. 48; Franklin County Ct. v. Deposit Bank, 87 Ky. 370; Detroit v. Detroit, etc., Plank Road Co., 43 Mich. 140. And see West Wisconsin R. Co. v. Trempealeau County, 93 U. S. 595; Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 93 U. S. 116.

Some of the cases have drawn a distinction between immunities granted by general laws and those granted by special charter; holding that an immunity granted by general law is a mere gratuity which may be revoked at the pleasure of the legislature, but that one granted by special charter, which has been accepted and acted upon, constitutes an irrevocable contract. See East Saginaw Salt Mfg. Co. v. East Saginaw, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 373; Welch v. Cook, 97 U. S. 541.

3. Home of the Friendless v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 430; New Jersey v. Wilson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 164; Gordon v. Appeal Tax Court, 3 How. (U. S.) 133; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331; Mechanics', etc., Bank v. Thomas, 18 How. (U. S.) 384; Mechanics', etc., Bank v. Debolt, 18 How. (U. S.) 360; McGee v. Mathis, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 143.

4. Wheeler v. Jackson, 137 U. S. 245; McFarland v. Jackson, 137 U. S. 258; Barnett v. Holmes, 102 U. S. 651. And see Com. v. Plunkett, 84 Va. 519; Com. v. Maury, 82 Va. 883. But an unreasonable limitation is void. See Priestly v. Watkins, 62 Miss. 798.

5. See Bailey v. Magwire, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 215; U. S. v. Knox County, 51 Fed. Rep. 880; New Orleans v. New Orleans Water Works Co., 142 U. S. 79; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510.

solved in favor of the state.¹ The payment of a bonus for a charter of incorporation does not protect the grantee of the franchise from all taxation except such as the state has reserved the right to impose.² And the tax upon a new subject or an increased tax upon the old one, is not an impairment of the obligation of the contract.³ Nor is a contract between individuals impaired by being taxed,⁴ when the tax can be regarded as a tax upon income derived from contracts,⁵ or an excise tax,⁶ and not

1. Bailey v. Magwire, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 215; Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16 How. (U. S.) 369; North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Hoge v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 99 U. S. 348; Detroit v. Detroit, etc., Plank Road Co., 43 Mich. 140; Detroit City Street R. Co. v. Guthard, 51 Mich. 180; Buchanan v. Talbot County, 47 Md. 286; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Canal Com'rs, 21 Pa. St. 22; Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 26 Gratt. (Va.) 83; Holly Springs Sav., etc., Co. v. Marshall County, 52 Miss. 281. And see State v. St. Martin's Parish, 32 La. Ann. 884; Los Angeles v. Southern Pac. R. Co. (Cal. 1885), 7 West Coast Rep. 416; East Saginaw Salt Mfg. Co. v. East Saginaw, 19 Mich. 259; Weeks v. Gilmanton, 60 N. H. 500; Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 64 N. Car. 155; Alexandria Canal, etc., Co. v. District of Columbia, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 217.

In State v. Wright, 41 N. J. L. 478, it was held that where a tax, declared illegal in violation of a contract, is again levied and paid for a long time without objection, the right of the taxpayer is lost.

In order to constitute a contract, the covenant or enactment must distinctly express that there shall be no other or further taxation. Memphis Gas Light Co. v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 109 U. S. 398. And see Herrick v. Randolph, 13 Vt. 531; Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 514. See also State v. Clark, 53 N. J. L. 332.

2. Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323; Memphis Gas Light Co. v. Shelby Co., 109 U. S. 398; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 492; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans, 143 U. S. 193; San Jose v. San Jose, etc., R. Co., 53 Cal. 475; Little v. Bowers, 46 N. J. L. 300; State v. Clark, 53 N. J. L. 332; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 10 Bush (Ky.) 43; New Orleans v. New Orleans City, etc., R. Co., 40 La.

Ann. 587; State v. Petway, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 396; Frankfort, etc., Pass. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 58 Pa. St. 119; Johnson v. Philadelphia, 60 Pa. St. 445; Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 145 Pa. St. 38; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Com. (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 42; Erie R. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 84. And see Detroit v. Detroit City R. Co., 76 Mich. 421; Detroit St. R. Co. v. Guthard, 51 Mich. 180. But the rule is different if the acceptance of the bonus is accompanied by an agreement not to tax. Gorden v. Appeal Tax Court, 3 How. (U. S.) 133; Franklin County Ct. v. Deposit Bank, 87 Ky. 370; State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 49 N. J. L. 193.

Foreign Corporations.—A grant by one state to a corporation of another state, of a right to exercise a part of its franchise within its limits, and laying a tax upon it at the time of the grant, does not preclude the right of further taxation by the same state. Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 492; Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 93 U. S. 116.

3. North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Dundee Mtg., etc., Co. v. School District, 19 Fed. Rep. 369. And see Wabash Eastern R. Co. v. Com'rs of Drainage Dist., 134 Ill. 384.

4. Cook v. Smith, 30 N. J. L. 387; Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 152; Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 100 U. S. 491.

Taxing mortgages against the mortgages and making the mortgagor liable for the tax, does not violate the provisions of the contract, because the whole value of the mortgaged property might have been assessed to the mortgagor. Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78. And see Hay v. Hill, 65 Cal. 383.

5. Murray v. Charleston, 96 U. S. 432; Haight v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 6 Wall. (U. S.) 15; Robertson v. Land Office Com'rs, 44 Mich. 274; Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 100 U. S. 491.

6. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Slack, 100 U. S. 595; U. S. v. Erie R. Co., a tax upon the creditor. And exemptions from taxation made through motives of public policy, for which no consideration is given, are not contracts.¹ The right to amend or repeal a statute in the nature of a contract may be reserved either by provision of the act itself or by general constitutional or statutory provision, and in such case the reservation also is a part of the contract² and authorizes a repeal of an exemption or the imposition of a different tax from that stipulated for in the charter,³ at the will of 106 U. S. 327; 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 319. And see Com. v. Maury, 82 Va. 883. Negotiable Instruments.—In McGahey v. State, 135 U. S. 662, it was held that a high license required for the business of selling, and otherwise dealing in negotiable contracts and bonds, placed an undue restraint upon their negotiability, and was unconstitutional.

1. Robertson v. Land Office Com'rs, 44 Mich. 274; East Saginaw Mfg. Co. v. East Saginaw, 19 Mich. 259; Calhoun v. Woodstock Iron Co., 82 Ala. 151; Lord v. Litchfield, 36 Conn. 116; 4 Am. Rep. 41; First Ecclesiastical Soc. v. Hartford, 38 Conn. 286; Shiner v. Jacobs, 62 Iowa 392; Com. v. Bird, 12 Mass. 443; Ex p. Thompson, 20 Fla. 887; People v. Roper, 35 N. Y. 629; New Orleans v. St. Anna's Asylum, 31 La. Ann. 292; Grand Lodge v. New Orleans, 44 La. Ann. 659; Livingston County v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 516; St. Joseph v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. 476; Bellinger v. White, 5 Neb. 401; Alexandria Canal, etc., Co. v. District of Columbia, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 217; East Saginaw Salt Mfg. Co. v. East Saginaw, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 373; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 527; North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Williamson v. New Jersey, 130 U. S. 189; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 97 U. S. 697; Christ Church v. Philadelphia County, 24 How. (U. S.) 330; Hewitt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 Blatchf. (U. S.) 452; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 114 U. S. 176; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217; West Wisconsin R. Co. v. Trempealeau County, 93 U. S. 595. The same rule applies to neglect to tax. Alexandria, etc., Canal Co. v. District of Columbia, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 217.

A law authorizing a bounty for every bushel of salt manufactured in the state, and exempting from taxation the property used for the purpose, is not a contract in such a sense that it cannot be repealed. East Saginaw Salt Mfg.

Co. v. East Saginaw, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 373.

2. State v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 44 Md. 131; Appeal Tax Court v. Rice, 50 Md. 302; Appeal Tax Court v. Baltimore Academy, 50 Md. 437; State v. Com'rs of Railroad Taxation, 37 N. J. L. 229; English v. New Haven, etc., Co., 32 Conn. 243; Com. v. Fayette County R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 452; Detroit v. Detroit, etc., Plank Road Co., 43 Mich. 140; New Orleans v. St. Anna's Asylum, 31 La. Ann. 292; State v. New Orleans, 37 La. Ann. 436; Willson v. Gaines, 3 Tenn. Ch. 597; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Hodges, 7 Lea (Tenn.) 665; Delaware Railroad Tax, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 225; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 575; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 498; Bailey v. Magwire, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 215; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Loftin, 105 U. S. 261; Hoge v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 99 U. S. 349; West Wisconsin R. Co. v. Trempealeau County, 93 U. S. 595; Pennsylvania College Cases, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 190; Tomlinson v. Jessup, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 459; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 2 Flap. (U. S.) 621; Holyoke County v. Lyman, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 522; Shields v. Ohio, 95 U. S. 319; Louisville Water Co. v. Clark, 143 U. S. 1.

When the power is reserved by a general law applicable to all acts of incorporation, it may be revised with reference to any charter subsequently granted. Miller v. New York, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 478. But a state legislature may grant an irreparable contract for exemption from taxes, notwithstanding a former legislature had declared that all charters should be subject to amendment. New Jersey v. Yard, 95 U. S. 104.

3. Iron City Bank v. Pittsburgh, 37 Pa. St. 340; Com. v. Fayette Co. R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 452; Union Improvement Co. v. Com., 69 Pa. St. 140; State v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 44 Md. 131; Central R., etc., Co. v. State, 54 Ga.

the legislature, its action not being subject to judicial review; ¹ though such a reservation will not authorize the addition of requirements which are inconsistent with constitutional principles. ²

An exemption from taxation is not affected by a subsequent general law declaring all lands liable to taxation and repealing all inconsistent acts. ³ Nor will a change in the character or objects of the corporation preclude it from proclaiming the benefits of an exemption; ⁴ but if by a change in its character a corporation has disqualified itself to comply with the conditions upon the performance of which the limitation was granted, it must be considered as having waived the exemption. ⁵

411; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. State, 55 Ga. 312; New Orleans v. Metropolitan Loan, etc., Bank, 27 La. Ann. 648; Guillotte v. New Orleans, 12 La. Ann. 434; Palfrey v. Paulding, 7 La. Ann. 363; State v. Jersey City, 31 N. J. L. 575; State v. Miller, 31 N. J. L. 521; State Board v. Patterson, etc., R. Co., 50 N. J. L. 446; 33 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 468; St. Joseph v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. 476; State v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 12 Lea (Tenn.) 583; West Wisconsin R. Co. v. Trempealeau County, 93 U. S. 595; Hewitt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 Blatchf. (U. S.) 452; Tomlinson v. Jessup, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 454; Miller v. New York, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 478; Louisville Water Co. v. Clark, 143 U. S. 1; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 114 U. S. 176. When the power to change is received, the grant is a quasi contract in the nature of a license. Wagner Fire Institute v. Philadelphia, 132 Pa. St. 612.

1. New Orleans v. St. Anna's Asylum, 31 La. Ann. 296; Lothrop v. Stedman, 42 Conn. 583; Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34; In re Lee & Co.'s Bank, 21 N. Y. 9; Suydam v. Moore, 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 362; Hyatt v. Whiffle, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 595; Com. v. Fayette Co. R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 452; West Wisconsin R. Co. v. Trempealeau County, 35 Wis. 257; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Galnes, 97 U. S. 697.

The reservation of a right of alteration and repeal in the charter of a corporation takes effect on the legislative grant itself to prevent its becoming what it otherwise might become, a contract with the state, and it has none of the characteristics of a mere power which, when once exercised, is exhausted. State v. Com'r of Railroad Taxation, 37 N. J. L. 229.

2. Detroit v. Detroit Plank Road Co., 43 Mich. 140; Shields v. Ohio, 95 U. S. 324.

Under a reserved power to amend, alter or repeal laws under which private corporations are formed, the state cannot exercise a control over the property of the corporation, except such as may be exercised through its right to control its franchise, and such as it may exercise over like property of natural persons engaged in a similar business. San Mateo County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 13 Fed. Rep. 722; Shields v. Ohio, 95 U. S. 324.

3. State v. Minton, 23 N. J. L. 529; Nichols v. New Haven, etc., Co., 42 Conn. 103. And see State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. (Mo. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 746; New Orleans v. St. Anna's Asylum, 31 La. Ann. 292.

Subsequent Contract.—In New Jersey v. Yard, 95 U. S. 104, it was held that a provision in the supplement to the charter of a company that the supplement and the charter may be altered or amended by the legislature, does not apply to a contract made with the company in a supplement passed a long time afterwards.

4. See Nichols v. New Haven, etc., Co., 42 Conn. 103; State v. Society, etc., 43 N. J. Eq. 410; Charew, etc., R. Co. v. Anson, 88 N. Car. 519; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. (Mo. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 746. Where the capital stock of a corporation, which is exempted by a charter provision, is increased, the whole capital does not thereby become taxable. Nichols v. New Haven, etc., Co., 42 Conn. 103.

An exemption from taxation in the charter of a railroad company protects it after a sale of its road, even before the terms of the sale are complied with and the title is transferred. Stevens v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 36 Minn. 467.

5. Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Maine, 96 U. S. 499; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Missouri, 122 U. S. 561. And see State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246.

(f) Due Process of Law—(See also DUE PROCESS OF LAW, vol. 6, p. 43).—The requirement of due process of law in the federal and many state constitutions¹ has its application to taxation.² The taxpayer is entitled to an opportunity to be heard.³

A statute which assumes to make void assessments valid, without making provision for a reassessment or notice and opportu-

But see International, etc., R. Co. v. State, 72 Tex. 356.

1. See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, vol. 3, p. 670; DUE PROCESS OF LAW, vol. 6, p. 43.

2. See, for the application of the rule, various subdivisions of this title, as, for example, The Tax Sale, Local Assessments, etc.

In Dundee Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Multnomah County, 19 Fed. Rep. 359, it was held that the enforcement of a tax levied under a void law is a deprivation of property without due process of law.

Notice.—A provision for the assessment of taxes, without notice or opportunity to be heard, is a deprivation of property without due process of law. San Mateo County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 8 Sawy. (U.S.) 238; Stewart v. Palmer, 74 N. Y. 183; Remsen v. Wheeler, 105 N. Y. 573. And see Tyrell v. Wheeler, 123 N. Y. 76; State v. Buchanan County, 108 Mo. 235; South Platt Land Co. v. Buffalo County, 7 Neb. 253.

A failure to require notice, in a statute authorizing a municipality to impose a tax, does not render the statute unconstitutional, but notice must nevertheless be given. Gilmore v. Hentig, 33 Kan. 156; Paulsen v. Portland, 149 U. S. 30. And see Gatch v. Des Moines, 63 Iowa 718; Williams v. Detroit, 2 Mich. 560; Cleveland v. Tripp, 13 R. I. 50; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 17 W. Va. 812; Patten v. Green, 13 Cal. 325; Baltimore v. Grand Masonic Lodge, 60 Md. 280; State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450; Rich Hill Min. Co. v. Neptune, 19 Mo. App. 438; Avant v. Flynn (S. Dak. 1891), 49 N. W. Rep. 15.

A provision for notice by publication may be sufficient to satisfy the requirement of due process of law. Lent v. Tillson, 140 U. S. 316; McEneny v. Sullivan Tp., 125 Ind. 407; Meggett v. Eau Claire, 81 Wis. 326. Personal notice is not necessary. Davies v. Los Angeles, 86 Cal. 37; Happy v. Mosher, 48 N. Y. 313.

A mere general notice to the world is not sufficient. Boorman v. Santa Barbara, 65 Cal. 313.

In Maryland, the rule was adopted that in the exercise of the taxing power, notice and opportunity to be heard is necessary. See Alberger v. Baltimore, 64 Md. 1; Baltimore v. Johns Hopkins Hospital, 56 Md. 1; Baltimore v. Scharf, 56 Md. 50; Baltimore v. Scharf, 54 Md. 499; Moale v. Baltimore, 61 Md. 225. But these decisions were overruled in this point by Ulman v. Baltimore, 72 Md. 609.

3. See Hagar v. Reclamation Dist., 111 U. S. 701; Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; Baltimore v. Johns Hopkins Hospital, 56 Md. 1; Stewart v. Palmer, 74 N. Y. 183; Matter of Union College, 129 N. Y. 308; Matter of Flower, 129 N. Y. 693; Remsen v. Wheeler, 105 N. Y. 573; Williams v. Albany County, 21 Fed. Rep. 995; McFadden v. Longham, 58 Tex. 579; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163.

Even the legislature cannot arbitrarily fix the amount of an assessment and refuse a hearing to the person assessed. Matter of Union College, 129 N. Y. 308; Matter of Flower, 129 N. Y. 643.

In Spencer v. Merchant, 100 N. Y. 585, it was held that if the owners of land received notice of the time and place for the apportionment of their assessment, it was immaterial that they were not granted a hearing as to the aggregate amount to be collected.

If one is illegally deprived of an opportunity to be heard, the defect is jurisdictional and cannot be cured by a subsequent statute. Marsh v. Chesnut, 14 Ill. 223; Billings v. Detten, 15 Ill. 218. But it may be remedied by a subsequent law giving such opportunity. Williams v. Albany County, 21 Fed. Rep. 99.

Error in Administering the Law.—Where proper provision for notice and opportunity to be heard is made, the court will not hold that the taxpayer is deprived of due process of law because of errors in the administration

nity to be heard, is within the constitutional prohibition.¹ If the opportunity to object is afforded to the taxpayer in an action for the collection of the tax, he is not deprived of his property without due process of law.²

The right to be heard does not embrace the right to a trial by jury,³ or by a judicial tribunal.⁴

(3) Restrictions in State Constitutions—(a) Equality and Uniformity.—Constitutional provisions requiring equality and uniformity of taxation exist in many states.⁵ And the provisions of the federal constitution forbidding any state to deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the law forbid of the law. Lent v. Tillson, 140 U. S. 316.

1. Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maber, 20 Blatchf. (U. S.) 141; Spencer v. Merchant, 125 U. S. 345; Slaughter v. Louisville (Ky. 1888), 8 S. W. Rep. 917. And see Matter of Flower, 129 N. Y. 643; Matter of Union College, 129 N. Y. 308; Williams v. Albany County, 21 Fed. Rep. 99. But acts providing for reassessment with notice are valid. Spencer v. Merchant, 125 U. S. 345.

2. Murdock v. Cincinnati, 44 Fed. Rep. 726; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U. S. 321; Garvin v. Daussman, 114 Ind. 429; Redwood County v. Winona, etc., Land Co., 40 Minn. 512. And see Young v. Wempe, 46 Fed. Rep. 354.

3. Cowles v. Brittain, 2 Hawks (N. Car.) 204; McCarroll v. Weeks, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 246; Hagar v. Yolo County, 47 Cal. 233; Mille Lacs County v. Morrison, 22 Minn. 178; In re McMahon, 22 N. Y. Daily Reg. 881; People v. Police Com'rs, 93 N. Y. 102; Davis v. Clinton, 55 Iowa 549; New Town Cut v. Seabrook, 2 Strobh. (S. Car.) 560; Wurts v. Hoagland, 114 U. S. 606; Pullan v. Kinsinger, 2 Abb. (U. S.) 94; Matter of Meador, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 317.

4. McMillen v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 37; Davidson v. New Orleans, 96 U. S. 108; Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 104 U. S. 78; Pullan v. Kinsinger, 2 Abb. (U. S.) 94; Greene v. Briggs, 1 Curt. (U. S.) 311; North German Lloyd Steamship Co. v. Hedden, 43 Fed. Rep. 17; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U. S. 321; Taylor v. Porter, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 146; Hoke v. Henderson, 4 Dev. (N. Car.) 15; Vanzant v. Waddel, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 260; Jones v. Perry, 10 Yerg. (Tenn.) 59; State Bank v. Cooper, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 599. And see Harris v.

Wood, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 642; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201.

In Pullan v. Kinsinger, 2 Abb. (U. S.) 94, a statute providing that no suit to restrain the assessment or collection of any authorized tax shall be maintained in any court, was held to apply to all cases where the officer has power to determine whether the thing assessed by him is liable to taxation, however erroneous his decision may be.

All that is required under any system of taxation is that the substantial and fundamental rights of the taxpayer shall be protected. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260.

It is within the power of the legislature to provide for the collection of the tax, by requiring the taxpayers to pay in advance the sum assessed against them, but affording them an opportunity afterward to be heard and have restitution of any excess. Williams v. Albany County, 21 Fed. Rep. 99. And see Palmer v. McMahon, 133 U. S. 660.

A statute giving the taxpayer a right to enjoin collection of a tax, and having its validity decided by a court of justice, furnishes due process of law, even though it requires the party to give security in advance, as in other injunction cases. McMillen v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 37.

Provision for Appeal.—Where provision is made for an appeal, due process of law is given. Yeomans v. Riddle, 84 Iowa 147.

5. See Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; People v. Bradley, 39 Ill. 130; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196; Wintz v. Girardey, 31 La. Ann. 381; Sanborn v. Rice County, 9 Minn. 273; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; Exchange Bank of Columbus v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; East Portland v. Multnomah County, 6 Oregon 62; Roup's Case, 81* Pa. St. 211; Pleuler unequal exactions of any kind, and among them that of unequal taxation.¹ Such provisions are not restrictions on the absolute power of taxation; they affect only the mode of its exercise.² They prohibit discriminations in favor of or against persons and classes, either of persons or of property, in the imposition of a tax.³ Their object is to regulate the power by such limitations and restrictions as will protect the taxpayer against unjust or arbitrary action,⁴ and conformity to their requirements is an

v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Ex p. Robinson, 12 Neb. 263; Gatlin v. Tarboro, 78 N. Car. 119; Douglass v. Harrisville, 9 W. Va. 162; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Louisiana v. Pilsbury, 105 U. S. 278; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510.

The Illinois provision is held to be merely declaratory of what the law was before its adoption. See Bureau County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 229; Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Boone County, 44 Ill. 240.

In Pennsylvania, the former constitution did not enjoin equality. Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258. But the requirement has since been made a part of the fundamental law of the state. See Roup's Case, 81* Pa. St. 211.

1. Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; San Mateo County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 13 Fed. Rep. 722; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Walker, 47 Fed. Rep. 681; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 104 U. S. 78.

This provision of the federal constitution was not intended to compel the states to adopt an iron rule of equality, or to prevent the classification of property for taxation at different rates. It is enough that there is no discrimination in favor of one as against another of the same class. Giozza v. Tiernan, 148 U. S. 657. And see Bell's Gap R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 134 U. S. 232; Home Ins. Co. v. New York, 134 U. S. 594; Pacific Express Co. v. Seibert, 142 U. S. 339.

In People v. San Francisco, etc., R. Co., 35 Cal. 606, it was held that the charges upon commerce, such as wharf and dockage charges, are to be considered as a tax, and as such are subject to constitutional provisions requiring equality and uniformity.

2. Beals v. Amador County, 35 Cal. 624; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Mayer, 28 Ohio St. 521.

Where the constitution of a state does not require a uniform method of valuation, the legislature is vested with discretion as to the method, and, unless the one adopted is clearly inadequate to secure a proper result, the courts will not interfere. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 25 Ind. 177.

3. Lehigh Iron Co. v. Lower Muncie Tp., 81 Pa. St. 482; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 494; Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289; O'Kane v. Treat, 25 Ill. 557; Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; Mason v. Lancaster, 4 Bush (Ky.) 408; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Tide-water Co. v. Coster, 18 N. J. Eq. 518; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; People v. Weaver, 100 U. S. 539; German Nat. Bank v. Kimball, 103 U. S. 732; Pelton v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 101 U. S. 143; Cummings v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 161 U. S. 153.

Corporations fall within the purview of such provisions, as well as private individuals and all other subjects of taxation. See Clark v. Mobile, 67 Ala. 217; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; Mobile v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 53 Ala. 570; Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. Downey, 127 Ill. 201; Coal Run Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; Davenport v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 633.

4. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Mayer, 28 Ohio St. 533; Zanesville v. Richards, 5 Ohio St. 589; Hamilton County v. Ohio L. Ins., etc., Co., 1 Ohio St. 563; Mobile v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 53 Ala. 570; Clark v. Mobile, 67 Ala. 217; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Northampton v. Hampshire County, 145 Mass. 108; Lumsden v. Cross, 10 Wis. 282; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; State v. Winnebago Lake, etc., R. Co., 11 Wis. 34; Weeks v. Milwaukee, 10 Wis. 242; North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666.

The object of provisions requiring equality and uniformity is to secure indispensable prerequisite to the validity of a tax imposed in a state where such a provision is in force.¹

Taxes are equal and uniform when all within the limits of the district share equal benefits therefrom, or where they are imposed uniformly upon all property or things of the same description,² and where they reach and bear with a like burden upon all the subjects selected for taxation within the jurisdiction of the taxing power.³ Absolute equality, however, is unobtainable; the approximation is all that is required.⁴ A law, the evident intent and legitimate result of which is to equalize the burden so far as the same equality between different kinds of taxable property, as that secured by the federal constitution between the states. State v. Winnebago Lake, etc., Co., 11 Wis. 35. And see Exchange Bank of Columbus v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1.

1. Sleight v. People, 74 Ill. 47; People v. Henderson, 12 Colo. 369; Northampton v. Hampshire County, 145 Mass. 108; State v. Cumberland, etc., R. Co., 40 Md. 22; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Philleo v. Hiles, 42 Wis. 527; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410.

In Douglass v. Harrisville, 9 W. Va. 162, it was held that the adoption of a constitutional provision requiring taxation to be equal and uniform throughout the state, and that all property both real and personal shall be taxed in proportion to its value, does not operate to repeal a law imposing a tax in force at the time of its adoption.

In Muscatine v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 1 Dill. (U. S.) 536, it was held that the omission to levy a proportional tax does not render void a tax upon other property liable to taxation, and that the owner of such other property cannot have a collection of taxes upon it enjoined for that reason.

Rule Applicable to Levy Only.—In Holton v. Mecklenburg County, 93 N. Car. 430, it was held that the constitutional requirement that taxes shall be uniform, applies to the levy, but not to the distribution after they are raised; and that a statute providing for a road tax is not unconstitutional because in one district it permits the tax to be paid in labor, while in another it requires it to be paid in money.

2. Smith v. Aberdeen, 25 Miss. 458; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Palmer v. Stumph, 29 Ind. 329; East Portland v. Multnomah County, 6 Oregon 63;

Norris v. Waco, 57 Tex. 635. Part of the real estate of a town cannot be taxed and the rest exempted. Dyar v. Farmington, 70 Me. 515. And see McCormack v. Patchin, 53 Mo. 33.

3. People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; Portland Bank v. Althorp, 12 Mass. 252; Smith v. Aberdeen, 25 Miss. 458; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219; Norris v. Waco, 57 Tex. 635. And see Comer v. Folsom, 13 Minn. 219.

The true rule as to equity and uniformity is that the tax must be uniform as to all persons or corporations engaged in the same business. State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575.

A tax is uniform where it operates with the same effect in all places where the subject is to be found, whether it is equally distributed throughout the country or not. Edye v. Robertson, 112 U. S. 580.

The requirement that taxes for gas, water and ferry purposes shall be assessed in equal proportions on all lots, is not answered by an assessment for gas and lamps upon all town lots by their number as they appear on the map, each for an equal sum without regard to value. State v. Reimenschneider, 39 N. J. L. 625.

4. Com. v. People's Five Cents Sav. Bank, 5 Allen (Mass.) 428; Cheshire v. Berkshire County, 118 Mass. 386; Richmond v. Scott, 48 Ind. 568; Howell v. Bristol, 8 Bush (Ky.) 493; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196; Waring v. Savannah, 60 Ga. 97; Athens v. Long, 54 Ga. 330; People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 170; Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 127; People v. Salem Tp., 20 Mich. 452; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Finley v. Philadelphia, 32 Pa. St. 381; Grim v. Weissenberg School Dist., 57 Pa. St. 433; Weber v. Reinhard, 73 Pa. St. 373; Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258. And see Carrington v. Farmington, 21 Conn. 72; Savings Bank v. New Lon- practicable, is not to be held a violation of the constitution merely because the desired end may not be reached.¹ It is only where statutes impose taxes on false and unjust principles, or which operate to produce gross inequality, that courts can declare them void;² and the want of uniformity must be the direct result of the law itself and not of the maladministration of a proper law.³

The requirement of equality and uniformity of taxation extends to cities, towns, and counties, as well as to the state;⁴ but does not require that the rate shall be uniform and equal for all purdon, 20 Conn. 117; Cook v. Burlington, 59 Iowa 251; McGregor v. Vanpel, 24 Iowa 436; Tappan v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 490; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; Comer v. Folsom, 13 Minn. 219; Ould v. Richmond, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 464.

It is no objection to a law authorizing the imposition of a tax that it works injustice in particular cases. People v. New York, etc., Dock Co., 63 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 451; Bank of Commerce v. New York, 2 Black (U. S.) 620; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351.

1. Howell v. Bristol, 8 Bush (Ky.) 493; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 170; Cheshire v. Berkshire County, 118 Mass. 386; People v. New York, etc., Dock Co., 63 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 451; Warren v. Henly, 31 Iowa, 31; Comer v. Folsom, 13 Minn. 219; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54. And see Zimmerman v. Perkiomen, etc., Turnpike Co., 81* Pa. St. 96.

Where the collection of a tax has been defeated for defects in the levy, or other proceedings not going to the right to levy the same, and some of the taxes have been voluntarily paid, a law providing for giving credits to parties paying, is not in violation of constitutional provisions requiring uniformity. Fairfield v. People, 94 Ill. 244.

Where a deficiency in the revenues of a county is afterward supplied, it will be presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that it was done in such a mode that the entire property of the county contributed its just share. Logan County v. Lincoln, 81 Ill. 156.

2. Com. v. People's Five Cents Sav. Bank, 5 Allen (Mass.) 428; Warren v. Henly, 31 Iowa, 31; Howell v. Bristol, 8 Bush (Ky.) 493; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54. And see State v. Cumberland, etc., R. Co., 40 Md. 22;

Exchange Nat. Bank v. Miller, 19 Fed. Rep. 372.

The infraction of a constitutional requirement of uniformity and equality must be palpable before the courts will declare a law unconstitutional; a substantial compliance with the requirement by the legislature is all that can be required. Sanborn v. Rice County, 9 Minn. 273.

In the absence of express legislation, an intention to tax all classes of property equally will be imputed to the legislature. Rice County v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 23 Minn. 280.

3. Dundee Mortgage, etc., Co. v. School District, 21 Fed. Rep. 151; Cummings v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 101 U. S. 153. And see State v. Maxwell, 27 La. Ann. 723.

The violation of a constitutional rule by local assessors who fail to assess property at its actual cash value, does not impair the law under which they act. Cummings v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 101 U. S. 153.

In Bureau County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 229, it was held that principles of equality and uniformity of taxation require that where the practice is to assess the property of individuals at less than the actual value, the property of a railroad company cannot be assessed at a greater per cent. of its value. See also Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Boone County, 44 Ill. 240.

4. State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. 208; Palmer v. Way, 6 Colo. 106; Brewer Brick Co. v. Brewer, 62 Me. 62; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 30 Gratt. (Va.) 484; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 599; Weeks v. Milwaukee, 10 Wis. 242; Lumsden v. Cross, 10 Wis. 282; State v. Winnebago Lake, etc., R. Co., 11 Wis. 42; Donnelly v. Decker, 58 Wis. 461; Johnson v. Milwaukee, 40 Wis. 315; Milwau- poses throughout the state;¹ but only that a uniform rate shall be established throughout the locality in which the particular tax is levied.² Nor does the requirement prohibit the creation of more than one revenue district in a single county or other political division, and the imposition of a tax in that district different from the taxes imposed throughout the rest of the state.³

kee Fire Dept. v. Helfenstein, 16 Wis. 137; Chicago v. Larned, 34 Ill. 203; Ottawa v. Spencer, 40 Ill. 211; Updike v. Wright, 81 Ill. 49; Lee v. Ruggles, 62 Ill. 427; Zanesville v. Richards, 5 Ohio St. 589; Exchange Bank of Columbus v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; State v. Reimenschneider, 39 N. J. L. 629; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510; Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666. But see Selby v. Levee Com'rs, 14 La. Ann. 437; Wallace v. Shelton, 14 La. Ann. 503; Bishop v. Marks, 15 La. Ann. 147; Surgi v. Snetchman, 11 La. Ann. 387; Second Municipality v. Duncan, 2 La. Ann. 182; Lafayette v. Cummins, 3 La. Ann. 673; Yeatman v. Crandall, 11 La. Ann. 220; Gilkeson v. Frederick, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 577; Douglass v. Harrisville, 9 W. Va. 162; Louisiana v. Pilsbury, 105 U. S. 278; Washington v. State, 13 Ark. 752; McGehee v. Mathis, 21 Ark. 40; laying down the rule that the requirement applies to state taxation only.

Constitutional provisions requiring a uniform rule of taxation are applicable to municipal corporations, notwithstanding another constitutional provision requiring the legislature in establishing them to restrict their powers of taxation, the latter provision being designed to furnish a further protection. Weeks v. Milwaukee, 10 Wis. 242.

Under the present Virginia constitution, the rule of uniformity and equality applies to counties as well as to the state. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 30 Gratt. (Va.) 484.

1. Richmond v. Scott, 48 Ind. 568; Loftin v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 85 Ind. 341; State Bank v. New Albany, 11 Ind. 139; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 43 Cal. 398; Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 89 Ga. 574; Haney v. Bartow County (Ga. 1893), 18 S. E. Rep. 28; Ottawa County v. Nelson, 19 Kan. 234; Stratton v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562; East Portland v. Multnomah County, 6 Oregon 62; Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 500; Public School Com'rs v. Alleghany County, 20 Md. 449; Daly v. Morgan, 69 Md. 460; Com. v. Macferron, 152 Pa. St. 244.

The requirement does not prevent different rates in different municipalities; the needs of different local bodies can hardly be uniform. Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Covington v. East St. Louis, 78 Ill. 545; Binkert v. Jansen, 94 Ill. 283. Nor does it prevent a different rate in a municipality from that adopted by a state. Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367. Neither do constitutional provisions that taxation shall be equal and uniform throughout the state apply as between cities, towns and villages. Douglass v. Harrisville, 9 W. Va. 162.

A pro rata tax on the length of a railroad in each township, imposed upon each respectively, does not violate constitutional provisions requiring a uniform and equal rate of assessment and a just valuation for taxation of real and personal property. Gilson v. Rush County, 128 Ind. 65.

2. Loftin v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 85 Ind. 341; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; State Bank v. New Albany, 11 Ind. 139; Cornwell v. O'Brien, 11 Ind. 419; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 355; Haney v. Bartow County (Ga. 1893), 18 S. E. Rep. 28; State v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562; Daly v. Morgan, 69 Md. 460; East Portland v. Multnomah County, 6 Oregon 62; Adams v. Lindell, 5 Mo. App. 197; Covington Draw Bridge Co. v. Warren County, 14 Ind. 331; Adamson v. Warren County, 9 Ind. 174; Douglass v. Harrisville, 9 W. Va. 162; Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666. And see Kenaga v. Kerr (Ill. 1888), 14 N. E. Rep. 671.

The rule requiring equality and uniformity of taxation does not require taxes to be imposed in different territorial sub-divisions at the same time. Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666.

3. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 43 Cal. 398; Furlock Irrigation Dist. v. Williams, 76 Cal. 360; American Union Exp. Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675;

If the tax is imposed for state purposes, it must rest alike upon all parts of the state; if for county purposes, upon the entire county; if for township or city purposes, on the whole township or city; and if for local purposes, upon the locality benefited and upon which it is imposed.¹ In order to be uniform and equal, however, local taxes must be imposed upon subjects of taxation within the jurisdiction of the taxing power;² the uniformity must be co-extensive with the territory to which it applies,³ and must Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 500; Public School Com'rs v. Alleghany County, 20 Md. 449; Greene County v. Lenoir County, 92 N. Car. 180; East Portland v. Multnomah County, 6 Oregon 62; Cook v. Portland, 20 Oregon 580; Fahey v. State, 27 Tex. App. 146. And see State v. Sauk County, 70 Wis. 485; Maltby v. Tautges (Minn. 1892), 52 N. W. Rep. 858.

Constitutional provisions requiring equality and uniformity do not take away the power to make local assessments for local improvements, proportioned according to the benefits received. Yeatman v. Crandall, 11 La. Ann. 220; Denver v. Knowles, 17 Colo. 204. And see infra, this title, Local Assessments.

1. Loftin v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 85 Ind. 341; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; Lafayette, etc., R. Co. v. Geiger, 34 Ind. 185; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; State v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562; Murray v. Lehman, 61 Miss. 283; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510; Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666; Hutchinson v. Ozark Land Co. (Ark. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 173; Hanscom v. Omaha, 11 Neb. 37; Danville v. Shelton, 76 Va. 325; Davis v. Gaines, 48 Ark. 370; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Chrisman v. Brookhaven (Miss. 1893), 12 So. Rep. 458; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Denver v. Knowles, 17 Colo. 204.

All the land in a "no fence" district should be taxed uniformly, notwithstanding the fact that the district is made up of lands from two different counties, and those in one require a greater amount of fence than those in the other. Greene County v. Lenoir County, 92 N. Car. 180.

In Hundley v. Lincoln Park, 67 Ill. 559, it was held that an assessment cannot be sustained, which was made by the authorities of two towns acting together, where, after the assessment was made, they added a large sum upon the property of one of the towns, merely on the basis of density of population and superiority of improvements.

A tax imposed upon several towns, to raise money to meet an obligation which they have voted to assume, is uniform in its operation. Gilson v. Rush County, 128 Ind. 65.

2. Wells v. Weston, 22 Mo. 384; People v. Placerville, etc., R. Co., 34 Cal. 656; People v. Townsend, 56 Cal. 633; Barton v. Kalloch, 56 Cal. 95; Covington v. Southgate, 15 B. Mon. (Ky.) 491; Morford v. Unger, 8 Iowa 82. And see Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510.

In People v. Townsend, 56 Cal. 633, it was held that it is essential that each taxing district should confine itself to the objects of taxation within its limits, in order to render taxation uniform within the qualification that the situs of personal property may be the domicile of the owner.

3. Exchange Bank of Columbus v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; Ex p. Marshall, 64 Ala. 266; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; Lafayette, etc., R. Co. v. Geiger, 34 Ind. 185; Madison County v. People, 58 Ill. 456; Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; Sleight v. People, 74 Ill. 47; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510; Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Hanscom v. Omaha, 11 Neb. 37. And see Allhands v. People, 82 Ill. 234; Harward v. St. Clair, etc., Levee, etc., Co., 51 Ill. 130; Trustees of Schools v. People, 63 Ill. 300.

Taxes imposed upon property must be proportional, and must be laid upon an assessment or valuation of all the property in the state, it being required that each individual shall be assessed according to his proportion of that extend to all property subject to taxation;¹ and the purpose of the tax must be a local one pertaining to the district taxed.² The property or business of a nonresident must not be taxed at a higher or different rate than that of a resident.³

The requirement of equality and uniformity does not preclude exemption from taxation,⁴ nor the division of things taxable property. Provident Institution v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611.

The support of the poor of a municipality is a matter of common concern, and the expense thereof must be borne by the whole corporation; and a provision requiring a part thereof to pay more than another part, is unconstitutional and void. Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410.

1. Exchange Bank of Columbus v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; Goldsmith v. Rome R. Co., 62 Ga. 473; Harward v. St. Clair, etc., Levee, etc., Co., 51 Ill. 130; Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; Sherlock v. Winnetka, 68 Ill. 530; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Boone County, 44 Ill. 240; Dunham v. Chicago, 55 Ill. 357; Trustees of Schools v. People, 63 Ill. 301; State v. Winnebago Lake, etc., Co., 11 Wis. 34; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 399; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 1; Louisiana v. Pilsbury, 105 U. S. 278; Hamilton Mfg. Co. v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 632; Provident Institution v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611. And see People v. Bradley, 39 Ill. 130; Sleight v. People, 74 Ill. 47; Allhands v. People, 82 Ill. 234; Dundee Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Multnomah County, 19 Fed. Rep. 359.

The corporate authorities of a county have no power to except a railroad from the constitutional rule of uniformity of taxation, by causing its property to be assessed at a greater per cent. of its value than that of individuals. Bureau County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 229.

All kinds of property must be taxed uniformly, or be entirely exempt. Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410.

2. People v. Salem Tp., 20 Mich. 452; Manistee Lumber Co. v. Springfield Tp., 92 Mich. 277; Sanborn v. Rice County, 9 Minn. 273; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349. See also infra, this title, Purposes of Taxation.

Apportionment of County Taxes.—In Sangamon County v. Springfield, 63

Ill. 66, it was held that a constitutional provision requiring taxes to be uniform in respect to persons and property within the jurisdiction of the body imposing the same, is not contravened by statute, requiring an apportionment of county taxes upon a certain basis between the county and city.

3. Holloway v. Police Jury, 16 La. Ann. 203; Marshalltown v. Blum, 58 Iowa 184; Simrall v. Covington (Ky.), 1890, 34 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 190; Farris v. Henderson (Okl.), 1893, 33 Pac. Rep. 380; Nashville v. Althrop, 5 Coldw. (Tenn.) 554; Duer v. Small, 4 Blatchf. (U. S.) 263. But see Jones v. Columbus, 25 Ga. 610. Such discriminations are beyond the authority of either state or municipal legislation. Nashville v. Althrop, 5 Coldw. (Tenn.) 544.

Taxing property of a resident at one time, and similar property of a nonresident at another time, is not unconstitutional for want of uniformity. Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54.

4. State v. Winnebago Lake, etc., Co., 11 Wis. 42; Green Bay, etc., Canal Co. v. Outagamie County, 76 Wis. 587; Athens v. Long, 59 Ga. 330; Waring v. Savannah, 60 Ga. 93; People v. Auditor Gen'l, 7 Mich. 84; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; High v. Shoemaker, 22 Cal. 363; State Bank v. New Albany, 11 Ind. 139; Connorsville v. State Bank, 16 Ind. 105; King v. Machsin, 17 Ind. 48; State v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 200; Mississippi Mills v. Cook, 56 Miss. 40; New Orleans v. Davidson, 30 La. Ann. 555; Louisiana State Lottery Co. v. New Orleans, 24 La. Ann. 86; New Orleans v. Fourchy, 30 La. Ann. 910; New Orleans v. Klein, 26 La. Ann. 493; Reynolds v. Police Jury, 44 La. Ann. 863; State v. Poydras, 9 La. Ann. 165; New Orleans v. Kennard, 34 La. Ann. 851; Louisiana Cotton Mfg. Co. v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 440; Leicht v. Burlington, 73 Iowa 29; Mobile v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 53 Ala. 570; State v. Winnebago into classes, and the imposition of taxes which, while bearing equally upon the different members of each class, bear unequally upon the classes in the aggregate.¹ A legislative division of this sort cannot be interfered with by the courts.² Such classification is usually based upon inherent differences in the character of the different subjects;³ thus, corporations may constitute a class by themselves for the purpose of taxation;⁴

Lake, etc., R. Co., 11 Wis. 34; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Barnes (N. Dak. 1892), 51 N. W. Rep. 386, 786; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Brewer (N. Dak. 1892), 31 N. W. Rep. 787; Louisiana v. Pilsbury, 105 U. S. 278; Williams v. Rees, 9 Biss. (U. S.) 405; Wells v. Central Vermont R. Co., 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 426; Danville v. Shelton, 76 Va. 325. And see Ferns v. Vannier, 6 Dakota 186; State v. Hennepin County, 33 Minn. 235; Columbia, etc., R. Co. v. Chilberg (Wash. 1893), 34 Pac. Rep. 163.

To be uniform, taxation need not be universal. Louisiana v. Pilsbury, 105 U. S. 278.

See generally, as to exemptions, infra, this title, Exemptions.

1. New Orleans v. Kaufman, 29 La. Ann. 283; State v. Rolle, 30 La. Ann. 991; New Orleans v. People's Bank, 32 La. Ann. 84; State v. Lathrop, 10 La. Ann. 398; State v. Ogden, 10 La. Ann. 402; Dubuque v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 Iowa 56; People v. Henderson, 12 Colo. 369; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; Hunsaker v. Wright, 30 Ill. 146; Sterling Gas Co. v. Higby, 134 Ill. 557; Levy v. Smith, 4 Fla. 154; Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289; American Union Express Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675; St. Louis v. Freivogel, 95 Mo. 533; Roup's Case, 81* Pa. St. 211; Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 429; Banger's Appeal, 109 Pa. St. 79; Com. v. Germania Brewing Co., 145 Pa. St. 83; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; Weber v. Reinhard, 73 Pa. St. 370; Kneeland v. Milwaukee, 15 Wis. 454; Dean v. Gleason, 16 Wis. 1; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; State v. Mann, 76 Wis. 469; London v. Wilmington, 78 N. Car. 109; Stratton v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562; State v. Parker, 32 N. J. L. 435; State v. Underground Cable Co. (N. J. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 581; State v. Richards, 52 N. J. L. 156; State Board v. Central R. Co., 48 N. J. L. 146; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 33 Fed. Rep.

121; Kentucky Railroad Tax Cases, 115 U. S. 322; Gibbons v. District of Columbia, 116 U. S. 404; Davenport Nat. Bank v. Board of Equalization, 123 U. S. 83. And see Louisiana Cotton Mfg. Co. v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 442; New Orleans v. Davidson, 30 La. Ann. 554; New Orleans v. Fourchy, 30 La. Ann. 910; Frontier Land, etc., Co. v. Baldwin, 3 Wyoming 764; State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 Me. 518; Pacific Express Co. v. Seibert, 44 Fed. Rep. 310; 142 U. S. 339.

If taxation is upon all of the class, either of persons or things, it matters not whether those included in it be one or many, or whether they reside in any particular locality or are scattered throughout the state. Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 494.

2. Roup's Case, 81* Pa. St. 211; Zimmerman v. Perkiomen, etc., Turnpike Co., 81* Pa. St. 96; People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 432; People v. Henderson, 12 Colo. 369; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Vasser v. George, 47 Miss. 718; Mississippi Mills v. Cook, 56 Miss. 40; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 33 Fed. Rep. 121. And see infra, this title, The Levy.

The legislature cannot designate a class of persons as special subjects of taxation because of their race or nationality. Lin Sing v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 534; In re Quong Woo, 13 Fed. Rep. 229.

Non-resident persons, however, cannot be made a class by themselves and taxed as such at a higher rate than residents. Halloway v. Police Jury, 16 La. Ann. 203.

3. See Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U. S. 321.

4. Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. Downey, 127 Ill. 201; Com. v. Brush Electric Light Co., 145 Pa. St. 147. And see Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Com. (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 410.

A statute is not unconstitutional which prescribes a different rule of taxation for railroad companies from that for individuals. State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Cincinnati, and different kinds of corporations, or corporations engaged in different kinds of business may be placed in different classes;¹ and even corporate debts may be made a distinct class and taxed as such;² but, under constitutional requirements that the property of corporations shall be taxed the same as that of individuals, the legislature may not distinguish or discriminate in favor of or against corporate property.³

The requirement of equality and uniformity is satisfied by such regulations as will secure an equal rate and a just valuation with-

etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U.S. 321. And see State Board of Assessors v. State, 48 N. J. L. 146; 24 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 546.

A statutory provision requiring all the railroad companies in the state to contribute to the salary and expenses of a state railroad commissioner, is not in contravention of the constitutional provision requiring that all taxation shall be uniform. Charlotte, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbs (S. Car. 1887), 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 464. But see Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Howe, 32 Kan. 737.

A tax upon the gross receipts of some railroad companies and upon the capital stock of others is not equal and uniform. Worth v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 83 N. Car. 291; 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 286; 45 Am. Rep. 679; Gatlin v. Tarboro, 78 N. Car. 119. But see Com. v. Brush Electric Light Co., 145 Pa. St. 147.

1. Hughes v. Cairo, 92 Ill. 339; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; Weaver v. State, 89 Ga. 639; Com. v. Germania Brewing Co., 145 Pa. St. 83; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Wright, 33 Fed. Rep. 121; Pacific Express Co. v. Seibert, 142 U. S. 339. And see State v. Liverpool, etc., Ins. Co., 40 La. Ann. 463.

Constitutional provisions conferring power upon the legislature to tax corporations by a general law uniform as to the class upon which it operates, do not prohibit the legislature from classifying corporations for taxation. La Salle, etc., R. Co. v. Donoghue, 127 Ill. 27; Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. Downey, 127 Ill. 201; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666. And see Ducat v. Chicago, 48 Ill. 173.

Foreign corporations may be made a class by themselves and taxed at a higher rate than domestic corporations. Insurance Co. v. New Orleans, 1 Woods (U. S.) 85; State v. Lathrop, 10 La. Ann. 398; Milwaukee Fire Dept. v. Helfenstein, 16 Wis. 136. But see

State Treasurer v. Auditor Gen'l, 46 Mich. 224; 13 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 296.

2. Com. v. Delaware Div. Canal Co., 123 Pa. St. 594; Com. v. Bellefonte, etc., R. Co. (Pa. 1889), 16 Atl. Rep. 593; Com. v. Bell's Gap R. Co. (Pa. 1889), 16 Atl. Rep. 593; Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Com. (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 410; Com. v. North Pa. R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 460; Com. v. Lehigh Avenue R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 405.

A tax may be imposed upon the indebtedness within the state of a foreign corporation permitted to do business in the state. Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 145 Pa. St. 38.

3. See Mobile v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 53 Ala. 570; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 391; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Kennerly, 74 Ala. 566; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 208; Davenport v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 633; Dubuque v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 Iowa 56; Bureau County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 229; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Boone County, 44 Ill. 290; Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 89 Ga. 574; State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 92 Mo. 137; State v. Board of Revenue, 73 Ala. 65; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 60 N. H. 87.

Under a constitutional provision declaring that property of all corporations for pecuniary profit shall be subject to taxation the same as that of individuals, the legislature may exempt property of a particular class, whether the owners be corporations or natural persons. But the property of corporations for pecuniary profit cannot be placed beyond the reach of the taxing power; it may not be taxed, but it must ever be taxable; it need not be subjected, but it must be subject to taxation, the same as that of individuals. Mississippi Mills v. Cook, 56 Miss. 40. See generally TAXATION (CORPORATE).

out reference to the mode of valuation;¹ and, in order to be uniform, a tax need not be imposed and assessed upon all property by the same agency or officer.²

The principles here dealt with appertain to general taxation, and not to local assessments³ or occupation taxes.⁴ The effect of constitutional requirements of equality and uniformity on exemptions, and the power to exempt is dealt with elsewhere.⁵

1. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 25 Ind. 177; Sterling Gas Co. v. Higby, 134 Ill. 557; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196; People v. Henderson, 12 Colo. 369; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 7 Kan. 210; Ottawa County v. Nelson, 19 Kan. 234; Francis v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 19 Kan. 307; Shotwell v. Moore, 45 Ohio St. 632; State v. Severance, 55 Mo. 378; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 663; People v. New York, etc., Dock Co., 11 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 40; Virginia v. Chollar Potosi, etc., Co., 2 Nev. 86; Wagoner v. Loomis, 37 Ohio St. 671; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Lincoln County, 57 Wis. 137; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U. S. 321; Apperson v. Memphis, 2 Flip. (U. S.) 363; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 115 U. S. 321; Exchange Nat. Bank v. Miller, 19 Fed. Rep. 372; Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 59. But this doctrine does not apply to an international discrimination. Exchange Nat. Bank v. Miller, 19 Fed. Rep. 372.

In determining how this end shall be secured, the legislature must exercise a discretion, and unless the method adopted is clearly inadequate to secure the result, the courts cannot interfere. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 25 Ind. 177.

Provisions authorizing boards of equalization to change assessments, do not contravene constitutional provisions requiring a just and uniform rule of valuation. Smith v. Kelly (Oregon, 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 642.

An ad valorem tax imposed upon the property of a railroad, at the same rate as that imposed upon other property in the county, and a tax in addition thereupon its rolling stock and other floating or unlocated property, corresponding to the ratio between its property located in a given county and the aggregate of its located property in all the counties through which the road runs, does not violate constitutional provisions requiring all taxation to be uniform upon the same class of subjects and ad valorem on all property taxed. Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 89 Ga. 574; Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. State, 89 Ga. 597. And see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Siders, 88 Ill. 320.

2. Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196; Missouri Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County, 74 Iowa 283; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 625; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 609; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 81 Ky. 492; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 7 Kan. 210; Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 89 Ga. 574; Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. State, 89 Ga. 597; Sawyer v. Dooley (Nev. 1893), 32 Pac. Rep. 437; San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. State Board, 60 Cal. 12; Central Pac. R. Co. v. State Board, 60 Cal. 35; Com. v. Delaware Div. Canal Co., 123 Pa. St. 594; Coal Ridge Imp., etc., Co. v. Jennings, 127 Pa. St. 397; Shenandoah Valley R. Co. v. Clark County, 78 Va. 269; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; Sterling Gas Co. v. Higby, 134 Ill. 557; Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. People, 138 Ill. 336.

In Central Iowa R. Co. v. Wright County, 67 Iowa 199, it was held that a provision for the assessment of a railroad company every year, while other property is assessed every alternate year, is not unconstitutional.

In Dunham v. Cox, 44 N. J. Eq. 273, it was held that an act providing for the assessment of mortgages made to the chancellor in his official capacity, when there is no provision for the taxation of mortgages made to other officers of the court, is in violation of a constitutional provision requiring property to be assessed under general laws and by uniform rules.

See infra, this title, The Assessment.
3. See infra, this title, Local Assessments.

4. See infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.

5. See infra, this title, Exemptions.

(b) Taxation by Value.—It is required usually that property be taxed according to its value; this to secure equality and uniformity.¹ Constitutions sometimes require this in express terms,² and, where such constitutional provisions exist, statutes laying taxes on any other basis than that of the value of the property taxed, are void.³

Arbitrary or artificial values may not be attached to property, nor may arbitrary or artificial rules for the estimation of values be adopted.⁴

The listing and valuation of different classes of property, in different modes and by different agencies, does not necessarily

1. See Savings, etc., Soc. v. Austin, 46 Cal. 415; State v. County Court, 19 Ark. 360; Augusta v. National Bank, 47 Ga. 562; New Orleans v. Fourchy, 30 La. Ann. 910; State v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 45 Md. 361; St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. 562; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; Hamilton v. St. Louis Co. Ct., 15 Mo. 5; Exchange Bank of Columbus v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1.

2. See St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; Mobile v. Royal, etc., R. Co., 45 Ala. 322; Clark v. Mobile, 67 Ala. 217; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; McGehee v. Mathis, 21 Ark. 40; Hyatt v. Allen, 54 Cal. 353; O'Kane v. Treat, 25 Ill. 557; People v. Bradley, 39 Ill. 130; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 645; State v. South Carolina R. Co., 4 S. Car. 376; Mississippi Mills v. Cook, 56 Miss. 40; Adams v. Somerville, 2 Head (Tenn.) 363; Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Douglass v. Harrisville, 9 W. Va. 162; Creamer v. Allen, 3 Mo. App. 545; St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468.

Provision Self-Executing.—In Hyatt v. Allen, 54 Cal. 353, it was held that the constitutional provision that all the property in the state, not exempt under the laws of the United States, shall be taxed in proportion to its value to be ascertained as provided by law, does not require subsequent legislation to enforce it, but is self-executing.

3. Livingston v. Albany, 41 Ga. 21; Augusta v. National Bank, 47 Ga. 562; Peay v. Little Rock, 32 Ark. 31; Doster v. Sterling, 33 Kan. 381; St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468; Hamilton v. St. Louis Co. Ct., 15 Mo. 5; State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; Life Association v. St. Louis County, 49 Mo. 512; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. State, 49 Ohio St. 189; State v. South Carolina R. Co., 4

S. Car. 376; Danville v. Shelton, 76 Va. 325.

In Life Association v. St. Louis County, 49 Mo. 512, it was held that the provision of the new Missouri constitution that all property subject to taxation ought to be taxed in proportion to its value, is a prohibition against taxation in any other mode, the word "ought" not being directory, but mandatory.

In Taggart v. Sanilac County, 71 Mich. 16, it was held that a provision requiring mortgages to be reported for assessment, does not violate a constitutional provision that all assessments shall be on property at its cash value, the assessing officer being required to determine the cash value of a mortgage as well as any other personalty.

In Livingston v. Albany, 41 Ga. 21, it was held that a tax upon the sale of horses or mules, or upon horses or mules sold, was a tax on the property, and must be imposed in proportion to the value of the property taxed.

4. Assessment Board v. Alabama Cent. R. Co., 59 Ala. 551; Cheshire v. Berkshire County, 118 Mass. 386; Gillespie v. Pittsburgh, 138 Pa. St. 401. And see Williams v. Bettie, 51 N. J. L. 512; In re House Bill, 9 Colo. 635; Mississippi Mills v. Cook, 56 Miss. 40; Taggart v. Sanilac County, 71 Mich. 16.

The assessors must ascertain the value in the manner provided by law. Hyatt v. Allen, 54 Cal. 353.

An arbitrary requirement as to valuation is also in conflict with provisions requiring equality and uniformity of taxation. In re Pittsburgh, 138 Pa. St. 401.

In Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Carteret County, 75 N. Car. 474, it was held that a statute providing that railroad beds listed for taxation should not be valued at less than $8,000 per mile, conflict with the requirement; ¹ nor need all the property in the state be taxed, but only every species of property selected for taxation in proportion to its value.²

Such a constitutional provision does not prohibit the raising of revenue from other sources than that of property taxation,³ as, for example, on occupations or privileges, or from licenses,⁴ or incomes.⁵ So assessments for local improvements are outside the rule.⁶

(c) Double Taxation.—In the absence of constitutional restrictions, double taxation is within the power of the state.⁷ Some constiwithout regard to their real value, was unconstitutional.

1. German Nat. Bank v. Kimball, 103 U. S. 732; Weaver v. State, 89 Ga. 639; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 25 Ind. 178; Wagoner v. Loomis, 37 Ohio St. 571; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37.

A constitutional provision that property shall be taxed in proportion to its value to be ascertained as directed by law, does not require the value to be found after the rate of taxation is fixed, and the tax may be levied either before or after the value of the property is ascertained. People v. Latham, 52 Cal. 598.

2. State v. North, 27 Mo. 464; Hamilton v. St. Louis Co. Ct., 15 Mo. 5; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 645; Verdery v. Summerville, 82 Ga. 138; Savannah v. Weed, 84 Ga. 683; Mississippi Mills v. Cook, 56 Miss. 40; Stratton v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562; Williamson v. Massey, 33 Gratt. (Va.) 241. But see Crow v. State, 14 Mo. 180; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Walker, 47 Fed. Rep. 681.

A requirement that all property shall be taxed at its value in money does not prohibit or render void a transfer of an immunity from taxation attaching to property by the owner to another. State v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 21 Minn. 315.

3. American Union Express Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 479; Washington v. State, 13 Ark. 752; Macon v. Macon Sav. Bank, 60 Ga. 133; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 645; Davis v. Macon, 64 Ga. 128; State v. Lancaster County, 4 Neb. 537; Charlotte, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbs (S. Car. 1887), 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 464.

In St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468, it was said that there is perhaps no state which does not levy other taxes than those imposed upon property.

4. St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468; People v. Thurber, 13 Ill. 554; Cole v. Hall, 103 Ill. 30.

See infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.

5. Waring v. Savannah, 60 Ga. 99; Charlotte, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbs (S. Car. 1887), 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 464.

6. See infra, this title, Local Assessments.

7. West Chester Gas Co. v. Chester County, 30 Pa. St. 232; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 77; Erie R. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 84; School Directors v. Carlisle Bank, 8 Watts (Pa.) 291; Ryan v. Leavenworth County, 30 Kan. 185; State v. Newark, 25 N. J. L. 315; U. S. v. Benzon, 2 Cliff. (U. S.) 512; Reclamation District v. Hagar, 6 Sawy. (U. S.) 567; Davidson v. New Orleans, 96 U. S. 97. See also Toll Bridge Co. v. Osborn, 35 Conn. 7; St. Louis Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. St. Louis County, 56 Mo. 503; Holton v. Bangor, 23 Me. 264; Augusta Bank v. Augusta, 36 Me. 255; Com. v. New England, etc., Co., 13 Allen (Mass.) 393; State v. Chambersburg, 37 N. J. L. 258; State v. Newark, 25 N. J. L. 315; Ebervale Coal Co. v. Com., 91 Pa. St. 47; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 73; New Orleans v. Houston, 119 U. S. 265; Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 129; Jones, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Com., 69 Pa. St. 137; Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258.

In Alabama, the owner of property, both real and personal, is required to return for assessment what he owns, on the first day of January in each year, which is the date at which the tax year begins; and the tax on salaries, incomes, gains, etc., is required to be given in, assessed, and paid, the year after they accrue, thus apparently, though not actually, making double tutions, however, prohibit it.¹ Whether double taxation is prohibited or not, if the language of the statute imposing the tax is indefinite, the courts will construe it in such a manner as to avoid that result, a construction which will subject property to double taxation not being permissible unless required by the express words of the statute or by necessary implication.²

Prohibitions against double taxation apply to property taxes based upon value;³ not to taxes on franchises,⁴ or in-taxes on the same property in the same year. Board of Revenue v. Montgomery Gas Light Co., 64 Ala. 269.

The legislature has the power to impose double taxation, provided it is done in such manner as to secure the uniformity which the constitution requires; but an attempt to impose double taxation will not be presumed. Com. v. Fall Brook Coal Co., 156 Pa. St. 488.

1. Frederick County v. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank, 48 Md. 116; State v. Cumberland, etc., R. Co., 40 Md. 22; State v. Central Sav. Bank, 67 Md. 290; Alexandria Canal, etc., Bridge Co. v. District of Columbia, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 217; State v. Jersey City, 46 N. J. L. 194; People v. Badlam, 57 Cal. 594; San Francisco v. Mackey, 21 Fed. Rep. 539; 22 Fed. Rep. 602.

2. Toll-Bridge Co. v. Osborn, 35 Conn. 7; Savings Bank v. New London, 20 Conn. 111; Osborn v. New York, etc., R. Co., 40 Conn. 491; Board of Revenue v. Montgomery Gas Light Co., 64 Ala. 269; People v. Tax Com'rs, 95 N. Y. 554; Tallman v. Butler, 12 Iowa 531; Cook v. Burlington, 59 Iowa 251; U. S. Express Co. v. Ellyson, 28 Iowa 378; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 37 Mo. 265; State v. Ross, 23 N. J. Eq. 517; State v. Thomas, 26 N. J. L. 181; Salem Iron, etc., Co. v. Danvers, 10 Mass. 514; Boston Water Power Co. v. Boston, 9 Met. (Mass.) 202; Boston, etc., Glass Co. v. Boston, 4 Met. (Mass.) 181; Worcester County Sav. Inst. v. Worcester, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 128; Conwell v. Connorsville, 15 Ind. 150; State v. Chambersburg, 37 N. J. L. 258; State v. Branin, 23 N. J. L. 484; Gardner, etc., Factory Co. v. Gardner, 5 Me. 133; Com. v. Fall Brook Coal Co., 156 Pa. St. 488; Bank of Georgia v. Savannah, 1 Dudley (Ga.) 130; Rome R. Co. v. Rome, 14 Ga. 275; Rice County v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 23 Minn. 280; Gordon v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 231; American Bank v. Mumford, 4 R. I. 482; Providence Sav. Inst. v. Gardiner, 4 R.

I. 484; Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 129. And see Amesbury, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Amesbury, 17 Mass. 461; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 72 Ill. 144; New Orleans v. Houston, 119 U. S. 265; Coatesville Gas Co. v. Chester County, 97 Pa. St. 476.

A depot company is not liable for taxes on its gross earnings when the railway companies, which own all the stock and use the terminal facilities of the depot company, have paid such taxes on their gross earnings, their payment constituting payment on all the property of the depot company. State v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 42 Minn. 142.

Where property which is realty, at common law is assessed as personalty, it will be presumed that it was not included in the valuation of the realty to which it is attached. Johnson v. Roberts, 102 Ill. 655.

3. Society for Savings v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 594; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 645; Livingston v. Paducah, 80 Ky. 656.

4. See Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561; Carbon Iron Co. v. Carbon County, 39 Pa. St. 251; Lackawanna Iron, etc., Co. v. Luzerne County, 42 Pa. St. 424; Bridgeport v. Bishop, 33 Conn. 187; Nashua Sav. Bank v. Nashua, 46 N. H. 389; Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 64 N. Car. 226; Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 509; 40 Am. Rep. 99; Com. v. New England Slate, etc., Co., 13 Allen (Mass.) 391; Tremont Bank v. Boston, 1 Cush. (Mass.) 142; Com. v. Lowell Gas Light Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 75; Com. v. Hamilton Mfg. Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 298; Hamilton Mfg. Co. v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 632; Bank of Commerce v. New York, 2 Black (U. S.) 620; Mason v. Lancaster, 4 Bush (Ky.) 406; Monroe Sav. Bank v. Rochester, 37 N. Y. 365. See also State v. Central Sav. Bank, 67 Md. 290.

In Louisville City R. Co. v. Louis-

comes,¹ or successions,² or privileges.³ So taxing credits or incumbrances when the property upon which they are secured is also taxed;⁴ or goods or property for which the owner is indebted, while the indebtedness is taxed to the creditor;⁵ or deposits to the depositor, while the moneys deposited are also taxed to the bank,⁶ are not usually deemed to be objectionable, as double taxation. It has been held that the aggregate tax upon the different interests in the same piece of property should not exceed that which might have been imposed upon an owner in whom all the interests are united.⁷ Taxing property to the trustee, however, and also to the cestui que trust,⁸ or to the bailee and also to the bailor,⁹ constitute double taxation.

It is not double taxation within constitutional prohibitions to tax the same thing in two jurisdictions, where each has the right ville, 4 Bush (Ky.) 478, it was held that the payment by a railroad company to the city of a certain sum annually, on each car used within it, which secures to the company certain franchises, is not a tax, and does not exonerate the company from the payment of an ad valorem tax upon its property which was assessable by statute for municipal purpose. See TAXATION (CORPORATE)—Double Taxation.

1. Lott v. Hubbard, 44 Ala. 593; Board of Revenue v. Montgomery Gas Light Co., 64 Ala. 269; Wilcox v. Middlesex County, 103 Mass. 544; Memphis v. Ensley, 6 Baxt. (Tenn.) 553; Union Bank v. State, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 490.

2. Eyre v. Jacob, 14 Gratt. (Va.) 422. See SUCCESSION TAXES, vol. 24, p. 431.

3. See infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.

4. See Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78; Toll-Bridge Co. v. Osborn, 35 Conn. 7; Taggart v. Sanilac County, 71 Mich. 16; People v. Rhodes, 15 Ill. 304; Nashua Sav. Bank v. Nashua, 46 N. H. 389; State v. Carson City Sav. Bank, 17 Nev. 146; Augusta Bank v. Augusta, 36 Me. 255; Philadelphia Sav. Fund Soc. v. Yard, 9 Pa. St. 359. But see to the contrary, Savings, etc., Soc. v. Austin, 46 Cal. 415.

In Lick v. Austin, 43 Cal. 590, it was held that where land subject to a mortgage is taxed, and the debt thereby secured is also taxed, and the tax on the debt is paid by the mortgagee, the mortgagor cannot complain of double taxation; nor can the assessor in assessing land deduct from its value the amount due on mortgages, by which it is incumbered, and call the remainder its assessed value.

In Sivwright v. Pierce, 108 Ill. 133, it was held that when one has been taxed in one town for his personal property, including his credits, an assessment against him in another town for his credits will be enjoined.

5. Augusta Bank v. Augusta, 36 Me. 255. And see People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 171.

6. See Yuba County v. Adams, 7 Cal. 35; Savings Bank v. New London, 20 Conn. 111; New Orleans v. New Orleans Canal, etc., Co., 29 La. Ann. 851; 32 La. Ann. 157. But see State v. Central Sav. Bank, 67 Md. 290.

Taxes upon deposits have been held to be taxes upon a franchise, and not upon property. See Society for Savings v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 594; Provident Institution v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611.

7. Logan v. Washington County, 29 Pa. St. 373. And see Taggart v. Sanilac County, 71 Mich. 16; Daugherty v. Thompson, 71 Tex. 192; State v. Taylor, 72 Tex. 297.

When a lessee has an estate which amounts to an interest in the realty, he should be assessed on the comparative value of his estate, having reference to the character of the lease and to the value of the whole as assessed for taxation. Cincinnati College v. Yeatman, 30 Ohio St. 276.

8. People v. Badlam, 57 Cal. 594; Savings, etc., Soc. v. Austin, 46 Cal. 415; Berry v. Windham, 59 N. H. 288; Robinson v. Dover, 59 N. H. 521; Augusta Sav. Bank v. Augusta, 56 Me. 176. And see State v. Central Sav. Bank, 67 Md. 290.

9. Waltham Bank v. Waltham, 10 Met. (Mass.) 334; Tremont Bank v. Boston, 1 Cush. (Mass.) 142.

to tax it;¹ nor is a tax for general purposes and another for a special purpose necessarily objectionable;² nor does the imposition of a burden which is not a tax, as, for example, an inspection fee or a toll, in addition to the general tax, constitute double taxation.³

(d) Rate of Taxation.⁴—Constitutional limitations of the rate of taxation are self-executing,⁵ a tax in excess of the prescribed limit being void.⁶ But constitutional provisions permitting or requir-

1. See Coe v. Errol, 116 U. S. 517; Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54; Hilgenberg v. Wilson, 55 Ind. 210; Gordon v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 231; People v. Davenport, 25 Hun (N.Y.) 630; People v. Tax Com'rs, 26 Hun (N. Y.) 446; St. Joseph v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. 476; Dyer v. Osborne, 11 R. I. 321.

In Hilgenberg v. Wilson, 55 Ind. 210, it was held that an owner of personal property who is assessed thereon for state and county purposes may be afterwards assessed upon the same property for city purposes upon his removing into the city before the time at which the city taxes are imposed. See also Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54.

Provisions of law requiring railroads to be taxed in different counties in such proportion as the main tract used in each county bears to the whole length of the road, do not import into the state, valuations belonging to property in another state, so as to constitute double taxation. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 513; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 609.

2. See Drysdale v. Pradat, 45 Miss. 445.

This rule is repeatedly acted upon in the imposition of local assessments and special taxation upon property taxed for general purposes. See infra, this title, Local Assessments; Municipal Taxation.

Change of Form of Property.—The fact that lands on which logs are grown are assessed for taxation in May, and the logs cut thereon are assessed for taxation in the following April, does not render the tax on the logs a second tax. Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54.

3. Vanmeter v. Spurrier (Ky. 1893), 21 S. W. Rep. 337. And see State v. Charleston, 4 Rich. (S. Car.) 286.

4. See also as to the rate of taxation, and as to restrictions upon the amount imposed, infra, this title, The Levy; Municipal Taxation.

5. St. Joseph Board, etc. v. Patten, 62 Mo. 444; Laycock v. Baton Rouge, 36 La. Ann. 328; Ketchum v. Pacific R. Co., 22 Int. Rev. Rec. 383.

Such provisions are self-executing, even though they contain a proviso allowing the rate to be increased by legislative action on certain conditions. St. Joseph Board, etc. v. Patten, 62 Mo. 444. But when the rate of such increase and the purpose for which it is intended shall have been submitted to a vote of the people, and two-thirds of the qualified voters shall vote therefor, it requires legislation to enforce it, and without such legislation it is nugatory. State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo. 163.

6. See Trull v. Madison County, 72 N. Car. 388; Elyton Land Co. v. Birmingham, 89 Ala. 477; People v. Scott, 9 Colo. 422; Cleveland v. Heasley, 41 Ohio St. 670; State v. Carri-tuck Co., 107 N. Car. 110; Ex p. Schmidt, 2 Tex. App. 196.

A tax in excess of the limit prescribed by the constitution is not validated by the fact that it was levied pursuant to an order of court. Black v. McGonigle, 103 Mo. 192.

An injunction is the proper remedy to prevent the collection of a tax levied in excess of the legal limit, but the court will require the complainant to pay such part of the tax as is confessedly due before granting it. Overall v. Ruenzi, 67 Mo. 203.

In Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145, it was held, under a constitutional provision limiting county taxes to double the state tax, that a county tax more than double that of the state is not prima facie invalid on that account, since there are exceptional cases in which such tax would be authorized; and that the courts will presume, in the absence of rebutting evidence, that such a case has arisen, under the maxim omnia præsumuntur rite esse acta.

ing the legislature to restrict the power to tax are not self-executing,¹ and a failure on the part of the legislature to obey such a requirement lays no foundation for judicial correction.²

As a general rule, the restrictions thus imposed apply only to taxes levied to meet the ordinary expenses of government,³ and provisions which merely restrict the manner or mode of taxation do not affect the rate or valuation.⁴

Provisions limiting the amount of indebtedness which may be contracted by a state or a municipal division are also restrictions upon the power to tax,⁵ the restriction entering into and forming

1. See Hill v. Higden, 5 Ohio St. 248; St. Joseph Board, etc. v. Patten, 62 Mo. 444; People v. Mahaney, 13 Mich. 481; Bank of Rome v. Rome, 18 N. Y. 38.

Such provisions are designed to give further protection in addition to that furnished by the rule requiring uniformity and equality. Weeks v. Milwaukee, 10 Wis. 242.

Such provisions do not prevent an enactment prohibiting the courts from vacating or reducing assessments for local improvements, except to reduce them to the extent beyond which they are increased by fraud or irregularity, and prohibiting in any event the disturbance of that portion of an assessment which is equivalent to the fair value of the improvement. Matter of Mead, 74 N. Y. 216.

In Hines v. Leavenworth, 3 Kan. 186, it was held that a statute requiring the cost of paving streets to be assessed upon the adjacent property to the middle of the block, was a compliance with a constitutional requirement that every law upon the subject of taxation should contain a restriction.

In Townsend v. New York, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 363, it was held that a statutory provision constituting the mayor and comptroller, president of the board of aldermen, and president of the department of taxes of New York City, a board of estimates and apportionment, to certify to the county supervisors the amount necessary to raise by tax in the city for county purposes, was a sufficient compliance with a constitutional requirement that the power to tax by municipal corporations should be restricted.

2. Hill v. Higden, 5 Ohio St. 248; Maloy v. Marietta, 11 Ohio St. 636; Northern Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Connelly, 10 Ohio St. 159; St. Joseph Board, etc. v. Patten, 62 Mo. 444; Peo- ple v. Mahaney, 13 Mich. 481; Bank of Rome v. Rome, 18 N. Y. 38.

3. Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 115; Powder River Cattle Co. v. Johnson County, 3 Wyoming 597; U. S. v. Muscatine, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 575. And see Bond Debt Cases 12 S. Car. 200.

Under a constitutional provision limiting the whole tax levy for the purposes of state and county governments, the right of the state to tax is paramount, and counties can levy taxes only to the extent that the power to tax has not been exhausted by the levy of the state. State v. Currituck County, 107 N. Car. 110. See also Young v. Henderson, 76 N. Car. 420.

The Louisiana constitutional limitation upon the rate of taxation applies not only to the ordinary expenses or purposes of municipal government, but to all taxes levied by municipalities for any purpose whatever. State v. New Orleans, 32 La. Ann. 709.

The North Carolina constitution, establishing an equation of taxation, does not restrict the power of state taxation to meet the interest of the public debt, nor does it restrict the power of county taxation to meet the interest of the debt of the county, and such taxation does not require the special approval of the general assembly. University R. Co. v. Holden, 63 N. Car. 410; Pegram v. Cleveland County, 64 N. Car. 557.

The Colorado provision includes taxes for the support of state institutions. People v. Scott, 9 Colo. 422.

4. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Binkert v. Jansen, 94 Ill. 283.

5. See Nongues v. Douglass, 7 Cal. 65; Graham v. Parham, 32 Ark. 676; Holland v. State, 15 Fla. 455; Kimball v. Com'rs, 21 Fed. Rep. 145.

Neither the legislature of the state, a part of the contract under which the indebtedness is incurred;¹ and a tax imposed for the payment of an indebtedness in excess of the limit is void.² But taxes for the payment of debts contracted prior to the adoption of the restriction,³ may be laid without regard to the constitutional limitation.

(e) Form of the Enactment.—(See STATUTES, vol. 23, pp. 140, 258.)

3. Restriction by Treaty—(See also TREATIES).—State laws imposing taxation, which are repugnant to treaty stipulations made pursuant to the federal constitution under authority of the United States, are inoperative and void,⁴ but congressional legislation is not restrained by treaty provisions.⁵

4. Legislative Exercise of Power—a. THE LEGISLATIVE FUNCTION.—The power to tax is a legislative power.⁶ If its exercise is intrusted to a judicial body, the action of such body is quasi nor the federal courts can direct or force a county to make a valid levy in excess of the limit. Graham v. Parham, 32 Ark. 676.

1. State v. Shortridge, 56 Mo. 176; Klein v. Kinkad, 16 Nev. 194. And see Louisiana v. Jefferson Police Jury, 116 U. S. 135.

2. See People v. Kings County, 52 N. Y. 565; Trull v. Madison County, 72 N. Car. 388; Mauney v. Montgomery County, 71 N. Car. 486.

A resident and taxpayer of a municipality has such an interest in its affairs, as to entitle him to enjoin it from incurring indebtedness in excess of the amount limited by law. Springfield v. Edwards, 84 Ill. 626.

3. Trull v. Madison County, 72 N. Car. 388; French v. New Hanover County, 74 N. Car. 692; Street v. Craven County, 70 N. Car. 644; Mauney v. Montgomery County, 71 N. Car. 486; Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Haughton v. Jones County, 70 N. Car. 466; Brothens v. Currituck County, 70 N. Car. 726; Pegram v. Cleveland County, 64 N. Car. 557; Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435; State v. New Orleans, 29 La. Ann. 863; Saloy v. New Orleans, 33 La. Ann. 79; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Pope County v. Sloan, 92 Ill. 177.

In State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120, it was held that the Missouri constitutional limitation as to the rate of levy for taxes applies only to years subsequent to its adoption, and does not affect levies made after its adoption for years prior thereto.

4. See Ware v. Hylton, 3 Dall. (U. S.) 199; Cherokee Tobacco v. U. S., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 616; Pollard v. Kibby, 14 Pet. (U. S.) 353; Rhode Island v. Massachusetts, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 667; Crane v. Reeder, 25 Mich. 303; Fellows v. Denniston, 23 N. Y. 420; Gordon v. Kerr, 1 Wash. (U. S.) 322.

5. See Ropes v. Clinch, 8 Blatchf. (U. S.) 304; Cherokee Tobacco v. U. S., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 616; Talbot v. Seaman, 1 Cranch (U. S.) 1; Ware v. Hylton, 3 Dall. (U. S.) 199; U. S. v. Tobacco Factory, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 264; Foster v. Wilson, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 314; Taylor v. Merton, 2 Curt. (U. S.) 454; The Clinton Bridge, 1 Woolw. (U. S.) 155; Turner v. American Baptist Missionary Union, 5 McLean (U. S.) 344; Chinese Exclusion Case, 130 U. S. 581; Head Money Cases, 112 U. S. 580; Whitney v. Robinson, 124 U. S. 190; Edye v. Robertson, 112 U. S. 580. And see generally TREATIES.

6. Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 147; Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Houghton v. Austen, 47 Cal. 646; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; San José v. San José, etc., R. Co., 53 Cal. 475; McVeagh v. Chicago, 49 Ill. 318; People v. Morgan, 90 Ill. 558; Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561; Eurigh v. People, 79 Ill. 214; Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 130; People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 174; People v. Salomon, 51 Ill. 37; Stewart v. Polk County, 30 Iowa 9; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Auditor v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 6 Kan. 500; Baltimore v. State, 15 Md. 376; American Union Express Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675; St. Louis v. Laughlin, 49 Mo. 559; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 479; Gibson v. Mason, 5 Nev. 283; Youngblood v.

legislative.¹ This general rule embraces time, occasion, and extent,² as well as the subjects upon which the power is brought Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; Warren v. Grand Haven, 30 Mich. 24; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; State v. Rahway, 43 N. J. L. 338; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; People v. Flagg, 46 N. Y. 401; Gorden v. Cornes, 47 N. Y. 608; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; Lima v. McBride, 34 Ohio St. 338; Board of Education v. McLandsborough, 36 Ohio St. 227; State v. Franklin County, 35 Ohio St. 458; Scovill v. Cleveland, 1 Ohio St. 126; State v. Ha-good, 13 S. Car. 46; Morton v. Comptroller General, 4 S. Car. 430; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Hope v. Deaderick, 8 Humph. (Tenn.) 1; Waterhouse v. Cleveland Public Schools, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 398; Luehrman v. Taxing District, 2 Lea (Tenn.) 443; Wells v. Board of Education, 20 W. Va. 157; Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 615; M'Culloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Heine v. Levee Com'rs, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 655; U. S. v. New Orleans, 98 U. S. 381; New Orleans Waterworks Co. v. Louisiana Sugar, etc., Co., 125 U. S. 18; U. S. v. New Orleans, 103 U. S. 358; U. S. v. New Orleans, 2 Woods (U. S.) 230; Society for Savings v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 606.

In Yellowstone County v. Northern Pac. R. Co. (Mont. 1891), 25 Pac. Rep. 1058, it was held that the addition of a strip of land to a county for judicial purposes does not confer upon the county the right to tax it, as the power to tax is an executive and not a judicial power.

1. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 46. And see St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Ark. 323; Housman v. Montgomery, 58 Mich. 364; State v. Paterson, 49 N. J. L. 380; Philadelphia Assoc., etc. v. Wood, 39 Pa. St. 73; Baldwin v. Shine, 84 Ky. 502; Heine v. Levee Com'rs, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 655; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Delaware Railroad Tax Cases, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206.

In Baldwin v. Shine, 84 Ky. 502, it was held that the county judge, in assessing property under the Kentucky statute, acts ministerially and not judicially.

2. See Ex p. Newman, 9 Cal. 502; Blanding v. Burr, 13 Cal. 343; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; Lyon v. Morris, 15 Ga. 480; Loughbridge v. Har- ris, 42 Ga. 500; Linton v. Athens, 53 Ga. 588; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 418; Bank of the Republic v. Hamilton County, 21 Ill. 53; Cleghorn v. Postlewaite, 43 Ill. 428; Darling v. Gunn, 50 Ill. 424; Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 576; Wright v. Defress, 8 Ind. 298; Bankhead v. Brown, 25 Iowa 540; Anderson v. Mayfield (Ky. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 598; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; State v. Maxwell, 27 La. Ann. 722; Coburn v. Richardson, 16 Mass. 213; Com. v. People's, etc., Sav. Bank, 5 Allen (Mass.) 428; Lowell v. Oliver, 8 Allen (Mass.) 247; Cushing v. Newburyport, 10 Met. (Mass.) 508; Sears v. Cottrell, 5 Mich. 251; Baltimore v. State, 15 Md. 376; Robertson v. State Land Com'rs, 44 Mich. 274; Sheley v. Detroit, 45 Mich. 431; Hamilton v. St. Louis County Ct., 15 Mo. 5; State v. St. Louis County Ct., 34 Mo. 546; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 489; State v. Hays, 49 Mo. 604; Hannibal v. Marion County, 69 Mo. 571; Bradshaw v. Omaha, 1 Neb. 16; Gibson v. Mason, 5 Nev. 283; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Ex p. Spinney, 10 Nev. 323; Concord R. Co. v. Greely, 17 N. H. 47; Guilford v. Chenango County, 13 N. Y. 143; People v. Draper, 15 N. Y. 545; Matter of Townsend, 39 N. Y. 174; Genet v. Brooklyn, 99 N. Y. 296; Matter of McPherson, 104 N. Y. 306; De Camp v. Eveland, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 81; Clarke v. Rochester, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 446; Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 560; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; Cowles v. Brittain, 2 Hawks (N. Car.) 204; Hill v. Higdon, 5 Ohio St. 248; North Indiana R. Co. v. Conneley, 10 Ohio St. 165; King v. Portland, 2 Oregon 154; McGregor v. Montgomery, 4 Pa. St. 237; Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 261; Philadelphia v. Field, 58 Pa. St. 320; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491; Henry v. Horstick, 9 Watts (Pa.) 412; State v. Allen, 2 McCord (S. Car.) 55; God-din v. Crump, 8 Leigh (Va.) 154; In re Powers, 25 Vt. 265; Lusher v. Scites, 4 W. Va. 11; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 164; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Martin v. Hunter, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 326; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; Ex p. McCardle, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 514; Philadelphia, etc., to bear¹ and the mode in which it is carried into effect.² The only security against the abuse of the power is found in constitutional limitations and in the responsibility of the members of the legislature to their constituents.³

Executive and ministerial officers may enforce tax laws, but

R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (Foreign Held Bond Cases), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; State Tax on Railway Gross Receipts, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 296; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Peniston, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 5; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 492.

The reasonableness, justice, and expediency of an act are questions for legislative determination. Ex p. Spinnery, 10 Nev. 323.

1. North Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 60; Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 100 U. S. 491; St. Louis v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 429; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Peniston, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 5; Waring v. Savannah, 60 Ga. 97; Athens v. Long, 54 Ga. 330; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Bank of Pennsylvania v. Com., 19 Pa. St. 144; In re Hancock St., 18 Pa. St. 30; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274; Pullen v. Wake County, 66 N. Car. 361; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; De Camp v. Eveland, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 81; Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 161; Tallman v. Butler County, 12 Iowa 531; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Beals v. Amador County, 35 Cal. 624.

The legislature has the power to prescribe not only what property shall be taxed, but also the rule by which it must be taxed, and what property shall not be taxed. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37.

2. See St. Louis v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 429; Bank of Commerce v. New York, 2 Black (U. S.) 620; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Peniston, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 5; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (Foreign Held Bond Cases), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; Williams v. Albany County, 122 U. S. 154; Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 100 U. S. 491; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; People v. Eddy, 43 Cal. 331; Frost v. Flick, 1 Dakota 131; Waring v. Savannah, 60 Ga. 97; Athens v. Long, 54 Ga. 330; Euright v. People, 79 Ill. 214; Porter v. Rock- ford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561; Tallman v. Butler County, 12 Iowa 531; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 10 Bush (Ky.) 43; Slack v. Ray, 26 La. Ann. 675; Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 268; Robertson v. State Land Com'rs, 44 Mich. 274; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; Wheeler v. Plattsmouth, 7 Neb. 270; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; State v. Consolidated, etc., Co., 16 Nev. 432; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; Clarke v. Rochester, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 446; People v. New York, etc., Dock Co., 63 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 451; Cowles v. Brittain, 2 Hawks (N. Car.) 204; King v. Portland, 2 Oregon 154; Lipscomb v. Dean, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 550; Luehrman v. Taxing District, 2 Lea (Tenn.) 444; Warden v. Fond du Lac County, 14 Wis. 618.

A revenue law is not to be held void merely because it is unjust in its operation. Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 563. And see People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351.

3. Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 82; McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 419; Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 561; Osborn v. Bank of U. S., 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738; Railroad Tax Cases, 13 Fed. Rep. 726; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 652; Ex p. Robinson, 12 Nev. 263; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 537; People v. Flagg, 46 N. Y. 401; King v. Portland, 2 Oregon 147; Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 147; Felty v. Uhler, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 512; Wharton v. School Directors, 42 Pa. St. 358; Philadelphia v. Field, 58 Pa. St. 320. And see State v. Rainey, 74 Mo. 236; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 418; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 201; Tallman v. Butler County, 12 Iowa 531; Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472.

The power will not be presumed to have been abused. Kneedler v. Lane, 45 Pa. St. 238; Metropolitan Bank v. Van Dyck, 27 N. Y. 400; Cowles v. Brittain, 2 Hawks (N. Car.) 204.

they cannot exercise the taxing power or add to or vary any tax lawfully levied.¹

Courts cannot interfere with the legislature in the exercise of the taxing power, unless constitutional limitations are contravened;² even a total failure to exercise the power laying no foundation for judicial correction,³ unless its exercise is a duty enforceable at law.⁴

It is within the province of the courts, however, to determine, in particular cases, whether the extreme boundary of legislative power has been reached and passed.⁵ But courts cannot declare

1. State v. Bentley, 23 N. J. L. 532; State v. Flavell, 29 N. J. L. 370.

In Bragg v. Tufts, 49 Ark. 554, it was held that a convention called for the purpose of taking into consideration the condition of political affairs, consisting of but a single body, and brought together for a special purpose, has no power to raise revenue under a constitutional provision confining the legislative power of the state to a general assembly consisting of a Senate and House of Representatives.

2. Maltby v. Reading, etc., R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 145; Wharton v. School Directors, 42 Pa. St. 358; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491; Beals v. Amador County, 35 Cal. 624; Stewart v. Polk County, 30 Iowa 9; Athens v. Long, 54 Ga. 330; Burke v. Speer, 59 Ga. 353; Wright v. Southwestern R. Co., 64 Ga. 790; White v. State, 51 Ga. 254; Decker v. McGowan, 59 Ga. 806; Wheeler v. Plattsmouth, 7 Neb. 270; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; State v. Lancaster County, 4 Neb. 537; Sears v. Cottrell, 5 Mich. 251; State v. McCann, 21 Ohio St. 210; Maloy v. Marietta, 11 Ohio St. 639; Mills v. Charleton, 29 Wis. 400; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 175; Philleo v. Hiles, 42 Wis. 527; Schettler v. Fort Howard, 43 Wis. 48; Goff v. Outagamie County, 43 Wis. 55; Delaware Railroad Tax Case, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; State Tax on Railway Gross Receipts, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 296; Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 100 U. S. 491; Cooper v. Telfair, 4 Dall. (U. S.) 14. And see Price v. Kramer, 4 Colo. 546; People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 465; King v. Portland, 2 Oregon 147; Exchange Bank Tax Cases, 21 Fed. Rep. 99.

Courts will abstain from questioning the validity of legislation until it becomes absolutely necessary in a decision of a pending controversy. Upton v. Kennedy, 36 Mich. 215.

If the legislature keeps within its proper sphere of action and does not impose burdens under the name of taxation, which are not taxation in fact, its decisions as to what is proper, just, and politic, both in respect to the subjects of taxation and the kind and amount of taxes, must be final and conclusive. Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 561; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 418; Wynehamer v. People, 13 N. Y. 404.

In Norris v. Boston, 4 Met. (Mass.) 282, it was held that an act of the legislature is void so far only as its provisions are repugnant to constitutional enactments; and that, therefore, the same act may be valid in part and void in part.

The burden of proof is upon him who assails the action of the legislature, and to warrant judicial interference he must make out a clear case of violation of constitutional provisions. Brown v. Denver, 3 Colo. 169.

3. Hill v. Higdon, 5 Ohio St. 248; Maloy v. Marietta, 11 Ohio St. 636; State v. Board of Revenue, 73 Ala. 65. And see Cannon v. Hoodenpytle, 7 Humph. (Tenn.) 147; State v. Rahway, 43 N. J. L. 338; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575.

Courts cannot classify property into that taxable and that exempt;—this is a legislative duty. Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54.

In McLean County v. Deposit Bank, 81 Ky. 254, it was held that the failure of the proper authorities to appoint a collector does not authorize the court to appoint one.

4. See infra, this title, The Levy. See also MANDAMUS, vol. 14, p. 88.

5. Weismer v. Douglas, 64 N. Y. 91; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; Pullen v. Wake County, 66 N. Car. 361; Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 147; Maltby v. Reading, etc., R. Co., an act void merely because it is opposed to the spirit of the constitution;¹ the incompatibility with the constitution must be clear.²

b. MODE OF EXERCISE.—Within constitutional limitations the legislature has power to regulate the mode of the exercise of the power to tax,³ and may change the mode of imposing or of collecting taxes at any time before their payment.⁴ In the absence of constitutional prohibitions, even retrospective legislation may be valid,⁵ so long as it does not divest rights or interfere unduly 52 Pa. St. 140; Wharton v. School Directors, 42 Pa. St. 358; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Ellis County, 19 Kan. 584; Cummings v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 101 U. S. 153; Ketcham v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 41. And see Gault's Appeal, 33 Pa. St. 94; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sabin, 26 Pa. St. 242; Bank of Pennsylvania v. Com., 19 Pa. St. 144; Weber v. Reinhard, 73 Pa. St. 370; People v. Eddy, 43 Cal. 331; Waters v. State, 1 Gill (Md.) 302; Perkins v. Milford, 59 Me. 315; Com. v. Peoples, etc., Sav. Bank, 5 Allen (Mass.) 428; Lowell v. Oliver, 8 Allen (Mass.) 247; Howell v. Bristol, 8 Bush (Ky.) 493; Bloomfield, etc., Gas Light Co. v. Richardson, 63 Barb. (N. Y.) 437; Ould v. Richmond, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 473; Cummings v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 101 U. S. 153.

Whether the power to tax does or does not exist is a proper subject of judicial inquiry, but whether the exercise of a conceded power in any particular case is proper or not proper is a question for the body which imposed the tax. Brodnax v. Groom, 64 N. Car. 244. And see Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146.

1. Luehrman v. Taxing District, 2 Lea (Tenn.) 440; State v. Traders' Bank, 41 La. Ann. 329; Weber v. Reinhard, 73 Pa. St. 370; In re Powers, 25 Vt. 265. But see People v. Gallagher, 4 Mich. 244.

2. Livingston County v. Darling-ton, 101 U. S. 407; Fletcher v. Peck, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 128; Adams v. Howe, 14 Mass. 340; Fisher v. McGirr, 1 Gray (Mass.) 1; Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Roup's Case, 81* Pa. St. 211; Wharton v. School Directors, 42 Pa. St. 358; Felty v. Uhler, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 513; Zimmerman v. Perkiomen, etc., Turnpike Co., 81* Pa. St. 96; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491; Tyler v. People, 8 Mich. 333; Sears v. Cottrell, 5 Mich. 251; Lex- ington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Cooper v. Telfair, 4 Dall. (U. S.) 14; Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 32 Ark. 131; Richards v. Raymond, 92 Ill. 612; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 62 Ill. 268; Lane v. Dorman, 4 Ill. 238; People v. Marshall, 6 Ill. 672; Baltimore v. State, 15 Md. 376.

In case of doubt every presumption not clearly inconsistent with the language used and the subject-matter is to be made in favor of constitutionality. Sears v. Cottrell, 5 Mich. 251. And see Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 164.

3. Vaughan v. Swayzie, 56 Miss. 705; State v. Union, 33 N. J. L. 351; King v. Portland, 2 Oregon 147. The machinery by which taxes are to be levied is left to legislative discretion. Public Schools v. Trenton, 30 N. J. Eq. 667; State v. Consolidated Va. Min. Co., 16 Nev. 432; Slack v. Ray, 26 La. Ann. 675; Morrison v. Larkin, 26 La. Ann. 701.

4. Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Bank of the Republic v. Hamilton County, 21 Ill. 53; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 10 Bush (Ky.) 43; Detroit v. Detroit, etc., Plank Road Co., 43 Mich. 140; Weister v. Hale, 52 Pa. St. 479; Bellows v. Weeks, 41 Vt. 590; Mills v. Charleston, 29 Wis. 400.

5. See New Orleans v. Rhenish Westphalian Lloyds, 31 La. Ann. 781; New Orleans v. Day, 29 La. Ann. 416; Fairfield v. People, 94 Ill. 244; Cowgill v. Long, 15 Ill. 202; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Hyde Park v. Ingalls, 87 Ill. 11; San Luis Obispo v. Pettit, 87 Cal. 499; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; State v. Graham, 16 Neb. 74; 8 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 500; State v. Bell, 1 Phil. (N. Car.) 76; People v. Schoharie County, 2 N. Y. Supp. 142; People v. Spring Valley Hydraulic Gold Co., 92 N. Y. 383; Weister v. Hale, 52 Pa. St. 474; Gault's Appeal, 33 Pa. St. 94; State v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 14 Lea (Tenn.) 56; Bagnall v. State, 25 with contract obligations;¹ but, speaking generally, it may be said that tax laws should be prospective,² and they will be so construed if possible.³

The methods prescribed by law for the imposition of taxes must be strictly pursued,⁴ and so must the laws imposing

Wis. 112, Exchange Bank Tax Cases, 21 Fed. Rep. 99; Locke v. New Orleans, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 172.

In North Carolina, retroactive taxes by towns are forbidden by constitutional provision. Young v. Henderson, 76 N. Car. 420.

1. See Grimm v. Weissenberg School Dist., 54 Pa. St. 435; Weister v. Hale, 52 Pa. St. 474; Gault's Appeal, 33 Pa. St. 94; People v. Moore, 1 Idaho 662; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Conway v. Cable, 37 Ill. 82.

2. See Price v. Mott, 52 Pa. St. 315; Com. v. Pennsylvania Ins. Co., 13 Pa. St. 165; People v. Monroe County, 36 Mich. 70; Clark v. Hall, 19 Mich. 356; Smith v. Humphrey, 20 Mich. 398. As to retrospective legislation in general, see STATUTES, vol. 23, p. 140.

In Com. v. Pennsylvania Ins. Co., 13 Pa. St. 165, it was said that new burdens ought to be prospective, not merely from the date of the tax act, but from the time of the assessment.

In Sturges v. Carter, 114 U. S. 511, it was held that a law providing for the collection of taxes for a preceding period which, but for concealment by taxpayers, should have been paid during such preceding years, was not a retroactive law within a constitutional prohibition. Nor is a tax retrospective because the business of a past year is considered in fixing its amount. People v. Spring Valley Hydraulic Gold Co., 92 N. Y. 383.

In Locke v. New Orleans, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 172, it was held that a statute which simply authorized the imposition of a tax accrued on a previous assessment was not a retrospective tax.

3. Price v. Mott, 52 Pa. St. 315; Drexel v. Com., 46 Pa. St. 31; Philadelphia v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 177; New England Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Board of Revenue, 81 Ala. 110; Barnes v. Mobile, 19 Ala. 707; Boyce v. Holmes, 2 Ala. 54; Oakland v. Whipple, 44 Cal. 303; Thames Mfg. Co. v. Lathrop, 7 Conn. 550; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; People v. Peacock, 98 Ill. 172; Conway v. Cable, 37 Ill. 32; Marsh v. Chesnut, 14 Ill. 223; People v. Thatcher, 95 Ill. 109; Fuller v. Grand Rapids, 40 Mich. 396; Clark v.

Hall, 19 Mich. 356; Smith v. Humphrey, 20 Mich. 398; People v. Monroe County, 36 Mich. 70; Finn v. Haynes, 37 Mich. 63; Warren R. Co. v. Belvidere, 35 N. J. L. 584; State v. Newark, 40 N. J. L. 92; Citizens' Gas Light Co. v. Alden, 44 N. J. L. 648; Peters v. Auditor, 33 Gratt. (Va.) 368; People v. Albany Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. 458. And see Shelby County v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 16 Lea (Tenn.) 401; Gerry v. Stoneham, 1 Allen (Mass.) 319; Andrews v. Worcester County Mut. F. Ins. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 65; Caruthers v. McLaran, 56 Miss. 341; Vaughan v. Swayzie, 56 Miss. 704; Selden v. Coffee, 55 Miss. 41; McPhaill v. Burris, 42 Tex. 142; Richey v. Shute, 43 N. J. L. 414.

In New England Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Board of Revenue, 81 Ala. 110, it was held that a statute levying a tax on the gross receipts of persons, companies, associations, and corporations engaged in lending money on property in the state, takes effect from its enactment, and only applies to receipts derived from business transacted in the state and engaged in after the passage of the act.

Constitutional provisions are subject to the same rule. New Orleans v. Vergnole, 33 La. Ann. 35; New Orleans v. Meister, 33 La. Ann. 646; New Orleans v. Eclipse Tow Boat Co., 33 La. Ann. 647. And see New Orleans v. L'Hote, 35 La. Ann. 1177.

Penal Statutes.—Statutes which are highly penal in their nature should not be held to apply to back taxes. People v. Peacock, 98 Ill. 172; Weister v. Hale, 52 Pa. St. 474.

4. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 151; Lyon v. Hunt, 11 Ala. 295; Milner v. Clarke, 61 Ala. 258; Parker v. Burgen, 20 Ala. 251; Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 567; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Davenport, 51 Iowa 454. And see Scales v. Alvis, 12 Ala. 617; Elliot v. Eddins, 24 Ala. 508.

This is especially the case when the provisions of the statutes are intended for the benefit or protection of the property owner. Lyon v. Hunt, 11 Ala. 295.

The provisions of an act must be them,¹ particularly when they are in derogation of property rights;² though when a law is capable of more than one construction it will be construed in such a manner as most reasonably to accomplish the legislative purpose.³

Measures intended for the security of the citizen, to secure equality of taxation, and to enable the taxpayer to know for what he and others are taxed, may be said to be conditions pre-followed, unless it admits of a variation or relaxation by its own terms. Hoffman v. Bell, 61 Pa. St. 444.

1. Moseley v. Tift, 4 Fla. 403; Barnes v. Doe, 4 Ind. 133; Williams v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 36; Sewell v. Jones, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 412; Cahoon v. Coe, 57 N. H. 557; U. S. v. Watts, 1 Bond (U. S.) 583; U. S. v. Wigglesworth, 2 Story (U. S.) 369; Williamsburg v. Lord, 51 Me. 599; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; Boyd v. Hood, 57 Pa. St. 98. And see Alton v. Aetna Ins. Co., 82 Ill. 45; Bowling Green, etc., R. Co. v. Warren County, 10 Bush (Ky.) 711; Mankato v. Fowler, 32 Minn. 364.

Every charge upon person or property must be imposed by clear and unambiguous words. Smith v. Waters, 25 Ind. 397; Culver v. Hayden, 1 Vt. 359. And see Gomer v. Chaffee, 6 Colo. 314.

In State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287, the rule of strict construction was applied against a county in favor of the state.

Tax laws have been held not to be penal, however, in a sense which will require them to be strictly construed like penal statutes. U. S. v. Barrels of Spirits, 2 Abb. (U. S.) 305; U. S. v. Olney, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 275; U. S. v. Cases of Cloth, 1 Crabbé (U. S.) 356; U. S. v. Hodson, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 395; Cornwall v. Todd, 38 Conn. 443.

2. People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 467; Powers v. Barney, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 202. And see Savannah v. Hartridge, 8 Ga. 23.

In State v. Hodges, 14 Rich. (S. Car.) 256, it was held that cotton belonging to a non-resident of a state, in the possession of an agent within the state, on the first day of May, but which was removed therefrom before October 1st, was not liable for a tax imposed on all cotton sold between May 1st and October 1st, and all cotton on hand on October 1st.

3. Green v. State, 59 Md. 123; Baltimore v. Hughes, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 480; Cornwall v. Todd, 38 Conn. 443; Hubbard v. Brainard, 35 Conn. 563; Bleight v. Auditor, 2 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 25; New Orleans v. Salamander Ins. Co., 25 La. Ann. 650; State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 Me. 518; Com. v. Hamilton Mfg. Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 302; Hawkins v. Carroll County, 50 Miss. 732; Matter of Metropolitan Gas Light Co., 23 Hun (N. Y.) 327; Lima v. McBride, 34 Ohio St. 338; Higgins v. Rinker, 47 Tex. 393; U. S. v. Olney, 1 Abb. (U. S.) 275; Twenty-eight Cases, 2 Ben. (U. S.) 63; U. S. v. Hodson, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 395; Kelley v. Herrall, 20 Fed. Rep. 364. And see State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; Philadelphia v. Ridge Ave. Pass. R. Co., 102 Pa. St. 190; Burger v. State, 1 McMull. (S. Car.) 410; Davis v. Brace, 82 Ill. 542.

Revenue laws should be construed with reasonable fairness to the citizen. U. S. v. Distilled Spirits, 10 Blatchf. (U. S.) 428.

A tax to be imposed as long as needed to pay a particular debt means an imposition of the tax until the debt is satisfied. Louisville v. Murphy, 86 Ky. 53.

The history of the legislation of a state, in reference to a particular subject-matter of taxation, may be referred to as tending to aid in the construction to be given to the statute. Savannah v. Hartridge, 8 Ga. 23.

In Hubbard v. Brainard, 35 Conn. 563, it was said that a tax law is not to be construed strictly because it takes money or property invitum, nor liberally like laws intended to effect directly some great public object, but fairly for the government and justly for the citizens, so as to carry out the intention of the legislature gathered from the language used, read in connection with the general purpose of the law, and the nature of the property on which the tax is imposed, and the legal relation of the taxpayer to it.

Unless it is impossible to avoid it, a general revenue statute should never be declared inoperative in all its parts because a particular part relating to a particular subject is invalid. Field v. Clark, 143 U. S. 649. The whole statute should not be held to be void unless the valid and invalid parts are insepacedent to the validity of the tax;¹ but regulations designed for the information of assessors and officers, and for the promotion of method, system, and uniformity in the modes of proceeding, the compliance with which does not affect the rights of the taxpayer, are directory only;² though, in either event, where the able. Treasurer v. Bank, 47 Ohio St. 503. And see Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 63 Vt. 1.

1. Torrey v. Millsbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64; Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502; Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502; Hamilton v. Fond du Lac, 25 Wis. 490; Hayden v. Dunlap, 3 Bibb (Ky.) 216; Walker v. Chapman, 22 Ala. 116; State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142; State v. Jersey City, 35 N. J. L. 381; Wiley v. Flournoy, 30 Ark. 609; O'Neil v. Virginia, etc., Bridge Co., 18 Md. 1; Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202; Spear v. Ditty, 8 Vt. 419; Mason v. Ricker, 63 Me. 381; Greene v. Lunt, 58 Me. 518; French v. Edwards, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 506; Lyon v. Alley, 130 U. S. 177; Mayhew v. Davis, 4 McLean (U. S.) 213. And see Shawnee County v. Carter, 2 Kan. 115; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28; Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Auditor Gen'l, 41 Mich. 635; Houghton v. Auditor Gen'l, 41 Mich. 31; Clark v. Crane, 5 Mich. 151; Hoyt v. East Saginaw, 19 Mich. 39; Green v. Craft, 28 Miss. 70; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30; Wheeler v. Chicago, 24 Ill. 105; People v. Schermerhorn, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 558; Cruger v. Dougherty, 43 N. Y. 107; Easten v. Calendar, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 94; Kelsey v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 609; People v. Hollister, 47 Cal. 408; Rubey v. Huntsman, 32 Mo. 501; McNair v. Jensen, 33 Mo. 312; Life Assoc. v. St. Louis County, 49 Mo. 512; State v. Rollins, 29 Mo. 267; Den v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129; Magee v. Com., 46 Pa. St. 358.

Requirements as to separate assessment of different kinds of property are for the benefit of the taxpayer and therefore mandatory. Rayner v. Lee, 20 Mich. 384; Young v. Joslin, 13 R. I. 675; Capwell v. Hopkins, 10 R. I. 378.

Conditions precedent are always mandatory. Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236; Hurford v. Omaha, 4 Neb. 336; Hewes v. Reis, 40 Cal. 255; Washington v. Pratt 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 681.

2. Torrey v. Millsbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64; Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502; Currie v. Van Horn, 40 N. J. L. 143; Paulson v. Taylor, 35 N. J.

L. 184; O'Neal v. Virginia Bridge, etc., Co., 18 Md. 1; State v. Jersey City, 35 N. J. L. 381; State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142; Avant v. Flynn (S. Dak. 1891), 49 N. W. Rep. 15; Bellows Falls Canal Co. v. Rockingham, 37 Vt. 622; Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202; Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502; French v. Edwards, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 506; Craig v. Radford, 3 Wheat. (U. S.) 594. And see Alvord v. Collin, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 418.

Requirements as to mere matters of form are directory. Mussey v. White, 3 Me. 290. So are those with reference to clerical and ministerial duties, which do not affect the taxpayer. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142. And provisions with reference to the time of performance of an act are usually directory only. Stickney v. Huggins, 10 Ala. 106; Limestone County v. Rather, 48 Ala. 433; Hart v. Plum, 14 Cal. 148; Pond v. Negus, 3 Mass. 230; People v. Allen, 6 Wend. (N. Y.) 486; Ex p. Heath, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 43; Gale v. Mead, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 160; Perlin v. Benson, 49 Iowa 325; Easton v. Savery, 44 Iowa 656; Hill v. Wolfe, 28 Iowa 577; Goodwin v. Perkins, 39 Vt. 598; Fry v. Booth, 19 Ohio St. 25; French v. Edwards, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 506.

A statute cannot be regarded as directory, nor can any of its provisions be dispensed with, when the act required, or the omission of it, can by any possibility work damage or injury, however slight, to any one affected by it. Wiley v. Flournoy, 30 Ark. 609; Mayhew v. Davis, 4 McLean (U. S.) 213; Clark v. Crane, 5 Mich. 151; People v. Schermerhorn, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 558.

Under the Louisiana statutes, a failure by the assessor to visit or examine the property assessed, an irregular authentication of a roll, and an assessment of property not belonging exclusively to the person to whom it was assessed, are not radical defects, but simply irregularities in matters of form which must be judicially invoked before the first of November of the year in which the assessment is made. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374.

The question what requirements are requirements of the statute are plainly imperative, they will be treated as mandatory.¹

5. Delegation of the Power.—The power to tax cannot be delegated to the judicial department,² to ministerial or administrative officers,³ nor to individuals or private corporations.⁴ But the legislature need not prescribe the details nor perform the administrative functions involving the exercise of the power to tax;⁵ it is sufficient if it originates the proceedings and prescribes the rule of action, leaving the details to administrative officers;⁶ and it may delegate the power to determine some fact or state of things mandatory and what directory only is discussed, infra, under the particular heads The Levy; The Assessment; Collection.

1. Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236; Niagara County v. People, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 511; French v. Edwards, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 506. And see People v. Hollister, 47 Cal. 408; Kelsey v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 609; Lachman v. Clark, 14 Cal. 131; Vance v. Schuyler, 6 Ill. 160.

When the act is required to be performed for the sake of justice or the public good, "may" will be construed as "shall" and as imposing a positive and absolute duty. People v. Buffalo County, 4 Neb. 150.

In Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163, a statute providing that no omission by the taxing officers of certain duties therein named, some of which are mandatory in their character, shall affect the validity of the tax, unless it affects the substantial justice of the tax, was held to be unconstitutional as an intrusion on judicial functions.

2. Hardenburgh v. Kidd, 10 Cal. 402; Burgoyne v. San Francisco County, 5 Cal. 9; Bixler v. Sacramento County, 59 Cal. 698; State v. Rahway, 43 N. J. L. 338; Morris v. Waco, 57 Tex. 635; Wayman v. Southard, 10 Wheat. (U. S.) 1; Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472. And see In re Rahrer, 140 U. S. 545; People's Pass. R. Co. v. Memphis City R. Co., 10 Wall. (U. S.) 38; Bank of U. S. v. Halstead, 10 Wheat. (U. S.) 51; Ketchum v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 41; Cramer v. Stone, 38 Wis. 259.

The question of the expediency of a state tax or of the imposition of a tax, cannot be delegated, but must be settled definitely and finally by the legislature itself. People v. Fire Assoc. of Philadelphia, 92 N. Y. 311.

3. Hydes v. Joyes, 4 Bush (Ky.)

464; Mercer County Court v. Kentucky River Nav. Co., 8 Bush (Ky.) 300; Louisville v. Murphy, 86 Ky. 53; People v. Kings County, 52 N. Y. 556; Robinson v. Dodge, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 351; Trumbull v. White, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 46; Houghton v. Austin, 47 Cal. 646; San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. State Board, 60 Cal. 12; Scofield v. Lansing, 17 Mich. 437; Lafayette, etc., R. Co. v. Geiger, 34 Ind. 185; Maxwell v. State, 40 Md. 273; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Clinton County, 1 Ohio St. 77; State v. Sickles, 24 N. J. L. 125. And see White v. Wheeler, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 573.

4. Board of Directors v. Houston, 71 Ill. 318; Cypress Pond Draining Co. v. Hooper, 2 Metc. (Ky.) 350.

Under the Illinois constitution, portions of the territory comprising a county cannot be authorized by the legislature to create a debt which must be paid by taxation. Madison County v. People, 58 Ill. 456.

5. See Warren v. Grand Haven, 30 Mich. 24; In re Griner, 16 Wis. 423; Wayman v. Southard, 10 Wheat. (U. S.) 1.

The apportionment of a tax among individuals, or between lands with reference to benefits, may lawfully be devolved upon one or more assessors chosen by a city council, such a duty requiring for its proper performance an examination of the several premises in detail, and involving merely administrative functions. Warren v. Grand Haven, 30 Mich. 24.

In Florida, where the board of instruction fails to give an estimate of the sources of revenue, it is competent for the county commissioners to ascertain the necessary data, in order to learn the amount required to be raised by tax. State v. County Com'rs, 17 Fla. 418.

6. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 62. And see infra, this title, The Levy.

upon which the law makes its action depend;¹ there being a distinction between the delegation of power to make the law and conferring authority or discretion as to its execution.² Cities, counties, and towns may be said to be instrumentalities for the convenient administration of local government;³ upon them, subject to constitutional restrictions and limitations, the legislature may confer the power to tax to the extent necessary to good government;⁴ and the imposition of a tax by cities, counties, or towns for their support is as much an exercise of

The legislature must determine the amount necessary and adequate to be raised by tax, and declare the amount to be levied absolutely. Houghton v. Austin, 47 Cal. 646.

1. Locke's Appeal, 72 Pa. St. 491; Moers v. Reading, 21 Pa. St. 188; Field v. Clark, 143 U. S. 697; In re Rahrer, 140 U. S. 561. And see The Aurora v. U. S., 7 Cranch (U. S.) 362; State v. Parker, 26 Vt. 357; Smith v. Janesville, 26 Wis. 291. See also infra, this title, Municipal Taxation, sub-title, Submission to and Consent of the People.

2. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Clinton County, 1 Ohio St. 88; In re Oliver, 17 Wis. 681; Field v. Clark, 143 U. S. 649. Some of the earlier cases held that the legislature cannot delegate to the people of a state or of a municipality the power to determine whether or not a law shall be operative either within the state or some part of it. See Barto v. Himrod, 8 N. Y. 483; Parker v. Com., 6 Pa. St. 507; Rich v. Foster, 4 Harr. (Del.) 479. See LOCAL OPTION, vol. 13, p. 990.

3. Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 511; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510; Hamlin v. Meadville, 6 Neb. 227.

In Ridenour v. Saffin, 1 Handy (Ohio) 464, it was held that a constitutional provision conferring power upon the general assembly to organize municipal corporations for local improvement involves the power of bestowing upon them authority to provide the necessary means for sustaining and carrying out the projects of such government by taxation.

4. See Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; Baldwin v. City Council, 53 Ala. 439; Farley v. Dowe, 45 Ala. 234; Battle v. Mobile, 9 Ala. 324; Osborn v. Mobile, 44 Ala. 493; 24 Ala. 591; Washington v. State, 13 Ark. 752; People v. Kelsey, 34 Cal. 470; Palmer v. Way, 6 Colo. 106; Doggett v. Walter, 15 Fla. 355;

Wilkinson v. Cheatham, 43 Ga. 258; East St. Louis v. Wehrung, 46 Ill. 392; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405; Fitch v. Pinckard, 5 Ill. 69; Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 127; Lafayette, etc., R. Co. v. Geiger, 34 Ind. 183; Logansport v. Seybold, 59 Ind. 225; Robinson v. Schenck, 102 Ind. 307; Wells v. Weston, 22 Mo. 384; Slack v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 1; Talbot v. Dent, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 526; Clark County Court v. Paris, etc., Turnpike Co., 11 B. Mon. (Ky.) 150; Kneiper v. Louisville, 7 Bush (Ky.) 599; Paris v. Berry, 2 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 483; Cheaney v. Hooser, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 330; Louisville v. Murphy, 86 Ky. 53; Slack v. Ray, 26 La. Ann. 674; New Orleans v. Kaufman, 29 La. Ann. 283; Watts v. Port Deposit, 46 Md. 500; Public School Com'rs v. Alleghany County, 20 Md. 449; Baltimore v. State, 15 Md. 376; Alexander v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 383; Burgess v. Pue, 2 Gill (Md.) 11; Norwich v. Hampshire County, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 60; Smith v. Aberdeen, 25 Miss. 458; Harrison v. Vicksburg, 3 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 585; Beck v. Allen, 58 Miss. 143; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; People v. Hurlbut, 24 Mich. 44; State v. St. Louis County Ct., 34 Mo. 546; St. Louis v. Laughlin, 49 Mo. 559; St. Louis v. Manufacturers' Sav. Bank, 49 Mo. 574; State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458; Caldwell v. Burke County, 4 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 323; Wingate v. Sluder, 6 Jones (N. Car.) 552; Thompson v. Floyd, 2 Jones (N. Car.) 313; Taylor v. Newberne, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 141; State v. Noyes, 30 N. H. 279; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; Townsend v. New York, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 362; Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65; Vanderbilt v. Adams, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 349; Terrel v. Wheeler, 49 Hun (N. Y.) 262; Hill v. Higdon, 5 Ohio St. 243; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Clinton Co., 1 Ohio St. 77; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491; Philadelphia v. Greble, 38 Pa. St. 339;

the taxing power of the state as a tax imposed directly by the state.¹

Under the constitutions of some states the legislature cannot impose a tax for corporate purposes, having power only by proper enabling acts to submit the matter to the action of the local officers or of the people of the municipality, where the purpose is not one constituting a municipal obligation to the general government.² Some constitutions prohibit state taxation for works

Grimm v. Weissenberg School Dist., 57 Pa. St. 432; Butler's Appeal, 73 Pa. St. 448; Cruikshanks v. City Council, 1 McCord (S. Car.) 360; Newman v. Scott County, 5 Sneed (Tenn.) 695; Hope v. Deaderick, 8 Humph. (Tenn.) 1; Blessing v. Galveston, 42 Tex. 642; Kinney v. Zimbleman, 36 Tex. 554; U. S. v. New Orleans, 98 U. S. 381; Godin v. Crump, 8 Leigh (Va.) 120; Bull v. Read, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 78; In re County Levy, 5 Call (Va.) 139; Douglas v. Harrisville, 9 W. Va. 162; Kuhn v. Board of Education, 4 W. Va. 499.

The right of the legislature, in the absence of authorization or prohibition, to create towns, or other inferior municipal corporations, and to confer upon them the powers of local government, and especially of local taxation and police regulation usual with such corporations, is undisputed. Houghton v. Austin, 4 Cal. 646. But see Luehrman v. Taxing Dist., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 444; Lipscomb v. Dean, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 550; Waterhouse v. Cleveland Public Schools, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 398.

All acts of the legislature, conferring or restricting the revenue powers of a municipal corporation, are in their nature public laws, whether so declared in terms or not, of which courts are bound to take judicial notice in proceedings affecting revenue matters. Binkert v. Jansen, 94 Ill. 283.

Delegation by Territorial Government.

—The granting of municipal powers, including the power of local taxation to cities, is an ordinary act of legislation, and within the power of a territorial legislature. Burnes v. Atchison, 2 Kan. 454.

1. Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; Lumsden v. Cross, 10 Wis. 282; Will County v. People, 110 Ill. 511; Beck v. Allen, 58 Miss. 143; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Otoe County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 667.

All taxes are in fact state taxes. They are raised under authority of the state, and are all applied to state purposes, namely, to the support of government in all its departments, to the payment of its officers and agents, the erection and maintenance of public buildings, roads, and bridges, and the support of the poor. Camden, etc., R. Co. v. Hillegas, 18 N. J. L. 11.

2. Mills v. Charleton, 29 Wis. 400; State v. Tappan, 29 Wis. 664; Hassbrouck v. Milwaukee, 13 Wis. 37. And see People v. Martin, 60 Cal. 153; In re House Bill, 9 Colo. 635; People v. Salomon, 51 Ill. 37; People v. Chicago, 51 Ill. 18; Updike v. Wright, 81 Ill. 49; Madison County v. People, 58 Ill. 456; People v. Canty, 55 Ill. 33; Williams v. Roberts, 88 Ill. 11; People v. Morgan, 90 Ill. 558; State v. Wheeler, 33 Neb. 563; State v. Goldstucker, 40 Wis. 124.

In People v. Martin, 60 Cal. 153, it was held that a constitutional provision against the imposition of local taxes by the legislature includes license taxes, and that under such a prohibition they can be imposed only by the local authorities.

Statutes conferring upon certain courts power to revise and amend an assessment, and to order a new assessment in whole or in part, are not subject to the objection that they confer power to levy taxes upon property within a municipality upon an agency entirely independent of municipal government, or that they require the judiciary to exercise functions belonging wholly to the legislative department. State v. Ensign (Minn. 1893), 56 N. W. Rep. 1006. And see State v. Hennepin County, 33 Minn. 235.

In Will County v. People, 110 Ill. 511, it was held that a legislative act imposing half the expense of town bridges upon the counties in which they are situated, does not impose a tax for strictly local corporate purposes, and is not invalid under the constitu-of internal improvement, requiring local interests to be left in the hands of the proper local officers.¹ The state cannot authorize a municipal corporation to lay a tax which the state could not itself impose,² and an unlimited power to raise taxes and raise money, aside from and beyond what may be necessary and proper for legitimate municipal purposes, cannot be conferred.³ Nor can the power to tax be delegated for any except local or corporate purposes,⁴ and municipalities cannot be clothed with power to tax beyond their corporate limits or their own local purposes.⁵

Constitutional provisions authorizing corporate authorities of municipalities to lay taxes for corporate purposes, constitute a limitation upon the power of the legislature to grant the right to lay taxes to any other than the local authorities of the municipal-tional provision requiring power to impose such taxes to be vested in the corporate authorities.

In State v. Hennepin County, 33 Minn. 235, it was held that an act creating a board of park commissioners for the acquisition of lands for public parks, the title to which was to vest in the city, and making it a department of the city government, does not infringe a constitutional provision authorizing municipal corporations only to levy assessments for local improvements.

1. People v. Springwells Tp., 25 Mich. 153; Anderson v. Hill, 54 Mich. 477; Ryerson v. Utley, 16 Mich. 274; People v. State Treasurer, 23 Mich. 499; People v. Detroit, 28 Mich. 228; People v. Detroit, 29 Mich. 343. And see Allor v. Wayne County, 43 Mich. 76.

The term "internal improvements," as used in the constitutional restriction, relates to public internal improvements and local concerns for general county purposes, and not to improvements for special local purposes, where the improvements are made by assessments upon the property improved. McGehee v. Mathus, 21 Ark. 40. And see Gillett v. McLaughlin, 69 Mich. 547.

A work which is planned and directed by a state agency is a state work, and while the fact that its expense is charged on a certain locality may make the proceeding objectionable on independent grounds, it does not alter its character. People v. Springwells Tp., 25 Mich. 153.

An act imposing a tax upon specified townships for the purpose of improving the channel of a stream, is in conflict with the provision of the Michigan constitution that the state shall not engage in any work of internal improvement unless by granting land therefor. Anderson v. Hill, 54 Mich. 477.

In Dawson County v. McNamar, 10 Neb. 276, the building of a county courthouse was held not to be a work of internal improvement.

2. O'Donnell v. Bailey, 24 Miss. 386; Illinois Female College v. Cooper, 25 Ill. 148; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; Haywood v. Savannah, 12 Ga. 404; Stuyvesant v. New York, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 588; Nashville v. Thomas, 5 Coldw. (Tenn.) 600; Memphis v. Hernando Ins. Co., 6 Baxt. (Tenn.) 527; Union Bank v. State, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 490.

But this does not mean that the state may not permit municipalities to tax that which it does not tax. The rule applies to the power. See Ex p. Montgomery, 64 Ala. 463; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 645. See also infra, this title, Municipal Taxation.

3. Foster v. Kenosha, 12 Wis. 618; Brodhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624; Hooper v. Emery, 14 Me. 375.

4. Livingston County v. Darlington, 101 U. S. 407.

In Foster v. Kenosha, 12 Wis. 618, a charter provision that no tax shall be levied or money borrowed beyond what may be needed for legitimate municipal purposes, without the previous sanction of a majority of the voters, was held not to be a limitation upon the power of the municipality to levy taxes or contract debts—the duty of imposing the proper limitation belonging to the legislature and being one which cannot be transferred to others.

5. See infra, this title, Place of Taxation; Municipal Taxation.

ity or district to be taxed,¹ or for any other than corporate purposes.² So provisions limiting the rate of taxation operate as a limitation upon the legislative power to authorize municipal taxation.³ Constitutional prohibitions against local and special tax laws, and against special acts conferring corporate powers, preclude the legislature from delegating the power to tax by special or local enactment.⁴

6. Waiver or Relinquishment of the Power.—The legislative right of taxation may be waived or relinquished. This may be done by an act in the nature of a contract based on a sufficient consideration, either for a specified period or permanently, in particular instances,⁵ and, having been done, statutes attempting to

1. Updike v. Wright, 81 Ill. 49; Board of Directors v. Houston, 71 Ill. 318; Harward v. St. Clair, etc., Levee, etc., Co., 51 Ill. 130; People v. Salomon, 51 Ill. 37; Gage v. Graham, 57 Ill. 144; Hessler v. Drainage Com'rs, 53 Ill. 105; School Trustees v. People, 63 Ill. 299; People v. McAdams, 82 Ill. 356; People v. Chicago, 51 Ill. 17; Lovington v. Wider, 53 Ill. 302; Cornell v. People, 107 Ill. 372; Elmwood Tp. v. Marcy, 92 U. S. 289; Livingston County v. Darlington, 101 U. S. 411. And see Schultes v. Eberly, 82 Ala. 242.

In Harward v. St. Clair, etc., Levee, etc., Co., 51 Ill. 130, it was held that by the phrase "corporate authorities," as used in the Illinois constitution, must be understood those municipal officers who are either directly elected by the people subject to taxes, or appointed in some mode to which they have given their consent.

In School Trustees v. People, 63 Ill. 299, it was said that, in Illinois, school districts were not municipal corporations, within the constitution, which could be vested with power to tax.

2. Harward v. St. Clair, etc., Levee, etc., Co., 51 Ill. 130; School Trustees v. People, 63 Ill. 299; People v. Dupuyt, 71 Ill. 651; Johnson v. Campbell, 49 Ill. 317; Madison County v. People, 58 Ill. 463; Sleight v. People, 74 Ill. 47; Livingston County v. Darlington, 101 U. S. 411.

3. State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530; Hebard v. Ashland County, 55 Wis. 145.

Under the North Carolina constitution, taxation for state and county purposes, combined for the current and necessary expenses of the county government and new debts, cannot exceed the constitutional limitation. French v. New Hanover County, 74 N. Car. 692.

The New York constitutional provision, prohibiting the creation of debts except to a limited extent, unless the laws authorizing them are submitted to the people, does not apply to municipal debts. People v. Flagg, 46 N. Y. 401.

4. Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87.

Under the New Jersey constitution, all legislation for the regulation of internal affairs of municipalities must be general and applicable to all alike. A departure from the rule can be justified only where, by reason of the existence of a substantial difference between municipalities, a general law would be inappropriate to some while it would be appropriate to, and desirable for, others; and in such case the municipalities in which the peculiarity exists, would constitute a class by themselves, and the legislation would, in fact, be general because applying to all of a class. Hammer v. State, 44 N. J. L. 667.

Constitutional provisions authorizing the legislature to confer the power to tax upon certain municipalities, do not prohibit it from conferring the same power upon other municipalities. Darst v. Griffin, 31 Nev. 668; State v. Dodge County, 8 Neb. 124.

5. Pacific R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 36; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; New Jersey v. Willson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 164; Jefferson Branch Bank v. Skelly, 1 Black (U. S.) 436; Hoge v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 99 U. S. 348; Armstrong v. Athens County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 281; Wells v. Central Vermont R. Co., 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 426; Home of the Friendless v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 430; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 3 Fed. Rep. 266; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 527; Humphrey v. Pegues, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 244; New Jersey v. Yard, 95 U. S. 104; Minot v.

lay taxes in disregard of such waiver cannot be sustained.¹ But a waiver or relinquishment can only be effected by a clear expression of the legislative will,² or by necessary implication.³

Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 10 Bush (Ky.) 43; Com. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 Va. 355; State Bank v. People, 5 Ill. 303; East Hartford v. Hartford Bridge Co., 17 Conn. 93; Seymour v. Hartford, 21 Conn. 486; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Kennedy, 74 Ala. 566; English v. Sacramento County, 19 Cal. 172; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sabine, 26 Pa. St. 242; State v. Petway, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 396; State v. Butler, 86 Tenn. 614. And see St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Loftin, 93 U. S. 559; Chicago Bridge Co. v. Binghampton Bridge Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 51. And see supra, this title, Impairment of Contract Obligations.

A public purpose to be attained by law constitutes a sufficient consideration on which a legislative contract exempting property from taxation may be based. Washington University v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 439. And see St. Vincent College v. Schaafir, 104 Mo. 261.

But a mere conveyance to public uses is not sufficient to constitute a contract. First Ecclesiastical Soc. v. Hartford, 38 Conn. 274; Brainard v. Colchester, 31 Conn. 407; Lord v. Litchfield, 36 Conn. 116; overruling Atwater v. Woodbridge, 6 Conn. 223; Osborne v. Humphrey, 7 Conn. 339; Parker v. Redfield, 10 Conn. 490; Landon v. Litchfield, 11 Conn. 260.

1. Osborne v. Mobile, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 481; Pacific R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 36; New Jersey v. Wilson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 164; Humphrey v. Pegues, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 247; Home of the Friendless v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 430; Washington University v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 439; Jefferson Branch Bank v. Skelly, 1 Black (U. S.) 436; Franklin Branch Bank v. Ohio, 1 Black (U. S.) 474; Northwestern University v. People, 99 U. S. 309; McGee v. Mathis, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 143; In re Stevens County (Minn. 1887), 31 N. W. Rep. 942; State v. Butler, 86 Tenn. 614.

So a state may limit itself by contract to a particular rate of taxation beyond which future legislatures may not go. Gordon v. Appeal Tax Court, 3 How. (U. S.) 133; Piqua Bank v. Knoop, 16

How. (U. S.) 369; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. (U. S.) 331; Mechanics, etc., Bank v. Thomas, 18 How. (U. S.) 384.

2. Tomlinson v. Branch, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 469; Pacific R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 36; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217; Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 561; Delaware Railroad Tax, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; Tomlinson v. Jessup, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 454; North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Society for Savings v. Coite, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 606; Philadelphia R. Co. v. Maryland, 10 How. (U. S.) 393; Ohio L. Ins. Co. v. Dabolt, 16 How. (U. S.) 416; Jefferson Branch Bank v. Skelly, 1 Black (U. S.) 436; Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 264; Southwestern R. Co. v. Wright, 116 U. S. 231; Hoge v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 99 U. S. 348; Anne Arundel County v. Annapolis, etc., R. Co., 47 Md. 592; Scotland County v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Mo. 123; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sabin, 26 Pa. St. 242; Jones, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Com., 69 Pa. St. 137; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 83 Pa. St. 429; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 10 Bush (Ky.) 43; Bradley v. McAttee, 7 Bush (Ky.) 667; State v. Petway, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 396; Presbyterian Theological Seminary v. People, 101 Ill. 580; East Saginaw Mfg. Co. v. East Saginaw, 19 Mich. 259; Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; Probasco v. Moundsville, 11 W. Va. 501; Weston v. Shawano County, 44 Wis. 256.

The establishment of the mode of ascertaining the value of the road and property of a railway company is not a legislative contract which cannot be altered by subsequent legislation. Moore v. Holliday, 4 Dill. (U. S.) 52.

3. Frederick County v. Sisters of Charity, 48 Md. 34; Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Gill (Md.) 288; Buchanan v. Talbot County, 47 Md. 286; Appeal Tax Court v. Gill, 50 Md. 377; Memphis Gas Light Co. v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 109 U. S. 398; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323. And see Livingston County v. Hannibal, etc., R.

The power to tax is not presumed to have been surrendered or abandoned,¹ nor can a surrender be extended by implication:² on the contrary, every reasonable intendment must be made that

Co., 60 Mo. 516; Bailey v. Magwire, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 215; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 492; Southwestern R. Co. v. Wright, 116 U. S. 231; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Missouri, 120 U. S. 569.

Contracts relied upon to prevent the exercise of the taxing power of a state are to be construed strictly against that effect. Western v. Shawano County, 44 Wis. 242.

In Insurance Co. v. New Orleans, 1 Woods (U. S.) 85, a statute providing that no insurance company whose license tax shall be $1,000, shall be liable to any assessment throughout the state other than such license fee, was held to apply only to taxes levied by the state, and not to prohibit the imposition of municipal taxation upon the company.

1. Jones, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Com., 69 Pa. St. 137; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sabin, 26 Pa. St. 242; Erie R. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 84; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 10 Bush (Ky.) 43; Bradley v. McAtce, 7 Bush (Ky.) 667; St. Louis v. Manufacturers' Sav. Bank, 49 Mo. 574; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 479; St. Louis v. Boatmen's Trust, etc., Co., 47 Mo. 150; Weston v. Shawano County, 44 Wis. 242; East Saginaw Mfg. Co. v. East Saginaw, 19 Mich. 259; Bangor v. Masonic Lodge, 73 Me. 428; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217; Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 561; Delaware Railroad Tax, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Society for Savings v. Coite, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 606; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 10 How. (U. S.) 393; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Abb. (U. S.) 323; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 527; Bailey v. Magwire, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 215; Central R., etc., Co. v. Georgia, 92 U. S. 665; Bank of Commerce v. Tennessee, 104 U. S. 493; Ohio L., etc., Ins. Co. v. Debolt, 16 How. (U. S.) 416; Jefferson Branch Bank v. Skelly, 1 Black (U. S.) 436; Charles River Bridge v. Warren Bridge, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 421; Memphis Gas Light Co. v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 109 U. S. 398; Southwestern R. Co. v. Wright, 116 U. S. 231; Buchanan v. Talbot County, 47 Md. 286;

Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159.

It will not be presumed that the legislature intended to abandon its rights as to the method of assessing and collecting the revenues of a state. Bank of Republic v. Hamilton County, 21 Ill. 53.

In Harvard College v. Boston, 104 Mass. 470, it was held that a statutory provision exempting a corporation from all civil impositions and taxes, includes an assessment laid by municipal authorities for expenses of an improvement whereby the property taxed is benefited, but the words of the statute are not to be construed as narrowly as when occurring in a contract between individuals. They are to be regarded, not as a contract of indemnity or release, but rather as a renunciation of the taxing power.

2. Jones, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Com., 69 Pa. St. 137; Bourguignon Bldg. Assoc. v. Com., 98 Pa. St. 64; St. Louis v. Boatmen's Trust, etc., Co., 47 Mo. 150; Baltimore v. State, 15 Md. 376; Weston v. Shawano County, 44 Wis. 242; Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Dennis, 116 U. S. 665; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Missouri, 120 U. S. 569; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 3 Fed. Rep. 266. But see State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 49 N. J. L. 193.

A perpetual exemption from taxation in the charter of a railroad company, will not be extended to property of another railroad company with which it consolidates, without express words or a necessary intendment to that effect in the statute under which the consolidation is made. Tomlinson v. Branch, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 460.

In Gordon v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 231, it was held that a provision which precludes the state from taxing a corporation, does not operate to preclude its taxation by a municipal division of the state. But see Gardiner v. State, 21 N. J. L. 557.

In People v. Forrest, 29 Hun (N. Y.) 548, it was held that an agreement between a village and a waterworks company, that the company shall be exempted from all corporation taxes, in consideration of its furnishing water for fountains, drinking troughs, and it was not designed to surrender the power.¹ Immunity from taxation is a personal privilege and not transferable;² though if an exemption from taxation is attached to the land it is a privilege which will descend to a purchaser from the original owner in whose hands it was exempted.³

for extinguishing fires, does not exempt it from town, county, and state taxes.

1. Buchanan v. Talbot County, 47 Md. 286; Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Gill (Md.) 288; Baltimore v. State, 15 Md. 376; Gordon v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 231; Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Bourbon County (Ky. 1885), 6 Ky. Law Rep. 495; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 10 How. (U. S.) 393; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 575.

In Weston v. Shawano County, 44 Wis. 242, where an act was passed exempting all lands granted to the state to aid in the construction of a certain road, from taxation, while the title should remain in the state or in the contractor to construct the road, and an amendatory act afterwards passed, limited the exemption to a certain time, it was held that the amendatory act was valid as to lands which, at the time of its passage, the state owned, and had not contracted to convey to the contractor.

In Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Missouri, 122 U. S. 561, it was held that taxes may be levied upon railroads leased or sold to foreign corporations, even though the state is precluded, by provisions in its charter, from taxing the road in the hands of the original owner.

2. Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217; Pickard v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 130 U. S. 637; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Hamblin County, 102 U. S. 273; Armstrong v. Athens County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 281; Com. v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 81 Ky. 572; 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 428; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. McDonald, 34 Minn. 195; State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 113 U. S. 465; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Palmes, 109 U. S. 244; Annapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Anne Arundel County, 103 U. S. 1; Wilson v. Gaines, 103 U. S. 417; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Missouri, 122 U. S. 561; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 97 U. S. 697; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 112 U. S. 609; nor does it pass on foreclosure sale. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 114 U. S. 176; Pickard v.

East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 130 U. S. 637; Trask v. Maguire, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 391; Alexandria Canal, etc., Bridge Co. v. District of Columbia, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 217; Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 87 Ky. 661; State v. Butler, 15 Lea (Tenn.) 104; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 41 Ark. 436; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 41 Ark. 509. In Pickard v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 130 U. S. 634, it was held that immunity from taxation can be transferred only upon express statutory direction.

The privilege of exemption from taxation enjoyed by the railroad company does not pass with the road to a lessee thereof. Alexandria Canal, etc., Bridge Co. v. District of Columbia (D. C. 1891), 7 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 325.

In New Haven v. Sheffield, 30 Conn. 172, it was held that where property exempted by contract not to tax, is sold, the exemption applies to the fund raised therefrom and not to the property itself.

3. State v. Hicks, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 486; State v. Whitworth, 22 Fed. Rep. 75; 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 411; International, etc., R. Co. v. Smith County, 65 Tex. 21; Com. v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 81 Ky. 572; 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 428; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Pickard, 24 Fed. Rep. 614; New Jersey v. Wilson, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 164; In re Stevens County (Minn.), 31 N. W. Rep. 942; State v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 21 Minn. 315; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Parcher, 14 Minn. 297; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 36 Minn. 207. And see State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 49 N. J. L. 193; State v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 12 Lea (Tenn.) 583; Seaboard, etc., R. Co. v. Norfolk County, 83 Va. 195.

In Nichols v. New Haven, etc., Co., 42 Conn. 103, it was held that a corporation taking all the rights and immunities of another corporation, takes the same exemption of its capital from taxation which the other corporation enjoyed.

Criticisms on and Denial of the Power of the Legislature to Bind the State Permanently.—A good deal has been

V. PURPOSES OF TAXATION—1. Must be Public.—The purpose of taxation is the raising of revenue¹ for a public purpose.² That said and written against the right of a legislature to bind the state permanently by legislation waiving or relinquishing the right to tax. See the dissenting opinion of Miller, J., concurred in by Chase, C. J., and Field, J., in Washington University v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 439. See also East Saginaw Mfg. Co. v. East Saginaw, 19 Mich. 282; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. 208. And see various dissenting opinions, etc.

1. Frost v. Flick, 1 Dak. Ter. 131; People v. Doe, 36 Cal. 220; People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 433; Palmer v. Stumph, 29 Ind. 329; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289; Matter of New York, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 77; Hilbish v. Catherman, 64 Pa. St. 154; Philadelphia Assoc. v. Wood, 39 Pa. St. 73; King v. Portland, 2 Oregon 147; Reeves v. Wood County, 8 Ohio St. 333.

The constitutions of Texas and Virginia provide that the legislature shall have no right to lay taxes or impose burdens upon the people, except to raise revenue sufficient for the economical administration of the government. See also Beck v. Allen, 58 Miss. 143.

In Mason v. Lancaster, 4 Bush (Ky.) 406, it was said by Williams, C. J., that "It is possible that a statute so flagrantly beyond revenue purposes as to indicate other objects under its guise, might be violative of constitutional rights; but before this court would determine such, it would have to appear palpable and unmistakable." And in Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491, it was said that "A government which assumes the office of controlling and directing the lawful industry of its citizens into channels which it may choose to deem best, assumes what does not legitimately belong to it."

The term "revenue," when used with reference to funds derived from taxation, is best interpreted, in absence of qualifying words and circumstances implying a different signification, as confined to the usual public income taxation. Laughlin v. Santa Fe County, 3 N. Mex. 264. And see Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289; Harper v. Elberton, 23 Ga. 566; U. S. v. Norton, 91 U. S. 568. It is a general term embracing city, town, and county, as well as state, revenue. State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530.

The term "taxation," as used in the Oregon constitution, is limited to the meeting of such expenses as are necessary for the maintenance of the general government of state, county, city, etc.; but the full power resides in the legislative department to provide for other expenses belonging to any other branch of taxation, as it is commonly understood, in their discretion. King v. Portland, 2 Oregon 147.

Where an imposition has reference to police as well as revenue, a particular business may be taxed while others are spared, not only because it may be most able to bear the burden, but also because such surroundings attach themselves to the business taxed, as to render the discouragement and discipline of active taxation wise and politic. Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654. And see POLICE POWER, vol. 18, p. 739; INTOXICATING LIQUORS—Regulations as to Licensing, vol. 11, p. 591.

2. Cypress Pond Draining Co. v. Hooper, 2 Metc. (Ky.) 350; Anderson v. Kerns Draining Co., 14 Ind. 202; 77 Am. Dec. 63; Clark v. Des Moines, 19 Iowa 199; Weismer v. Douglas, 64 N. Y. 91; 21 Am. Rep. 586; People v. Batchellor, 53 N. Y. 128; 13 Am. Rep. 480; Stuart v. Palmer, 74 N. Y. 183; 30 Am. Rep. 289; Opinion of Justices, 58 Me. 590; Coates v. Campbell, 37 Minn. 498; State v. Foley, 30 Minn. 350; Lowell v. Boston, 111 Mass. 454; 15 Am. Rep. 39; Clee v. Sanders, 74 Mich. 692; People v. Saginaw County, 26 Mich. 22; Hitchcock v. St. Louis, 49 Mo. 484; State v. Smith (N. J. 1887), 11 Atl. Rep. 321; Tyler v. Beacher, 44 Vt. 651; 8 Am. Rep. 398; Reeves v. Wood County, 8 Ohio St. 333; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410; Soens v. Racine, 10 Wis. 271; Hasbrouck v. Milwaukee, 13 Wis. 37; 80 Am. Dec. 718; Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 167; 3 Am. Rep. 30; State v. Tappan, 29 Wis. 664; 9 Am. Rep. 622; Gove v. Epping, 41 N. H. 539; Spencer v. Joint School District, 15 Kan. 262; Citizens' Sav. Assoc. v. Topeka, 3 Dill. (U. S.) 376; Jarrott v. Moberly, 103 U. S. 580; Cole v. La Grange, 113 U. S. 1; Osborne v. Adams County, 106 U. S. 181; Osborne v.

a tax is intended to destroy a use deemed against the policy of the government, does not necessarily render the tax unlawful.¹

2. General Rule of Construction.—It is the essential character of the direct object of the expenditure contemplated which determines the validity of the tax therefor, and not the magnitude of the interest to be affected, nor the degree to which the general advantage of the community may be ultimately benefited. If the enterprise is strictly private, incidental

Adams County, 109 U. S. 1; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 104 U. S. 81; McMillen v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 37; People v. Flagg, 46 N. Y. 401; Matter of New York, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 80; Stockton, etc., R. Co. v. Stockton, 41 Cal. 173; People v. Saginaw County, 26 Mich. 22; Gurnee v. Chicago, 40 Ill. 165; People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400; People v. State Treasurer, 23 Mich. 499; Bradley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 21 Conn. 305; Silsbee v. Stocklee, 44 Mich. 561; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Warren v. Henly, 31 Iowa 31; English v. People, 96 Ill. 566; Bissell v. Kankakee, 64 Ill. 249; 21 Am. Rep. 554; Scammon v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 269; Allen v. Jay, 60 Me. 124; 11 Am. Rep. 185; State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 Me. 518; Central Branch, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 23 Kan. 745; Lowell v. Oliver, 8 Allen (Mass.) 247; Freeland v. Hastings, 10 Allen (Mass.) 570; Dorgan v. Boston, 12 Allen (Mass.) 223; Bradshaw v. Omaha, 1 Neb. 16; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 370; Feldman v. Charleston, 23 S. Car. 57; 55 Am. Rep. 6; State v. Clinton, 26 La. Ann. 561; Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 157; 59 Am. Dec. 759; Spencer v. Merchant, 100 N. Y. 585; Brodhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624; 88 Am. Dec. 711; Donnelly v. Decker, 58 Wis. 461; 46 Am. Rep. 637; Wauwatosa v. Guyon, 25 Wis. 271; Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Seely v. Sebastian, 4 Oregon 25; Bloodgood v. Mohawk, etc., R. Co., 18 Wend. (N. Y.) 9; 31 Am. Dec. 313; Curtis v. Whipple, 24 Wis. 350; 1 Am. Rep. 187; Citizens' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Topeka City, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 65; Parkinsburgh v. Brown, 106 U. S. 487; Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678; Cole v. La Grange, 113 U. S. 1; State v. Osawkee Tp., 14 Kan. 418; 19 Am. Rep. 99; Williams v. School Dist. No. 6, 33 Vt. 271; First Nat. Bank v. Concord, 50 Vt. 257; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Davidson County, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 637; 62 Am. Dec. 424; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 152; 3

Am. Rep. 615; Philadelphia Assoc. v. Wood, 39 Pa. St. 73.

The validity depends upon the ultimate use and object of the tax, and not upon the channel through which it is applied. Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Perry v. Keene (N. H.), 15 Am. Law. Reg. 397; Atkins v. Randolph, 31 Vt. 247; Coates v. Campbell, 37 Minn. 498; Brown v. Hertford, 100 N. Car. 92; Wood v. Oxford, 97 N. Car. 227; Kimball v. Mobile, 3 Woods (U. S.) 555; Bard v. Augusta, 30 Fed. Rep. 906. A tax for a mere private purpose is unconstitutional, even though collected and applied by public officers; and a tax for a public purpose may be valid, even though levied, collected, and used, under the direction of an individual or private corporation. Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 147; 59 Am. Dec. 759; Davidson v. Ramsey County, 18 Minn. 482; Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678; Taylor v. Ypsilanti, 105 U. S. 60. And see infra, this title, Municipal Taxation.

Where the purpose for which an act provides for taxation is partly public and partly private, and the amount to be raised for each cannot be distinguished and severed, the act is void. Coates v. Campbell, 37 Minn. 498.

1. Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 539; followed in Merchant's Nat. Bank v. U. S., 101 U. S. 1, sustained the validity of U. S. Rev. Stat., § 3413, requiring the payment of a tax of ten per cent. imposed on state banks or national banks for paying out the notes of individuals or state banks used in circulation; it being conceded that the taxation in question was intended to destroy the use of state currency.

A tax on a business cannot be enjoined on the ground of possible inability of the parties to pay it, whereby it may work irreparable injury by breaking up their business. The enforcement of any tax may possibly work an injury of this nature. Young-benefit to the public, however certain and great, does not justify the public aid in its behalf.¹ The question whether money required is in the nature of a tax, or is an illegal exaction under the name and guise of a tax, is a judicial one,² the presumpblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654.

1. Lowell v. Boston, 111 Mass. 454; 15 Am. Rep. 39; Citizens' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Topeka City, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 655; People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400; Curtis v. Whipple, 24 Wis. 350; 1 Am. Rep. 187; People v. Parks, 58 Cal. 624; Feldman v. Charleston, 23 S. Car. 57; 55 Am. Rep. 6; Weismer v. Douglas, 64 N. Y. 91; 21 Am. Rep. 586; though incidental benefit to individuals will not vitiate a tax, the purpose of which is governmental. Soens v. Racine, 10 Wis. 271; Taylor v. Ypsilanti, 105 U. S. 60. It is enough if an improvement be for the common and general benefit of all the citizens, as distinguished from work from which only incidental benefits may flow. People v. Kelly, 5 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 383; 76 N. Y. 489.

A town cannot divide among the inhabitants thereof, according to families, the money received under the statute "providing for the disposition and payment of the public money apportioned to the State of Maine, on deposit, by the government of the United States." Hooper v. Emery, 14 Me. 375. Tax levies and expenditures need not be confined to such as are absolutely needful to the continued existence of organized government. People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400; Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 147; 59 Am. Dec. 759; and the test of the public use of an improvement is not a right of enjoyment wholly at the public expense, but a common and equal right, free from unreasonable discrimination. Holt v. Antrim, 64 N. H. 284; Perry v. Keene, 56 N. H. 514. Public uses may differ in nature and kind, and in the degree or extent of the public enjoyment. There may be various degrees of the same kind of public use. Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 167; 3 Am. Rep. 30.

The courts must be governed mainly by the course and usage of the government, the objects for which taxes have been customarily levied, and the objects and purposes which have been considered necessary to the support and for the proper use of the government. Citizens' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Topeka City, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 661.

Eminent Domain.—The rule has been laid down that the taxing power may be exercised for any object which will justify the exercise of the right of eminent domain. Stewart v. Park County, 30 Iowa 9. And see Opinion of Justices, 150 Mass. 592; Covington v. Southgate, 15 B. Mon. (Ky.) 491; Opinion of Judges, 58 Me. 590; Astor v. New York, 37 N. Y. Super. Ct. 539; Garrard County Ct. v. Kentucky River Nav. Co. (Ky.), 10 Am. Law Reg. N. S. 151. But in People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400, it was said that the fact that the state may exercise the power of eminent domain in behalf of an enterprise, does not determine its right to exercise the power of taxation in aid of the same object; the principles governing eminent domain correspond to those controlling the police power rather than to those applying to the power of taxation, and its exercise has regard rather to the public need than to the public character of its object. And see Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 167; 3 Am. Rep. 30.

2. Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; Shawnee County v. Carter, 2 Kan. 131; Denny v. Mattoon, 2 Allen (Mass.) 361; 79 Am. Dec. 784; Holden v. James, 11 Mass. 396; People v. State Treasurer, 23 Mich. 499; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Good v. Zercher, 12 Ohio 367; Norman v. Heist, 5 W. & S. (Pa.) 171; 40 Am. Dec. 493; Greenough v. Greenough, 11 Pa. St. 494; 51 Am. Dec. 567; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; 3 Am. Rep. 615; Norris v. Waco, 57 Tex. 635; Allen v. Drew, 44 Vt. 174; Hooper v. Emery, 14 Me. 375; Allen v. Jay, 60 Me. 124; 11 Am. Rep. 185. And see Prince v. Boston, 148 Mass. 285.

Whether lands should bear a burden, or a share of a burden, for another's benefit, is a question of property and private rights, and a proper one for the determination of the court. Bradshaw v. Omaha, 1 Neb. 16.

Federal Jurisdiction.—The nature of taxation, what purposes are public and tion being in favor of the validity of the legislative action.¹

3. What Purposes are Public.—The construction and maintenance of highways and bridges have for their object the accommodation of the public, and are legitimate purposes of taxation;² so railroads are considered public improvements in the nature of highways promoting the general welfare of the public, and taxation to aid in their construction or maintenance is upheld by the

what are private, and the extent of unrestricted legislative power, are matters which, like questions of commercial law, no state court can conclusively determine in such a manner as to be binding upon the federal courts. Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678.

1. The decision of the legislature is entitled to great respect, Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 215; State v. Clinton, 26 La. Am. 561; Feldman v. Charleston, 23 S. Car. 57; 55 Am. Rep. 6; and to justify a court in declaring the tax void, the absence of all possible public interest in the purposes for which the funds are raised, must be so clear and palpable as to be immediately perceptible to every mind. Brodhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624; 88 Am. Dec. 711; Speer v. School Directors, 50 Pa. St. 150; Walker v. Cincinnati, 21 Ohio St. 14; 8 Am. Rep. 24; Stockton, etc., R. Co. v. Stockton, 41 Cal. 173; Wells v. Weston, 22 Mo. 384; English v. Oliver, 28 Ark. 317; People v. Kelly, 5 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 383; 76 N. Y. 489; Guilford v. Chenango County, 13 N. Y. 149; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 85 Pa. St. 170; 27 Am. Dec. 733; Morgan v. Com., 55 Pa. St. 456; Ahl v. Gleim, 52 Pa. St. 432. And see Beekman v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 3 Paige (N. Y.) 73; 22 Am. Dec. 679.

If there be the least possibility that making the gift will be in any degree promotive to the public welfare, it becomes a question of policy and not of natural justice, and the determination of the legislature is conclusive. Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 128. And see Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 174; 59 Am. Dec. 759; Schenley v. Allegheny, 25 Pa. St. 128; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; 3 Am. Rep. 615; Cheaney v. Hooser, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 344; Citizen's Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Topeka City, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 655; People v. East Saginaw, 33 Mich. 164; Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Shackford v. New- ington, 46 N. H. 415; Tulane Education Fund v. Board of Assessors, 38 La. Ann. 292; Norris v. Waco, 57 Tex. 635; Davey v. Galveston County, 45 Tex. 291; Bloomfield, etc., Gas Co. v. Richardson, 63 Barb. (N. Y.) 437; Tide-water Co. v. Coster, 18 N. J. Eq. 519; 90 Am. Dec. 634.

If the purpose designated by the legislature lies so near the border line that it may be doubtful on which side it has domicile, the courts will not set their judgment against that of the law-makers. Weismer v. Douglas, 64 N. Y. 91; 21 Am. Rep. 586; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 62 Ill. 268; 14 Am. Rep. 99. And see Broadway Baptist Church v. McAtee, 8 Bush (Ky.) 508; 8 Am. Rep. 480. In Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65, it was said that the power of taxation acts upon communities, and may be exerted in favor of any object which the legislature shall deem for the public benefit.

2. Com. v. McWilliams, 11 Pa. St. 61; McClenachan v. Curwin, 3 Yeates (Pa.) 362; Dillingham v. Snow, 5 Mass. 547; O'Kane v. Treat, 25 Ill. 557; Ricketts v. Spraker, 77 Ind. 371; Atty. Gen'l v. Bay County, 34 Mich. 46; State v. Com'rs, 37 Ohio St. 526; Talbot v. Dent, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 526; Luehrman v. Taxing Dist., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 442; Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65; People v. Flagg, 46 N. Y. 401; People v. Kelly, 5 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 383; 76 N. Y. 481; Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 167; 3 Am. Rep. 30.

To purchase a toll road, in order to make it free to the public, is a public purpose. Warder v. Clark County, 38 Ohio St. 639. But an assessment for the purpose of erecting a bridge has been held void where the bridge rests in part on private land. Pacific Bridge Co. v. Kirkhan, 54 Cal. 558.

Canals.—Canals and other artificial water ways are considered public highways, within the above rule. Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65. And see HIGHWAY, vol. 9, p. 262.

weight of authority.¹ The construction of harbors,² piers, breakwaters, etc.;³ the building of levees to prevent the overflow of land;⁴ providing for the drainage and reclamation of bodies of swamp and overflowed lands;⁵ the manufacture and distribution

1. Railroads.—Sharpless v. Philadelphia, 21 Pa. St. 147; 59 Am. Dec. 759; Taylor v. Ypsilanti, 105 U. S. 60; Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678; New Buffalo Tp. v. Cambria Iron Co., 105 U. S. 73; Davidson v. Ramsey County, 18 Minn. 482; Perry v. Keene, 56 N. H. 514. Notwithstanding the road is without the state. Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178. And see Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 47 Pa. St. 189. See also infra, this title, Municipal Taxation, sub-tit., Purposes.

The mere fact that individuals are to own the railroads and receive the tolls, in no wise impairs or diminishes the advantages to be derived from them, to the public. Gibson v. Mason, 5 Nev. 283.

The public use consists in the right of the public to the carriage of persons and property, upon tendering the proper consideration, and in the power of the state to control the franchise and limit the tolls, Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 186; 3 Am. Rep. 30; and the private benefit, instead of being the occasion of the grant, is but the reward springing from the services rendered. Taylor v. Ypsilanti, 105 U. S. 60.

In Pine Grove Tp. v. Talcott, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 666, the work of a railroad was held to be as much public as if it were constructed by the state, the court refusing to follow the courts of the state where the case arose, on the ground that the question belonged to the domain of general jurisprudence, and that in such cases the federal court must hear and determine for itself.

The building of a railway, if connected with a municipality, tends to improve the means of travel and transportation, and consequently to promote one of the primary objects for which the municipality was created. Rogers v. Burlington, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 654. But the contrary rule has been adopted by some authorities, upon the ground that the development of the material prosperity of the state is a mere incident to the business carried on, and that railroading in private hands is not to be distinguished, in its legal characteristics, from other private enterprises. See infra, this title, Municipal Taxation, sub-tit., Purposes; People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400; People v. State Treasurer, 23 Mich. 499; Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 167; 3 Am. Rep. 30.

2. Harbors.—Taxation for the construction of harbors, and to meet liabilities incurred under contracts for their construction, is upheld. State v. Milwaukee, 25 Wis. 122; President, etc., of Revenue v. State, 45 Ala. 399. And see New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Ellerman, 105 U. S. 166; Police Jury v. Shreveport, 5 La. Ann. 661; State v. Fagan, 22 La. Ann. 545; Stevens v. Walker, 15 La. Ann. 577; People v. Vanderbilt, 26 N. Y. 287; Gould v. Hudson River R. Co., 6 N. Y. 522.

3. Soens v. Racine, 10 Wis. 271; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Ellerman, 105 U. S. 166.

4. Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Alcorn v. Hamer, 38 Miss. 652; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; 61 Am. Dec. 508; State v. Clinton, 26 La. Ann. 561; Selby v. Levee Com'rs, 14 La. Ann. 437; Bishop v. Marks, 15 La. Ann. 147; State v. Maginnis, 26 La. Ann. 558; Egyptian Levee Co. v. Hardin, 27 Mo. 495; 72 Am. Dec. 276; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Ellerman, 105 U. S. 166.

A levee tax is not an internal improvement, within a constitutional provision prohibiting a state from engaging in such work. Such provisions relate to public internal improvements and local concerns for general or county purposes, and not to improvements for special local purposes where the improvements are made by assessments on the property improved. McGehee v. Mathis, 21 Ark. 40.

5. Reclamation of Land.—Hagar v. Yolo County, 47 Cal. 222; Hyde Park v. Spencer, 118 Ill. 446; McChesney v. Hyde Park (Ill. 1891), 28 N. E. Rep. 1102; Dingley v. Boston, 100 Mass. 544; Talbot v. Hudson, 16 Gray (Mass.) 417; Anderson v. Kerns Draining Co., 14 Ind. 199; 77 Am. Dec. 63; State v. Henry County, 41 Ohio St. 423; Chesbrough v. Com'rs, 37 Ohio St. 508; Sessions v. Crunkilton, 20 Ohio St. 349; Seely v. Sebastian, 4 Oregon 25; Donnelly v. Decker, 58 Wis. 461; of gas or electric light;¹ the supply of pure water to a large number of inhabitants;² the erection of a market-house,³ the maintenance of a fire department,⁴ and the protection and promotion of 46 Am. Rep. 637; Tide-water Co. v. Coster, 18 N. J. Eq. 518; 90 Am. Dec. 634; People v. Nearing, 27 N. Y. 306; Hartwell v. Armstrong, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 166; Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701; Shelley v. St. Charles County, 17 Fed. Rep. 909; Boro v. Phillips County, 4 Dill. (U. S.) 216.

But the legislature cannot authorize the levy of a tax for the construction on private property of a drain in which the public are not concerned. People v. Saginaw County, 26 Mich. 22. And see Cypress Pond Draining Co. v. Hooper, 2 Metc. (Ky.) 350. Such as draining farms to render them more productive. Anderson v. Kerns Draining Co., 14 Ind. 199; 77 Am. Dec. 63.

If lands are reclaimed by some work or method of improvement which may be used by the public, such as a canal for carrying purposes, the combination of reclaiming the lands and providing facilities of transportation will bring the enterprise under the principles of both eminent domain and taxation. Donnelly v. Decker, 58 Wis. 461; 46 Am. Rep. 637.

A claim that lots were drained because such drainage was essential to the public health and welfare, must be sustained by proof. Matter of Church of Holy Sepulchre, 61 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 315.

Storage of Debris.—Though the drainage of a state is a public purpose, the storage of débris from mines is, in its nature, a private enterprise. People v. Parks, 58 Cal. 624.

1. Gas and Electric Light.—The manufacture and distribution of gas or electric light is a public purpose in which a city may engage. Opinion of Justices, 150 Mass. 592. And see Bloomfield, etc., Gas Co. v. Richardson, 63 Barb. (N. Y.) 437; Hamilton Gas Light, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, 37 Fed. Rep. 832.

It is no objection to an act authorizing the issue of municipal bonds to secure a supply of natural gas, that the main object of the act is to enable the city to supply its individual inhabitants with fuel at a cheaper rate than they could obtain it from other sources. So long as the act is for the benefit of all the citizens of the municipality, it does not lose its character as an act for a public purpose. Fellows v. Walker, 39 Fed. Rep. 651.

2. Water.—Lumbard v. Stearns, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 60; Hardy v. Waltham, 3 Met. (Mass.) 163; Burden v. Stein, 27 Ala. 104; 62 Am. Dec. 758; Burlington Water Co. v. Woodward, 49 Iowa 63; Grant v. Davenport, 36 Iowa 396; Chadwick v. Maginnis, 94 Pa. St. 117; Wells v. Atlanta, 43 Ga. 67.

The government of the United States has power to construct an aqueduct and to impose taxes therefor, for the purpose of supplying water to the city of Washington from within the limits of the State of Maryland, and may use and occupy land for that purpose in Maryland, with her permission and consent. Reddall v. Bryan, 14 Md. 444.

In Allentown v. Henry, 73 Pa. St. 404, it was held that an act incorporating a water company, which is unconstitutional so far as it seeks to authorize a private corporation to levy and collect a tax upon a citizen, may be made available by an act permitting the city to buy the works and franchises of such corporation.

A municipality, under authority from the legislature to make all contracts which they may deem necessary for the welfare of the city, may contract for the construction of water-works. Rome v. Cabot, 28 Ga. 50.

3. Market-house.—Where a town built a market-house two stories high, and appropriated the lower story for the purposes of a market-house, which was bona fide their principal and leading object in erecting the building, the appropriation of the upper story to other subordinate purposes, was held not such an excess of authority as to render the erection of the building, and the raising of the money therefor, illegal. Spaulding v. Lowell, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 71.

4. Fire Apparatus.—Van Sicklen v. Burlington, 27 Vt. 70; Torrey v. Millbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64. It is immaterial whether the fire apparatus was purchased with public funds, or funds raised by private subscription. Allen v. Taunton, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 485. Where a fire department is a private corporation, it is not within the

the public health, are all public objects for the furtherance of which taxes may be laid.¹

The power to tax for the payment of debts is coextensive with the power to incur the indebtedness;² and a tax may be power of the legislature to confer upon it the power to tax. State v. Smith (N. J. 1887), 11 Atl. Rep. 321.

Where an act authorized the issue of bonds of a village, principally to aid in the construction of a dam for the purpose of improving a private water power, it is immaterial that the act stated that such water power was for the use of the public fire department, and it is, nevertheless, unconstitutional. Coates v. Campbell, 37 Minn. 498. And see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, vol. 15, p. 1054.

1. Anderson v. Kerns Draining Co., 14 Ind. 199; 77 Am. Dec. 63; People v. Macomb County, 3 Mich. 475; Talbot v. Hudson, 16 Gray (Mass.) 417; Dingley v. Boston, 100 Mass. 544; Solomon v. Tarver, 52 Ga. 405; Sessions v. Crunkilton, 20 Ohio St. 349; Luehrman v. Taxing Dist., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 442. And see Woodruff v. Fisher, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 224; Hartwell v. Armstrong, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 166; Taylor v. Board of Health, 31 Pa. St. 73; In re Draining Co., 11 La. Ann. 338; Miller v. Craig, 11 N. J. Eq. 175; Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701.

Where a board of health of a township necessarily incurs expense by removing a person affected with a contagious disease, and the persons liable for his support are unable to pay such expenses, they are a charge against the county, which it is the duty of the board of supervisors to allow. People v. Macomb County, 3 Mich. 475.

2. Nougues v. Douglass, 7 Cal. 65; Com. v. Allegheny County, 37 Pa. St. 277; Com. v. Perkins, 43 Pa. St. 400; Alcorn v. Hamer, 38 Miss. 652. And see Louisville v. Murphy, 86 Ky. 53; State v. Milwaukee, 25 Wis. 122.

The obligation of a tax may have relation to debts already incurred, or it may be, in anticipation, dependent on future contingencies. Morton v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430. And it is not necessary that the demand should be a legal one; where a moral obligation exists, legal effect may be given to it. Guilford v. Chenango County, 13 N. Y. 143; Bancroft v. Lynnfield, 18 Pick. (Mass.) 566; 29 Am. Dec. 623;

State v. Richland Tp., 20 Ohio St. 362; State v. Board of Education, 38 Ohio St. 3; In re Vacation of Howard St., 142 Pa. St. 601; Brewster v. Syracuse, 19 N. Y. 116; People v. Burr, 13 Cal. 343; Beals v. Amador County, 35 Cal. 625; Brodhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624; 88 Am. Dec. 711; Curtis v. Whipple, 24 Wis. 354; 1 Am. Rep. 187; State v. Tappan, 29 Wis. 664; 9 Am. Rep. 622; Lycoming v. Union, 15 Pa. St. 166; 53 Am. Dec. 575; Beals v. Amador County, 35 Cal. 624; Warder v. Clark County, 38 Ohio St. 639; State v. Hoffman, 35 Ohio St. 435; Board of Education v. McLandsborough, 36 Ohio St. 227; New Orleans v. Clark, 95 U. S. 644. And see Baker v. Windham, 13 Me. 74; Fuller v. Groton, 11 Gray (Mass.) 340; Nelson v. Milford, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 18; Pike v. Middleton, 12 N. H. 278; Shermann v. Carr, 8 R. I. 431. Also Pease v. Chicago, 21 Ill. 500; Faas v. Warner, 96 Pa. St. 215; Bristol v. Johnson, 34 Mich. 123.

An act authorizing the levy and collection of a tax to compensate the owners of lots for damages sustained by the removal of a county seat to another town, has been held constitutional. Wilkinson v. Cheatham, 43 Ga. 258. And an act imposing a tax upon a local district of the state for a public improvement, as a canal, was held valid, notwithstanding that previous to its passage a number of individuals in such district had entered into a contract with the state, binding themselves to pay the whole expense of the improvement. Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65.

And taxation, to make good the losses of parties who have suffered from the acts of rioters, has been held to be for a public use. Darlington v. New York, 31 N. Y. 164; 88 Am. Dec. 248.

Towns have power to raise money to indemnify their officers against liabilities incurred, or damages sustained, in the bona fide discharge of their duties, even though they are not legally bound to indemnify them. Fuller v. Groton, 11 Gray (Mass.) 340; Nelson v. Milford, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 18; Bancroft v. Lynnfield, 18 Pick. (Mass.) 568; 29 Am. Dec. 623; Hadsell v. Hancock, 3 Gray (Mass.) 526; Friend v.

imposed to meet general or contingent expenses not yet incurred.¹ Necessary public buildings may be provided;² and the purchase and embellishment of land for a park for the enjoyment of the citizens.³

The establishment and maintenance of schools;⁴ the suste-

Gilbert, 108 Mass. 408. And see Mount v. State, 90 Ind. 29; 46 Am. Rep. 192. But in Bristol v. Johnson, 34 Mich. 123, a statute providing for raising money by tax to reimburse a township treasurer for the sum paid by him to make good an amount of the public money, of which he had been robbed, was held to be unconstitutional and void; though in Ford v. Clough, 8 Me. 334; 23 Am. Dec. 513, it was held that a town might release a doubtful claim against its treasurer, thereby making him a competent witness.

In Friend v. Gilbert, 108 Mass. 408, it was held that a town has power to make compensation, over and above the contract price, for labor done in building a town house.

1. Webster v. Baltimore County, 51 Md. 395; Freeland v. Hastings, 10 Allen (Mass.) 570; State v. Milwaukee, 25 Wis. 122. And see Spring v. Olney, 78 Ill. 101. But see Midland v. Roscommon Tp., 39 Mich. 424.

There is no valid distinction, in principle, between a right to raise money for a specific object yet to be accomplished, and a right to raise it to defray the expense of the same object after it has been done. Lowell v. Oliver, 8 Allen (Mass.) 247. And see Morton v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430; Hilbish v. Catherman, 64 Pa. St. 154.

In Marion County v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 91 Ky. 388, it was held that the collection of a turnpike tax levied by a county under proper authority, cannot be defeated upon the ground that there was no turnpike debt due when the levy was made, when it appears that money had been borrowed from the sinking fund of the county to pay the debt, and had not been repaid. Power to levy taxes for general or contingent, or any other expenses not otherwise provided for, is sufficiently broad to authorize the levy of a tax to pay ordinary debts. Spring v. Olney, 78 Ill. 101.

But the improper appropriation of a fund raised to meet general or contingent expenses, vitiates the tax and all proceedings under it. Culbertson v.

Witbeck Co., 127 U. S. 326; Hitchcock v. St. Louis, 49 Mo. 484.

In Culbertson v. Witbeck Co., 127 U. S. 326, it was held that where the record of the proceedings of a county board shows an appropriation of a sum of money for illegal purposes, immediately followed by the levy of a tax for a contingent fund to defray general expenses, oral testimony showing that the sum was actually paid, together with record evidence of the payment of taxes afterwards levied for similar purposes, is sufficient to show that the sum voted was paid out of the levy then made, and that the levy and subsequent proceedings were consequently invalid.

2. Harris v. Dubuclet, 30 La. Ann. 662; but not if the state debt is thereby increased beyond the amount limited by the constitution. Nougues v. Douglass, 7 Cal. 65.

An appropriation may be made for the repair of a public clock. Willard v. Newburyport, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 227.

3. Atty. Gen'l v. Burrell, 31 Mich. 25; People v. Salomon, 51 Ill. 37; Hessler v. Drainage Com'rs, 53 Ill. 105; People v. Brislin, 80 Ill. 423; Dunham v. People, 96 Ill. 331; State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458; Matter of Central Park Com'rs, 50 N. Y. 493; Austin v. Coggeshall, 12 R. I. 329; 34 Am. Rep. 648. And see Matter of Prospect Park, 60 N. Y. 398.

4. Schools.—Burr v. Carbondale, 76 Ill. 456; Horton v. Mobile School Com'rs, 43 Ala. 598; Board of Public Education v. Barlow, 49 Ga. 232; Marks v. Purdue University, 37 Ind. 155; Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 500; Cushing v. Newburyport, 10 Met. (Mass.) 508; Opinion of Justices, 68 Me. 582; Com. v. Hartman, 17 Pa. St. 118; Smith v. McCarthy, 56 Pa. St. 359; Felty v. Uhler, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 512; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 4 Am. Rep. 215; Marshall v. Donovan, 10 Bush (Ky.) 681; Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Williams v. School Dist. No. 6, 33 Vt. 271; Curtis v. Whipple, 24 Wis. 350; 1 Am. Rep. 187; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 104 U. S. 78; Antoni v. Wright, 22 Gratt. (Va.) 857; Gordon v.

nance and support of the poor;¹ donations for charitable purposes;² pensions to persons who have served in the army or navy, Cornes, 47 N. Y. 613; Sinclair v. Jackson, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 543; Collins v. Henderson, 11 Bush (Ky.) 74; Dillingham v. Snow, 5 Mass. 547; Luehrman v. Taxing Dist., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 442; Munson v. Collingwood, 9 U. C. C. P. 497. And see SCHOOLS, vol. 21, p. 838.

The power of towns to raise money for the support of town schools is not restricted to the amount necessary to support the schools, originally provided for, but they may also grant money to support other town schools for instruction in branches of knowledge not required nor taught in such schools. Cushing v. Newburyport, 10 Met. (Mass.) 508. And high schools in which other languages than English are taught, may be maintained. Stuart v. School Dist. No. 1, 30 Mich. 69.

Normal schools are public institutions in aid of which the power to tax may be granted, even though the constitution expressly directs the establishment of other forms of schools, and omits the mention of normal schools. Briggs v. Johnson County, 4 Dill. (U. S.) 148.

The constitutional provision directing the maintenance of free schools for at least four months, amounts to a mandate to the legislature to provide the means of sustaining a free school in each district in the state for that time at least, and does not prohibit a larger provision. State v. Miller, 65 Mo. 50.

Private and Sectarian Schools.—But the power to tax must be exercised in aid of public schools only, taxation in aid of mere private or sectarian institutions being illegal and void. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Atchison, 47 Kan. 712; People v. McAdams, 82 Ill. 256; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Iowa 28; 1 Am. Rep. 25; Jenkins v. Andover, 103 Mass. 94; Curtis v. Whipple, 24 Wis. 250; 1 Am. Rep. 187. And see Higgins v. Prater, 91 Ky. 6. But see Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 500.

In Barrett v. Winnipeg, 19 Can. Sup. Ct. 374, an act depriving Catholics of the right to have their children taught according to the rules of their church, and compelling them to contribute to the support of schools to which they could not conscientiously send their children, was held to be beyond the power of the legislature, and void.

Schoolhouse.—It has been held that a schoolhouse to be leased to an academy corporation may be erected, Holt v. Antrim, 64 N. H. 284; and a district may unite with other parties in the erection of a building, one part to be owned by the district as a schoolhouse, and the other to be owned by other parties as a public hall. Eddy v. Wilson, 43 Vt. 362; George v. School Dist., 6 Met. (Mass.) 497.

1. Support of Poor.—The Shepherd's Fold v. New York, 96 N. Y. 137; Knowlton v. Rock County, 9 Wis. 410. And see State v. Douglas County, 18 Neb. 601.

In State v. Nelson County, 1 N. Dak. 88, a statute authorizing counties to issue bonds to procure seed grain for needy farmers resident therein, was held to be for a public purpose, and therefore constitutional, it being intended as a measure for the necessary support of the poor; and in Briggs v. Whipple, 6 Vt. 95, where the overseers of the poor incurred expense in defending a suit brought against them, on account of acts performed by them with a view to rendering assistance to a pauper, a tax voted by the town to defray such expenses was held to be legal.

But the poor who may be assisted and supported at public expense are those who are entirely destitute and helpless, and dependent on public charity. State v. Osawkee Tp., 14 Kan. 418; 19 Am. Rep. 99. And see Budd v. New York, 143 U. S. 517.

2. Charities.—Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118. And see People v. Glowacki, 2 Thomp. & C. (N. Y.) 436. But special legislation is necessary to authorize a municipality to tax for such purposes. St. Mary's Industrial School v. Brown, 45 Md. 310.

Gifts to unfortunate classes of society, as the indigent, blind, the deaf and dumb, or insane, or grants to particular colleges or schools, or grants of pensions, swords or other mementoes for past services, involving the general good indirectly and in a slight degree, are frequently made, and never questioned. Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118. See also Baldwin v. Douglas County (Neb. 1893), 55 N. W. Rep. 875.

or who have performed other public services;¹ and bounties to volunteers enlisting in the military service of the United States,² are all considered public purposes for which a tax may be levied.

But donations of money raised by taxation are invalid when the donee is a mere private institution and not under the control of the government, and having no connection with it. Hitchcock v. St. Louis, 49 Mo. 484; Philadelphia Assoc. v. Wood, 39 Pa. St. 82. But see Shepherd's Fold v. New York, 96 N. Y. 137.

1. Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118. See also PENSIONS, vol. 18, p. 283.

In Exempt Fireman's Fund v. Rome, 93 N. Y. 313, taxation for the benefit of firemen who had earned exemption by the performance of duty for a required period, was upheld, notwithstanding a constitutional provision prohibiting giving the moneys of the state to, or in aid of, any association, corporation, or private undertaking.

2. Bounties.—Brodhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624; 88 Am. Dec. 711; Dinehart v. LaFayette, 19 Wis. 677; Wahlschlager v. Liberty, 23 Wis. 363; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Taylor v. Thompson, 42 Ill. 9; Henderson v. Lagow, 42 Ill. 360; Briscoe v. Allison, 43 Ill. 291; Misner v. Bullard, 43 Ill. 470; Johnson v. Campbell, 49 Ill. 316; Stebbins v. Leaman, 47 Ill. 352; State v. Sullivan, 43 Ill. 412; Veazie v. China, 50 Me. 518; Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78; Speer v. School Directors, 50 Pa. St. 150; Ahl v. Gleim, 52 Pa. St. 432; Cass Tp. v. Dillen, 16 Ohio St. 38; State v. Harris, 17 Ohio St. 608. And see Jones v. Chamberlain, 109 N. Y. 100; Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78; Kunkle v. Franklin, 13 Minn. 127; 97 Am. Dec. 226; Comer v. Folsom, 13 Minn. 205; Wilson v. Buckmass, 13 Minn. 441. And see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, vol. 15, p. 1052. But see Ferguson v. Landram, 1 Bush (Ky.) 548, where it was held that no state, by her own legislation, can tax her own citizens for aiding or opposing the prosecution of a national war for which they have been, or are liable to be, taxed by the general government.

Towns cannot be compelled to levy a tax for such a purpose. State v. Tappan, 29 Wis. 664; 9 Am. Rep. 622; Tyson v. School Directors, 51 Pa. St. 9.

The bounties which may be paid are those paid, or agreed to be paid, for and not to soldiers. No effective support or assistance is furnished by giving increased compensation to those already enlisted and whose services as soldiers are already subjected to the government, Fowler v. Danvers, 8 Allen (Mass.) 80; Stetson v. Kempton, 13 Mass. 272; but a vote to pay a bounty to those who have enlisted or shall enlist, is invalid only as to those who have enlisted at its passage. Crowell v. Hopkinton, 45 N. H. 9; Shackford v. Newington, 46 N. H. 415. See also Briscoe v. Allison, 43 Ill. 291; Taylor v. Thompson, 42 Ill. 9.

It is not unconstitutional to impose a tax, for the purpose of relieving the inhabitants of a town from the burden of a draft, upon persons who were not liable to be drafted into service. The tax is for the common benefit. State v. Jackson, 31 N. J. L. 189.

Taxation may be used for the purpose of refunding money contributed into a common fund for the general purpose of filling quotas of troops. Freeland v. Hastings, 10 Allen (Mass.) 670; Fowler v. Danvers, 8 Allen (Mass.) 80; Opinion of Judges, 52 Me. 595; Shackford v. Newington, 46 N. H. 415; Waldo v. Portland, 33 Conn. 363; Bartholomew v. Harwinton, 33 Conn. 408; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 128; Johnson v. Campbell, 49 Ill. 316; Misner v. Bullard, 43 Ill. 470; Sullivan v. State, 66 Ill. 75; State v. Jackson, 31 N. J. L. 190; Weister v. Hade, 52 Pa. St. 474; Kelly v. Marshall, 69 Pa. St. 319; Susquehanna Depot v. Barry, 61 Pa. St. 317; Micheltree v. Sweezy, 70 Pa. St. 278; Grim v. Weissenberg School Dist., 57 Pa. St. 433; 98 Am. Dec. 237. And see Buhl v. Springwells Tp., 14 Mich. 398; Washington County v. Berwick, 56 Pa. St. 467; Felty v. Uhler, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 513. But when the money is advanced by individuals, it must have been on the faith that it would be refunded. State v. Sullivan, 43 Ill. 412; Cass Tp. v. Dillon, 16 Ohio 38; Miller v. Grandy, 13 Mich. 540; People v. Woodhull, 14 Mich. 28; Micheltree v. Sweezy, 70 Pa. St. 278; Tyson v. School Directors, 51 Pa. St. 9; Perkins v. Milford, 59 Me. 315; Cole v. Bedford, 97 Mass. 326; Estey v. Westminster, 97 Mass. 324; Cover v. Baytown, 12 Minn. 124. But see Hilbish v. Catherman, 64 Pa. St. 154, and State v. Richland Tp., 20 Ohio St. 362; and moneys advanced in aid of families or persons who have enlisted and have been duly mustered into the military service of the United States, may be repaid by taxation. Lowell v. Oliver, 8 Allen (Mass.) 247; Brodhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624; 88 Am. Dec. 711; Dinehart v. LaFayette, 19 Wis. 677. But taxes cannot be imposed for the purpose of refunding money paid by individuals for obtaining substitutes. Freeland v. Hastings, 10 Allen (Mass.) 570; Estey v. Westminster, 97 Mass. 324; Moulton v. Raymond, 60 Me. 121; Opinion of Judges (Me.), 2 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 621; Thompson v. Pittston, 59 Me. 545; Crowell v. Hopkinton, 45 N. H. 9; Shackford v. Newington, 46 N. H. 415; Kelly v. Marshall, 69 Pa. St. 319; Drake v. Phillips, 40 Ill. 388; Usher v. Colchester, 33 Conn. 567; Ferguson v. Landram, 5 Bush (Ky.) 230; 96 Am. Dec. 350; 1 Bush (Ky.) 548. And see Taylor v. Thompson, 42 Ill. 9; Kunkle v. Franklin, 13 Minn. 127; 97 Am. Dec. 226.

4. What Purposes are Not Public.—Taxes cannot be levied to aid a mere private manufacturing enterprise;¹ nor to aid individuals in rebuilding a large district destroyed by fire;² nor by towns and municipalities to furnish amusements, or celebrate the anniversary

In People v. Onondaga County, 16 Mich. 254, it was held that where individuals raised money on their own credit for bounty purposes, with some expectation that the town authorities would assume it, and a town meeting did subsequently assume it without statutory authority for such action, such attempted assumption was invalid. And in Tyson v. School Directors, 51 Pa. St. 9, it was held that a declaration at a meeting of a fund association, made by its president, that all payments of money were to be considered as lent to the township, made under the belief that the legislature would so amend the law as to authorize its collection, was not an assurance of repayment, which would authorize the imposition of a tax.

1. Opinion of Justices, 58 Me. 590; English v. People, 96 Ill. 566; Bissell v. Kankakee, 64 Ill. 249; 21 Am. Rep. 554; Central Branch, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 23 Kan. 745; Commercial Bank v. Iola, 9 Kan. 689; Cushing v. Newburyport, 10 Met. (Mass.) 510; Coates v. Campbell, 37 Minn. 498; State v. Foley, 30 Minn. 350; Cook v. Sumner Mfg. Co., 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 698; Scuffletown Fence Co. v. McAllister, 12 Bush (Ky.) 312; Commercial Nat. Bank v. Iola, 2 Dill. (U. S.) 353; Citizens' Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Topeka City, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 655; although the amount loaned is secured by a mortgage on the works; Allen v. Jay, 60 Me. 124; 11 Am. Rep. 185; Parkersburg v. Brown, 106 U. S. 487. And the fact that the corporation would tend to increase the business prosperity of the town, does not render its purpose public. Weismer v. Douglas, 64 N. Y. 91; 21 Am. Rep. 586.

Where a village agreed, in consideration of the erection of a stove mill within its limits, giving employment to 70 persons, "to expend one thousand two hundred dollars in making public improvements by draining the marsh, and improving the highways and streets around the ground to be occupied by" the mill, the money to be subject to the check of the mill owner, this was held to be an appropriation for private purposes which would not warrant a tax. Clee v. Sanders, 74 Mich. 692.

Taxes cannot be expended in constructing a dam for the purpose of improving a private water power. Coates v. Campbell, 37 Minn. 498.

Where a private corporation is organized for the double purpose of building a railway and erecting a cotton compress, a special tax voted in its behalf is valid to the extent that it is to be used for the purpose of building the railway only; that being a public improvement, and the other being a mere private enterprise. MacKenzie v. Wooley, 39 La. Ann. 944.

In Burlington Tp. v. Beasley, 94 U. S. 310, bonds issued by a town to aid in the construction and equipment of a steam custom mill owned by individuals, were upheld under two statutes, one of which provided for the issue of bonds to aid in building bridges in the construction of railroads, water power, or other works of internal improvement, and the other declaring that all custom grist mills are public mills.

2. Lowell v. Boston, 111 Mass. 454; 15 Am. Rep. 39; Feldman v. Charleston, 23 S. Car. 57; 55 Am. Rep. 6.

of a great event of national or historical interest ;¹ nor can money raised by taxation be given away.²

5. Must Benefit the Locality Taxed.—The tax must inure to the benefit of the district or locality taxed ;³ but local taxation for a

1. A town has no authority to appropriate money to be used in celebrating the Fourth of July, Hood v. Lynn, 1 Allen (Mass.) 103; Gerry v. Stoneham, 1 Allen (Mass.) 319; New London v. Brainard, 22 Conn. 552; Hodges v. Buffalo, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 110; or the anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, Tash v. Adams, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 252; nor can a municipal corporation raise money to furnish entertainment for guests of the municipality. Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385; Hodges v. Buffalo, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 110. And see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, vol. 15, p. 1051.

2. It is not competent for the legislature to make a gift of the common property or of a sum of money to be raised by taxation, where no possible public benefit, direct or indirect, can be derived therefrom. Hooper v. Emery, 14 Me. 375; Bristol v. Johnson, 34 Mich. 123. And see Pease v. Chicago, 21 Ill. 500.

3. People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400; Atty. Gen'l v. Bay County, 34 Mich. 46; Ryerson v. Utley, 16 Mich. 276; People v. Parks, 58 Cal. 624; Lockwood v. St. Louis, 24 Mo. 20; State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458; Wells v. Weston, 22 Mo. 384; Livingston County v. Weider, 64 Ill. 427; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; 35 Am. Dec. 159; Howell v. Bristol, 8 Bush (Ky.) 493; People v. Public Schools, 78 Ill. 136; Hammatt v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; 3 Am. Rep. 615; In re Washington Ave., 69 Pa. St. 352; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491; Anderson v. Kerns Draining Co., 14 Ind. 199; 77 Am. Dec. 63; Marks v. Purdue University, 37 Ind. 155; Zanesville v. Richards, 5 Ohio St. 589; Mobile v. Dargan, 45 Ala. 310; People v. Dutchess County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 50; Gordon v. Cornes, 47 N. Y. 608; Matter of Prospect Park, 60 N. Y. 398; Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Farris v. Vannier, 6 Dakota 186; Parsons v. Goshen, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 396; Baltimore v. Hughes, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 480; Talbot County v. Queen Anne's County, 50 Md. 260; Prince George's County v. Laurel, 70 Md. 443; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; 61

Am. Dec. 508; State v. Tappan, 29 Wis. 664; 9 Am. Rep. 622; U. S. v. Memphis, 97 U. S. 284; Louisiana v. Pilsbury, 105 U. S. 295; Harter v. Kernochan, 103 U. S. 562; Livingston County v. Darlington, 101 U. S. 407; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Arbegust v. Louisville, 2 Bush (Ky.) 271; Bromley v. Reynolds, 2 Utah 525; Hutchinson v. Ozark Land Co., 57 Ark. 554. And see infra, this title, Municipal Taxation.

The power to tax should be exerted only in behalf of those purposes which have been recognized by legislative and judicial precedents as local purposes. Hawkins v. Carroll County, 50 Miss. 735.

An incorporated village has no power to levy a tax for the payment of the salaries of town officers, Drake v. Ogden, 128 Ill. 603; nor can the legislature compel an adjoining town to be taxed for the payment of debts previously contracted by a city. Matter of Prospect Park, 60 N. Y. 398.

In Farris v. Vannier, 6 Dakota 186, it was held that a tax upon personal property in an unorganized county, for the exclusive benefit of a contiguous organized county, was an attempt to tax one community for the benefit of another, and void.

In Belle Point v. Pence (Ky. 1891), 17 S. W. Rep. 197, a statute providing for taxing a town to educate an entire school district, was held invalid.

An act providing that the taxes collected for county and township purposes by several counties and townships through which a railroad ran, should be set apart by the county treasurer as a sinking fund to redeem the bonds issued by any township or townships in such county, in aid of the railroad, is unconstitutional, as its effect is to devote taxes levied for county and township purposes to the payment of the debts of only those townships issuing bonds. Sleight v. People, 74 Ill. 47; Allhands v. People, 82 Ill. 234.

Apportionment of General Taxes to Local Districts.—The state, however, may apportion the taxes for general purposes amongst the several counties and towns, authorizing and requiring them to provide for it by local taxation.

purpose of general interest may be valid when the benefits derived accrue principally, even though not entirely, to the locality taxed;¹ and if beneficial to different localities or districts, the tax may be apportioned between them in proportion to the benefits received.²

General results, however, are all that can be expected; that each taxpayer shall be benefited by the expenditure is not required.³ The burden of taxation may be imposed where the legislature considers that it ought to rest,⁴ and the unlawfulness

People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 452; 4 Am. Rep. 400; People v. Springwells, 25 Mich. 153; People v. Monroe County, 36 Mich. 70; People v. Jackson County, 24 Mich. 237; Boyce v. Sebring (Mich. 1887), 33 N. W. Rep. 815; Will County v. People, 110 Ill. 511; Cornell v. People, 107 Ill. 372; Talbot County v. Queen Anne's County, 50 Md. 245; Garrett v. Memphis, 5 Fed. Rep. 860. And see infra, this title, Compulsory Municipal Taxation.

1. See Will County v. People, 110 Ill. 511; Marks v. Purdue University, 37 Ind. 155; Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 500; Com. v. Newburyport, 103 Mass. 129; People v. Springwells, 25 Mich. 153; Callan v. Saginaw, 50 Mich. 7; Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258; Gordon v. Cornes, 47 N. Y. 608; Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510.

A city may erect improvements designed to accommodate the larger bodies with which they are identified, and pay for the same by taxation, where the city, as such, will derive benefits from having these bodies generously accommodated within its limits; but the legislature cannot compel it to do so. Callam v. Saginaw, 50 Mich. 7. And in Philadelphia v. Field, 58 Pa. St. 320, an act providing for the construction of a bridge over the Schuylkill river at Philadelphia, and requiring the city to bear the expense, was sustained. And see Granby v. Thurston, 23 Conn. 416.

2. Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258; Serrill v. Philadelphia, 38 Pa. St. 355; Salem Turnpike, etc., Bridge Co. v. Essex County, 100 Mass. 282; Com. v. Newburyport, 103 Mass. 129; Hingham, etc., Bridge Co. v. Norfolk County, 6 Allen (Mass.) 353; Carter v. Cambridge, etc., Bridge Prop., 104 Mass. 236; Norwich v. Hampshire County, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 60; Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65; Matter of Prospect Park, 60 N. Y. 308; State v. Newark, 44 N. J. L. 424; Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Will County v. People, 110 Ill. 511; Hensley Tp. v. People, 84 Ill. 544; Burr v. Carbondale, 76 Ill. 455; Briggs v. Johnson County, 4 Dill. (U. S.) 148; State v. Sauk County, 70 Wis. 485. And see Spencer v. Merchant, 100 N. Y. 585; People v. Dutchess County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 50; President, etc., of Revenue v. State, 45 Ala. 399; Talbot County v. Queen Anne's County, 50 Md. 245; Hannibal v. Marion County, 69 Mo. 571; Hamilton v. St. Louis County Ct., 15 Mo. 5; State v. St. Louis County Ct., 34 Mo. 546; Greene County v. Lenoir County, 92 N. Car. 180.

An act providing for the construction of a state road is not rendered unconstitutional by the fact that the tax imposed for its construction obliges a town to pay more than the sum expended in building that portion of the road situated within its own limits. Mahanoy Tp. v. Comry, 103 Pa. St. 362.

3. Taylor v. Thompson, 42 Ill. 9; Brown v. Denver, 3 Colo. 169; Howell v. Bristol, 8 Bush (Ky.) 493; Shelby County Judge v. Shelby R. Co., 5 Bush (Ky.) 225; Thomas v. Leland, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 65; Kirby v. Shaw, 19 Pa. St. 258; New Orleans v. Cazelar, 27 La. Ann. 156; Patton v. Springfield, 99 Mass. 627. And see Norris v. Waco, 57 Tex. 635; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Merriam County, 48 Ohio St. 249.

It is not essential to the right of taxation that the public work proposed should be one of uniform advantage to all the people of the state. Bennington v. Park, 50 Vt. 178; Allen v. Jay, 60 Me. 140; 11 Am. Rep. 185; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; Baltimore v. Hughes, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 480; State v. Bloomfield, 47 N. J. L. 442; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 85 Pa. St. 170; 27 Am. Dec. 733.

4. People v. Richmond County, 20 N. Y. 252; Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N.

and unfairness must be apparent to justify the interposition of the courts.¹

But it is not always necessary, to give locality to the purpose, that the expenditure should be made in the district taxed, or that the public work created by means of the tax should be erected within the district.² The purpose of procuring the location of a work of public improvement within the corporate limits of the taxing district is a local public purpose.³

VI. THINGS TAXABLE—1. Polls.—Poll taxes, or capitation taxes, are taxes of a specific sum upon each person.⁴ The constitutions of many states provide for their imposition, and sometimes limit

Y. 123; Sanborn v. Rice County, 9 Minn. 273; Grim v. Weissenberg School Dist., 57 Pa. St. 433; 98 Am. Dec. 237; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; 3 Am. Rep. 615; Weber v. Reinhard, 73 Pa. St. 370; 13 Am. Rep. 747; Philadelphia v. Field, 58 Pa. St. 326; Hewitt's Appeal, 88 Pa. St. 55; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405; Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701; Livingston County v. Darlington, 101 U. S. 407; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 104 U. S. 78; Martin v. Dix, 52 Miss. 53; 24 Am. Rep. 661; Atty. Gen'l v. Cambridge, 16 Gray (Mass.) 247; Linton v. Athens, 53 Ga. 588; Stoner v. Flournoy, 28 La. Ann. 850; Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 268; Uhlig v. St. Louis, 44 Mo. 458; St. Joseph v. Farrell, 106 Mo. 437.

In general, whenever a local improvement is authorized, it is for the legislature to prescribe the way in which the means to meet its cost shall be raised, whether by general taxation or by laying the burden upon the district specially benefited by the expenditure. Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701. And see Boro v. Philips County, 4 Dill. (U. S.) 216.

1. Slack v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 1; Cheaney v. Hooser, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 330; Malchus v. Highlands, 4 Bush (Ky.) 547; Taylor v. Thompson, 42 Ill. 9; Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 268; Waterville v. Kennebec County, 59 Me. 80; Weister v. Hade, 52 Pa. St. 474; New Orleans v. Cazelar, 27 La. Ann. 156. See also People v. East Saginaw, 33 Mich. 164; Lamb v. Connolly (City Ct. Bklyn.), 3 N. Y. Supp. 252; Minor v. Daspit, 43 La. Ann. 337.

2. Stein v. Mobile, 24 Ala. 591; Talbot County v. Queen Anne's

County, 50 Md. 245; Wright v. People, 87 Ill. 582; Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89; Quincy, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 84 Ill. 410; Carter v. Cambridge, etc., Bridge Prop., 104 Mass. 236; Com. v. Newburyport, 103 Mass. 129; St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Buchanan County Ct., 39 Mo. 485; Walker v. Cincinnati, 21 Ohio St. 14; 8 Am. Rep. 24; State v. Charleston, 10 Rich. (S. Car.) 491; Charleston v. Wentworth St. Baptist Church, 4 Strobb. (S. Car.) 306; People v. Kelly, 5 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 383; 76 N. Y. 489; McCallie v. Chattanooga, 3 Head (Tenn.) 317; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Davidson County, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 637; 62 Am. Dec. 424; Moulton v. Evansville, 25 Fed. Rep. 382; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Otoe County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 667; Otoe County v. Baldwin, 111 U. S. 1; Montclair v. Ramsdell, 107 U. S. 152; Van Hostrup v. Madison City, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 291.

Where an improvement for which taxation is imposed, is to be erected in two districts, it does not necessarily follow that the tax imposed upon one will be expended in the other. Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89; Wright v. People, 87 Ill. 582.

The power of a town does not extend to raising money to prosecute work in another town. Concord v. Boscawen, 17 N. H. 465; Riley v. Rochester, 9 N. Y. 64. And see State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458.

3. Livingston County v. Darlington, 101 U. S. 407; Burr v. Carbondale, 76 Ill. 455; Hensley Tp. v. People, 84 Ill. 544; Marks v. Purdue University, 37 Ind. 155; Wasson v. Wayne County (Ohio), 27 Wkly. L. Bull. 134; Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 500.

4. Head Money Cases, 18 Fed. Rep. 135; Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 480.

their amount,¹ and define the purposes to which the fund raised from them shall be applied, as, for example, for schools or highways.² In Ohio and Maryland they are declared oppressive and are prohibited.³ Sometimes their payment in services or labor is authorized.⁴

The imposition of poll taxes is not prohibited by the constitutional requirements of equality and uniformity of taxation.⁵ Nor do such constitutional provisions preclude exemption from poll taxes.⁶

Residence, not citizenship, fixes the liability for a poll tax.⁷

Under the United States constitution, the federal government can lay capitation or other direct taxes only in proportion to the federal census.⁸

2. Property—a. IN GENERAL.—The term "property," when used to designate the subjects of taxation, includes both real and

1. See constitutions of the various states. As to the constitutionality of poll taxes, see Faribault v. Misener, 20 Minn. 396; Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 127; Armstrong County v. Coleman, 99 Pa. St. 6; Kuntz v. Davidson County, 6 Lea (Tenn.) 65; Hassett v. Walls, 9 Nev. 387; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Burch v. Savannah, 42 Ga. 600.

2. See State v. Cobb, 8 S. Car. 123; Shaver v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 195; Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 127; Woodard v. Isham, 43 Vt. 123.

Collection.—In Labadie v. Dean, 47 Tex. 90, it was held that a county poll tax imposed by the act of the legislature does not, in order to authorize its collection, require an order of the county court.

3. See Ohio constitution, and Maryland Declaration of Rights.

4. Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 127. See also Hassett v. Walls, 9 Nev. 387; Miller v. Gorman, 38 Pa. St. 309.

It has been held that the assessment of road labor is not a capitation tax. Pleasant v. Kost, 29 Ill. 490; Fox v. Rockford, 38 Ill. 451; Macomb v. Twaddle, 4 Ill. App. 254; Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 127; Overseers of Poor v. Overseers of Poor, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 92; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 652. And see Starksboro v. Hinesburgh, 13 Vt. 215.

5. O'Kane v. Treat, 25 Ill. 458; Smith v. Aberdeen, 25 Miss. 458; Jones v. Person County, 107 N. Car. 248. And see Washington v. State, 13 Ark. 752; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Faribault v. Misener, 20 Minn. 396;

Sawyer v. Alton, 4 Ill. 127; Pleasant v. Kost, 29 Ill. 490; Ottawa County v. Nelson, 19 Kan. 234; 27 Am. Rep. 101; Comer v. Folsom, 13 Minn. 219; Fox v. Rockford, 38 Ill. 451; Macomb v. Twaddle, 4 Ill. App. 254; State v. Halifax, 4 Dev. (N. Car.) 345. See also supra, this title, Power to Tax.

6. Faribault v. Misener, 20 Minn. 396. See also Opinion of Justices, 1 Met. (Mass.) 580.

7. State v. Ross, 23 N. J. L. 517; Herriman v. Stowers, 43 Me. 497; Parsons v. Bangor, 61 Me. 457; Thorn-dike v. Boston, 1 Met. (Mass.) 242; Cabot v. Boston, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 52; Lee v. Boston, 2 Gray (Mass.) 484; Carnoe v. Freetown, 9 Gray (Mass.) 357; Kuntz v. Davidson County, 6 Lea (Tenn.) 65; Woodard v. Isham, 43 Vt. 123; On Yuen Hai Co. v. Ross, 8 Sawy. (U. S.) 384; State v. Casper, 36 N. J. L. 367.

A person liable for poll taxes in one town, cannot be legally assessed for the same in another town, and if so assessed, even with his own consent, he cannot be compelled to pay the tax in the latter town. Preston v. Boston, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 7.

Persons living on lands subject to the jurisdiction of the United States are not subject to poll taxes levied by a state. Opinion of Justices, 1 Met. (Mass.) 580.

8. U. S. Const., art. 1, § 9. See Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 533; Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171; Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. (U. S.) 317; Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 587.

personal estate,¹ and usually applies to everything which is visible, tangible, and capable of valuation, and which is the subject of ownership;² thus licenses are property;³ and corporate franchises are property, and taxable as such.⁴

b. PERSONAL PROPERTY.—The capital stock and the accumulated surplus of a corporation and the shares of its capital stock⁵ are taxable as personal property. Mortgages and other securities for indebtedness, money secured on mortgage or otherwise,⁶ moneys due on contract for the sale of real estate,⁷ and obliga-

1. Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; Jacksonville v. McConnel, 12 Ill. 138; Hunsaker v. Wright, 30 Ill. 147; State v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562.

2. See People v. Hibernia Sav., etc., Soc., 51 Cal. 243; 21 Am. Rep. 704; People v. Rains, 23 Cal. 133; Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 171; 74 Am. Dec. 86.

In Covington Gas Light Co. v. Covington, 84 Ky. 94, it was held that the terms "personal estate, and any property of any kind," include gas pipes, meters, lamp posts, and the like.

Vessels are subject to state taxation. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374. And see State v. Southern Steamship Co., 13 La. Ann. 497; Howell v. State, 3 Gill. (Md.) 14; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273.

Growing crops are private property, and subject to taxation as such. People v. Gerke, 35 Cal. 677.

Turnpike Roads.—In Frankfort, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Com., 82 Ky. 386, it was held that a statute authorizing the taxation of all property, authorized the imposition of taxes on turnpike roads, for county purposes.

Intoxicating liquors of domestic manufacture, not kept for illegal sale, are subject to taxation as property. Dunbar v. Boston, 101 Mass. 317.

Dogs.—Under the Texas constitution, dogs are not recognized as property subject to an ad valorem taxation. Ex p. Cooper, 3 Tex. App. 489.

Abstract Books.—In Leon Loan, etc., Co. v. Board of Equalization (Iowa, 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 94, abstract books having an actual market value were held subject to taxation as personal property.

3. Drysdale v. Pradat, 45 Miss. 445; Coulson v. Harris, 43 Miss. 728.

4. See TAXATION (CORPORATE).

5. See TAXATION (CORPORATE).

6. Gallatin County v. Beattie, 3 Mont. 173; Tax Cases, 12 Gill & J.

(Md.) 117; People v. Board of Supervisors (Mich. 1888), 38 N. W. Rep. 639; State v. Redwood Falls Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 Minn. 154; People v. Wharthenby, 38 Cal. 461; Doland v. Mooney, 72 Cal. 34; Philadelphia Sav. Fund Soc. v. Yard, 9 Pa. St. 359; Perry County v. Troutman, 8 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 427. And see Hunter's Appeal (Pa. 1886), 10 Atl. Rep. 429; Loughlin's Appeal (Pa. 1887), 10 Atl. Rep. 832; Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 104 Pa. St. 89; Davenport v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 12 Iowa 539; People v. Coleman, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 482; State v. Gaylord, 73 Wis. 316.

Under the New Jersey statutes requiring property of corporations to be assessed as are the estates of individuals, the amount of loans to stockholders of a building and loan association, which the notes, bonds, and mortgages represent in the return of the secretary, are assets, and assessable as the property of the corporation. State v. Hornbaker, 41 N. J. L. 519.

Where lands are sold, and the grantor reserves merely the right to repurchase, the grantee is not liable to taxation as a mortgagee of the premises. Thomas v. Holmes County, 67 Miss. 754.

7. People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390; Ouachita County v. Rumph, 43 Ark. 525; State v. Rand, 39 Minn. 502. And see Perrine v. Jacobs, 64 Iowa 79.

Under the Illinois constitution, the legislature has power to impose taxes upon all credits, whether for lands sold or otherwise, and moneys loaned as well as money due for land are taxable, whether the land has been conveyed or not. People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 170; 74 Am. Dec. 86; People v. Rhodes, 15 Ill. 304.

Where the legislature has expressly exempted mining claims from the operation of revenue laws, it cannot be presumed that it intended to indirectly subject them to taxation, by tions for the payment of money or instruments of indebtedness,¹ are usually deemed to be personal estate, and subject to taxation as such.

Within the revenue laws debts due have been held to be credits and taxable as property.² But the bonds or other obligations of a state are not included in a general designation of the taxable property of the state,³ though the public stocks and securities of states and municipalities are sometimes made taxable as such.⁴ Easements and other incorporeal or inchoate rights have been held not taxable as personal property.⁵ The term "property," as used in some of the statutes, has been held not to include credits, inlevying a tax on the price paid for them. State v. Moore, 12 Cal. 56.

1. Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 152; Hammersley v. Franey, 39 Conn. 176; Irvin v. Turner, 47 Ga. 382; Carreker v. Walton, 47 Ga. 394; Hunter v. Page County, 33 Iowa 376; New Orleans v. Mechanics', etc., Ins. Co., 30 La. Ann. 876; 31 Am. Rep. 232; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (State Tax on Foreign Held Bonds), 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300. And see Hayne v. Dellesseline, 3 McCord (S. Car.) 374; Deane v. Hathaway, 136 Mass. 129; Redmond v. Rutherford County, 87 N. Car. 122.

Deposit notes, bearing interest, taken by a mutual insurance company from the members of the corporation, are taxable for county purposes, as moneys at interest; and so of stocks in which premiums paid by the insured are invested. Fire Ins. Co. v. County, 9 Pa. St. 413.

Bonds and other certificates of indebtedness of foreign corporations, in the hands of residents of the state, are taxable. Appeal Tax Court v. Patterson, 50 Md. 354; Appeal Tax Court v. Gill, 50 Md. 377.

Judgments, with reference to which proceedings in error are pending, are included within a provision requiring the listing for taxation of all securities due or owing. Cameron v. Cappeller, 41 Ohio St. 533.

2. Jones v. Seward County, 10 Neb. 154; Jacksonville v. McConnel, 12 Ill. 138; State v. Rand, 39 Minn. 502; People v. Arguello, 37 Cal. 524; New Orleans Canal, etc., Co. v. New Orleans, 99 U. S. 97; Perry County v. Troutman, 8 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 427; Maltby v. Reading, etc., R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 140; Connor v. Waxahachie (Tex. 1889), 13 S. W. Rep. 30; Ferris v. Kimble, 75 Tex. 476. And see Gloucester v. Gloucester, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 542; Ferrine v. Jacobs, 64 Iowa 79;

State v. Craig, 51 N. J. L. 437; Rheinboldt v. Raine, 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 544.

Choses in action are property subject to taxation, even though secured by mortgage. Lick v. Austin, 43 Cal. 590; Lamar v. Palmer, 18 Fla. 147.

Debts, securities, and obligations are taxable, though they are not due. People v. McComber (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 71; People v. Arguello, 37 Cal. 524.

A debt due from an intestate is properly taxed to the creditor, though the amount is in dispute if it is conceded to be as much as that taxed. Deane v. Hathaway, 136 Mass. 129.

The reassurance, reserve, and premiums of life insurance companies, being collectable, are subjects of taxation. Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Pollak, 75 Ill. 292.

3. Miller v. Wilson, 60 Ga. 505; State v. Assessors, 35 La. Ann. 651. And see Newark City Bank v. Assessors, 30 N. J. L. 13; State v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 89 Ala. 335.

Bonds of Other States.—See infra, this title, Other Governmental Agencies.

4. See Hall v. Middlesex County, 10 Allen (Mass.) 100; Newark City Bank v. Assessors, 30 N. J. L. 13.

The bonds of a foreign railway corporation are not "public stocks and securities," within the meaning of the Massachusetts tax acts. Hale v. Hampshire County, 137 Mass. 111.

In Pennsylvania, all public loans, except those issued by the United States, are taxable. Wilkesbarre Deposit, etc., Bank v. Wilkesbarre, 148 Pa. St. 601.

5. De Witt v. Hays, 2 Cal. 463; 56 Am. Dec. 352; Fall River v. Bristol County, 125 Mass. 567; Matter of Leffever, 5 Dem. (N. Y.) 184.

Thus rents not due on leases for years are not taxable as personal propvestments, or money, but to apply to visible property only.¹ The legislature, may, however, impose taxes upon credits and money due as the personal estate of the creditor,² or may tax such credits and money on hand by name.³

c. REALTY.—Real property embraces every species of title, whether inchoate or complete, and whether executory or executed.⁴

erty. People v. McComber (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 71.

Insurance Premiums—Income.—In Iowa, annual premiums of an insurance company, being in the nature of an income, are not subject to taxation as personal property. Burlington v. Putnam Ins. Co., 31 Iowa 102; Dubuque v. Northwestern L. Ins. Co., 29 Iowa 9.

A mere claim for damages, until it has become fixed, is not taxable. Lowell v. Street Com'rs, 106 Mass. 540; Arnold v. Middletown, 41 Conn. 206; Hancock v. Whittemore, 50 Cal. 522.

1. Johnson v. Lexington, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 521; Covington v. Powell, 2 Metc. (Ky.) 226; Louisville v. Henning, 1 Bush (Ky.) 381; People v. Hibernia Sav., etc., Soc., 51 Cal. 243; 21 Am. Rep. 704; Pullen v. Raleigh, 68 N. Car. 451; Vaughan v. Murfreesboro, 96 N. Car. 317; Lee v. Sturges, 46 Ohio St. 153; Mifflintown v. Jacobs, 69 Pa. St. 151; Fox's Appeal, 112 Pa. St. 337; Com. v. Delaware Div. Canal Co., 122 Pa. St. 594.

2. People v. Worthington, 21 Ill. 171; 74 Am. Dec. 86; Deane v. Hathaway, 136 Mass. 129; Hammersley v. Franey, 39 Conn. 176; Johnson v. Oregon City, 3 Oregon 13; Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159; People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390; Carroll v. Perry, 4 McLean (U. S.) 25.

In Bank of U. S. v. State, 12 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 456, it was held that a loan by a bank incorporated in one state to a bank incorporated in another state, is subject to taxation under a law subjecting to a certain tax, loans at interest by individuals.

3. Pollard v. State, 65 Ala. 628; Shotwell v. Moore, 129 U. S. 590; Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Alamance County, 84 N. Car. 504; State v. Carson City Sav. Bank, 17 Nev. 146; Bank of Newberry v. Stegall, 41 Miss. 142; State v. Rand, 39 Minn. 502; Peavey v. Greenfield, 64 N. H. 284; Perry County v. Troutman, 144 Pa. St. 361; Blickensderfer v. School Directors, 20 Pa. St.

38; Rheimboldt v. Raine, 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 544.

Under such a provision they are taxable whether they bear interest or not. Perry County v. Troutman, 144 Pa. St. 361.

Bank Deposits.—In Campbell v. Riviere (Tex. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 993, it was held that money deposited is not a debt against the bank, but is money on hand, and liable to taxation.

In Campbell v. Wiggins, 2 Tex. Civ. App. 1, it was held that a depositor of money subject to sight draft cannot escape taxation thereon as cash by showing that the bank did not have that amount of money on hand.

Sums received from depositors are deposits within a law imposing a tax upon deposits, whether they have been invested or not, and without reference to their value as compared with any other standard. Provident Inst. v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611.

Merchants' Statements.—Under the Missouri tax laws, merchants' statements are taxable by a school corporation. State v. Kinney, 48 Mo. 373.

"Debts due from solvent debtors," made taxable by statute, mean the amount of the debt which may be realized or collected; the general solvency of the debtor is not referred to. Lamar v. Palmer, 18 Fla. 147.

Definition of Credit.—Under the Minnesota statutes, the term "credits" is defined as meaning and including every claim and demand for money, or other valuable thing and other security or sum of money receivable at stated periods, due, or to become due, and all claims and demands secured by deed or mortgage due, or to become due. State v. Rand, 39 Minn. 502.

Bonds.—In Sawyer v. Nashua, 59 N. H. 404, it was held that money invested in bonds is taxable, under an authority to tax money at interest.

4. Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159; Soulard v. U. S., 4 Pet. (U. S.) 511. See also PROPERTY, vol. 19, p. 285; REAL PROPERTY, vol. 19, p. 1028.

It includes all lands under water,¹ and all buildings and other structures or things erected upon, affixed to, or growing on, the land.² The term "property in lands," is not confined to title in fee, but is sufficiently comprehensive to include any usufructory interest, whether it be a leasehold or a mere right of possession.³ It is competent for the legislature to treat real estate

Corporate Franchises.—Corporate franchises are not realty. People v. Tax Com'rs, 104 N. Y. 240.

1. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 6 Allen (Mass.) 131.

A reservoir dam, and land which it covers with water, are liable to be taxed. Pingree v. Berkshire County, 102 Mass. 76.

In Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372, it was held that land held in fee, lying under a canal, is taxable to the owner thereof.

2. Smith v. New York, 68 N. Y. 552; People v. Cassity, 46 N. Y. 46; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, 104 Pa. St. 522; Forbes v. Gracey, 94 U. S. 762. And see Quincy Bridge Co. v. Adams County, 88 Ill. 615; McGee v. Salem, 149 Mass. 238; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Houston County, 38 Minn. 531; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 6 Allen (Mass.) 131.

All things appurtenant or affixed to the realty are usually required to be taxed with it, and as a part of it. See Consolidated Coal Co. v. Baker, 135 Ill. 545; Boston, etc., Glass Co. v. Boston, 4 Met. (Mass.) 181; Com. v. Hamilton Mfg. Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 208. And see infra, this title, Upon Whom Imposed.

In Scully v. People, 104 Ill. 349, it was held that an assessment upon lands and also upon rents arising therefrom as a credit, is erroneous, the latter element of value being included in the former.

Pipes and mains for water, gas, etc., laid in streets or elsewhere, are real estate and taxable as such. Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202; Oskaloosa Water Co. v. Board of Equalization, 84 Iowa 407; In re Des Moines Water Co., 48 Iowa 324; Paris v. Norway Water Co., 85 Me. 330; Monroe Water Co. v. Frenchtown Tp. (Mich. 1894), 57 N. W. Rep. 268; Tide-water Pipe Line Co. v. Berry, 53 N. J. L. 212; State v. Berry, 52 N. J. L. 308; People v. Martin, 48 Hun (N. Y.) 193; Capital City Gas Light Co. v. Charter Oak Ins. Co., 51 Iowa 32.

Bridges are taxable as real estate.

Alexandria Canal Co. v. District of Columbia, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 217; State v. Mississippi River Bridge Co., 109 Mo. 253; Hudson River Bridge Co. v. Patterson, 74 N. Y. 365; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 89 Mo. 98.

In Cass County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 25 Neb. 348, and Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. School Dist. No. 1, 25 Neb. 359, it was held that a bridge was not taxable as part of the roadbed, right of way, or superstructure.

Railways—Street Railways.—Railways, either in streets or elsewhere, are lands, within the tax laws, and taxable as such. People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 Hun (N. Y.) 687; Neary v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. (Del. 1887), 9 Atl. Rep. 405; Appeal Tax Court v. Western Maryland, etc., R. Co., 50 Md. 274; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, 104 Pa. St. 522; South Nashville St. R. Co. v. Morrow, 87 Tenn. 406; People v. Cassity, 46 N. Y. 46; Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346.

So, also, the superstructure, etc., of elevated railroads. People v. Tax Com'rs, 82 N. Y. 459; People v. Tax Com'rs, 101 N. Y. 322. But as to the track of a street railway company, see State v. Ramsey County Court, 31 Minn. 354.

Right of way, as used in a statute authorizing assessment and taxation, was held not to relate to a mere intangible right, but to the strip of land appropriated by the railway company. Keener v. Union Pac. R. Co., 31 Fed. Rep. 126.

Telegraph Line.—In Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 509; 40 Am. Rep. 99, it was held that a telegraph line is taxable as real property although it has also paid a privilege tax.

3. State v. Moore, 12 Cal. 56; People v. Donnelly, 58 Cal. 144; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Los Angeles v. Los Angeles City Water Works Co., 49 Cal. 638; People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 Hun (N. Y.) 687; Cincinnati College v. Yeatman, 30 Ohio St. 276; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 247; Carroll v. Safford, 3 How. (U. S.) 441; mortgages as interests in lands, for the purpose of taxation, and to give them a situs for that purpose, at the place where the mortgaged property is situated.¹ Several persons may have a property which is subject to taxation in the same land.² The interest of the occupant of a mining claim is property, and may be subjected to taxation.³ A mere license or right of entry is not taxable as real estate against the licensee.⁴

3. Occupations and Privileges.—(See infra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.)

4. Instrumentalities of Government—a. IN GENERAL.—Speaking generally, it may be said that instrumentalities of government are not taxable; nor can the states tax instrumentalities of the federal government, or vice versa, this, on the principle that the government is not to be impeded in exercising its powers.⁵

b. OFFICES AND OFFICERS.—A public office or officer is not

Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 514; Taylor v. Robinson, 34 Fed. Rep. 678; Clove Spring Iron Works v. Cone, 56 Vt. 603.

Rights in a reservoir of water are real estate, and taxable as such. Winnipisogee Lake Cotton, etc., Co. v. Gilford, 64 N. H. 337. And the same rule applies to water power. State v. Minneapolis Mill Co., 26 Minn. 229.

Lease for Ninety-nine Years.—In Washington Market v. District of Columbia, 4 Mackey (D. C.) 416, a lease for ninety-nine years was held taxable as though held in fee; a statute providing that such leases should be considered as determinable fees. In Wilgus v. Com., 9 Bush (Ky.) 556, the lease for ninety-nine years was held not to be taxable as real property.

1. Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78; Knight v. Boston (Mass. 1893), 35 N. E. Rep. 86; State v. Jones, 40 N. J. L. 105.

2. State v. Moore, 12 Cal. 56; Consolidated Coal Co. v. Baker, 135 Ill. 545; In re Major, 134 Ill. 19; People v. Board of Assessors, 93 N. Y. 308.

There may be several distinct tenements in the same building under the same roof, as well where one is over the other as where one is beside the other. Cincinnati College v. Yeatman, 30 Ohio St. 276; South Congregational Meeting House v. Lowell, 1 Met. (Mass.) 538; Loring v. Bacon, 4 Mass. 575; Cheeseborough v. Greene, 10 Conn. 318. See infra, this title, Upon Whom Imposed.

3. State v. Moore, 12 Cal. 56; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; People v. Donnelly, 58 Cal. 144; People v. Frisbie, 31

Cal. 146; People v. Cohen, 31 Cal. 210; People v. Black Diamond Coal Min. Co., 37 Cal. 54; Stuart v. Com. (Ky. 1893), 23 S. W. Rep. 367; Sanderson v. Scranton, 105 Pa. St. 469.

The owner of land, who has conveyed it, reserving the coal thereunder, and the right to mine the same, may be taxed for such mining right, though there is no proof of the existence of any coal on the land. Major v. Pavey, 134 Ill. 19.

Where coal or other minerals in the ground are sold or reserved separate from the land, they are not personal property, and cannot become such until severed from the land itself. Consolidated Coal Co. v. Baker, 135 Ill. 545.

In Arizona, mining claims in government property are taxable as personal, not real, property; but mines for which patents have been issued are taxable as real estate. Waller v. Hughes (Arizona, 1886), 11 Pac. Rep. 122.

4. Hughes v. Vail, 57 Vt. 41; Clove Spring Iron Works v. Cone, 56 Vt. 603.

5. McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 315, is perhaps the leading case upon this point, the holding being that a Maryland law imposing a tax on the operation of a branch of the United States Bank was unconstitutional and void. This case was followed by Osborn v. Bank of U. S., 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, and subsequent cases have recognized the principles expounded in these cases, as lying at the foundation of the law. For their application to various instrumentalities and things, see the following subdivisions of this section.

taxable; neither can an officer's salary be taxed.¹ These rules do not apply, however, to the taxation of the income of a mere employé of the government in common with other incomes,² and persons licensed under the revenue laws of the United States are not such officers as are withdrawn from the operation of the taxing powers of a state.³

c. PROPERTY USED AS A MEANS OF GOVERNMENT.—Property used as a means of government, the title to which is vested in a state or in the United States, is within the rule exempting the instrumentality of one government from taxation by the other;⁴ and public moneys,⁵ treasury notes and national bank notes,⁶ structures, ships, munitions of war, and other property devoted to public purposes,⁷ customhouses, post offices, arsenals, and other public buildings are within the rule.⁸ The property of an agent of the government, however, is taxable, with other like property, in the jurisdiction in which it is situated,⁹ unless Congress has interposed to protect it from such taxation.¹⁰ Though private property is employed by the government for governmental purposes, it is not thereby exempted from ordinary taxation in the absence of legislation declaring it to be exempt.¹¹ Nor is the fact that the property was acquired or constructed, under the direction of Congress, for the uses and purposes of the government where the ownership is not in the government, sufficient in itself to exempt

1. First Nat. Bank v. Kentucky, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 353; Dobbins v. Erie County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 435.

Nor can a tax be imposed upon a valuation of the income of the office. Dobbins v. Erie County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 435.

2. Melcher v. Boston, 9 Met. (Mass.) 73. And see Cherry County v. Thatcher, 32 Neb. 350.

The office of president judge is taxable under the Pennsylvania Act of April 11, 1799. Northumberland County v. Chapman, 2 Rawle (Pa.) 73.

3. State v. Bell, 1 Phil. (N. Car.) 76.

4. People v. U. S., 93 Ill. 30; Fagan v. Chicago, 84 Ill. 227; McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 316; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273; Nathan v. Louisiana, 8 How. (U. S.) 82.

5. But the rule is otherwise where the state diverts her funds from their proper destination, and applies them to traffic, or stock jobbing, within a state. Com. v. Morrison, 2 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 75.

6. Horne v. Green, 52 Miss. 452; Mitchell v. Leavenworth County, 91 U. S. 206. In Montgomery County v. Eston, 32 Ind. 27; 2 Am. Rep. 327, the treasury, but not national bank notes, were held exempt. And see Washington v. Indianapolis Bank, 107 Ind. 206.

7. Desty on Taxation 68, citing Utica v. Churchill, 33 N. Y. 161; 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 550; Anonymous, 9 Op. Atty. Gen'l 291. And see Baltimore County v. Maryland Insane Hospital, 62 Md. 127.

8. Utica v. Churchill, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 550; 33 N. Y. 161; McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 316; Osborn v. Bank of U. S., 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738.

9. Thomson v. Union Pac. R. Co., 9 Wall. (U. S.) 579; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Pemston, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 5.

Shares of a national bank are not exempt from taxation because owned by other national banks. National Bank of Redemption v. Boston, 125 U. S. 60.

10. Thomson v. Union Pac. R. Co., 9 Wall. (U. S.) 579; First Nat. Bank v. Kentucky, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 353.

11. Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385.

The franchise of a railroad company is property subject to taxation, and is not exempt from taxation by reason of its being a means or instrumentality employed by Congress to carry into it,¹ though a state cannot tax a bank chartered by Congress as the fiscal agent of the government;² and a tax upon telegraphic messages sent by officers of the government, falls within the prohibition.³

d. OTHER GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES.—The rule of exemption from taxation by a different government, extends to all other governmental agencies through which a government executes its constitutional powers, functions and duties.⁴ Thus a tax upon loans of the federal government is a tax upon the exercise of the power of Congress to borrow money on the credit of the United States.⁵ And a tax upon the stocks, bonds, or securities issued by the United States,⁶ or upon the income derived from such securities,⁷ is subject to the same objection. Even though property is otherwise taxable, if invested in securities of the federal government, a tax imposed upon it would be deemed an indirect tax upon such securities;⁸ though the exemption will not be allowed where money or property is exchanged for, or converted into, nontaxable notes or securities for the sole purpose of avoiding taxation.⁹

operation the powers of the general government. Central Pac. R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 35.

While the federal government cannot interfere with navigation upon canals or inland lakes or rivers, it may tax canal boats or any other property in the state. North River Steam boat Co. v. Livingston, 3 Cow. (N. Y.) 713.

1. Thomson v. Union Pac. R. Co., 9 Wall. (U. S.) 579; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Lincoln County, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 314.

2. McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 316.

The state cannot tax franchises of a corporation granted by the government of the United States. California v. Central Pac. R. Co., 127 U. S. 1. In Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171, however, it was said that franchises granted by a state are not necessarily exempt from federal taxation.

3. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Texas, 105 U. S. 466.

4. See National Commercial Bank v. Mobile, 62 Ala. 284; 34 Am. Rep. 15; Bulow v. Charleston, 1 Nott & M. (S. Car.) 527.

5. People v. Tax Com'rs, 2 Black (U. S.) 620; Banks v. New York, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 16; Weston v. Charleston, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 449; Utica v. Churchill, 33 N. Y. 161; Newark City Bank v. Assessors, 30 N. J. L. 13. And see Bank Tax Case, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 200; Van Allen v. Assessors, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 573.

6. People v. Tax Com'rs, 2 Black (U. S.) 620; Weston v. Charleston, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 449; Carroll v. Perry, 4 McLean (U. S.) 25; Bank Tax Case, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 200; Banks v. New York, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 16; Provident Inst. v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611; Campbell v. Centerville, 69 Iowa 439; Utica v. Churchill, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 550; 33 N. Y. 161; State v. Haight, 34 N. J. L. 128; Newark City Bank v. Assessors, 30 N. J. L. 13; People v. Bradley, 39 Ill. 130. And see Newark City Bank v. Assessors, 30 N. J. L. 13; New York v. Tax Com'rs, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 244; Bradley v. Illinois, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 459.

It is immaterial that the tax is on the aggregate of the taxpayer's property, and the stock is not taxed by name. New York v. Tax Com'rs, 2 Black (U. S.) 620.

7. Bank of Kentucky v. Com., 9 Bush (Ky.) 46. But see State v. Tax Collector, 2 Bailey (S. Car.) 654.

8. State v. Newark, 39 N. J. L. 380; State v. Rogers, 79 Mo. 283; St. Louis, etc., Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lightner, 42 Mo. 421; Chicago v. Lunt, 52 Ill. 414; German American Sav. Bank v. Burlington, 54 Iowa 609; Bank Tax Case, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 200; Provident Inst. v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611. But see St. Louis Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lightner, 47 Mo. 393.

9. Mitchell v. Leavenworth County, 9 Kan. 344; Ogden v. Walker, 59 Ind. 460; State v. Assessor, 37 La. Ann.

The public debt of a state and the obligations given therefor are taxable in the hands of a resident of another state, whether exempted by the indebted state or not.¹ A tax upon a corporate franchise is valid even though some or all of the capital stock of the corporation is invested in national securities.² State banks cannot be regarded as instrumentalities or agencies of state government.³

c. PUBLIC PROPERTY.—A state or other sovereign government may, if it sees fit, subject its property, and the property owned by its municipal divisions, to taxation in common with other property within its territory.⁴ But public property, without any express statutory exemption, is not within the general laws imposing taxation, the term "property" being confined to private property;⁵ the rule being the same whether the title to the property be in the state, or held in trust for and subject to the control of the 850; Shotwell v. Moore, 129 U. S. 590. And see Griffin v. Heard, 78 Tex. 607.

1. Appeal Tax Court v. Patterson, 50 Md. 354; Appeal Tax Court v. Gill, 50 Md. 377; People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 533; Bonaparte v. Appeal Tax Court (U. S.), 21 Am. Law Reg. 290; Murray v. Charleston, 96 U. S. 432; Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 150.

2. Home Ins. Co. v. New York, 134 U. S. 594; Philadelphia Contributorship, etc. v. Com., 98 Pa. St. 48. And see St. Louis Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lightner, 47 Mo. 393.

3. McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 316; Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 548. And see Hylton v. U. S., 3 Dall. (U. S.) 171. But see Com. v. Morrison, 2 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 75.

4. Trustees of Public Schools v. Trenton, 30 N. J. Eq. 667; Louisville v. Com., 1 Duv. (Ky.) 295; 85 Am. Dec. 624. And see Pittsburgh's Appeal, 123 Pa. St. 374; Chadwick v. Maginnis, 94 Pa. St. 117; Louisville Bridge Co. v. Louisville, 81 Ky. 189.

Congress may subject the public domain to state taxation upon such conditions as it sees fit, and if taxed, it must be done subject to such conditions. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 247.

5. Trustees of Public Schools v. Trenton, 30 N. J. Eq. 667; People v. Doe, 36 Cal. 220; People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 433; West Hartford v. Board of Water Com'rs, 44 Conn. 360; Pittsburgh's Appeal, 123 Pa. St. 374; Fagan v. Chicago, 84 Ill. 227; Rochester v. Rush, 80 N. Y. 302; Camden v. Cam- den Village, 77 Me. 530; Baltimore County v. Maryland Insane Hospital, 62 Md. 127; Ensminger v. Powers, 108 U. S. 292; Directors of Poor v. School Directors, 42 Pa. St. 25; Miller v. Wilson, 60 Ga. 505; State v. Board of Assessors, 35 La. Ann. 651; Nashville v. Bank of Tennessee, 1 Swan (Tenn.) 269; Athens City Water Works Co. v. Athens, 74 Ga. 413; Colored Orphans' Assoc. v. New York, 38 Hun (N. Y.) 593; Wayland v. Middlesex County, 4 Gray (Mass.) 500; Worcester County v. Worcester, 116 Mass. 193; Cumru Tp. v. Berks County, 112 Pa. St. 264; People v. Donnelly, 58 Cal. 144; Durkee v. Greenwood County, 29 Kan. 697; Louisville v. Com., 1 Duv. (Ky.) 295; 85 Am. Dec. 624; People v. Board of Assessors, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 383; State v. Gaffney, 34 N. J. L. 133; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Davenport, 51 Iowa 451; Erie County v. Erie, 113 Pa. St. 360. But see Chadwick v. Maginnis, 94 Pa. St. 117.

Lands on tide-waters below high-water mark, and entirely separate from fast land, the title being in the state, cannot be assessed for taxes. State v. Jersey City, 42 N. J. L. 349.

A city is not subject to a county tax on its engine-house. Erie County v. Erie, 113 Pa. St. 360.

A water company which supplies a city with water, whose rates are regulated by the city council, and which, by the terms of the ordinance conferring its powers, may be purchased at a fixed price by the city, is, nevertheless, a private corporation, and its property is subject to taxation. Des Moines Water Co.'s Appeal, 48 Iowa 324. And state.¹ The moment the title vests in the government, the property ceases to be taxable,² and so long as it remains a part of the public domain it is not subject to taxation,³ but as soon as the ownership is changed and it becomes private property, the right to tax attaches.⁴

Where the absolute title to property remains in the United States, no matter for what purpose it is acquired or held, it is not subject to state or municipal taxation,⁵ nor can it be taxed when held in trust for the United States while the trust remains unexecuted;⁶ but it may be taxed as soon as the ownership is changed, even though no actual transfer has been made by the issue of a patent.⁷

see Athens City Water Works Co. v. Athens, 74 Ga. 413.

1. Illinois Industrial University v. Champaign County, 76 Ill. 184; Chicago v. People, 80 Ill. 384; Tulane Education Fund v. Board of Assessors, 38 La. Ann. 292; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 527. But see Mitchellville v. Polk County, 64 Iowa 554.

In Ryan v. Gallatin County, 14 Ill. 78, it was held that it is only property which the state owns that is not subject to taxation, not that in the avails of which the state may or may not ultimately be entitled to share.

2. People v. U. S., 93 Ill. 30; 34 Am. Rep. 155; Sully v. Poorbaugh, 45 Iowa 453; Flint v. Jackson County, 43 Kan. 656. And see Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 13 Kan. 302; Williams v. New York (Supreme Ct.), 12 N. Y. Supp. 501; Quirt v. Reg., 19 Can. Sup. Ct. Rep. 510.

In Sherwin v. Wigglesworth, 129 Mass. 64, it was held that the owner of lands taken for a post office under the laws of the United States is not chargeable with taxes assessed upon the land pending proceedings upon the petition for the acquisition of the land.

3. Ross v. Outagamie County, 12 Wis. 38; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Central Pac. R. Co. v. Howard, 51 Cal. 229; Durkee v. Greenwood County, 29 Kan. 697; Dixon v. Porter, 23 Miss. 84; Van Brocklin v. Tennessee, 117 U. S. 151. And see Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Denel, 3 Dakota 1.

4. West Wisconsin R. Co. v. Trempealeau County, 35 Wis. 257; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Oswalt v. Hallowell, 15 Kan. 154; Morrison County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 42 Minn. 451; State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108.

When the property is conveyed before the date of assessment for any particular year, it is taxable for that year. Martin County v. Drake, 40 Minn. 137.

5. People v. U. S., 93 Ill. 30; 34 Am. Rep. 155; Bonner v. Phillips, 77 Ala. 427; Doe v. Hearick, 14 Ind. 242; Hall v. Dowling, 18 Cal. 619; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Central Pac. R. Co. v. Howard, 52 Cal. 227; People v. Morrison, 22 Cal. 73; Quivey v. Lawrence, 1 Idaho N. S. 313; McGoon v. Scales, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 23; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Prescott, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 603; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 572; Van Brocklin v. Tennessee, 117 U. S. 151; Wright v. Cradlebaugh, 3 Nev. 341; Neiswanger v. Gwynne, 13 Ohio 74; Treat v. Lawrence, 42 Wis. 330; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37; Ivinson v. Hance, 1 Wyoming Ter. 270; Dixon v. Porter, 23 Miss. 84.

Neither can improvements placed upon the lands of the United States be taxed until title has passed or the lands themselves have become taxable. Parker v. Winsor, 5 Kan. 362. But see Ivinson v. Hance, 1 Wyoming Ter. 270, holding that they may be taxed upon failure of title.

United States lands to which the occupant's right to a patent is not complete, are not taxable. Diver v. Friedheim, 43 Ark. 203; Douglas County v. Union Pac. R. Co., 5 Kan. 615.

When state lands are purchased by the United States, the fact that the lands were not expressly ceded by the state to the United States does not affect the case. Van Brocklin v. Tennessee, 117 U. S. 151.

6. Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 532; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 37.

7. Witherspoon v. Duncan, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 210; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v.

Where the land has been sold and the right to the patent is complete, and the equitable title is fully vested in the purchaser,¹ or where it has been donated and the entry made and certificate given,² it is segregated from the mass of public lands and becomes private property and taxable as such. A homestead becomes liable to taxation as soon as the owner has the right to make his final proof and complete his title.³ The grantee cannot be required to pay taxes, however, until the land has been identified and determined to be covered by the grant,⁴ and where the title has been withheld by competent authority for the purpose of Prescott, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 603; Carroll v. Safford, 3 How. (U. S.) 441; Astrom v. Hammond, 3 McLean (U. S.) 107; Carroll v. Perry, 4 McLean (U. S.) 25; Union Pac. R. Co. v. McShane, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 444; Hunnewell v. Cass County, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 464; State v. Miami County, 63 Ind. 497; Burcham v. Terry, 55 Ark. 398; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Robinson v. Gaar, 6 Cal. 273; Hall v. Dowling, 18 Cal. 619; Dubuque, etc., R. Co. v. Webster County, 21 Iowa 235; Logan v. Clark County (Kan. 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 603; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 13 Kan. 302; Prescott v. Beebe, 17 Kan. 320; McMahon v. Welsh, 11 Kan. 280; Saline County v. Irving, 18 Kan. 440; Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Comstock, 71 Wis. 88. And see In re St. Paul, etc., R. Co. (Minn. 1890), 44 N. W. Rep. 72; Wheeler v. Merriman, 30 Minn. 372; Smith v. Hollis, 46 Ark. 17; Diver v. Friedheim, 43 Ark. 203; Stryker v. Polk County, 22 Iowa 131; Stockdale v. Webster County, 12 Iowa 536; Vinton v. Cerro Gordo County, 72 Iowa 155.

1. Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Prescott, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 603; Carroll v. Safford, 3 How. (U. S.) 441; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Price County, 133 U. S. 496; Carroll v. Perry, 4 McLean (U. S.) 25; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Walker, 47 Fed. Rep. 681; Oswalt v. Hallowell, 15 Kan. 154; Moriarty v. Boone County, 39 Iowa 634; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Central Pac. R. Co. v. Howard, 52 Cal. 227; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 40 Minn. 360; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Shanks, 40 Minn. 386; Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159; Oregon, etc., R. Co. v. Lane County (Oregon, 1892), 31 Pac. Rep. 964; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Comstock, 71 Wis. 88;

Ross v. Outagamie County, 12 Wis. 26; Farnham v. Sherry, 71 Wis. 568.

2. Townsen v. Wilson, 9 Pa. St. 270. Donation lands are chargeable with state taxes under the doctrine of relation from the date of the first entry. Witherspoon v. Duncan, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 210; Vinton v. Cerro Gordo County, 72 Iowa 155. But this doctrine cannot be invoked to burden the holder of a title and to require him, in violation of justice, to pay taxes when he holds neither the equity nor the title to the lands. Reynolds v. Plymouth County, 55 Iowa 90; Gibson v. Chouteau, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 92. And see Churchill v. Sowards, 78 Iowa 472.

3. Bellinger v. White, 5 Neb. 399; Burcham v. Terry, 55 Ark. 398. And see Chase County v. Shipman, 14 Kan. 532.

This is the case even though proceedings are suspended and further proofs demanded, which demand is not complied with. State v. Hunter (Minn. 1890), 44 N. W. Rep. 201. And see Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Walker, 47 Fed. Rep. 681; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Wright, 51 Fed. Rep. 68.

No right to a patent for a homestead exists until after five years of continuous possession, and lands taken under the homestead act are not liable to taxation until the right to the patent exists. Long v. Culp, 14 Kan. 412; Moriarty v. Boone County, 39 Iowa 634. And see Diver v. Friedheim, 43 Ark. 203.

4. Grant v. Iowa R. Land Co., 54 Iowa 673; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 52 Iowa 244; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Woodbury County, 29 Iowa 247; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Story County, 36 Iowa 48; Jackson v. La Moure County, 1 N. Dak. 238; Whitney v. Gunderson, 31 Wis. 359; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v.

adjusting conflicting rights, the land is not liable to taxation.¹ Neither is the title of the United States divested, nor does the land become taxable where important conditions remain to be complied with before the right to the legal title vests in the preëmtor or patentee, until they are performed,² and where the certification to the performance of conditions by some officer or body is required by the terms of the grant, until the lands are so certified, the grantee has no taxable interest therein.³ Nor can the lands be

Price County, 33 U. S. 496. And see State v. Central Pac. R. Co. (Nev. 1889), 22 Pac. Rep. 237.

The filing of a map of the location of a railway, which determines the right of the company to land under a congressional grant, describing the land granted, is a sufficient identification. Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Dunmeyer, 113 U. S. 639.

1. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Fitchpatrick, 52 Iowa 244; Grant v. Iowa R. Land Co., 54 Iowa 673; Iowa Homestead Co. v. Webster County, 21 Iowa 221; Dickerson v. Yetzer, 53 Iowa 681; Pitts v. Clay, 27 Fed. Rep. 635; Pitts v. Booth, 15 Tex. 453. And see Kohn v. Barr (Kan. 1893), 34 Pac. Rep. 880. But see Robinson v. Gaar, 6 Cal. 273.

When a land warrant is cancelled before the issue of a patent, on the ground that the assignment was forged, no title passes, either legal or equitable, and no tax can be imposed thereon. Durham v. Hussmann (Iowa, 1893), 55 N. W. Rep. 11. But the bringing of an action by a county to set aside a conveyance of land made by it, will not estop the county to levy taxes upon the property during the pendency of the action. American Emigrant Co. v. Iowa R. Land Co., 52 Iowa 323.

2. Union Pac. R. Co. v. McShane, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 444; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Prescott, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 603; Central Colorado Imp. Co. v. Pueblo County, 95 U. S. 259; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Price County, 133 U. S. 496; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Traill County, 115 U. S. 600; Central Pac. R. Co. v. Howard, 51 Cal. 229; Pueblo County v. Central Colorado Imp. Co., 2 Colo. 628; Henderson v. State, 53 Ind. 60; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 13 Kan. 302; Parker v. Winsor, 5 Kan. 362; Douglas County v. Union Pac. R. Co., 5 Kan. 615; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Sac County, 46 Iowa 243; Tyler v. Cass County, 1 N. Dak. 369; White v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 5

Neb. 393. And see Calhoun County v. American Emigrant Co., 93 U. S. 124; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 41 Minn. 452; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. King, 41 Minn. 461; Taylor v. Robinson, 72 Tex. 364; Cornwallis v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 19 Can. Sup. Ct. Rep. 702. This rule does not apply to conditions subsequent to the vesting of the title. North Wisconsin R. Co. v. Barron County, 8 Biss. (U. S.) 414.

Until United States lands are paid for they do not become liable to state taxation. Donovan v. Klope, 6 Neb. 124; Diver v. Friedheim, 43 Ark. 203; Smith v. Hollis, 46 Ark. 17; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Parker v. Winsor, 5 Kan. 362. And the same rule applies to expenses required to be paid by the grantee. Central Colorado Imp. Co. v. Pueblo County, 95 U. S. 259; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Traill County, 115 U. S. 600.

In Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153, it was held that when a railroad company becomes entitled to any portion of a tract of land granted to it by act of Congress, conditioned upon the completion of its road, or the completion of any part of its road, as prescribed by federal or state legislation, a like proportion of the grant thereupon becomes subject to assessment and taxation.

3. Grant v. Iowa R. Land Co., 54 Iowa 673; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodbury County, 29 Iowa 247; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Story County, 36 Iowa 48; Iowa Falls, etc., R. Co. v. Cherokee County, 37 Iowa 483; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Osceola County, 50 Iowa 177. But see Iowa Homestead Co. v. Webster County, 21 Iowa 221; Dubuque, etc., R. Co. v. Webster County, 21 Iowa 235. This rule is not affected by the fact that the refusal to certify was made under a mistake of law, and was subsequently withdrawn. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v.

taxed, when the conveyance or certificate is improperly withheld, nor where the government repudiates the contract;¹ nor when, through the fault or mistake of the officers of the law, no title to or interest in the land is passed to the purchaser.² Where the lands are sold on credit, however, they may be taxed when the right of the purchaser is complete, even though they have not been paid for in full.³

Where the certificate is withheld on account of the neglect of the grantee to procure it to be issued, the lands are taxable from the time they are earned, although withheld from certification.⁴ Nor will a mere contingent right of the government to make another grant upon failure of the first grantee to sell the land within a specified time, exempt it from taxation;⁵ and where the patent is actually issued, the lands are taxable, whether the conditions have been complied with or not.⁶ Property owned by the state

Price County, 133 U. S. 496. And see Jackson v. La Moure County, 1 N. Dak. 238.

But when the determination of the performance of the conditions or of the existence of the required facts must be made upon extrinsic evidence, it is not necessary that the designated officer should pass upon the question before it can be judicially determined. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Wright, 51 Fed. Rep. 68. And see Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Walker, 47 Fed. Rep. 681.

1. Moore v. Morledge, 42 Iowa 26.

But this rule does not apply to a mere refusal to pass the title when the donee is not excluded from the use of the property. See Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Walker, 47 Fed. Rep. 681; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Price County, 133 U. S. 496.

2. Scott v. Chickasaw County, 46 Iowa 253; Reynolds v. Plymouth County, 55 Iowa 90.

In Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Wright, 54 Fed. Rep. 68, it was held that a present grant of public lands attaches to the specific sections as they become capable of identification by the definite location of the road, and on a report by the government surveyor that they are non-mineral lands, they become subject to taxation, though not segregated from the public domain and though the land commissioner refuses to issue patents therefor.

In Farnham v. Sherry, 71 Wis. 568, it was held that where a patent was withheld, upon the ground that the warrant and its assignment to the locator were forged, and no further action was taken for six years, when it finally turned out that the locator was entitled to the land, it was taxable to the locator for the six years in question.

3. Carroll v. Safford, 3 How. (U. S.) 441; Hagenbuck v. Reed, 3 Neb. 17; Edgington v. Cook, 32 Neb. 551; Dickinson County v. Baldwin, 29 Kan. 538. And see Logan v. Clark County (Kan. 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 603; State v. Tucker (Neb. 1890), 56 N. W. Rep. 718.

Where one purchases lands of a municipality and holds them on contract, the stipulations of which have not been performed, the lands are taxable by the municipal government as the property of the purchaser. Wells v. Savannah, 87 Ga. 397.

4. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Fitchpatrick, 52 Iowa 244; Grant v. Iowa R. Land Co., 54 Iowa 673; Iowa Homestead Co. v. Webster County, 21 Iowa 221; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Holdsworth, 47 Iowa 20; Dickerson v. Yetzer, 53 Iowa 681; Kansas State Agr. College v. Hamilton, 28 Kan. 376; Douglas County v. Union Pac. R. Co., 5 Kan. 615; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Culp, 9 Kan. 47; Price v. Lancaster County, 20 Neb. 252; State v. Central Pac. R. Co. (Nev. 1889), 22 Pac. Rep. 237. And see McGregor, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 39 Iowa 655.

5. Union Pac. R. Co. v. McShane, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 444; Dickinson County v. Baldwin, 29 Kan. 538; Pueblo County v. Central Colorado Imp. Co., 2 Colo. 628. And see State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 94.

6. See State v. Central Pac. R. Co. (Nev. 1889), 22 Pac. Rep. 237; North Wisconsin R. Co. v. Barron County, 8 Biss. (U. S.) 414.

or municipality, and used not for carrying on the government but for commercial purposes, is not within the exemption, unless expressly exempted,¹ even though the profits are to be devoted to the proper purposes of the municipality.² Private interests in government lands may be taxed.³ Possession and claim of title to public lands is property and taxable as such to the claimant;⁴ and improvements upon public lands are taxable.⁵

f. INDIAN LANDS.—Treaties made between the government and Indian tribes generally protect the Indian lands against taxation.⁶

In Elkhorn Land, etc., Co. v. Dixon County, 35 Neb. 426, it was held that where the United States grants lands to a state for internal improvement, and a railway company earns the lands and the state parts with its title to the company, the lands are taxable, although the United States did not approve of the selection until after the levy.

1. Louisville v. Com., 1 Duv. (Ky.) 295; 85 Am. Dec. 624; West Hartford v. Board of Water Com'rs, 44 Conn. 360; South Congregational Meeting House v. Lowell, 1 Met. (Mass.) 538; Wayland v. Middlesex County, 4 Gray (Mass.) 500; Allegheny County v. McKeesport Diamond Market, 123 Pa. St. 164; Erie County v. Erie Water Works Com'rs, 113 Pa. St. 368. And see Athens City Water Works Co. v. Athens, 74 Ga. 413.

In Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Carteret County, 75 N. Car. 474, it was held that a constitutional provision exempting property belonging to the state from taxation does not embrace the interests of the state in business enterprises, such as railroads and the like, but applies only to the property of the state held for state purposes.

2. Northwestern University v. People, 80 Ill. 333; Erie County v. Erie Water Works Com'rs, 113 Pa. St. 368. But see Mitchellville v. Polk County, 64 Iowa 554.

3. State v. Moore, 12 Cal. 56; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Ross v. Outagamie County, 12 Wis. 26; Forbes v. Gracey, 94 U. S. 762; Taylor v. Robinson, 34 Fed. Rep. 678. And see Traunell v. Faught, 74 Tex. 557; People v. Tax Com'rs, 82 N. Y. 459; Allegheny County v. McKeesport Diamond Market, 123 Pa. St. 164.

The title of a vendee of a county may be assessed and sold for taxes, although the legal title remains in the county. Townsen v. Wilson, 9 Pa. St. 270. So may the interest of a lessee of the government. Garland County v.

Gaines (Ark. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 602; State v. Tucker (Neb. 1892), 56 N. W. Rep. 718; Taylor v. Robinson, 34 Fed. Rep. 678.

The title or interest of the United States in public lands is not affected where only the possessory claim is assessed, such assessment reaching the taxpayer's interest only. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 247.

In Estes Park Toll Road Co. v. Edwards, 3 Colo. App. 74, it was held that the right of way granted by the United States over public lands, which is accepted by a toll road company, and upon which it constructs and maintains a toll road, is taxable in the county in which it is located.

4. People v. Black Diamond Coal Min. Co., 37 Cal. 54; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 656; People v. Frisbie, 31 Cal. 146; People v. Cohen, 31 Cal. 210; People v. Donnelly, 58 Cal. 144; Ross v. Outagamie County, 12 Wis. 26; McKay v. Outagamie County, 12 Wis. 46.

5. Quivey v. Lawrence, 1 Idaho N. S. 313; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; San Francisco v. McGinn, 67 Cal. 110; Oswalt v. Hallowell, 15 Kan. 154; Chase County v. Shipman, 14 Kan. 532; Smith v. New York, 68 N. Y. 552; Bellinger v. White, 5 Neb. 399; Iverson v. Hance, 1 Wyoming Ter. 270. And see People v. Owyhee Min. Co., 1 Idaho N. S. 420; Luttrell v. Knox County (Tenn. 1890), 14 S. W. Rep. 802; Hall v. Dowling, 18 Cal. 619.

The improvements are not the property of the government. Crocker v. Donovan, 1 Okl. 165.

In Chase County v. Shipman, 14 Kan. 532, it was held that improvements made on government lands, settled upon and occupied as a homestead, are not taxable before final proof of settlement and cultivation is made. But see contra, State v. Tucker (Neb. 1893), 56 N. W. Rep. 718.

6. In The Kansas Indians, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 737, the United States Su-

g. NATIONAL BANKS.—(See NATIONAL BANKS, vol. 16, p. 143.)

5. Incomes; Income Taxes.—Taxes imposed upon incomes are not, strictly speaking, taxes upon property, and, consequently, not within constitutional requirements that property taxes shall be according to value.¹ Nor are they direct taxes, within the federal constitution.² They may be imposed upon all incomes, with such exemptions as the legislature may deem just.³ In the preme Court held that the State of Kansas had no right to tax lands held in severalty by Indians of certain tribes under patents issued pursuant to treaties made with those tribes. In the same case it was said that in construing treaties with the Indian tribes, rules of interpretation favorable to them were to be adopted; and that, therefore, a provision exempting their lands from "levy, sale, and forfeiture," extended to exempt from levy and sale for non-payment of taxes.

In the case of The New York Indians, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 761, it was held that the state had no right to tax lands, the ancient home of Indians still in possession, either for ordinary municipal purposes or for road purposes, the right to the undisturbed enjoyment of such lands having been secured by treaty with the government; and that this was so, although the attempt to tax was under a statute providing that no tax sale should affect the Indians' right of occupancy. This case was before the United States Supreme Court on error to the court of appeals of the State of New York, and the judgment in that case was reversed. See Fellows v. Denniston, 23 N. Y. 420. And see further on the general subject of the exemption of Indian lands from taxation, Foster v. Blue Earth County, 7 Minn. 140; Goodell v. Jackson, 20 Johns. (N. Y.) 693; 11 Am. Dec. 351; Harrington v. Wilson, 29 Wis. 383; State v. Miami County, 63 Ind. 497; Fellows v. Blacksmith, 19 How. (U. S.) 366; Hilgers v. Quinney, 51 Wis. 62.

1. Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 480.

Such a tax is imposed upon the fruits of property, Waring v. Savannah, 60 Ga. 93; and of labor, industry, and skill rather than upon the property. Wilcox v. Middlesex, 103 Mass. 544.

2. Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586.

Non-residents.—Acts of Congress, August 5th, 1861, and July 1st, 1862, imposing income taxes upon every person residing in the United States and citizens residing abroad, did not reach non-resident aliens receiving incomes from property within the United States. The acts of March 10th, and July 13th, 1866, did impose a tax on non-resident alien bondholders. See Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 262.

3. New Orleans v. Fourchy, 30 La. Ann. 910; U. S. v. Smith, 1 Sawy. (U. S.) 277.

The power to lay an income tax is expressly conferred by the constitution of Texas. Texas Const. of 1872, art. 8, §§ 1, 2.

In Louisiana, an act of 19th of March, 1856, authorizing the taxing of incomes, clearly defined the incomes intended as "wages, commissions, brokerage, etc.," and did not authorize a tax upon incomes, the fruits of capital invested in merchandise, stock, etc. New Orleans v. Hart, 14 La. Ann. 815. Profits realized from the use of a cotton press, drays and slaves in carrying on the business of a cotton press, were not subject to taxation as income under that act. New Orleans v. Fassman, 14 La. Ann. 878.

In New Hampshire, a statute providing for taxing every person on the amount of all incomes received by him during the year, accruing from notes, bonds, or other securities not otherwise taxed under the laws of the state, might be valid as to other securities than those of the United States. Opinion of the Justices, 53 N. H. 637.

Salaries of Public Officers—Judges.—

The tax imposed by a state upon the salaries of its judges, is not in conflict with the constitutional provision that the compensation for their services shall not be diminished during their continuance in office. Northumberland v. Chapman, 2 Rawle (Pa.) 72.

But a state cannot levy a tax upon the emoluments of an officer of the United States. Dobbins v. Erie, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 435. Nor, on the other hand, can Congress impose a tax upon the salary of a state judge. Buffington v. Day, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 113.

In City Council v. Lee, 1 Treadw. (S. Car.) 57, it was held that the sala-absence of constitutional restriction, incomes may be taxed even though derived from property which is also taxed,¹ or from a business upon which a license tax is imposed.²

Unless otherwise provided, the income taxed includes only actual acquisitions of property within the year for which the tax is levied,³ and not anticipated profits;⁴ and the income is that of a previous and not of the current year.⁵

6. Legal Process.—Taxes are sometimes imposed upon legal process with a view to adjusting upon an equitable basis as between suitors and the public, the expense of the administration of ries of public officers are not liable to be taxed under an ordinance imposing a tax on all profit or income arising from the "pursuit of any faculty, profession, occupation, trade, or employment."

Delegation of Power to Municipal Corporation.—The power to tax incomes may be delegated to municipal corporations. See Glen v. Charleston, 1 McCord (S. Car.) 345. However, a charter authorizing a municipal corporation to tax real and personal estate, does not necessarily confer the right to tax incomes. Savannah v. Hartridge, 8 Ga. 23. See also Home Ins. Co. v. Augusta, 50 Ga. 530.

1. Memphis v. Ensley, 6 Baxt. (Tenn.) 553. See also Union Bank v. State, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 490.

It is no defense to a suit for the recovery of an income tax that the income has been applied in reduction of an indebtedness upon a purchase of real estate upon which a tax is paid. Lott v. Hubbard, 44 Ala. 593.

2. Drexel v. Com., 46 Pa. St. 31; Burch v. Mayor, etc., of Savannah, 42 Ga. 596.

In Wilcox v. Middlesex, 103 Mass. 544, it was held that a merchant's income from his business is taxable, though he is also taxed on his stock in trade, notwithstanding a statute prohibiting taxes on income and derived from property subject to taxation; income derived from dealings in merchandise not being an income derived from property.

3. The profit made upon bonds bought in one year and sold several years after, is not to be included in the estimate of the owner's "gains, profits, and income" for the year in which the bonds were sold under the act of 1867. Gray v. Darlington, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 63.

A merchant, under the Internal Revenue Act of 1864, may deduct from his gross profits such debts as become insolvent during the year to which the return relates, but not such as become so after the expiration of that year, although before the date of the return. U. S. v. Mayer, Deady (U. S.) 127.

Refusal to Give Income.—In Alabama, it is provided that if the taxpayer refuses to give his income, the assessor may ascertain it from inquiry and fix it to the best of his judgment. And if acting in good faith, he fixes it at an amount larger than the true income, the tax is valid and cannot be resisted. Lott v. Hubbard, 44 Ala. 593.

Penalty.—The addition of one hundred per cent. to the tax as a penalty for return of a false or fraudulent list or valuation, is constitutional. Doll v. Evans, 11 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 315; 15 Int. Rev. Rec. 143.

Perjury.—Although an act imposing a tax on incomes makes no provision for compelling a person to make oath to his return, yet if it permits him to do so, and he avails himself of the privilege, and makes a false return, he is guilty of perjury. U. S. v. Smith, 1 Sawy. (U. S.) 277.

4. Promissory Notes.—Whether promissory notes and book accounts received during the year are to be included in an estimate of income, depends upon whether they are collectible. If not so, a defendant cannot be convicted of making a false return for not including them. U. S. v. Frost, 9 Int. Rev. Rec. 41.

In U. S. v. Schillinger, 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 71, promissory notes made for articles sold in 1871, which were payable in 1872, were not included within the gains or profits of the year 1871, upon which the tax was imposed.

6. State v. Elfe, 3 Strobb. (S. Car.) 395.

Income of Person Dying Within the Year.—An income tax is payable for that part of the year in which a person dies, preceding his death, to be collected from his estate. Mandell v. Pierce, 3 Cliff. (U. S.) 134.

justice.¹ Such taxes may be imposed as stamp fees on process, or fees for permission to enter suits, etc.,² or they may be imposed upon the unsuccessful party.³

Arbitrary exactions imposed without reference to the nature or extent of the proceeding, however, are violative of constitutional provisions requiring equality of taxation and the free dispensation of justice without purchase.⁴

VII. UPON WHOM IMPOSED—1. General Principles.—Taxation being imposed in consideration of the protection afforded the individual and his property, the individual is personally charged with the tax.⁵ The rule is otherwise as to the unoccupied lands of

1. Lee County v. Abrahams, 34 Ark. 166, citing Murphy v. State, 38 Ark. 514.

Tax on Civil Suits.—The settlement of an estate in the probate court is not a civil suit, within the meaning of a constitutional provision authorizing the legislature to impose taxes on civil suits. State v. Mann, 76 Wis. 469; Nunnemacher v. Mann, 76 Wis. 498.

Constitutional Restrictions.—The imposition of a tax upon parties commencing suits in court, does not violate a constitutional provision that the mode of levying taxes shall be by valuation. State v. Lancaster County, 4 Neb. 537.

The constitutional right to obtain justice freely and without purchase, has never been understood to be a right to judicial proceedings carried on without expense to the parties. State v. Gorman, 40 Minn. 232. And see Adams v. Corriston, 7 Minn. 456; Perce v. Hallet, 13 R. I. 363.

2. Lee County v. Abrahams, 34 Ark. 166. And see State v. Lancaster County, 4 Neb. 537.

The state may require the payment of a tax as a condition precedent to the use of its process. Harrison v. Willis, 7 Heisk. (Tenn.) 35; Robertson v. Land Com'rs, 44 Mich. 274.

In Smith v. Waters, 25 Ind. 397, it was held that if a revenue stamp is required by law to be attached to a replevin bond, the failure to attach it furnishes no ground for dismissing an appeal in the action in which the bond is required; but that a replevin bond is neither a writ nor process within the meaning of the revenue law.

When the Tax Accrues.—A tax upon a law suit accrues when the suit is commenced, and must be paid, although the suit was compromised and dismissed before it had come to an issue. Nashville v. Davis, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 474; Elliston v. Winstead, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 472.

3. Harrison v. Willis, 7 Heisk. (Tenn.) 32; Nashville v. Davis, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 474; Elliston v. Winstead, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 472; State v. Stanley, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 524; State v. Nance, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 644.

A tax imposed on each criminal conviction is a mode of making persons convicted of crime contribute to defray the expense of public prosecutions, and is constitutional. Myrtle v. State, 38 Ark. 514.

Proceedings to recover fines for violation of the ordinances of a town are not "criminal cases" within the meaning of a statute which imposes a tax on such cases; payable to the state. State v. Mason, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 649.

4. State v. Gorman, 40 Minn. 232. In this case a statute, requiring as a condition precedent to probate proceedings the payment of specific sums arbitrarily prescribed with reference to the value of the estate, was held unconstitutional.

5. Green v. Craft, 28 Miss. 70; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; 76 Am. Dec. 521; Kelsey v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 609; Mercier's Succession, 42 La. Ann. 1135; Rundell v. Lakey, 40 N. Y. 517; Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 346; Bennett v. Buffalo, 17 N. Y. 383; Chapman v. Brooklyn, 40 N. Y. 377; Miller v. Gorman, 38 Pa. St. 309; Sheaffer v. McKabe, 2 Watts (Pa.) 421; Harbeson v. Jack, 2 Watts (Pa.) 124; Kennedy v. Daily, 6 Watts (Pa.) 269; Stokely v. Boner, 10 S. & R. (Pa.) 254; Ellis v. Hall, 19 Pa. St. 296; McKibbin v. Charlton, 14 Pa. St. 128; State v. Leavenworth County, 2 Kan. 61; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; Sherwin v. Boston, etc., Sav. Bank, 137 Mass. 444; Cochran v. Guild, 106 Mass. 29; 8 Am. Rep. 296; Burr v. Wilcox, 13 Allen (Mass.) 269; Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486.

non-residents,¹ taxes upon such lands generally being a charge upon the land alone.

Every resident of the taxing district,² and every person owning property³ or transacting business therein,⁴ is liable to taxation. Thus, aliens,⁵ non-residents,⁶ minors,⁷ corporations,⁸ women,⁹ and persons non compos mentis,¹⁰ may be taxed.

The right to tax is not dependent upon citizenship.¹¹ Indians

The assessment of a tax against an individual creates not only a lien on his property, but also a personal obligation to the full amount of the tax. New Orleans v. Day, 29 La. Ann. 416.

1. See infra, this title, Non-resident and Unseated Property.

As a general rule, however, taxes are imposed upon the individual on account of his ownership of the property. Rundell v. Lakey, 40 N. Y. 517; Mercier's Succession, 42 La. Ann. 1135; Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 436. But when property is resorted to, it is for the purpose of ascertaining the amount with which the owner should be charged, Green v. Craft, 28 Miss. 70; Kelsey v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 609; State v. Vanderbilt, 33 N. J. L. 38; Mercier's Succession, 42 La. Ann. 1135; or to facilitate the collection of taxes. See Green v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 694.

Local Assessments.—As to whether a local assessment for benefits is a personal charge upon the owner of the property, see infra, this title, Local Assessments.

2. Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; Pullen v. Wake County, 66 N. Car. 361; Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 152.

3. Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; Padelford v. Savannah, 14 Ga. 438; Jones v. Columbus, 25 Ga. 610; Duer v. Small, 17 How. Pr. (U. S. C. C.) 201; Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 339; People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 N. Y. 224; Harrison v. Vicksburg, 3 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 581; Worth v. Fayetteville, 1 Winst. Eq. (N. Car.) 70; State v. Charleston, 2 Spears (S. Car.) 623; Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 152; Turner v. Burlington, 16 Mass. 208; Coburn v. Richardson, 16 Mass. 212; Shriver v. Pittsburg, 66 Pa. St. 446; Bennett v. Birmingham, 31 Pa. St. 15; Ahl v. Gleim, 52 Pa. St. 432.

Non residents of a state, as well as residents, are liable to taxation in respect to stock held by them in corporations within the state. Appeal Tax Cases, 12 Gill & J. (Md.) 117. And see Tax Court v. Patterson, 50 Md. 368.

4. Duer v. Small, 17 How. Pr. (U. S. C. C.) 201; Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 197; Padelford v. Savannah, 14 Ga. 438; Pearce v. Augusta, 37 Ga. 597; McCutchen v. Rice County, 7 Fed. Rep. 558.

Statutes authorizing the same taxes upon non-residents pursuing their ordinary avocations within the corporation as upon inhabitants, authorize a tax upon the shares in the national bank located in the town, and held by one who conducts his ordinary business therein, but whose residence is outside the corporate limits. Moore v. Fayetteville, 80 N. Car. 154.

5. Frantz's Appeal, 52 Pa. St. 367; Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 204.

6. Moore v. Fayetteville, 80 N. Car. 154; Ahl v. Gleim, 52 Pa. St. 432; Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 204; Duer v. Small, 17 How. Pr. (U. S. C. C.) 201; State v. Charleston, 4 Strobb. (S. Car.) 217.

7. Moore v. Fayetteville, 80 N. Car. 154; Smith v. Macon, 20 Ark. 17; Dobbins v. Erie County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 435.

8. See TAXATION (CORPORATE).

As to the word "person" including a corporation, see PERSON, vol. 18, p. 404.

9. Moore v. Fayetteville, 80 N. Car. 154; Smith v. Macon, 20 Ark. 17; Wheeler v. Wall, 6 Allen (Mass.) 558; Dobbins v. Erie County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 435.

Taxation Without Representation.—

The maxim that taxation and representation should go together, has no application to individuals, but only to political communities as such. Moore v. Fayetteville, 80 N. Car. 154; Wheeler v. Wall, 6 Allen (Mass.) 558; Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. (U. S.) 317.

10. See Dobbins v. Erie County, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 435.

11. Kuntz v. Davidson County, 6 Lea (Tenn.) 65; Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 197; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654.

who are not citizens and who preserve their tribal relations, are not liable to taxation.¹

2. Property, to Whom Taxed—a. GENERALLY.—The state may declare that property shall be chargeable with taxes, no matter who is the owner or to whom it is taxed.² It is usually required that property be taxed against the owner³ or occupant.⁴ And in case of a reasonable doubt as to the ownership, it may be charged to unknown owners or to persons unknown.⁵ Where there are several interests in the land, as of a tenant in possession or remainderman, the party in possession may be charged.⁶

Partnership property is taxable to the partnership as such, and not to the individual partners.⁷ Taxes upon property owned in

1. State v. Ross, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 74. See infra, this title, Indian Lands.

The rule is different as to civilized Indians whose tribal relations have been dissolved. Hilgers v. Quinney, 51 Wis. 62.

2. Witherspoon v. Duncan, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 210; Dunn v. Winston, 31 Miss. 135; Kennedy v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 62 Ill. 395.

3. See Nashua Sav. Bank v. Nashua, 46 N. H. 389; Cornish Bridge v. Richardson, 8 N. H. 207; Kelsey v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 609; Blatner v. Davis, 32 Cal. 328; Bosworth v. Webster, 64 Cal. 1; Smith v. Read, 51 Conn. 10; Mullikin v. Reeves, 71 Ind. 281; Bell v. Fry, 5 Dana (Ky.) 341; Hayes v. Viator, 33 La. Ann. 1162; Thibodaux v. Keller, 29 La. Ann. 508; LeBlanc v. Blodgett, 34 La. Ann. 107; Desmond v. Babbitt, 117 Mass. 233; Pease v. Whitney, 5 Mass. 580; Dunn v. Winston, 31 Miss. 135; Green v. Craft, 28 Miss. 70; Lyman v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; State v. Union Tp., 36 N. J. L. 309; State v. Hardin, 34 N. J. L. 79; Morrison v. McLaughlin, 88 N. Car. 251; Willard v. Blount, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 624; Pitts v. Booth, 15 Tex. 453; Yenda v. Wheeler, 9 Tex. 408; Tracy v. Reed, 38 Fed. Rep. 69; Greenwalt v. Tucker, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 166; Moss v. Hinds, 29 Vt. 188; Milwaukee Iron Co. v. Hubbard, 29 Wis. 51.

As to who is an owner within the tax laws, see infra, this title, Ownership; and OWNER, vol. 17, p. 299.

The owner of unoccupied land must pay to the state, taxes lawfully imposed thereon. Blackwood v. VanVliet, 30 Mich. 118. And see Oldtown v. Blake, 74 Me. 280.

4. Smith v. Read, 51 Conn. 10; Southworth v. Edmonds, 152 Mass. 203; Pease v. Whitney, 5 Mass. 380; Zink

v. McManus, 49 Hun (N. Y.) 583; Willard v. Blount, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 624; Bemis v. Phelps, 41 Vt. 1. And see Kelsey v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 609; Burpee v. Russell, 64 N. H. 62; Perham v. Haverhill Fibre Co., 64 N. H. 2; Butler v. Oswego, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 592; Lynde v. Brown, 143 Mass. 337. See infra, this title, Occupancy.

5. French v. Spalding, 61 N. H. 395. And see Burpee v. Russell, 64 N. H. 62.

The right of an assessor, to estimate property which he cannot find, does not authorize the assessment against one of property belonging to another. State v. Sherrer, 49 N. J. L. 610.

Double Assessment.—When land is assessed to the owner and also to "owner unknown" for the same tax, the latter assessment is void, and a sale thereunder confers no title upon the purchaser. Nichols v. McGlathery, 43 Iowa 189.

6. See infra, this title, Particular Estates.

7. Hubbard v. Winsor, 15 Mich. 146; Hill v. Graham, 72 Mich. 659; McCoy v. Anderson, 47 Mich. 502; Williams v. Saginaw, 51 Mich. 120; Thibodaux v. Keller, 29 La. Ann. 508; Ricker v. American Loan, etc., Co., 140 Mass. 346; Van Dyke v. Carlton, 61 N. H. 574. And see Stockwell v. Brewer, 59 Me. 286; People v. Ferguson, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 102; Wheeler v. Anthony, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 346; Robinson v. Ward, 13 Ohio St. 293.

Where a partnership business continues after the death of one of the partners, the property should be listed for taxation in the firm name. Blodgett v. Muskegon, 60 Mich. 580. So after dissolution, and during the process of winding up. Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125; People v. Sneath, 28 Cal. 612.

common should be imposed upon all the common owners,¹ though the imposition of a tax upon the individual interest of each has been upheld.²

b. OWNERSHIP.—The owner of property, for the purposes of taxation, is the person having the legal title thereto.³ One who, by contract or otherwise, has a mere equity in the premises,⁴ is not an owner within the tax laws. But the owner of an equitable estate may be taxed.⁵ The fact that the title is conditional and

In People v. Coleman, 44 Hun (N. Y.) 20, it was held that the executors of a deceased member of a partnership are not taxable before anything becomes due to them from the surviving members of the firm.

A retiring partner need not give notice in order to relieve himself from liability for taxes afterwards imposed, Washburn v. Walworth, 133 Mass. 499; and an incoming partner becomes liable for the taxes assessed upon the share of the outgoing partner of whom he purchased. Wheat v. Hamilton, 53 Ind. 236.

1. See Hayes v. Viator, 33 La. Ann. 1162; People v. McEwen, 23 Cal. 54; Jenkins v. Rice, 84 Ind. 342.

In Mercier's Succession, 42 La. Ann. 1135, it was held that taxes assessed against two persons as joint owners, constitute a general personal obligation against them.

2. See Payne v. Danley, 18 Ark. 441; 68 Am. Dec. 187; State v. Rand, 39 Minn. 502.

3. Tracy v. Reed, 38 Fed. Rep. 69; Augusta Bank v. Augusta, 36 Me. 255; Miner v. Pingree, 110 Mass. 47; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; State v. Newark, 50 N. J. L. 66. See also Waltham Bank v. Waltham, 10 Met. (Mass.) 334; Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113.

In Osterhout v. Jones, 54 Mich. 228, however, it was held that lumber awaiting transportation to the vendee, is not taxable to him if it is still to be assorted and inspected by the vendor and further payment is to be made.

Where lands are held under a parol gift not consummated by deed, they belong and must be assessed to the donor, even though the donee is in possession. Mullikin v. Reeves, 71 Ind. 281. And the same rule applies generally to personal property. See Ratterman v. Ingalls, 48 Ohio St. 468.

Lessee.—Thus, a lessee is not an owner. State v. St. Louis County Ct., 13 Mo. App. 53; State v. Blundell, 24 N. J. L. 402. By statute, in Texas, a tenant for three years or more is to be considered the owner. Taylor v. Robinson, 34 Fed. Rep. 678.

Sewing machines leased by the owner, subject to resumption in case of failure to pay, are properly taxable to him. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Essex County, 139 Mass. 266.

Unrecorded Deed.—The taxes should be paid by him in possession of the land under a grant or deed, although the same is not recorded. Francis v. Washburn, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 294.

4. Tracy v. Reed, 38 Fed. Rep. 69; Churchill v. Sowards, 78 Iowa 472; Butler v. Stark, 139 Mass. 19; State v. St. Louis County, 84 Mo. 234; Taylor v. Robinson, 72 Tex. 364; Pitts v. Booth, 15 Tex 453.

Thus, where one has no taxable interest in the property, but merely a joint use thereof with the owner, he is not taxable. Irvin v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 94 Ill. 105.

A Way.—So the land upon which one has reserved a right of way is taxable to the owner of the fee and not to the possessor of the way. Winston v. Johnson, 42 Minn. 398.

Vendee in Possession.—It has been held that a vendee of realty in possession under a contract of sale at the date of the assessment is the real owner for purposes of taxation, whether he holds a legal title or not. Anderson v. Harvard, 47 Mo. App. 660; Farber v. Purdy, 69 Mo. 601; Wells v. Savannah, 87 Ga. 397; Taylor v. Robinson, 34 Fed. Rep. 678. And a railroad company which has acquired the right to perpetual possession of land, has been held the owner for purposes of taxation, although it has not a legal title. Muscantine v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 79 Iowa 645.

5. Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159; State v. Board of Railroad Com'rs, 41 N. J. L. 235; Green v. Watson, 34 Pa. St. 332.

If land has been taxed to the benesubject to be divested by redemption or otherwise, does not affect the taxability of the owner.¹

In ascertaining the ownership for the purposes of taxation, the record title controls;² and it is not necessary to investigate the proceedings pertaining to the title claimed in order to determine the question of the validity of the record.³ Persons who own the property at the time of the assessment are the ones upon whom the tax is imposed, irrespective of prior or subsequent changes of ownership.⁴

c. OCCUPANCY.—An occupant, within the tax laws, is one who has the actual and exclusive use and possession of a thing.⁵ It is ficial owner, a subsequent sale for non-payment of the tax by the legal owner, is void. Whitham v. Sayers, 9 W. Va. 671.

1. Butler v. Stark, 139 Mass. 19; State v. Mississippi River Bridge Co., 109 Mo. 253; Maina v. Elliott, 51 Cal. 8; Ralston v. Hughes, 13 Ill. 469; Greenwalt v. Tucker, 3 McCrary (U. S.) 166. And see Brent v. New Orleans, 41 La. Ann. 1098. The contrary was held in Central Pac. R. Co. v. Howard, 52 Cal. 227.

A party cannot be relieved from the payment of taxes and assessments on the ground that someone else might have an outstanding title to the property taxed. It is sufficient that he claims and possesses as owner. Selby v. Levee Com'rs, 14 La. Ann. 437. And see infra, this title, Particular Estates.

But in Trammell v. Faught, 74 Tex. 557, it was held that where the state reserved the right to terminate a lease of public lands at will, the lands were not taxable to the tenant under the Texas statute.

2. Gee v. Clark, 42 La. Ann. 919; Butler v. Stark, 139 Mass. 19; Finney v. Boyd, 26 Wis. 366.

A statute providing that the record owner should be deemed the true owner for taxation purposes, does not authorize an assessment in the name of a record owner who died previous to such assessment. Sawyer v. Mackie, 149 Mass. 269.

3. Mason v. Bemiss, 38 La. Ann. 935. And see French v. Spalding, 61 N. H. 395.

The government, in taxing land, does not attempt to determine in whom the title vests, but leaves such determination to the parties interested. Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159.

An assessor is not required to look into the secret ownership of personal property, but may assess it against the apparent owner by possession or muniment of title. The North Cape, 6 Biss. (U. S.) 505.

4. State v. Union Tp., 36 N. J. L. 309; State v. Hardin, 34 N. J. L. 79; State v. Jersey City, 44 N. J. L. 156; San Gabriel Valley, etc., Co. v. Witmer, 96 Cal. 623; Campbell v. Quackenbush (Cal. 1892), 31 Pac. Rep. 746; Russell v. Mandell, 73 Ill. 136; Biggins v. People, 96 Ill. 381; Anderson v. Harwood, 47 Mo. App. 660; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; Washburn v. Walworth, 133 Mass. 499; C. N. Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54. And see Sully v. Poorbaugh, 45 Iowa 453; Tallman v. Butler County, 12 Iowa 531; People v. McComber (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 71. See also Templeton v. Levee Com'rs, 16 La. Ann. 117; McLaren v. Sheble, 45 Mo. 130; State v. Williamson, 33 N. J. L. 77; Bemis v. Phelps, 41 Vt. 1; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Lincoln County, 57 Wis. 137.

Taxes on real estate cannot be apportioned among the different persons who may become owners of it during the year. The person charged at the beginning of the tax year is liable for the taxes of the whole year, even though he disposes of the property before the day of appeal. Shaw v. Quinn, 12 S. & R. (Pa.) 299; Densmore v. Haggerty, 59 Pa. St. 189.

Where a change in ownership is a mere device to escape taxation, the rule may be different. Jones v. Seward County, 10 Neb. 154.

5. See Redfield v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 54; National F. Ins. Co. v. McKay, 5 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 445; Bangor v. Rowe, 57 Me. 439; Veerhusen v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 53 Wis. 689. See also OCCUPANCY, OCCUPANT, vol. 17, pp. 28, 29.

In Flax Pond Water Co. v. Lynn, not necessary that the occupant should reside upon the land, if he is in receipt of the rents and profits, or has the sole and exclusive use thereof.¹

d. PARTICULAR ESTATES.—As a general rule, taxes are imposed upon the owner or person in possession of real estate, as a whole or as one entire interest, without reference to particular estates or interests in the property.² The land being charged with the taxes, 147 Mass. 31, it was held that a company in possession of dams which cause water to cover real estate of which it is not the owner, is liable for the taxes on such real estate.

A tenant is not an occupier unless he can maintain trespass. State v. Abbott, 42 N. J. L. 111. And in Weyse v. Crawford, 85 Cal. 196, it was held that a warehouseman was not in the possession of the property within the California statute.

A husband residing with wife upon the wife's separate property, has been held an occupant, for purposes of taxation. Southworth v. Edmands, 152 Mass. 207; Paul v. Fries, 18 Fla. 586. A contrary decision was arrived at in Hamilton v. Fond du Lac, 25 Wis. 496. This is noticed and disapproved in the Massachusetts and Florida cases. In Smith v. Read, 51 Conn. 11, it was decided that a husband not living upon the property was not an occupant.

1. See Tweed v. Metcalf, 4 Mich. 586; State v. Reinhardt, 31 N. J. L. 218; State v. Hoffman, 30 N. J. L. 346; Spangler v. York County, 13 Pa. St. 322. And see also OCCUPANT, vol. 17, p. 29.

Paying wharfage on manufactured lumber, or hiring logs to be sawed at a mill, does not constitute the person an occupant of the sawmill. Campbell v. Machias, 33 Me. 419.

An assessor will not be chargeable with bad faith for assessing pasture land, upon which there is no dwelling house, to the owner and not to the real occupant. Massing v. Ames, 37 Wis. 645.

An entry and survey of land is sufficient evidence of possession. Little v. Downing, 37 N. H. 355.

2. Parker v. Baxter, 2 Gray (Mass.) 185; Flax Pond Water Co. v. Lynn, 147 Mass. 31; State v. Massaker, 26 N. J. L. 564; Turner v. Smith, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 553; Biscoe v. Coulter, 18 Ark. 423; Merrick v. Hutt, 15 Ark. 331; Atkins v. Hinman, 7 Ill. 447; Blackwood v. Van Vliet, 30 Mich. 118; Willard v. Blount, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 624; Brown v. Austin, 41 Vt. 262.

A party enjoying the present use of the land is liable for the taxes thereon, unless the language of the statute imposing the tax is repugnant to such liability. Spangler v. York County, 13 Pa. St. 322.

Tenant for Life.—Taxes are chargeable against a tenant for life. Garland v. Garland, 73 Me. 97; Varney v. Stevens, 22 Me. 331; Plympton v. Boston Dispensary, 106 Mass. 544; Fleet v. Dorland, 11 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 489; Cairns v. Chabert, 3 Edw. Ch. (N. Y.) 312; Carter v. Youngs, 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 422; Willard v. Blount, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 624; In re Cox, 36 N. J. Eq. 448; Weaver v. Arnold, 15 R. I. 53; Whyte v. Nashville, 2 Swan (Tenn.) 364; Webb v. Burlington, 28 Vt. 188. And see Bidwell v. Greenshield, 2 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 427; King v. King, 41 N. Y. Super. Ct. 518; Gillespie v. Brooks, 2 Redf. (N. Y.) 364; Peck v. Sherwood, 56 N. Y. 615; Anderson v. Hensley, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 834; Matter of Babcock, 115 N. Y. 450.

A conditional or determinable fee is not taxable to the reversioner. Connecticut Spiritualistic, etc., Assoc. v. East Lynne, 54 Conn. 152. And see Huck v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Ill. 352.

Bridge Franchise.—A grant of a bridge franchise, to a person for twenty-five years with reversion to the city, is taxable to the grantee. Fall v. Marysville, 19 Cal. 391.

Mortgages.—So lands and chattels may be assessed, regardless of the mortgages upon them. Allen v. Harford County, 74 Md. 294; Central Pac. R. Co. v. Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 35; Parker v. Baxter, 2 Gray (Mass.) 185; State v. Grey, 29 N. J. L. 380; Morrison v. Manchester, 58 N. H. 538; Fagen v. Campbell, 5 Watts (Pa.) 287; Fields v. Russell, 38 Kan. 720. And see Appeal Tax Court v. Rice, 50 Md. 319; Baltimore v. Canton Co., 63 Md. 237; State v. Massaker, 26 N. J. L. 564; Ralston v. Hughes, 13 Ill. 469; Greenwalt v. Tucker, 3 McCrary all claims and pretensions must yield to such charge, and all persons must take notice.¹

The whole tax upon the land may be imposed upon a lessee,² or a mortgagee.³

For the purposes of taxation, property may be treated as belonging either to the maker or holder of a bond for title.⁴

The statutes of some states requiring expressly that particular estates in lands shall be separately taxed,⁵ include common owners,⁶ and the interests of a mortgagor and a mortgagee;⁷ and the owner and the holder of a rent charge are taxable for their respective estates.⁸ One person may be taxed as owner of the fee and another as owner of structures upon, or minerals or quarries within the land.⁹ Easements appurtenant to realty, however, are to be

(U. S.) 166. This rule would not be affected by the fact that a mortgage upon the land taxed or bonds secured by mortgage thereon were held and taxed in another jurisdiction. State v. Massaker, 25 N. J. L. 531.

1. See infra, this title, Tax Liens; Merrick v. Hutt, 15 Ark. 331; Latrobe v. Baltimore, 19 Md. 13; Fager v. Campbell, 5 Watts (Pa.) 287.

2. See Washington Market v. District of Columbia, 4 Mackey (D. C.) 416; Sanderson v. Scranton, 105 Pa. St. 469; Allegheny County v. McKeesport Diamond Market, 123 Pa. St. 164; Trammell v. Faught, 74 Tex. 557; Pease v. Whitney, 5 Mass. 380; Merrill v. Champagne Lumber Co., 75 Wis. 142; Taylor v. Robinson, 34 Fed. Rep. 678.

In Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. State, 60 N. H. 133, it was held that a railroad leased for 99 years may be taxed either to the lessor or to the lessee.

3. See Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78; Shoemaker v. The Bank, 15 Phila. (Pa.) 297.

In Coombs v. Warren, 34 Me. 89, it was held that a mortgagee not in possession could not be taxed for land. See Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 182, as to the remedy of a mortgagee of personal property when taxed. And generally, a mortgagor, and not the mortgagee, when not in possession, is considered the owner for taxation purposes. Waltham Bank v. Waltham, 10 Met. (Mass.) 334.

4. But as between the parties to the bond, the one taking the rents and profits, or enjoying the use for the time being, is liable for the taxes. National Bank v. Danforth, 80 Ga. 55.

5. See McLaughlin v. Kain, 45 Pa. St. 113; Logan v. Washington County, 29 Pa. St. 373; Oldhams v. Jones, 5 B. Mon. (Ky.) 458; Dunn v. Winston, 31 Miss. 135; Lafin v. Herrington, 16 Ill. 301.

The interest of a remainderman in a fund, which is to take effect in possession after the death of a life annuitant, may be taxed. See State v. Melroy (N. J. 1890), 19 Atl. Rep. 732.

6. Payne v. Danley, 18 Ark. 441; 68 Am. Dec. 187; Williams v. Brace, 5 Conn. 190.

7. State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98; In re Cox, 36 N. J. Eq. 448; State v. Massaker, 25 N. J. L. 531; Cruger v. Dougherty, 43 N. Y. 107; Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 182. See also Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78.

8. Logan v. Washington County, 29 Pa. St. 373; Irvin v. Bank of U. S., 1 Pa. St. 349. And see Daugherty v. Thompson, 71 Tex. 192; State v. Taylor (Tex. 1888), 12 S. W. Rep. 176.

But the owner of a ground rent in fee is not liable for any of the taxes assessed on the land out of which the rent issues. Philadelphia Library Co. v. Ingham, 1 Whart. (Pa.) 72.

Whether there is such an estate in the lessee of a part of a building as amounts to interest in the realty, and whether, in such case, the lessee should pay the taxes upon the part occupied by him, is to be determined by the terms of the lease. Cincinnati College v. Yeatman, 30 Ohio St. 276.

9. Smith v. New York, 68 N. Y. 552; People v. Board of Assessors, 93 N. Y. 308; People v. Sierra Buttes Quartz Min. Co., 39 Cal. 511; San Francisco v. McGinn, 67 Cal. 110; Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 497; Gorrell v. Murphy, 1 Pa. Leg. Gaz. 495; Cincinnati College v. Yeatman, 30 Ohio St. 276; Consolidated taxed as a part of and belonging to the land to which they are appurtenant.¹

The dower interest of a widow is not to be charged with any portion of the taxes imposed upon the land either in her husband's lifetime, or during her quarantine.²

c. TRUSTEES, EXECUTORS, AND ADMINISTRATORS, GUARDIANS, AGENTS, ETC.—As a general rule, property held in trust is taxable to the trustee.³ Under certain circumstances trust estates have Coal Co. v. Baker, 135 Ill. 545; In re Major, 134 Ill. 19; People v. Tax Com'rs, 82 N. Y. 459; Major v. Pavey (Ill.), 24 N. E. Rep. 973; Forbes v. Gracey, 94 U. S. 762; Flax Pond Water Co. v. Lynn, 147 Mass. 131; Mill v. Lacey, 110 Pa. St. 204; Sanderson v. Scranton, 105 Pa. St. 469; Stuart v. Com. (Ky.), 23 S. W. Rep. 367; Milligan v. Drury, 130 Mass. 428; McGee v. Salem, 149 Mass. 238; State v. Mississippi Bridge Co., 109 Mo. 253; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372.

For the purpose of taxation, improvements erected by a lessee, upon lands owned by and leased from a municipal corporation, are regarded as the property of the lessee. San Francisco v. McGinn, 67 Cal. 110.

Where the owner of mining land has sold the right to take all the minerals from the land, but has retained the land, the owner of the land and the owner of the minerals are each taxable according to their several interests. Logan v. Washington County, 29 Pa. St. 373; Sanderson v. Scranton, 105 Pa. St. 469.

1. Winnipiseogee Lake Cotton, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Gilford, 64 N. H. 337; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372; Bellows Falls Canal Co. v. Rockingham, 37 Vt. 622.

In Boston Mfg. Co. v. Newton, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 22, it was held that water power for mill purposes when not used cannot be taxed independent of the land.

2. Graves v. Cochran, 68 Mo. 74; Moore v. White, 61 Mo. 442; Deitz v. Beard, 2 Watts (Pa.) 170; Felch v. Finch, 52 Iowa 566; Huston v. Seeley, 27 Iowa 183; Williams v. Cox, 3 Edw. Ch. (N. Y.) 178; Harrison v. Peck, 56 Barb. (N. Y.) 251; Taylor v. Bentley, 3 Redf. (N. Y.) 34. And see O'Farrell v. Simplot, 4 Iowa 381; Branson v. Yancy, 1 Dev. Eq. (N. Car.) 77. See also Bidwell v. Greensheid, 2 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 427.

3. Carlisle v. Marshall, 36 Pa. St.

397; Greene v. Mumford, 4 R. I. 313; Smith v. Byers, 43 Ga. 191; Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277; Miner v. Pingree, 110 Mass. 47; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 533; Baltimore v. Stirling, 29 Md. 48; Latrobe v. Baltimore, 19 Md. 13; People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390; Townbridge v. Horan, 78 N. Y. 439; People v. Board of Assessors, 40 N. Y. 154; Duval v. English Evangelical, etc., Church, 53 N. Y. 500; State v. Matthews, 10 Ohio St. 437.

Notes, mortgages, etc., though outside of the taxing district, are liable to taxation in the district in which the executor resides. Johnson v. Oregon City, 2 Oregon 327. See State v. Jones, 39 N. J. L. 650.

Property situated and held by trustees residing in a taxing district, may properly be assessed to the trustees, where the beneficiary is a non-resident. People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 534; Price v. Hunter, 34 Fed. Rep. 355. But where the property is not in the district, though the trustee is, he is not taxable. Lewis v. Chester County, 60 Pa. St. 325; Carlisle v. Marshall, 36 Pa. St. 397. Compare People v. Coleman, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 482.

In Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277, it was held that where the trustees resided in different towns, a tax might be apportioned.

What Taxable to Trustee.—A trustee is liable to taxation only on the trust property in the state of his residence. Lewis v. Chester County, 60 Pa. St. 325. And see People v. Tax Com'rs (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 923.

Under the Pennsylvania statute imposing a tax upon property held in trust for the benefit of any "person," it was held that "person" referred to a particular individual, and that therefore property held in trust by a religious society for charitable objects was not taxable. General Assembly v. Gratz, 139 Pa. St. 497.

been made taxable to the beneficiaries.¹ It has been held that where the trustee resides, and the trust property is in another state, neither the beneficiary nor the trustee are taxable.²

The same rules apply to devisees in trust.³ Heirs or devisees of real property are subject to taxation therefor,⁴ even though a power of sale is given the executor in the will.⁵

Personal property in the hands of an executor or administrator is usually taxable to him in his representative capacity.⁶ But taxes are sometimes imposed upon the executor personally and collected out of his individual property.⁷

Taxes upon a deceased person's property may be charged generally to his estate, until the appointment and qualification of his

1. See Hathaway v. Fish, 13 Allen (Mass.) 267; Freetown v. Fish, 123 Mass. 355; Ricker v. American Loan, etc., Co., 140 Mass. 346; Greene v. Mumford, 4 R. I. 313; Dallinger v. Rapello, 14 Fed. Rep. 32; Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277.

In Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 429, it was held that a statute providing that moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens shall be taxable, rendered taxable the beneficial owner of bonds held in trust. Com. v. Northern Pa. R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 460. And the bonds, when found in the hands of a resident trustee, will be presumed to be the property of residents. Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 429; Com. v. Northern Pa. R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 460.

2. Dorr v. Boston, 6 Gray (Mass.) 131; Anthony v. Caswell, 15 R. I. 159.

In Johnson v. Oregon City, 3 Oregon 13, it was held that where one of the executors resides in the state and transacts business pertaining to the estate, he is taxable. And see People v. Tax Com'rs, 38 Hun (N. Y.) 536; Brown v. Noble, 42 Ohio St. 405. But in Stinson v. Boston, 125 Mass. 348, it was held that they were liable only to the extent of their interests. See also State v. Matthews, 10 Ohio St. 431.

Where two of three trustees reside in the state, and the other is a non-resident, two-thirds of the trust property only can be subjected to taxation within the state. Appeal Tax Court v. Gill, 50 Md. 377; People v. Coleman (Supreme Ct.), 6 N. Y. Supp. 285; 119 N. Y. 137; People v. Coleman, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 482; Davis v. Macy, 124 Mass. 193.

3. See Duvall v. English Evangelical, etc., Church, 53 N. Y. 500; Holcombe v. Holcombe, 29 N. J. Eq. 597; McDougal v. Brazil, 83 Ind. 211; Hathaway v. Fish, 13 Allen (Mass.) 267; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508.

Annuities.—In Ex p. McComb, 4 Bradf. (N. Y.) 151, it was held that it was the duty of the executors to retain a sum sufficient to pay the annuity, and any taxes that might be assessed thereon. See Wetmore v. State, 18 Ohio 77.

The holder of an annuity cannot be assessed upon the sum from which the annuity is produced. State v. Shurts, 41 N. J. L. 279; State v. Cornell, 31 N. J. L. 374.

4. Elliott v. Spinney, 69 Me. 31; Williams v. Cox, 3 Edw. Ch. (N. Y.) 178; Swaine v. Perine, 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 482; 9 Am. Dec. 318; Gunning v. Carman, 3 Redf. (N. Y.) 71.

Where a mortgage is given specifically to the legatee, the executors are not taxable therefor. State v. Leggett, 40 N. J. L. 308.

5. Jackson v. Sassaman, 29 Pa. St. 106; Henry v. Horstick, 9 Watts (Pa.) 412. See also Barstow v. Big Rapids, 56 Mich. 35.

6. Johnson v. Oregon City, 2 Oregon 321; State v. Jones, 39 N. J. L. 650; State v. Holmdel Tp., 39 N. J. L. 79; Cornwall v. Todd, 38 Conn. 443; People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390; Williams v. Holden, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 223; McGregor v. Vampel, 24 Iowa 436; Herrick v. Big Rapids, 53 Mich. 554; Cook v. Leland, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 236; Gallatin v. Alexander, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 475. See also Avery v. De Witt, 72 Mich. 25.

A legatee is not assessable for a legacy not yet due. Herrick v. Big Rapids, 53 Mich. 554.

7. Williams v. Holden, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 223; Payson v. Tufts, 13 Mass. 493. And see Surget v. Newman, 43 La. Ann. 873.

representative.¹ A guardian who has in his possession or under his control, real and personal property of his ward, is liable to be taxed therefor,² though such taxes are usually imposed upon the ward at his place of residence.³ And so the property of a lunatic is taxed to him at his place of residence, and not to his committee.⁴

Receivers are taxable for the property in their hands, by virtue of the receivership, when title thereto is vested in them;⁵ but the liability of a corporation to taxation is not affected in insolvency proceedings by the fact that its property is in the hands of a receiver.⁶

Moneys paid into court may be taxed to the officer in whose hands it is placed,⁷ though the tax is sometimes imposed upon the beneficiary.⁸

Property or money of a principal, in the hands of an agent, is usually taxable to the principal;⁹ but if the principal is a non-resident, and the property or money is in the hands, or under the control, of a resident agent, the agent is subject to taxation there-

The Massachusetts statute regulating taxation of bank shares, does not make them taxable to stockholders who hold in a representative capacity. Revere v. Boston, 123 Mass. 375.

1. See Elliott v. Spinney, 69 Me. 31; Wood v. Torrey, 97 Mass. 321; Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277; Carter v. New Orleans, 33 La. Ann. 816; Surget v. Newman, 43 La. Ann. 873; Dallinger v. Rapello, 14 Fed. Rep. 35.

2. School Directors v. James, 2 W. & S. (Pa.) 568; 37 Am. Dec. 525; Payson v. Tufts, 13 Mass. 495; Baldwin v. Fitchburg, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 494; Smith v. Macon, 20 Ark. 17; Tousey v. Bell, 23 Ind. 423; People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390. And see Bedgood v. McLain, 89 Ga. 793.

The tax may be made a personal charge against the guardian, Payson v. Tufts, 13 Mass. 493; and is sometimes imposed upon him at his place of residence. See Carlisle v. Marshall, 36 Pa. St. 397; West Chester School Dist. v. Darlington, 38 Pa. St. 157; Tousey v. Bell, 23 Ind. 423.

3. West Chester School Dist. v. Darlington, 38 Pa. St. 157; Mason v. Thurber, 1 R. I. 481; Louisville v. Sherley, 80 Ky. 71; Kirtland v. Whately, 4 Allen (Mass.) 462; Barstow v. Big Rapids, 56 Mich. 35; School Directors v. James, 2 W. & S. (Pa.) 568; 37 Am. Dec. 525.

4. A committee of the estate of a lunatic, is not within a statute making all personal estate under control of an agent, trustee, executor or administrator, taxable therefor. People v. Tax Com'rs, 100 N. Y. 215, reversing 36 Hun (N. Y.) 359.

5. In re Mallery (Supreme Ct.), 2 N. Y. Supp. 437.

6. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 80; State v. Railroad Com'rs, 41 N. J. L. 235; Com. v. Barnstable Sav. Bank, 126 Mass. 526. See also Bartlett v. Carter, 59 N. H. 105.

7. San Luis Obispo v. Pettit, 87 Cal. 499; People v. Lardner, 30 Cal. 242.

The assessment, when levied, becomes a lien upon the money in the officer's hands. People v. Lardner, 30 Cal. 242.

8. See In re Ming, 39 N. J. Eq. 1.

Commissioners appointed by the court to divide real estate, who have sold it and invested part of the proceeds under the order of the court to secure the interest to the widow in lieu of her dower, are not taxable for the securities they hold for that purpose. State v. Staats, 39 N. J. L. 653; State v. Irons, 35 N. J. L. 464.

9. See Boardman v. Tompkins County, 85 N. Y. 359; Curtis v. Richland Tp., 56 Mich. 178.

In State v. Engle, 34 N. J. L. 425, it was held that commission agents residing in the state, whose duties are to obtain orders for purchasers in other states, and to superintend the shipment of the property, have no such property in, or possession or control of, the property purchased as to render them taxable for it.

for.¹ A statute requiring non-residents to be taxed in the same manner as residents, would require the tax to be imposed upon the principal at the place where the property is situated.²

f. NON-RESIDENT AND UNSEATED PROPERTY.—Taxes on unimproved and unseated lands of non-residents are usually imposed upon the lands as such, the tax constituting a lien upon the land, but creating no personal charge against the owner.³ It is competent, however, for the legislature to make property taxable to anyone upon whom rests the public duty to pay the taxes, or to see that they are paid.⁴ But the personal property of a non-resident is not taxable as such, unless it is employed in business in the taxing district,⁵ or has otherwise acquired a fixed situs

1. See Fowler v. Springfield, 64 N. H. 108; Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 204; Lockwood v. Johnson, 106 Ill. 334; Walton v. Westwood, 73 Ill. 125; Dubuque v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 Iowa 56; Hutchinson v. Board of Equalization, 66 Iowa 35; People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390; People v. Willis, 133 N. Y. 383; People v. Smith, 88 N. Y. 576; Redmond v. Rutherford County, 87 N. Car. 122; Merrill v. Champagne Lumber Co., 75 Wis. 142.

Money of a non-resident in the hands of a resident agent, at the time the assessment is made out, is liable to taxation, even though it is used up and disposed of before the time for the correction of the roll. People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390.

2. People v. McLean, 17 Hun (N. Y.) 204.

3. See Moulton v. Blaisdell, 24 Me. 283; Alvord v. Collin, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 418; Rising v. Granger, 1 Mass. 47; Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 339; People v. Chenango County, 11 N. Y. 563; McKibbin v. Charlton, 14 Pa. St. 128; Kennedy v. Daily, 6 Watts (Pa.) 269; Strauch v. Shoemaker, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 175; Reading v. Finney, 73 Pa. St. 467; Ellis v. Hall, 19 Pa. St. 296; Burd v. Ramsay, 9 S. & R. (Pa.) 112; Dewey v. Stratford, 42 N. H. 286; Cocheco Mfg. Co. v. Strafford, 51 N. H. 471; People v. Fredericks, 33 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 162; Allen v. Gleason, 4 Day (Conn.) 379; Herriman v. Stowers, 43 Me. 497; Lunt v. Wormell, 19 Me. 100; Dow v. Sudbury, 5 Met. (Mass.) 73; Bowles v. Clough, 55 N. H. 389; Miller v. Gorman, 38 Pa. St. 309. And see Butler v. Oswego (Supreme Ct.), 10 N. Y. Supp. 768; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 16 Barb. (N. Y.) 651; Stewart v. Chrysler, 100 N. Y. 382.

In Russel v. Wertz, 24 Pa. St. 337, it was held that unseated land assessed is the debtor for taxes, and that it is immaterial in what name it has been assessed, if there is sufficient evidence to show that the land in question was that which was taxed and sold, and that it was at the time unseated.

The tax attaches to the whole title, whether taxed to the owner by name or otherwise, or to third persons. Strauch v. Shoemaker, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 166; Fager v. Campbell, 5 Watts (Pa.) 286.

4. National Bank v. Danforth, 80 Ga. 55. And see Willard v. Blount, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 624.

A provision that a tax on the personal estate of non-residents may be collected from any property of the person to whom it belongs, does not render the tax invalid. Duer v. Small, 4 Blatchf. (U. S.) 263.

Personal property within the state belonging to a non-resident may be taxed to such owner, notwithstanding his non-residence. People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 533.

In Maine, unimproved lands may be taxed to an owner residing in another town in the state, and he is liable for the payment of the tax. Oldtown v. Blake, 74 Me. 280.

5. St. Paul v. Merritt, 7 Minn. 258; Flanders v. Cross, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 514; Huckins v. Boston, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 543; Duer v. Small, 17 How. Pr. (U. S. C. C.) 201; Corn v. Cameron, 19 Mo. App. 573. And see People v. Niles, 35 Cal. 282; Goldgart v. People, 106 Ill. 25; Boston Loan Co. v. Boston, 137 Mass. 332.

Property Employed in Business.—Stock in trade, employed in manufacturing, is taxable, although the firm has not its principal office there. Lee v. Templeton, 6 Gray (Mass.) 579.

therein.¹ The question of residence and non-residence, either upon the land or within the district or state, is the usual test as to the character of the tax.² At least one of the states, however, has placed the distinction between the two classes of taxation upon the question whether the lands are seated or unseated.³

Property employed in banking is property employed in business, and taxable, even though the business is in process of being closed up. McCutcheon v. Rice County, 7 Fed. Rep. 588.

1. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 21. And see People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 N. Y. 224; Arapahoe County v. Cutter, 3 Colo. 350; Dunleith v. Reynolds, 53 Ill. 45; Irvin v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 94 Ill. 105; St. Paul v. Merritt, 7 Minn. 258; In re Jefferson's Estate, 35 Minn. 215; Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 152; Finch v. York County, 19 Neb. 50; 56 Am. Rep. 741; Redmond v. Rutherford County, 87 N. Car. 122.

It is not necessary that the owner should reside within the state, to render the personal property situated within it liable to taxation. Hardesty v. Fleming, 57 Tex. 395.

State bonds which belong to a foreign insurance company, but are deposited in the state as required by law, may be assessed to the company or its resident agent. People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 533.

2. See Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 339; People v. Chenango County, 11 N. Y. 563; Bowles v. Clough, 55 N. H. 389; Brewster v. Hough, 10 N. H. 138.

Lands in possession of an occupant cannot be taxed as non-resident lands. Bowles v. Clough, 55 N. H. 389; Brewster v. Hough, 10 N. H. 138.

Railroad lands are to be assessed as those of inhabitants, and not as non-resident lands. People v. Cassity, 46 N. Y. 47.

Who are Residents.—Persons having a settled and fixed abode and the intention to remain permanently, at least for a time, for business or other purposes, are residents. Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 197; Stinson v. Boston, 125 Mass. 348; Bowles v. Clough, 55 N. H. 389.

All those against whom the taxing power has no jurisdiction to impose a personal charge, are deemed to be non-residents. Dow v. Sudbury, 5 Met. (Mass.) 73; St. Paul v. Merritt, 7 Minn. 258; Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 339; Butler v. Oswego, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 592.

Where it is not known to whom a piece of property belongs, it may be taxed as non-resident property. Nelson v. Pierce, 6 N. H. 196; Bowles v. Clough, 55 N. H. 389. See also RESIDENT, vol. 21, p. 122. And see infra, this title, Place of Taxation.

Resident and Inhabitant Distinguished.—The terms "resident" and "inhabitant" are not synonymous. The term "inhabitant" implies a more fixed and permanent abode than the term "resident," and frequently imports many privileges and duties which a mere resident could not claim or be subject to. A person may have a home or domicile in one state, and at the same time a residence in another state. Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 197. See also INHABITANT, vol. 10, p. 770.

3. See Hathaway v. Elsbree, 54 Pa. St. 498; Strauch v. Shoemaker, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 175; Kennedy v. Daily, 6 Watts (Pa.) 269; Ellis v. Hall, 19 Pa. St. 296; Reading v. Finney, 73 Pa. St. 467; Jackson v. Stoetzel, 87 Pa. St. 302. And see also cases hereinafter cited.

Seated Lands — Pennsylvania Statutes.—Seated lands are lands which are actually resided upon, cultivated, or occupied. Residence without cultivation or cultivation without residence, or both together, constitute seated lands. Kennedy v. Daily, 6 Watts (Pa.) 269; Wilson v. Watterson, 4 Pa. St. 214; Lackawanna Iron, etc., Co. v. Fales, 55 Pa. St. 99; George v. Messinger, 73 Pa. St. 418; Jackson v. Stoetzel, 87 Pa. St. 305; Wallace v. Scott, 7 W. & S. (Pa.) 248; Biddle v. Noble, 68 Pa. St. 279; Campbell v. Wilson, 1 Watts (Pa.) 504; Hathaway v. Elsbree, 54 Pa. St. 498.

Occupancy is sufficient to constitute the lands seated. Jackson v. Stoetzel, 87 Pa. St. 305; Lackawanna Iron, etc., Co. v. Fales, 55 Pa. St. 99; Biddle v. Noble, 68 Pa. St. 279; Jackson v. Sas-saman, 29 Pa. St. 112; Jackson v. Flesher, 1 Grant (Pa.) 459; Campbell v. Wilson, 1 Watts (Pa.) 504; Rosen-burger v. Schull, 7 Watts (Pa.) 390.

A temporary residence for cutting timber will justify the treating of lands

VIII. PLACE OF TAXATION—1. In General.—The state may tax only when the subject of the tax is within the jurisdiction, actually, or by contemplation of law;¹ and, speaking generally, but subject to exceptions hereafter noted, it may be said as seated while the possession continues. Lackawanna Iron, etc., Co. v. Fales, 55 Pa. St. 90. Compare George v. Messinger, 73 Pa. St. 418; Wilson v. Watterson, 4 Pa. St. 214. And see generally, as to a partial use, Watson v. Davidson, 87 Pa. St. 270; Kennedy v. Daily, 6 Watts (Pa.) 269; Wilson v. Watterson, 4 Pa. St. 214; George v. Messinger, 73 Pa. St. 414; Jackson v. Stoetzel, 87 Pa. St. 303; Green v. Watson, 34 Pa. St. 333.

Occupancy of a mere intruder will constitute the lands seated. Campbell v. Wilson, 1 Watts (Pa.) 504; Biddle v. Noble, 68 Pa. St. 279; Jackson v. Stoetzel, 87 Pa. St. 305; Milliken v. Benedict, 8 Pa. St. 169. But a permanent use is necessary to enable the trespasser to seat the land. Jackson v. Stoetzel, 87 Pa. St. 305; Jackson v. Flesher, 1 Grant (Pa.) 459. Occupation of the intruder gives it the character of seated lands only to the extent of the lands claimed by him. Ellis v. Hall, 19 Pa. St. 292.

The occupation will be deemed to commence at the moment of entry for the purpose of residence, cultivation, or use. Wallace v. Scott, 7 W. & S. (Pa.) 248; Campbell v. Wilson, 1 Watts (Pa.) 504; Milliken v. Benedict, 8 Pa. St. 169; George v. Messinger, 73 Pa. St. 418.

Occupation or cultivation of a part fixes the character of the whole tract, if it is sufficient to indicate the intention to seat, even though it lies in two or more political divisions. Biddle v. Noble, 68 Pa. St. 279; Ellis v. Hall, 19 Pa. St. 296; Campbell v. Wilson, 1 Watts (Pa.) 503; Wilmoth v. Canfield, 76 Pa. St. 150; Fish v. Brown, 5 Watts (Pa.) 441; Jackson v. Flesher, 1 Grant (Pa.) 459; Altomose v. Hufsmith, 45 Pa. St. 121.

Merely clearing a few feet or yards of a tract by an adjoining owner, is not sufficient to take from its character of unseated lands. Fish v. Brown, 5 Watts (Pa.) 441; Shaeffer v. McCabe, 2 Watts (Pa.) 221. See also Forster v. McDavit, 5 W. & S. (Pa.) 359; Arthurs v. King, 95 Pa. St. 167. But where the entirety of a tract is destroyed, a part may be seated and a part left unseated. Jackson v. Sassaman, 29 Pa. St. 106; Mitchell v. Bratton, 5 W. & S. (Pa.) 451; Campbell v. Wilson, 1 Watts (Pa.) 503; Altomose v. Hufsmith, 45 Pa. St. 121; Ellis v. Hall, 19 Pa. St. 292; Heft v. Gephart, 65 Pa. St. 510; Harper v. M'Keehan, 3 W. & S. (Pa.) 238.

As to what works a severance of the land, see Biddle v. Noble, 68 Pa. St. 279; Altomose v. Hufsmith, 45 Pa. St. 121; Heft v. Gephart, 65 Pa. St. 510.

Seated lands may become unseated by being allowed to fall into their natural state, but to change their character, their abandonment must have been unequivocal. Stewart v. Trevor, 56 Pa. St. 374; Larimer v. McCall, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 133; Laird v. Hiester, 24 Pa. St. 452; Owens v. Vanhook, 3 Watts (Pa.) 260; Gibson v. Robbins, 9 Watts (Pa.) 156; Hathaway v. Elsbree, 54 Pa. St. 298; Altomose v. Hufsmith, 45 Pa. St. 121; Negley v. Breeding, 32 Pa. St. 325.

A mere accidental temporary suspension does not unseat the land. Kennedy v. Daily, 6 Watts (Pa.) 269; Wilson v. Watterson, 4 Pa. St. 214; Harbeson v. Jack, 2 Watts (Pa.) 124; Arthurs v. Smathers, 38 Pa. St. 40.

Non-payment of taxes upon unseated land, by the owner, is not an abandonment of the land. Hoffman v. Beil, 61 Pa. St. 444.

An abandonment of part does not prevent the whole from remaining seated. Patterson v. Blackmore, 9 Watts (Pa.) 104. And see Altomose v. Hufsmith, 45 Pa. St. 121.

When the only evidence of abandonment consists of the old warrant line, and the acts of the assessor in returning the portion claimed to be abandoned as unseated, it is insufficient, as against the fact that it was used as a part of a larger seated tract, to require its submission to the jury. Altomose v. Hufsmith, 45 Pa. St. 121.

1. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 262; Berlin Mills Co. v. Wentworth's Location, 60 N. H. 156; Com. v. Standard Oil Co., 101 Pa. St. 147; State Treasurer v. Auditor Gen'l, 46 Mich. 224; State Tax on Foreign Held Bonds, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300.

that a district or subdivision of the state is bound by the same rule.¹

2. Taxes on Real Property—a. IN GENERAL.—The state may tax land within its limits, whether owned by a resident or non-resident,² unless such land is within the recognized exceptions, as where it belongs to an Indian tribe or to the federal government.

Land is not only to be assessed by the state in which it lies, and by it alone, but it is to be taxed, as a general rule, only in the subdivision of the state in which it is situated,³ whether the subdivision be a county,⁴ town,⁵ school district, or other public corporation.⁶ This is often expressly provided by statute. If the statute is silent, the law implies that such is the intention of the legislature.⁷ It is immaterial whether the land be that of a resident or non-resident,⁸ an individual or a corporation, foreign or domestic.⁹ In regard to the power of a state to allow real property to be taxed in a district other than that in which it lies,

1. Wells v. Wesfon, 22 Mo. 384; St. Charles v. Nolle, 51 Mo. 122; 11 Am. Rep. 440; Matter of Prospect Park, 60 N. Y. 398; People v. Townsend, 56 Cal. 633.

2. Witherspoon v. Duncan, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 210; Edwards v. Beaird, 1 Ill. 70; Newburyport Turnpike Co. v. Upton, 12 Mass. 575; Bowles v. Clough, 55 N. H. 389.

A tax against the land of a non-resident, while it may be a lien on the land, is not a personal charge against the owner, unless he becomes a party to the proceeding for collection, and thus submits to the jurisdiction. Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 339.

3. Toby v. Haggerty, 23 Ark. 370; People v. Pearis, 37 Cal. 259; Sangamon, etc., R. Co. v. Morgan County, 14 Ill. 163; 56 Am. Dec. 497; Hoffman v. Woods, 40 Kan. 382; Hartland v. Church, 47 Me. 169; Taylor v. Youngs, 48 Mich. 268; Nashua Co. Bank v. Nashua, 46 N. H. 389; Cocheco Mfg. Co. v. Strafford, 51 N. H. 455; Weeks v. Gilmanton, 60 N. H. 500; Patton v. Long, 68 Pa. St. 260; Hubbard v. Newton, 52 Vt. 346.

The right to tax lands situated outside of a taxing district cannot be acquired by prescription. Thus, where a town had exercised jurisdiction for more than twenty years over territory outside of its limits, a tax levied upon this district was held to be void. Ham v. Sawyer, 38 Me. 37. And an agreement between two towns, that one shall not tax the lands of the inhabitants of the other, is invalid. Dillingham v. Snow, 5 Mass. 547.

The attachment of a strip of land lying within the territorial limits of a county, to an adjoining county, for judicial purposes, does not render it taxable in the latter county. Yellowstone County v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 10 Mont. 414.

The real estate of a corporation may be assessed for the support of public worship in the parish where it is situated. Amesbury Nail Factory Co. v. Weed, 17 Mass. 53; Goodell Mfg. Co. v. Trask, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 514.

4. People v. Pearis, 37 Cal. 259.

5. Van Rensselaer v. Cottrell, 7 Barb. (N. Y.) 127.

6. Rowe v. Blakeslee, 11 Conn. 479.

7. See cases in preceding notes.

8. State v. Gray, 29 N. J. L. 380; Ahl v. Gleim, 52 Pa. St. 432.

The lands of non-residents are taxable in the school district in which they lie. Allen v. Gleason, 4 Day (Conn.) 376; Rowe v. Blakeslee, 11 Conn. 479.

9. The real estate of a foreign corporation is taxable in the township in which it is located. State v. Berry, 52 N. J. L. 308; 19 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 586.

New York.—Under the statutes providing for the taxation of corporations, the real property of toll-bridge companies is to be assessed in the town or ward in which it lies. The clause in New York Rev. Stat. 389, § 6, directing assessment in the town or ward where the tolls are collected, applies only to personal estate. Hudson River Bridge Co. v. Patterson, 74 N. Y. 365.

there is some conflict.¹ The general rule seems to be that, in the absence of prohibition in the state constitution, such power exists; at least, where the object to be attained would benefit the district taxed,² where there is a doubt as to the question in what district the land lies,³ or where the tract taxed is situated in more than one taxing district.⁴ An unorganized district may be annexed to another for taxing purposes.⁵ The district in which the land is located at the time of the assessment determines where the tax is to be paid. If the lines are changed subsequent to this time, but prior to the collection of the tax, it is immaterial.⁶ The question of place is one of fact. It must be decided by the taxpayer at his peril.⁷ If land is wrongfully assessed elsewhere, this

1. In Wells v. Weston, 22 Mo. 385, it was held that the legislature could not authorize a municipal corporation to tax, for its own local purposes, lands lying beyond the corporate limits. See Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), pp. 1595-163; Cooley on Const. Lim. (2d ed.), p. 500.

2. In Conwell v. Connersville, 8 Ind. 358, an act authorizing a town to tax property within 200 yards of the corporation line, was held constitutional, though not discussed by counsel, and the court simply said: "We are not advised that such act is in conflict with the constitution." And in Langhorne v. Robinson, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 661, it was held that a Virginia act, authorizing a city to tax persons and property for half a mile around and outside of the corporate limits, to pay the interest upon the guaranty by the city of certain railroad stock, was not in violation of the Virginia constitution. In regard to these two cases, Judge Cooley says: "These two, however, may well be deemed doubtful cases. It is certainly difficult to understand how the taxation of a district can be defended, whose people have no voice in voting it, in selecting the purposes, or in expending it." Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 160.

In Maryland, an act authorizing a city to levy and collect a tax upon property adjacent thereto, for the purpose of defraying the expense of laying out streets within the city, has been held to be constitutional. Brooks v. Baltimore, 48 Md. 265.

3. People v. Wilkerson, 1 Idaho N. S. 619.

4. In Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196, the court held valid a law which imposed a tax upon the gross earnings of a railroad in lieu of all other taxes, and which apportioned the tax thus levied to the different counties in proportion to the number of miles of road in each. The court, by Rothrock, J., said: "The power of the legislature to fix the situs of property for the purpose of taxation is not confined to personal property alone; it exists as to real property also." The practical effect of this decision was to give to certain localities the equivalent of a tax levied upon property outside of their jurisdiction, and to prevent them from taxing the property of the road which was within their jurisdiction. See also People v. Fredericks, 33 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 150; Taylor v. Secor, 92 U. S. 575.

5. An unorganized county may be attached to another county for revenue purposes, and taxes made payable to the treasurer of the latter county. In that case, a tax sale by the treasurer of the former county would be void. Collins v. Storm, 75 Iowa 36.

6. A road tax on unseated land assessed and payable by a county to a township, before the division of it, is still payable to the same township, though the land lies in a new township. Barnett Tp. v. Jefferson County, 9 Watts (Pa.) 166.

Where an assessment of real estate was made upon the date fixed by statute, and, before the completion of the assessment, that portion of the town in which such real estate was situated was set off to another town, the court held that the owner remained liable, nevertheless, upon the original assessment. Harman v. New Marlborough, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 525. See also Swift v. Newport, 7 Bush (Ky.) 37.

7. People v. Wilkerson, 1 Idaho N. S. 622.

Where, under such a statute, a farm lying in two adjoining towns has been fact does not affect the owner's liability on an assessment rightly made.¹

b. LAND LYING IN TWO DISTRICTS.—It is competent for the legislature to provide that a tract of land extending over two or more districts shall be taxed as a whole in one of them.² Such provision is often made by enacting that the whole shall be assessed at the residence of the owner or occupant,³ or in the district in assessed and taxed in both towns, the owner and occupant may maintain an action in the nature of a bill of interpleader against the two collectors, to determine in which town his farm is properly taxed. Dorn v. Fox, 61 N. Y. 264.

1. Welty on Assessments, §§ 34, 46.

2. Welty on Assessments, § 32; Hairston v. Stinson, 13 Ired. (N. Car.) 479. But see Weeks v. Gilmanton, 60 N. H. 500, which held that a provision that on the division of a town, each tract through which the divisional line passed and on which the owner lived, should be taxed, was not a proper act of legislation, and long acquiescence did not estop either town from questioning it.

A bridge across a navigable stream, separating two states, may be taxed in each state, one approach by the one and the other approach by the other. Keokuk Bridge Co. v. People, 145 Ill. 596; State v. Metz, 29 N. J. L. 122. And a boom consisting of a permanent line of piers extending across a river, with logs fastened thereto with iron chains, may be taxed as real estate; that part within the limits of one town, in that town; that within the limits of the other town, in such other town. Hall v. Benton, 69 Me. 346.

3. State v. Hoffman, 30 N. J. L. 346; State v. Reinhardt, 31 N. J. L. 218; State v. Hay, 31 N. J. L. 275; State v. Jewell, 34 N. J. L. 259; State v. Jones, 39 N. J. L. 246; State v. Britton, 42 N. J. L. 103; State v. Dally, 47 N. J. L. 84; State v. Washer, 51 N. J. L. 122; Stewart v. Flummerfelt, 53 N. J. L. 540; Saunders v. Springsteen, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 429; Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261, overruling 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 597; People v. Gaylord, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 335; Tebo v. Brooklyn, 134 N. Y. 341; Hughey v. Horrel, 2 Ohio 231; Barger v. Jackson, 9 Ohio 163; Bausman v. Lancaster County, 50 Pa. St. 208.

Land lying in different counties, though in separate tracts divided by a river, will be taxed in the county where the owner resides, if it was conveyed by one deed. People v. Wilson, 125 N. Y. 367.

To be an "occupant," one must have such possession as would enable him to maintain an action for trespass without the aid of a paper title. State v. Abbott, 42 N. J. L. 111.

If the town line passes through the owner's house, his residence is in that town in which the most necessary part of the house is situated. Judkins v. Reed, 48 Me. 386.

In New York, if a town line divides a farm, and the owner resides in one of the towns, but not on the farm, and works the farm, it is taxable in the town where he lives. People v. Gaylord, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 335. See also People v. Wilson, 52 Hun (N. Y.) 388.

In New Jersey, where a farm, made up of land which was formerly two separate farms, upon each of which were buildings, is divided by a township line and the owner resides on, and tills the land in, one township, and another, by agreement with him, lives on and tills that in the other on shares, the whole farm is taxable to the owner in the township of his residence. State v. Washer, 51 N. J. L. 122. But where a farm so divided, is occupied entirely by the tenant, it is taxed at his residence as a whole, even if the owner resides in the other township but not on the farm. State v. Britton, 42 N. J. L. 103.

If the farm is under the control of the owner, who does not live upon it, but is cultivated by a tenant on shares, it is held to be in the possession of the owner and taxable at his residence. State v. Hoffman, 30 N. J. L. 346; State v. Hay, 31 N. J. L. 275; State v. Jewell, 34 N. J. L. 259.

The "five county act" of 1869, requiring all lands to be taxed in the township wherein they lie, repeals by implication the requirement of New Jersey Law of 1866, that an occupied farm or lot lying partly in one township and partly in another, shall be which the greater part of the improvements are.¹ Such a provision will apply to the land of a partnership² or corporation, as well as to the land of an individual.³ The benefit of such an enactment cannot be claimed as a right by the owner; it merely grants a privilege to the public authorities, who may, if they see fit, assess each piece in the district in which it lies.⁴ They must, however, follow the law closely. If they assess the land as a whole in the wrong county, the assessment will be void.⁵

3. Taxes on Personal Property—a. GENERAL RULE.—In the taxation of personal property, two inconsistent doctrines often come into conflict; the one, mobilia sequuntur personam, demanding that the property shall be taxed at the owner's domicile, on the theory that personalty has no other situs; the other, that it shall be taxed like real property, where it is situated. Ordinarily the first rule will prevail, and, as a general rule, personal property is taxable at the domicile of its owner.⁶ This is often so provided assessed in the township where the occupant resides. State v. Jones, 39 N. J. L. 246.

1. The Georgia Code, § 829, provides that a plantation lying on the line between two counties shall be taxed in the one where the most improvements are. But where land belonging to the estate of a decedent and lying across the line had been divided into parcels by the executors, the court held that the land was not cultivated and carried on as one plantation, so as to come within this section of the act. Robson v. Du Bose, 79 Ga. 721.

2. In case of a partnership association formed under New Jersey Act of 1880, the residence in question is that of its principal office. If that is in neither county in which the land lies, the provision does not apply and the land cannot be taxed as a whole under New Jersey Revision, p. 1152, pl. 65, even though two of the members of the partnership association reside on the land. Stewart v. Flummerfelt, 53 N. J. L. 540.

3. State v. Warford, 37 N. J. L. 397.

4. Patton v. Long, 68 Pa. St. 260.

5. Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261, reversing 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 597.

6. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), pp. 56, 372; Burroughs on Taxation, § 40; Sangamon, etc., R. Co. v. Morgan County, 14 Ill. 163; 56 Am. Dec. 493; Hooper v. Baltimore, 12 Md. 464; Phelps v. Thurston, 47 Conn. 477; People v. Campbell, 138 N. Y. 543; Salem Iron Factory Co. v. Danvers, 10 Mass. 514; Amesbury Woolen, etc.,

Mfg. Co. v. Amesbury, 17 Mass. 461; Wilson v. New York, 4 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 675; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45; People v. Chenango County, 11 N. Y. 563; State v. Bentley, 23 N. J. L. 532; State v. Rahway, 24 N. J. L. 56; Newark City Bank v. Assessor, 30 N. J. L. 13; Mygatt v. Washburn, 15 N. Y. 316; Com. v. American Dredging Co., 122 Pa. St. 386; Bemis v. Boston, 14 Allen (Mass.) 366.

In Flanders v. Cross, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 514, the court held that a building, owned by a non-resident but standing by license upon land in the state, could not be assessed and sold as personal property by the county in which it was situated, and that a purchaser entering under such sale would be a mere trespasser. Compare Os-kaloosa Water Co. v. Board of Equalization, 84 Iowa 407.

Personal property not in the possession of a tenant, is to be taxed in the town in which the owner resides. And it makes no difference that the person assessed consented that the property should be set to him in the list of a town in which he does not reside, and that he gave to the listers, in such town, a list specifying the particular property therein. Blood v. Sayre, 17 Vt. 609.

A statute, requiring the owner of personal property moving into a state, to list his property in the town in which he resides, refers to the moving of the owner, and not of the property, into the state. Johnson v. Lyon, 106 Ill. 64. But see, as holding the view that the personal property of residents situated without the state cannot be by statute.¹ The state, may, however, and often does, make it taxable at its actual situs.² The fact that double taxation may result from assessment in two states does not affect the validity of the assessment.³ If the property has no situs—either actual or constructive—within the state, it cannot be taxed.⁴ If it has a double situs, the legislature may choose between them.⁵ The domicile at the time of the completion of the assessment rolls determines the place of taxation of property taxable at the place of the domicile;⁶ similarly, the location of the property on that day, if the property is taxed at its situs.⁷ Neither removal from taxed at domicile, Matter of Swift's Estate, 137 N. Y. 77.

Under the Illinois revenue law of 1853, farming implements, stock, etc., upon a farm, must be listed in the town, county, or district where the owner resides, wherever the property be in fact. King v. McDrew, 31 Ill. 418.

Under 1 New York Rev. Stat. 908, § 5, chattels and capital owned and employed out of the state, by a resident, are liable to taxation as much as if situated or employed within the state. People v. Tax Com'rs, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 116.

Under section 563 of the Tennessee code, relating to the taxation of slaves, slaves had to be assessed to the owner in the county where he resided, whether in his possession or not, and whether in the same county or not. Brown v. Greer, 3 Head (Tenn.) 695.

1. Thus, the Massachusetts statute defines personal estate for the purpose of taxation to include "goods, chattels, money and effects, wherever they are," etc. Supplement to Public Statutes (1890), p. 744.

2. Dillon on Municipal Corporations (4th ed.), § 786; Welty on Assessments, § 34; Mills v. Thornton, 26 Ill. 300; 79 Am. Dec. 377; State v. Ross, 23 N. J. L. 517; People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 N. Y. 224; People v. Gardner, 51 Barb. (N. Y.) 352.

A portable sawmill and a yoke of oxen kept in a county for three years by a resident of another county, are taxable in the former county. Trammell v. Conner, 91 Ala. 398.

An owner of personal property who, to escape taxation in one state, asserts that the situs of his property is in another state, cannot avoid taxation thereon in the latter state on the ground that he is a resident of the former. Bowman v. Boyd, 21 Nev. 281.

3. Leonard v. New Bedford, 16 Gray (Mass.) 292.

Where a steamboat owned by residents of New York was employed as a passenger and freight boat between San Francisco and Sacramento, the court held that the steamer was taxable as property in California, although the owner had been already taxed therefor in New York. Minturn v. Hays, 2 Cal. 590.

4. Cooley, Const. Lim. (6th ed.) 615; Corn v. Cameron, 19 Mo. App. 573.

5. Vail v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98. An assessment of personal property to its owner at his residence, is not void for want of jurisdiction, although it is by law properly assessable in another county because of its relation to a business carried on by the owner in such county. Clarke v. Stearns County, 47 Minn. 552.

6. Welty on Assessments, § 35; Lyman v. Fiske, 17 Pick. (Mass.) 231; 28 Am. Dec. 293; Mygatt v. Washburn, 15 N. Y. 320.

In Hilgenberg v. Wilson, 55 Ind. 210, it was held that the fact that a person owning personal property had been assessed thereon for taxation for state and county purposes, would not prevent his being assessed upon the same property for city purposes, upon his removing with such property into a city of the county where he had been so assessed prior to the time of the completion of the assessment of a city tax.

One who comes into the State of Georgia after the first day of April of any year, and who has no property therein before or at that time, is not liable to either state or county taxes for that year. White v. State, 51 Ga. 252. But in New Jersey, the day of commencing the assessment determines the place. State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45.

7. Wangler v. Black Hawk County, 56 Iowa 384; Oregon Steam Nav. Co.

the district, taking the property out of the district, nor changes in the lines of the district after that time, will divest the liability for the tax.¹

(1) Domicile—(See also DOMICILE, vol. 5, p. 857).—The question of domicile in matters of taxation, as in other connections, is one of fact,² the burden of proving which rests on the public body seeking to collect the tax.³ If the facts show that the domicile is in a given place, it is there presumed to remain, although the taxpayer has formed an intention to remove, an actual removal being necessary to a change of domicile.⁴ If a removal

v. Portland, 2 Oregon 81; Pueblo County v. Wilson, 15 Colo. 90.

Cotton shipped out of the state prior to the date of the assessment is not taxable. Colbert v. Leake County, 60 Miss. 142. See also Templeton v. Levee Com'rs, 16 La. Ann. 117. And where the owner removed all his stock of goods and closed up his store prior to the date of the assessment, he was held not taxable. Field v. Boston, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 65.

In Pueblo County v. Wilson, 15 Colo. 90, the court construed the Colorado statute which provided for the assessment of horses and cattle running at large in the county in which they are being herded or kept upon a certain day.

1. If, after a tax has been raised and assessed on the inhabitants of a district, part of the district is set off into another district, the inhabitants of such remain liable to pay the tax, the liability being fixed by the assessment. Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323. But a removal of the property from the taxing district after the assessment has been made, will not relieve the owner from liability to pay the tax already imposed, even though the owner subsequently pays a tax elsewhere. People v. Holladay, 25 Cal. 300; DeArman v. Williams, 93 Mo. 158. Nor after a levy thereon under the provisions of a statute. State v. Easterbrook, 3 Nev. 173. And in Warren v. Werner, 14 Wis. 366, where, after due service of the notice required by law to be given by the assessor, the owner of personal property, within the ten days thereafter allowed for listing his property, removed to another town, he was not thereby relieved from his liability to pay the tax imposed in the former town. See also Barber v. Potter, 8 R. I. 15.

2. Lyman v. Fiske, 17 Pick. (Mass.) 234; 28 Am. Dec. 293. Hence, for the jury, Bailey v. Buell, 59 Barb. (N. Y.) 158. The facts sufficient to constitute domicile have been stated under the head of DOMICILE, vol. 5, p. 857. Some additional cases are here noted. One residing in Rhode Island from April to December and there voting and taxed, cannot be taxed on personal property in New York, although he lives there in a hired house from December to April. People v. Barker, 70 Hun (N. Y.) 397. See also Kellogg v. Oshkosh, 14 Wis. 623; Carnoe v. Freetown, 9 Gray (Mass.) 357.

An unmarried man is properly taxed in the county where he spends most of his time, and where his interests are, notwithstanding the fact that he keeps trunks and clothing in another county. King v. Parker, 73 Iowa 757. See also Cabot v. Boston, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 52; Lee v. Boston, 2 Gray (Mass.) 484; Cochrane v. Boston, 4 Allen (Mass.) 177. 3. A town which taxes a man as a resident, takes upon itself the burden of showing that he is such, if the right is questioned. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 372; Hurlburt v. Green, 41 Vt. 490.

Consent to be taxed has been held not to affect the matter, if he is not in fact a resident. Blood v. Sayre, 17 Vt. 609.

4. Stoddert v. Ward, 31 Md. 562; 100 Am. Dec. 83; Pickering v. Cambridge, 144 Mass. 244.

In Finley v. Philadelphia, 32 Pa. St. 381, Lowrie, C. J., said: "Clearly the liability to taxation does not depend upon the intention of any one relative to his domiciliation, for this would make the state's power of taxation dependent, in numberless cases, on the pleasure of the persons proposed to be taxed. Residence is a definite and obvious fact, and is of itself a sufficient ground of liability." Otis v. Boston, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 44.

The fact that a person was taxed in with intention to remain is shown, it is immaterial what the purpose of the person removing was, even though his only object was to secure a lower rate of taxation.¹ One who has thus removed cannot, by still considering himself a resident at his old home and putting in a list there, avoid acquiring the new domicile.² A mere transient cannot be taxed.³ A man's home, not his place of business, determines his domicile.⁴ It is undoubtedly true, as a general principle, that a person must have some domicile,⁵ and that a domicile once acquired remains until a new one is secured.⁶ As far as taxation purposes are concerned, however, some courts have made an exception and held that one, by removing with intention to acquire a new domicile in another state, and having actually left the former state, loses his domicile, although he has in fact not acquired another. This doctrine doubtless rests upon the ground that the state has lost jurisdiction by the removal.⁷ But the town to which he has removed, is not competent evidence to show that he did not continue to be taxable in the town of his former residence. Mead v. Boxborough, 11 Cush. (Mass.) 362.

1. People v. Caldwell, 142 Ill. 434.

2. One who has removed from one township to another, and for the purpose of evading the payment of taxes in the latter, mails a schedule of his personal property to the assessors of the former township and pays taxes thereon in such township, is not relieved thereby from liability to taxation on such property in the township to which he has removed. Mahany v. People, 138 Ill. 311.

3. An individual is to be taxed in the place of his domicile or home, and not where he is personally residing for a mere temporary purpose, having a home in some other place. Moore v. Wilkins, 10 N. H. 452.

A person having a permanent residence, where he votes and pays taxes, is not subject to taxation in another place merely because he spends a few months there during the year visiting relatives. People v. Barker, 63 Hun (N. Y.) 630.

One coming to a state with his family and servants for a part of the year to reside in a house owned by him, does not thereby become a resident. State v. Ross, 23 N. J. L. 517.

A, who had emigrated to Canada many years before, after living there five years became a peddler, and as such traveled through Ohio, where he loaned money. To look after his interests, and as peddler, he visited the state as often as once a year, but carried his securities with him wherever he went. It was held that he was not a resident of Ohio. Grant v. Jones, 39 Ohio St. 506.

The hiring of a yard, storage and sale of lumber therein, and erection of a small building thereon, for use of employes, does not subject a tenant to taxation there. Loud v. Charlestown, 103 Mass. 278.

4. Welty on Assessments, § 37.

5. See DOMICILE, vol. 5, p. 859.

6. Matter of Nichols, 54 N. Y. 66.

Where a taxpayer removes from one taxing district to another, and claims to have acquired a domicile in the latter district, the burden rests upon him to establish a residence therein so permanent as to exclude the existence of an intention to make a domicile elsewhere. Hartford v. Champion, 58 Conn. 268.

7. One who abandons his residence in the commonwealth before the first of May, with the fixed intention not to return, and has actually left the commonwealth, is not taxable on his poll and personal property there, although he may be still on the way to his new domicile. Colton v. Longmeadow, 12 Allen (Mass.) 598. To the same effect is Briggs v. Rochester, 16 Gray (Mass.) 337. The above cases are criticised in Borland v. Boston, 132 Mass. 89; 42 Am. Rep. 427.

The case of Mead v. Boxborough, 11 Cush. (Mass.) 362, held that if an inhabitant of a town removes to another town in the state, not intending to remain there permanently nor to return to his former home, he loses his domicile in such former home.

it must be said, in this connection, that the weight of authority is, however, the other way.¹

(2) Residence, Inhabitancy, etc.—(See also INHABITANT, vol. 10, p. 770; RESIDENCE, vol. 21, p. 122).—The statutes often provide that taxation of personalty shall be at the residence of the owner. The definition of the term "residence," is elsewhere given.² It must be a fixed and permanent home, as distinguished from a temporary abiding place.³ One may have two places of residence,⁴ in which case the assessors, unless restrained by the terms of the statute, may choose between them.⁵ If the owner lives on a farm lying in two counties, his only residence is in the county where his house is situated.⁶ The question of residence, like that

1. Borland v. Boston, 132 Mass. 89; 42 Am. Rep. 427; Matter of Nichols, 54 N. Y. 62.

An inhabitant of the commonwealth who removes from the town of his residence, with the intention of never residing there again, and of removing to another state, is still, so long as he remains in the commonwealth, liable to taxation in that town, until he acquires another domicile. Bulkley v. Williamstown, 3 Gray (Mass.) 493.

An inhabitant of A left that place on March 30, with the intention of residing in C. On April 1, he arrived at B and the next day reached C, where he established his residence. It was held that, for the purpose of taxation, he was to be deemed an inhabitant of A on April 1, and was liable to taxation there. Littlefield v. Brooks, 50 Me. 475.

Under a Minnesota statute in force in 1876, imposing a tax upon "all personal property of persons residing" within the state, in reference to the quantity of property held or owned by such residents on May 1st, 1876, it was held that the personal property of one who had been a resident of the state, but who was in itinere on May 1st, for the purpose of making New York City the place of future residence, was subject to taxation under the statute. McCutchen v. Rice County, 2 McCrary (U. S.) 337.

2. See RESIDENCE, vol. 21, p. 122.

In New Jersey, the residence required to make one liable to a personal tax in a particular township or ward, is precisely the same in kind as that which will entitle him to vote there. State v. Casper, 36 N. J. L. 367.

In Douglass v. New York, 2 Duer (N. Y.) 110, the plaintiff resided during a part of the year in New York, and was there taxed upon his personal property. The statute provided that every person should be taxed in the town or ward where he resided, for all his personal property. The court held that the plaintiff had a residence in New York for the purpose of taxation, although his domicile was elsewhere. This case is almost identical with Bartlett v. New York, 5 Sandf. (N. Y.) 44.

3. Culbertson v. Floyd County, 52 Ind. 361.

4. See RESIDENCE, vol. 21, p. 124.

5. Bell v. Pierce, 51 N. Y. 16, affirming 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 51.

A person taxable in a city under the New York statute declaring a person's residence, if he resides in two or more places during any one year, to be where his principal business is transacted, is taxable in the ward in the city where he resides. Bowe v. Jenkins, 69 Hun (N. Y.) 458. See also Thayer v. Boston, 124 Mass. 132; 26 Am. Rep. 650; Wade v. Matheson, 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 158; Mann v. Clark, 33 Vt. 55; Church v. Rowell, 49 Me. 367.

6. Personal property of one owning a farm lying partly in two counties, is taxable only in the county where the house in which he lives is located, under Illinois Revenue Act, ch. 120, § 7, making such property taxable in the county, town or district where the owner resides. People v. Caldwell, 142 Ill. 434.

In Judkins v. Reed, 48 Me. 386, the town line passed through the house of the plaintiff, and the court held that he was a resident of, and taxable in, that town in which the larger, as well as the most indispensable part of his house was situated.

In Cheney v. Waltham, 8 Cush.

of domicile, is one of fact to be proved by competent evidence. The assessor's list is not admissible against the party taxed.¹ The home of the taxpayer is his residence—not his place of business.² If one's residence is in a certain place for all other purposes, it is his residence for taxation purposes also.³

Taxes are often imposed on "inhabitants." The term "inhabitaney" is broader than domicile.⁴ This question, like that of domicile, is one of fact, the burden of proving which is on the corporation taxing.⁵

"Actual place of abode," is another phrase often used in the tax laws.⁶

b. TANGIBLE PERSONAL PROPERTY—(1) In General.—Tangible personal property is assessed sometimes at the domicile of the owner; ⁷ sometimes at the place where it is situated.⁸

Money, while a mere medium of exchange, is, so far as taxation

(Mass.) 327, where a dwelling house was divided by a boundary line, the court held that the owner would be considered a resident of that town in which he performed those offices which mainly characterized his home (such as sleeping, eating, sitting, and receiving visitors), and that he had no right to elect to reside and to be taxed for his personal property in the other town.

1. Gregory v. Bugbee, 42 Vt. 480.

2. Nugent v. Bates, 51 Iowa 77; 32 Am. Rep. 117.

3. Meserve v. Folsom, 62 Vt. 504.

4. Welty on Assessments, § 36; Burroughs on Taxation, p. 44. A stranger coming into a town, becomes liable to a license tax as an "inhabitant and member of the corporation." Wilmington v. Roby, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 254.

5. Lyman v. Fiske, 17 Pick. (Mass.) 231; 28 Am. Dec. 293.

To recover in an action of debt for taxes assessed upon personal property under Maine Rev. Stat., ch. 6, § 12, it must be established that the defendant was an inhabitant of the plaintiff town at the time of the assessment. Rockland v. Farnsworth, 83 Me. 228.

6. "Actual place of abode" is where one has his home and family irrespective of business absences. Arnold v. Davis, 8 R. I. 341. Under the Rhode Island statute, providing that "all ratable personal property shall be taxed in the town in which the owner shall have had his actual place of abode for the larger portion of the twelve months next preceding the first day of April in each year,"—the "larger portion of the twelve months," means more than half of them in duration of time. Allman v. Griswold, 12 R. I. 339. See also Green v. Gardiner, 6 R. I. 242.

Where one moves from his own farm to the town farm in an adjoining district, under contract to carry it on for a year, intending to make it his home for the year and so continue two years thereafter, he is a resident of the latter district, even though he carries on his own farm and expects to return. Woodward v. Isham, 43 Vt. 123.

7. See cases in preceding notes.

8. People v. Holladay, 25 Cal. 30; Oakland v. Whipple, 39 Cal. 112; Powell v. Madison, 21 Ind. 335; Rieman v. Shepard, 27 Ind. 288; Eversole v. Cook, 92 Ind. 222; Mills v. Thornton, 26 Ill. 300; 79 Am. Dec. 377; Dunleith v. Reynolds, 53 Ill. 45; Com. v. Gaines, 80 Ky. 489; Chauvenet v. Anne Arundel County, 3 Md. 259; Leonard v. New Bedford, 16 Gray (Mass.) 292; Colbert v. Leake County, 60 Miss. 142; State v. Falkinburge, 15 N. J. L. 320; State v. Ross, 23 N. J. L. 517; Barnes v. Woodbury, 17 Nev. 383; Steere v. Walling, 7 R. I. 317; State v. Charleston, 2 Spears (S. Car.) 719. See also Johnson v. Lexington, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 521. Thus, property consisting of oxen and a portable sawmill, which has been located and used in a certain county for nearly three years, has acquired a situs and will be taxed in that county. Trammell v. Connor, 91 Ala. 398. Coal sent by the owners to their agents in another state, to be there sold upon its arrival, becomes a part of the general mass of property in that state, and will be taxable. Brown v. Houston, 114 U. S. 622.

questions are concerned, a form of tangible personal property.¹ It may be taxed at the owner's domicile, but is generally taxed where it is actually situated.²

(2) Animals.—The statutes often provide for the taxation of cattle and other animals where they are herded or usually kept.³

1. State v. Earl, 1 Nev. 397.

2. People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390; McCutchen v. Rice County, 2 McCrary (U. S.) 337. "It is property within the state and subject to taxation, it is visible and tangible, and expressly made taxable by statute, and is taxable where situated." Liverpool Ins. Co. v. Board, 44 La. Ann. 91. But see Culbertson v. Floyd County, 52 Ind. 361.

Money invested in business will be taxed, although the owner is a non-resident. Matter of McMahon, 66 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 190. And a law providing for the taxation of the capital of a non-resident is constitutional. Duer v. Small, 4 Blatchf. (U. S.) 263. In Miner v. Fredonia, 27 N. Y. 155, the court held that banking capital will be subject to taxation in the place where the business of such bank is located, treating this as an exception to the general rule mobilia sequuntur personam.

Where a resident of one state has exclusive control and management of money for investment of foreign capitalists, some of which is invested in his state, and the securities are made and held by him in his own name in such state, they are taxable in that state. Hutchinson v. Board of Equalization, 66 Iowa 35.

Where a foreign insurance company deposits, with the comptroller of the state, the funds required by statute to enable it to do business, it is liable for taxes upon them. International L. Assurance Soc. v. Com'rs of Taxes, 28 Barb. (N. Y.) 318.

3. Smith v. Mason, 48 Kan. 586; Ford v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 446; Whitmore v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 451. Where cattle were owned, herded and managed at the owner's "home ranch" in one county, but were turned out to graze in another county during a part of the year, it was held that they properly belonged in the county where the owner's ranch was for the purpose of taxation. The court in this case said: "But, by assigning to this class of personal property a situs for the purpose of taxation, independent of the mere residence of the owner, it does not necessarily follow that the property can be legally assessed in whatever county it may first be found during the period of assessment." Barnes v. Woodbury, 17 Nev. 383. To the same effect is Ford v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 446.

The case of Graham v. Chautauqua County, 31 Kan. 473, presents a different state of facts. In this case the Kansas statute provided for the listing and taxing of cattle where they were usually kept. The cattle taxed were kept about an equal time in each township. There was nothing in the case showing that the owner had a "home ranch" in either township, and nothing to indicate that the cattle were to be taken from the township in which they were assessed, back to the township where the owner claimed they should have been assessed. The court held that the assessment was properly made in the township in which the cattle were found.

In People v. Townsend, 56 Cal. 633, the court declared void an act taxing migratory cattle, basing its decision upon the principle that one local community cannot be taxed for the benefit of another, even though all personal property is required to be listed and assessed in the county where it is situated. Nevertheless cattle ranging across the line will be taxed in the county where the owner resides. Court v. O'Connor, 65 Tex. 334. But under subsequent legislation, where pastures lie upon county boundaries, cattle are to be taxed in proportion to the pasture land situated in each county. Nolan v. San Antonio Ranch Co., 81 Tex. 315.

In Hardesty v. Fleming, 57 Tex. 395, under a statute which provides that all property, real and personal, except such as is required to be listed and assessed elsewhere, shall be listed and assessed in the county where it is situated, it was held that where cattle ranged across the line and were within the state for five months, they were taxable there.

In Colorado, cattle and horses purchased outside of the state by residents, and driven into the state for the purpose of pasturage in the month of

(3) Water Craft.—The principles governing the taxation of vessels are not essentially different from those controlling the taxation of other personal property.¹ A vessel may be taxed at the domicile of the owner,² or at the place where it has its situs. This situs is at its home port.³ This will generally be, as well, the place where it is registered or enrolled,⁴ but not necessarily so, the location of the home port being a question of fact.⁵

October of a certain year, are not liable for the taxes of such year under Colorado Gen. Stat., ch. 94. Pueblo County v. Wilson, 15 Colo. 90.

In Illinois, live stock belonging to the owner of a farm which lies in two counties, in one of which he lives, and between the portions of which in each county there is no fence, so that the stock may be pastured in either county, is taxable only in the county of his residence under Illinois Revenue Act, ch. 120, § 7, making personal property taxable in the county of residence. Section 8, which makes such stock taxable where the farm with which they are connected is situated, when the owner does not reside thereon, does not affect the case. People v. Caldwell, 142 Ill. 434.

In Massachusetts, horses kept in the only barn upon a farm which lies in two towns, are taxable in the town where the barn is situated, under Massachusetts Pub. Stat., ch. 11, § 20, cl. 3, providing that "horses kept throughout the year in places other than those where the owners reside . . . shall be assessed to the owners in the places where they are kept," although the residence of the owner is on the same farm, in the other town, and the horses are used for work upon all parts of the farm. Pierce v. Eddy, 152 Mass. 594.

In Nevada, cattle are to be taxed in the county where they remain permanently and have their home. State v. Shaw, 21 Nev. 222.

In Wyoming, horses owned within the territory of the Shoshone Indian Reservation by a white person holding no official position, are taxable by the authorities of Wyoming in the county within which they are kept, under U. S. Rev. Stats., § 839, and the treaty of July 3d, 1868. Torrey v. Baldwin, 3 Wyoming 430.

1. St. Louis v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 423.

2. In Hooper v. Baltimore, 12 Md. 464, the owner of a vessel resided in Baltimore County and the vessel was registered at the port of Baltimore, from whence she sailed. This was the nearest port of registration and the only one at which she could have been registered. The court held that the ship could not be taxed by the city for municipal purposes. See also Pelton v. Northern Transp. Co., 37 Ohio St. 450.

3. Dillon on Municipal Corporations (4th ed.), § 787; Irvin v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 94 Ill. 105; Mobile v. Baldwin, 57 Ala. 62; 29 Am. Rep. 712; The Blanchard v. Martha Washington, 1 Cliff. (U. S.) 466; Morgan v. Parham, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 471; Hill v. The Golden Gate, Newb. (U. S.) 308; St. Louis v. Consolidated Coal Co., 113 Mo. 83; Wilkey v. Pekin, 19 Ill. 160; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273; People v. Niles, 35 Cal. 282; Irvin v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 94 Ill. 105; St. Joseph v. Saville, 39 Mo. 461; Gunther v. Baltimore, 55 Md. 457; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 9 W. Va. 170; 27 Am. Rep. 552.

Boats owned by an unincorporated company in Ohio, and used in that state, are taxable in the district in which the company's principal office is located, and in which the managing agent resides. Pomeroy Salt Co. v. Davis, 21 Ohio St. 555.

4. Hays v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596.

5. The question of the location of the home port is one of fact. It depends wholly upon the locality of her owner's residence and not upon the place of her enrollment. St. Louis v. Wiggins Ferry Boat Co., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 423.

But see Roberts v. Charlevoix Tp., 60 Mich. 197, where the court held that a vessel enrolled and licensed or registered under the United States navigation laws, and owned by a non-resident of the state, does not become subject to the taxing power of the state by engaging in business therein.

The statute may provide, however, that the vessel shall be assessed where it is permanently employed,¹ or where it is registered or enrolled.² If the vessel, under the law, is taxable in any one of several places in the same jurisdiction, it can be taxed in one of them only, and any subsequent assessment will be void.³ It cannot in any event be taxed at a point at which it merely touches or where it remains temporarily only.⁴

(4) Logs and Lumber—(See also LOGS AND LUMBER, vol. 13, p. 1018).—Logs and lumber are liable to taxation like other personal property.⁵ If in transitu, however, they are not taxable

1. A dredge boat, a tug boat, and mud scows owned by a foreign corporation and brought into Alabama for use in fulfilling a dredging contract with the national government, of indefinite duration, with a probability of other contracts to complete the improvement, are taxable within the state, although they are floating property, and although the tug is registered at the port of the owner's domicile. National Dredging Co. v. State (Ala. 1893), 12 So. Rep. 720.

2. Boats.—Under a statute providing that "all persons . . . in the state owning . . . water-craft, shall be required to list the same for assessment and taxation in the county, township, city, or town in which the same may be enrolled, registered or licensed, or kept when not enrolled, registered or licensed," it was held that an assessment at the domicile of the owner was illegal where the boat was kept and used elsewhere. Eversole v. Cook, 92 Ind. 222.

3. The Illinois statute provided for the taxation of sailing vessels, steamboats, etc., in the county, town, village or district in which the same may belong or be enrolled, registered or licensed, or kept when not enrolled, registered or licensed. It was held that after a vessel has been rightfully listed in one place, it is not subject to taxation elsewhere. Halstead v. Adams, 108 Ill. 609; Vogt v. Ayer, 104 Ill. 583.

4. State v. Haight, 30 N. J. L. 428; Morgan v. Parham, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 471; Hays v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596; New Albany v. Meekin, 3 Ind. 480; 56 Am. Dec. 522; Mobile v. Baldwin, 57 Ala. 61; 29 Am. Rep. 712; St. Louis v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 431, reversing 40 Mo. 580; People v. Niles, 35 Cal. 282; Wilkey v. Pekin, 19 Ill. 160. But see Oakland v. Whipple, 39 Cal. 112.

In Hays v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 17 How. (U. S.) 596, Nelson, J., said: "We are satisfied that the State of California had no jurisdiction over these vessels for the purpose of taxation; they were not, properly, abiding within its limits, so as to become incorporated with the personal property of the state; they were there but temporarily, engaged in lawful trade and commerce, with their situs at the home port where the vessels belonged, and where the owners were liable to be taxed for the capital invested, and where the taxes had been paid."

5. Logs and Lumber.—Posts, ties, and poles, kept for sale, are taxable as "merchant's goods, wares and commodities" under the Wisconsin statute, in the county where kept for sale, irrespective of the residence of the owner, although sales thereof are actually made in another county where the owners reside and do business as merchants. Torrey v. Shawano County, 79 Wis. 152; Mitchell v. Plover Tp., 53 Wis. 548; Sanford v. Spencer, 62 Wis. 230; Washburn v. Oshkosh, 60 Wis. 453.

In Michigan, logs in camp are taxable at the place where the camp is located, if there is an office there receiving funds and making returns to headquarters. Ryerson v. Muskegon, 57 Mich. 383.

Logs left by an Iowa company in a bayou on the Illinois side of the Mississippi river for safe-keeping are taxable in Illinois. Burlington Lumber Co. v. Willetts, 118 Ill. 559.

Fire wood, pulp wood and kiln wood cut from wild land in a town, by a resident thereof, and carried prior to April 1st to a landing situated on the track, to stay there till sold, and which is in part shipped to other parts and in part sold to local parties in the course of the year, is "personal property employed in trade," and taxable in such

at the place where they are situated.¹ In order to be in transitu, they must have actually started on their journey.² The mere fact that they are intended for shipment is not enough.³ If delivered to the common carrier, or at the starting point on the ice or in the water, ready for immediate moving, their journey has begun.⁴

Standing, growing trees are a part of the realty and can be taxed only where it lies.⁵

(5) Property in Transitu or Temporarily Present.—In order to be taxed at a place other than the owner's domicile, an article of personalty must be a part of the property of the place. It must be towns under Maine Rev. Stats., ch. 6, § 14, providing that such property shall be taxed in the town where so employed on April 1st. Gower v. Jonesboro, 83 Me. 142.

In Standard Oil Co. v. Combs, 96 Ind. 179; 49 Am. Rep. 156, the court held that staves, purchased by a non-resident, and remaining in the state to receive a finishing process before shipment to another state, were taxable within the state.

Lumber on the premises of the manufacturer, awaiting transportation to the vendee, is not taxable where it is, as in a place of "storage," although the title is passed, especially if anything remains to be done to complete the transfer. Osterhout v. Jones, 54 Mich. 228.

1. LOGS AND LUMBER, vol. 13, p. 1049.

2. Logs, cut, hauled, and piled on the ice, to await the opening of a river, and to be floated then to another state, are not in transit, and so exempt in the state where cut and piled. C. N. Nelson Lumber Co. v. Loraine, 22 Fed. Rep. 54.

3. In Coe v. Errol, 116 U. S. 517, certain logs were cut in New Hampshire, and hauled down and deposited in and on the banks of a stream, for the purpose of being floated down the river into another state, but, by reason of low water, were delayed there nearly a year and taxed by the township in which they lay. The court held that, aside from the owner's intent to export them, the logs were not in course of commercial transportation.

4. Logs cut by contractors and delivered in a lake for convenience in storage, but for no definite time, whence the owners had contracts to transport them to another place, are in transit to the latter place, and not taxable at the lake. Pardee v. Free-soil Tp., 74 Mich. 81. See also Corning v. Masonville Tp., 74 Mich. 177.

In Connecticut River Lumber Co. v. Columbia, 62 N. H. 286, the court held that logs cut and delivered on the ice on a river, where they lie temporarily waiting transportation down the river, as soon as the ice shall break up, are in transitu and cannot be taxed. And in Blount v. Munroe, 60 Ga. 61, it was held that a tax could not be imposed upon lumber awaiting shipment in the hands of an exporter, which was actually shipped immediately afterwards, as such a tax would be in violation of the constitutional prohibition against a tax upon imports or exports. See also Clarke v. Clarke, 3 Woods (U. S.) 408.

Michigan.—Lumber piled at a railway station simply for shipment is not taxable as property in storage. Monroe v. Greenhoe, 54 Mich. 9.

Logs piled by the side of a railway track for shipment, but not actually in transit, are within the Michigan statute providing that property so piled shall not be deemed in transitu, but shall be assessed to the owner in the township where it is situated; and the fact that the contracts have been made with parties to load the logs, or that some event has occurred to prevent shipment, or that it is the owner's intention to ship in the near future, is immaterial. Maurer v. Cliff, 94 Mich. 194.

Under the Michigan statute, property in transit is taxed at the place of destination, provided that forest products in transit are to be held destined to the sorting grounds of the booming company nearest the mouth of the stream, unless the contrary is made to appear. Brooks v. Arenac Tp., 71 Mich. 231; Fletcher v. Alcona Tp., 72 Mich. 18.

5. Fletcher v. Alcona Tp., 72 Mich. 18.

located there.¹ If it is merely in transit through the place, it cannot be taxed there.² This subject, so far as it concerns logs and lumber, has just been considered. The same general principles apply to all kinds of personal property. Here also the mere intention to ship is immaterial. In order to be in transitu, the goods must have begun their journey.³ A delivery to a common carrier is enough, even though the goods have not been physically moved. Unless such delivery can be shown, however, they will not be considered as in transitu unless they have been actually launched on their way to their destination. The carrying of the goods to the depot and the leaving them there until a convenient time to move them, do not constitute a part of their transportation.⁴ If actually on their journey, mere delay at a point

1. Property which happens to be temporarily within the jurisdiction cannot be taxed there. People v. Niles, 35 Cal. 287; Herron v. Keeran, 59 Ind. 473; 26 Am. Rep. 87; Rhyno v. Madison County, 43 Iowa 632; Torrent v. Yager, 52 Mich. 306; People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 N. Y. 242; Bennett v. Birmingham, 31 Pa. St. 15; State v. Charleston, 2 Spears (S. Car.) 719. But see McCormick v. Fitch, 14 Minn. 252.

A city ordinance which attempts to impose a license tax upon wagons of outside residents engaged in hauling in and out of the city, is void. St. Charles v. Nolle, 52 Mo. 122; 11 Am. Rep. 440.

A traveling circus and menagerie owned by a non-resident and brought into the state to be exhibited at various places, and then taken into other states for the same purpose, will not be subject to taxation within the state. Robinson v. Longley, 18 Nev. 71.

In Com. v. American Dredging Co., 122 Pa. St. 386, the court passed upon the validity of a tax imposed upon scows, tug boats, and dredges owned by a resident of the state, but which had never been within it, and which were carried from place to place without the state, for the purpose of dredging; and stated the general rule to be, that personal property of a visible and tangible nature, permanently located within another state, would be taxable where found; but held that the property in question, being in different localities, for short periods of time and for temporary purposes, was properly taxable by the state wherein its owner resided.

2. Ogilvie v. Crawford County, 2 McCrary (U. S.) 148; 12 Fed. Rep. 196; Standard Oil Co. v. Bachelor, 89 Ind.

1; Monroe v. Greenhoe, 54 Mich. 9; Boyce v. Cutter, 70 Mich. 539; Brooks v. Arenac Tp., 71 Mich. 231; Pardee v. Freesoil Tp., 74 Mich. 81; Connecticut River Lumber Co. v. Columbia, 62 N. H. 286; Coe v. Errol, 62 N. H. 303; Hurley v. Texas, 20 Wis. 634.

Coal belonging to a non-resident, which is being sent across the state and which is lying at a wharf awaiting assortment and shipment, has no situs within the state, and cannot be taxed. State v. Engle, 34 N. J. L. 425; State v. Carrigan, 39 N. J. L. 35. But grain which has been bought by an agent for a commission and stored in a warehouse where it lies subject to the order of the owner, is not in transitu and will be taxable. Walton v. Westwood, 73 Ill. 125.

Wood cut in California and owned by a citizen of that state, thrown into a river and passing a certain county in Nevada on its way to market in another Nevada county, is not taxable in the former county. Conley v. Chedic, 7 Nev. 336.

3. Hill v. Graham, 72 Mich. 659; Carrier v. Gordon, 21 Ohio St. 609. But this case is distinguished in Standard Oil Co. v. Bachelor, 89 Ind. 1, in which it was held that if goods have in any sense started on their journey, they will not be subject to taxation at a place where they are at a railroad station awaiting shipment.

Where property has been purchased by a non-resident who intends to ship, but is prevented from doing so by the fact that navigation has not opened, it is taxable in the place where it is. Carrier v. Gordon, 21 Ohio St. 605.

4. Coe v. Errol, 116 U. S. 517; 62 N. H. 303.

Corn owned by a non-resident and will not render them taxable.¹ When the goods have reached their destination, and have been taken in charge by one rightly asserting control, though not consigned to any specially authorized agent, and not yet unloaded, they may be taxed.²

(6) Construction of Special Statutory Terms.—The states, in exercising the right to tax property within their limits, frequently provide for the assessment of property, whether of residents or non-residents, employed in business within the state. Such legislation is legitimate.³ In order to come within the meaning of the phrase "employed in business," or similar expressions, the business must be other than of a merely temporary character.⁴ Such a phrase would include property employed in a banking business.⁵ The meaning of other expressions commonly found in statutes is considered in the note.⁶ The law may and fretemporarily in cribs awaiting transportation, has been held not liable to taxation. There must, however, be a purpose to ship immediately, or at least as soon as transportation can be conveniently obtained, followed by actual shipment within a reasonable time, to exempt the property from taxation. Ogilvie v. Crawford County, 2 McCrary (U. S.) 148.

1. Burroughs on Taxation, p. 56; State v. Engle, 34 N. J. L. 425; State v. Carrigan, 39 N. J. L. 35; Coe v. Errol, 116 U. S. 517; 62 N. H. 303.

2. Pittsburgh, etc., Coal Co. v. Bates, 40 La. Ann. 226; 8 Am. St. Rep. 519.

3. Duer v. Small, 4 Blatchf. (U. S.) 263; Danville Banking, etc., Co. v. Parks, 88 Ill. 170; Leonard v. New Bedford, 16 Gray (Mass.) 292; Putnam v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125; McCoy v. Anderson, 47 Mich. 502; Taylor v. Love, 43 N. J. L. 142; Ament v. Humphrey, 3 Greene (Iowa) 255; Lemp v. Hastings, 4 Greene (Iowa) 448; Gray v. Kettell, 12 Mass. 160; Shaw v. Hartford, 56 Conn. 351; Comstock v. Grand Rapids, 54 Mich. 641.

Where one has a factory, at a state prison, in charge of an agent, and is a jobber of the goods so made at another place, his property at the prison may be taxed under a statute providing that goods of manufacturers in the hands of agents shall be listed where the agent's business is conducted. Selz v. Cagwin, 104 Ill. 647.

A private banker living in one place and having a bank in another, is to be regarded as a resident of the latter place, so far as the matter of taxation is concerned. Miner v. Fredonia, 27 N. Y. 155.

4. Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 197; People v. Horn Silver Min. Co., 105 N. Y. 76.

If the statute provides that non-residents "doing business" in the state shall be taxed on sums invested "in said business," a tax cannot be assessed against a manufactured article sent into the state merely for sale by an agent. People v. Tax Com'r, 23 N. Y. 242.

5. McCutchen v. Rice County, 2 McCrary (U. S.) 337.

6. Property Within the State.—See People v. Campbell, 138 N. Y. 543.

Goods in Stores, Shops, etc.—In Kalkaska Tp. v. Fletcher, 81 Mich. 446, the statute provided that all goods situate in a township other than where the owner resides, should be assessed in the township where situate, if the owner hired a shop, store, etc., for use in connection with them. The defendants attached a stock of goods and rented a store in which to keep them, under the sheriff's charge, until the termination of the suit. The court held that a tax could not be imposed upon these goods, pending the attachment proceedings, for defendants were neither the owners of the goods at the time of the assessment, nor did they occupy a store within the meaning of the statute.

A building in which ice is stored is not a "store" within the meaning of a statute taxing property of non-residents having stores within the town. Hittinger v. Westford, 135 Mass. 258.

Merchandise or Stock in Trade.—Cotton cloth in process of being printed and prepared for market, is not "merchandise" or "stock in trade," in the sense of the Rhode Island statute. Woodman v. American Print Works, 6 R. I. 470.

Trading, Mercantile, or Manufacturing Business.—A Connecticut statute provided for a tax upon such business, and further prescribed that "the average amount of goods kept on hand for sale during that year . . . shall be the rule of assessment and taxation." It was held that a horse and wagon of a non-resident used in the business, was not liable to taxation. Shaw v. Hartford, 56 Conn. 351.

Stock in Trade, etc.—In Massachusetts, statutory provision is made for the taxation of goods or stock in trade employed in the business of manufacturing or of the mechanic arts, in the place where the owner hires or occupies any store, shop or wharf. Lee v. Templeton, 6 Gray (Mass.) 579; Salem Iron Factory Co. v. Danvers, 10 Mass. 514; Amesbury Woollen, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Amesbury, 17 Mass. 461; Leonard v. New Bedford, 16 Gray (Mass.) 292; Loud v. Charlestown, 103 Mass. 278; Barker v. Watertown, 137 Mass. 227; Boston Loan Co. v. Boston, 137 Mass. 332. But the business must be an established and not a transient one. Hittinger v. Westford, 135 Mass. 258; Stinson v. Boston, 125 Mass. 348; Huckins v. Boston, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 543. This provision is applicable to foreign corporations. Blackstone Mfg. Co. v. Blackstone, 13 Gray (Mass.) 488. The stock in trade must be actually within the town where the owner occupies a store, in order to be taxable there. Hittinger v. Boston, 139 Mass. 17.

The furniture of an inn is only taxable to the inn-keeper at the place of his residence. Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 109 Mass. 270. See also Farwell v. Hathaway, 151 Mass. 242.

A law similar to that of Massachusetts has been enacted in Maine. See Ellsworth v. Brown, 53 Me. 519.

But cotton stored in warehouses and belonging to a broker who occupies only a desk and desk room, is not taxable within this statute. Martin v. Portland, 81 Me. 293. See also Campbell v. Machias, 33 Me. 419; Stockwell v. Brewer, 59 Me. 286; Desmond v. Machias Port, 48 Me. 478.

It is provided in Massachusetts that "machinery employed in any branch of manufactures" shall be taxed where situated or employed. It was held, under the law, that a portable steam sawmill temporarily located in a town on the first day of May, is not so situated or employed, within the meaning of the statute, as to be there taxable; nor can its product in timber or lumber be taxed there, if the owner's temporary occupancy of land with the sawmill is the only evidence that he there occupied a "manufactory, store, shop or wharf." Ingram v. Cowles, 150 Mass. 155.

The cutting of ice is not a "manufacture." Hittinger v. Westford, 135 Mass. 258.

Goods Sold.—In Shriver v. Pittsburgh, 66 Pa. St. 446, under a law imposing a tax "on all articles of trade or of commerce sold in the city of Pittsburgh," the court held that a tax was properly imposed upon sales made without the state by agents of parties whose store, warehouses, and business were located within this city.

District Where the Business is Usually Done.—See Munson v. Crawford, 65 Ill. 185.

Merchants' Goods.—A law taxing "merchants' goods" where situated, covers lumber kept for sale. Washburn v. Oshkosh, 60 Wis. 453; Sanford v. Spencer, 62 Wis. 230.

Place of Business.—A firm has a "place of business" in a town where it has a factory in which it makes starch, which it stores in an adjoining warehouse until sold. Its starch is taxable in that town under Massachusetts Pub. St., ch. 11, § 24. Barker v. Watertown, 137 Mass. 227. See also Little v. Greenleaf, 7 Mass. 236; Little v. Cambridge, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 298.

Property Within the State.—See State v. Ross, 23 N. J. L. 517; People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 N. Y. 224; Boardman v. Tompkins County, 85 N. Y. 359.

Property Stored.—See Manistique Lumber Co. v. Witter, 58 Mich. 625; Hood v. Judkins, 61 Mich. 575. In this case the property taxed consisted of lumber piled upon land which the owners hired for that purpose and which was kept there until dried, when it was transported to the owner's place of business. Monroe v. Greenhoe, 54 Mich. 9, is distinguishable from the above case. Here the lumber was brought to the railroad station for transit, and the owners did not hire any place for storage, but it was piled in the yard of the party who sawed it, merely for the purposes of convenient shipment.

quently does provide that property in the hands of agents may be taxed where it is actually situated.¹

c. INTANGIBLE PERSONAL PROPERTY — (1) Debts in General. — The general rule is that debts follow the person of the creditor, and are to be taxed at his domicile.² Some cases conflict with this principle, and regard the debt as property in the hands of the debtor, and therefore taxable at his domicile.³ A general deposit at a new bank constitutes a debt,⁴ and is taxable at the depositor's domicile.⁵

(2) Negotiable Paper. — In regard to debts evidenced by bills,

1. People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; 60 Am. Dec. 581; Brown v. Houston, 33 La. Ann. 843; Walton v. Westwood, 73 Ill. 125; People v. Caldwell, 142 Ill. 434; Dubuque v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 Iowa 56; McCormick v. Fitch, 14 Minn. 252; People v. Bug, 66 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 242; 13 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 169; Boardman v. Tompkins County, 85 N. Y. 359; Sanford v. Spencer, 62 Wis. 230.

2. DeVignier v. New Orleans, 4 Woods (U. S.) 206; People v. Whartenby, 38 Cal. 461; Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 42 Conn. 426; 19 Am. Rep. 546; Collins v. Miller, 43 Ga. 336; Augusta v. Dunbar, 50 Ga. 387; Sivwright v. Pierce, 108 Ill. 133; Boyer v. Jones, 14 Ind. 354; Herron v. Keeran, 59 Ind. 472; 26 Am. Rep. 87; Foresman v. Byrns, 68 Ind. 247; Barber v. Farr, 54 Iowa 57; Babcock v. Board of Equalization, 65 Iowa 110; Thomas v. Mason County Ct., 4 Bush (Ky.) 135; Com. v. Hays, 8 B. Mon. (Ky.) 1; Meyer v. Pleasant, 41 La. Ann. 645; Barber Asphalt Paving Co. v. New Orleans, 41 La. Ann. 1015; Liverpool, etc., Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors, 44 La. Ann. 760; Appeal Tax Court v. Patterson, 50 Md. 354; Worthington v. Sebastian, 25 Ohio St. 10; Hayne v. Deliesseline, 3 McCord (S. Car.) 374; Com. v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 27 Gratt. (Va.) 344; People v. Eastman, 25 Cal. 601; Bridges v. Griffin, 33 Ga. 113; Johnson v. Oregon City, 2 Oregon 327; Connor v. Waxahachie (Tex. 1889), 13 S. W. Rep. 30; Ferris v. Kimble, 75 Tex. 476. Nor will the fact that a debt is reduced to judgment render it taxable within the state where the judgment is obtained. Meyer v. Pleasant, 41 La. Ann. 645. In Webb v. Burlington, 28 Vt. 188, it was held that a resident of the state might be assessed for stocks of another state which were owned by him.

Stock representing the debt of a city is not taxable against an owner who lives out of the state. Baltimore v. Hussey, 67 Md. 112.

Premiums due a non-resident insurance company are credits having their situs at the domicile of the company, and are not taxable elsewhere. Bailey v. Board of Assessors, 44 La. Ann. 765.

In Thomas v. Mason County Ct., 4 Bush (Ky.) 135, a debt was held taxable to the creditor, a resident of the state, although the money loaned was employed in business in another state and there taxed.

3. Bridges v. Griffin, 33 Ga. 113. But see Collins v. Miller, 43 Ga. 336; Wilcox v. Ellis, 14 Kan. 589; 19 Am. Rep. 107; Blain v. Irby, 25 Kan. 501; Re Jefferson's Estate, 35 Minn. 215.

In Fisher v. Rush County, 19 Kan. 414, A had conveyed lands situated in another state, and received, as part consideration therefor, four notes secured by a mortgage upon the land sold. The contract for the sale of the land was made in the state where the lands were situated. The notes were made payable in that state and were left there for collection. The court held that the notes were taxable only in the foreign jurisdiction, which would afford the owner his remedies for the collection of the debt, and that the court would not have recourse to a legal fiction to draw the debt into the State of Kansas.

If the law requires foreign insurers to deposit state or municipal bonds with the state treasurer, they may be taxed by the state where deposited. People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 532.

4. See BANKS AND BANKING, vol. 2, p. 93.

5. San Francisco v. Mackey, 22 Fed. Rep. 602; Horne v. Green, 52 Miss. 452.

In San Francisco v. Lux, 64 Cal. 481, the court said: "It is a settled rule that a general deposit is in effect a notes, and bonds, there are two lines of decisions. The view which is probably the more logical is that the paper is mere evidence of indebtedness, and that the debt itself can have no actual situs, wherever the paper may be; hence the situs, in the eye of the law, is, as in the case of ordinary debts, at the residence of the creditor.¹ The other view is that the location of the paper determines the situs.² If the notes, bills, or bonds in question are in the hands of an agent, they can probably be taxed at the loan, the relation of the bank and depositor being that of debtor and creditor."

In Massachusetts, money deposited in a national bank and bearing no interest, is liable to be taxed to the depositors. Gray v. Street Com'rs, 138 Mass. 414. But in Varner v. Calhoun, 48 Ala. 178, it was held that gold coin and United States treasury notes on deposit in New York City, were not subject to taxation in Alabama.

1. This will be so wherever the evidence of indebtedness be kept, so long, at least, as they are not property in the hands of an agent. Lanesborough v. Berkshire County, 131 Mass. 424; Sommers v. Boyd, 48 Ohio St. 648; Hunter v. Board of Supervisors, 33 Iowa 376; DeVignier v. New Orleans, 16 Fed. Rep. 11; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 15; State Tax on Foreign Held Bonds, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; New Orleans v. Mechanic's, etc., Ins. Co., 30 La. Ann. 876; 31 Am. Rep. 232; Goldgart v. People, 106 Ill. 25; Territory v. Delinquent Tax List (Ariz. 1890), 24 Pac. Rep. 182; Boyd v. Selma (Ala. 1892), 11 So. Rep. 393.

Notes held by a bank located within the state are taxable by the state, no matter where the makers reside. State Bank v. Richmond, 79 Va. 113.

Where notes were kept in a bank vault for protection against fire, the owner is taxable for these at his place of residence. Feris v. Kimble, 75 Tex. 475.

Under a statute taxing property, "actually within" a city, loans made by a non-resident are included, although the notes and mortgages are deposited without the city. Johnson v. Oregon City, 2 Oregon 327, affirming 3 Oregon 13.

The right to tax debts due to residents by non-residents, may be restricted by the special terms of a statute. Thus in People v. Gardner, 51 Barb. (N. Y.) 356, the New York supreme court held that a resident of the state could not be taxed for capital invested in other states, principally in real estate securities, under the New York statute, which provided for the taxation of "all lands and personal estate within this state:" that the property on account of which the assessment was made had no actual location or situs within the state, for the moneys loaned and the securities taken and held for the payment of the loans, were actually in other states.

Mortgage securities in custody of one's agent residing in other states with authority to reinvest, etc., are not taxable as "personal estate within this state," within New York Rev. St. 387, § 1. People v. Smith, 88 N. Y. 576.

2. People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 533; Wilcox v. Ellis, 14 Kan. 588; 19 Am. Rep. 107; State v. St. Louis County Ct., 47 Mo. 594; Redmond v. Rutherford, 87 N. Car. 133; Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 18 Oregon 377.

But though a mortgage be taxable where found, yet, in the absence of proof that the mortgage was within the county, the record of it cannot be assessed, that being merely a copy. Gallatin Co. v. Beattie, 3 Mont. 173.

In Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 8 Oregon 337, a resident of the state assigned mortgages and notes to persons in another county as security for the payment of a sum of money. The tax board having found this assignment to have been made for the purpose of avoiding taxation and therefore void, the court held that he was taxable therefor in the county of his residence.

In People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390, the agents of the non-resident had in their hands personal contracts belonging to such resident for the sale of lands, and the court held that the money due upon these applications would be taxable in the village where both the lands and the obligations were situated. The court said: "Notes, bonds, and other contracts for the payment of money have always been agent's residence, under either of the above lines of decisions, as being property in an agent's possession, and hence coming under the general rule governing such property.¹ On this point, however, there is some conflict.² The agent must be authorized to do some act in reference to the negotiable paper, however. If the owner keeps exclusive control over it, it is still in his possession. In other words, there must be a bona fide agency.³ While such securities, however, may be taxed at the agent's residence, they may be assessed, at the option of the authorities, at the owner's domicile instead.⁴

regarded and treated in the law as personal property; they represent the debts secured by them, they are the subject of larceny and the transfer of them transfers the debt. If this kind of property does not exist where the obligation is held, where does it exist? It certainly does not exist where the debtor may be and follow his person." But see Lord v. Arnold, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 104.

Where bonds were sent out of the state for safe keeping, and not to avoid taxation, it was held that they were not taxable to the owner within the state. State v. County Court, 69 Mo. 454.

1. Re Jefferson's Estate, 35 Minn. 215; People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390; Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 152; Redmond v. Rutherford, 87 N. Car. 122; State v. St. Louis County Ct., 47 Mo. 594; Redfield v. Genesee County, 1 Clarke Ch. (N. Y.) 42. So in Finch v. York County, 19 Neb. 50, the court held that notes and mortgages in the hands of an agent who managed their collection and reinvestment within the state, acquired a situs there for the purpose of taxation. The court said: "The power of the legislature to separate, for purposes of taxation, the situs of personal property, whether of a tangible nature, or in the form of choses in action, from the domicile of the owner, is unquestioned, and if such property, in any form, is within its jurisdiction it may tax it," citing Swallow v. Thomas, 15 Kan. 68; Tappan v. Michigan Nat. Bank, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 490; Griffith v. Carter, 8 Kan. 565.

In Tazewell County v. Davenport, 40 Ill. 197, the relator, a non-resident, carried on a regular and permanent business of lending money, and remained within the state long enough to transact this business. The court held that his moneys and credits employed in such business, and also money and credits of other persons residing out of the state, but used and controlled by him as their agent, were subject to taxation within the state.

But it has been held that bonds and notes of a non-resident left in a bank for safe keeping, or in an attorney's hands for collection, or even in his own hands while temporarily sojourning within a state, are not there taxable. Herron v. Keeran, 59 Ind. 472.

The notes in any case must be in the actual possession of the agent. People v. Davis, 112 Ill. 172.

2. State v. Gaylord, 73 Wis. 316.

3. Thus, bonds and mortgages subject to the order and exclusive control of the owner, but left for convenience in the hands of a non-resident agent, were held not to be taxable to the agent at his place of residence. Boardman v. Tompkins County, 85 N. Y. 359. Likewise, where the notes in question had been removed outside of the city before the time the assessment was made for the avowed purpose of avoiding taxation. Johnson v. Oregon City, 3 Oregon 13. In Collins v. Miller, 43 Ga. 336, a note of a non-resident in the hands of his attorney, merely pending the termination of a suit which had been commenced for its collection, was held taxable at the residence of the owner. See also Herron v. Keeran, 59 Ind. 472; 26 Am. Rep. 87; Hunter v. Board of Supervisors, 33 Iowa 376.

But in Foresman v. Byrns, 68 Ind. 247, the court held that debts or loans made to residents of the state by non-residents were not taxable in the hands of the agent who negotiated them, and who in some cases took the mortgages directly to himself as trustee and then transferred the notes, which were made payable to the order of the maker or to bearer, to capitalists or lenders, as opportunity afforded.

4. In Curtis v. Richland Tp., 56 Mich. 478, it was held that securities

(3) Mortgages.—A mortgage, so far as taxation is concerned, is a mere security. Hence the question of the situs of notes and bonds just discussed is generally held not to be affected by the fact that the paper was or was not secured by mortgage, or, if so secured, by the location of the mortgaged premises.¹ Many authorities have held, furthermore, that any legislation taxing a mortgage debt held by a non-resident is unconstitutional.²

in the hands of an agent who resides in a different township from the owner, are taxable in the township where the owner resides; and though, by the provisions of the tax law, these may be taxable in the hands of the agent at his place of residence, yet if the same securities are assessed in both towns, the assessment at the residence of the owner will take precedence.

In Catlin v. Hull, 21 Vt. 152, promissory notes and other choses in action belonging to a non-resident, were in the hands of his agent for collection, and for reinvestment of the money collected. Under the Vermont statute, which declared subject to taxation, "all debts due from solvent debtors," the court held that these were taxable within the state.

But where mortgage securities were in the hands of agents in other states, for the purpose of collection and reinvestment, the owner, a resident of New York, was held not to be taxable in this state. People v. Smith, 88 N. Y. 576.

In Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 18 Oregon 377, it was held that a board of equalization of a county has no authority to include moneys, notes, or mortgages in an assessment for the purpose of taxation, when such moneys, notes or mortgages have been sent to another state or territory to be loaned out through agents there, and which have been loaned and secured by mortgages on real property at the place where sent, such mortgages being retained by the agent in that place.

1. State Tax on Foreign Held Bonds, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300; Darcy v. Darcy, 51 N. J. L. 140; Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 100 U. S. 491; affirming Kirtland v. Hotchkiss, 42 Conn. 426; 19 Am. Rep. 546; Davenport v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 12 Iowa 539; State v. Massaker, 26 N. J. L. 564; Foresman v. Byrns, 68 Ind. 247; Arapahoe County v. Cutler, 3 Colo. 349. See also St. Paul v. Merritt, 7 Minn. 258; Grant v. Jones, 39 Ohio St. 506; Goldgart v. People, 106 Ill. 25.

In State v. Earl, 1 Nev. 394, Beatty, J., speaking of a tax upon money at interest secured by a mortgage on land, said: "The tax, however, . . . is, in the opinion of this court, neither a tax on coin, which is taxed as tangible personal property, a tax on the land mortgage, which is taxed at its value, without regard to the mortgage, nor a tax on the piece or pieces of paper upon which the note and mortgage are written, but it is a tax on a chose in action; in other words, it is a tax on the right which a party has to receive or collect a certain amount of money. Choses in action are intangible, and have no locality separate from the person possessing the power to enforce the right." See also People v. Eastman, 25 Cal. 601.

A debt due a non-resident from a resident, although secured by a mortgage upon real estate situated in the Territory of Arizona, is not subject to taxation there. Territory v. Delinquent Tax List (Arizona, 1890), 24 Pac. Rep. 182.

In Bullock v. Guilford, 59 Vt. 516, it was held that a debt owing a resident evidenced by promissory notes, secured by a mortgage on lands in another state, was taxable within the state, although the mortgagee's interest was taxed as real estate, and the notes and mortgages were kept in the state where the land itself was. Taft, J., said: "The general rule is that a debt follows the person of its owner and has its situs at his domicile. The situs of a debt is not affected by the locality of the security; it is still with the owner. Taxing the security makes the debt no less a debt than it was before such taxation."

2. In State Tax on Foreign Held Bonds, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300, reversing Com. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 29 Pa. St. 370, it was held that bonds of the corporation owned by a non-resident, though secured by a mortgage on real estate, had no situs apart from the holder, for the mortgage, though in form a conveyance, transferred no title,

Some courts, however, proceeding on the theory that a mortgage is an interest in land, have held it taxable in the state where the land lies, although held by a non-resident.¹ Other courts, without going to this extent, have said that if the mortgagee is a resident of the state, but of a district different from that where the land lies, the legislature may authorize the assessment in either district.²

but was merely a security for the debt; or in the language of the court "a mortgage being there [in Pennsylvania] a mere chose in action, it only confers upon the holder, or the party for whose benefit the mortgage is given, a right to proceed against the property mortgaged, upon a given contingency, to enforce, by its sale, the payment of his demand. This right has no locality independent of the party in whom it resides. It may undoubtedly be taxed by the state when held by a resident therein, but when held by a non-resident it is as much beyond the jurisdiction of the state as the person of the owner." In this case the court disapproved the reasoning, but affirmed the results of Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 262.

This rule, although practically denied by some authorities (in Pennsylvania), yet seems to be supported both by principle and the weight of authority. Railey v. Board of Assessors, 44 La. Ann. 765; Liverpool, etc., Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors, 44 La. Ann. 760; Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 268.

In U. S. v. Erie R. Co., 106 U. S. 327, Mr. Justice Field said: "The tax is exacted from the creditor, the party who holds the coupons for interest. No collocation of words can change this fact. And so it was expressly adjudged with reference to a similar tax in the case of U. S. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 17 Wall. (U. S.) 322. . . . The money which paid the interest was, until paid, the property of the company; when it became the property of the bondholders, it was outside of the jurisdiction of the United States."

In Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Slack, 100 U. S. 595, the court held valid an act of the United States (14 Stats. at Large, 138), which imposed a tax of five per cent. upon the interest payable upon its bonds, the law being specially made applicable to non-residents. This was held to be a tax or excise upon the income of the company, and of which the interest payable on its funded debt formed a part.

In Murray v. Charleston, 96 U. S. 433, the court held that city bonds held by a non-resident alien could not be taxed by the city; basing its decision exclusively upon the ground that the city could not impair the obligation of its contract to pay the debt in full.

In U. S. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 17 Wall. (U. S.) 322, the court held that a tax imposed upon interest payable by a railroad corporation to the city of Baltimore, was a tax upon the property of a municipal corporation, and as it was not the purpose of the legislature in passing this act to impose a tax upon a municipal corporation, this tax could not be enforced.

The supreme court of Ohio denied the right of the state to tax a debt secured by a mortgage upon land within the state, although the securities were in the hands of an agent within the state for the purpose of collection. Myers v. Seaberger, 45 Ohio St. 232.

1. Mumford v. Sewell, 11 Oregon 67; 50 Am. Rep. 462.

A mortgage on land, so far partakes of the character of realty that it is competent for the legislature to provide that the mortgage of a non-resident mortgagee shall be taxable where the land is situated. Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78.

In Redfield v. Genesee County, 1 Clarke Ch. (N. Y.) 42, it was held that debts owing to non-residents for the purchase of land within the state, and secured by mortgage, were liable to be taxed in the town and county where the debtor resided, under the New York Act of April 27, 1833. See also Malthy v. Reading, etc., R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 140; Com. v. Delaware Div. Canal Co., 123 Pa. St. 594; Susquehanna Canal Co. v. Com., 72 Pa. St. 72; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 73.

2. State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 105. But see People v. Eastman, 25 Cal. 603.

(4) Miscellaneous Choses in Action.—Choses in action generally are to be taxed at the domicile of the party whose interest therein is assessed.¹

(5) Shares of Stock.—Shares of stock in a corporation, like other forms of intangible personal property, are taxable at the domicile of the owner,² whether the corporation be domestic or foreign,³ unless the statute provides otherwise.⁴ It is competent, however, for the state which grants corporate powers, or permits their exercise, to give to shares of stock a special situs for taxation purposes. It may thus provide that the stock shall all be assessed at the place of corporate residence.⁵ The place of taxa-

1. Bradley v. Bauder, 36 Ohio St. 28; 38 Am. Rep. 547; People v. Park, 23 Cal. 138.

Where a non-resident landholder, owning real estate in the state, sells it by an executory contract, and the contract is held in the state by his agent, it is taxable as personalty where it is held. Redmond v. Rutherford, 87 N. Car. 122. If contracts are in agent's hands, they are taxable at his domicile. People v. Willis, 133 N. Y. 382.

2. Bradley v. Bauder, 36 Ohio St. 28; 38 Am. Rep. 547; Evansville v. Hall, 14 Ind. 27; Conwell v. Connersville, 15 Ind. 150; Griffith v. Watson, 19 Kan. 23; Howell v. Cassopolis, 35 Mich. 471; Worth v. Ashe County, 82 N. Car. 420; Worth v. Ashe County, 90 N. Car. 409; Strong v. O'Donnell, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 575; Nashville v. Thomas, 5 Coldw. (Tenn.) 600.

This is so, even though the statute provides that property to be taxable must be "in the city" or "within the city." Ogden v. St. Joseph, 90 Mo. 522. But see contra, People v. Tax Com'r, 4 Hun (N. Y.) 595; People v. Tax Com'r, 5 Hun (N. Y.) 200.

In Connecticut, under the statute, stock owned by residents in non-resident corporations, whether public or private, is taxable only in case such shares are not taxed in the state where the corporations are located. Lockwood v. Weston, 61 Conn. 211.

3. In Seward v. Rising Sun, 79 Ind. 351, it was held that a city has the right to tax its citizens for stock owned by them in a foreign railroad company, although a tax has been paid thereon in the state where the corporation is located. See also Dyer v. Osborne, 11 R. I. 321; 23 Am. Rep. 460; McKeen v. Northampton County, 49 Pa. St. 519; 88 Am. Dec. 515; Dwight v. Boston, 12 Allen (Mass.) 316.

Under a law providing for the assessment of "shares or property in any incorporated company for a bridge or a turnpike road," a resident is liable to be taxed for his stock in a turnpike company of another state. Great Barrington v. Berkshire County, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 572. See also Holton v. Bangor, 23 Me. 264; Whitsell v. Northampton County, 49 Pa. St. 526.

4. Williams v. Weaver, 75 N. Y. 30. Under North Carolina Laws of 1891, ch. 326, shares of stock in domestic manufacturing corporations must be taxed at the principal office or other place of business of the corporation. Wiley v. Salisbury, 111 N. Car. 397.

5. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 23; Welty on Assessments, § 56; Tappan v. Merchant's Nat. Bank, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 490.

Faxton v. McCosh, 12 Iowa 527, upheld a statute providing that "corporations shall be taxed through the shares of the stockholders, and when stockholders are non-residents, their interest shall be taxed in the county in which is situated the principal business office within the state." The court said: "The interest of each shareholder is property within the jurisdiction of the state. The certificate of shares may be with the owner, but it is only paper evidence of such interest, the property it represents being within reach of the taxing power. The legislature has thought proper to provide that the property of this company, which has its existence by virtue of its enactment, shall bear its proportion of the burden of taxation in this way. Those who seek the benefit of this company, do so with this understanding." See also Baltimore v. Baltimore City Pass. R. Co., 57 Md. 31; American Coal Co. v. Allegheny County, 59 Md. 185. But it has been held that the stock

tion of shares of national bank stock has been treated already in connection with the subject of national banks.¹

d. PLACE AS AFFECTED BY OWNERSHIP AND POSSESSION.—

(1) In General.—The general rule as to place, stated above, presupposes that the legal title of the property and the right of possession are in the taxpayer. We are now to consider the effect of title and possession on the subject.²

(2) Corporate Property.—(See also CORPORATIONS, vol. 4, p. 272a).—The same principles govern the taxation of the property of a corporation as that of private individuals. Its real property is taxable where it lies; its personal property at its corporate residence or at the place where it is located, at the option of the legislature.³ The subject of corporate residence is elsewhere treated.⁴ It is there that a tax on the capital stock is levied, wherever the property represented by it may be.⁵

(3) Railroad Property.—Railroad property may be taxed in the same way as other property, namely, real property in the several districts in which it lies;⁶ personal property at the principal office of the company.⁷ Special provisions are often made for the taxation of railway property, which are elsewhere considered.⁸

(4) Partnership Property.—The state may authorize the taxation of the interest of a partner at his domicile, even though the business is conducted in another state.⁹ Generally, however, the place where the business is carried on is designated as the place where the personal property of the partnership is to be taxed.¹⁰ It of banks incorporated by a state, but held and owned by non-resident stockholders, is not subject to the taxing power of the state. Union Bank v. State, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 490.

1. See NATIONAL BANKS, vol. 16, p. 187.

2. See also supra, this title, Upon Whom Imposed.

3. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 377; Baldwin v. Trustees of Ministerial Fund, 37 Me. 369; People v. McLean, 80 N. Y. 254; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 1 Bush (Ky.) 250; Ontario Bank v. Bunnell, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 186.

4. See TAXATION (CORPORATE), vol. 25.

5. People v. Tax Com'rs, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 312; Quincy R. Co. v. Adams County, 88 Ill. 615.

6. Dillon on Mun. Corp. (4th ed.), § 789; Bakewell v. Police Jury, 20 La. Ann. 334; Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Board of Reviewers (La. 1887), 3 So. Rep. 507; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hamilton County, 73 Iowa 313; Railroad Co. v. Marion County, 48 Ohio St. 249.

A railroad company should be considered as a resident of the several towns through which its road extends, within the meaning of the tax laws. And its real estate should not be "assessed as non-resident lands." People v. Fredericks, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 173.

Elevated railroads in New York City may be taxed as "lands" or "real estate." People v. Tax Com'rs, 82 N. Y. 462.

7. Mohawk, etc., R. Co. v. Clute, 4 Paige (N. Y.) 384.

8. See TAXATION (CORPORATE), vol. 25.

9. St. John v. Mobile, 21 Ala. 224; Bemis v. Boston, 14 Allen (Mass.) 366.

10. St. John v. Mobile, 21 Ala. 224; Hoadley v. Essex County, 105 Mass. 527; Swallow v. Thomas, 15 Kan. 66; Putnam v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125; McCoy v. Anderson, 47 Mich. 502; Fairbanks v. Kittredge, 24 Vt. 9. This is the rule adopted, under the Massachusetts statute, in regard to property employed in business. Barker v. Watertown, 137 Mass. 227. So in Michigan, under the statute, personal property cannot be taxed at a place other has been held that if the statute is silent, personalty will be taxed at its actual situs, on the ground that a partnership can properly have no domicile.¹ The legislature can always designate the place where the partnership is situated as the place of taxation.²

(5) Property in Trust.—Property in trust is, in the absence of a special provision of statute, taxed at the same place as though the trustee were the absolute owner.³ If there are several trustees residing in different districts, the tax must be apportioned among them.⁴

Property is sometimes made taxable to the beneficiary, in which case the question of place is determined in the same manner as though he held the full title.⁵

A fund in charge of a court is taxable in the jurisdiction in whose control it is.⁶

than the place of business, even though it is manufactured, and some sales are made there. McCoy v. Anderson, 47 Mich. 502; Putnam v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125.

A foreign firm having a resident partner in New York, there carrying on the business tributary to that abroad, is liable to taxation upon the amount invested in the business in New York. Matter of McMahon, 66 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 190.

1. Taylor v. Love, 43 N. J. L. 142.

2. The personal property of a partnership is assessable in the locality where it is, if the place of business is there. Williams v. Saginaw, 51 Mich. 120.

3. Perry on Trusts (4th ed.), § 331; Smith v. Byers, 43 Ga. 191. See also Latrobe v. Baltimore, 19 Md. 13; Baltimore v. Stirling, 29 Md. 48; People v. Board of Assessors, 40 N. Y. 154; Lewis v. Chester County, 60 Pa. St. 325.

A resident trustee cannot be taxed for securities without the state, in the joint possession of himself and his two non-resident co-trustees, held for non-resident beneficiaries, even though secured by liens on land within the city. People v. Barker, 135 N. Y. 656; 4 Silv. (N. Y.) 648.

The rule is the same as that stated in the text where the trustee is a corporation. Greene Foundation v. Boston, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 54.

A state has power to tax property, real and personal, held in trust therein for a non-resident. Price v. Hunter, 34 Fed. Rep. 355.

4. Academy of Richmond County v. Augusta, 90 Ga. 634; Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277.

Where only two of three trustees of personal property reside in a state, only two-thirds of the trust property should be taxed in that state. Appeal Tax Ct. v. Gill, 50 Md. 377. To the same effect see People v. Coleman, 119 N. Y. 137; 21 Abb. N. C. (N. Y.) 168.

Resident and non-resident trustees cannot be jointly assessed. Stinson v. Boston, 125 Mass. 348.

5. Hathaway v. Fish, 13 Allen (Mass.) 267; Davis v. Macy, 124 Mass. 193.

In Massachusetts, the principal rule, as stated in the text, is substantially made the law by statutory provisions. Dorr v. Boston, 6 Gray (Mass.) 131.

But where the trustee is required by the terms of his trust to pay the income of the fund in his hands to another person, the tax must be assessed upon the trustee in the place in which such other person resides, if within the state, and if he resides out of the state, in the place where the trustee resides. Davis v. Macy, 124 Mass. 193. See also Freetown v. Fish, 123 Mass. 355; Ricker v. American Loan, etc., Co., 140 Mass. 346.

In Rhode Island, property held in trust, the income of which is to be paid to any person, shall to that extent be assessed against the trustee in the town in which such beneficial owner resides. Greene v. Mumford, 4 R. I. 313. But a trustee resident in another state, who holds as trustee no property in this state, is not liable to taxation in the town, in this state, where the cestui que trust resides. Antony v. Caswell, 15 R. I. 159.

6. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 376.

But the court of chancery is not a person having a residence in any partic-

(6) Property in Hands of Guardians and Conservators.—In the absence of statutory provision on the subject, the property of an infant or incapable is taxed at the same place as though no disability existed.¹ The statute, may, however, provide for the assessment of personal property at the domicile of the guardian or conservator.²

(7) Property of Decedents.—There is a conflict in the cases in regard to the place where the personal property belonging to the estate of a deceased person is to be taxed. Some courts, proceeding on the theory that the title is in the personal representative, hold that it is taxable at his domicile, even though it has not in fact reached his hands, or even though the deceased resided in another state.³ If, however, the administrator or executor is not ular town, within the meaning of the Revised Statutes, and cannot be taxed as trustee of its suitors, for the funds in the court. Matter of Kellinger, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 62.

1. Louisville v. Sherley, 80 Ky. 71; Kirkland v. Whately, 4 Allen (Mass.) 462; School Directors v. James, 2 W. & S. (Pa.) 568; 37 Am. Dec. 525; West Chester School Dist. v. Darlington, 38 Pa. St. 157, 159; Mason v. Thurber, 1 R. I. 481.

2. Tousey v. Bell, 23 Ind. 423; Vogel v. Vogler, 78 Ind. 353; Baldwin v. First Parish, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 494; Payson v. Tufts, 13 Mass. 493; West Chester School Dist. v. Darlington, 38 Pa. St. 157.

If the statute requires that one be assessed in the town or ward where he lives for "all personal estate in his possession, or under his control as agent, trustee, executor or administrator," a committee of the estate of a lunatic is not included. People v. Tax Com'rs, 100 N. Y. 215.

3. Gallatin v. Alexander, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 475; Cameron v. Burlington, 56 Iowa 320; State v. Jones, 39 N. J. L. 246; State v. Holmdel Tp., 39 N. J. L. 79; Johnson v. Oregon City, 2 Oregon 327; State v. St. Louis County Ct., 47 Mo. 594.

If there be several executors residing in different districts, the tax must be apportioned between them. State v. Matthews, 10 Ohio St. 431.

This case was followed in Todd v. Hughes, 3 Ohio L. J. 206.

But in Brown v. Noble, 42 Ohio St. 405, where the administration was committed to several persons residing in different counties, the court held that moneys, credits, and investments belonging to the estate, must be listed for taxation in the county where the administrator having actual possession and control of the property to be listed, resided.

And in New York, where the statute provides that every person shall be assessed where he resides for his personal estate, including all personal property in his possession or under his control as executor or administrator, the court held that one of several co-executors could not be assessed for property belonging to the estate, but which was in the possession and under the control of the other executors. People v. Tax Com'rs, 17 Hun (N. Y.) 293. But this case was distinguished in People v. Tax Com'rs, 38 Hun (N. Y.) 536, in which it was held that the tax would be assessed to all of three executors, although the property assessed was in the possession and under the control of one acting executor. The court, in the language of Mr. Justice Savage, in Murray v. Blatchford, 1 Wend. (N. Y.) 616, said: "If a man appoints several executors, they are esteemed in law but as one person representing the testator, and, therefore, the acts done by any one of them, which relate either to the delivery, cost, sale, payment, possession or release of the testator's goods, are deemed the acts of all, for they have a joint and entire authority."

It has been held that if ancillary administration is granted, the state in which it is so granted may impose a tax on all tangible property situated in the state. Alvany v. Powell, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 51. But the property must have actually come to the estate; hence, where a member of a California firm, but a resident of New York, died in the latter state, his executors were held appointed until after the assessment day, there can be no taxation to him at his residence.¹

According to other decisions, the property must be assessed at the last domicile of the deceased,² and this has been distinctly claimed to be the rule where no statute prescribing the place exists.³

When the estate has been distributed, the property is taxable at the domicile of the several distributees.⁴

4. Poll Taxes.—Taxes on polls can be levied only at the domicile of the person taxed, not at a place where he is residing temporarily.⁵

5. Miscellaneous Taxes.—Occupation and franchise taxes are imposed at the place where the occupation is carried on, or the franchise exercised.⁶ The subject of collateral inheritance taxation is considered elsewhere.⁷

not taxable in New York before anything was due them from the surviving members of the firm. People v. Coleman, 44 Hun (N. Y.) 20.

A state cannot impose a tax upon property belonging to the estate of a deceased inhabitant, where neither the property nor the executor is within the state; the mere fact that one or more of the beneficiaries resides within the state will not render the property taxable. See Dallinger v. Rapello, 14 Fed. Rep. 32; 15 Fed. Rep. 434, where property held by a non-resident executor, in trust to pay the income for life, to residents of the state, was decided not to be liable to taxation. In Baldwin v. Shine, 84 Ky. 502, under the statute requiring that property shall be listed for assessment by the owner, the court held that stocks and bonds held by an administrator residing within the state would be taxed, although the persons beneficially entitled were non-residents, the administrator being in law the "owner" of such property. So in New Jersey under the statute. State v. Corson, 50 N. J. L. 381.

In Sommers v. Boyd, 48 Ohio St. 648, the court held that under the provisions of the Ohio statute, the situs of moneys, credits, and investments for the purpose of taxation, is the residence of the person who is required to list them; and that an administrator would be required to list credits belonging to the estate of the decedent, in the place where he resided.

As to the rule in Vermont, see Clark v. Powell, 62 Vt. 442.

1. Hayden v. Roe, 66 Wis. 288.

2. San Francisco v. Lux, 64 Cal. 481; 431.

Cornwall v. Todd, 38 Conn. 447; McGregor v. Vanpel, 24 Iowa 436. But see Cameron v. Burlington, 56 Iowa 320; Smith v. Northampton Bank, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 1.

In Massachusetts, by statute, the personal estate of a deceased person is taxable only in the town where he last dwelt. Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277; Wood v. Torrey, 97 Mass. 321. This is the rule applicable to shares of bank stock. Revere v. Boston, 123 Mass. 375.

3. In Staunton v. Stout, 86 Va. 321, the court said: "The fact that the executors resided in Staunton when the assessment was made does not affect the case. There being no statute in Virginia to the contrary, the situs of the property is at the last domicile of the testator, and there it is taxable, and not elsewhere." See also Burroughs on Taxation, p. 224; San Francisco v. Lux, 64 Cal. 481.

Notes belonging to the estate of a decedent will be assessed at the place where the decedent had his domicile. Stephens v. Booneville, 34 Mo. 323.

4. Cornwall v. Todd, 38 Conn. 447; Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277; Herrick v. Big Rapids, 53 Mich. 554; State v. Leggett, 40 N. J. L. 308; Alvany v. Powell, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 51. Even if the administrator's account has not been settled. Carlton v. Ashburnham, 102 Mass. 348.

5. State v. Ross, 23 N. J. L. 517. And see supra, this title, Things Taxable—Polls.

6. See supra, this title, Occupation, Business, and Privilege Taxes.

7. SUCCESSION TAXES, vol. 24, p.

IX. EXEMPTIONS—1. Power to Exempt.—In absence of constitutional restrictions, the power of the legislature to exempt classes of property or persons from taxation is unquestionable.¹ It has generally been held that the constitutional provisions requiring equality and uniformity in taxation by the legislature do not prohibit the exemption of certain classes from the general law, the rule of equality and uniformity applying only to such objects as may have been selected by the legislature for taxation, and the fact that other species or classes of property are exempt, not violating the rule.²

1. Butler's Appeal, 73 Pa. St. 451; Scotland County v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Mo. 123; Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; Williamson v. Massey, 33 Gratt. (Va.) 240; Probasco v. Moundsville, 11 W. Va. 506; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; 60 Am. Dec. 581; Christ Church v. Philadelphia County, 24 How. (U. S.) 300; Wells v. Central Vt. R. Co., 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 426; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor County, 52 Wis. 36. See also Indianapolis v. Sturdevant, 24 Ind. 391.

Constitutional Restrictions.—The Louisiana constitution of 1879, art. 207, provided, "the following property shall be exempt from taxation and no other: viz., all public property, places of religious worship," etc., etc. So it was provided by the constitution of Kentucky that "no man or set of men are entitled to exclusive separate public emoluments or privileges from the community, but in consideration of public services." And under this provision, the exemption of the board of trade from taxation was held unconstitutional. Barbour v. Louisville Board of Trade, 82 Ky. 645.

Thus, in Iowa it was provided by the constitution that corporations should be subject to the same taxation as individuals. Iowa Homestead Co. v. Webster County, 21 Iowa 227; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196.

In Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289, it was held that a constitutional provision that all real property, with a certain exception, should be subject to taxation, precluded the legislature from exempting other real property. See also Hogg v. Mackey (Oregon, 1893), 31 Pac. Rep. 779. As to the Missouri provision, see State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. 208; Life Assoc. v. Board of Assessors, 49 Mo. 512.

Where the state constitutions provide the general classes of property which may be exempted, such as charities, property devoted to educational and eleemosynary purposes, etc., the legislature can make no exemptions outside of such specified classes. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 19 W. Va. 408; Hogg v. Mackey (Oregon, 1893), 31 Pac. Rep. 779; Croisan v. Hogg (Oregon, 1893), 31 Pac. Rep. 782. And the provision that all property shall be taxed precludes exemption by the legislature. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 3 Tenn. Ch. 604; Ellis v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 8 Baxt. (Tenn.) 530; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 97 U. S. 697; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. 208; New Orleans v. Lafayette Ins. Co., 28 La. Ann. 756; Chattanooga v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 7 Lea (Tenn.) 561.

2. M. E. Church v. Ellis, 38 Ind. 3; State v. Mills, 34 N. J. L. 177; Hodgson v. New Orleans, 21 La. Ann. 301; State v. Fosdick, 21 La. Ann. 434; Louisiana Cotton Mfg. Co. v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 440; High v. Shoemaker, 22 Cal. 363; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Levee Com'rs, 37 Fed. Rep. 24; Williams v. Rees, 2 Fed. Rep. 882; State v. Winnebago Lake, etc., Co., 11 Wis. 42; Green Bay, etc., Canal Co. v. Outagamie County, 76 Wis. 587; Athens v. Long, 59 Ga. 330; Waring v. Savannah, 60 Ga. 93; People v. Auditor Gen'l, 7 Mich. 84; People v. Coleman, 4 Cal. 46; State Bank v. New Albany, 11 Ind. 139; Connorsville v. State Bank, 16 Ind. 105; King v. Machsin, 17 Ind. 48; State v. Collins, 43 N. J. L. 562; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; Mississippi Mills v. Cook, 56 Miss. 40; New Orleans v. Davidson, 30 La. Ann. 555; Louisiana State Lottery Co. v. New Orleans, 24 La. Ann. 86; New Orleans v. Fourchy, 30 La. Ann. 910; New Orleans v. Klein, 26 La. Ann. 493; Reynolds v. Police Jury, 44 La. Ann. 863; State v. Poydras, 9 La. Ann. 165; New Orleans v. Ken-

The power of the legislature to make permanent exemptions, i. e., to relinquish the right to impose taxes on corporations or individuals so as to bind future legislatures, has been questioned. The subject is discussed in another division of this article.¹

This power to make exemptions is not, however, inherent in such inferior political organizations as counties, municipalities, etc.²

2. Strictly Construed — a. IN GENERAL. — Statutes or charters exempting property, persons, or corporations from the common burdens of taxation, are to be strictly construed.³ The intention of the legislature to grant the immunity claimed must be clear beyond a reasonable doubt. It cannot be inferred from uncertain nard, 34 La. Ann. 851; Louisiana Cotton Mfg. Co. v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 440; Leicht v. Burlington, 73 Iowa 29; Mobile v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 53 Ala. 570; State v. Winnebago Lake, etc., R. Co., 11 Wis. 34; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Barnes (N. Dak. 1892), 51 N. W. Rep. 386, 786; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Brewer (N. Dak. 1892), 31 N. W. Rep. 787; Louisiana v. Pillsbury, 105 U. S. 278; Wells v. Central Vermont R. Co., 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 426; Danville v. Shelton, 76 Va. 325; Ferns v. Vannier, 6 Dakota 186; State v. Hennepin County, 33 Minn. 235; Columbia, etc., R. Co. v. Chilberg (Wash. 1893), 34 Pac. Rep. 163.

1. See supra, this title, Power to Tax.

2. See infra, this title, Municipal Taxation.

3. State v. Crittenden County, 19 Ark. 360; McGehee v. Mathis, 21 Ark. 58; Hart v. Plum, 14 Cal. 148; Macon v. Central R., etc., Co., 50 Ga. 620; Wettig v. Bowman, 47 Ill. 17; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Irvin, 72 Ill. 452; Orr v. Baker, 4 Ind. 86; Indianapolis v. McLean, 8 Ind. 328; M. E. Church v. Ellis, 38 Ind. 3; South Bend v. University of Notre Dame Du Lac, 69 Ind. 344; Griswold College v. State, 46 Iowa 275; Sioux City v. Independent School Dist., 55 Iowa 150; Fort Des Moines Lodge v. Polk County, 56 Iowa 34; Washburn College v. Shawnee County, 8 Kan. 344; Miami County v. Brackenridge, 12 Kan. 114; Covington Gas Light Co. v. Covington, 84 Ky. 94; New Orleans v. Guth, 11 La. Ann. 405; Bishop v. Marks, 15 La. Ann. 147; Baton Rouge, etc., R. Co. v. Kirkland, 33 La. Ann. 622; Dennis v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 34 La. Ann. 954; Ricks v. Board of Assessors, 43 La. Ann. 1075; Gast v. Board of Assessors, 43 La. Ann. 1104; Plaisted v. Lincoln, 62 Me. 91; Bangor v. Masonic Lodge, 73 Me. 428; 40 Am. Rep.

369; Buchanan v. Talbot County, 47 Md. 286; Frederick County v. Sisters of Charity, 48 Md. 34; Consolidated Gas Co. v. Baltimore, 62 Md. 588; 50 Am. Rep. 237; South Congregational Meeting House v. Lowell, 1 Met. (Mass.) 538; Detroit Young Men's Soc., etc. v. Detroit, 3 Mich. 172; Hendrie v. Kalthoff, 48 Mich. 306; Baldwin v. Hastings, 83 Mich. 639; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 32 Minn. 294; 17 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 475; State v. Woodruff, 37 N. J. L. 139; State v. Middle Tp., 38 N. J. L. 270; State v. Fuller, 40 N. J. L. 328; Chegaray v. New York, 13 N. Y. 220; People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 76 N. Y. 65; People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 82 N. Y. 459; People v. Davenport, 91 N. Y. 586; 1 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 475; Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Alamance, 76 N. Car. 212; Cincinnati College v. State, 19 Ohio 110; Com. v. Arrott Steam Power Mills Co., 145 Pa. St. 69; Railroad Co. v. Berks County, 6 Pa. St. 70; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sabin, 26 Pa. St. 242; Crawford v. Burrell Tp., 53 Pa. St. 219; Phoenix Iron Co. v. Com., 59 Pa. St. 104; Erie R. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 84; Chadwick v. Maginnes, 94 Pa. St. 117; Philadelphia v. Pennsylvania Hospital, 134 Pa. St. 171; Union Canal Co. v. Dauphin County, 3 Brew. (Pa.) 124; Hand v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 12 S. Car. 315; Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Tribble, 25 S. Car. 260; Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Watertown (S. Dak. 1890), 44 N. W. Rep. 1072; Westmore Lumber Co. v. Orne, 48 Vt. 90; Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Alexandria, 17 Gratt. (Va.) 176; Miller v. Com., 27 Gratt. (Va.) 110; Com. v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 27 Gratt. (Va.) 348; Weston v. Shawano County, 44 Wis. 242; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Loftin, 105 U. S. 258; Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Dennis, 116 U. S. 665; Yazoo, etc., R. Co., v. Thomas, 132 U. S. 174; Gold Hill v. Caledonia phrases or ambiguous terms. The power of taxation being an essential attribute of sovereignty, every presumption is against its surrender by the state, and to the state must be given the benefit of every doubt arising as to the legislative intention.¹ Such a

Silver Min. Co., 5 Sawy. (U. S.) 575; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 3 Fed. Rep. 266.

Thus, an exemption of mining claims does not cover the flumes of machinery necessary to work them. Hart v. Plum, 14 Cal. 148. See also Gold Hill v. Caledonia Silver Min. Co., 5 Sawy. (U. S.) 575.

So, a provision in the charter of a corporation, exempting from taxation its "assets which now are liable" to taxation, cannot be construed to cover assets afterwards acquired by the corporation. Union Canal Co. v. Dauphin County, 3 Brew. (Pa.) 124.

A constitutional provision which declares that "the press shall be free," does not exempt capital invested in a newspaper from taxation. New Orleans v. Crescent Newspaper, 14 La. Ann. 816.

The exemption of "an endowment or fund of any religious society," etc., will not embrace lands. State v. Krollman, 38 N. J. L. 323, 574; State v. Lyon, 32 N. J. L. 360.

Collateral Inheritance Tax.—A general exemption of property from taxation will not exempt from a collateral inheritance tax. Miller v. Com., 27 Gratt. (Va.) 110. See also Barringer v. Cowan, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 436; Catlin v. Trinity College, 113 N. Y. 133; Wallace v. Myers, 38 Fed. Rep. 185; Strode v. Com., 52 Pa. St. 181. The tax is not upon the property, but upon the privilege of acquiring it by will or under the Intestate Acts.

Foreign Corporations and Institutions.

—In general, an exemption of corporations, charitable institutions, etc., will not apply to foreign corporations, etc. In re Prime's Estate, 64 Hun (N. Y.) 50; People v. Western Seaman's Friend Soc., 87 Ill. 246.

1. North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 46; Tucker v. Ferguson, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 527; Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 561; Bailey v. Magwire, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 226; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Thomas, 132 U. S. 174; Hoge v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 99 U. S. 348; Northwestern Fertilizing Co. v. Hyde Park, 97 U. S. 666; Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Dennis, 116 U. S. 665; Mem- phis Gas Light Co. v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 109 U. S. 398; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Missouri, 120 U. S. 569; Erie R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 492; Jefferson Branch Bank v. Skelley, 1 Black (U. S.) 436; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 10 How. (U. S.) 376; Washington University v. Rouse, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 439; New Orleans City, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans, 143 U. S. 192; State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; McIver v. Robinson, 53 Ala. 456; Biscoe v. Coulter, 18 Ark. 423; Waller v. Hughes (Arizona, 1880), 11 Pac. Rep. 122; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Lesueur (Arizona, 1888), 37 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 368; Hart v. Plum, 14 Cal. 148; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; County Com'rs v. Colorado Seminary, 12 Colo. 497; Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Watertown (S. Dak. 1890), 44 N. W. Rep. 1072; State v. Bank of Smyrna, 2 Houst. (Del.) 99; 73 Am. Dec. 699; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 15 Fla. 637; Wright v. Southwestern R. Co., 64 Ga. 783; Macon v. Central R., etc., Co., 50 Ga. 620; Orr v. Baker, 4 Ind. 86; Indianapolis v. McLean, 8 Ind. 328; Madison v. Fitch, 18 Ind. 33; M. E. Church v. Ellis, 38 Ind. 3; In re Swigert, 123 Ill. 267; People v. Chicago, 124 Ill. 636; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Decatur, 126 Ill. 92; 37 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 395; Griswold College v. State, 46 Iowa 275; Sioux City v. Independent School Dist., 55 Iowa 152; Washburn College v. Shawnee County, 8 Kan. 344; Vail v. Beach, 10 Kan. 214; St. Mary's College v. Crowl, 10 Kan. 442; Miami County v. Brackenridge, 12 Kan. 114; Louisville, etc., Canal Co. v. Com., 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 160; Covington Gas Light Co. v. Covington, 84 Ky. 94; Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Bourbon County, 82 Ky. 497; Gast v. Board of Assessors, 43 La. Ann. 1104; Dennis v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 34 La. Ann. 954; New Orleans v. People's Ins. Co., 27 La. Ann. 519; Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Saco, 60 Me. 196; Stetson v. Bangor, 56 Me. 274; Gordon v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 231; Howell v. State, 3 Gill (Md.) 14; Baltimore v. State, 15 Md. 376; 74 Am. Dec. 572; Buchanan v. Talbot County, 47 Md. 286; Portland Bank v. Apthorpe, 12 Mass. 252; Harvard College v. Boston, 104 Mass. 470; statute is not to be given a retroactive effect.¹ The burden of proof is upon the party claiming the exemption, to show that his case falls clearly within the exception to the general law.² But it has been said that, where the legislature exempts a company from general taxation in return for a certain percentage of its

Boston's Soc., etc. v. Boston, 129 Mass. 178; St. Peter's Church v. Scott County, 12 Minn. 395; Hennepin County v. Bell, 43 Minn. 344; Anderson v. State, 23 Miss. 459; Greenville Ice, etc., Co. v. Greenville, 69 Miss. 86; Frantz v. Debson, 64 Miss. 631; 60 Am. Rep. 68; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Shacklett, 30 Mo. 550; Washington University v. Rowse, 42 Mo. 308; St. Louis v. Boatmen's Ins., etc., Co., 47 Mo. 150; Pacific R. Co. v. Cass County, 53 Mo. 17; St. Louis v. Marine Ins. Co., 47 Mo. 163; Hope Min. Co. v. Kennon, 3 Mont. 35; Bellinger v. White, 5 Neb. 401; Brewster v. Hough, 10 N. H. 146; Franklin St. Soc. v. Manchester, 60 N. H. 342; Souhegan Nail, etc., Factory v. McConihe, 7 N. H. 309; Phillips Exeter Academy v. Exeter, 58 N. H. 306; 42 Am. Rep. 589; Walker v. Walker, 63 N. H. 321; 56 Am. Rep. 514; State v. Newark, 26 N. J. L. 519; State v. Parker, 32 N. J. L. 426; State v. Woodruff, 37 N. J. L. 139; State v. Elizabeth, 37 N. J. L. 330; People v. Roper, 35 N. Y. 629; People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 95 N. Y. 554; People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 82 N. Y. 459; People v. Long Island City, 76 N. Y. 20; Stewart v. Davis, 3 Murph. (N. Car.) 244; State v. Matthews, 3 Jones (N. Car.) 451; Lima v. Lima Cemetery Assoc., 42 Ohio St. 128; 5 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 547; 51 Am. Rep. 809; Crawford v. Burrell Tp., 53 Pa. St. 219; Platt v. Rice, 10 Watts (Pa.) 352; Bank of Pennsylvania v. Com., 19 Pa. St. 144; Union Pass. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 83 Pa. St. 429; Jones, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Com., 69 Pa. St. 139; Easton Bank v. Com., 10 Pa. St. 442; Appeal of Com. (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 133; Philadelphia v. Pennsylvania Hospital, 134 Pa. St. 171; Mott v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 9; 72 Am. Dec. 664; Carpenter v. School Trustees, 12 R. I. 574; State v. Newberry, 12 Rich. (S. Car.) 339; Martin v. Charleston, 13 Rich. Eq. (S. Car.) 50; Gilliland v. Citadel Square Baptist Church, 33 S. Car. 164; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. White (Tenn. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 75; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Marion County, 7 Lea (Tenn.) 663;

State v. Whitworth, 8 Lea (Tenn.) 606; State v. Union, etc., Bank (Tenn. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 758; State v. Phoenix F. & M. Ins. Co. (Tenn. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 1044; State v. Memphis City Bank (Tenn. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 1045; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bate, 12 Lea (Tenn.) 573; Morris v. Lone Star Chapter, 68 Tex. 702; Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; Com. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 Va. 355; 24 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 482; Herrick v. Randolph, 13 Vt. 525; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Marshall County, 3 W. Va. 319; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeling, 3 W. Va. 373; Puget Sound Agricultural Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 88; Weston v. Shawano County, 44 Wis. 257.

1. First Church v. Linn County, 70 Iowa 396; State v. New Orleans, 40 La. Ann. 697; Louisiana, etc., Ice Co. v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 669; Welton v. Merrick County, 16 Neb. 83; Baugh v. Ryan, 51 Ala. 212; State v. Ewing, 11 Lea (Tenn.) 172.

The act of Congress, exempting from state taxation United States securities, does not apply to such securities held before the passage of the act. People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 26 N. Y. 163.

2. People v. Ryan (Ill. 1891), 27 N. E. Rep. 694; Boston Soc., etc., v. Boston, 129 Mass. 178; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Hayne, 19 Iowa 143; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Rice, 50 Md. 302; Buchanan v. Talbot County, 47 Md. 286; Greenville Ice, etc., Co. v. Greenville, 69 Miss. 86; Morris v. Lone Star Chapter, 68 Tex. 702; People v. Graceland Cemetery Co., 86 Ill. 336. See also In re Swigert, 119 Ill. 83; 59 Am. Rep. 789; 24 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 494.

One who claims exemption from an income tax on the ground that his income consists of property not liable to taxation, must affirmatively show that his income does so exist. New Orleans v. Fourchy, 30 La. Ann. 910. See also Ivens, etc., Machine Co. v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 1103.

Pleadings.—A party alleging exemption of his lands from taxation, must set out in his pleadings the facts that income, or any other fair equivalent, the rule requiring statutes creating exemptions to be strictly construed, does not apply.¹

b. LOCAL ASSESSMENTS.—A frequent illustration of the rule that exemption clauses are strictly construed, is where a local assessment is levied against property exempt generally from taxation—an exemption from general taxation not protecting property from special assessments for local improvements, such as for the repair of streets, laying of sewers, etc.² By some courts this con-exempt them. Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 32 Ark. 131.

1. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 29 Wis. 116; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 34 Wis. 271; State v. Minton, 23 N. J. L. 529; St. Paul v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 469. See also New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sabin, 26 Pa. St. 242.

2. Davis v. Gaines, 48 Ark. 370; Board of Improvements v. School Dist., 56 Ark. 354; 37 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 392; Emery v. San Francisco Gas Co., 28 Cal. 346; Taylor v. Palmer, 31 Cal. 240; People v. Austin, 47 Cal. 353; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; Williams v. Corcoran, 46 Cal. 553; Seymour v. Hartford, 21 Conn. 481; Bridgeport v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 255; 4 Am. Rep. 63; New Haven v. Fair Haven, etc., R. Co., 38 Conn. 422; 9 Am. Rep. 399; Southwestern R. Co. v. Wright, 68 Ga. 311; Atlanta v. First Presbyterian Church, 86 Ga. 730, overruling First M. E. Church v. Atlanta, 76 Ga. 181; Illinois, etc., Canal v. Chicago, 12 Ill. 403; Chicago v. Colby, 20 Ill. 614; Bank of the Republic v. Hamilton County, 21 Ill. 53; McBride v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 574; Peoria v. Kidder, 26 Ill. 351; Pleasant v. Kost, 29 Ill. 494; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Decatur, 126 Ill. 92; 37 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 395; McLean County v. Bloomington, 106 Ill. 209; Chicago v. Baptist Theological Union, 115 Ill. 245; Adams County v. Quincy, 130 Ill. 566; Bloomington Cemetery Assoc. v. People, 139 Ill. 16; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mattoon, 141 Ill. 32; Palmer v. Stumph, 29 Ind. 329; First Presbyterian Church v. Fort Wayne, 36 Ind. 338; 10 Am. Rep. 35; M. E. Church v. Ellis, 38 Ind. 5; Sioux City v. Independent School Dist., 55 Iowa 150; Paine v. Spratley, 5 Kan. 525; Broadway Baptist Church v. McAtee, 8 Bush (Ky.) 508; 8 Am. Rep. 480; Zable v. Louisville Baptist Orphans' Home, 92 Ky. 89; Kilgus v. Orphanage of the Good Shepherd

(Ky. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 750; Crowley v. Copley, 2 La. Ann. 329; Lafayette v. Male Orphan Asylum, 4 La. Ann. 1; Rooney v. Brown, 21 La. Ann. 51; Dolan v. Baltimore, 4 Gill (Md.) 394; Alexander v. Baltimore, 5 Gill (Md.) 396; Baltimore v. Green Mount Cemetery, 7 Md. 517; Boston Seaman's Friend Soc. v. Boston, 116 Mass. 181; 17 Am. Rep. 153; Worcester Agricultural Soc. v. Worcester, 116 Mass. 189; Lefevre v. Detroit, 2 Mich. 586; Grand Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Buck, 53 Miss. 246; Lockwood v. St. Louis, 24 Mo. 20; St. Louis Public Schools v. St. Louis, 26 Mo. 468; State v. Dulle, 48 Mo. 282; Egyptian Levee Co. v. Hardin, 27 Mo. 495; 72 Am. Dec. 276; Sheehan v. Good Samaritan Hospital, 50 Mo. 155; 11 Am. Rep. 412; Brewster v. Hough, 10 N. H. 138; State v. Robertson, 24 N. J. L. 504; Paterson v. Society, etc., 24 N. J. L. 385; State v. Newark, 27 N. J. L. 185; State v. Mills, 34 N. J. L. 177; 10 Am. Rep. 223; State v. Newark, 35 N. J. L. 157; State v. Jersey City, 42 N. J. L. 97; Chegary v. Jenkins, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 409; Bleecker v. Ballou, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 263; In re New York, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 77; People v. Roper, 35 N. Y. 629; Buffalo City Cemetery v. Buffalo, 46 N. Y. 506; In re St. Joseph's Asylum, 69 N. Y. 353; Roosevelt Hospital v. New York, 84 N. Y. 108; Kendrick v. Farquhar, 8 Ohio 197; Armstrong v. Athens County, 10 Ohio 235; Cincinnati College v. State, 19 Ohio 110; Lima v. Lima Cemetery Assoc., 42 Ohio St. 128; 5 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 547; 51 Am. Rep. 809; Northern Liberties v. St. Johns' Church, 13 Pa. St. 104; Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa. St. 69; Crawford v. Burrell Tp., 53 Pa. St. 220; Harvey v. South Chester, 99 Pa. St. 565; Wilkinsburg v. Home for Aged Women, 131 Pa. St. 109; Philadelphia v. Pennsylvania Hospital, 143 Pa. St. 367; Second Universalist Soc. v. Providence, 6 R. I. 235; In re College St., 8 R. I. 474; Beals v. Prov- idence Rubber Co., 11 R. I. 381; 23 Am. Rep. 472; Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Watertown (S. Dak. 1890), 44 N. W. Rep. 1072; Allen v. Galveston, 51 Tex. 302; Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Alexandria, 17 Gratt. (Va.) 176; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 599; Johnson v. Milwaukee, 40 Wis. 315; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Decatur, 147 U. S. 190.

Local Assessments Held Not to Be Included Within the Exemption.—The terms of the exemption in some of these cases, have been very broad indeed. The following general exemptions have been held not to exempt property from local assessments: "Exemption from taxation of every kind," Sheehan v. Good Samaritan Hospital, 50 Mo. 155; 11 Am. Rep. 412; so when a statute laid a tax on railroads "in lieu of all other taxes," Bridgeport v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 255; 4 Am. Rep. 63; an exemption from "taxes or assessments," State v. Newark, 35 N. J. L. 157; an exemption from "all taxes, charges, and impositions," Paterson v. Society, etc., 24 N. J. L. 385; an exemption of "all taxes of every kind except as herein provided for," Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Decatur, 126 Ill. 92; 36 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 395; an exemption from "any tax or public imposition whatever," Baltimore v. Green Mount Cemetery, 7 Md. 517; exemption from "all taxation," Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Watertown (S. Dak. 1890), 44 N. W. Rep. 1072; from "being taxed by any law of the state." In re New York, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 77. And in Buffalo City Cemetery v. Buffalo, 46 N. Y. 507, the exemption was in terms from "all public taxes, rates, and assessments," and yet this was held not to exempt from local assessment.

General Exemptions Held to Exempt from Local Assessments.—In other cases, general exemption clauses have been held broad enough to protect the property against a local assessment for improvements: thus, an exemption from "all civil imposition, taxes and rates," Harvard College v. Boston, 104 Mass. 407; Codman v. Johnson, 104 Mass. 491; "all public taxes," Mount Auburn Cemetery v. Cambridge, 150 Mass. 12; "taxes or assessments," State v. Newark, 36 N. J. L. 478; 13 Am. Rep. 464, overruling 35 N. J. L. 157 (Compare this case with the New Jersey cases cited supra, this note); "from taxation except for state purposes," Olive Cemetery Co. v. Philadelphia, 93 Pa. St. 129; 39 Am. Rep. 732. See also Erie County v. First Universalist Church, 105 Pa. St. 278; Philadelphia v. Church of St. James, 134 Pa. St. 207; Wilkinsburg v. Home for Aged Women, 131 Pa. St. 109 (Compare the Pennsylvania cases cited supra, this note); "all taxation and assessment whatever," St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. St. Paul, 21 Minn. 526; St. Paul v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 469; State v. St. Paul, 36 Minn. 529; "from taxation for any purpose whatever," Brightman v. Kirner, 22 Wis. 54.

25 C. of L.—11

In Georgia, an exemption from taxation in favor of religious societies, was held to exempt from assessments for local improvements, on the ground that they were favored by the constitution and by the general policy of the state. First M. E. Church v. Atlanta, 76 Ga. 181. This, however, was overruled by Atlanta v. First Presbyterian Church, 86 Ga. 730.

In Kentucky, it has been held that cemeteries exempt from taxation can not be subjected to local assessments. Louisville v. Nevin, 10 Bush (Ky.) 549; 19 Am. Rep. 78; Colston v. Eastern Cemetery Co. (Ky. 1891), 15 S. W. Rep. 245.

In Illinois, school property held in trust has been held to be exempt from special assessments as well as general taxation. People v. Trustees of Schools, 118 Ill. 52. See also Adams County v. Quincy, 130 Ill. 566. But compare the Illinois cases cited supra, this note.

Applicability of General Exemption Acts to Municipal Taxes.—Some courts, strictly construing exemption statutes, have held that a general exemption of the property of persons or corporations is to be confined to state taxes, and does not apply to burdens laid upon the property by a municipality. People v. Davenport, 91 N. Y. 574; 1 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 475; Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Alexandria, 17 Gratt. (Va.) 176; Dunlieth, etc., Bridge Co. v. Dubuque, 32 Iowa 427; Pacific R. Co. v. Cass County, 53 Mo. 17; Insurance Co. v. New Orleans, 1 Wood (U. S.) 85; State v. Robertson, 24 N. J. L. 504; Lexington v. Aull, 30 Mo. 486.

Thus, in Bailey v. Maguire, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 227, where a railroad company sought exemption from county and municipal taxation under a provision in its charter exempting it from state taxation, the court held the company subject to county and municipal taxation. See also Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Bourbon County, 82 Ky. 497.

struction is placed upon the ground that such an assessment is not properly a tax, but a majority hold that no other reason is necessary for confining the exemption to other taxes than assessments for benefits, than the general principle that exemptions are to be construed strictly.¹

c. RESTRICTED TO EXEMPT USES.—Where a statute exempts from taxation property devoted to religious, educational, or other purposes, or exempts the property of a corporation, the exemption will be confined in the former case to property used exclusively for such purposes; in the latter, to property necessary to the objects of the company's incorporation.² It has been held that when any part of the property is devoted to other than the

In St. Joseph v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. 476, it was held that an exemption from county and state taxes, did not exempt from city taxes.

"In Louisiana, an unqualified exemption 'from taxation during the period of fifty years' was held to imply an immunity from municipal as well as state taxes. 'When the sovereign emancipates, he does so munificently.' Per Bermudez, C. J. New Orleans v. Carondelet Canal, etc., Co., 36 La. Ann. 396. Yes, but to no greater extent than he plainly expresses." 2 Dill. Mun. Corp. (4th ed.), § 776, n.

But where the exemption was from "any charge or tax whatsoever," it was held to cover municipal as well as state taxes. Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; Gardner v. State, 21 N. J. L. 557. And so of an exemption "from all taxation of any kind except as herein provided for." Neustadt v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 31 Ill. 484. See also Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McLean County, 17 Ill. 291. And where the exemption was worded as follows: "in lieu of all taxes which may hereafter become due from said company in each year as aforesaid under any and all laws of this state," it was held to exempt from county taxes. Neary v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. (Del. 1887), 9 Atl. Rep. 405.

In Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Elizabethtown, 12 Bush (Ky.) 236, it was said: "The municipal officers of the town insist that the exemption relied on applies only to taxation by the state for the purpose of raising general revenue. The language quoted implies no exception. To 'exempt from taxation' means to exempt from all taxation imposed by the authority of the state government, whether for general or local purposes, and municipal taxation comes clearly within the spirit and import of the act under which the exemption is claimed. Johnson v. Com., 7 Dana (Ky.) 342." See also Franklin County Ct. v. Deposit Bank, 87 Ky. 370. Compare Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Bourbon County, 82 Ky. 497.

1. See cases cited in last note; see also infra, this title, Local Assessments.

2. Kendrick v. Farquhar, 8 Ohio 189; Cincinnati College v. State, 19 Ohio 110; Pierce v. Cambridge, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 611; South Congregational Meeting House v. Lowell, 1 Met. (Mass.) 538; Old South Soc. v. Boston, 127 Mass. 378; Wyman v. St. Louis, 17 Mo. 335; Washburn College v. Shawnee County, 8 Kan. 344; St. Mary's College v. Crowl, 10 Kan. 442; Vail v. Beach, 10 Kan. 214; Orr v. Baker, 4 Ind. 86; M. E. Church v. Ellis, 38 Ind. 3; Louisville v. Louisville Board of Trade, 90 Ky. 409; St. Peter's Church v. Scott County, 12 Minn. 395; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 39 Minn. 25; Ramsey County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 33 Minn. 537; Todd County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 163; 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 482; St. Paul v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 113; Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, 81 Mich. 562; Detroit Young Men's Soc. v. Detroit, 3 Mich. 172; Com. v. Mahoning, etc., Mill Co., 129 Pa. St. 360; Appeal of Com. (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 133; New Haven v. Sheffield, 30 Conn. 160; Connecticut Spiritualistic, etc., Assoc. v. East Lyme, 54 Conn. 152; State v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 54 Ga. 423; Wright v. Southwestern R. Co., 64 Ga. 783; State v. Ross, 24 N. J. L. 497; State v. Newark, 26 N. J. L. 519; State v. Haight, 31 N. J. L. 400; State v. Hancock, 35 N. J. L. 537; State v.

exempt purposes, the whole becomes taxable.¹ But the weight of authority seems to be, that there may be a due apportionment of values in the assessment, confining the exemption to so much of the value as that part of the premises used for the privileged purposes represents.²

3. Customary Exemptions—a. RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.—In many states, property of religious organizations is exempt, the exemption extending uniformly to the property of all religious sects and denominations.³ The exemption is confined to property actually,

Woodruff, 36 N. J. L. 94; State v. Love, 37 N. J. L. 60; State v. Cleaver, 46 N. J. L. 467; State v. Betts, 24 N. J. L. 555; De Soto Bank v. Memphis, 6 Baxt. (Tenn.) 415; 32 Am. Rep. 530; Vermont Cent. R. Co. v. Burlington, 28 Vt. 193; Bank of Commerce v. Tennessee, 104 U. S. 493; Frederick County v. Sisters of Charity, 48 Md. 34; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Grand Lodge, etc., 50 Md. 421; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Baltimore Academy, 50 Md. 437; State v. Board of Assessors, 34 La. Ann. 574; Armand v. Dumas, 28 La. Ann. 403; New Orleans v. Russ, 27 La. Ann. 413; Lee v. New Orleans, 28 La. Ann. 426; State v. Board of Assessors, 35 La. Ann. 668; Enaut v. McGuire, 36 La. Ann. 804; 51 Am. Rep. 14; Phillips Exeter Academy v. Exeter, 58 N. H. 306; 42 Am. Rep. 589; Morris v. Lone Star Chapter, 68 Tex. 698; First M. E. Church v. Chicago, 26 Ill. 482. In addition to these cases, many instances illustrative of the principle will be found under the subsections of this article upon Educational, Religious, Eleemosynary, etc., Exemptions.

Thus, under an exemption of property devoted to religious purposes, buildings used partly for religious and partly for secular purposes are not exempt. Detroit Young Men's Soc. v. Detroit, 3 Mich. 172.

Nor would a residence belonging to a college, when rented to one of its professors, fall within an educational exemption, although it seems it would be otherwise if the right to occupy the building formed a part of the professor's emoluments. Pierce v. Cambridge, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 611. Compare Kendrick v. Farquhar, 8 Ohio 189.

But in State v. Leester, 29 N. J. L. 541, where the charter of a library association was very full and explicit, exempting in express terms all the stocks and estate, real or personal, which should become vested in the association, the court reluctantly held that an entire building was exempt which was used only in part by the association, the remainder being leased for stores and other purposes.

Permanent Improvements upon Land.

—The exemption of lands from taxation necessarily embraces also an exemption of the permanent improvements thereon, used for the purposes contemplated in the charter of the corporation. Appeal Tax Ct. v. Baltimore Cemetery Co., 50 Md. 432; Osborne v. Humphrey, 7 Conn. 335; Landon v. Litchfield, 11 Conn. 251; Hardy v. Waltham, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 108; Matheny v. Golden, 5 Ohio St. 361; Kumler v. Traber, 5 Ohio St. 442.

1. Wyman v. St. Louis, 17 Mo. 335; Red v. Johnson, 53 Tex. 284; St. Mary's College v. Crowl, 10 Kan. 451; Morris v. Lone Star Chapter, 68 Tex. 698.

2. State v. Board of Assessors, 34 La. Ann. 574; Massenburg v. Grand Lodge, 81 Ga. 212; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Grand Lodge, etc., 50 Md. 422; Frederick County v. Sisters of Charity, 48 Md. 34; St. Joseph's Church v. Assessors of Taxes, 12 R. I. 19; 34 Am. Rep. 597; County Com'rs v. Colorado Seminary, 12 Colo. 497. And see instances given under the sub-heads, Eleemosynary, Educational, Religious Exemptions, etc.

3. New Hampshire.—In Franklin St. Soc. v. Manchester, 60 N. H. 342, it was held that the constitution of New Hampshire does not exempt church property from taxation.

In Connecticut, it has been held that society should be local in its nature. Mauresa Institute v. Norwalk, 61 Conn. 228.

Leased Property.—In Hebrew Free School Assoc. v. New York, 99 N. Y. 488, it was held that property used by a religious society, of which it was simply the lessee and not the owner, is not exempt from taxation. And so in People v. Anderson, 117 Ill. 50, where the property was owned by an individual.

exclusively, and directly used for religious purposes, and cannot be extended to that used for secular objects.¹ Thus, a general exemption of property devoted to religious purposes does not exempt a parsonage.² When a church ceases to be used as a place

See also Salem Marine Soc. v. Salem, 155 Mass. 329. But see Howell v. City, 1 Leg. Gaz. (Pa.) 242, where a leased church was held exempt.

In New York, it has been held that it is only an incorporated society that is entitled to exemption. Church of St. Monica v. New York, 119 N. Y. 91.

Exemption of Church Property Purchased After Assessment.—Property held not exempt for the current year. First Congregational Church v. Linn County, 70 Iowa 396.

A Jewish synagogue has been held entitled to the exemption. Shaarai Berocho v. New York (Supreme Ct.), 18 N. Y. Supp. 792.

1. Trinity Church v. New York, 10 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 138; Congregation v. New York (Supreme Ct.), 1 N. Y. Supp. 35; Young Men's Christian Assoc. v. New York, 113 N. Y. 187; Gibbons v. District of Columbia, 116 U. S. 404; 11 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 492; Lefevre v. Detroit, 2 Mich. 586; Mulroy v. Churchman, 60 Iowa 717; Kirk v. St. Thomas' Church, 70 Iowa 287; Frederick County v. Sisters of Charity, 48 Md. 41; Connecticut Spiritualist, etc., Assoc. v. East Lyme, 54 Conn. 152; Mauresa Institute v. Norwalk, 61 Conn. 228; Green Bay, etc., Canal Co. v. Outagamie County, 76 Wis. 587; Old South Soc. v. Boston, 127 Mass. 379.

Thus, where part of a building is rented for other purposes, it is taxable, though the profits be applied to religious purposes. First M. E. Church v. Chicago, 26 Ill. 482; Orr v. Baker, 4 Ind. 86; South Congregational Meeting House v. Lowell, 1 Met. (Mass.) 538. So land separated from the lot upon which the church edifice stands and not necessary to the use of the church, is not exempt. Boston Soc., etc., v. Boston, 129 Mass. 178; Gibbons v. District of Columbia, 116 U. S. 404; 11 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 492.

Personal Property.—Money invested in bonds is not exempt, though the income is applied to the support of the church. Presbyterian Church v. Montgomery County, 3 Grant's Cas. (Pa.) 245; Appeal Tax Ct. v. St. Peter's Academy, 50 Md. 345. But in Atwater v. Woodbridge, 6 Conn. 223; 16 Am.

Dec. 46, it was held that such money was exempt under the wording of the Connecticut statute. See, however, First Ecclesiastical Soc. v. Hartford, 38 Conn. 278. And so in New Jersey, State v. Silverthorn, 52 N. J. L. 73, where a mortgage held by a church as security was held exempt.

An occasional secular use will not deprive the property of its exemption. St. Mary's Church v. Tripp, 14 R. I. 307; Ramsey County v. Church of the Good Shepherd, 45 Minn. 229.

Land upon which a church is erecting, or intends immediately to erect, a house of worship, is exempt. Trinity Church v. Boston, 118 Mass. 164; Washington, etc., Church v. New York, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 297; St. James Church v. New York, 41 Hun (N. Y.) 309. But in Pennsylvania, it has been held otherwise. Erie County v. Bishop, 13 Phila. (Pa.) 509; Mullen v. Erie County, 85 Pa. St. 288. And in Massachusetts, the work must have been begun upon the church edifice to entitle it to the exemption. Boston Soc., etc., v. Boston, 129 Mass. 182.

Janitor Residing on Premises.—Where a janitor resided on the premises, paying no rent, the property was still held entitled to the exemption under the New York statute. Shaarai Berocho v. New York (Supreme Ct.), 18 N. Y. Supp. 792. But where the basement of a synagogue was used for baths, the synagogue deriving profit from them, the property was held not exempt. Congregation v. New York (Supreme Ct.), 1 N. Y. Supp. 35.

2. St. Peter's Church v. Scott County, 12 Minn. 395; Hennepin County v. Grace, 27 Minn. 503; St. Mark's Church v. Brunswick, 78 Ga. 541; Gerke v. Purcell, 25 Ohio St. 229; State v. Axtell, 41 N. J. L. 117; State v. Lyon, 32 N. J. L. 360; State v. Krollman, 38 N. J. L. 574; M. E. Church v. Ellis, 38 Ind. 3; First Presbyterian Church v. New Orleans, 30 La. Ann. 259; 31 Am. Rep. 224. And this is true though religious services are held in the parsonage. Ramsey County v. Church of the Good Shepherd, 45 Minn. 229; St. Joseph's Church v. Assessors of Taxes, 12 R. I. 19; 34 Am. Rep. 597.

of religious worship, its exemption from taxation ipso facto ceases.¹ Sometimes the salaries of ministers of the gospel are exempt in whole or in part from taxation.²

b. EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.—In general, an exemption of educational institutions from taxation will not be extended to school property used for private gain merely, and entirely devoid of a public or charitable character.³ And in some states the exemption applies only to those schools which are established, maintained, and regulated by the state.⁴ Ordinarily, however, the property of schools or colleges which are not established or maintained with the object of private or corporate gain, is exempt.⁵ The mere use or occupancy for school or educational purposes of the property of a private owner, sustaining merely the relation of lessor to a school or seminary, does not create an exemption in his favor.⁶ Unless the terms of the statute Bishop's Residence.—In Vail v. Beach, 10 Kan. 214, a bishop's residence owned by the diocese was held not exempt. But in Bishop's Residence v. Hudson, 91 Mo. 671, the bishop's house was held exempt as used for purposes purely charitable.

Parsonage Held Exempt.—If, however the legislative intent to include parsonages within the exemption can be clearly shown, they will, of course, be exempt. See Gray v. La Fayette County, 65 Wis. 567.

1. Moore v. Taylor, 147 Pa. St. 481; New Haven v. Sheffield, 30 Conn. 160; Lord v. Litchfield, 36 Conn. 116; 4 Am. Rep. 41; Old South Soc. v. Boston, 127 Mass. 378. See also Black v. Brooklyn, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 581.

2. As to what ministers are entitled to these exemptions, see Prosser v. Secor, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 607; People v. Peterson, 31 Hun (N. Y.) 421; Com. v. Cuyler, 5 W. & S. (Pa.) 275; Miller v. Kirkpatrick, 29 Pa. St. 226; Ruggles v. Kimball, 12 Mass. 337; Gridley v. Clark, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 403; Plumer v. Com., 3 Gratt. (Va.) 615.

3. Henderson v. McCullagh, 89 Ky. 448; Chicago University v. People, 118 Ill. 565; Nashville v. Ward, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 27; Gerke v. Purcell, 25 Ohio St. 229; Indianapolis v. McLean, 8 Ind. 328; Chegaray v. New York, 13 N. Y. 220; Montgomery v. Wyman, 130 Ill. 17. But in Minnesota a private institution has been held exempt under a general exemption of institutions of learning. Nelson v. Stryker Seminary (Minn. 1893), 53 N. W. Rep. 1133. In State v. Ross, 24 N. J. L. 497, it was held that under the New Jersey statute as it was then, a private institution was entitled to exemption; but under the present statute, unless school buildings are rented by the owner they are exempt. State v. Chamberlain (N. J. 1893), 26 Atl. Rep. 913.

So in Indianapolis v. Sturdevant, 24 Ind. 391, it was held that a school conducted as a private enterprise was exempt under the general exemption of institutions of learning. Compare the earlier case of Indianapolis v. McLean, 8 Ind. 328.

4. Association of Colored Orphans v. New York, 104 N. Y. 581; 18 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 186. See also People v. Ryan (Ill. 1891), 27 N. E. Rep. 694. So where the exemption was of "buildings for free public schools," it was held not to include parochial schools furnishing gratuitous instruction. St. Joseph's Church v. Assessor of Taxes, 12 R. I. 19; 34 Am. Rep. 597.

5. Protestant Episcopal Church v. Taylor, 15 Pa. St. 565; Dickinson College v. Cumberland County, 2 Pa. Dist. Rep. 70; Northampton County v. Lafayette College (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 516; Wesleyan Academy v. Wilbraham, 99 Mass. 599; Griswold College v. State, 46 Iowa 275; Detroit Home, etc., School v. Detroit, 76 Mich. 521; Hennepin County v. Grace, 27 Minn. 503; Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 216.

Medical Colleges.—In Omaha Medical College v. Rush, 22 Neb. 449, a medical college was held a school, and as such, entitled to the Nebraska exemption. Compare People v. Campbell, 93 N. Y. 196.

6. People v. Board of Assessors, 32 are explicit to the contrary,¹ a general exemption of the property of educational institutions will be confined to property actually and exclusively used by the institution for its legitimate purposes.² If the property is used for other purposes, the fact

Hun (N. Y.) 457; aff'd, 97 N. Y. 648; Hennepin County v. Bell, 43 Minn. 344; Montgomery v. Wyman, 130 Ill. 17; Armand v. Dumas, 28 La. Ann. 403. Compare Nazareth Literary, etc., Institute v. Com., 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 266.

In Laurent v. Muscatine, 59 Iowa 404, it is held that where the legal title is in a private individual, the property is not exempt from taxation as a school.

Personal Property.—In Williston Seminary v. Hampshire County, 147 Mass. 427, it was held that the exemption of the personal property of the seminary of learning from taxation, included all personal property belonging to state institutions, whether in or out of possession; and that, where property is bequeathed to a seminary of learning to be held in trust as an accumulating fund, the right of interest of the seminary therein is properly described as its property, and is exempt from taxation.

The Missouri exemption has been held not to extend to personal property not fixtures. Kansas v. Kansas City Medical College, 111 Mo. 141.

1. Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202; University of the South v. Skidmore, 87 Tenn. 155. The charter of a university provided that "all corporate property belonging to the institution, both real and personal, is, and shall be, free from taxation." It was held that this exempted all property which the university might lawfully acquire, whether actually used and occupied by it or not. State v. Hamline University (Minn. 1891), 48 N. W. Rep. 1119.

The property, situated in Nashville, of the Davidson Academy, incorporated in 1785, and exempted for ninety-nine years from taxation, is exempt in the hands of those holding by purchase from the trustees. State v. Whitworth, 8 Lea (Tenn.) 594.

2. Cincinnati College v. State, 19 Ohio 110; St. James Educational Institute v. Salem, 153 Mass. 185; Wyman v. St. Louis, 17 Mo. 335; Washburn College v. Shawnee County, 8 Kan. 344; Ottawa University v. Franklin County (Kan. 1892), 29 Pac. Rep. 599; County Com'rs v. Colorado Seminary, 12 Colo. 497; State v. Ross, 24 N. J. L.

497; State v. Board of Assessors, 36 La. Ann. 347. Compare Northwestern University v. People, 99 U. S. 309; State v. New Brunswick (N. J. 1892), 25 Atl. Rep. 853; Ramsey County v. Macalester College, 51 Minn. 437; St. Edward's College v. Morris, 82 Tex. 1; Stewart v. Davis, 3 Murph. (N. Car.) 244; Presbyterian Theological Seminary v. People, 101 Ill. 578.

Where buildings are exempt, the land upon which they stand is also exempt. Cassiano v. Ursuline Academy, 64 Tex. 673.

Lease of School Building.—A lease of the school building during vacation will not subject it to taxation. Temple Grove Seminary v. Cramer, 26 Hun (N. Y.) 309; aff'd 98 N. Y. 121.

Farms.—Farms, the products of which are used for the support of the school, have been held not exempt in the following cases: St. Edward's College v. Morris, 82 Tex. 1; Thiel College v. Mercer County, 101 Pa. St. 530; St. Mary's College v. Crowl, 10 Kan. 442. In the latter case, some of the products were sold, and the court intimated that but for that, the farm might have been exempt.

In Wesleyan Academy v. Wilbraham, 99 Mass. 599; People v. Barber, 42 Hun (N. Y.) 27; Monticello Female Seminary v. People, 106 Ill. 398; 46 Am. Rep. 702; and State v. Fisk University, 87 Tenn. 233, a different conclusion was arrived at in view of the exemption statutes under consideration, and farms used by schools and colleges for the support of the institution, and the pleasure and improvement of the pupils, were held exempt.

Use or Ownership the Test.—The use to which the property is put, not the ownership, is the test by which to determine whether it is exempt. Washburn College v. Shawnee County, 8 Kan. 344; St. Mary's College v. Crowl, 10 Kan. 442; Phillips Exeter Academy v. Exeter, 58 N. H. 306; 42 Am. Rep. 589. But in Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202, it was held that ownership, not use, was the test under the Vermont statute.

Professors' Residences.—In Hendrick v. Farquhar, 8 Ohio 189, and Pierce v. Cambridge, 2 Cush. (Mass.) 611, a pro-that the proceeds of such use are devoted to carrying out the objects of the institution is immaterial.¹

c. ELEEMOSYNARY INSTITUTIONS.—The property of charitable associations is generally exempt from taxation; but only so far as actually used for charitable purposes.² That the rents and revenues of property are devoted to charitable purposes does not render the property itself exempt; it is only when the property

fessor's residence erected on the land of the institution of learning was held not exempt. In the latter case it was intimated that if the college had not rented the house to the professor, but had permitted him to occupy it in part return for his services, it would have been exempt; and it was held in Northampton County v. Lafayette College (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 516; Griswold College v. State, 46 Iowa 275; and so in State v. Ross, 24 N. J. L. 497; Ramsey County v. Macalester College, 51 Minn. 437, that professors' residences owned by the college were exempt.

Use of Part of the Building as a Residence for Teachers.—A building used by the owner as a family residence, was held not exempt as one used exclusively for school purposes, although the main building was a school, and the owner and family were all engaged in the school as teachers or pupils. Red v. Johnson, 53 Tex. 284. But see Red v. Morris, 72 Tex. 554, where the same property, under slightly different circumstances, was held exempt.

And the occupation of the top floor of a building, otherwise entirely devoted to furnishing instruction to scholars, by teachers having immediate charge of the school, will not deprive it of the exemption. St. Monica v. New York, 55 N. Y. Super. Ct. 160. See also Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202.

In Blackman v. Houston, 39 La. Ann. 592, it was held that the fact that the owner and principal of a school lives upon the premises with his family, does not forfeit the property's right to exemption.

Dormitories and Boarding Houses.—In Northampton County v. Lafayette College (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 516, the college dormitories were held exempt. And see Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202, where certain buildings occupied as a students' boarding-house, professor's residence, and students' club-house were held exempt.

1. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 202; Cincinnati College v. State, 19 Ohio

110; Cleveland Library Assoc. v. Pelton, 36 Ohio St. 253; Wagner's Free Inst., etc., Appeal, 116 Pa. St. 555; 18 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 193; Ottawa University v. Franklin County (Kan. 1892), 29 Pac. Rep. 599; Brodie v. Fitzgerald, 57 Ark. 445; State v. Board of Assessors, 35 La. Ann. 668; State v. Ross, 24 N. J. L. 497; County Com'rs v. Colorado Seminary, 12 Colo. 497; Salem Lyceum v. Salem, 154 Mass. 15.

But in North St. Louis Gymnastic Soc. v. Hudson, 12 Mo. App. 342; aff'd 85 Mo. 32, a school building exempted from taxation "so long as it is used only for the purposes of education," was held not to be made taxable by the renting of a room therein for other purposes, where the proceeds thereof were used exclusively for the benefit of the school.

The charter of a school provided that it might "receive, hold, or convey any estate, real or personal, that may be conveyed to it, or that it now possesses, and said property while so used for the promotion of science, shall be free from taxation." This was held to include property, the income of which alone was used by the school. New Haven v. Sheffield Scientific School, 59 Conn. 163.

2. Massenburg v. Grand Lodge, 81 Ga. 212; People v. Board of Assessors, 27 Hun (N. Y.) 559; Young Men's Christian Assoc. v. Donohugh, 13 Phila. (Pa.) 12; Baltimore v. Grand Lodge, 60 Md. 280; Frederick County v. Sisters of Charity, 48 Md. 34; Morris v. Lone Star Chapter, 68 Tex. 698; Detroit Young Men's Soc. v. Detroit, 3 Mich. 172; Philadelphia v. Ladies, etc., Soc., 12 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 346.

An intention at some future time to occupy the land is not sufficient. Boston Soc., etc., v. Boston, 129 Mass. 178. See also Enaut v. McGuire, 36 La. Ann. 804; 51 Am. Rep. 14. So disused property is subject to taxation. Philadelphia v. Jewish Hospital Assoc. (Pa. 1892), 23 Atl. Rep. 1135.

itself is actually and directly used for charitable purposes that the law exempts it from taxation.¹

The terms of the exemption vary in the different states. In some it extends only to institutions of "purely public charity,"² in others, to "property used exclusively for charitable purposes;" while in some the exemption is broader, extending

1. New Orleans v. St. Anna's Asylum, 31 La. Ann. 292; New Orleans v. Congregation, etc., of Judah, 15 La. Ann. 390; State v. Board of Assessors, 34 La. Ann. 574; Appeal Tax Ct. v. St. Peter's Academy, 50 Md. 321; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Grand Lodge, etc., 50 Md. 421; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Baltimore Academy, 50 Md. 437; Redemptorists v. Howard County, 50 Md. 449; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Regents of University of Maryland, 50 Md. 457; Fort Des Moines Lodge v. Polk County, 56 Iowa 34; Chapel of the Good Shepherd v. Boston, 120 Mass. 212; Indianapolis v. Grand Master, 25 Ind. 518; Cleveland Library Assoc. v. Pelton, 36 Ohio St. 258; Morris v. Lone Star Chapter, 68 Tex. 698. Compare New Orleans Female Orphan Asylum v. Houston, 37 La. Ann. 68. But see People v. Purdy, (Supreme Ct.), 12 N. Y. Supp. 307, and Mt. Hermon Boys' School v. Gill, 145 Mass. 139, where farms, the products of which were used in the charitable institutions, were held exempt. And see also State v. Chat-ham Tp., 52 N. J. L. 373.

2. What Institutions are Purely of Public Charity.—A hospital maintained by voluntary gifts, and not conducted for profit, though some of the patients pay, was held an institution of purely public charity, in Philadelphia v. Pennsylvania Hospital, 8 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 72; aff'd 154 Pa. St. 9; Hennepin County v. Gethsemane Brotherhood, 27 Minn. 460; 38 Am. Rep. 298; Hennepin County v. Grace, 27 Minn. 503; State v. Powers, 10 Mo. App. 263; Applications Against Certain Lots (Minn. 1881), 8 N. W. Rep. 595. See also Philadelphia v. Women's Christian Assoc., 125 Pa. St. 572; and compare In re Vanderbilt's Estate (Surrogate's Ct.), 10 N. Y. Supp. 239. But a hospital long disused is not exempt. Philadelphia v. Jewish Hospital Assoc. (Pa. 1892), 23 Atl. Rep. 1135. An orphan asylum, Burd Orphan Asylum v. School Dist., 90 Pa. St. 21; an asylum for destitute men and women, Humphries v. Little Sisters of the Poor, 29 Ohio St. 201; Gerke v. Purcell, 25

Ohio St. 229; Cincinnati College v. State, 19 Ohio 111; St. Anna's Asylum v. New Orleans, 105 U. S. 362; a parochial school, Hennepin County v. Grace, 27 Minn. 503; and a church publishing house, Book Agents, etc. v. Hinton (Tenn. 1893), 21 S. W. Rep. 321, have been held institutions of purely public charity; and so a public library, Donohugh's Appeal, 86 Pa. St. 306; Cleveland Library Assoc. v. Pelton, 36 Ohio St. 253; though it is otherwise where the benefits are confined to its members. Delaware County Inst. v. Delaware County, 94 Pa. St. 163.

What are Not Institutions of Purely Public Charity.—In Illinois, it has been held that the statute of that state exempting such institutions, applies only to corporations created under the laws of Illinois. People v. Western Seaman's Friend Soc., 87 Ill. 246.

Lands devised to trustees to appropriate the annual products to the erection of a poorhouse and the support of its inmates, are not exempt. Academy of Richmond v. Bohler (Ga. 1887), 7 S. E. Rep. 633.

An academy supported by tuition fees, though free scholarships are established with part of its surplus income, Philadelphia's Appeal (Pa. 1888), 15 Atl. Rep. 683; and an incorporated college, whose chief object is to furnish education at a reasonable rate, but without granting absolutely free tuition, and into which neither the public nor any class has an absolute right of admission, are not exempt. Thiel College v. Mercer County, 101 Pa. St. 530; Northampton County v. Lafayette College (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 516.

Charities Confined to a Class—Mutual Benefit Associations.—The question whether an association which confines its benefits only to its own members or a particular class, is a purely public charity, is a subject of conflict. In Ohio, in Morning Star Lodge v. Hayslip, 23 Ohio St. 144, it was held not to be. So in Pennsylvania, in Delaware County Inst. v. Delaware County, 94 Pa. St. 163, an institute of science which con-to all the property of "charitable" or "benevolent" associations. A number of cases construing statutes will be found in the notes.¹

d. CEMETERIES—(See also CEMETERIES, vol. 3, p. 56).—Cemetery property is very generally exempt from taxation by charter fining its benefits to its own members, was held not a purely public charity. See also Donohugh's Appeal, 86 Pa. St. 306, where it is said: "The essential features of a public charity are that it is not confined to privileged individuals, but is open to the indefinite public. It is this indefinite, unrestricted quality that gives it its public character." But in Burd Orphan Asylum v. School Dist., 90 Pa. St. 21, a divided court held an orphan asylum, which preferred children of a certain denomination, though admitting all, to be a purely public charity. Compare Babb v. Reed, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 151; 28 Am. Dec. 650.

A masonic lodge was said not to be a purely public charity in Bangor v. Masonic Lodge, 73 Me. 428; 40 Am. Rep. 369. And see Massenburg v. Grand Lodge, 81 Ga. 212.

1. Masonic lodges have been held entitled to exemption from taxation as charities, under the statutes of several of the states. Savannah v. Solomon's Lodge, 53 Ga. 93; Indianapolis v. Grand Master, 25 Ind. 518; State v. Board of Assessors, 34 La. Ann. 574; State v. Addison, 2 S. Car. 499.

But it was held otherwise in Bangor v. Masonic Lodge, 73 Me. 428; 40 Am. Rep. 369. And see Massenburg v. Grand Lodge, 81 Ga. 212.

Mutual benefit insurance associations have been held not entitled to exemption as charitable organizations in Matter of Jones' Estate, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 603; Lee Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. State, 60 Miss. 395. But the Virginia court arrived at a different conclusion in Petersburg v. Petersburg Ben., etc., Assoc., 78 Va. 431; 8 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 484. As to whether they are "purely public charities," see the preceding note.

"Charitable" and Benevolent Institutions.—"It may be difficult to say what a 'benevolent institution' is if it differs from one that is merely charitable." Maine Baptist, etc., Convention v. Portland, 65 Me. 92. See also Saltonstall v. Sanders, 11 Allen (Mass.) 446; Chamberlain v. Stearns, 111 Mass. 267. Compare Thomson v. Norris, 20 N. J. Eq. 524.

A society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is a benevolent and charitable institution within the Massachusetts statutes exempting such institutions from taxation. Massachusetts Soc. v. Boston, 142 Mass. 24.

A biblical institute supported entirely by donations, is a benevolent institution, and is exempt under the statute. Appeal Tax Ct. v. Grand Lodge, etc., 50 Md. 442.

Vacant lots bought by the authorities of a church and held in private ownership in anticipation of the increase of the city and with the intention of possibly erecting thereon a church, school, or hospital when needed, were not exempt from taxation as a place of "public worship" or a "charitable institution." Enaut v. McGuire, 36 La. Ann. 804; 51 Am. Rep. 14. See also Boston Soc., etc. v. Boston, 129 Mass. 178.

Missionary Societies.—It has been repeatedly decided that missionary societies, foreign or domestic, are, in a legal sense, charitable institutions. Maine Baptist, etc., Convention v. Portland, 65 Me. 92; Tappan v. Dubois, 45 Me. 122; Preachers' Aid Soc. v. Rich, 45 Me. 552; Everett v. Carr, 59 Me. 325; Bartlet v. King, 12 Mass. 537; 7 Am. Dec. 99; Sohier v. St. Paul's Church, 12 Met. (Mass.) 250; First Universalist Soc. v. Fitch, 8 Gray (Mass.) 421; Jackson v. Phillips, 14 Allen (Mass.) 539; Fairbanks v. Lamson, 99 Mass. 533; Going v. Emery, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 107; 26 Am. Dec. 645.

Almshouses.—In Association for Colored Orphans v. New York, 104 N. Y. 581; 18 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 146, it was held that the New York statute exempting almshouses, was not confined to almshouses owned by the public. And in Western Dispensary v. New York (Super. Ct.), 4 N. Y. Supp. 547, the building of an association extending gratuitous medical and surgical aid, and used as a hospital for the indigent sick, was held an almshouse. And see also New York Infant Asylum v. Westchester County, 31 Hun (N. Y.) 116; People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 311. Compare In re Van- or general law. It has been held that the exemption of a cemetery includes land within its boundaries acquired for burial purposes, though not actually used therefor;¹ and also the improvements on land held for cemetery purposes.²

c. RAILROADS.—It has been said that the property necessary to the operation of a railroad is not subject to taxation, even though there is no express exemption of such property in the charter of the corporation or in any general law; this upon the ground that a railroad is a public work and is exempt upon general principles applicable to all public property.³ But this implied exemption has been denied, and cannot be said to be sustained either by reason or authority.⁴

The exemption, whether express or implied, is confined to prop-derbilt's Estate (Surr. Ct.), 10 N. Y. Supp. 242.

A social club was held entitled to the exemption under the Missouri statute. State v. Lesueur (Mo. 1890), 13 S. W. Rep. 237.

Property Held in Trust.—Where a statute exempted the property of a charitable or scientific institution from taxation, it was held that the exemption did not apply to property held in trust by such an institution for an object foreign to the purposes of its incorporation. Salem Marine Soc. v. Salem, 155 Mass. 329.

Leased ground occupied by a charitable corporation, although for its charitable purposes, is not exempt, even though the lease provides that the lessees (the corporation) shall pay the taxes. Humphries v. Little Sisters of the Poor, 29 Ohio St. 201.

An Exemption from Local Taxation will not Exempt Property from State Taxes.—By a special act the Christian Home for Intemperate Men is exempted from local taxation or other purposes. This has been held not to exempt it from state taxation; and, therefore, a bequest to the institution is subject to the succession tax. In re Vanderbilt's Estate (Surr. Ct.), 10 N. Y. Supp. 240.

1. State v. North Bergen, 43 N. J. L. 146. But in People v. Graceland Cemetery Co., 86 Ill. 337, property not used for burial purposes was held not entitled to exemption. And so ground rented to a sexton to use as a residence and garden, was held not exempt. State v. Lange, 16 Mo. App. 468.

In Mulroy v. Churchman, 60 Iowa 717, it was held that an appropriation of one acre in forty to burial purposes, would not give exemption to the whole tract. But in Pennsylvania, where the cemetery is used as a source of profit, it is not exempt. Brown v. Pittsburgh (Pa. 1888), 16 Atl. Rep. 43. So a mere dedication or appropriation on paper is not enough. Woodlawn Cemetery v. Everett, 118 Mass. 354.

Where a city had authorized land to be used as a cemetery, but before any interments were made the ordinance was revoked, the land was still held exempt under the New York statute, it being of such a character that it could not be used for other purposes. People v. Pratt, 129 N. Y. 68.

2. Appeal Tax Ct. v. Baltimore Cemetery Co., 50 Md. 432, where a corporation, in addition to its cemetery lands proper, had acquired old burial grounds with the intention of selling them to increase its funds, it was held that such grounds were exempt from taxation under the general exemption of "all property." Swan Point Cemetery v. Tripp, 14 R. I. 199.

3. See Worcester v. Western R. Co., 4 Met. (Mass.) 564; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 237; Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 1 Allen (Mass.) 199; Worcester County v. Worcester, 116 Mass. 193; 17 Am. Rep. 159; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Lowell, etc., R. Co., 124 Mass. 368; Railroad v. Berks County, 6 Pa. St. 70; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Sabin, 26 Pa. St. 242; Shamokin Valley R. Co. v. Livermore, 47 Pa. St. 465; 86 Am. Dec. 552; Schuylkill Bridge Co. v. Fralley, 13 S. & R. (Pa.) 422; State v. Middle Tp., 38 N. J. L. 270; Vermont Cent. R. Co. v. Burlington, 28 Vt. 193.

4. People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 82 N. Y. 460; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Spearman, 12 Iowa 112; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McLean County, 17 Ill. 296; Louisville, etc., Canal Co. v. Com., 7 B.

erty reasonably necessary for the purposes of the corporation,¹

Mon. (Ky.) 160; Ludlow v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 78 Ky. 357; 7 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 231; Cumberland Marine R. Co. v. Portland, 37 Me. 444; overruling Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 21 Me. 533; Providence, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 2 R. I. 459; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Bayless, 2 Gill (Md.) 355; Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Alexandria, 17 Gratt. (Va.) 176; Northern Indiana R. Co. v. Connelly, 10 Ohio St. 160; 2 Redfield on the Law of Railways, 394. See also Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 80.

1. Worcester v. Western R. Co., 4 Met. (Mass.) 564; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 237; McCulloch v. Stone, 64 Miss. 378; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Moseley, 52 Miss. 127; Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 68 Miss. 29; Railroad v. Berks County, 6 Pa. St. 70; Shamokin Valley R. Co. v. Livermore, 47 Pa. St. 465; 86 Am. Dec. 552; Erie County v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 87 Pa. St. 437; Eldridge v. Smith, 34 Vt. 484; State v. Fuller, 40 N. J. L. 328; State v. Mansfield, 23 N. J. L. 510; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Neary (Del. 1886), 8 Atl. Rep. 363; Wright v. Southwestern R. Co., 64 Ga. 733; Bibb County v. Central R. Co., 40 Ga. 646; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Loftin, 30 Ark. 693; Day v. Joiner, 6 Baxt. (Tenn.) 441; Ford v. Delta, etc., Land Co., 43 Fed. Rep. 181; Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Alamance County, 76 N. Car. 212; 84 N. Car. 504; 7 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 339; Belo v. Forsyth County, 82 N. Car. 415; 33 Am. Rep. 688; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 29 Wis. 116; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 34 Wis. 271; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 48 Md. 49; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Lafayette, 22 Ind. 262; St. Louis County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 45 Minn. 510; Ramsey County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 33 Minn. 537; Todd County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 163; 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 482; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. St. Paul (Minn. 1888), 38 N. W. Rep. 925.

Distinction Between Essential Property and that of Mere Convenience.—It has been held that property to be exempt must be essential to the corporation in the conduct of its business, and not a mere convenience. State v. Mansfield, 23 N. J. L. 510; Gardner v. State, 21 N. J. L. 557; Worcester v.

Western R. Co., 4 Met. (Mass.) 564; Vermont Cent. R. Co. v. Burlington, 28 Vt. 193; Lehigh Coal, etc., Co. v. Northampton County, 8 W. & S. (Pa.) 334; Railroad v. Berks County, 6 Pa. St. 70; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Irvin, 72 Ill. 452; Todd County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 163; 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 482.

In State v. Newark, 26 N. J. L. 520, it is said: "The necessary appendages of a railroad and transportation company are one thing, and their appendages which may be convenient means of increasing the advantages and profits of the company, are another thing." But compare State v. Hancock, 35 N. J. L. 545, disapproving State v. Mansfield, 23 N. J. L. 510. See also State v. Leggett, 41 N. J. L. 319; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 29 Wis. 116.

In determining whether particular property of a railroad company is "necessarily used in operating the road" so as to be exempt under the statute, the question is whether its use is requisite for the full performance of the duty which the company owes to the public as a common carrier. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 34 Wis. 271.

Canal Property.—As to what canal property has been held necessary to the operation of the canal, see Wayne County v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 15 Pa. St. 351.

Steamboats.—In Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Irvin, 72 Ill. 452, steamboats were held not essential to the operation of the road, and, therefore, not exempt. Compare Osborn v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 40 Conn. 498. In State v. Haight, 34 N. J. L. 319, boats used by the company were held essential.

Hotels owned by the railroad and used as a summer resort, are not exempt. State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 48 Md. 49; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. (Minn. 1889), 44 N. W. Rep. 63. In Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 48 Wis. 666, it was held that a building used principally for the accommodation of the company's travelers, was exempt under the statute. In Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 29 Wis. 116, an inn was held not exempt, although it was intimated that if it had been kept exclusively for the accommodation of travelers on the road it would have been.

and sometimes to such as is actually used therefor.¹ And it

Short spurs and steam shovels were held exempt in Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 68 Miss. 361. And in State v. Hancock, 35 N. J. L. 537, reversing 33 N. J. L. 315, it was held that a short spur and the gravel land to which it led were exempt.

Branch Roads.—The charter of a railroad provided that the road and its appurtenances should be taxed at a certain rate, and that it would be exempt from other taxation. This was held to extend to a branch road. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 15 Fla. 637. But in Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Alsbrook, 146 U. S. 279; 53 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 687, it was held that the exemption of the main line was not extended to branch roads. Both of these cases turned, however, upon the peculiar wording of the charters and the exemption clauses.

Section Houses.—These were held exempt in Mississippi. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Bradley, 66 Miss. 518.

Elevators.—In Detroit Union Depot, etc., Co. v. Detroit, 88 Mich. 347, and State v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 86 Tenn. 438, elevators were held necessary to the operation of the railroad. But in Re Swigert, 119 Ill. 83; 59 Am. Rep. 789; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 137, and Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 34 Wis. 271, a different conclusion was arrived at.

A warehouse used principally for the storage of freight, has been held exempt. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 34 Wis. 273. Compare Berks County v. Railroad Co., 6 Pa. St. 70.

Freight and passenger depots have been held exempt as necessary to the enjoyment of the franchise of the company. Northampton Co. v. Lehigh Coal, etc., Co., 75 Pa. St. 461; Berks County v. Railroad Co., 6 Pa. St. 70. But in Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Saco, 60 Me. 196, it was held that where the exemption was limited to "the track of the road and the land on which it is constructed," railroad depots were not within the exemption.

Right of Way.—An exemption of the "right of way" of a railroad, has been held to include roadbeds, stations, workshops, etc., constructed thereon. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Carland, 5 Mont. 146. But in Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Lesueur (Arizona, 1888), 37 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 368, this exemption was held not to include the superstructure or improvements. See also Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Yavapia County (Arizona, 1889), 39 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 543.

In Republican Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Chase County, 33 Neb. 759; 48 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 641, a right of way upon which there was no superstructure, was held subject to assessments under the Nebraska statute. For the construction of an exemption of a "right of way," see Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Almannac, 84 N. Car. 504. See also Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 98 Ill. 351; 5 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 94.

Timber Lands.—In Todd County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 168; 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 482, timber lands owned by the company, and furnishing ties and timber for the road, were held not exempt.

Logs Cut For Sale Upon Exempt Lands.—In State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 39 Minn. 25, it was held that logs cut from the exempt land of a railroad company, were not themselves exempt.

Water stations have been held exempt. Berks County v. Railroad Co., 6 Pa. St. 70.

"Road, rolling and live stock," will not include the shops, stables, etc., of a street railway company. Atlanta St. R. Co. v. Atlanta, 66 Ga. 104.

"Wood yards and machine shops" were held not exempt in Berks County v. Railroad Co., 6 Pa. St. 70.

Real Estate.—Under a general exemption of all the property of a railroad, the real estate of a railroad was held exempt. Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; Com. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 Va. 355; 24 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 482.

Franchises of the Corporation Held to be Exempt under a General Exemption of the Property of the Railroad.—Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 264; Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 269; Pacific R. Co. v. Maguire, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 44; State v. Berry, 17 N. J. L. 80; Camden, etc., R. Co. v. Hillegas, 18 N. J. L. 11; Camden, etc., R. Co. v. Com'rs of Appeal, 18 N. J. L. 71. See also Nichols v. New Haven, etc., Co., 42 Conn. 103. But an exemption of the roadbed, etc., does not exempt the franchise. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Commissioners, 87 N. Car. 129.

1. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Mil-

has been held that the property of a railroad, which is entitled to exemption, is only such as is within the limit of the land which the corporation is authorized to take by proceedings in invitum under the power of eminent domain.¹

If property is designed for the appropriate business of a railroad company, and is primarily and mainly so used, it does not become subject to taxation by reason of incidental and occasional use for other purposes.² But it has been held, where the language of the exempting clause was very broad, that all property of the corporation was exempt from taxation, whether used for railroad purposes or not.³

Sometimes, public lands granted to railroads are exempted from taxation until "sold and conveyed;" and a contract to con-waukee, 34 Wis. 271; State v. Leggett, 41 N. J. L. 319; Pierce on Railroads 484.

In Ramsey County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 33 Minn. 539, land not occupied by the railroad, but by private parties with its consent, was held not exempt, though likely to become necessary in the future for railroad purposes.

The doctrine in New Jersey has been thus summed up: Lands held by a corporation for future, but already contemplated, use, but which are, in the meantime, let to individuals for use, are taxable; lands held for future use, such use being, however, at present actually contemplated, are taxable, although vacant and unoccupied; lands acquired and held for future use, which are in the course of being devoted to such use, as by the necessary filling of submerged land, are not taxable; and, perhaps, lands not in use, but in good faith held for future use, the need for which is apparent and not remote, are exempt. State v. Newark, 25 N. J. L. 315; 26 N. J. L. 519; State v. Middle Tp., 38 N. J. L. 278; Cook v. State, 33 N. J. L. 474; State v. Haight, 35 N. J. L. 40; State v. Jersey City, 41 N. J. L. 471; State v. Binninger, 42 N. J. L. 528; State v. Fuller, 40 N. J. L. 328.

But the test of actual use cannot be applied during the period of construction. See the New Jersey cases just cited. State v. Wetherill, 41 N. J. L. 147; Ramsey County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 33 Minn. 537.

1. Vermont Cent. R. Co. v. Burlington, 28 Vt. 193; Eldridge v. Smith, 34 Vt. 484; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 34 Wis. 271. See also Worcester v. Western R. Co., 4 Met. (Mass.) 564; Western, etc., R. Co. v.

State, 54 Ga. 428; 66 Ga. 563; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 48 Md. 49; State v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 86 Tenn. 438.

This test was disapproved in State v. Hancock, 35 N. J. L. 537, on the ground that the power to condemn all property necessary to the operation of a railroad, is not given by all charters.

2. Osborn v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 40 Conn. 498; Wright v. Southwestern R. Co., 64 Ga. 783; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 48 Wis. 666. See also Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 34 Wis. 271; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 29 Wis. 116.

3. Osborn v. New York, etc., R. Co., 40 Conn. 491.

County Taxes.—The charter of a railroad exempted its stock from county taxes. It was held that a tax levied to pay the bonds of a county given in payment of a subscription to railroad stock, is a county tax, although the bond can be paid only out of a tax levied for the special purpose. State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. (Mo. 1889), 39 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 547.

Street Railway.—An ordinance of a city granted a company the exclusive privilege of operating a street railway upon certain streets, on payment by the company of a certain sum for each car run by it. This payment was held not to be a tax exempting the company from an ad valorem tax levied by the city on property within the city limits, but exempting merchants and others paying a license or specified tax on their business or calling. Newport v. South Covington, etc., R. Co., 89 Ky. 29.

vey has been held equivalent to an actual conveyance, so as to render the land liable to taxation.¹

Where two companies consolidate, and one was entitled by its charter to hold its property exempt from taxation, that property remains exempt from taxation after the consolidation; but the exemption does not extend to any other property acquired by the consolidated company, either at the time of the consolidation or subsequently.²

f. MANUFACTURERS.—In several of the states, "manufacturing corporations," "property engaged in the manufacture" of certain articles, or "manufacturers," are exempt from taxation; and the question frequently arises what corporations or property are within the statutes. The determination of the question depends largely in each case upon the wording of the particular statute under which the exemption is claimed; illustrative cases will be found in the note.³

1. State v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 21 Minn. 472; State v. Southern Minn. R. Co., 21 Minn. 344. Compare Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 32 Ark. 131; Ordway v. Smith, 53 Iowa 589; Brown County v. Winona, etc., Land Co., 38 Minn. 397.

A retention by the railroad of a mere legal title, is not sufficient. Brown County v. Winona, etc., Land Co., 38 Minn. 397; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. McDonald, 34 Minn. 182.

The real character of the transaction is to be regarded in determining the question whether a sale or conveyance of the land has been made. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. McDonald, 34 Minn. 195; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 40 Minn. 366; Chippewa County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 42 Minn. 295. See Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 41 Minn. 452; 39 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 510, for a transaction which was held not to defeat the exemption.

In Champaign County v. Reed, 100 Ill. 304, it was held that the lands were liable to taxation when sold by the company and paid for, although no conveyance may have been made. Compare Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Goodwin, 94 Ill. 262; Stevens County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 36 Minn. 467; 29 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 225.

In Minnesota, May 1st, is the day for determining the taxability of property. If conveyed before May 1st, the land is taxable for the current year; if after that date, it is not. Martin County v. Drake, 40 Minn. 137; 37 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 389.

2. Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U.

S. 129; Tomlinson v. Branch, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 460; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 10 How. (U. S.) 376; Charleston v. Branch, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 470; Green County v. Connes, 109 U. S. 104; Central R., etc., Co. v. Georgia, 92 U. S. 665; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Virginia, 94 U. S. 718; State v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 45 Md. 361; Charlotte, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbs, 27 S. Car. 385; 31 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 464.

But the new corporation is subject to the laws existing at the date of the consolidation, and, if at that time there is a constitutional provision subjecting all corporations to taxation, the prior exemption of one or both of the old companies will not avail them. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 41 Ark. 509; aff'd in 113 U. S. 465; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Georgia, 98 U. S. 359; Petersburg v. Petersburg R. Co., 29 Gratt. (Va.) 773; Arkansas Midland R. Co. v. Berry, 44 Ark. 17; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. State, 63 Ga. 483.

And where the exemption is dependent upon some act to be performed by one of the corporations, and the new corporation is neither required nor able to perform such acts, it will not be exempt. State v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 66 Me. 488.

3. Who are Manufacturing Corporations.—(See also MANUFACTURE, vol. 14, p. 257, MANUFACTURER, vol. 14, p. 264; MANUFACTURING CORPORATIONS, vol. 14, p. 312).—In New Jersey, it has been held that the business in which the capital is invested and used, and not the purposes for which the company was formed, as expressed in its certificate of incorporation, determines its liability. Press Printing Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 51 N. J. L. 75; State v. State Board, 47 N. J. L. 36. See also Com. v. Arrott Steam Power Mills Co., 145 Pa. St. 69.

Newspaper Publishing and Printing Business.—In State v. Dupre, 42 La. Ann. 561, a newspaper publisher was held within the exemption of "all manufacturers." But in Nicholson v. Parker, 44 La. Ann. 76, he was held not entitled to the benefit of a provision exempting "manufacturers of stationery." And in Press Printing Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 51 N. J. L. 75, a newspaper publisher was held taxable as to the business of publishing the paper, but exempt as to his job printing business.

Louisiana.—In Jones v. Raines, 35 La. Ann. 996, a sawmill was held not exempt under article 207 of the Louisiana constitution. So a manufacturer of wire furniture, Gast v. Board of Assessors, 43 La. Ann. 1104; and a manufacturer of shoe-uppers, Ricks v. Board of Assessors, 43 La. Ann. 1075.

The production of rice flour does not bring the producer within the exemption allowed to property "employed in the manufacture of flour." State v. Board of Assessors, 34 La. Ann. 574. So the exemption of property employed in the manufacture of articles of wood, does not apply to articles of wood which are not ready for immediate use without further manipulation, such as cabins and planks; but does apply to doors, sashes, blinds, etc. Carrie v. New Orleans, 41 La. Ann. 996. A cooper is exempt under this provision. New Orleans v. Le Blanc, 34 La. Ann. 596. But vessels used to convey timber for saw-mill purposes are not exempt. Martin v. New Orleans, 38 La. Ann. 397; 58 Am. Rep. 194. See also Carpenter v. Brusle (La. 1893), 12 So. Rep. 483; Whitecastle Lumber, etc., Co. v. Browne (La. 1893), 12 So. Rep. 485; Plaquemine, etc., Imp. Co. v. Browne (La. 1893), 12 So. Rep. 485; Robertson v. New Orleans (La. 1893), 12 So. Rep. 753.

Under the exemption of "property employed in the manufacture of textile products," property used in the manufacture of cordage, ropes, etc., is exempt, Waterbury v. Atlas Steam Cordage

Co., 42 La. Ann. 725; Hernsheim v. Atlas Steam Cordage Co., 42 La. Ann. 726; but this does not exempt one engaged in the manufacture of clothing and jeans. Cohn v. Parker, 41 La. Ann. 894.

And see upon the construction of this article 207, Benedict v. New Orleans, 44 La. Ann. 793; Taylor Bros. Iron Works Co. v. New Orleans, 44 La. Ann. 554; Smith v. Board of Assessors, 44 La. Ann. 91.

Ship Building and Repairing.—A corporation incorporated "for the purpose of constructing and using docks for the repairing, building, etc., of vessels," is not exempt under the New York statutes. People v. New York Floating Dry Dock, 92 N. Y. 487.

Gas Companies.—A gas company has been held to be a manufacturing corporation within the New York statute. Nassau Gas Light Co. v. Brooklyn, 25 Hun (N. Y.) 567; aff'd 89 N. Y. 409. But in Covington Gas Light Co. v. Covington, 84 Ky. 94, it was held otherwise. See also Newport Light Co. v. Newport, 89 Ky. 454.

In Pennsylvania, gas companies have been held exempt in West Chester Gas Co. v. Chester County, 30 Pa. St. 232, and Coatesville Gas Co. v. Chester County, 97 Pa. St. 476, upon the ground that they were public corporations, and therefore not subject to taxation. See supra, this title, Railroads. Compare Com. v. Lowell Gas Light Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 75. But see section 20 of Pennsylvania Acts of 1875, expressly excluding gas companies from the benefit of the exemption of manufacturing corporations. Held constitutional in Com. v. German Brewing Co. (Pa. 1891), 34 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 262.

In Williams v. Rees, 2 Fed. Rep. 882, a gas company was held not a manufacturing corporation.

Electric Light Companies.—An electric light company was held exempt as a manufacturing corporation in People v. Wemple, 129 N. Y. 543, 664. See also Beggs v. Edison Electric Light Co. (Ala. 1892), 11 So. Rep. 381.

In Com. v. Northern Electric Light, etc., Co., 145 Pa. St. 105, such a company was held not exempt under the Pennsylvania statute. Com. v. Edison Electric Light Co., 145 Pa. St. 131.

A mining company was held not a manufacturing corporation within the New York statute in Horn Silver Min. Co. v. New York, 143 U. S. 305;

The exemption is confined to corporations doing a substantial part of their manufacturing within the state.¹

The exemption extends only to capital and property actually employed in manufacturing.²

But the manufacturer does not forfeit his claim to exemption, where the property is used principally in the manufacture of exempt articles, although it may be incidentally employed in the aff'd 105 N. Y. 76. See also Byers v. Franklin Coal Co., 106 Mass. 131, and Greenville Ice, etc., Co. v. Greenville, 69 Miss. 86.

Produce of the State.—An exemption of articles manufactured from the produce of a state is held not to preclude a privilege tax upon the sale of liquors. Kurth v. State, 86 Tenn. 134.

Organized Exclusively for Manufacturing Purposes.—The Pennsylvania statute of 1889 exempts corporations "organized exclusively for manufacturing purposes and actually carrying on manufacturing within the state." This was held not to include a corporation having powers to engage in coal mining, quarrying and manufacturing; Com. v. Lackawanna Iron, etc., Co., 129 Pa. St. 346; Com. v. Thomas Iron Co., 12 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 654; nor a corporation authorized to speculate in the securities of other companies. Com. v. Westinghouse Electric, etc., Co., 151 Pa. St. 265.

But where a company has invested a part of its capital stock in property not used for manufacturing purposes, an apportionment may be made. Com. v. Westinghouse Air Brake Co., 151 Pa. St. 276.

In Com. v. Mann, 150 Pa. St. 64, reversing 11 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 290, it was held that where a corporation was partly engaged in other business, it was not wholly exempt, but that a tax would be apportioned.

An iron corporation leasing a mine in another state was held not exempt. Com. v. Copley Iron Co., 11 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 295. And in Com. v. East Bangor, etc., Co., 10 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 363, it was held that a quarrying company which has invested part of its capital stock in quarry lands, is not exempt.

The corporation must be bona fide engaged in manufacturing, and where it appeared that, though organized as a manufacturing corporation, it merely supplied steam to its tenants in order to rent its rooms more readily, it was held not exempt. Com. v.

Arrott Steam Power Mills Co., 145 Pa. St. 69.

1. People v. Horn Silver Min. Co., 105 N. Y. 76; aff'd 143 U. S. 305; State v. American Glucose Co. (N. J. 1886), 15 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 112; Norton Naval Constr. Co. v. State Board (N. J.), 53 N. J. L. 564; 24 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 268; Standard Underground Cable Co. v. Attorney General, 46 N. J. Eq. 270; 19 Am. St. Rep. 394; State v. State Board of Assessors, 54 N. J. L. 430.

But in People v. Wemple, 133 N. Y. 323; 37 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 626, it was held that a foreign corporation doing business in New York, although the greater portion is done in another state, was within the exemption. By chapter 353 of the New York Laws of 1889, the exemption was restricted to corporations "wholly engaged in carrying on manufacturing within the state." See also People v. Wemple, 138 N. Y. 582.

2. Appeal of Com. (Pa. 1889), 18 Atl. Rep. 133. Buildings erected by manufacturing companies for their employes are not exempt. Com. v. Mahoney, etc., Mill Co., 129 Pa. St. 360. See also West Chester Gas Co. v. Chester County, 30 Pa. St. 232.

In Franklin Needle Co. v. Franklin, 65 N. H. 177, realty bought for the purpose of erecting a manufactory was held to be exempt within New Hampshire Gen. Laws, ch. 53, § 10.

A manufacturing company which withdraws from business with the intention of abandonment, is not doing business within the state. State v. State Board of Assessors (N. J. 1892), 25 Atl. Rep. 329.

An exemption of corporations having fifty per cent. of their capital stock employed in the manufacturing business, cannot be objected to on the ground that part of the capital stock is employed in disposing of the manufactured product of the plant. In re Consolidated Electric Storage Co. (N. J. 1893), 26 Atl. Rep. 983.

manufacture of other articles, intimately connected with the principal business.¹

As long as the factory exists and the property and machinery are dedicated to the exempt purposes, the exemption continues, though there may be temporary interruptions in the operation of the factory. But where a lease is made of the property for the purpose of closing the factory, in order to limit production and prevent competition, the right to exemption is forfeited.²

g. STOCK—(See also CORPORATIONS, vol. 4, p. 272*d*).—Upon the question whether an exemption of the corporate property, franchises, or capital stock from taxation, exempts also the shares of stock in the hands of the stockholders, there has been some conflict. The determination of the question depends, in each case, largely upon the words used by the legislature in the charter or statute granting the exemption.³

On the other hand, it is very generally held that an exemption

1. State v. Board of Assessors, 41 La. Ann. 534.

In case a manufacturer of harness and saddlery, who carries with his stock of manufactured goods a small assortment of other articles, not manufactured by him, but which constitute a necessary accessory to his business, has been once assessed, and has paid the tax on such property, an additional assessment will be annulled, as one made on property which is nontaxable, under Louisiana Const., art. 207, exempting from taxation the product of materials employed in the manufacture of harness and saddlery. Smith v. Board of Assessors, 44 La. Ann. 91.

2. Waterbury v. Atlas Steam Cordage Co., 42 La. Ann. 723; Hernsheim v. Atlas Steam Cordage Co., 42 La. Ann. 726.

Duration.—The statute authorizing towns to exempt manufacturing property from taxation for a term not exceeding ten years, does not confer authority to exempt the same property for a second period of ten years. Boody v. Watson, 63 N. H. 320; Academy v. Exeter, 58 N. H. 306; People v. Davenport, 91 N. Y. 574; State v. Bank of Smyrna, 2 Houst. (Del.) 99; Cook on Stock and Stockholders (2d ed.), § 568.

3. Cases in which the Exemption was Held to Extend to the Shares.—Where the property of an incorporated company, or the company itself, is by its charter exempted from taxation, the shares of the company in the hands of the stockholders are also exempted from the same taxation. State v. Powers, 24 N. J. L. 400; State v. Branin, 23 N. J.

L. 484; State v. Bentley, 23 N. J. L. 532; State v. Jones, 38 N. J. L. 83.

A bank charter provided that the corporation should pay "to the treasury of this commonwealth, twenty-five cents on each one hundred dollars of stock held and paid for in said bank, which shall be in full of all tax or bonus." This was held to exempt the stockholders from a tax upon the shares. Johnson v. Com., 7 Dana (Ky.) 338.

In Gordon v. Appeal Tax Ct., 3 How. (U. S.) 147, it was held that the exemption of a bank from "any further tax or burden" exempted the shares of stock.

The charter of a railroad company provided that, "all machines, wagons, vehicles, and carriages purchased with the funds of the company, and all their works constructed under the authority of this act, and all profits which shall accrue from the same, shall be vested in the respective shareholders of the company forever in proportion to their respective shares, and the same shall be deemed personal estate and shall be exempt from any public charge or tax whatsoever." This was held to exempt the shares of stock of the respective shareholders. Com. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 Va. 355; 24 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 482. See also Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604.

In Tennessee v. Whitworth, 22 Fed. Rep. 75, aff'd 117 U. S. 139, it was held that a provision that "the capital stock of said company shall be forever exempt from taxation, and the road, with all its fixtures and appurtenances," exempted the shares, the court saying, of the shares of stock from taxation, exempts the corporate property, franchises, and capital stock.¹

"Each share is a part of the whole, and as the whole is exempt from taxation it follows that each part or share must be exempt." See also New Orleans v. Houston, 119 U. S. 265.

In Farrington v. Tennessee, 95 U. S. 679, the bank charter provided that the bank "shall pay to the state an annual tax of one-half of one per cent. on each share of the capital stock subscribed, which shall be in lieu of all other taxes." It was held that the words "in lieu of all other taxes," as thus used, meant, in lieu of all other taxes that might be imposed on that subject of taxation, viz., the shares of the capital stock; and that, accordingly, it excluded a tax on those shares assessed upon them against the individual shareholder as his property. See also New Orleans v. Carondelet Canal, etc., Co., 36 La. Ann. 396; Bibb County v. Central R. Co., 40 Ga. 646; Smith v. Burley, 9 N. H. 423.

Cases Holding that the Exemption Does not Extend to the Shares.—In Union Bank v. State, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 490, it was held that a provision in the charter of a bank, "that in consideration of the privileges granted by the charter, the bank agrees to pay the state annually one-half of one per cent. on the amount of the capital stock paid in by the stockholders other than the state," operated by way of contract to restrict the state in taxing the corporation in respect of its capital stock to the rate mentioned, but not to prohibit the state from a separate and additional taxation of each stockholder upon his individual interest as a stockholder. And see Memphis v. Farrington, 8 Baxt. (Tenn.) 539, where it was said, "Capital stock and shares of stock are two distinct properties, and an exemption of the one does not thereby necessarily exempt the other, nor the taxation of the latter operate as a tax on the former, so as to interfere with its exemption from such burdens." In Belo v. Forsyth County, 82 N. Car. 415; 33 Am. Rep. 688, it was held that an exemption of the corporate realty does not exempt the shares of stock. And see Appeal Tax Ct. v. Rice, 50 Md. 302; Tax Cases, 12 Gill & J. (Md.) 117; Anne Arundel County v. Annapolis, etc., R. Co., 47 Md. 592; cited in Cook on Stock and Stockholders (2d ed.), § 568, as holding that an exemption of the corporate property, franchises or capital stock, from taxation, does not exempt the shares of stock from any tax.

In State v. Memphis City Bank (Tenn. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 1045, a provision in the company's charter, that there should be a state tax "on the amount of capital stock actually paid in . . . in lieu of all other taxes and assessments," was held not to exempt the shares.

1. Cook on Stock and Stockholders (2d ed.), § 568; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 213; Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Gill (Md.) 288; 48 Am. Dec. 531; State v. Wilson, 52 Md. 638; Frederick County v. Farmers, etc., Nat. Bank, 48 Ind. 117; Anne Arundel County v. Annapolis, etc., R. Co., 47 Md. 592; Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; Scotland County v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Mo. 123; Bank of Cape Fear v. Edwards, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 516. See also Middlesex R. Co. v. Charleston, 8 Allen (Mass.) 330.

In Foster v. Stevens, 63 Vt. 175, it was held that a statute providing for a direct tax upon the capital of a bank, is a tax upon the shares of stock held by its stockholders. See also Bugbee v. Stevens, 63 Vt. 185.

In State v. Union, etc., Bank (Tenn. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 758, a charter provision that the payment of a certain per cent. on each share of stock subscribed shall be in lieu of all other taxes, was held to protect from any other taxation, the capital stock as well as the shares held by the stockholders; and, also, to protect them from any privilege or license tax.

In the case, however, of Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 64 N. Car. 226, it was held that an exemption of shares of stock does not exempt the corporate franchise from taxation. Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 64 N. Car. 155. And in State v. Petway, 2 Jones Eq. (N. Car.) 396, it was held that a charter provision that the shares of stock should be taxed a certain amount, did not prevent a tax on dividends.

Non-resident Stockholder — Foreign Corporation.—Under a statute which, like the Ohio statute, exempts from taxation shares of stock in corporations, "the capital stock of which is taxed in the name of the company," shares of stock in a foreign corporation, which pays taxes in the state only on that portion of its property therein situated, are not exempt. Sturges v. Carter, 114 U. S. 511. See also Worth v. Ashe County, 90 N. Car. 409; San Francisco v. Fry, 63 Cal. 470; 1 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 431.

Ordinarily an exemption of the capital stock is equivalent to the exemption of the property into which the capital stock has been converted, unless a contrary intention is in some way manifested.¹ But the mere exemption of the capital stock will not exempt the company and tangible property where the grant by its terms discriminates between the capital stock and such property.²

h. MISCELLANEOUS.—For the construction of various statutes conferring exemption from taxation upon certain classes of property and persons, see note 3.

A non-resident stockholder, who is taxed on his stock in the state where he resides, cannot defeat that tax by reason of exemptions enjoyed within the state creating the corporation. Cook on Stock and Stockholders (2d ed.), § 568; citing Appeal Tax Ct. v. Patterson, 50 Md. 354; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Gill, 50 Md. 377; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 300.

An Exemption May be Waived.—An exemption of stock may be waived by the company accepting a subsequent statute imposing a tax. Cook on Stock and Stockholders (2d ed.), § 568; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Shacklett, 30 Mo. 551; Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Goldsmith, 62 Ga. 463; but a corporation cannot waive its exemption as against its bonds previously issued. Hand v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 17 S. Car. 219; 12 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 495; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 213.

Income.—An exemption of stock is an exemption of the gross income of a corporation. State v. Hood, 15 Rich. (S. Car.) 177.

National Bank Shares.—The purpose of the revenue law of 1868, in exempting "all shares of the capital stock of corporations which are required to list their property for taxation," was, to avoid the double taxation which would result from the taxation both of the property of which the capital stock consists, and the shares of stock which represent the same property. This exemption has no application to shares of the stock of a national bank, whose capital consists mainly, if not entirely, of United States bonds, which the corporation is not required to list for taxation. McIver v. Robinson, 53 Ala. 456.

Privilege Tax — License Tax.—In Grand Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Buck, 53 Miss. 246, it was held that the exemption of the stock and property of a corporation precluded a privilege tax. See also Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 264; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Moseley, 52 Miss. 127.

But in New Orleans v. New Orleans Canal, etc., Co., 32 La. Ann. 105, an exemption of bank stock from taxation was held not to preclude a license tax.

1. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 97 U. S. 697; Scotland County v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Mo. 129; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Shacklett, 30 Mo. 550; New Haven v. City Bank, 31 Conn. 106; Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; Bibb County v. Central, etc., R. Co., 40 Ga. 646; Rome R. Co. v. Rome, 14 Ga. 275; Lackawanna County v. First Nat. Bank, 94 Pa. St. 221.

2. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 15 Fla. 637.

Thus, where the railroad with its fixtures and appurtenances was exempted from taxation for only twenty years, and the capital stock was exempted forever, it is clear that the road and fixtures could not represent the capital stock for the purpose of taxation, and they are subject to taxation at the expiration of the twenty years. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, 97 U. S. 697; 3 Tenn. Ch. 604; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Loftin, 98 U. S. 563; 105 U. S. 158.

3. Banks.—See also NATIONAL BANKS, vol. 16, p. 143; SAVINGS BANKS, vol. 21, p. 516; supra, this title, Stock.

Kentucky Gen. St., ch. 92, art. 2, § 1, providing that state and national banks, and "other institutions of loan and discount," shall be taxed in a certain manner in full of all state, county and municipal taxes, has reference only to incorporated "institutions," and does not apply to a private unincorporated bank, which is taxable under the general law. Bowling Green v. Barclay, 91 Ky. 66.

Property of Insane Person.—Where land, owned by an insane person, and exempted, under Iowa Code, § 711, from taxation, was sold by his guardian under an order of court, it was held that the land continued to be exempt until the sale and conveyance had been approved by the court. Ordway v. Smith, 53 Iowa 589.

Judge's Salary.—The article of the Louisiana Const. which declares that the judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall at stated times receive a salary which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office, exempts the salary of a judge from taxation. New Orleans v. Lea, 14 La Ann. 194.

Road Tax.—Missouri Rev. St., § 5012, exempting from road tax the property of all persons residing within the limits of an incorporated village or town, embraces the property of non-residents. State v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 90 Mo. 166.

Growing Crops.—(See also CROPS, vol. 4, p. 887.)

Fruit-trees are not exempt from taxation as "growing crops," under California Const., art. 13, § 1. Cottle v. Spitzer, 65 Cal. 456; 52 Am. Rep. 305.

Mechanics' Tools.—A printer is a mechanic within the meaning of the term as used in the Iowa Code exempting the tools of any mechanic from taxation, and his press materials, etc., constitute his tools, and as such are exempt. Smith v. Osburn, 53 Iowa 474. But it has been held in Mississippi that, a printing press owned by a practical printer, editor and publisher of a newspaper, and necessary to his business as such printer and publisher, is not exempt under Mississippi Code, § 463, which provides that "the tools of any mechanic necessary for carrying on his trade" shall be exempt. Frantz v. Dobson, 63 Miss. 631; 60 Am. Rep. 68. See also TOOLS.

Mines and Mining Claims.—The constitution of Colorado provided that mines and mining claims should be exempt from taxation for the period of ten years from the date of the adoption of the constitution, "and thereafter may be taxed as provided by law." It was held that legislation was required to render such property taxable at the expiration of the ten years. In re House Resolution (Colo. 1886), 21 Pac. Rep. 471.

A parcel of land was entered and paid for as a placer mining claim, and entered in the United States land office as a mineral entry. But within a few months after the issuance of the patent, the land was made a subdivision of the city of Leadville, a map of such subdivision, showing its division into blocks and lots, being filed in the recorder's office of the proper county. There was no evidence that the lot was in fact a mine or mining claim. It was held that the land was not exempt from taxation under the Colorado statute exempting mines or mining claims bearing gold or silver or other precious metals. Dyke v. White, 17 Colo. 296.

An exemption of mines and mining claims does not cover the flumes or machinery necessary to work them. Hart v. Plum, 14 Cal. 148; Gold Hill v. Caledonia Silver Min. Co., 5 Sawy. (U. S.) 575.

Mortgages.—An exemption of mortgages from taxation will not be held to include so-called building association mortgages, of which the sum to be paid eventually is uncertain. Appeal Tax Ct. v. Rice, 50 Md. 302.

A New Jersey statute provided that "hereafter no mortgage or debt secured thereby shall be assessed for taxation, unless a deduction therefor shall have been claimed by the owner of the land and allowed by the assessors." This was held not to apply to a mortgage upon exempt lands. State v. Lantz, 53 N. J. L. 578.

Under the Vermont statute exempting from taxation personal estate owned by an inhabitant of that state, which is situated and taxed in another state, a debt evidenced by a promissory note owned by an inhabitant of Vermont was held to be taxable there, although secured on land in another state, where the mortgagee's interest is taxed as real estate, the note and mortgage being in the possession of their owner's agent, who lived where the land was situated. Bullock v. Guilford, 59 Vt. 516.

Capital of Non-residents.—Under the New York statute exempting agents of moneyed corporations, or capitalists, from taxation "for any moneys in their possession, or under their control, transmitted to them for the purpose of investment, or otherwise, and exempting demands belonging to the non-residents of the state sent to or deposited in this state for collection," it was held that

X. THE LEVY—1. Meaning of Term.—The term "levy" is here used to indicate the legislative act, whether state or local, which determines that a tax shall be laid,¹ and is to be distinguished from the levy on property incident to the enforcement of the collection of the tax, in which sense the term is also used.²

2. How Made—a. GENERALLY.—In rare instances the constitution provides for the levy of a tax without the assistance of the legislature;³ but, as a general rule, a levy can be made only by legislative enactment,⁴ within the limits and in the form prescribed foreign capital sent within the state for investment is protected from taxation, whether invested or uninvested, and whether the securities received therefor are taken out of, or remain in the state for collection. Williams v. Wayne County, 78 N. Y. 561. Under the above statute, money sent into the state for investment is exempt from taxation as well after the death of such non-resident as before. People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 42 Hun (N. Y.) 560, aff'd 105 N. Y. 629; People v. Coleman (Supreme Ct.), 14 N. Y. Supp. 565.

1. State v. Maginnis, 26 La. Ann. 5:8; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Maguire v. Mobile County, 71 Ala. 401.

In Morton v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430, it is said that three things are essential to the levy of a tax: first, the ascertainment of a sum certain, or that can be made certain, to be imposed upon the collective body of taxpayers; second, a legal imposition of that sum as an obligation on the collective body of taxpayers; and third, an apportionment of such sum among individual taxpayers so as to ascertain the part or share that each should bear. And see People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 256; Brewster v. Syracuse, 19 N. Y. 116; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274.

In Moore v. Foote, 32 Miss. 469, the term "levy," when used in relation to county taxes, was held to include not only the ascertainment of the amount necessary to be raised, but also the performance of all such acts as would authorize the tax collector to proceed to collect it.

Where the levy is by a subordinate political division, it commonly consists of two distinct acts of legislation: first, that of the state giving the power to tax; and second, that of the local authority laying the tax under the power so given. Doe v. McQuilkin, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 335; Hawkins v. Jonesboro, 63

Ga. 527; Cruikshanks v. Charleston, 1 McCord (S. Car.) 360. And see Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Cass County, 16 Neb. 136.

A law authorizing or directing a city council to levy a tax does not execute itself. It merely enjoins a duty upon the city council, and the tax cannot be enforced in the absence of an actual levy by the council. State v. Humphreys, 25 Ohio St. 520.

Where corporate authorities are required to levy and collect a sufficient tax to pay interest annually, and to liquidate the principal of a specified debt within the time specified for its payment, it is a standing and continuing levy so long as the bonds remain unpaid. Davis v. Brace, 82 Ill. 542.

2. Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473; Waterman v. Harkness, 2 Mo. App. 494. In Valle v. Fargo, 1 Mo. App. 344, the word "levy" was said to be synonymous with "collect," or "raised by execution."

3. Walcott v. People, 17 Mich. 68; San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 12; State v. McEvery, 75 Mo. 530.

The Louisiana Constitution confers authority to levy a tax for levee purposes directly upon levee commissioners within their respective districts, requiring no action of the legislature, except the division of the state into levee districts, and a provision for the election or appointment of commissioners. Davis v. Green, 40 La. Ann. 281.

4. New Orleans Cotton Exch. v. Board of Assessors, 35 La. Ann. 1154; Forman v. Board of Assessors, 35 La. Ann. 825; Lott v. Ross, 38 Ala. 156; State v. Mobile County, 73 Ala. 65; Bettison v. Budd, 21 Ark. 578; Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 32 Ark. 142; Vanover v. Davis, 27 Ga. 354; Norris v. Russell, 5 Cal. 249; Houghton v. Austin, 47 Cal. 646; State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo. 163; Ellis v. Peck, 45 Iowa 114; Early v. Whittingham, 43

by the constitution,¹ and by a duly authorized and properly constituted legislative body.² The computation of the amount to be raised, however, and the determination of the rate per cent. necessary to raise it, may be assigned to other than legislative officers.³

Iowa 162; Ryerson v. Laketon Tp., 52 Mich. 510; Folkerts v. Power, 42 Mich. 283; McCready v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 356; 4 Am. Rep. 214; State v. Hagood, 13 S. Car. 46; State v. Platt, 2 S. Car. 150; 16 Am. Rep. 647; Cruikshanks v. Charleston, 1 McCord (S. Car.) 360; State v. Charleston, 2 Spears (S. Car.) 623; Morris v. Tinker, 60 Ga. 466; Allen v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 85; Webster v. People, 98 Ill. 343; Doe v. McQuilkin, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 335; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; Dally v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472; Zanesville v. Richards, 5 Ohio St. 590; Bangs v. Snow, 1 Mass. 181; Bullock v. Curry, 2 Metc. (Ky.) 171. And see Stetson v. Kempton, 13 Mass. 272; 7 Am. Dec. 145; Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N. Y. 123; Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 30 Gratt. (Va.) 471; Richmond v. Daniel, 14 Gratt. (Va.) 385; Lisbon v. Bath, 21 N. H. 319; Simmons v. Wilson, 66 N. Car. 336; Columbia v. Guest, 3 Head (Tenn.) 413.

1. People v. Kings County, 52 N. Y. 556; Cruger v. Dougherty, 43 N. Y. 107; Steckert v. East Saginaw, 22 Mich. 110; State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo. 166; Brodie v. McCabe, 33 Ark. 690; Dean v. Lufkin, 54 Tex. 265. And see Parker v. Wayne County, 104 N. Car. 166.

A tax levied before a constitutional provision limiting the amount to be raised by tax takes effect, is not affected by it. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. York County, 7 Neb. 487. And in State v. Maginnis, 26 La. Ann. 558, it was held to be no ground for resisting a tax that the state debt had reached the amount limited by the constitution, unless the object for which the tax was levied, or the law authorizing it, was unconstitutional.

In Spring v. Olney, 78 Ill. 101, a proviso in a clause of a statute that "no tax shall be levied under this section unless two-thirds of all the aldermen elected shall vote in favor of the same," was held not to apply to the whole section, but only to the tax mentioned in that particular clause.

2. See Lamoreaux v. O'Rourke, 3

Abb. App. Dec. (N. Y.) 15; Gilbert v. Huston, Litt. Sel. Cas. (Ky.) 223; State v. Woodside, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 104; Wells v. Austin, 59 Vt. 157.

The levy of a tax being a legislative and not a judicial function, a court can neither make, nor cause to be made, a new assessment, if the one complained of is erroneous. State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575.

Where a city is authorized to levy a tax upon such wards or lots as a jury of six, selected by the council, shall determine according to the benefit received, such proceeding is not a jury trial, but a special proceeding in the nature of a commission for a public purpose, and the voice of a majority will prevail in making the assessment. Soens v. Racine, 10 Wis. 271. See also Steele v. Blanton, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 514; People v. Bennett, 54 Barb. (N. Y.) 480.

The action of the legislature should be such that no further legislation will be necessary to authorize the collection of the tax. Morton v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430.

3. Edwards v. People, 88 Ill. 340; Mustard v. Hoppess, 69 Ind. 324; State v. Maginnis, 26 La. Ann. 558; Wells v. Burbank, 17 N. H. 393; People v. Queens County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 195. And see State v. Hagood, 13 S. Car. 46; Morton v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430; San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 12.

A levy imposed by the justices of the county courts, who are not elected, but appointed, is not contrary to a provision in the bill of rights that men cannot be taxed for public uses without their own consent or that of their representatives. Case of County Levy, 5 Call (Va.) 139; Lockhart v. Harrington, 1 Hawks (N. Car.) 408.

Authority given by the legislature to certain commissioners, to ascertain and determine the amount of a particular indebtedness, is not an exercise of judicial power by the legislature. Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405. And in Salem Turnpike, etc., Corp. v. Essex County, 100 Mass. 282, it was held that a statute, providing for laying out the road and bridges of a turnpike, as a public highway, and for the appointment of com-

b. THE APPORTIONMENT.—The apportionment of a tax is the determination of the proportion to be borne by each person or thing or political subdivision, and the assignment to each of its share of the burden.¹ Taxes cannot be laid without apportionment, and the power to tax necessarily involves the right to apportion the tax.²

The levy may be apportioned among all the people of the state, or among those residing within a particular district only;³ the legislature being the final judge upon all questions of policy, as well as of fact, involved in the determination of a taxing district.⁴ Taxing districts may be as numerous as the purposes for missioners by the court, to determine what cities and towns are benefited thereby, and in what portions and manner they shall pay the expense thereof, was not unconstitutional as imposing on the judiciary the exercise of legislative or executive power, or assuming to the legislature the exercise of judicial power.

In Morton v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430, it was held that a statutory direction to an officer, to give notice annually to each county auditor of the rates authorized by law to be levied for the various state purposes, delegates to such officer the duty of fixing the rate per cent. in all cases in which the legislature has furnished the data for making the commutation, but has not fixed the rates.

1. Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274.

The apportionment of a tax includes the determination of the proportion thereof, which shall be borne by each subordinate political division. See Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210; People v. Jackson County, 24 Mich. 237.

Where the statute does not require any particular form to be adopted, or the word "apportion" to be used in the record, the mathematical computation by which is ascertained the amount of state and county tax to be raised by each township, need not appear of record, but simply the result reached by such computation. Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210.

2. People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 256; Gordon v. Cornes, 47 N. Y. 608; Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N. Y. 123; People v. New York, etc., Dock Co., 63 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 451; Bowles v. State, 37 Ohio St. 35; Bonsall v. Lebanon, 19 Ohio 418; Scovill v. Cleveland, 1 Ohio St. 126; Cincinnati v. Gwynne, 10 Ohio 192; Allen v. Drew, 44 Vt. 174.

Delegation of the Power.—A power to tax, conferred upon a municipal division of a state, includes the power to apportion the tax; but the apportionment must be made according to the strict terms of the power. See Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210.

3. Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 274; Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Blanding v. Burr, 13 Cal. 343; Stewart v. Polk County, 30 Iowa 9; Augusta Bank v. Augusta, 49 Me. 507; Guilford v. Chenango County, 13 N. Y. 143; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Otoe County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 667.

4. Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N. Y. 123. And see Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405; Spright v. People, 87 Ill. 595; Sedgwick County v. Bunker, 16 Kan. 498; Wallace v. Shelton, 14 La. Ann. 503; Sheley v. Detroit, 45 Mich. 431; Warren v. Grand Haven, 30 Mich. 24; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; State v. Fuller, 34 N. J. L. 327; Wells v. Burbank, 17 N. H. 393; Gordon v. Cornes, 47 N. Y. 608; People v. New York, etc., Dock Co., 63 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 451; U. S. v. Memphis, 97 U. S. 284; Walston v. Nevin, 128 U. S. 578; Spencer v. Merchant, 125 U. S. 345; Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 550; Mobile County v. Kimball, 102 U. S. 691; Laramie County v. Albany County, 92 U. S. 307.

Delegation of Power to Form Districts.

—The authority to form taxing districts may be exercised directly by the legislature, or, in case of local taxes, it may be left to local boards or bodies; but in such case, the determination must be made by a body possessing, for the purpose, legislative power, and whose action must be as conclusive as if taken by the legislature itself. Tee-garden v. Racine, 56 Wis. 545; Hoyt v. East Saginaw, 19 Mich. 39; Blake v. People, 109 Ill. 504; In re Sackett, etc., Sts., 74 N. Y. 95; In re Church, 92 N. Y. 1; Genet v. Brooklyn, 99 N. Y. 296; Spencer v. Merchant, 100 N. Y. 585.

which taxes are levied,¹ and need not be coextensive with the political divisions of the state,² though they should conform as nearly as possible to the section to which the benefit of the collection and expenditure of the tax will inure.³

The tax must be apportioned in a uniform manner upon the property selected,⁴ and the legislature cannot impose the whole

But see State v. Elizabeth, 44 N. J. L. 571.

The people affected by the formation of a taxing district need not be consulted as to its extent. Prince George's County v. Bladensburg, 51 Md. 465; Kuhn v. Board of Education, 4 W. Va. 499. But where assent to union into one taxing district is required of several municipalities, it must consist of the assent of a majority in each of the municipalities to be affected. People v. Salomon, 51 Ill. 37.

The courts cannot interfere with the operation of statutes levying and apportioning taxes, when no question of legislative power is involved. Blanding v. Burr, 13 Cal. 343; Broadway Baptist Church v. McAtee, 8 Bush (Ky.) 508; 8 Am. Dec. 480; Abergust v. Louisville, 2 Bush (Ky.) 271; Layton v. New Orleans, 12 La. Ann. 515; Alcorn v. Hamer, 38 Miss. 652; Virginia City v. Chollar-Potosi, etc., Min. Co., 2 Nev. 86; State v. Fuller, 34 N. J. L. 227; Hingham, etc., Bridge, etc., Corp. v. Norfolk County, 6 Allen (Mass.) 353.

In Re Flower, 55 Hun (N. Y.) 158, it was held that in the levy and apportionment of the burden of a tax, the legislature may refer to a void assessment, for the purpose of fixing the amount and the property selected.

1. Shelby Co. Judge v. Shelby R. Co., 5 Bush (Ky.) 225; Atty. Gen'l v. Cambridge, 16 Gray (Mass.) 247; Salem Turnpike, etc., Corp. v. Essex County, 100 Mass. 282.

In Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; 35 Am. Dec. 159, it was held that each square, so far as its streets and sidewalks are concerned, may be considered as a distinct municipality or local public.

2. Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274; Williams v. Cammack, 27 Miss. 209; 61 Am. Dec. 508; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 43 Cal. 398; Updyke v. Wright, 81 Ill. 49; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405; Connell v. Connersville, 8 Ind. 358; Shelby County Judge v. Shelby R. Co., 5 Bush (Ky.) 225; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; 35 Am. Dec. 159; Malchus v. Highlands, 4

Bush (Ky.) 547; Waterville v. Kennebec County, 59 Me. 80; State v. Englewood, 41 N. J. L. 154; Brown v. Hertford, 100 N. Car. 92; St. Louis v. Speck, 67 Mo. 403; People v. Lawrence, 36 Barb. (N. Y.) 177; People v. Haws, 34 Barb. (N. Y.) 69; People v. Draper, 15 N. Y. 532; People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 256; Bowles v. State, 37 Ohio St. 35; State v. Fayette County, 37 Ohio St. 526; Philadelphia v. Field, 58 Pa. St. 320; Luehrman v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 2 Lea (Tenn.) 425; Langhorne v. Robinson, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 661. But see State v. Chamberlain, 37 N. J. L. 388; State v. Fuller, 39 N. J. L. 576; Morgan v. Elizabeth, 44 N. J. L. 571.

The legislature has the right to impose local taxation for local purposes upon any district or extent of territory less than the whole state, whether the people to be affected are citizens of the same county, or members of the same corporation, or residents of the same political division of the state, or not. Alcorn v. Hamer, 38 Miss. 652. And see Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367.

In Northampton v. Hampshire County, 145 Mass. 108, a statute providing that the funds of a corporation organized for charitable purposes should, for the purposes of taxation, be equally apportioned among eight different towns, was upheld.

3. See Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 500; Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 268; Bright v. McCullough, 27 Ind. 223; Chandler v. Reynolds, 19 Kan. 249; Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; St. Louis v. Speck, 67 Mo. 403; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219; Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.) 510; Hagar v. Reclamation District, 111 U. S. 701; Louisiana v. Pillsbury, 105 U. S. 295.

A tax levy made outside the state limits is without authority of law, and void. Marion County v. Barker, 25 Kan. 258.

4. There may be a discrimination in the subjects of taxation, but there must be uniformity in the tax upon the selected subjects; no individual's property burden upon a single taxing district, or that of a single district upon a portion only of the property owners of the district;¹ though different methods and rates of apportionment may be adopted in different districts,² and the legislature may vary the rule or method of taxation in respect to different descriptions of property,³ or, as frequently is done, may exempt one class of

can be subjected to a heavier tax than others are required to pay on property of the same description. Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 513; 35 Am. Dec. 159. And see Sutton v. Louisville, 5 Dana (Ky.) 28; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274; People v. Salem, 20 Mich. 474; 4 Am. Rep. 400; Merrick v. Amherst, 12 Allen (Mass.) 504; Com. v. Hamilton Mfg. Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 298; Tide-water Co. v. Coster, 18 N. J. Eq. 518; 90 Am. Dec. 634; Taylor v. Chandler, 9 Heisk. (Tenn.) 349; Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 9 Fed. Rep. 884; Blanding v. Burr, 13 Cal. 342; Booth v. Woodbury, 32 Conn. 118; Macon v. Patty, 57 Miss. 378; Wells v. Burbank, 17 N. H. 393; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219; State v. Cox, 38 N. J. L. 302; Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460.

The apportionment to cities and towns, and to counties, is not required to be one act; and each item of a tax levy need not be separately apportioned. San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 12.

The distribution is usually required to be so made that the burden shall be shared according to the estate, real and personal, which each person may possess. See Oliver v. Washington Mills, 11 Allen (Mass.) 268; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219; Holtzclaw v. Russ, 49 Ga. 115.

In State v. Kansas, etc., R. Co. (Mo. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 611, it was held that property which never goes upon the assessors' books is not to be considered in determining the amount of taxable property in the county upon which a levy is to be made.

1. Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 9 Fed. Rep. 884; O'Kane v. Treat, 25 Ill. 458; Palmer v. Stumph, 29 Ind. 329; Ryerson v. Utley, 16 Mich. 276; Dorgan v. Boston, 12 Allen (Mass.) 223; Gordon v. Cornes, 47 N. Y. 608; Baltimore v. Hughes, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 480; 19 Am. Dec. 243; Talbot County v. Queen Anne's County, 50 Md. 260; State v. U. S., etc., Express Co., 60 N. H. 219; Washington Avenue, 69 Pa. St. 352; 8 Am. Rep. 255; Sharpless v. Phil- adelphia, 21 Pa. St. 147; 59 Am. Dec. 759. And see Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289; Slack v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 1; Cheaney v. Hooser, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 330; Parham v. Decatur County, 9 Ga. 341; Doe v. Deavors, 8 Ga. 479.

A levy upon property, in excess of the proportionate amount necessary to be levied upon it to produce the sum required to be raised, is unauthorized by law, and its collection will be enjoined. Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561.

A tax cannot be imposed upon a body of individuals selected out of a general class, without apportionment or equalization as between them and the general class, or as between themselves. Wilson v. Sutter County, 47 Cal. 91; Primm v. Belleville, 59 Ill. 142; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 599. And see Brown v. Hoadley, 12 Vt. 472; McCormack v. Patchin, 53 Mo. 33; State v. Tax Collector, 2 Bailey (S. Car.) 654; Dyar v. Farmington, 70 Me. 527; Hunt v. Brewer, 68 Me. 262; Farnsworth Co. v. Lisbon, 62 Me. 451; Railroad Tax Cases, 13 Fed. Rep. 735.

2. See People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 43 Cal. 398; Ottawa County v. Nelson, 19 Kan. 234; Firemen's Ins. Co. v. Baltimore, 23 Md. 296; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274; Fulgum v. Nashville, 8 Lea (Tenn.) 635. But see McGavisk v. State, 34 N. J. L. 509.

Those who are chief partakers of the benefits of local public works, should bear proportionately a larger share of the cost. Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367.

3. Davenport v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 16 Iowa 348; Sacramento v. Crocker, 16 Cal. 119; State v. Tax Collector, 2 Bailey (S. Car.) 654; Ould v. Richmond, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 464; 14 Am. Rep. 139. And see Wallace v. Shelton, 14 La. Ann. 503; Pleuler v. State, 11 Neb. 547; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana (Ky.) 516; 35 Am. Dec. 159; New Orleans v. Kaufman, 29 La. Ann. 283; 29 Am. Rep. 328; State v. Rolle, 30 La. Ann. 991; 31 Am. Rep. 234.

It is sufficient if the rule of apportion-property from the burden of taxation altogether and tax other classes of property.¹

c. LEVY BY SUBORDINATE POLITICAL DIVISION.—Municipal corporations and other subordinate political divisions of the state can levy taxes only when clearly authorized by the legislature.² The power thus conferred by the statute cannot be delegated to any other officer, board, or body,³ and must be strictly ment is uniform throughout the district, or with reference to all of a class. See East Portland v. Multnomah County, 6 Oregon 62; Bowles v. State, 37 Ohio St. 35; Fletcher v. Oliver, 25 Ark. 289; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491; Ottawa County v. Nelson, 19 Kan. 233; U. S. v. Riley, 5 Blatchf. (U. S.) 204. But there can be but one mode of apportionment in a single district. Tidewater Co. v. Coster, 18 N. J. Eq. 518; 90 Am. Dec. 634.

1. Davenport v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 16 Iowa 348; Durach's Appeal, 62 Pa. St. 491. See also infra, this title, Power to Tax; Exemptions.

2. Caldwell v. Rupert, 10 Bush (Ky.) 179; Kniper v. Louisville, 7 Bush (Ky.) 599; Slack v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 1; Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435; Stetson v. Kempton, 13 Mass. 272; 7 Am. Dec. 145; State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530; Henry v. Bell, 75 Mo. 194; Asheville v. Means, 7 Ired. (N. Car.) 406; In re Second Avenue M. E. Church, 66 N. Y. 395; State v. Saalmann, 37 N. J. L. 156; Ryerson v. Laketon Tp., 52 Mich. 509; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. York County, 7 Neb. 487; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367; Corpus Christi v. Woessner, 58 Tex. 462; Jodon v. Brenham, 57 Tex. 655; Fort Worth v. Davis, 57 Tex. 225; Savannah v. Hartridge, 8 Ga. 23; State v. Shreveport, 33 La. Ann. 1179; Plaquemine v. Roth, 29 La. Ann. 261; Allen v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 85; Alton v. Aetna Ins. Co., 82 Ill. 45; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Davenport, 51 Iowa 454; Iowa Homestead Co. v. Webster County, 21 Iowa 221; Tallman v. Butler County, 12 Iowa 531; Faxon v. McCosh, 12 Iowa 527; Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 30 Gratt. (Va.) 471; Bull v. Read, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 87. And see Watts v. McCleave, 16 Ill. App. 272; Sherman v. Benford, 10 R. I. 559; Lisbon v. Bath, 21 N. H. 319; Clapp v. Cedar County, 5 Iowa 15; Rice v. Walker, 44 Iowa 458; Weeks v. Milwaukee, 10 Wis. 242.

Where an ordinance of a municipality levying a tax is in conflict with an existing statute, it is void. New Orleans v. Southern Bank, 15 La. Ann. 89.

The authority to levy cannot be collected by doubtful inferences from other powers or powers relating to other subjects, nor deduced from any consideration of convenience or advantage. Basnett v. Jacksonville, 19 Fla. 664.

In Fort Worth v. Davis, 57 Tex. 225, it was held that a city, in its capacity as a school district, has no other power to levy the school taxes than such as can be found expressly authorized in the constitution.

The amount and subject of the levy, and the method of raising it, ought to be so plainly pointed out as to avoid all danger of oppression by erroneous interpretation. State v. Bank of Newbern, 1 Dev. & B. Eq. (N. Car.) 218; Camden, etc., R. Co. v. Hillegas, 18 N. J. L. 11; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Sac County, 39 Iowa 129. And see Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182.

But a county board of police, levying a tax for special purposes, need not specify the particular special purposes for which the levy is made. Coulson v. Harris, 43 Miss. 728. And instead of fixing a specific sum to be raised by taxation, a percentage on the assessed value of property may be directed. The designation of a percentage on a definite sum, is just as certain as though it were calculated; nothing remaining to be done except a simple computation. Hubbard v. Winsor, 15 Mich. 146; Peed v. Millikan, 79 Ind. 86. And see Wilson v. Hamilton County, 68 Ind. 507; Williams v. Hall, 65 Ind. 129.

3. Robinson v. Dodge, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 351; Trumbull v. White, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 46; Scofield v. Lansing, 17 Mich. 437; State v. Koster, 38 N. J. L. 308; Mercer County Ct. v. Kentucky Riv. Nav. Co., 8 Bush (Ky.) 300; Oakland v. Carpentier, 13 Cal. 540.

A resolution, at a town meeting, to raise as much as the township committee shall direct, is illegal and will be set aside. State v. Sickles, 24 N. J. L. 125.

Where the duty of levying taxes is imposed on the county court, its clerk pursued;¹ conditions precedent, requiring the submission of the proposition to the voters or taxpayers,² or the sanction or peticannot certify the amount due from any taxpayer, simply from a certificate from the city clerk as to the city rate of taxation, and without an order from the court. Kansas v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 81 Mo. 285.

1. Montgomery v. State, 38 Ala. 162; Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241; Chicago v. Wright, 32 Ill. 192; Scammon v. Chicago, 40 Ill. 146; Kyle v. Malin, 8 Ind. 34; Sharp v. Johnson, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 92; 40 Am. Dec. 259; Matter of Turner, 44 Barb. (N. Y.) 46; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. York County, 7 Neb. 487; State v. Jersey City, 26 N. J. L. 444; Henderson v. Baltimore, 8 Md. 352; Kniper v. Louisville, 7 Bush (Ky.) 599; Huse v. Merriam, 2 Me. 375; Joyner v. School Dist. No. 3, 3 Cush. (Mass.) 567; Hamlin v. Meadville, 6 Neb. 227; Merritt v. Port Chester, 71 N. Y. 309; 27 Am. Rep. 47; Douglass' Petition, 46 N. Y. 42; New Orleans v. Southern Bank, 15 La. Ann. 89. And see Smith v. Davis, 30 Cal. 536; Smith v. Cofran, 34 Cal. 310; Taylor v. Donner, 31 Cal. 480; McComb v. Bell, 2 Minn. 295; St. Joseph v. Anthony, 30 Mo. 537; State v. Hagerty, 5 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 22; Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 26; Wells v. Board of Education, 20 W. Va. 157; Richmond v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 604; State v. Reeves, 28 N. J. L. 520; State v. Hagood, 13 S. Car. 46.

A tax extended by the proper officer, without any levy having been made, is void. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Epper-son, 97 Mo. 300.

The grant to a municipal corporation, of power to provide for the levy and collection of special taxes for the improvement of streets, upon real estate adjacent to such improvement, does not include the power to provide for the sale and conveyance of such real estate in case of non-payment. Paine v. Spratley, 5 Kan. 317. And where a tax is ordered for a specific purpose, it must appear that it was levied for that purpose. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 89 Ky. 531. And where a levy is void because its purpose is not specified, no subsequent specification can cure the illegality. Dean v. Lufkin, 54 Tex. 265.

But when a statute requires taxes to be laid specifically for each separate purpose, it is not illegal to assess a tax of a certain per cent. in gross, and then define in detail the percentage for each specific purpose. Brunswick v. Finney, 54 Ga. 317.

Publication of Ordinance.—The publication of an ordinance levying a tax, with the other proceedings of the body adopting it, is a sufficient publication. Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385.

In Mix v. People, 106 Ill. 425, it was held that under the general incorporation law of Illinois, it is not necessary to publish ordinances levying city taxes; ordinances making appropriations for money only, need be published.

2. Submission of Question to Popular Vote.—Where the question of a levy is authorized or required to be submitted to a popular vote, the submission must be in strict conformity to the requirements of the statute, and the levy be by the board or body authorized by law to make it in pursuance of the vote. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Woodbury County, 39 Iowa 172; Spann v. Webster County, 64 Ga. 498; Stein v. Mobile, 24 Ala. 591; School Directors v. Fogleman, 76 Ill. 189; Thatcher v. People, 93 Ill. 240; Watts v. McCleave, 16 Ill. App. 272; People v. Castro, 39 Cal. 65; Bullock v. Curry, 2 Metc. (Ky.) 172; Slack v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 1; Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 32 Ark. 131; Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496; Cole v. Blackwell, 38 Ark. 271; Starin v. Genoa, 23 N. Y. 439; People v. Fort Edward, 70 N. Y. 28; Hawkins v. Carroll County, 50 Miss. 735; Bowen v. King, 34 Vt. 156; Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460; Lemoille Valley R. Co. v. Fairfield, 51 Vt. 257; Lisbon v. Bath, 21 N. H. 319; U. S. v. New Orleans, 2 Woods (U. S.) 230. See also Wilson v. Charlotte, 74 N. Car. 748; Tucker v. Raleigh, 75 N. Car. 267; Fort Worth v. Davis, 57 Tex. 225; Bartemeyer v. Rohlfs, 71 Iowa 582.

See infra, this title, Municipal Taxation—Submission to the People.

The word "assent," when used with reference to the levy of a tax with the assent of the electors, or of some board or body, must be given its usual and ordinary signification, that is, agreeing or consenting to; and this can be manifested only in an election by actual vote. Hawkins v. Carroll County, 50 Miss. 735.

A township tax exceeding the amount voted by the township, may be sus-tion of a designated number of the taxpayers to be thereby affected,¹ or the consent or recommendation of a designated officer, person, or body,² or a certificate or estimate of the amount necessary, must be strictly complied with;³ and a tax levied and tained on the presumption that the township board has exercised its statutory right to increase the amount, if there is no showing to the contrary. Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561; Stockle v. Silsbee, 41 Mich. 615.

Where electors at a town meeting have legal authority to vote taxes in advance, in order to meet the prompt payment of existing obligations, the question as to how far in advance they may be voted, is to be determined by a vote of the electors of the town. Wright v. People, 87 Ill. 582.

In Arkansas, the electors of a school district have sole authority to fix the amount of a school tax, and the only limit upon them is that they shall not levy a less sum than is sufficient to carry on a school for three months in each scholastic year. Union County Ct. v. Robinson, 27 Ark. 116.

1. See Cain v. Davie County, 86 N. Car. 8; People v. Oldtown, 88 Ill. 202; Steckert v. East Saginaw, 22 Mich. 104; West v. Whitaker, 37 Iowa 598; Henderson v. Baltimore, 8 Md. 352; Covington v. Casey, 3 Bush (Ky.) 698; Couper v. Rowe, 42 Ga. 229; Robinson v. Logan, 31 Ohio St. 466; State v. Portage, 12 Wis. 562; Dean v. Madison, 9 Wis. 402; Jenkins v. Rock County, 15 Wis. 11.

Where commissioners are appointed for the purpose of procuring the assent of a designated number of electors, their certificate, executed and recorded as required by law, is conclusive as to all matters committed to them, and concludes all questions as to the assenting of the required majority. First Nat. Bank v. Concord, 50 Vt. 257.

Mere ambiguity or uncertainty in the phraseology of a petition for an appropriation, will not vitiate the levy of the tax, when it is apparent that no interested party was, or could be, misled or deceived thereby, or could misapprehend the intention and purpose of the petitioners. Scott v. Hansheer, 94 Ind. 1; Jussen v. Lake County, 95 Ind. 567.

2. Kitchin v. Smith, 101 Pa. St. 452; Solomon v. Tarver, 52 Ga. 405; Reynolds v. Lofton, 18 Ga. 47; Barlow v. Sumter County, 47 Ga. 639; State v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 97 Mo. 296.

Under statutes requiring certain taxes to be levied only upon a recommendation of some designated board or body, if such board or body fails or refuses to recommend a tax sufficient to pay the necessary current expenses, and any debts that may be in judgment against the municipality, it may, as a general rule, levy a tax of its own motion sufficient to meet such expenses and liabilities. See Walker v. Perkins, 52 Ga. 233; Couper v. Rowe, 42 Ga. 229; Arnett v. Griffin, 60 Ga. 349.

3. Prerequisite of Appropriation, Certificate, etc.—The prerequisite of an appropriation ordinance, or certificate, or estimate of the amount necessary to meet current expenses, is, when required, regarded as a limitation on the power of a municipality, or other subdivision, to levy a tax, and a levy not based on such ordinance or certificate, is void. Riverside Co. v. Hall, 113 Ill. 256; Misner v. Bullard, 43 Ill. 470; Weber v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill. 451; State v. Gadsden County, 17 Fla. 418; Smith v. Crittenden, 16 Mich. 152; Hogleskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Lancaster County, 12 Neb. 324; State v. Harvey, 12 Neb. 31; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Saunders County, 16 Neb. 123; Arnold v. Juneau County, 43 Wis. 627.

But see Raley v. Guinn, 76 Mo. 263, where the failure of the county court to ascertain and enter of record the sum necessary for county purposes, before levying a tax, was held but an irregularity not invalidating the entire county levy. Where the form is not prescribed, a certificate which shows definitely the amount required, is sufficient. Gage v. Bailey, 102 Ill. 11; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Lancaster County, 12 Neb. 324; Dent v. Bryce, 16 S. Car. 1. And see Harding v. Bader, 75 Mich. 316.

The information may be given by stating the rate per cent. on the taxable property of the town, as well as by giving the aggregate amount of town taxes to be levied. Gage v. Bailey, 102 Ill. 11. But in Florida, the itemized estimate of moneys required to be raised by county tax for school purposes, should contain not only a statement of the whole amount of money necessary for the support of schools for the school year, but also the estimated income from the state school tax and other probable sources, so that the county commissioners may be notified of the amount required to be raised by county taxation; and if it contains sums other than for the expenses of maintaining schools, such items should be struck out by the county commissioners. State v. Gadsden County, 17 Fla. 418.

collected at any other time,¹ or in any other manner than that

In Nebraska, a levy made in excess of the published estimate is not void; but the county commissioners are rendered liable for the penalty prescribed, for including such excess in their levy. State v. Wise, 12 Neb. 313.

A city, in certifying the amount of taxes to be levied for any one year, is limited to the amount in the appropriation ordinance, but it is not required that the entire sum be levied and collected. McIntosh v. People, 93 Ill. 540.

Where a certificate directing the levy of a tax is specifically required to be signed by the president and secretary of the body or board by which it is made, a levy based upon such a certificate signed only by the secretary, is void. Hogleskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422.

In Smith v. Crittenden, 16 Mich. 152, a statute directing a certificate to the supervisors of the township of town indebtedness, to be filed on or before the first Monday of October in each year, was held to be directory, and a tax levied upon a certificate filed after the first but before the second Monday, was held valid. See also Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 597.

In Illinois, if the certificate is not filed in season, the levy cannot be made in any succeeding year for back taxes. Weber v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill. 451. And see First Nat. Bank v. Cook, 77 Ill. 622; Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241.

Certificate by State to County or Municipal Officers.—Where state taxes are required to be certified to the proper officers of counties or other municipal divisions, to be levied and collected by them for the use of the state, the general rule is that where the certificate is regular on its face, it is conclusive upon the body to which it is directed, making it its duty to levy and provide for the collection of the tax. Smith v. Crittenden, 16 Mich. 152; Robbins v. Barron, 33 Mich. 126; Boyce v. Seb- ring, 66 Mich. 210; People v. Jackson County, 24 Mich. 237; People v. St. Clair County, 30 Mich. 388; State v. Milburn, 9 Gill (Md.) 97; State v. Gadsden County, 17 Fla. 418; State v. Smith, 11 Wis. 65. And see State v. Madison, 15 Wis. 30; State v. Beloit, 20 Wis. 79; State v. Racine, 22 Wis. 258; State v. Milwaukee, 25 Wis. 122; State v. Portage, 12 Wis. 552; State v. Wilson, 17 Wis. 687; Murphy v. Harbison, 29 Ark. 340.

The certificate is presumed to have been filed at the date of the file mark. Gage v. Nichols, 135 Ill. 128.

1. Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 27; Beard v. Lee County, 51 Miss. 542; Harris v. Stockett, 58 Miss. 825; Briggs v. Chandler, 60 Miss. 862; Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1; Smith v. Nelson, 57 Miss. 138; Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241; Cowgill v. Long, 15 Ill. 202; McLaughlin v. Thompson, 55 Ill. 249; Webster v. French, 12 Ill. 302; People v. Cooper, 10 Ill. App. 384; State v. Shreveport, 33 La. Ann. 1179; Wells v. Hyattsville (Md. 1893), 26 Atl. Rep. 357; Doe v. McQuilkin, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 335; Wilson v. Hamilton County, 68 Ind. 507; Scott v. Union County, 63 Iowa 583; Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460; Free v. Scarborough, 76 Tex. 672; Martin v. McDiarmid, 55 Ark. 213. And see Smith v. Nelson, 57 Miss. 138; Kratil v. Larrew, 104 Ind. 363. But see Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 391; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Perrin v. Benson, 49 Iowa 325; Hill v. Wolfe, 28 Iowa 577; Easton v. Savery, 44 Iowa 654; Wells v. Burbank, 17 N. H. 393; State v. Harris, 17 Ohio St. 608; Gearhart v. Dixon, 1 Pa. St. 224. The latter case held that a direction to levy a tax within a certain time, was directory only as to the time, and that a tax thereafter assessed was not thereby invalidated. See also Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 207.

In Easton v. Savery, 44 Iowa 654. it was held that a levy was not invalidated by the fact that it was made before the time specified in the law authorizing it.

In McCready v. Lansdale, 58 Miss. 878, where a levy of county taxes was made at the proper time, but at a subsequent meeting an order was made purporting to set aside the former levy, and make a new one reducing the rate, it was held that, as the order changing the levy did not impose any taxes, but specified, is void.¹ But a mere irregularity or informality does not vitiate the levy, when the purpose to levy a tax and have it collected is plainly manifested substantially in the manner provided by law.² When ambiguous in terms, such statutes should was a mere reduction of the levy made at the proper time, it would be considered to be an amendment to the former levy; and that the levy was good. See also Fairfield v. People, 94 Ill. 244.

In Hubbard v. Winsor, 15 Mich. 146, where the law required supervisors to act at their session in October, and they met in pursuance thereof, but fixed the amount of taxes for the ensuing year at a subsequent adjourned meeting, it was held that the session in October embraced all adjournments, although they might run into another month, and that the law merely referred to it by way of designation. See also State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 136.

In Peed v. Millikan, 79 Ind. 86, it was held that where the law requires a levy to be made by a particular session of the board authorized to make it, the duty to make the levy is absolute, and if for any reason, there is a failure to make it at the prescribed time, the power to make it is not thereby lost, but may be afterwards exercised. See also Sackett v. State, 74 Ind. 486; Gearhart v. Dixon, 1 Pa. St. 224.

1. Warren County v. Klein, 51 Miss. 807; State v. Shreveport, 33 La. Ann. 1179; Kaye v. Hall, 13 B. Mon. (Ky.) 455; Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241; Gustin v. School Dist. No. 5, 10 Gray (Mass.) 83; Holmes v. Baker, 16 Gray (Mass.) 259; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Sac County, 39 Iowa 124; Marion County v. Barker, 25 Kan. 258; Sloan v. Beebe, 24 Kan. 343; Tull v. Royston, 30 Kan. 619; Rees v. Watertown, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 107; Ryerson v. Laketon Tp., 52 Mich. 509; Pontiac v. Axford, 49 Mich. 69; State v. Harris, 17 Ohio St. 608; Walker v. Burlington, 56 Vt. 131. But see Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1.

An order made by a board of commissioners at a special session not legally convened, levying a special tax, is illegal and void, and the collection thereof may be enjoined at the suit of a taxpayer. Fahlor v. Wells County, 101 Ind. 167.

A city tax, voted without observing a requirement that the votes of all the members relating to the act in question be entered at large upon the minutes, is invalid. Steckert v. East Saginaw, 22 Mich. 304. But this requirement does not apply to city taxes, where the action of the council is formal and compulsory, as where it is called upon to raise a school tax on a vote of the district, and has no discretion concerning it. Pontiac v. Axford, 49 Mich. 69.

Place of Levy.—A levy of taxes made by a board of supervisors while holding its session at a place where it was not authorized by law to hold a session, is void. Capital State Bank v. Lewis, 64 Miss. 727. And see Johnson v. Futch, 57 Miss. 73; Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 26.

The Arkansas constitution authorizes the justices of the peace to sit with the county judge in levying taxes and making appropriations for the expense of the county. Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496.

2. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Lancaster County, 12 Neb. 324; Hull v. Kearney County, 13 Neb. 539; State v. Wise, 12 Neb. 313; Lake County v. Sulphur Bank, etc., Min. Co., 66 Cal. 17; Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385; State v. Allen, 43 Ill. 456; Edwards v. People, 88 Ill. 340; Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 597; Clayton v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 280; Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241; Davis v. Brace, 82 Ill. 542; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; West v. Whitaker, 37 Iowa 598; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Osceola County, 45 Iowa 176; Snell v. Fort Dodge, 45 Iowa 564; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Kossuth County, 41 Iowa 57; Cassady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523; Bartemeyer v. Rohlfis, 71 Iowa 582; Mustard v. Hoppess, 69 Ind. 324; Bittinger v. Bell, 65 Ind. 445; Peed v. Millikan, 79 Ind. 86; Jefferson County v. Johnson, 23 Kan. 717; Torrington v. Rickershauser, 41 Kan. 486; Wattles v. Lapeer, 40 Mich. 624; Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561; Boyce v. Auditor Gen'l, 90 Mich. 314; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County, 54 Tex. 119; Labadie v. Dean, 47 Tex. 90. And see O'Grady v. Barnhisel, 23 Cal. 287; St. Louis County v. Nettleton, 22 Minn. 356; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 136.

A levy is legal if made for a proper purpose without reference to the name by which the tax is designated. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Cass County, 16 Neb. 136.

be construed more strongly in favor of the citizen and against the state.¹

A tax levy containing illegal items will not be invalid if so made that the part which is legal can be separated from that which is illegal,² but if this cannot be done the whole is void.³

Where there is a law authorizing a levy, the levy is valid, even though it was intended to be made under a different law. Davis v. Brace, 82 Ill. 542. And where the record of the county commissioners levying a tax, may be construed as basing the levy equally well on either of two statutes, but as applied to one the levy is excessive, and to the other, not excessive, it will be prima facie regarded as based on the latter act, though the tax therein mentioned can only be levied to provide for a particular condition of the roads, while the other act is general, and the levy actually made is in general terms. Lima v. McBride, 34 Ohio St. 338.

Where the record discloses that a board authorized to levy taxes met for that purpose, and decided what should be the rate for various purposes, their order was held to constitute a levy. Tallman v. Cooke, 43 Iowa 330. And the failure of the board of supervisors to direct the levy of a sum lawfully voted to be raised by taxation for township purposes, will not invalidate the action of the supervisor in spreading it on his roll. Upton v. Kennedy, 36 Mich. 215.

In Shontz v. Evans, 40 Iowa 139, it was held that the levying of a tax described as "railroad tax, five mills," is sufficiently explicit, when the purpose and object of the tax and the beneficiary corporation can be ascertained aliunde.

In Dawson v. Ward, 71 Tex. 72, it was held that an order that the assessor "be and is hereby instructed to assess all taxes that he is authorized to assess for the county, at one-half the amount he assesses for the state," does not levy a general county tax.

1. Savannah v. Hartridge, 8 Ga. 23; Bank of Georgia v. Savannah, Dudley (Ga.) 130; Randolph v. Metcalf, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 400. And see Sewall v. Jones, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 412; Ontario Bank v. Bunnell, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 186; Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496.

When an ordinance levying a tax will admit of two constructions, it should receive that which is consistent with the power given, not that which is in violation of it. Baltimore v. Hughes, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 480; 19 Am. Dec. 243.

Where a municipality fails to levy and collect a tax for a particular purpose, it cannot have the amount thereof levied and collected under an authority to levy a different tax, so as to make the latter exceed the limit prescribed by law. Webster v. People, 98 Ill. 343.

2. DeFremery v. Austin, 53 Cal. 380; Stokes v. Geddes, 46 Cal. 17; Jones v. Gilles, 45 Cal. 541; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. York County, 7 Neb. 487; Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435; Allen v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 85; Fuller v. Heath, 89 Ill. 296; Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241; People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517; State v. Allen, 43 Ill. 456; Lafin v. Chicago, 48 Ill. 449; Sully v. Kuehl, 30 Iowa 275; Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa 160; Rhodes v. Sexton, 33 Iowa 540; Parker v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 421; Hurley v. Powell, 31 Iowa 64; Cummings v. Fitch, 40 Ohio St. 56; Dutrick v. Mason, 57 Pa. St. 40; Press Printing Co. v. State Board, 51 N. J. L. 75; Taft v. Barrett, 58 N. H. 447; Bright v. Halloman, 7 Lea (Tenn.) 309.

Where an act of the legislature is intended to accomplish a single object, although a part of it may be good, if the other part is unconstitutional, the whole must fall together; but if it attempts to accomplish two or more objects, and is void as to one, it may be in every respect valid as to the other. Cornell v. People, 107 Ill. 372; People v. Cooper, 83 Ill. 585.

In Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241, it was held that a levy of taxes in excess of the per cent. allowed by law, does not render the whole tax void, but only so much of it as is in excess of the constitutional limit, if the tax within the limit can be separated from that portion which is in excess thereof. See also State v. McClurg, 27 N. J. L. 253. And in Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385, it was held that where a city ordinance for the levy of a tax, specified the purposes for which the levy was to be made, and the sum required to be raised for each purpose, a part of which were illegal, judgment should be rendered for the amount legally levied after deducting the illegal portion.

3. Hubbard v. Brainard, 35 Conn. 563; First Ecclesiastical Soc. v. Hart-

And some courts hold that a portion of a levy cannot be held legal if another part is illegal.¹

3. Conclusiveness and Effect.—The determination of the legislature in levying a tax is, within constitutional restrictions, conclusive and not subject to judicial review.² The presumption is that taxes are properly and legally levied.³ The legislature may repeal a statute under which taxes have been imposed, or prohibit the collection of taxes after they have been duly levied and as-ford, 38 Conn. 274; Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496; State v. Humphreys, 25 Ohio St. 520. And see Bailey v. Haywood, 70 Mich. 188.

Where a levy is made of an amount less than the limit, and afterwards another is made in excess of the balance, the former levy is valid, but the latter is void in whole, both as to the excess and as to that within the limits. Cummings v. Fitch, 40 Ohio St. 56.

1. See Basnett v. Jacksonville, 19 Fla. 664; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; Hall v. Kellogg, 16 Mich. 135; Hewitt v. White, 78 Mich. 117; Rogers v. White, 68 Mich. 10; Lacey v. Davis, 4 Mich. 140; 66 Am. Dec. 524; Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 26; Capital State Bank v. Lewis, 64 Miss. 727; Gerry v. Stoneham, 1 Allen (Mass.) 319; State v. Hagood, 13 S. Car. 46; Wells v. Burbank, 17 N. H. 393; Elwell v. Shaw, 1 Me. 339; Johnson v. Colburn, 36 Vt. 693; Drew v. Davis, 10 Vt. 506.

In Dean v. Lufkin, 54 Tex. 265, it was held that where the limit allowed by law is exhausted, the levy of an additional tax is unauthorized, and such a levy being illegal, the entire levy is thereby infected and made void.

2. People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419; 55 Am. Dec. 256; Brewster v. Syracuse, 19 N. Y. 116; People v. Home Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. 328; Gordon v. Carnes, 47 N. Y. 608; State v. Maginnis, 26 La. Ann. 559; Woodbridge v. Detroit, 8 Mich. 274; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 479; Scovill v. Cleveland, 1 Ohio St. 126; Cincinnati v. Gwynne, 10 Ohio 192; Bonsall v. Lebanon, 19 Ohio 418; Dean v. Lufkin, 54 Tex. 265; Blanding v. Burr, 13 Cal. 342; Beals v. Amador County, 35 Cal. 632; Wheeler v. Plattsmouth, 7 Neb. 270; Stewart v. Polk County, 30 Iowa 9; Louisiana v. Pilsbury, 105 U. S. 278; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Otoe County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 677; Wharton v. School Directors, 42 Pa. St. 358.

Determination of Local Body.—The determination of a local legislative body is, in its turn, likewise conclusive within the scope of its local authority. Wharton v. School Directors, 42 Pa. St. 358; Williams v. School District No. 1, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; 32 Am. Dec. 243; Jenkins v. Andover, 103 Mass. 94; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; People v. East Saginaw, 33 Mich. 164; In re Powers, 52 Mo. 218; Marr v. Enloe, 1 Yerg. (Tenn.) 452; Obion County Ct. v. Marr, 8 Humph. (Tenn.) 634; Eddy v. Wilson, 43 Vt. 362. And see Kniper v. Louisville, 7 Bush (Ky.) 599; Mason v. Lancaster, 4 Bush (Ky.) 406; Tee-garden v. Racine, 56 Wis. 545.

Where certain facts are to be ascertained, and the question is not whether the board shall act at all, but whether it has acted correctly, it acts in a judicial capacity, and an appeal from its determinations will lie. White County v. Karp, 90 Ind. 236.

The question as to what expenditures are proper and necessary for municipal administration, is not judicial; it is confined by law to the discretion of the municipal authorities, and no court has the right to control, usurp, or supersede that discretion. East St. Louis v. U. S., 110 U. S. 321.

3. See School Dist. No. 8 v. Garvey, 80 Ky. 159; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 207; Baltimore v. Hughes, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 480; 19 Am. Dec. 243; Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Gage v. Bailey, 102 Ill. 11; Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561; Wells v. Austin, 59 Vt. 157; Hintrager v. Klene, 62 Iowa 605; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 136; Arnold v. Juneau County, 43 Wis. 627.

It will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that at least a quorum of the board or body authorized to vote a tax was present. Lacey v. Davis, 4 Mich. 140; 66 Am. Dec. 524. Where it appears that county taxes were levied at a special meeting of the board of supervisors, it will be presumed, in the absence of proof to the sessed;¹ in the latter case, the intent must clearly appear.² A state or county, having levied a tax upon land in the name of a party, is estopped to deny his title thereto in an action to enforce the collection of the tax.³

4. Exhaustion of Power.—In general the power to tax is permanent and continuing, to be exercised whenever the public good contrary, that the meeting was rightfully held, such meetings being authorized by law. Brigins v. Chandler, 60 Miss. 862. But an un mutilated record of the proper board or body containing no record of such levy, is sufficient to rebut the presumption. Hintrager v. Kiene, 62 Iowa 605. See also infra, this title, Record of the Levy.

1. Augusta v. North, 57 Me. 392; 2 Am. Rep. 52; U. S. v. New Orleans, 103 U. S. 358. And see Swift v. Newport, 7 Bush (Ky.) 37.

2. Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 605; Gardenhire v. Mitchell, 21 Kan. 83. And see Ensign v. Barse, 107 N. Y. 329; Bank of Newberry v. Stigall, 41 Miss. 142.

The repeal of the statute under which a tax is assessed does not affect it, if the assessment was completed at the time the repeal took effect. Appeal Tax Court v. Union R. Co., 50 Md. 274; Appeal Tax Court v. Patterson, 50 Md. 354; Appeal Tax Court v. Baltimore Academy, 50 Md. 437; Appeal Tax Court v. University of Maryland, 50 Md. 457; Warren R. Co. v. Belvidere, 35 N. J. L. 584.

But inferior boards and bodies deriving their power from statutes, have no authority to reconsider and reverse their own official action, unless the statute so provides. People v. Schenectady County, 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 408. And see infra, this title, The Assessment.

Change of Constitution.—Taxes legally levied but not collected before a change in the constitution takes effect, are not invalidated, although they are not imposed upon the basis directed by the new constitution. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Saunders County, 9 Neb. 507.

3. Brandriff v. Harrison County, 50 Iowa 164; Adams County v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 39 Iowa 507; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Story County, 36 Iowa 48; Audubon County v. American Emigrant Co., 40 Iowa 460; Austin v. Bremer County, 44 Iowa 155; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Stewart, 39 Iowa 267; Lamb v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 39 Iowa 333. And see Gibson v. Howe, 37 Iowa 168; Sully v. Poorbaugh, 45 Iowa

453; Calhoun County v. American Emigrant Co., 93 U. S. 124.

But the mere collection of taxes upon lands of which a municipality still claims to be the owner, does not estop it to assert its ownership against the party paying the taxes, if he was not thereby induced to pay them and did not rely thereon in making the payment, but did so believing he had title, and relying upon his own judgment. Buena Vista County v. Iowa Falls, etc., R. Co., 46 Iowa 226.

The assessment of a tax, without enforcing its collection, will not estop a county from setting up a claim that the land was its own property at the time of the levy. Page County v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 40 Iowa 520.

In American Emigrant Co. v. Iowa R. Land Co., 52 Iowa 323, it was held that the bringing of an action by a county, to set aside a conveyance of land made by it, will not estop the county to levy taxes upon property during the pendency of the action.

But estoppels against the state are not favored, and though they may arise from its express grants, they cannot grow out of laches of its officers. State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; Rossire v. Boston, 4 Allen (Mass.) 57; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. People, 46 Mich. 193; Lee v. Sturges, 46 Ohio St. 153. And see U. S. v. Hazard, 3 Cent. L. J. 653; U. S. v. Halloran, 14 Alb. L. J. 279.

A municipality that has collected taxes under an unconstitutional statute, is not thereby estopped to dispute the correctness of the valuation, and make a reassessment. Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Guenther, 19 Fed. Rep. 395. Nor does an unconstitutional act remitting a tax, bar its subsequent assertion. Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546.

It has been held that a negligent assessment and sale of public lands as private property does not estop the state from setting up its title. St. Louis v. Gorman, 29 Mo. 593; Ellsworth v. Grand Rapids, 27 Mich. 250; Crane v. Reeder, 25 Mich. 303. And may require it;¹ though a single levy is sometimes deemed to exhaust the power for the time being, as where the custom is to tax but once within a certain period of time.² A levy of the full amount limited by law precludes an additional tax,³ but an unsuc-see Buena Vista County v. Iowa Falls, etc., R. Co., 46 Iowa 226.

1. Municipality No. 2 v. Dunn, 10 La. Ann. 57; People v. Dutchess County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 50; Davis v. Brace, 82 Ill. 542; Williams v. Detroit, 2 Mich. 561; Reithmiller v. People, 44 Mich. 280; Wells v. Board of Education, 20 W. Va. 157. And see Benoist v. St. Louis, 19 Mo. 179; Sheridan v. Fleming, 93 Mo. 321; Rice v. Walker, 44 Iowa 458; Calhoun County v. Galbraith, 99 U. S. 214; Oliver v. Carsner, 39 Tex. 396; Mason County v. Huidekoper, 134 U. S. 332.

2. St. Louis Bridge, etc., Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530; Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435; Cope v. Collins, 37 Ark. 649; Graham v. Parham, 32 Ark. 685; Brodie v. McCabe, 33 Ark. 696; Oliver v. Carsner, 39 Tex. 396; Dean v. Lufkin, 54 Tex. 265; Wells v. Board of Education, 20 W. Va. 157; Cummings v. Fitch, 40 Ohio St. 56.

In People v. Waynesville, 88 Ill. 469, it is said that, as a general rule, where the law confers a power, and the persons upon whom it is conferred act under it, the power is exhausted, unless the same authority authorizes its subsequent exercise.

When once a levy for general purposes has been made, whether of less than the maximum rate or not, no special levy, even for a part that might be classed properly under the head of general purposes, can be made, in the absence of a provision of law authorizing it. State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530. But the omission to levy a tax on licenses, in making a general levy, may be subsequently cured. State v. Maguire, 52 Mo. 420.

In Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Portland, 2 Oregon 81, it was held that after the assessment of all the taxable property had been made and a tax levied therein, the council had no power to order an additional assessment of property subsequently coming within the city limits.

Where the proceeds of a special assessment levied for the purpose of constructing public improvements, become insufficient for the purpose indicated, by reason of a failure to collect the amount assessed upon particular property, there can be no new assessment upon other property embraced in the original assessment which is not delinquent to supply such deficiency. Chicago v. People, 56 Ill. 327; Workman v. Chicago, 61 Ill. 463.

3. Cummings v. Fitch, 40 Ohio St. 56; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Atchison County, 47 Kan. 722; Osborne County v. Blake, 25 Kan. 356; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Woodcock, 18 Kan. 20; National Bank v. Barber, 24 Kan. 546; Dumphy v. Humboldt County, 58 Iowa 273; Sterling School Furniture Co. v. Harvey, 45 Iowa 466. And see Wattles v. Lapeer, 40 Mich. 624; State v. Cage, 34 La. Ann. 506; Benoist v. St. Louis, 19 Mo. 179; Arnold v. Hawkins, 95 Mo. 569; Ballentine v. Pulaski, 15 Lea (Tenn.) 633.

That the first levy which exhausted the limit, was compelled by mandamus, furnishes no ground for a new levy in excess thereof. Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435.

Under the Illinois statutes, two different methods are provided for raising money for repairing roads, bridges, etc.; money may be raised for a road tax by either mode, and in case of failure to raise money in one mode the other may be adopted; but when a levy is made in one mode it cannot be made in the other, the statute contemplating but one tax. Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 597.

In Osborne County v. Blake, 19 Kan. 299, it was held that where only a small amount of tax was levied for the current expenses of previous years, county commissioners may be allowed to levy an additional amount of tax for the current expenses of those years, provided the two levies for any one year shall not exceed in the aggregate the maximum rate allowed by law. See also People v. Waynesville, 88 Ill. 469.

In Dean v. Lufkin, 54 Tex. 265, it was held that where a commissioners' court has exhausted its power in making a levy to pay ordinary debts of the county, it exceeds its authority in making an additional levy partly for the same purpose, and that the whole levy is illegal, and is not cured by an order cessful attempt to lay a tax does not exhaust the power, and a new and valid levy may be made afterwards.¹

5. Compulsory Levy.—See MANDAMUS, vol. 14, p. 88.

6. Record of the Levy.—Every essential proceeding in the course of a levy of taxes should appear in some written and permanent form in the records of the bodies authorized to act upon it;² the record being usually the only evidence to show that the tax was duly levied,³ and ordinarily conclusive as to all matters therein afterwards made declaring a part of the levy to be illegal.

1. Himmelmann v. Cofran, 36 Cal. 411; Society for Savings v. New London, 29 Conn. 174; People v. Waynesville, 88 Ill. 469; Bangor v. Lancey, 21 Me. 472; Pond v. Negus, 3 Mass. 230; 3 Am. Dec. 131; Libby v. Burnham, 15 Mass. 144; State v. Newark, 34 N. J. L. 236; Monroe v. Fort Howard, 50 Wis. 228. And see State v. Maguire, 52 Mo. 420; Wells v. Board of Education, 20 W. Va. 157; Sanford v. Prentice, 28 Wis. 358.

A school district meeting voted a tax for a schoolhouse. No action was taken upon the vote, and it was neither reconsidered nor rescinded. Four months afterwards a like tax was voted at a special meeting. It was held that the last vote was valid. Randall v. Smith, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 214.

2. Moser v. White, 29 Mich. 59; Folkerts v. Power, 42 Mich. 283; Power's Appeal, 29 Mich. 504; Hodgkin v. Fry, 33 Ark. 716; Sherwin v. Bugbee, 17 Vt. 337; Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182; Athens County v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 37 Ohio St. 205. And see Nalle v. Fenwick, 4 Rand. (Va.) 585.

In Gearhart v. Dixon, 1 Pa. St. 224, it was held that school directors are not required to keep a record of their proceedings, in levying a school tax, although it is advisable that they should do so.

In Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Tontz, 29 Kan. 460, a tax was held to be valid, notwithstanding the fact that the county clerk and the county commissioners neglected for six months to enter the levy of the tax upon the county commissioner's record. See also Jefferson County v. Johnson, 23 Kan. 717.

In Gage v. Bailey, 102 Ill. 11, it was held that when the law requires a county board to cause a tax to be levied, it will be presumed that the tax, having been actually levied, was levied by proper authority, although no record of the action of the board is made to appear.

In State v. Saalman, 37 N. J. L. 156, it was held that an order of a township for raising money for the payment of an existing indebtedness of the township, need not be in writing.

3. Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182; Williams v. Mears, 61 Mich. 86; Moor v. Newfield, 4 Me. 44; Taylor v. Henry, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 397; Halleck v. Boylston, 117 Mass. 469; Andrews v. Boylston, 110 Mass. 214; Hintrager v. Kiene, 62 Iowa 605; Moore v. Cooke, 40 Iowa 290; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Lancaster County, 4 Neb. 293; Paul v. Linscott, 56 N. H. 347; Farrar v. Fessenden, 39 N. H. 268; State v. Hardcastle, 26 N. J. L. 143; Hilton v. Bender, 69 N. Y. 75; Dent v. Bryce, 16 S. Car. 1; Hecht v. Boughton, 2 Wyoming 368. And see Nalle v. Fenwick, 4 Rand. (Va.) 585; Sherwin v. Bugbee, 17 Vt. 337; In re Jefferson, 35 Minn. 215; Bissell v. Jeffersonville, 24 How. (U. S.) 287; Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523.

A grant of a city tax is proved by the statute book; the grant of a county tax must be proved by the record of the doings of the county convention. Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182.

Parol evidence is inadmissible to prove the transactions of a school district meeting, the only legal evidence being the record itself or an attested copy. Moor v. Newfield, 4 Me. 44. And it is not competent to prove by oral testimony, the existence of facts to be ascertained by public commissioners, preparatory to laying a tax which such commissioners are required to certify in writing. Baltimore v. Hughes, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 481; 19 Am. Dec. 243.

The record of the proceedings of a district meeting has been held admissible in a proceeding to compel the proper officers to levy a tax, although not expressly required by law to be kept. Rose v. Hindman, 36 Iowa 160.

In Vermont, the warning for a meeting of a school district, must be recorded by the district clerk, and if the record of the warning does not show stated.¹ It should show that the requisite statutory preliminary requirements have been complied with;² that a meeting of the proper body has been held, and the proceedings thereof,³ and that the proposition to make the levy has been duly presented and adopted;⁴ and the facts constituting performance of the statutory requirements should appear, a mere statement that the statute was complied with being usually not enough.⁵ Due au-that the hour of the day for the meeting was specified in the warning, the defect cannot be supplied by parol evidence that the hour was named in the original warning. Sherwin v. Bugbee, 17 Vt. 337.

1. See First Nat. Bank v. Concord, 50 Vt. 257; Eddy v. Wilson, 43 Vt. 362; West v. Whitaker, 37 Iowa 598; People v. Queens County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 195; Gaither v. Green, 40 La. Ann. 362; Voos v. Frankfort, 64 Me. 229; Smith v. Crittenden, 16 Mich. 152; Venice v. Murdock, 92 U. S. 494. And see Greer v. Howell, 64 Tex. 688.

In State v. Van Winkle, 25 N. J. L. 73, it was held that a book of minutes kept by the trustees of a school district, is admissible in evidence to establish their acts in making a levy, but that it is not conclusive and may be overcome by parol evidence. And if defective it may be explained or supplied by parol testimony. Gearhart v. Dixon, 1 Pa. St. 224.

The denomination of a tax in the levy as "for judgment fund" and "for city judgment tax," is not a latent ambiguity, such as will admit evidence to show how the proceeds were intended by the city council to be applied. Rice v. Walker, 44 Iowa 458.

2. Taymouth v. Koehler, 35 Mich. 22; Warren v. Grand Haven, 30 Mich. 25; Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Auditor Gen'l, 41 Mich. 635; Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210; Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182; State v. Van Winkle, 25 N. J. L. 73; State v. Duryea, 40 N. J. L. 266; State v. Hardcastle, 26 N. J. L. 143; Hardcastle v. State, 27 N. J. L. 551. And see Spear v. Ditty, 8 Vt. 419; Sherwin v. Bugbee, 17 Vt. 337; Venice v. Murdock, 92 U. S. 494.

A certificate of trustees, reciting that the company in aid of which a tax is voted, has so complied with the act as to be entitled to the tax, complies with the terms of a statute requiring it to recite a compliance with the statutes in all respects. Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523. And see Williams v. School Dist. No. 1, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; 32 Am. Dec. 243.

3. Taymouth v. Koehler, 35 Mich. 22; Steckert v. East Saginaw, 22 Mich. 104; State v. Van Winkle, 25 N. J. L. 73. And see State v. McIntoch, 7 Ired. (N. Car.) 68; Dudley v. Oliver, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 227; Dent v. Bryce, 16 S. Car. 1.

In North Carolina, the record must affirmatively show that on voting a tax a majority of the justices of the county court was present. Dudley v. Oliver, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 227.

A statement in the minutes, that all the school directors were present, and that the vote was unanimous, but without giving the names of the persons voting, either in the affirmative or negative, is a substantial compliance with a requirement that the names of the members voting, both in the affirmative and negative, be entered upon the minutes, the recording of such vote being contemplated only where there are votes on both sides. Tobin v. Morgan, 70 Pa. St. 229.

4. See Steckert v. East Saginaw, 22 Mich. 104; Pontiac v. Axford, 49 Mich. 69; Boyce v. Auditor Gen'l, 90 Mich. 314; State v. Van Winkle, 25 N. J. L. 73; State v. Duryea, 40 N. J. L. 266; Andrews v. Boylston, 110 Mass. 214; Judd v. Thompson, 125 Mass. 553.

Where a tax is ordered, the sworn certificate required by the New Jersey laws to be delivered by the trustee to the assessor, should show all the facts necessary to render the tax legal, and that such facts are within the knowledge of at least two of the trustees; and the certificate should be verified by their oath. Hardcastle v. State, 27 N. J. L. 551; State v. Padden, 44 N. J. L. 151. And it should show the apportionment by the meeting of a specific amount for each specific purpose. State v. Padden, 44 N. J. L. 151.

The county clerk, before the delivery of the tax books, may amend his record by showing when the levy of a road tax was made. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 207.

5. See Nelson v. Pierce, 6 N. H. 194; State v. Hardcastle, 26 N. J. L. 143; Hardcastle v. State, 27 N. J. L. 551;

thentication as required by law is necessary to the validity of the record,¹ and though it is proper and desirable that it should be signed by the presiding officer and clerk of the body by which it is made,² an entry of the levy on the proper book of record kept for that purpose may be sufficient.³

Absence of the record from the place provided for its preservation, and in which it ought to be found, raises a presumption that it never existed;⁴ but facts may be shown from which its existence and subsequent loss or destruction may be inferred;⁵ and when such loss or destruction is established, secondary evidence of its contents may be given.⁶

Sherwin v. Bugbee, 17 Vt. 337; Weber v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill. 451. See also Longyear v. Aplin, 72 Mich. 415.

In Houghton v. Davenport, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 235, it was held that the return of a constable, on a warrant for calling an annual town meeting, that he has warned the inhabitants of a town, is sufficient evidence that the meeting is legally warned, even though the return does not state in what manner he warned them. See also Sexton v. Nimms, 14 Mass. 315; Briggs v. Murdock, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 305; Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323.

It need not appear on the face of a certificate of town auditors, allowing accounts against the town, that they were made at the proper time and place. It is sufficient if in fact their meeting was regular in those respects. People v. Queens County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 195.

1. Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 423; In re Jefferson, 35 Minn. 215; State v. Padden, 44 N. J. L. 151; Hardcastle v. State, 27 N. J. L. 551.

2. Lacey v. Davis, 4 Mich. 140; 66 Am. Dec. 524; Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 423.

In Goddard v. Stockman, 74 Ind. 400, it was held that while it is the better practice that the record of the proceedings of a board of county commissioners should be signed by the members thereof, unsigned orders of the board are not void, and when properly signed within a reasonable time, they become valid from the time when made. And in Jefferson County v. Johnson, 23 Kan. 717, it was held that the failure of a county clerk to attach his certificate to the tax roll, is a mere irregularity which will not invalidate the subsequent proceedings.

3. Martin v. Cole, 38 Iowa 141; People v. Eureka Lake, etc., Canal Co., 48 Cal. 143; MacKenzie v. Wooley, 39 La. Ann. 944; Lacey v. Davis, 4 Mich. 140;

66 Am. Dec. 524. And see Beck v. Allen, 58 Miss. 143. But see Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 423.

The general rule that every public document required by law to be executed by a public officer must be verified by his official signature, does not extend to records of a corporate board or body which exercises powers municipal and quasi legislative. A tax is not void, therefore, because the record of the board levying it is not signed by the chairman and clerk of the board. The effect of a statute requiring it to be so signed is merely to make their signatures evidence of the identity of the levy. People v. Eureka Lake, etc., Canal Co., 48 Cal. 143.

A certificate of town auditors, allowing accounts against the town, purporting in the body of it to have been made by the board of auditors of the proper town, is sufficient, though the officers have merely signed their names, without the addition of their official titles. People v. Queens County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 195.

4. Hilton v. Bender, 69 N. Y. 75. And see Hintrager v. Kiene, 62 Iowa 605.

In Michigan, the rule that when a record is not to be found in the proper office, it must be accounted for before it can be assumed to have ever existed, is changed by statute, and the contrary presumption is indulged. Upton v. Kennedy, 36 Mich. 215; Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422. And see Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 568.

5. Hilton v. Bender, 69 N. Y. 75. And see Boyce v. Auditor Gen'l, 90 Mich. 314. Proof of loss should be made by the party claiming the benefit of the levy. Moore v. Cooke, 40 Iowa 290.

6. Farrar v. Fessenden, 39 N. H. 268; Weber v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill. 451; Irwin v. Miller, 23 Ill. 348; Lacey v. Davis, 4 Mich. 140; 66 Am. Dec. 524; Quinby v. North American Coal, etc.,

7. Commutation of Tax.—In the absence of constitutional prohibition, the legislature may commute or remit unpaid taxes,¹ or even refund those which have been paid;² but such action should

Co., 2 Heisk. (Tenn.) 596. And see Norris v. Russell, 5 Cal. 249.

In Weber v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill. 451, it was held that if certificates for the levy and extension of school taxes, are copied in the record book, the copy is only secondary evidence, and in no event admissible, until proof is made of the return of the original certificates and of the loss thereof.

The loss of a paper showing the right to the issue of a mandamus to compel the levy of a tax, will not dispense with the clear proof that it contains all the legal requirements. People v. Oldtown, 88 Ill. 202.

1. Demoville v. Davidson County, 87 Tenn. 214; People v. Lee, 28 Hun (N. Y.) 469; Danghrill v. Alabama L. Ins., etc., Co., 31 Ala. 91; Louisiana State Lottery Co. v. New Orleans, 24 La. Ann. 86; Hunsaker v. Wright, 30 Ill. 146; State Bank v. People, 5 Ill. 303; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McLean County, 17 Ill. 291; McDonough County v. Campbell, 42 Ill. 490; Jack-sonville v. McConnel, 12 Ill. 138; Cooper v. Ash, 76 Ill. 11; Gardiner v. State, 21 N. J. L. 557. And see White v. Wheeler, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 573; Terrel v. Wheeler, 49 Hun (N. Y.) 262; Kelly v. Wheeler (Supreme Ct.), 3 N. Y. Supp. 289; Wallerstein v. Bohanna (Supreme Ct.), 5 N. Y. Supp. 319; Fethian v. Wheeler, 125 N. Y. 696; Lamb v. Connolly, 122 N. Y. 531; In re Stevens County (Minn. 1887), 31 N. W. Rep. 942. But see Wilson v. Sutter County, 47 Cal. 91.

The commutation of all taxes and licenses upon the payment of a designated sum, is not an illegal exemption, and does not conflict with a constitutional provision that taxation shall be equal and uniform, and in proportion to the value of the property. Louisiana State Lottery Co. v. New Orleans, 24 La. Ann. 86.

The power to investigate and determine what part of a tax shall be commuted, may be delegated to boards of assessors or other inferior officers. White v. Wheeler, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 573.

County and municipal taxes, as well as state taxes, may be remitted by the legislature. Demoville v. Davidson County, 87 Tenn. 214. And see Pro- phet v. Lundy, 63 Miss. 603. But city taxes are not under the supervision of the board of supervisors of the county, and cannot be remitted by them. Manufacturers' Bank v. Troy, 24 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 250.

The objection that the legislature cannot delegate the power of taxation within an incorporated city, to a commissioner newly created by itself, is not applicable to a statute conferring authority upon the board of assessors of a city to determine what portion of certain taxes which are in arrear shall be charged against, and collected out of, the lands upon which they were assessed; their duty not being to impose, but rather to abate, a tax. White v. Wheeler, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 573. And see Terrel v. Wheeler, 49 Hun (N. Y.) 262.

In Nebraska, taxes cannot be released or commuted. Lancaster County v. Rush, 35 Neb. 119; Lancaster County v. Trimble, 33 Neb. 121. And in State v. Graham, 17 Neb. 43, it was held that an assignment by county commissioners upon tax certificates for less than the amount of taxes due thereon when the property if sold would bring the full amount, violates the constitutional prohibitions against the commutations of taxes.

Many exemptions are in the nature of commutations. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Maryland, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 456; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford County, 29 Wis. 116; Johnston v. Macon, 62 Ga. 645. And when exemptions are prohibited, there can be no power to commute. New Orleans v. Lafayette Ins. Co., 28 La. Ann. 756; New Orleans v. St. Charles Street R. Co., 28 La. Ann. 497; New Orleans v. New Orleans Sugar Shed Co., 35 La. Ann. 548; and see Louisiana Cotton Mfg. Co. v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 440; Ide v. Finneran, 29 Kan. 569.

As to commutation by rendering services, see infra, this title, Municipal Taxation; and see generally, supra, this title, Power to Tax.

2. See Lancaster County v. State, 13 Neb. 523; Warder v. Clark County, 38 Ohio St. 639.

Though a tax has been remitted, provision need not necessarily be made for refunding such parts of it as have been operate with fairness and not conflict with the constitutional provision in regard to uniformity and equality.¹

XI THE ASSESSMENT—1. Definition; Necessity for.—An assessment may be defined to be the act of assessing, determining, or adjusting the amount of taxation to be paid by an individual or a community;—an official valuation of property, profits, or income, for purposes of taxation.²

Where taxes are to be levied in proportion to an estimate, either of values, benefits, or the results of business, an assessment is indispensable.³

paid. Demoville v. Davidson County, 87 Tenn. 214.

Where taxes are rightfully levied under an existing taxing power, they are not invalidated by provisions for their repayment, or partial repayment, to the taxpayer, in case of a failure of the enterprise in aid of which the taxes are levied, or because the benefit might not be equal in its operation. Talbot v. Dent, 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 526.

1. Cooper v. Ash, 76 Ill. 11. And see Lancaster County v. Trimble, 33 Neb. 121; Lancaster County v. Rush, 35 Neb. 119. Where a statute restricting the foreclosure of tax liens by counties, to cases in which the amount due exceeds a specified sum, was held void under constitutional provisions requiring all taxable property to contribute its proportionate share of taxes, and prohibiting the legislature from releasing the property of individuals from taxation.

2. Cent. Dict. See New York v. Weaver, 100 U. S. 539; Green v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 694; Seattle v. Yesler, 1 Wash. Ter. 571.

As commonly used, the assessment consists of the two processes of listing the persons and property to be taxed, Seattle v. Yesler, 1 Wash. Ter. 571; State v. Fournet, 30 La. Ann. 1103; Miller v. Hale, 26 Pa. St. 435; Wells v. Smyth, 55 Pa. St. 159; New York v. Weaver, 100 U. S. 539; and of estimating the sums which are to be a guide in the apportionment of the tax between them. New York v. Weaver, 100 U. S. 539; Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. (U. S.) 227; U. S. v. Hal-loran, 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 1; State v. Fournet, 30 La. Ann. 1103; Miller v. Hale, 26 Pa. St. 435; Wells v. Smyth, 55 Pa. St. 159; Seattle v. Yesler, 1 Wash. Ter. 571.

In Wells v. Smyth, 55 Pa. St. 159, it was held that property is assessed when the assessor has returned his list and valuation and the commissioners have apportioned the rate per cent. on the several townships.

Assessment, in its broadest sense, includes all the steps necessary to be taken in the legitimate exercise of the power to tax. Hurford v. Omaha, 4 Neb. 336; San Luis Obispo v. Pettit, 87 Cal. 499.

The words "assessing" and "collecting" may be so used as to include the operation called the levy of a tax. San Luis Obispo v. Pettit, 87 Cal. 499.

List.—In one sense, the assessment denotes the list and valuation of taxable property made by the proper officers for the purposes of taxation. Green v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 694; Brat-ton v. Mitchell, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 310. And see Wells v. Smyth, 55 Pa. St. 159.

3. New York v. Weaver, 100 U. S. 539; Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; Driggers v. Cassidy, 71 Ala. 529; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Waller v. Hughes (Arizona, 1886), 11 Pac. Rep. 122; People v. Hastings, 29 Cal. 449; Smith v. Davis, 30 Cal. 539; Kelsy v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 618; People v. Pearis, 37 Cal. 259; Moss v. Shear, 25 Cal. 45; 85 Am. Dec. 94; People v. Sneath, 28 Cal. 612; Lake County v. Sulphur Bank Min. Co., 66 Cal. 17; Hurlbutt v. Butenop, 27 Cal. 50; Rood v. Mitchell County, 39 Iowa 444; Bailey v. Fisher, 38 Iowa 229; Early v. Whittingham, 43 Iowa 162; Worthington v. Whitman, 67 Iowa 190; Graves v. Bruen, 11 Ill. 431; Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112; National Bank of Commerce v. Licking Valley Land, etc., Co. (Ky. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 881; McWilliams v. Michel, 43 La. Ann. 984; Woolfolk v. Fonbone, 15 La. Ann. 15; Augusti v. Lawless, 43 La. Ann. 1097; Person v. O'Neal, 32 La. Ann. 237; Thurston v. Little, 3 Mass. 429; Thayer v. Stearns, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 482; Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 26;

While the legislature may alter the manner of making the assessment, it may not dispense with it altogether,¹ unless the statute levying the tax itself prescribes the amount to be paid, in which case no assessment is required.²

2. When Made.—For the purpose of general taxation, assessments are required to be made periodically,³ usually every year.⁴ But for special purposes and for local improvements, they need be made only when the special occasion arises.⁵ When an annual assessment is required, the property must be listed each year, or the tax will be invalid.⁶

A tax based upon the valuation of a year other than that of the year for which it was originally assessed, is invalid.⁷

Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236; Nebraska City v. Nebraska City Hydraulic Gas Light, etc., Co., 9 Neb. 339; South Platte Land Co. v. Crete, 11 Neb. 344; Matter of Nichols, 54 N. Y. 62; May v. Traphagen, 139 N. Y. 478; Miller v. Hale, 26 Pa. St. 432; McCall v. Lorimer, 4 Watts (Pa.) 351; McReynolds v. Longenberger, 75 Pa. St. 13; Yenda v. Wheeler, 9 Tex. 408; Judevine v. Jackson, 18 Vt. 470; Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502; Schettler v. Fort Howard, 43 Wis. 48; Hershey v. Barron County, 37 Wis. 75.

Where no assessment was ever made by the proper authorities, upon which a tax could be levied, no previous tender is required as a condition of equitable relief against a tax. Bode v. New England Investment Co., 6 Dakota 499.

Illegal in Part.—Where an assessment is in part illegal and the illegal portion is inseparably blended with that which is legal, the whole assessment is void. California v. Central Pac. R. Co., 127 U. S. 1.

1. Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502; Smith v. Cleveland, 17 Wis. 556; Witherspoon v. Duncan, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 210. See also Dean v. Gleason, 16 Wis. 1.

Where a constitutional provision is made for the assessment of property, the legislature cannot fix the valuation. People v. Hastings, 29 Cal. 449. See also Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112.

In McReynolds v. Longenberger, 59 Pa. St. 13, it was held that the want of an assessment made by competent authority, is not a mere irregularity which can be corrected by curative statutes.

2. U. S. v. Halloran, 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 1; King v. U. S., 99 U. S. 229; Provident Inst. v. Massachusetts, 6

Wall. (U. S.) 611; State v. Sterling, 20 Md. 502; Texas Banking, etc., Co. v. State, 42 Tex. 630. And see Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. (U. S.) 227; St. Croix, etc., R. Co. v. Osceola County, 45 Iowa 168.

3. State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; Wilson v. Marsh, 34 Vt. 352; People v. Tax Com'rs, 104 U. S. 466.

4. See People v. Hastings, 29 Cal. 449; State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450; People v. Tax Com'rs, 104 U. S. 466.

5. See infra, this title, Local Assessments; Municipal Taxation.

In Hall v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 39 Tex. 286, it was held that where a special tax is levied, no special assessment of the taxable property on which it is to be collected need be made.

6. People v. Hastings, 29 Cal. 449. And see Clove Spring Iron Works v. Cone, 56 Vt. 603; Newkirk v. Fisher, 72 Mich. 113.

The same rule applies to a requirement of a biennial, triennial, or quadrennial assessment. See Ayers v. Moulton, 51 Vt. 115.

7. Davis v. Boston, 129 Mass. 378; Nason v. Whitney, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 140; State v. Cook, 82 Mo. 185; State v. Union Trust Co., 92 Mo. 157; Johnson v. Royster, 88 N. Car. 194; Alger v. Curry, 38 Vt. 382; South Platte Land Co. v. Crete, 11 Neb. 344; People v. Hastings, 29 Cal. 449; Lebanon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 539; Davidson v. Sterrett, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 265; Paldi v. Paldi, 84 Mich. 346; Scheiber v. Kaehler, 49 Wis. 291.

Under the Iowa statute, an assessment may be made in any year for a tax which should have been levied and collected in the preceding year. Peirce

Assessments are usually made to relate to a year certain in each year,¹ from which time the liability of the person or property assessed becomes fixed for that year; after that time neither a change of ownership nor a change of value will affect the tax; nor can the assessor change names, or put new names on the roll for taxation.² The rule has been laid down that an assessment not made within the time required by law is invalid and will not support a tax.³ But an assessment is not invalid because made after the usual

v. Weare, 41 Iowa 378. And a somewhat similar statute exists in Illinois. See Fairfield v. People, 94 Ill. 244.

In Shotwell v. Moore, 129 U. S. 590, a statute providing for the ascertainment of the monthly average amount or value of the property or goods held by persons during the preceding year, and for the assessment for taxation on that basis, was held to be valid.

1. See Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; Mygatt v. Washburn, 15 N. Y. 316; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Kossuth County, 41 Iowa 57; Ayers v. Moulton, 51 Vt. 115; San Francisco v. Pennie, 93 Cal. 465; Com. v. Gaines, 80 Ky. 489; Montgomery County v. Montgomery Gas Light Co., 64 Ala. 269; Price v. Kramer, 4 Colo. 546; Martin County v. Drake, 40 Minn. 137; Warren v. Werner, 14 Wis. 366.

Presumption as to Time.—Where no day is designated, either expressly or by implication, for the beginning of the tax year, it will be presumed that the calendar year was intended. See Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 429; Com. v. North Pennsylvania R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 460.

2. Hunt v. McFadgen, 20 Ark. 277; State v. Certain Lands, 40 Ark. 34; San Gabriel Valley Land, etc., Co. v. Wetmer, 96 Cal. 623; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405; Briggs v. People, 96 Ill. 381; Sully v. Poorbaugh, 45 Iowa 453; Howell v. Scott, 44 Kan. 247; Com. v. Gaines, 80 Ky. 489; Templeton v. Levee Com'rs, 16 La. Ann. 117; Vaughan v. Street Com'rs, 154 Mass. 143; Davis v. Boston, 129 Mass. 377; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; Martin County v. Drake, 40 Minn. 137; State v. Hardin, 34 N. J. L. 79; State v. Hanson, 36 N. J. L. 50; State v. Union Tp., 36 N. J. L. 309; State v. Pettit, 39 N. J. L. 654; State v. Shurts, 41 N. J. L. 279; State v. Jersey City, 44 N. J. L. 156; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 245; Overing v. Foote, 65 N. Y. 263; People v. Tax Com'rs, 91 N. Y. 593; People v. McComber (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y.

Supp. 71; May v. Traphagen, 139 N. Y. 478; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Portland, 2 Oregon 81; Harth v. Gibbs, 3 Rich. (S. Car.) 316; McClellan v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 11 Lea (Tenn.) 336; Walker v. Miner, 32 Vt. 769; Pitkin v. Parks, 54 Vt. 301; Warren v. Werner, 14 Wis. 366; Pennsylvania Coal Co. v. Porth, 63 Wis. 77; People v. Tax Com'rs, 104 U. S. 466.

Property shipped from outside the taxing district on the assessment date, but not arriving within it until afterwards, is not subject to assessment for that year. Johnson v. Lyon, 106 Ill. 64.

In State v. Eastabrook, 3 Nev. 173, it was held that property within the state at the time of the levy, is liable, though it is removed before assessment.

In Crutchfield v. Stambaugh, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 832, it was held that where land is sold after the assessment, an agreement by the buyer to pay the taxes for that year will not release the seller from liability therefor.

In Washburn v. Walworth, 133 Mass. 499, it was held that a partner who withdraws from the firm before the date of the assessment, retaining no interest therein, is not liable for taxes.

In Pueblo County v. Wilson, 15 Colo. 90, it was held that personal property not in esse upon the date of assessment, cannot be assessed.

That property assessed has ceased to exist after assessment, is no defense to the tax. Shelby County v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 16 Lea (Tenn.) 401; Rutledge v. Fogg, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 554.

A change in the list does not invalidate the whole list. Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202.

A corporation not practically organized, although its certificate has been filed before the date of assessment, is not liable for that year. Anglo-American Ins. Co. v. District of Columbia, 5 Mackey (D. C.) 422.

3. See Stockman v. Robbins, 80 Ind. 195; Williamsport v. Kent, 14 time, when the act under which the tax was levied furnishes no limitation upon the exercise of the power.¹

3. By Whom Made.—In the absence of constitutional provision, the legislature may provide for such agencies for the assessment of taxes as it may see fit.² The agencies provided for must be constituted in the manner prescribed by law; and the assessment must be made by the officers duly elected or appointed for that purpose.³

When the constituted authorities neglect or refuse to act, it is within legislative power to provide for the performance of their duties by other officers and instrumentalities;⁴ though the act of filling an office exhausts the power until the removal or dismissal of the incumbent in the manner prescribed by law.⁵ It is essential to the validity of the list as a basis of taxation, and therefore to the validity of the tax itself, that the assessment should be made by officers having competent authority,⁶ and the qualifications re-

Ind. 306; Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1; Ayers v. Moulton, 51 Vt. 115; Woodward v. French, 31 Vt. 337.

Extension of Time.—In Brigins v. Chandler, 60 Miss. 862, it was held that a statute extending the time for assessment applied only to cases in which the law had not been complied with.

1. Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87; Anderson v. Mayfield (Ky. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 508; State v. Northern Belle Mill, etc., Co., 15 Nev. 385. And see American Coal Co. v. Alleghany County, 59 Md. 185.

2. North Carolina R. Co. v. Alabama, 82 N. Car. 259; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 98 Ill. 350. And see Sawyer v. Dooley, 21 Nev. 390.

3. Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Pollak, 75 Ill. 292; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Surrell, 88 Ill. 535; Felamthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Twombly v. Kimbrough, 24 Ark. 459; People v. Hastings, 29 Cal. 449; People v. White, 47 Cal. 616; Reily v. Lancaster, 39 Cal. 354; Hawkins v. Jonesboro, 63 Ga. 527; Williams v. Corcoran, 46 Cal. 553; Birch v. Fisher, 13 S. & R. (Pa.) 208; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Hays, 118 Ind. 214; People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 428; State v. Segoine, 53 N. J. L. 339.

In Pensacola v. Bell, 22 Fla. 469, it was held that an assessment roll commenced by one assessor and perfected by another, is valid.

A city ordinance authorizing the appointment of assessors by the comptroller, confers the authority upon the comptroller as such, and not upon the individual who holds the office at the time of the enactment. People v. Allen, 42 Barb. (N. Y.) 203.

4. Du Page County v. Jenks, 65 Ill. 275; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153. And see Farrington v. New England Invest. Co., 1 N. Dak. 102; Bode v. New England Invest. Co., 1 N. Dak. 121.

Under the Maine statutes, when no assessors are elected, the selectmen must, each of them, be sworn as an assessor before they can legally assess a tax. They cannot make an assessment as officers de facto, which will sustain an action for taxes. Dresden v. Goud, 75 Me. 298.

Under a power to appoint a successor to a delinquent assessor, the delinquent may not be appointed as his own successor. But a person so appointed would be an officer de facto as to third persons. Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1. See also Guyer v. Andrews, 11 Ill. 444.

5. See PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378. See also People v. Woodruff, 32 N. Y. 355; Smith v. New York, 1 Hun (N. Y.) 57; 47 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 277; People v. Stevens, 51 How. Pr. (N. Y. Ct. App.) 139.

In Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265, it was held that a board of supervisors has no power to appoint a committee to reassess lands previously assessed by the proper body.

6. Rood v. Mitchell County, 39 Iowa 444; Bailey v. Fisher, 38 Iowa 229; Du Page County v. Jenks, 65 Ill. 275; Paldi v. Paldi, 84 Mich. 346; Williams v. Corcoran, 46 Cal. 553; People v. Parker, 117 N. Y. 86; Birch v. Fisher, quired by law.¹ This rule, however, is qualified by the general principles applicable to the validity of acts of de facto officers.² The duties of assessors are confined to the listing and valuation of the property;³ their authority cannot be delegated, and the assessment, in the absence of a statute authorizing it, cannot be made by a deputy,⁴ though the listing or other clerical duty may be.⁵ The means and measures by which an assessor has reached 13 S. & R. (Pa.) 208. And see Stockman v. Robbins, 80 Ind. 195; People v. Ward, 105 Ill. 620.

In Farrington v. New England Investment Co., 1 N. Dak. 102, it was held that an assessment of the proper officer, in the proper time and manner, which is not copied into the assessment roll until after the assessor has resigned, is not void in equity where it appears that the assessment was in fact copied accurately.

1. Ayers v. Moulton, 51 Vt. 115; Coit v. Wells, 2 Vt. 318; Isaacs v. Wiley, 12 Vt. 674; Lynde v. Dummerstoy, 61 Vt. 48; Orneville v. Palmer, 79 Me. 472; Payson v. Hall, 30 Me. 319; Dresden v. Goud, 75 Me. 208; Bowler v. Brown, 84 Me. 376; Gould v. Monroe, 61 Me. 544; Pike v. Hanson, 9 N. H. 491; Ainsworth v. Dean, 21 N. H. 400; Lynam v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 245; Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87; Parker v. Overman, 18 How. (U. S.) 137; Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701.

The oath taken when the list is completed is not sufficient. Ayers v. Moulton, 51 Vt. 115; Walker v. Burlington, 56 Vt. 131.

In Nichols v. Bridgeport, 23 Conn. 189; 60 Am. Dec. 636, it was held that an assessment will not be held to be invalid merely because it does not appear that the committee who made it were freeholders.

2. See Washington County v. Miller, 14 Iowa 584; Peirce v. Weare, 41 Iowa 378; Equalization Board v. Landowners, 51 Ark. 516; Barton v. Lattourette, 55 Ark. 81; Moore v. Turner, 43 Ark. 243; Radcliffe v. Scruggs, 46 Ark. 96; Scott v. Watkins, 22 Ark. 556; Murphy v. Shepard, 52 Ark. 356; Hawkins v. Jonesboro, 63 Ga. 527; Bath v. Reed, 78 Me. 276; Koontz v. Hancock, 64 Md. 134; Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113; State v. Metz, 31 N. J. L. 365; State v. Brown, 53 N. J. L. 162; State v. Ocean Tp., 39 N. J. L. 75; Ray v. Murdock, 36 Miss. 692; Kissimmee City v. Cannon, 26 Fla. 3; Merriam v. Dovey, 25 Neb. 618; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County, 54 Tex. 119; Guyer v. Andrews, 11 Ill. 494; Ronkendorf v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 349. And see PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378; DE FACTO OFFICERS, vol. 5, p. 93.

It has been held that an assessor who neglects or fails to take the prescribed oath of office is nevertheless an officer de facto, and that as to third persons his acts are valid and binding. State v. Perkins, 24 N. J. L. 409; State v. Pierson, 47 N. J. L. 247; Sullivan v. State, 66 Ill. 75. See also Lord v. Parker, 83 Me. 530; and cases cited supra this note. It is not necessary that the assessor should be sworn for each case. Turpin v. Eagle Creek, etc., Road Co., 48 Ind. 45.

3. They cannot levy a tax. State v. Fournet, 30 La. Ann. 1103.

The assessor and his deputies have implied authority to administer all necessary oaths in connection with tax-lists. State v. Reynolds, 108 Ind. 353.

4. Stokes v. State, 24 Miss. 621; Snell v. Fort Dodge, 45 Iowa 564; Merchants' Mutual Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors, 40 La. Ann. 371. And see Adams v. Justices, 21 Ga. 206.

In Covington v. Rockingham, 93 N. Car. 134, it was held that a tax list made up by one who is not a member of the taxing body, but who acts under its direction and as its agent, is not thereby made invalid.

Farrington v. New England Invest. Co., 1 N. Dak. 102; Bode v. New England Invest. Co., 1 N. Dak. 121.

In Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 7 Kan. 210, it was held that a deputy county clerk, in the absence of his principal, may act as one of the board of appraisers and assessors to assess railroad property, as provided by statute in Kansas.

5. Snell v. Fort Dodge, 45 Iowa 564.

In Woodman v. Auditor Gen'l, 52 Mich. 30, it was held that the listing of property is clerical, but the ascertaining and determining of its value is judicial, and cannot be dispensed with in a conclusion will not be inquired into judicially.¹ Where a board is required to act in making the assessment, all its members must have been duly chosen and qualified;² but when thus chosen and qualified, a majority of their number may generally act.³

4. How Made—a. GENERAL RULE.—Subject to constitutional restrictions, it is for the legislature to provide the method and mode of assessing property for purposes of taxation.⁴ The assessment must be made in accordance with these provisions and with the securities and solemnities provided by statute.⁵

making a valid assessment roll. See also Paldi v. Paldi, 84 Mich. 346.

1. Snell v. Fort Dodge, 45 Iowa 564; Du Page County v. Jenks, 65 Ill. 275.

A provision that the assessors shall make out the assessment roll by wards, showing the taxable property of each ward separately, is complied with by the assessor of each ward making an assessment of the property in his ward, the assessors then coming together as a body and comparing their several lists and agreeing upon the correctness of the whole. Dean v. Gleason, 16 Wis. 1.

2. Williamsburg v. Lord, 51 Me. 599; Jordan v. Hopkins, 85 Me. 159; Downing v. Ruger, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 178; 34 Am. Dec. 223; People v. Parker, 117 N. Y. 86; Lemoreaux v. O'Rourke, 3 Abb. App. Dec. (N. Y.) 15.

Where one assessor has not been qualified, the other two cannot assess a tax. Machiasport v. Small, 77 Me. 109.

3. Cooley v. O'Connor, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 391; Schenk v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267; Metcalf v. Messenger, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 329; State v. McIntock, 7 Ired. (N. Car.) 68; Wells v. Austin, 59 Vt. 157.

When one of three assessors, after due notice, refuses to attend and act in assessing a tax, the other two may proceed without him. Williams v. School Dist. No. 1, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75.

A majority, however, is necessary. One assessor cannot make the assessment. Metcalf v. Messenger, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 325; Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374. See also Belfast Sav. Bank v. Kennebec Land, etc., Co., 73 Me. 404.

Where the record shows that a number of officers were present at the time of the assessment, it will be presumed that they constituted a majority of the board. State v. McIntock, 7 Ired. (N. Car.) 68.

Where the board is required to act jointly, all must be present and act. People v. Hagar, 49 Cal. 229.

4. Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 501; Smith v. Cleveland, 17 Wis. 556; Dean v. Gleason, 16 Wis. 1; San Luis Obispo v. Pettit, 87 Cal. 499; Du Page County v. Jenks, 65 Ill. 275; State v. Eastabrook, 3 Nev. 173; Witherspoon v. Duncan, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 210; Williams v. Albany County, 122 U. S. 154.

It is generally required that assessments shall be made up with certainty, that the taxpayer may know for what and how much he is taxed. Goddard v. Seymour, 30 Conn. 394; Hamersley v. Franey, 39 Conn. 179; Adams v. Litchfield, 10 Conn. 127; Peck v. Wallace, 10 Conn. 131.

5. Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502; People v. Lee, 112 Ill. 113; San Luis Obispo v. Pettit, 87 Cal. 499; Lake County v. Sulphur Bank Min. Co., 66 Cal. 17; Moss v. Shear, 25 Cal. 38; 85 Am. Dec. 94; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Carland, 5 Mont. 146; Clove Spring Iron Works v. Cone, 56 Vt. 603; Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 175; Lyon v. Alley, 130 U. S. 177; Davis v. Farnes, 26 Tex. 296; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; Chemung Canal Nat. Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 604. And see Kitchen v. Smith, 101 Pa. St. 452; State v. Sloss, 87 Ala. 119; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Koontz, 77 Va. 698.

A radical defect in the assessment is such a nullity that it cannot be cured by prescription. Davenport v. Knox, 34 La. Ann. 407; Woolfolk v. Fonbene, 15 La. Ann. 15; Townsend v. Edwards, 25 Fla. 582. And when an assessment is so defective as to be totally void, the legislature cannot cure it by a retrospective enactment. People v. Holladay, 25 Cal. 300; McReynolds v. Longenberger, 57 Pa. St. 13.

An assessment which violates a provision of the Federal Constitution is void. San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. Dinwiddie, 8 Sawyer (U. S.) 312; 13 Fed. Rep. 789.

In New Jersey, an assessment blend-

Where the legislature has failed to prescribe the details of the method of assessment, the reasonable discretion of the assessors may be exercised.¹ An assessor cannot assess property situated beyond the limits of his district.² Property not subject to taxation is, of course, not assessable.³

b. LISTING.—In some of the states the taxpayer is required to make and furnish to the assessor a list of his taxable property;⁴ and corporations may be required to furnish a list of their stockholders⁵ or of their capital stock;⁶ or to furnish a report of the ing together the state, county and township taxes, is illegal. Camden, etc., R. Co. v. Hillegas, 18 N. J. L. 11. See also State v. Falkenburge, 15 N. J. L. 320.

1. See People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; Insurance Co. v. Yard, 17 Pa. St. 331; Laird v. Hiester, 24 Pa. St. 452; Wilson County v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 76 N. Car. 123.

2. People v. Placerville, etc., R. Co., 34 Cal. 656; Bailey v. Fisher, 38 Iowa 229; Barber v. Farr, 54 Iowa 57; Winslow v. Morrill, 47 Me. 411; Brown v. Veazie, 25 Me. 359; Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261; Dorn v. Fox, 61 N. Y. 264. And see Green v. Allen, 1 Busb. (N. Car.) 228; Hoffman v. Woods, 40 Kan. 382; Chisholm v. Adams, 71 Tex. 678; Union Bank v. State, 9 Yerg. (Tenn.) 490; Wadleigh v. Marathon Co. Bank, 58 Wis. 546. Such an assessment has no validity and is of no effect for any purpose. Toby v. Haggarty, 23 Ark. 370; Camden v. Mulford, 26 N. J. L. 49; Martin v. Carron, 26 N. J. L. 228. That the assessment was made in good faith and in ignorance of the fact, is immaterial. Taylor v. Youngs, 48 Mich. 268.

3. See Berry v. Missoula County, 6 Mont. 121; National Bank v. Elmers, 53 N. Y. 53.

4. See St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Surrell, 88 Ill. 535; Felsenthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 625; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 25 Ind. 177; Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196; Porter v. Norfolk Co., 5 Gray (Mass.) 365; Lanesborough v. Berkshire County, 131 Mass. 424; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 143; Montgomery County v. Montgomery Gas Light Co., 64 Ala. 269; State v. Appgar, 31 N. J. L. 358; Green v. Allen, 1 Busb. (N. Car.) 228; Ludlow v. Willich, 1 Cin. Sup. Ct. (Ohio) 315; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Com., 43 Pa. St. 227; Harper v.

Farmers', etc., Bank, 7 W. & S. (Pa.) 204; Bartlett v. Wilson, 60 Vt. 644; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327.

Where one owns property in several districts, he must make return of the property to the assessors of each respectively. Price v. Cramer, 4 Colo. 546.

Mailing to the taxpayers, as far as they are known to the assessor, blank statements with a notice that they must comply therewith and must appear before him for that purpose, is a sufficient compliance with a statute directing the assessor to require every person to make a true written statement under oath of all his taxable property. Turner v. Dickerman, 95 Mich. 1.

5. Donovan v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 30 Md. 155. And see State v. Home Ins. Co., 91 Tenn. 558.

The officers of a corporation should make the proper returns to the assessor, whether solicited or not. Pacific Hotel Co. v. Lieb, 83 Ill. 602.

Although the corporation may keep a list of its stockholders, from which the listers of the town might, on application, transcribe the stock taxable in their town, this will not absolve the cashier from returning a list of the stockholders. Newman v. Wait, 46 Vt. 689.

6. People v. Ward, 105 Ill. 620. And see State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 143; Williamson v. New Jersey, etc., R. Co., 28 N. J. Eq. 277; Bank of Bramwell v. Mercer County Ct., 36 W. Va. 341.

It has been held under the California statute, that the superintendent of a mining company should furnish the list as managing agent. Lake County v. Sulphur Bank Min. Co., 68 Cal. 14.

In Nevada, it was held that the list must show that the person making it is one of those required by statute, and it must be subscribed by him. State v. Washoe County, 5 Nev. 317.

amount of their business¹ or their indebtedness.² Statutes imposing various penalties for a failure or refusal to make a return of the list are frequently found, and have been upheld as constitutional.³

1. See First Nat. Bank v. Kentucky, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 353; Montgomery County v. Montgomery Gas Light Co., 64 Ala. 269; State v. Louisiana Mut. Ins. Co., 19 La. Ann. 474; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259; State v. McFetridge, 64 Wis. 130; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254; State v. Harshaw, 76 Wis. 230.

A like return is required of private bankers, under the Pennsylvania statute. Com. v. Cooke, 50 Pa. St. 201.

2. See Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 429; Com. v. North Pennsylvania R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 460.

3. Taking Away Right of Appeal or Review.—Thus, statutes taking away the right of appeal or review. See State v. Comptroller, 54 N. J. L. 135; Johnson v. Roberts, 102 Ill. 655; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259; State v. Washoe County, 7 Nev. 83; State v. Washoe County, 5 Nev. 317; Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113; Porter v. Norfolk County, 5 Gray (Mass.) 365; Otis County v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509; National Bank of Commerce v. New Bedford, 155 Mass. 313; Vaughan v. Street Com'rs, 154 Mass. 143; Hartford v. Champion, 58 Conn. 268; McNulty v. Wilson, 4 Strobb. (S. Car.) 231; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327; State v. Apgar, 31 N. J. L. 358; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254.

It was held in Merchants' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors, 40 La. Ann. 372, that the Louisiana statute was not mandatory, and that a failure to comply with it was not a bar to a review of the assessment made by the assessors.

Statutes Multiplying or Adding to the Tax.—See Butler v. Bailey, 2 Bay (S. Car.) 244; Ex p. Lynch, 16 S. Car. 32; State v. Allen, 2 McCord (S. Car.) 55; Biddle v. Oaks, 59 Cal. 94; Harper v. Farmers', etc., Bank, 7 W. & S. (Pa.) 204; Boyer v. Jones, 14 Ind. 354; McCormick v. Fitch, 14 Minn. 252; Fox's Appeal, 112 Pa. St. 337; Perry's Petition, 16 N. H. 44; Perley v. Parker, 20 N. H. 263; Bartlett v. Wilson, 59 Vt. 23; Howes v. Bassett, 56 Vt. 141; Bartlett v. Wilson, 60 Vt. 644; Rowell v. Horton, 58 Vt. 1; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327; Meserve v. Folson, 62 Vt. 504.

Listers, in assessing the double penalty, may take the appraisal of the preceding year and double that. Bartlett v. Wilson, 60 Vt. 644.

Where the assessors double the tax because the taxpayer has not given in property which he does not really own, the double tax is illegal. White v. State, 51 Ga. 252.

A repeal of the statute authorizing the penalty, will not affect additional taxes assessed for refusal to list before the repeal. Hartford v. Champion, 58 Conn. 268.

Statutes Imposing Definite Penalties for Refusal or Failure.—See Hartford v. Champion, 58 Conn. 268; Com. v. Cooke, 50 Pa. St. 201; Spalding v. Com., 88 Ky. 135; Biddle v. Oaks, 59 Cal. 94; Durham v. State, 117 Ind. 477; State v. Washoe County, 5 Nev. 317; Washington v. Com., 2 Va. Cas. 258; Powder River Cattle Co. v. Custer County, 45 Fed. Rep. 323.

Where it is required by statute that the taxpayer shall make oath to his inventory, he does not incur the penalty prescribed by refusing to subscribe printed affidavits, unless there is an offer to administer the statutory oath. Marion County v. Kruidenier, 72 Iowa 92.

Penalty Assessed for Each Offense—Double Penalty.—In Com. v. Cooke, 50 Pa. St. 201, it was held that the taxpayer is liable for each neglect to make a proper return, and not for a single penalty as for one offense. But in Roseberry v. Hough, 27 Ind. 12, it was held that the penalty is not to be added for each year that the tax of a particular year remains unpaid.

Where one penalty is prescribed for giving a false return, and another for a failure to give a true list or refusal to take the oath prescribed by law, both penalties may be imposed without a violation of the constitutional provision against putting a person twice in jeopardy, the offenses being different. Durham v. State, 117 Ind. 477; Burgh v. State, 108 Ind. 135.

Statutes Authorizing the Issue of Execution Against a Party.—See State v. Allen, 2 McCord (S. Car.) 55.

Statutes Making a Default an Indictable Offense.—See Berry v. State, 10 Tex. App. 315; Caldwell v. State, 14

Statutes authorizing such penalties, being penal in their nature, are to be strictly construed.¹ The evasion of the law, or attempted evasion, must have been willful.² Where the failure to comply with the statute is owing to the fault of the tax officers, the penalty is not incurred.³

The list is to be taken as presumptively correct.⁴ It is not, however, deemed conclusive upon the assessor. The list itself does not constitute the assessment; it is merely evidence from which an assessment may be made by the assessor.⁵ He may resort to

Tex. App. 171; Mock v. State, 11 Tex. App. 56; Burns v. State (Ind. 1892), 31 N. E. Rep. 547; State v. Welsh, 28 Mo. 600.

A law taxing business during the whole of the current year in which the law is passed, and providing a penalty for a refusal to render an account of the business done during that year, is not ex post facto. State v. Bell, 1 Phil. (N. Car.) 76.

In Berry v. State, 10 Tex. App. 315, it was held that the indictment must allege the year in which the property was assessable. See also Haugh v. State, 12 Tex. App. 343. In Caldwell v. State, 14 Tex. App. 171, it was held that the indictment must allege a demand for the list and a refusal to give it, and that the taxpayer had taxable property. And see as to the requirements of the indictment, State v. Lenfesty, 10 Ind. 397; Buckingham v. State, 17 Ind. 305.

The indictment must show in what respect the list is fraudulent or false. State v. Welsh, 28 Mo. 600.

All information which alleges the ownership of property, its kind, quality and value, and the fact that the delinquent has failed and refused to list it for the years named therein, or to give it in for assessment, is sufficient. Com. v. Singer Mfg. Co. (Ky. 1893), 21 S. W. Rep. 354.

1. Alexander v. Com., 1 Bibb (Ky.) 515; Gager v. Prout, 48 Ohio St. 89; Rowell v. Horton, 58 Vt. 1; Perley v. Parker, 20 N. H. 263.

In Powder River Cattle Co. v. Custer County, 45 Fed. Rep. 323, it was held that before the tax with the added penalty could be assessed, a demand must be made.

In Leper v. Pulsifer, 37 Ill. 110, a statute prescribing the penalty was held to apply to personal property only.

In Walker v. Cochran, 8 N. H. 166, it was held that where a list was given in by a member of a taxpayer's family in his absence, he could not be doomed without notice that such return was unsatisfactory.

2. Smith v. State, 43 Ala. 344; Perry's Petition, 16 N. H. 44. See also Harper v. Farmers', etc., Bank, 7 W. & S. (Pa.) 204. But see German Sav. Bank v. Archbold, 15 Blatchf. (U. S.) 398.

Where a statement not under oath is accepted by the assessor, the taxpayer cannot be said to have refused to be sworn. State v. Nunn, 44 N. J. L. 354. See also Melvin v. Weare, 56 N. H. 436.

A mere mistake in the return will not subject the person to a penalty. Ludlow v. Willich, 1 Cin. Sup. Ct. 315. And see Insurance Co. v. Cappellar, 38 Ohio St. 560; Goldsbury v. Warrick, 112 Mass. 384.

3. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546; Marion County v. Galvin, 73 Iowa 18; Ludlow v. Willich, 1 Cin. Sup. Ct. (Ohio) 315; Powell v. Madison, 21 Ind. 335.

An assessment for taxes is not vitiated by the fact that the assessor omitted to demand a sworn statement. State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338; Lyman v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367.

4. Lanesborough v. Berkshire County, 131 Mass. 124; Newburyport v. Essex County, 12 Met. (Mass.) 211; Oregon, etc., Sav. Bank v. Jordan, 16 Oregon 113.

5. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142; Hartford v. Champion, 58 Conn. 268; State v. Southwestern R. Co., 70 Ga. 11; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bureau County, 25 Ill. 475; Pacific Hotel Co. v. Lieb, 83 Ill. 602; Felsenthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21; Illinois, etc., R. Co. v. Stookey, 122 Ill. 358; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Surrall, 88 Ill. 535; Humphreys v. Nelson, 115 Ill. 45; Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Pollak, 75 Ill. 292; Ottawa Glass Co. v. McCaleb, 81 Ill. 556; Baldwin v. Shine, 84 Ky. 502; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 85 Ky. 198; State v. Louisiana Mut. Ins. Co., 19 La. Ann. 474; Winnisimmet Co. v. Assessors of Chelsea, 6 Cush. (Mass.)

other means to determine the property to be assessed and its value; and, in his discretion, he may make such additions or alterations as are warranted by the facts.¹ Upon the refusal of the taxpayer to make the list as required by law, the assessor is generally authorized to assess upon the best information he can obtain.² Where the taxpayer fails to return the list within the 477; Porter v. Norfolk County, 5 Gray (Mass.) 265; Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 55; Jones v. Seward County, 5 Neb. 561; Lyman v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178; People v. Tax Com'rs, 46 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 315; People v. Tax Com'rs, 31 Hun (N. Y.) 568; People v. Tax Com'rs, 76 N. Y. 64; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254; Oregon, etc., Sav. Bank v. Jordan, 16 Oregon 113; Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 104 Pa. St. 89; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Com., 43 Pa. St. 227; State v. State Board of Assessment (So. Dak. 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 192; Bartlett v. Wilson, 60 Vt. 644; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327; Howes v. Bassett, 56 Vt. 141; Bullock v. Guilford, 59 Vt. 516; Lawrence v. Janesville, 46 Wis. 364; State v. Gaylord, 73 Wis. 306.

This rule applies to assessments made by state boards of equalization as well as to those made by local assessors. Illinois, etc., R. Co. v. Stookey, 122 Ill. 358.

In Florida, it was held that it was for the owner to assign his land to the taxable grade to which it belonged. Levy v. Smith, 4 Fla. 154.

Where the taxpayer's statement containing no details by which its accuracy can be tested is rejected by the assessors, their action will not be interfered with without evidence affirmatively showing that the taxpayer was aggrieved thereby. People v. Barker, 68 Hun (N. Y.) 513.

1. Felsenthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bureau County, 25 Ill. 475; Hartford v. Champion, 54 Conn. 436; Collier v. Morrow, 90 Ga. 148; State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178; Roe v. St. John, 7 Neb. 139; Lyman v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; Jones v. Seward County, 5 Neb. 561; State v. Covington, 35 S. Car. 245; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327. And see Connor v. Waxahachie (Tex. 1889), 13 S. W. Rep. 30; Ferris v. Kemble, 75 Tex. 476; Eschenburg v. Lake County, 129 Ind. 398.

In Gager v. Prout, 48 Ohio St. 89, it was held that a certified copy of the inventory of the estate of a deceased person, filed by the executor in probate court, is competent evidence to show omissions in the returns of the deceased, and in the absence of anything to the contrary, may warrant the assessor in making additions.

He cannot act upon a mere rumor as to what a person is worth. Howes v. Bassett, 56 Vt. 141. Though it is not necessary that he should have knowledge of specific property kept back. Hartford v. Champion, 54 Conn. 436.

Under the Indiana statute, the assessor has power to call before him arbitrarily any one whom he chooses to call when he entertains doubt as to the correctness of a taxpayer's statement. Burns v. State (Ind. 1892), 31 N. E. Rep. 547.

It has been held in Illinois, that the assessor, after accepting the list without question, cannot alter or raise the valuation without giving the party assessed, notice. McConkey v. Smith, 73 Ill. 313; Cleghorn v. Postlewaite, 43 Ill. 428; First Nat. Bank v. Cook, 77 Ill. 622. But where the assessor discovers other property from that listed, he may list and assess it without giving the owner notice. Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 108 Ill. 11.

Thus, in Gager v. Prout, 48 Ohio St. 89, it was held, where the inventory of the estate filed by the executor in the probate court showed omissions in the list, that the assessor might make additions.

In California, the taxpayer must be cited to appear and answer under oath. Weyse v. Crawford, 89 Cal. 196. And notice must be given in Ohio. Gager v. Prout, 48 Ohio St. 89.

2. State v. Louisiana Mut. Ins. Co., 19 La. Ann. 474; Hartford v. Champion, 58 Conn. 268; Hartford Tp. v. Champion, 54 Conn. 436; McMillan v. Carter, 6 Mont. 215; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254. And see Noyes v. Hale, 137 Mass. 266; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327; Taylor v. Moore, 63 Vt. 60.

In Clark v. Belknap (Ky. 1890), 13

time prescribed,¹ or to make or verify it in the manner required,² he is held to be in default as though he had refused to give it in. An omission of taxable property constitutes a false return,³ but a mere irregularity in the return is not equivalent to a refusal to make the list.⁴

A taxpayer is estopped to deny the correctness of a list furnished by him to the assessor, and to contest the assessment made thereon.⁵ But where the taxpayer has included exempt prop-

S. W. Rep. 212, it was held under the Kentucky statute, that upon a refusal of the taxpayer to make the list, the assessor has no authority to list it of his own accord. And see as to the power of the county court to direct the assessment, Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 85 Ky. 198.

1. See Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113; State v. Board of Equalization, 7 Nev. 83; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45; State v. Parker, 33 N. J. L. 192; State v. McChesney, 34 N. J. L. 63.

In West Hampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502, it was held sufficient to leave the return with the chairman of the board, where assessors had no office.

2. Lee v. Com., 6 Dana (Ky.) 311; Newell v. Whittingham, 58 Vt. 341. And see Narragansett Pier Co. v. Assessors, 17 R. I. 452.

Where a person is prosecuted for refusing to verify an assessor's list of his taxable property, it is not necessary to show that the assessor actually administered the oath; a refusal to take it is sufficient. Washington County v. Miller, 14 Iowa 584.

In Lyman v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367, it was held that it is the duty of the assessor to require the taxpayer to make oath to his list of taxable property, but that his failure to require such oath is a mere irregularity which does not render the assessment invalid. See also State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338; McMillan v. Carter, 6 Mont. 215; Washington v. Com., 2 Va. Cas. 258. But see Turner v. Muskegon County, 95 Mich. 449; Gratwick, etc., Lumber Co. v. Oscoda (Mich. 1893), 56 N. W. Rep. 600; Hazzard v. O'Bannon, 36 Fed. Rep. 854.

Contents of List.—In State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259, it was held that a general list of the property, real and personal, was sufficient.

In Maine, the taxpayer's list need not specify values. Orland v. County Comrs, 76 Me. 460.

In Indiana, it has been held that only the aggregate value need be given. State v. Emshwiller, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 76.

3. Ingalls v. Ratterman (Ohio, 1891), 24 Wkly. L. Bull. 433. And see Tripp v. Torrey, 17 R. I. 359; Olds v. Com., 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 465.

In Sudderth v. Brittain, 76 N. Car. 458, it was held that after the payment of the tax for the year, the assessors could not reassess for that year, land, the area of which had been fraudulently understated.

4. See Timmerman v. St. John, 21 Can. Sup. Ct. Rep. 661; Lanesborough v. Berkshire County, 131 Mass. 424.

In State v. Nunn, 44 N. J. L. 354, it was held that to authorize the assessor to fix the highest valuation, the taxpayer must have actually refused to be sworn.

So a list is not invalid for want of particularity in the description. Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 55; Tobey v. Wareham, 2 Allen (Mass.) 594; Noyes v. Hale, 137 Mass. 266.

5. People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 49 Cal. 414; Lake County v. Sulphur Bank, etc., Min. Co., 68 Cal. 14; Albany Brewing Co. v. Meriden, 48 Conn. 244; People v. Atkinson, 103 Ill. 45; Telle v. Green, 28 Ind. 184; Conwell v. Connersville, 8 Ind. 358; Pingree v. Berkshire County, 102 Mass. 76; Mathews v. Kansas, 80 Mo. 231; Price v. Kramer, 4 Colo. 546; Bemis v. Phelps, 41 Vt. 1; Cerbat Min. Co. v. State, 29 Hun (N. Y.) 81; Kissimmee City v. Drought, 26 Fla. 1; 23 Am. St. Rep. 545; Sage v. Burlingame, 74 Mich. 120; Leonard v. Madison County, 64 Iowa 418; Factors, etc., Ins. Co. v. Levi, 42 La. Ann. 432; Ives v. North Canaan, 33 Conn. 402; Fairbault Water Works Co. v. Rice County, 44 Minn. 12; Shelby County v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 16 Lea (Tenn.) 401. The rule applies even though the taxpayer protested that the tax was unlawful at the time of making the return.

erty in his list, he is not estopped from claiming an abatement therefor.¹

c. THE ROLL—(1) Form and Contents Generally.—It is essential to the validity of an assessment that a roll or list should be kept, in which it is the duty of the assessor to enter a description of all the taxable property which he can discover in his jurisdiction, together with the name of the person owning each parcel, and its value.² The intentional omission by the assessors of taxable property from the list or roll, has been held in some states to vitiate the whole tax levied upon the roll from the district in which it occurs; and this notwithstanding that the assessor in good faith believed the property omitted to be exempt.³ But American Union Express Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675; 27 Am. Rep. 382.

The omission by a party's agent of one parcel of land, in consequence whereof the same is taxed as the property of a non-resident, affords the owner no ground for complaint. Kinsworthy v. Mitchell, 21 Ark. 145; Nelson v. Pierce, 6 N. H. 194.

But an erroneous return of property for assessment in one district when it is situated in another, will not estop the owner to deny the validity of an assessment on the property made by the assessor of the district in which the property is situated. State v. Bellew (Wis. 1893), 56 N. W. Rep. 782.

If the valuation adopted by the assessor is not based upon the return made by the taxpayer, he is not estopped by it. Dunnell Mfg. Co. v. Pawtucket, 7 Gray (Mass.) 277.

A guardian who has listed the property of his ward, is not estopped from showing the death of the ward and the listing of the property by his personal representative. Sommers v. Boyd, 48 Ohio St. 648.

1. Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 109 Mass. 270; Dunnell Mfg. Co. v. Pawtucket, 7 Gray (Mass.) 277; Salter v. Burlington, 42 Iowa 531. And see Phillips v. Shuster, 47 Conn. 477. But see Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Pollak, 75 Ill. 292.

In Telle v. Green, 28 Ind. 184, it was held that if the erroneous inclusion of non-taxable property was through mistake of law, no relief can be had.

2. Thurston v. Little, 3 Mass. 429; Thayer v. Stearns, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 482; Bailey v. Ackerman, 54 N. H. 527; People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516; Trowbridge v. Horan, 78 N. Y. 489; Howard v. Shumway, 13 Vt. 358; Roe

v. St. John, 7 Neb. 139; O'Neal v. Virginia, etc., Bridge Co., 18 Md. 1; 79 Am. Dec. 669. See also People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 49 Cal. 414.

The list must be perfect in itself without reference to a former list, and all property must be entered in the current list in order that taxes may be enforced against it. Downing v. Roberts, 21 Vt. 441.

Two rolls may be provided, each being required to contain a designated class of assessments. See Folkert v. Power, 42 Mich. 283.

In Noyes v. Hale, 137 Mass. 266, it was held that the entry of property in a separate book or paper complied with the statute. See also Morrill v. Douglas, 14 Kan. 293; Thomas v. Chapin, 116 Mo. 396.

State, county, and town taxes are usually required to be assessed separately and put into separate lists. Thayer v. Stearns, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 482; State v. Falkinburge, 15 N. J. L. 320. And see State v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 90 Mo. 166.

3. Hersey v. Milwaukee County, 16 Wis. 195; 82 Am. Dec. 713; Smith v. Smith, 19 Wis. 615; 88 Am. Dec. 707; Green Bay, etc., Canal Co. v. Outagamie County, 76 Wis. 586; Milwaukee Iron Co. v. Hubbard, 29 Wis. 51; Semple v. Langlade County, 75 Wis. 354; Brauns v. Green Bay, 55 Wis. 113; State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108; State v. Branin, 23 N. J. L. 484; Walsh v. King, 74 Mich. 354; Merrill v. Humphrey, 24 Mich. 170; Auditor Gen'l v. Jenkinson, 90 Mich. 523; Auditor Gen'l v. Prescott, 94 Mich. 190. And see Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 175.

In Illinois, in Dunham v. Chicago, 55 Ill. 357, and Merritt v. Farris, 22 Ill. 303, it has been held that the rule is where the officer has endeavored to carry out the provisions of the statute, and the omission is unintentional, it will not affect the validity of the tax levied upon the assessment.¹

It is generally provided that the assessment roll shall be arranged in columns; that in the first column the names of all the taxable inhabitants are to be put down; in the second, the quantity, and in the third the value of the land. The provisions, however, differ as to order and number of columns, but in any case the statute must be substantially complied with.² Unless otherwise. And see Spencer v. People, 68 Ill. 513; and to the same effect in Massachusetts, see Williams v. School Dist. No. 1, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; 32 Am. Dec. 243; George v. Second School Dist., 6 Met. (Mass.) 497.

In Johnston v. Oshkosh, 65 Wis. 473, it was held that where the assessors omitted taxable property, believing it to be exempt, the taxes assessed on the roll were invalid.

But in Hersey v. Milwaukee County, 16 Wis. 185; 82 Am. Dec. 713, it was held that the omission of property liable to taxes in one ward did not invalidate ward taxes levied according to such assessment roll on property situated in another ward.

In Hyatt v. Allen, 54 Cal. 353, it was held that a taxpayer was entitled to a writ of mandamus to compel the assessor to assess property subject to taxation.

1. Smith v. Smith, 19 Wis. 615; 88 Am. Dec. 707; Weeks v. Milwaukee, 10 Wis. 186; Hersey v. Milwaukee County, 16 Wis. 195; 82 Am. Dec. 713; Dean v. Gleason, 16 Wis. 1; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 599; Lefferts v. Calumet County, 21 Wis. 688; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163; Milwaukee Iron Co. v. Hubbard, 29 Wis. 51; People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 432; Puget Sound Agricultural Soc. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. Ter. 159; Dunham v. Chicago, 55 Ill. 361; Spencer v. People, 68 Ill. 510; Schofield v. Watkins, 22 Ill. 66; Merrett v. Farris, 22 Ill. 311; New Orleans v. Davidson, 30 La. Ann. 554; 31 Am. Rep. 228; Williams v. School Dist. No. 1, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; 32 Am. Dec. 243; Watson v. Princeton, 4 Met. (Mass.) 602; Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; Smith v. Mes- ser, 17 N. H. 420; State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108; State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 431; People v. Assessors, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 196; Goddard v. Stockman, 74 Ind. 400; Insurance Co. v. Yard, 17 Pa. St. 331; Capwell v. Hopkins, 10

R. I. 378; Van Deventer v. Long Island City, 139 N. Y. 133; Spear v. Braintree, 24 Vt. 414. See also Bond v. Kenosha, 17 Wis. 284; Winter v. Montgomery, 65 Ala. 403; Muscatine v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 1 Dill. (U. S.) 542.

In Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 391, it was held that property omitted from the assessment roll is not thereby relieved from liability for the tax.

The presumption that a public officer has done his duty, applies to an assessor who has omitted lands from assessment, if the facts as shown do not exclude it. Perkins v. Nugent, 45 Mich. 156.

Private information by a single member of the board of assessors that property has been omitted from the last assessment, is not chargeable to the board. Noyes v. Hale, 137 Mass. 266.

2. Trowbridge v. Horan, 78 N. Y. 439; Knott v. Peden, 84 Cal. 299; People v. Hollister, 47 Cal. 408; Thompson v. Honey Creek Draining Co., 33 Ind. 268; Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 175; The North Cape, 6 Biss. (U. S.) 505. And see Smith v. Hard, 61 Vt. 469; State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. (Mo. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 910. But see Torrey v. Millbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64; Insurance Co. v. Yard, 17 Pa. St. 331; Lewis v. Eastford, 44 Conn. 477.

Wherever the specific statutory requisites are material, they must be strictly construed. People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516.

In Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 6 Fed. Rep. 417, it was held that noncompliance with a statute requiring the names of the shareholders of a national bank to be placed upon the roll, vitiated the tax, although a separate list was kept showing the names and numbers of shares.

Where the name appears in the proper column, it does not matter if the the omission of words or marks indicating dollars and cents tends to mislead the owner, the assessment is not vitiated thereby.¹

(2) Designation of the Person Taxed.—The person taxed must be designated in the roll with certainty.²

In order to hold a taxpayer personally liable, the tax must be charged against him directly and properly.³

Property is to be listed against the owner or other person primarily liable, where his name can be ascertained,⁴ and if assessed name extends beyond the line of that column. People v. Sierra Buttes Quartz Min. Co., 39 Cal. 371.

In New York, the value of personal property must be placed in a fourth column. People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516.

The rate per cent. and the amount of the tax assessed are in some states placed in another column. State v. Perkins, 24 N. J. L. 409; State v. Sloss, 87 Ala. 119; Thompson v. Honey Creek Draining Co., 33 Ind. 268.

Formal Errors or Omissions.—But the omission to comply with a merely formal requisite directory in its nature, does not invalidate the assessment. See Downing v. Roberts, 21 Vt. 441; Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460; Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45; State v. Manning, 41 N. J. L. 275; Thomas v. Chapin, 116 Mo. 396; Torrey v. Millbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64; Blackburn v. Walpole, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 97; Pacific Hotel Co. v. Leib, 83 Ill. 604; Wall v. Trumbull, 16 Mich. 228.

In People v. Clapp (Supreme Ct.), 19 N. Y. Supp. 531, it was held that the assessment roll need not be in a single volume or collection of sheets united together, if they are united when finally completed with the verification attached.

1. Jenkins v. McTigue, 22 Fed. Rep. 148. And see San Luis Obispo County v. White (Cal. 1890), 24 Pac. Rep. 864; Emeric v. Alvarado, 90 Cal. 444; State v. Allen, 43 Ill. 456; Elston v. Kennicott, 46 Ill. 187; Chickering v. Faile, 38 Ill. 342; Jackson v. Cummings, 15 Ill. 449; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28; First Nat. Bank v. St. Joseph, 46 Mich. 526; State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13; Ward v. Gallatin County, 12 Mont. 23; Ensign v. Barse, 107 N. Y. 329; Chamberlain v. Taylor, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 24; Hopkins v. Young, 15 R. I. 48; Spokane Falls v. Browne, 3 Wash. 84; Sawyer v. Gleason, 59 N. H. 140.

The abbreviation "dolls." is equivalent to the word "dollars." Salisbury v. Shirley, 66 Cal. 223.

Where the dollar mark is placed at the head of the column, it is not necessary that it should be prefixed to each item. State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13.

In re Church of the Holy Sepulchre, 61 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 315, it was held that the omission of anything to indicate whether the figures represented dollars or cents, invalidated the assessment. See also Tilton v. Oregon Cent., etc., Road Co., 3 Sawyer (U. S.) 22; Emeric v. Alvarado, 90 Cal. 444.

2. Kelsey v. Abbott, 13 Cal. 609; Dowell v. Portland, 13 Oregon 248; Albany City Bank v. Maher, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 175; Hayes v. Viator, 33 La. Ann. 1162; Lynam v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; Whitney v. Thomas, 23 N. Y. 281; Evans v. Newell (R. I. 1892), 25 Atl. Rep. 347; Philadelphia v. Miller, 49 Pa. St. 440; Putnam v. Tyler, 117 Pa. St. 570; Lyman v. Philadelphia, 56 Pa. St. 488.

Where the statute requires money in court to be assessed to the treasurer, assessment to the plaintiff is invalid. San Luis Obispo v. Pettit, 87 Cal. 499.

In Crawford v. Schmidt, 47 Cal. 617, it was held that the designation of the owner by his surname alone was insufficient.

The name of the owner or occupant must appear on the assessment roll. Dubois v. Webster, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 371.

3. See Jefferson v. Mock, 74 Mo. 61; State v. Gibson, 12 Mo. App. 1; People v. Whipple, 47 Cal. 597; Lake County v. Sulphur Bank, etc., Min. Co., 66 Cal. 17; Bell v. Barnard, 37 Ill. App. 275; State v. Sloss, 87 Ala. 119; Wheeler v. Bramel (Ky. 1888), 8 S. W. Rep. 199.

In Parker v. Cochran, 64 Iowa 757, it was held that where taxes on land were duly assessed to the owner, the omission of the owner's name in transcribing the tax into a tax list does not invalidate the assessment.

4. Lynam v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367.

to another or to persons unknown, the tax is void.¹ But the assessor, when unable to discover who is liable for the tax, may assess it to unknown owners.² If the owner's name could have been ascertained from public records or otherwise, however, the property cannot be assessed to unknown owners.³

Statutes providing that an assessment made in the name of some other than the true owner shall not be invalid, and that any error in the name of the person taxed shall not vitiate the assessment, are not infrequent, and their constitutionality has been upheld.⁴

And see Pease v. Whitney, 5 Mass. 380; Meyer v. Trubee, 59 Conn. 422; Willard v. Blount, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 624; Madison v. Whitney, 21 Ind. 261; Springfield v. First Nat. Bank, 87 Mo. 441; Henkle v. Keota, 68 Iowa 334; Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664.

An assessment made to a person by name is to be deemed an assessment to him as owner. Blatner v. Davis, 32 Cal. 328.

1. Le Blanc v. Blodgett, 34 La. Ann. 107; Denegre v. Gerac, 35 La. Ann. 952; Maspereau v. New Orleans, 38 La. Ann. 400; Workingmen's Bank v. Lannes, 30 La. Ann. 871; Norres v. Hays, 44 La. Ann. 907; Dowell v. Portland, 13 Oregon 248; Redmund v. Banks, 60 Miss. 293; Philadelphia v. Miller, 49 Pa. St. 440; Baer v. Choir (Wash. 1893), 32 Pac. Rep. 776; Milwaukee Iron Co. v. Hubbard, 29 Wis. 51; Hecht v. Boughton, 2 Wyoming 368; Tracy v. Reed, 38 Fed. Rep. 69; Brown v. Veazie, 25 Me. 359; Bidleman v. Brooks, 28 Cal. 72; Green v. Craft, 28 Miss. 70; Lassitter v. Lee, 68 Ala. 287; Hume v. Wainscott, 46 Mo. 145; Abbott v. Lindenbower, 42 Mo. 162; State v. Gibson, 12 Mo. App. 1; Barker v. Blake, 36 Me. 433; Picottier v. Whaley, 80 Mich. 257; State v. Vanderbilt, 33 N. J. L. 38; Smith v. Read, 51 Conn. 10; Thompson v. Ela, 60 N. H. 562; Perham v. Haverhill Fibre Co., 64 N. H. 2; Burpee v. Russell, 64 N. H. 62; Crook v. Anniston City Land Co., 93 Ala. 4; Klumpke v. Baker, 68 Cal. 559; Hearst v. Egglestone, 55 Cal. 365; Newell v. Wheeler, 48 N. Y. 486; Whitney v. Thomas, 23 N. Y. 281; Zink v. McManus (Supreme Ct.), 3 N. Y. Supp. 487; Desmond v. Babbitt, 117 Mass. 233; Lynde v. Brown, 143 Mass. 337; L'Engle v. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co., 21 Fla. 353; People v. Whipple, 47 Cal. 591; Sargent v. Bean, 7 Gray (Mass.) 125. Such an assessment is equivalent to an entire omission of the name. People v. Whipple, 47 Cal. 591;

Lewis v. Withers, 44 Fed. Rep. 165; Johnson v. M'Intire, 1 Bibb (Ky.) 295; Wheeler v. Bramel (Ky. 1888), 8 S. W. Rep. 199; Baskins v. Doe, 24 Miss. 431. Compare Clifton Heights Land Co. v. Randell, 82 Iowa 89.

Thus, if property is assessed in the name of the agent of the owner, the interest of the owner is not covered by the lien. Meyer v. Trubee, 59 Conn. 422. And where land is not assessed to the owner, and is knocked down to the state at a tax sale, the state takes nothing. McWilliams v. Michel, 43 La. Ann. 984.

A statute limiting the right of the former owner to redeem to one year, has no application where the land is not assessed to the owner. Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664. And see Davenport v. Knox, 34 La. Ann. 407; Person v. O'Neal, 32 La. Ann. 228.

2. Robinson v. Williams (La. 1893), 12 So. Rep. 499. And see Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664; Tracy v. Reed, 38 Fed. Rep. 69.

3. Barker v. Hesselstine, 27 Me. 354. And see Oliver v. Robinson, 58 Ala. 46; Klumpke v. Baker, 68 Cal. 559; Meyer v. Trubee, 59 Conn. 422; Nichols v. McGlathery, 43 Iowa 189; Sutton v. Calhoun, 14 La. Ann. 205; Rapp v. Lowrey, 30 La. Ann. 1272; Perham v. Haverhill Fibre Co., 64 N. H. 2. But see Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622; State v. Hurt, 113 Mo. 90.

The knowledge of one assessor as to ownership will be imputed to all. Thompson v. Gerrish, 57 N. H. 85.

An assessor can demand of a warehouseman the ownership of property in his possession. Bode v. Holtz, 65 Cal. 106.

4. See Stilz v. Indianapolis, 81 Ind. 582; Schrodt v. Deputy, 88 Ind. 90; Small v. Lawrenceburgh, 28 Ind. 231; Merrick v. Hutt, 15 Ark. 331; Garibaldi v. Jenkins, 27 Ark. 453; Kinsworthy v. Mitchell, 21 Ark. 145; Landregan v. Peppin, 86 Cal. 122; Peo-

The assessment cannot be made to the owner or occupant in the alternative, nor to them collectively.¹ It must be definitely to the one or the other.²

Where the assessment is to unknown owners, it is not necessary that the assessor should state in his list that it is so assessed because the owner is unknown. Where the owner is not named, it will be presumed that he is unknown. This upon the general presumption that a public officer has done his duty.³

In assessing property to a trustee,⁴ agent,⁵ executor, or other ple v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 533; Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346; Haight v. New York, 99 N. Y. 280; Collins v. Long Island City, 56 Hun (N. Y.) 647; People v. Barker, 67 Hun (N. Y.) 649; State v. Matthews, 40 N. J. L. 269; State v. Vanderbilt, 33 N. J. L. 38; Lynam v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; Bradley v. Bouchard, 85 Mich. 18; Petrie Lumber Co. v. Collins, 66 Mich. 64; Michigan Dairy Co. v. McKinlay, 70 Mich. 574; Hill v. Graham, 72 Mich. 659; Strauch v. Shoemaker, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 166; Glass v. Gilbert, 58 Pa. St. 266; Dunn v. Winston, 31 Miss. 135.

Under the Indiana statute, the fact that a wife's land was charged in the name of the husband, does not invalidate the assessment. Helms v. Wagner, 102 Ind. 385.

In Tyler v. Hardwick, 6 Met. (Mass.) 470, it was held that the statute applied to a person whose surname only was inserted in the assessment, and that, provided the party was taxable and could be identified by the assessors, no error in the name would invalidate the tax. See also Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502.

In Collins v. Long Island City, 56 Hun (N. Y.) 647, it was held that under such a statute, an assessment of land of non-residents was not vitiated by being assessed to unknown owners.

1. Pearson v. Creed, 78 Cal. 144; Greenwood v. Adams, 80 Cal. 74; Jatum v. O'Brien, 89 Cal. 57; Daly v. Ah Goon, 64 Cal. 512; Grinn v. O'Connell, 54 Cal. 522; Hearst v. Egglestone, 55 Cal. 365; Grotefend v. Ultz, 53 Cal. 666; Stafford v. Twitchell, 33 La. Ann. 520. And see Bosworth v. Webster, 64 Cal. 1; Brunn v. Murphy, 29 Cal. 326.

In California, an assessment to the owner and all claimants is invalid. Daly v. Ah Goon, 64 Cal. 512; Brady v. Dowden, 59 Cal. 51; Pierson v. Creed, 78 Cal. 144; Hearst v. Egglestone, 55 Cal. 365.

But where the land is assessed to the owner, the general heading of the assessment roll "to all owners, claimants, known or unknown, etc.," will not vitiate it. Bosworth v. Webster, 64 Cal. 1; San Francisco v. Phelan, 61 Cal. 617.

2. Dubois v. Webster, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 371; Grotefend v. Ultz, 53 Cal. 666; Sargent v. Bean, 7 Gray (Mass.) 125. And see People v. Wemple, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 197.

But in whosoever name the assessment is, the succeeding steps must be in the same name; viz., in the advertisement and sale. Bettinson v. Budd, 21 Ark. 578. See also Shimmin v. Inman, 26 Me. 232; Watt v. Gilgore, 2 Yeates (Pa.) 330.

3. Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182; Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420; Merritt v. Thompson, 13 Ill. 716; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622; Brown v. Veazie, 25 Me. 359; Jenkins v. McTigue, 22 Fed. Rep. 148; Jackson v. Cummings, 15 Ill. 449; Burdick v. Connell, 69 Iowa 458; Griffin v. Tuttle, 74 Iowa 219.

The fact that the owner was known to the purchaser at the tax sale is immaterial. Lassitter v. Lee, 68 Ala. 287.

In California, it is necessary, where lands are assessed to unknown owners, that the assessor should state in his list that it was so assessed because it was unoccupied and the owner unknown. Moss v. Shear, 25 Cal. 38; 85 Am. Dec. 94; Smith v. Davis, 30 Cal. 536. But compare Brunn v. Murphy, 29 Cal. 326.

4. Trowbridge v. Horan, 78 N. Y. 439; Hardy v. Yarmouth, 6 Allen (Mass.) 277; Latrobe v. Baltimore, 19 Md. 13; People v. Coleman, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 482.

5. See Welles v. Battelle, 11 Mass. 477; Lake County v. Sulphur Bank, etc., Min. Co., 68 Cal. 14; Meyer v. Trubee, 59 Conn. 422; People v. Coleman, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 482.

Under the Illinois statute, the word "agent" need not be added when the person than the owner,¹ the assessor should designate the capacity in which he is taxed. Property of a partnership should be assessed to the firm.²

The property of joint tenants, or tenants in common, may be assessed to them collectively, or their several undivided interests may be assessed severally, but no definite part or stipulated number of acres can be assessed to one of them.³

An immaterial mistake in the name of the person to whom the property is assessed will be disregarded.⁴ Where the owner of agent has neglected to list the property. Lockwood v. Johnson, 106 Ill. 334.

In Lake County v. Silver Bank, etc., Min. Co., 68 Cal. 14, it was held that an assessment to the company, "F. Fiedler, agent," indicated an assessment to the company.

1. See Williams v. Holden, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 223; McLean v. Horn (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 119; San Francisco v. Pennie, 93 Cal. 465; State v. Holmdel Tp., 39 N. J. L. 79; Wolfe v. Geffroy, 16 Ohio St. 219.

Where the assessment is imposed upon administrators, it is an assessment upon the administrators themselves, and will support a commitment under the New York statute for failure to pay the tax. McLean v. Horn (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 119.

But in State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98, it was held that an assessment against one of several executors should not be set aside, though the assessor failed to designate his representative capacity.

In Bath v. Reed, 78 Me. 276, it was held that an assessment against parties as "administrators," when it should have been against them as executors, did not invalidate the tax.

Where the administrator has distributed the estate among the parties entitled thereto, no tax can be assessed against him. Carleton v. Ashburnham, 102 Mass. 348.

2. Hubbard v. Winsor, 15 Mich. 146; Hill v. Graham, 72 Mich. 659; Van Dyke v. Carleton, 61 N. H. 574; People v. Ferguson, 8 Cow. (N. Y.) 102; Wheeler v. Anthony, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 346. And see Petrie Lumber Co. v. Collins, 66 Mich. 64.

It should be assessed in the firm name, even though the title to the property has vested in the survivors, owing to the death of one of the partners. Blodgett v. Muskegon, 60 Mich. 580.

An assessment of the personal property of a former member of a firm after dissolution of the firm, is void. People v. Sneath, 28 Cal. 612.

3. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) 399, citing Hayes v. Viator, 33 La. Ann. 1162. And see Payne v. Danley, 18 Ark. 441; 68 Am. Dec. 187; Jenkins v. Rice, 84 Ind. 342; Noble v. Indianapolis, 16 Ind. 506; Norres v. Hays, 44 La. Ann. 907.

In State v. Rand, 39 Minn. 502, it was held that a credit consisting of part of the purchase price of land formerly owned in common, should not be assessed as a whole against the vendors.

An assessment cannot be invalidated by the fact that one of several cotenants has been named as owner. Fleischauer v. West Hoboken, 40 N. J. L. 109; Welles v. Battelle, 11 Mass. 477. And see Factors', etc., Ins. Co. v. Levi, 42 La. Ann. 432; Williams v. Holden, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 223; Howard v. Proctor, 7 Gray (Mass.) 128.

4. Pierce v. Richardson, 37 N. H. 306; Carpenter v. Dalton, 58 N. H. 615; Souhegan Nail, etc., Factory v. McConihe, 7 N. H. 309; Van Dyke v. Carleton, 6 N. H. 574; Tyler v. Hardwick, 6 Met. (Mass.) 470; Farnsworth Co. v. Rand, 65 Me. 19; Hill v. Graham, 72 Mich. 659; O'Neal v. Virginia, etc., Bridge Co., 18 Md. 1; Van Voorhis v. Budd, 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 479; In re Hartshorn, 63 Hun (N. Y.) 623; McLean v. Horn (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 119; State v. Diamond Valley Live Stock, etc., Co., 21 Nev. 86; People v. Sierra Buttes Quartz Min. Co., 39 Cal. 511; Lyle v. Jacques, 101 Ill. 644; People v. Tax Com'rs (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 923; Pennington v. Mendes, 38 N. J. Eq. 336; State v. Matthews, 40 N. J. L. 269. And see Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502.

In Adams v. Sleeper, 64 Vt. 544, it was held that a tax levied on the property of a wife is not illegal because assessed in the name of both husband and wife, such error being harmless.

property is habitually known by a certain name, an assessment to him in that name is sufficient, though it is not his true name.¹

In order that property may not escape taxation, the statutes of some of the states provide that the estates of deceased persons shall be assessed as the estates of such deceased persons, in the place where the deceased last dwelt;² but, after the qualification of an executor or the appointment of an administrator, the assessment must be to such representative.³ In the absence of such statutes, the estate must be assessed to the persons by name upon whom it has devolved.⁴

It is provided sometimes that the undivided real estate of a deceased person may be assessed to his heirs or devisees, without designating any of them by name. But under such provisions the estate cannot be taxed to heirs when it is given to devisees, nor to devisees in case of intestacy.⁵ And after a division of the

An assessment to "D. Knowlton & Company" instead of to "D. Knowlton Company," was held immaterial. Thorndike v. Camden, 82 Me. 39.

The designation of a corporation by the initials of its name was held not to invalidate an assessment. Gratwick, etc., Lumber Co. v. Oscoda, 97 Mich. 221.

Material Mistakes.—But in Emeric v. Alvarado, 90 Cal. 444, it was held that an assessment to "Castero" instead of "Castro" was invalid. And so in Smith v. Read, 51 Conn. 10, an assessment to "Julia Read" instead of to "Sarah E. Reed."

Where property is assessed against a divorced woman who has assumed her maiden name, by her husband's name, the tax is invalid. Maspereau v. New Orleans, 38 La. Ann. 400.

1. Van Voorhis v. Budd, 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 479; Lyle v. Jacques, 101 Ill. 644; Farnsworth Co. v. Rand, 65 Me. 19.

A banker who assumes a special name by which his business is characterized and known, may be assessed by that name. Patchin v. Ritter, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 34.

2. Noble v. Indianapolis, 16 Ind. 506; Moale v. Baltimore, 61 Md. 224; Dickison v. Reynolds, 48 Mich. 158; Surget v. Newman, 43 La. Ann. 873; Tobin v. Gillespie, 152 Mass. 219. And see Cook v. Leland, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 236; Wood v. Torrey, 97 Mass. 321; Haight v. New York, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 153.

3. Fairfield v. Woodman, 76 Me. 549; Dallinger v. Rapello, 14 Fed. Rep.

32. And see Dickison v. Reynolds, 48 Mich. 158.

In State v. Corson, 50 N. J. L. 381, it was held that an erroneous assessment to the estate of a deceased person might be amended by the court.

4. Trowbridge v. Horan, 78 N. Y. 439; In re Kenworthy (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 655; Jackson v. King, 82 Ala. 432; L'Engle v. Wilson, 21 Fla. 461; Jackson v. King, 82 Ala. 432; Kerns v. Collins, 40 La. Ann. 453; Pearson v. Crud, 69 Cal. 538; Fairfield v. Woodman, 76 Me. 549; Berlien v. Bieler, 96 Mo. 491; Morrison v. McLaughlin, 88 N. Car. 251; Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 26; State v. Holmdel Tp., 39 N. J. L. 79.

An assessment made to a deceased person is void. Smith v. Davis, 30 Cal. 536. But in State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108, it was held that an assessment of taxes to the estate of a deceased person is not such an error as will authorize the court to set aside the tax on certiorari, where the estate is a large one and is shown to have been well known by that description.

5. Tobin v. Gillespie, 152 Mass. 219; Elliot v. Spinney, 69 Me. 31. See also Wheeler v. Anthony, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 346; Noble v. Indianapolis, 16 Ind. 506.

In the absence of such a provision, the heirs must be named. Berlien v. Bieler, 96 Mo. 491.

Where the statute permits the property of an estate to be assessed to the heirs or devisees thereof without naming them, an assessment to the estate by name is equivalent thereto estate, the assessment must be to the persons taking shares by name.¹

(3) Designation of the Property Taxed—(a) General Requirements.—The classification of the property must be in accordance with the statute authorizing the assessment,² and special rules with reference to what shall be deemed real and what personal property must be observed.³

The requirement that lands shall be classified as resident and non-resident, is generally held to be imperative, and the assessment of either in the list of the other, void.⁴

and sufficient. Dickison v. Reynolds, 48 Mich. 158.

1. Tobin v. Gillespie, 152 Mass. 219; Carter v. New Orleans, 33 La. Ann. 816. And see Stafford v. Twitchell, 33 La. Ann. 520; Cunningham v. White, 2 Pa. Dist. Rep. 531.

In the absence of anything to show in a partition that the property has been had, it will be presumed that the property is enjoyed in common, and an assessment to the heirs without naming them will be upheld. Moale v. Baltimore, 61 Md. 224.

In Re Baton Rouge Oil Works, 34 La. Ann. 255, it was held that an assessment in the name of the heirs of a living person is void, and the forfeiture to the state for taxes thus assessed is a nullity.

2. People v. Owyhee Min. Co., 1 Idaho 409; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Carland, 5 Mont. 146; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 116 Ill. 181.

The situation of the property and the uses to which it is put, should determine its classification. People v. Palmer, 113 Ill. 346.

In Fletcher v. Alcona Tp., 72 Mich. 18, it was held that standing timber is not "forest product" and not assessable as personalty, but as realty, even though it is owned by some one other than the owner of the land upon which it stands.

The blending together of several different kinds of taxes in one assessment, invalidates the tax. People v. Moore, 1 Idaho 662. A sale of lands for taxes, assessed jointly on realty and personalty, is void. Stark v. Shupp, 112 Pa. St. 395.

3. Wilgers v. Com., 9 Bush (Ky.) 556. The legislature has power to make any kind of property personalty, for the purposes of taxation, although it is real estate for all other purposes. Johnson v. Roberts, 102 Ill. 655. And see Central Iowa R. Co. v. Wright County (Iowa, 1885), 22 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 223.

As in Rhode Island, it is provided that for all purposes of taxation, fixed machinery shall be regarded as real estate and as owned by the owner of real estate to which it is affixed. See Steere v. Walling, 7 R. I. 317.

In Pennsylvania, manufactories of all descriptions are subject to taxation as real estate. Hawes Mfg. Co.'s Appeal (Pa. 1890), 17 Atl. Rep. 219.

4. Seymour v. Peters, 67 Mich. 415; Hanscom v. Hinman, 30 Mich. 419; Rayner v. Lee, 20 Mich. 384; Perley v. Stanley, 59 N. H. 587; Bowles v. Clough, 55 N. H. 389; Rising v. Granger, 1 Mass. 48; Barker v. Hesseltine, 27 Me. 354; Joslyn v. Rockwell, 128 N. Y. 334; Fowler v. Springfield, 64 N. H. 108; Tebbetts v. Job, 11 Ill. 453; Messinger v. Germain, 6 Ill. 631; Lunt v. Wormell, 19 Me. 100. And see Glover v. Edgewater, 3 Thomp. & C. (N. Y.) 497.

But in Connecticut, such a requirement is merely directory. Adams v. Seymour, 30 Conn. 402.

Seated and Unseated Lands.—In Pennsylvania, seated and unseated lands are required to be assessed in separate lists, and failure to do so invalidates the assessment. Miller v. McCullough, 104 Pa. St. 624; McReynolds v. Longenberger, 57 Pa. St. 13; Larimer v. McCall, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 133; Stewart v. Trevor, 56 Pa. St. 374; Hathaway v. Elsbree, 54 Pa. St. 498; Bechdle v. Lingle, 66 Pa. St. 38.

But where the owner causes his land to be placed upon the wrong list, he is estopped from taking advantage of the defect. Milliken v. Benedict, 8 Pa. St. 169; Harper v. Farmers', etc., Bank, 7 W. & S. (Pa.) 204; Heft v. Gephart, 65 Pa. St. 510. And the lands may be transferred from the seated to the unseated list, upon notice to the owner. Milliken v. Benedict, 8 Pa. St. 169. But see Arthurs v. Smathers, 38 Pa. St. 40; Laird v. Heister, 24 Pa. St. 452.

(b) Description of Personalty.—As a general rule, it is only necessary to assess personal property in general terms under a gross valuation, a specific description of such property not being required.¹ But it should be properly classified, and, if placed in an entirely different and distinct class from that to which it belongs, the assessment will be invalid.² And when the authority to assess is limited to particular kinds of personal property, it should appear that the assessment is made only on those kinds.³

Every article placed upon the list must appear on the face thereof to be legally subject to taxation.⁴

(c) Description of Realty.—The assessment list must show an accurate designation or description of the property taxed. A description so false or inadequate as not to identify the property, is fatal to the validity of an assessment.⁵ The description should

The character of the land is to be determined by its condition at the time of the assessment. Murray v. Guilford, 8 Watts (Pa.) 548.

As to what are seated lands, see SEATED, vol. 21, p. 981; Wilson v. Waterson, 4 Pa. St. 214; Watson v. Davidson, 87 Pa. St. 270; Patterson v. Blackmore, 9 Watts (Pa.) 104; Stewart v. Trevor, 56 Pa. St. 374; Harbeson v. Jack, 2 Watts (Pa.) 124.

A description of unseated lands is sufficient if it leads the owner to the truth on inquiry. Dunden v. Snodgrass, 18 Pa. St. 151. A misstatement of the number of acres is immaterial. Putnam v. Tyler, 117 Pa. St. 570.

1. Hartford v. Champion, 58 Conn. 268; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Yavapai County (Arizona, 1889), 21 Pac. Rep. 768; Donnell v. Webster, 63 Me. 15; People v. Rains, 23 Cal. 131; People v. Sneath, 28 Cal. 612.

Where personal property is specifically enumerated on the tax roll instead of in gross, the specific description is surplusage. Comstock v. Grand Rapids, 54 Mich. 641.

State bonds belonging to non-residents, but deposited within the state, are sufficiently described in an assessment thereof, by being designated "money and bonds deposited as per statute." People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 533.

Vessels.—An assessment and warrant against a vessel by name and not against the owner, is not objectionable. The North Cape, 6 Bias. (U. S.) 505.

2. Thompson v. Davidson, 15 Minn. 412.

In California, § 3650 Code Civ. Proc., provides that all property must be specified, etc., "showing the number, kind, amount, and quality; but a failure to enumerate in detail such personal property does not invalidate the assessment." The word "enumerate" applies to each specification. It is sufficient if the assessment shows generally the character of the property. See People v. Home Ins. Co., 29 Cal. 549; People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 441; Dear v. Varnum, 80 Cal. 86; Doland v. Mooney, 72 Cal. 34.

The description of property as "mining stock" was held sufficient in San Francisco v. Flood, 64 Cal. 504.

In San Francisco v. Pennie, 93 Cal. 465, a description of "the property as per inventory on file in the superior court department No. 9, personal property, one hundred thousand dollars," was held sufficient. And in Dear v. Weineke, 94 Cal. 322, "the value of personal property, exclusive of money, and solvent credits," was sufficient.

3. Dunnell Mfg. Co. v. Newell, 15 R. I. 234.

4. Adam v. Litchfield, 10 Conn. 127; Whittelsey v. Clinton, 14 Conn. 72.

But in Munroe v. New Canaan, 43 Conn. 309, it was held that an addition to a tax list by the assessors was legal, although the list did not show that it might not have been exempt from taxation. See also Lewis v. Eastford, 44 Conn. 477; Hammersley v. Franey, 39 Conn. 175.

5. Lewis v. Eastford, 44 Conn. 477; Thibodaux v. Keller, 29 La. Ann. 508; Woolfolk v. Fonbene, 15 La. Ann. 15; Rougelot v. Quick, 34 La. Ann. 123; Augusti v. Lawless, 43 La. Ann. 1097; In re Baton Rouge Oil Works, 34 La. Ann. 255; Greene v. Walker, be sufficient to enable the owner to identify his property,¹ and such that it may be located readily in subsequent proceedings in the collection of the tax.²

The description, however, is sufficient if by it the land can be 63 Me. 311; Brigham v. Smith, 64 Me. 450; Jefferson v. Whipple, 71 Mo. 519; Wilkins v. Tourtellott, 28 Kan. 589; Lyon County v. Goddard, 22 Kan. 389; Yenda v. Wheeler, 9 Tex. 408; Tallman v. White, 2 N. Y. 66; Greenough v. Fulton Coal Co., 74 Pa. St. 486; Philadelphia v. Miller, 49 Pa. St. 440; Lyman v. Philadelphia, 56 Pa. St. 488; Dane v. Glennon, 72 Ala. 160; Driggers v. Cassidy, 71 Ala. 529; Jones v. Pelham, 84 Ala. 208; People v. Flint, 39 Cal. 670; Salisbury v. Shirley, 66 Cal. 223; Power v. Larabee, 2 N. Dak. 141; Power v. Bowdle (N. Dak. 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 404; State v. Elizabeth, 39 N. J. L. 689; State v. Franklin, 46 N. J. L. 437; Sanford v. People, 102 Ill. 374; Richardson v. State, 5 Blackf. (Ind.) 51; Wing v. Minor (Miss. 1890), 7 So. Rep. 347; Sims v. Warren, 67 Miss. 278; Head v. James, 13 Wis. 641; Holmes v. School Dist. No. 15, 11 Oregon 332; Morristown v. King, 11 Lea (Tenn.) 669; Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664.

If any discrepancy in the description of the property exist between the original list and the copies furnished, the description in the original must control. Green v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 694.

Substantial compliance with a statutory requirement as to description is sufficient. Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 508.

Description in a Grant or Conveyance.

—It is held that a description sufficiently certain to convey land would not answer in a proceeding to enforce collection of taxes. People v. Mahoney, 55 Cal. 286; Keane v. Connovan, 21 Cal. 302; 82 Am. Dec. 738; People v. Cannovan, 28 Cal. 429. But in Law v. People, 80 Ill. 268, it was held that less strictness was required.

1. Oldtown v. Blake, 74 Me. 280; Greene v. Lunt, 58 Me. 518; Bosworth v. Danzien, 25 Cal. 296; State v. Franklin, 46 N. J. L. 437; Lyman v. Philadelphia, 56 Pa. St. 488; Putnam v. Tyler, 117 Pa. St. 570; Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664.

It must be certainly identified, either by the language used or by that referred to. Greene v. Walker, 63 Me. 311.

An insufficient description is not cured by an accurate description in the report of sale. Morristown v. King, 11 Lea (Tenn.) 669.

Where the description is not sufficient to impart notice to the owner, the title of a purchaser at a tax sale made for the non-payment of the tax, is not protected by the short Statute of Limitations. Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664.

In Shaw v. Orr, 30 Iowa 355, it was held that a taxpayer cannot be relieved from liability for payment of the tax for want of a sufficient description of the property to enable a stranger to identify it. See also Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Spearman, 12 Iowa 112.

2. Brinson v. Lassiter, 81 Ga. 40; Pearson v. O'Neal, 32 La. Ann. 228; Rougeot v. Quick, 34 La. Ann. 123; Woolfolk v. Fonbone, 15 La. Ann. 15; Greene v. Lunt, 58 Me. 518; Greene v. Walker, 63 Me. 311; Sharp v. Johnson, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 92; 40 Am. Dec. 259; Bank of Utica v. Mersereau, 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 531; Matter of New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. 342; Tallman v. White, 2 N. Y. 66; Peck v. Mallams, 10 N. Y. 509; Yenda v. Wheeler, 9 Tex. 408; Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420; Tilton v. Oregon Cent., etc., Road Co., 3 Sawyer (U. S.) 22.

In New Jersey, if lands are not designated by such a description as will be sufficient to ascertain the location and extent, a sale thereof cannot be made, but the tax may still be collected by warrant against the goods, chattels and person of the owner. State v. Union Tp., 36 N. J. L. 309; such a description is indispensable to create a lien on the real estate. State v. Miles, 48 N. J. L. 451.

Statutory Correction.—In Bennett v. Buffalo, 17 N. Y. 383, it was held that a statute providing that whenever any land returned for the non-payment of any tax or assessment is so imperfectly described that it cannot be located with certainty, a designated officer shall have power to make out an accurate description of such land, and the council shall have power to order a new tax roll to be made out of the same, does not permit the insertion in the new tax roll of a name that did not appear in the original roll.

identified with the help of extrinsic evidence.¹ And it has been held that the description is sufficient if the property can be identified by a competent surveyor with reasonable certainty, either with or without the aid of extrinsic evidence.²

Abbreviations in common use may be used.³ And where the items of the assessment are placed in proper columns, headed by descriptive words showing the tract, range, and section of land intended, it is sufficient.⁴

An assessment, designating the property as a part of a certain lot or tract, without designating the particular part intended to

1. Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Woodside v. Wilson, 32 Pa. St. 52; Allen v. Woodbridge Tp., 42 N. J. L. 401. And see State v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 114 Mo. 1.

In Glass v. Gilbert, 58 Pa. St. 266, it was held that an assessment is void only when it wholly fails to lead to identification.

A description may be sufficient, although it is necessary to introduce parol evidence for the purpose of applying a description to certain land by removing a latent ambiguity. Judd v. Anderson, 51 Iowa 345; Jenkins v. Sharpf, 27 Wis. 472. But extrinsic evidence cannot be resorted to for the purpose of supplementing and making a description certain, which is so defective that it does not identify the land. Evans v. Newell (R. I. 1892), 25 Atl. Rep. 347.

Where the description is applicable to either of two lots, it is erroneous to submit the question of identity to a jury without evidence. Marsh v. Nelson, 101 Pa. St. 51; Hess v. Herrington, 73 Pa. St. 438.

It is necessary for the one claiming under the assessment to furnish the proof of the identity. Blair v. Scott, 44 Iowa 143.

In Jones v. Pelham, 84 Ala. 208, an assessment in which the property was described as a "house and lot on Battle Street, in the town of —, property of C. P." without other descriptive or identifying words, was void for uncertainty, as it was shown that C. P. owned two adjoining houses and lots on that street.

But an assessment, "R. E. N., land fifty acres, in Road Dist. No. 21," was sufficient description for the owner to identify the property assessed, as he owned but one lot in the district. Allen v. Woodbridge Tp., 42 N. J. L. 401.

In Mississippi, the statute provides for the admission of parol evidence, if there is enough in the description on the roll to apply to the particular tract of land, by the aid of such testimony. See Dodds v. Marx, 63 Miss. 443; Sims v. Warren, 67 Miss. 278.

2. People v. Stahl, 101 Ill. 346; Law v. People, 80 Ill. 268; Fowler v. People, 93 Ill. 116; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 460.

In San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 12, it was held that a description of the roadway of a railroad company, by the termini, courses and distances, was sufficient.

3. Abbreviations.—Jenkins v. McTigue, 22 Fed. Rep. 148; Taylor v. Wright, 121 Ill. 455; Olcott v. State, 10 Ill. 481; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Law v. People, 80 Ill. 268; Jordan Ditching Assoc., etc. v. Wagoner, 33 Ind. 50; Havard v. Day, 62 Miss. 748. But see Power v. Bowdle (N. Dak. 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 404.

A description, "W. side N. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. E. N. W. ten acres, section 8, T. 23, R. 10," in Taylor v. Wright, 121 Ill. 465, and as "3 $\frac{1}{2}$ S. W. $\frac{1}{4}$, section 24, Town 3, South range W. 80 acres," in Sibley v. Smith, 2 Mich. 486, were sufficient.

In State v. Newark, 36 N. J. L. 288, it was held that abbreviations, so long as they were intelligible, might be used by the assessor. The abbreviations "h. l. and stable" were held to indicate house, lot and stable.

In Illinois, the use of abbreviations is expressly authorized by statute. See Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560.

4. See Hopkins v. Young, 15 R. I. 48; Burdick v. Connell, 69 Iowa 458; Hixon v. Oneida County, 82 Wis. 515.

An assessment in which is placed, under the head of "buildings of all kinds described by naming their use," two houses, one barn, and under the head of "description by name or otherwise of each and every lot of land," the number of acres of mowing, tillage, be taxed, is invalid.¹ And, on the other hand, although a tract is correctly described, if a part thereof is excepted from the assessment, but not sufficiently identified, the assessment is void.²

Tracts may be described by reference to government surveys, or authenticated plats or maps, according to their numbers;³ or by pasture, wood and unimproved lands, is sufficient. Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502.

1. Atwell v. Zeluff, 26 Mich. 118; People v. Flint, 39 Cal. 670; Sims v. Warren, 67 Miss. 278; Massie v. Long, 2 Ohio 287; Turney v. Yeoman, 16 Ohio 25; Lafferty v. Byers, 5 Ohio 458; Raymond v. Longworth, 14 How. (U. S.) 76.

The following descriptions have been held insufficient: "60 acres, part of North half of section 13," Treon v. Emerrick, 6 Ohio 391; "60 acres, part of government right," Ainsworth v. Dean, 21 N. H. 400; "143 acres in N. E. $\frac{1}{4}$ of section 24, etc.," Dingey v. Paxton, 60 Miss. 1038; and as "the unsold portion of" certain property described. People v. Pico, 20 Cal. 595.

In Hintrager v. Nightingale, 36 Fed. Rep. 847, it was held that a description of land as an "undivided portion of the south middle 31-2-12 feet," of a certain lot, the lot not being capable of fractional division of the size mentioned, is void for uncertainty.

But a description of land as "the East half of the Southeast quarter of a section," omitting to give the number of the section, was not so defective as to be void where the taxing district contained but one tract answering to the description. Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28. And an assessment of a balance of a certain tract is not void for uncertainty where the assessment is immediately preceded by an assessment of the main part of the tract described by metes and bounds. Greenwood v. La Salle, 137 Ill. 225.

A description of a tract consisting of a specific quantity of land granted by a foreign government to be selected within the boundaries of a designated tract, was valid, the description being as definite as the case would admit of. People v. Crockett, 33 Cal. 150.

2. People v. Cone, 48 Cal. 427; People v. Hancock, 48 Cal. 631; People v. Hyde, 48 Cal. 431. See also People v. Mariposa County, 31 Cal. 196.

An assessment of land designated by quantity and boundaries, excepting therefrom a portion before sold, without a description of the excepted portion, is void. People v. Hyde, 48 Cal. 431.

3. Adams v. Larrabee, 46 Me. 516; State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108; State v. Galloway Tp., 42 N. J. L. 415; Taylor v. Wright, 121 Ill. 455; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Kelly v. Salinger, 53 Ark. 114; Webre v. Lutchner (45 La. Ann.), 12 So. Rep. 834; Wright v. Cradlebaugh, 3 Nev. 341; Janesville v. Markoe, 18 Wis. 350. And see Havard v. Day, 62 Miss. 748; Cahalan v. Van Sant (Iowa, 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 433.

Where a statute required a map of the property assessed to be filed with the assessment, in the absence of other designation or identification than by the map number, failure to file the map as required rendered the assessment invalid. Lalor v. New York, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 235. See also May v. Traphagen, 139 N. Y. 478.

Of two official maps, the later may be referred to. See White v. Wheeler, 51 Hun. (N. Y.) 573.

The assessment will be invalid if made according to an unauthorized map. Merton v. Dolphin, 28 Wis. 456. But the fact that the map referred to has not been recorded, will not invalidate the assessment, if it has been recognized as authentic and been acted upon. Roads v. Estabrook, 35 Neb. 297. Where the owner of the property did not know of a map, which, though recognized by the town officials, had not been formally adopted, the assessment was invalid. Richter v. Beaumont, 67 Miss. 285.

In Williams v. Central Land Co., 32 Minn. 440, it was held that under a statute authorizing lands to be platted and described according to the plat, a plat which does not present the means of identifying the land, is not such a plat as contemplated by the statute. See also People v. Reat, 107 Ill. 581.

Blocks of land in a city may be assessed by blocks when they are assessed to the owner, even if they have been subdivided into lots. People v. Culverwell, 44 Cal. 620.

Mistake in Number.—A mistake in particular names by which they are generally and popularly known in the neighborhood.¹

The description of a tract of land merely by the number of acres included in it is insufficient.² But, unless required by statute, it is not necessary to describe lands by metes and bounds.³

(a) Distinct and Separate Parcels.—Separate and distinct parcels of real estate are to be considered as distinct subjects of taxation, and must be separately valued and assessed;⁴ the rule applies to lots and blocks into which lands in cities and towns are usually the number of a lot will not vitiate assessments, if the description otherwise is such that the land can be identified. Marsh v. Nelson, 101 Pa. St. 51.

1. People v. Leet, 23 Cal. 161; High v. Shoemaker, 22 Cal. 363; Glass v. Gilbert, 58 Pa. St. 266; Lyman v. Philadelphia, 56 Pa. St. 488; Hopkins v. Young, 15 R. I. 48; Alexander v. Hunter, 29 Neb. 259; Sutton v. Calhoun, 14 La. Ann. 205.

Parol evidence is competent to show that the name acquired by repute coincides with the proper description. Gilfillan v. Hobart, 34 Minn. 67.

In Kelly v. Herrall, 20 Fed. Rep. 364, it was held that a description of property assessed to a person by name as "lot 3 in Portland Homestead" is sufficiently certain, where there is but one Portland Homestead within the county containing such a lot, of which the person assessed is the owner.

A description of property as the "parsonage" was sufficient, People v. O'Brien, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 580; and as "the estate of J. B. Coles, deceased," in State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108. See also Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; or as the "vacant strip," Whitney v. Gunderson, 31 Wis. 359.

2. State v. Franklin, 46 N. J. L. 437; State v. Mulford, 43 N. J. L. 550; Rutherford v. Union Tp., 36 N. J. L. 309; State v. Elizabeth, 39 N. J. L. 689; Philadelphia v. Miller, 49 Pa. St. 440; Bush v. Williams, Cooke (Tenn.) 274. But see Cressey v. Parks, 76 Me. 532.

An entry upon an assessment roll, "acres of land—value—," is void, Holmes v. School Dist. No. 15, 11 Oregon 332; or "Bush's heirs—acres," Bush v. Williams, Cooke (Tenn.) 274.

A mistake in the number of acres, where the valuation is not by the acre, is immaterial. People v. Adams (Supreme Ct.), 10 N. Y. Supp. 295. See also Gilman v. Riopelle, 18 Mich. 145; Williston v. Colkett, 9 Pa. St. 38. Such an error is not sufficient to overturn the number of the tract or the name of the warrantee when they conflict. Brown v. Hays, 66 Pa. St. 229; Putnam v. Tyler, 117 Pa. St. 570.

3. High v. Shoemaker, 22 Cal. 363; Patten v. Green, 13 Cal. 325, practically overruling Lachman v. Clark, 14 Cal. 131.

Where a statute requires an assessor to state metes and bounds in describing a bridge, he should state its length and the length of its approach. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co. v. People, 145 Ill. 596.

4. Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 492; Nason v. Ricker, 63 Me. 381; People v. Hollister, 47 Cal. 408; People v. Sierra Buttes Quartz Min. Co., 39 Cal. 511; Howe v. People, 86 Ill. 288; Insurance Co. v. Yard, 17 Pa. St. 338; Brown v. Hays, 66 Pa. St. 229; Fisk v. Corey, 141 Pa. St. 334; St. Marys Church v. Tripp, 14 R. I. 307; Young v. Joslin, 13 R. I. 675; State v. Baker, 49 Tex. 763; Walker v. Chapman, 22 Ala. 116; French v. Edwards, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 511. More especially is this the rule where the tracts of land are not contiguous. Dundy v. Richardson County, 8 Neb. 508. And see Moore v. People, 106 Ill. 376.

Under Rev. St. Mo., §§ 7552, 7555, the assessment of real estate must contain an accurate description thereof by the smallest legal subdivisions. State v. Wabash R. Co., 114 Mo. 1.

Such a provision in a statute is mandatory. Young v. Joslin, 13 R. I. 675. And a tax deed which shows upon its face that two or more separate and distinct tracts of land were sold together, is void on its face. Hall v. Dodge, 18 Kan. 277; Mathews v. Buckingham, 22 Kan. 169.

In May v. Traphagen (B'klyn City Ct.), 19 N. Y. Supp. 679, it was held that the gross assessment of several lots as one parcel, is not an error when the statute provides for an apportionment thereof in case of objection.

subdivided,¹ as well as to the sections or legal subdivisions of government land,² and failure to observe this requirement will render the assessment void.³ But the rule does not require that a tract shall be divided into the smallest legal subdivisions;⁴ and where two or more lots or tracts adjoin each other, and are used and occupied as one, they may be assessed as a single tract.⁵ An assessor may not divide a single tract without the consent of the

Nor is it a defense to a simple action to recover a tax, when no forfeiture is sought to be enforced. Rockland v. Ulmer, 84 Me. 503.

Railroad Property.—In assessing the property of railroads, the different franchises, etc., owned or controlled by a single company may be separately assessed; and the same rule applies in assessing the rolling stock, etc. But the road bed, franchise, and superstructure are properly assessed together. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bate, 12 Lea (Tenn.) 573.

Unimproved and Unoccupied Land.—The same rule applies to unimproved and unoccupied lands. Shimmin v. Inman, 26 Me. 228; Dike v. Lewis, 2 Barb. (N. Y.) 344.

The Pennsylvania statutes in relation to unseated lands, contemplate taxation by single tracts following the title of the owner. Reading v. Finney, 73 Pa. St. 467.

But in Russell v. Wertz, 24 Pa. St. 337, it was held that the assessment as one tract, of two adjoining tracts of unseated land owned by the same person, will be held to be an unimportant irregularity under the curative provisions of the act of 1815, after a treasurer's and assessor's sale thereof. And where the owner purchased two adjoining tracts of unseated land at separate sales, and had a survey made including both, it was held that it might be assessed as one tract. Harper v. M'Keehan, 3 W. & S. (Pa.) 238.

Assessment of Lots Owned With Those not Owned.—An assessment against a party, under one aggregate value, of lots owned by him with others neither owned nor occupied by him, is void. Hamilton v. Fond du Lac, 25 Wis. 490; Orton v. Noonan, 25 Wis. 672; Siegel v. Outagamie County, 26 Wis. 70; State v. Williston, 20 Wis. 228; Knox v. Huidekoper, 21 Wis. 527; Terrill v. Groves, 18 Cal. 149; Howe v. People, 86 Ill. 288; Romig v. Lafayette, 33 Ind. 30; Challis v. Hekelukaemper, 14 Kan. 474; State v. North Bergen, 39 N. J. L. 694; Barker v.

Blake, 36 Me. 433; Mowry v. Blandin, 64 N. H. 3; Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 492; Jennings v. Collins, 59 Mass. 29; Cooley v. Waterman, 16 Mich. 366; Farnham v. Jones, 32 Minn. 7; Dunn v. Winston, 31 Miss. 135; Sims v. Warren, 67 Miss. 278; Douglass v. Dungerfield, 10 Ohio 156; Fisk v. Corey, 141 Pa. St. 334.

1. State v. Baker, 49 Tex. 763; Kissimmee v. Cannon, 26 Fla. 3. And see State v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 114 Mo. 1.

2. Land, etc., Imp. Co. v. Bardon, 45 Fed. Rep. 706. But the statute requiring each tract to be listed and valued separately, does not require such listing to be upon the smallest legal subdivision. Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409; for the terms "tract" and "parcel" may quite as properly be applied to a quarter-section, half-section, or a section, as to a "forty" or "eighty." Martin v. Cole, 38 Iowa 141.

3. Shimmin v. Inman, 26 Me. 228; Dundy v. Richardson County, 8 Neb. 508; Cadwallader v. Nash, 73 Cal. 43; Evans v. Newell (R. I. 1892), 25 Atl. Rep. 347.

A listing and assessment of a tract in the aggregate with others cannot be cured by a review of the assessment. Howe v. People, 86 Ill. 288. And see Hamilton v. Fond du Lac, 25 Wis. 490.

But where the assessment in this respect is partly legal and partly illegal, the court should so declare, sustaining the former and setting aside the latter. Kissimmee v. Cannon, 26 Fla. 3.

Waiver of Separate Assessment.—If the owner, by listing and valuing several lots of land as one parcel, consents to such mode of assessment, it will not be set aside, and he is estopped to complain that it is illegal. Kissimmee v. Drought, 26 Fla. 1; Albany Brewing Co. v. Meriden, 48 Conn. 243.

4. Moore v. People, 106 Ill. 376; Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409. See also Pitkin v. Yaw, 13 Ill. 251.

5. McQuesten v. Swope, 12 Kan. 32; Hall v. Dodge, 18 Kan. 280; Dodge v.

owner, where there are no known legal subdivisions, though he may follow a division made by the owner.¹

(4) Valuation—(a) How Made.—Where privilege, poll, or other specific taxes upon persons or things, are laid, there is no necessity for a valuation;² but a valuation is of course an indispensable requisite to an ad valorem tax,³ the value fixed being generally required to be entered in a separate column on the tax roll.⁴ Taxable property, a separate description of which is required, must be separately valued.⁵

Emmons, 34 Kan. 732; People v. Culverwell, 44 Cal. 620.

The use and nature of the property must determine whether or not several lots assessed to one owner and sold en masse should be regarded as one lot. Weaver v. Grant, 39 Iowa 294.

Where contiguous tracts are conveyed and held by one deed as one tract, they are to be taken as one tract, though lying in different counties and separated by a river. Hairston v. Stinson, 13 Ired. (N. Car.) 479.

In Bellows Falls Canal Co. v. Rockingham, 37 Vt. 622, it was held that property consisting of several buildings connected together, may be set in the tax list in one gross sum, though it is equally proper to give the value of each part by itself.

In Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265, it was held that where two or more tracts are assessed jointly, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that they were so situated that their value could not be separately ascertained.

Portions of distinct lots held under distinct warrants, but united in fact by a purchase, may be returned and assessed by whatever designation the owner may choose, and be sold as a unit. Heft v. Gephart, 65 Pa. St. 510.

Blocks in Cities.—It has been held in California and New Jersey, that it is not an error to assess all the lots in one block, when belonging to the same owner, at one gross sum, without distinguishing each. People v. Morse, 43 Cal. 534; People v. Culverwell, 44 Cal. 620; State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108.

Adjacent Lots.—And it has been held in Nevada and Rhode Island, that two or more contiguous lots owned by the same individual, may be jointly assessed. Wright v. Cradlebaugh, 3 Nev. 341; Howland v. Pettay, 15 R. I. 603.

1. Reading v. Finney, 73 Pa. St. 467; Brown v. Hays, 66 Pa. St. 229; Biddle- man v. Brooks, 28 Cal. 72; Albany Brewing Co. v. Meriden, 48 Conn. 243; Kissimmee v. Drought, 26 Fla. 1.

But where land is subdivided by one who does not own it, or has no authority for so doing, such subdivision is void, and an assessment in accordance therewith, as well as all subsequent proceedings thereunder, is also void. Gage v. Rumsey, 73 Ill. 473; Reading v. Finney, 73 Pa. St. 467.

In Davis v. McGee, 28 Fed. Rep. 867, it was held that the improper assessment of a piece of land as several tracts when it should have been assessed as one, will not invalidate a sale thereunder under the Missouri statutes. And the mere fact that an owner has divided his land into lots for the purpose of sale, will not require the assessor to make a separate valuation of each lot. Jennings v. Collins, 99 Mass. 29. And see Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 597.

2. See Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. (U. S.) 237; U. S. v. Halloran, 14 Blatchf. (U. S.) 1; U. S. v. Lyman, 1 Mason (U. S.) 482; Meredit v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486; State v. Sterling, 20 Md. 502.

Where the amount of a tax depends upon the average amount of deposits in a bank for a given time, neither the property nor the deposit are required to be valued in the assessment. Provident Inst. v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 611.

3. Lebanon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 539; King v. Gwynn, 14 Fla. 32; Huributt v. Butenop, 27 Cal. 50; Emeric v. Alvarado, 90 Cal. 444; People v. San Francisco Sav. Union, 31 Cal. 132; Braly v. Seaman, 30 Cal. 610; May v. Traphagen, 139 N. Y. 478.

Thus, a franchisee must be taxed according to the valuation. Spring Valley Water Works v. Schottler, 62 Cal. 69.

4. See State v. Eureka Consolidated Min. Co., 8 Nev. 15.

5. People v. Hollister, 47 Cal. 408;

It is sometimes required by statute that the valuation shall be made from an actual view by the assessors.¹ In the absence of such statutes, however, assessors may proceed upon inquiry.² Statutes providing for the mode of ascertaining the value of taxable property must be substantially complied with.³

It is generally provided that the property shall be assessed at its cash value, which is said to mean the amount at which the property would be appraised if taken in payment of a just debt due from a solvent debtor.⁴ If the property has no cash value,

People v. Sierra Buttes Quartz Min. Co., 39 Cal. 511. And see Logan v. Washington County, 29 Pa. St. 373.

In Robertson v. Anderson, 57 Iowa 165, it was held that it is immaterial whether land and improvements thereon are valued in the aggregate or separately. See also People v. Culverwell, 44 Cal. 620; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Yavapai Co. (Arizona, 1889), 21 Pac. Rep. 768; Tax Cases, 12 Gill. & J. (Md.) 117.

In Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372, it was held that a taxpayer is not entitled to an abatement because the assessors have valued the items in gross instead of separately.

1. See Hersey v. Barron County, 37 Wis. 75.

In Moore v. Turner, 43 Ark. 243, it was held that a failure of the assessor to personally view lands to ascertain their value, is no ground upon which to quash the assessment on certiorari.

2. Beesen v. Johns, 59 Iowa 166; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327; and make the valuation in the exercise of their own judgment upon all the information in their possession. People v. Barker, 48 N. Y. 76; Vail v. Owen, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 22; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Surrrell, 88 Ill. 535; King v. Gwynn, 14 Fla. 32; Dewey v. Stratford, 42 N. H. 282; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47; Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550.

The assessor must make the valuation for the purpose of taxation by the exercise of his own judgment; a valuation made by the taxpayer should not be permitted to influence or control him. King v. Gwynn, 14 Fla. 32.

Under a requirement to appraise property, the listers may proceed according to the ordinary rules of evidence. Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327.

Assessors may act upon their own knowledge and judgment without hearing evidence. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Surrrell, 88 Ill. 535.

Where the statute provides that the assessment may be made either from actual view or from the best information, the want of an actual view will not invalidate the assessment. Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550.

3. People v. Hagar, 49 Cal. 229.

4. Huntington v. Central Pac. R. Co., 2 Sawy. (U. S.) 503; Keener v. Union Pac. R. Co., 31 Fed. Rep. 126; Capital City Water Co. v. Board of Revenue, 92 Ala. 380; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Illinois, etc., R. Co. v. Stookey, 122 Ill. 358; Willis v. Crowder (Ind. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 315; State v. Vansyckle, 49 N. J. L. 366; Miller v. Hurford, 13 Neb. 13; People v. Board of Assessors, 39 N. Y. 81; Oswego Starch Factory v. Dollo-way, 21 N. Y. 449; People v. Ferguson, 38 N. Y. 89; Inman v. Colman, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 170; People v. Ganley (Supreme Ct.), 8 N. Y. Supp. 563; Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 104 Pa. St. 89; Territory v. Delinquent Tax List (Arizona, 1890), 24 Pac. Rep. 182; Clark v. Crane, 5 Mich. 151; 71 Am. Dec. 776; Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422; Wattles v. Lapeer, 40 Mich. 624.

A chose in action should be listed at its true value, though less than its face value. Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1. But the legislature may fix the face value of corporate obligations as a value for taxation. Com. v. Lehigh R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 429.

Its present, and not its prospective value, should be taken. State v. Illinois, etc., R. Co., 27 Ill. 64; 79 Am. Dec. 396; People v. Tax Com'rs, 4 N. Y. Supp. 43; 5 Hun (N. Y.) 641.

All buildings and improvements must be included in the appraised value. Fitch v. Pinckard, 5 Ill. 69.

The value should be assessed in legal tender currency. Pacific Ins. Co. v. Soule, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 433; State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178.

Corporate property is included within the provision requiring property to it need not be listed; and where the property has no market value, the actual value controls.¹

All the elements which enter into the value of the property are to be considered by the assessors in making the valuation;² as the advantages of its situation,³ its capacity for earning profits,⁴ and the valuable use to which it is put.⁵

be assessed at its full actual value. State v. Hornbacker, 42 N. J. L. 635.

1. Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; People v. Tax Com'rs, 31 Hun (N. Y.) 32. And see Perkins v. Nugent, 45 Mich. 156.

Where the thing assessed has no market value, its actual value will control. Willis v. Crowder (Ind. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 315.

But though shares of stock in a corporation are worthless, its capital stock may yet be taxed. Pacific Hotel Co., v. Lieb, 83 Ill. 602.

If a chose in action is of some value, but less than its face, it should be listed at what it is worth. Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1.

In assessing land for taxation, the probability that a projected improvement may not be made, in which event the land will be comparatively worthless, will not be considered. Union Invest. Co. v. Harrison County, 67 Miss. 614.

Choses in action will be presumed to have some value, and an assessment will not be set aside upon the ground that they have none. Irvin v. Turner, 47 Ga. 382; Caneker v. Walton, 47 Ga. 394.

2. Hersey v. Barron County, 37 Wis. 75; Stein v. Mobile, 17 Ala. 234; Fitch v. Pinckard, 5 Ill. 69; Winnipiseogee Lake, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Gilford, 64 N. H. 337; State v. Metz, 31 N. J. L. 378; People v. Barker, 48 N. Y. 70.

Thus, an intangible right or privilege attached to the property, must be considered in the valuation. Stein v. Mobile, 17 Ala. 234; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hughes, 46 N. J. L. 67.

The cost of the property is an element in determining its value. Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1; Winnipiseogee Lake, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Gilford, 64 N. H. 337; People v. Tax Com'rs, 104 N. Y. 240; People v. Keator, 67 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 277; Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Guenther, 19 Fed. Rep. 325. See also Morgan La., etc., R., etc., Co. v. Board of Reviewers, 41 La. Ann. 1156.

Previous assessments are not evidence of value, but an assessment will not be quashed because they are considered. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372.

3. Hersey v. Barron County, 37 Wis. 75; Stein v. Mobile, 17 Ala. 234; State v. Southwestern R. Co., 70 Ga. 11; State v. Flavell, 24 N. J. L. 370; Winnipiseogee Lake, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Gilford, 64 N. H. 337. And see People v. Tax Com'rs, 23 Hun (N. Y.) 687.

In Winnipiseogee Lake, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Gilford, 64 N. H. 337, it was held that benefits accruing to property situated in one state on account of its proximity to property situated in another state, are to be considered.

Advantages derived from a company's water power should not be considered, when the water power itself is exempt. State v. Flavell, 24 N. J. L. 370.

4. People v. Barker, 48 N. Y. 76; People v. Keator, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 592; People v. Pond, 13 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 1; Stein v. Mobile, 17 Ala. 234; State v. Bienville Water Supply Co., 89 Ala. 325; State v. Illinois, etc., R. Co., 27 Ill. 64; 79 Am. Dec. 396. And see Johnson v. Futch, 57 Miss. 82. But see State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427.

The rent paid is evidence of value. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. State, 60 N. H. 133.

The value of railroad property is to be determined largely by reference to present and prospective profits, and not by the cost of construction alone. Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Guenther, 19 Fed. Rep. 395; People v. Keator, 67 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 277; People v. Weaver, 67 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 477. And see People v. Hicks, 40 Hun (N. Y.) 598. But the fact that the road is run at a net loss does not show it to be of no value. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. State, 60 N. H. 133. And the cost is an important factor. Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1.

5. Boston Water Power Co. v. Boston, 9 Met. (Mass.) 199; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 6 Allen (Mass.) 131;

The amount which property will bring at a public sale authorized by law, or at a fair private sale, is a good prima facie criterion by which its value for assessment may be determined.¹ Where there are several interests in property, to determine the valuation for assessment of a particular interest, the terms and conditions under which it is held are to be considered, as well as the value of the property itself.²

The assessment is void where it is clearly excessive or the overvaluation is intentional,³ though in such case a new assessment is not necessary, but the taxpayer may be required to pay the amount justly due.⁴

Where the officer agrees with the taxpayer to make an under assessment, or does so intentionally without an agreement, the assessment is invalid.⁵

(b) Deduction of Liabilities.—In some states, statutes provide that

State v. Bienville Water Supply Co., 89 Ala. 325; Pingree v. Berkshire County, 102 Mass. 76; State v. Jersey City, 36 N. J. L. 56; Winnipiseogee Lake, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Gilford, 64 N. H. 337. See also State v. Metz, 31 N. J. L. 378.

In assessing the value of a railroad, for purposes of taxation, the inquiry should be, what is the property worth used for the purposes for which it was designed. State v. Illinois, etc., R. Co., 27 Ill. 64; 79 Am. Dec. 396.

It is the policy of the tax law of New Jersey that property to be assessed, whether cultivated or wild land, shall be valued in the actual condition in which the owner holds it. State v. Abbott, 42 N. J. L. 111.

1. State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427; State v. Abbott, 42 N. J. L. 111; Willis v. Crowder (Ind. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 315; People v. Pond, 13 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 1; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. State, 60 N. H. 133; State v. Illinois, etc., R. Co., 27 Ill. 64; 79 Am. Dec. 396; Morgan's La., etc., R., etc., Co. v. Board of Reviewers, 41 La. Ann. 1156. And see Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; State v. Bienville Water Supply Co., 89 Ala. 325; Daugherty v. Thompson, 71 Tex. 192; Webster-Glover Lumber, etc., Co. v. St. Croix County, 63 Wis. 647; Salschieder v. Fort Howard, 45 Wis. 521.

2. Cincinnati College v. Yeatman, 30 Ohio St. 276; Logan v. Washington County, 29 Pa. St. 373. And see People v. San Francisco County, 77 Cal. 136; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Appeal Tax Court, 50 Md. 397; Daugherty v. Thompson, 71 Tex. 192; State v. Taylor (Tex. 1888), 12 S. W. Rep. 176.

The valuation of all the particular estates taken separately should not be greater than upon the whole taken together. Logan v. Washington County, 29 Pa. St. 373. See also Consolidated Coal Co. v. Baker, 135 Ill. 545.

The value of a life interest is to be ascertained by the table of mortality, upon the expectancy of the life of him who has such interest. State v. Vansyckle, 49 N. J. L. 366. And the estate of a remainderman is to be assessed at its present value, to be ascertained on the expectancy of the life of the life-tenant. State v. Milroy (N. J. 1890), 19 Atl. Rep. 732.

3. Milwaukee Iron Co. v. Hubbard, 29 Wis. 51; Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Guenther, 19 Fed. Rep. 395; State v. Metz, 31 N. J. L. 365; People v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 96 Ill. 411. And see State v. State, 24 N. J. L. 108; Smith v. Mosher (Supreme Ct.), 9 N. Y. Supp. 786; Wattles v. Lapeer, 40 Mich. 624.

In State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427, it was held that if the tax assessed is larger than that authorized by the property, the assessment will be set aside to the extent of the excess; and each person against whom the assessment is made, is entitled to a reduction in proportion to the amount of his assessment.

"Over assessment," under the Louisiana statute, means overvaluation. State v. Board of Assessors, 30 La. Ann. 261.

4. State v. Waterville Sav. Bank, 68 Me. 515; Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Guenther, 19 Fed. Rep. 395.

5. Auditor Gen'l v. Jenkinson, 90 Mich. 523; Goff v. Outagamie County, 43 Wis. 55; Schettler v. Fort Howard, the taxpayer shall be entitled to deduct his bona fide debts from his credits; or, that the taxpayer's total indebtedness shall be deducted from the value of his taxable property.¹ Thus, a mortgage debt is taxable to the mortgagee only for the amount due upon it.² Mortgages, in some jurisdictions, are taxable to the mortgagee only when the mortgagor has been allowed a deduction upon the valuation of the mortgaged property equal to the value of the mortgage debt.³

43 Wis. 48; Semple v. Langlade County, 75 Wis. 354; Dunham v. Chicago, 55 Ill. 357.

1. See City Bank v. Bogel, 51 Tex. 355; Griffin v. Heard, 78 Tex. 607; State Bank v. Board of Revenue, 91 Ala. 217; Hammersley v. Franey, 39 Conn. 176; Bridgman v. Keokuk, 72 Iowa 42; Matter v. Campbell, 71 Ind. 512; Clark v. Belknap (Ky. 1890), 13 S. W. Rep. 212; Baldwin v. Hewett, 88 Ky. 673; Com. v. St. Bernard Coal Co. (Ky. 1888), 9 S. W. Rep. 709; Deane v. Hathaway, 136 Mass. 129; Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78; Standard L. Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 517; First Nat. Bank v. St. Joseph Tp., 46 Mich. 526; Jones v. Seward County, 5 Neb. 561; Peavey v. Greenfield, 64 N. H. 284; State v. Pearson, 24 N. J. L. 254; State v. Hornbacker, 42 N. J. L. 635; People v. Ferguson, 38 N. Y. 89; People v. Barker (Supreme Ct.), 25 N. Y. Supp. 340; People v. Ryan, 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 37; People v. Haren (Supreme Ct.), 3 N. Y. Supp. 86; People v. Hicks, 40 Hun (N. Y.) 598; 105 N. Y. 198; Treasurer v. Bank, 47 Ohio St. 503; Wetmore v. Multnomah Co., 6 Oregon 464; Ankeny v. Multnomah Co., 3 Oregon 386; Tripp v. Merchants' Mut. F. Ins. Co., 12 R. I. 435; In re Assessment and Collection of Taxes (S. Dak. 1892), 54 N. W. Rep. 818; Richards v. Rock Rapids, 31 Fed. Rep. 505; National Albany Exch. Bank v. Wells, 18 Blatchf. (U. S.) 478; Evansville Bank v. Britton, 105 U. S. 322.

But it has been held that in the absence of such statute, credits may be taxed, though the person to whom they are due is indebted in an equal or greater amount. Drexler v. Tyrrell, 15 Nev. 128; Lindell v. Bank of Missouri, 4 Mo. 315. And see Lappin v. Nemaha County, 6 Kan. 403; Allen v. Harford County, 74 Md. 204.

Debts Exceed Property—Debts Incurred to Escape Taxation.—Where the debts of a taxpayer are greater than the value of his taxable property, he is exonerated from assessment, People v. Ryan, 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 37; and it was held in that case that it made no difference that the indebtedness was incurred for the purpose of escaping taxation. And to the same effect is Hutchinson v. Board, 67 Iowa 182.

Corporate property falls within the meaning of such statutes. People v. Coleman (Supreme Ct.), 1 N. Y. Supp. 666; McAden v. Mecklenburg County, 97 N. Car. 355; People v. Tax Com'rs, 46 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 315. Compare People v. Board of Education, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 588.

2. State v. Jones, 39 N. J. L. 652; State v. Melroy (N. J. 1890), 19 Atl. Rep. 732.

The same rule has been applied to taxation of annuities and annuity bonds. State v. Cornell, 31 N. J. L. 374; State v. Melroy (N. J. 1890), 19 Atl. Rep. 732. And see State v. Pettit, 39 N. J. L. 654.

In McCoppin v. McCartney, 60 Cal. 367, it was held that an assessment upon a mortgage which had been satisfied was not invalid, but was payable by the owner of the land.

3. See State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98; State v. Trenton, 40 N. J. L. 89; State v. Jones, 40 N. J. L. 105; Merchants' Ins. Co. v. Newark, 54 N. J. L. 138; State v. Nunn, 44 N. J. L. 354; Hammersley v. Franey, 39 Conn. 176; Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78.

In such case the mortgage is regarded as an interest in real property. Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78; Knight v. Boston, 159 Mass. 551.

In State v. East Brunswick Tp., 44 N. J. L. 153, it was held that where a deduction was claimed and allowed on account of a mortgage upon the property taxed, the whole mortgage should be taxed to the mortgagee, though its amount exceeds the value of the premises. Such a provision is not open to

In the absence of a statute expressly permitting it, no such deductions can be made.¹ A constitutional provision that all property shall be subject to taxation has been held to preclude such deduction.² Where the indebtedness is exempt from taxation in the hands of the person to whom it is due, it cannot be deducted from the value of the debtor's property;³ nor can deduction be made for debts due to a non-resident creditor.⁴

The statutory requisites must be complied with. Thus, only such deductions may be made, and from such property or credits, as the statute permits; and they must be made in the manner, and upon the production of such evidence, as the statute requires.⁵

the objection of imposing double taxation. Atty. Gen'l v. Sanilac County, 71 Mich. 16.

In New Jersey, the claim of deduction on account of a mortgage must be made in the first instance in the township where the person claiming it resides. State v. Jones, 40 N. J. L. 105. And see State v. Pearson, 24 N. J. L. 254; State v. Grey, 29 N. J. L. 380; State v. Williamson, 33 N. J. L. 77; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45; State v. Crosley, 36 N. J. L. 426. But it need not be in writing. State v. East Brunswick Tp., 44 N. J. L. 153.

1. Territory v. Delinquent Tax List (Arizona, 1890), 24 Pac. Rep. 182. And see Wilcox v. Ellis, 14 Kan. 588; 19 Am. Rep. 107; Kansas Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Hill (Kan. 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 300; Hammersley v. Franey, 39 Conn. 176; Goldgart v. People, 106 Ill. 25; Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; Lamar v. Palmer, 18 Fla. 147.

2. Exchange Bank v. Hines, 3 Ohio St. 1; Treasurer v. Bank, 47 Ohio St. 503; In re Assessment and Collection of Taxes (S. Dak. 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 818. And see Clark v. Belknap (Ky. 1890), 13 S. W. Rep. 212.

In re Assessment and Collection of Taxes (S. Dak. 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 818, it was held, where such a provision permitted the owner of personal property to deduct his indebtedness from the value of such property without extending such privilege to the owners of realty, that it violated the provision in favor of equality and uniformity. But it has been held in Oregon, where no such distinction is made between real and personal property, that a provision permitting the deduction of indebtedness does not violate such a provision. Wetmore v. Multnomah County, 6 Oregon 464.

3. State v. Trenton, 40 N. J. L. 89; State v. Silvers, 41 N. J. L. 505; State

v. Vansyckle, 49 N. J. L. 366; Balteson v. Hartford, 50 Conn. 558. And see Home Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors, 42 La. Ann. 1131.

When the mortgaged property is exempt, the mortgage must be taxed to the mortgagee without reference to the allowance. State v. Lantz, 53 N. J. L. 578. But in California, it has been held that where the state is the creditor, and, therefore, not liable to taxation, yet the debtor may deduct the mortgage from the value of the property. People v. San Francisco County, 77 Cal. 136; Smith v. Keagle (Cal. 1888), 20 Pac. Rep. 152.

4. State v. Manning, 40 N. J. L. 461; State v. Vansyckle, 49 N. J. L. 366; Ankeny v. Multnomah County, 4 Oregon 272. And see Johnson v. Oregon City, 3 Oregon 13.

A note payable at a specified place in the state is an indebtedness within the state, notwithstanding the owner may be a non-resident. Ankeny v. Multnomah County, 3 Oregon 386.

5. See Ankeny v. Multnomah County, 4 Oregon 271; Lappin v. Nemaha County, 6 Kan. 403; People v. Tax Com'rs, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 641; People v. Coleman, 135 N. Y. 231; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. New York, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 261; State v. Silvers, 41 N. J. L. 505; State v. Gray, 29 N. J. L. 380; State v. Pettit, 39 N. J. L. 654; Harness v. Williams, 64 Miss. 600; State v. Redwood Falls Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 Minn. 154; Hawkeye Ins. Co. v. Board of Equalization, 75 Iowa 770; Los Angeles Sav. Bank v. Hinton (Cal. 1893), 32 Pac. Rep. 6; Security Sav. Bank, etc., Co. v. Hinton, 97 Cal. 214; Equitable Ins. Co. v. Board of Equalization, 74 Iowa 178; Griffin v. Heard, 78 Tex. 607; Kansas Mut. L. Assoc. v. Hill (Kan. 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 300; Standard L., etc., Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors (Mich. 1893), 55 N. W. Rep.

(5) Extending the Taxes.—After listing and valuation, and after the persons taxable have been designated, the amount to be imposed upon each must be computed and entered in the roll by the assessors, or by the officer or body upon whom the duty is imposed.¹ A failure to extend the tax, so as to show how much is imposed upon each person, is fatal to its validity.² The per-

112; State v. Bettle, 50 N. J. L. 132; State v. Trenton, 40 N. J. L. 89; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45; Taylor v. Love, 43 N. J. L. 142; State v. Parker, 32 N. J. L. 341; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 71; State v. Horner, 38 N. J. L. 212; State v. Johnson, 30 N. J. L. 452; State v. East Brunswick Tp., 44 N. J. L. 153; Bridgman v. Keokuk, 72 Iowa 42; People v. Davenport, 25 Hun (N. Y.) 630; Baltimore v. Canton County, 63 Md. 218.

A debt which has been released or which is never intended to be paid, cannot be deducted. Baldwin v. Hewitt, 88 Ky. 673. See also Kansas Mut. L. Assoc. v. Hill (Kan. 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 300; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 154.

In State v. Warner (N. J. 1891), 22 Atl. Rep. 341, it was held that the refusal of the assessor to make allowance for debts does not discharge the taxpayer from presenting an account of his indebtedness.

In State v. Creveling, 40 N. J. L. 150, it was held that assessors allowing a deduction without the taxpayer's oath or affirmation are liable to indictment as for a misdemeanor.

In New Jersey, it has been held that though the assessor may require an affidavit to satisfy himself of the existence of the amount of the mortgage, yet, if the deduction is claimed and allowed and is correct, the owner of the mortgage cannot complain that an affidavit was not required. State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98.

What Are Credits From Which Debts May Be Deducted Within the Statutes.—

Under the Texas statute, a deposit at a bank is regarded as cash, and the liabilities of the taxpayer cannot be set off against it. Campbell v. Wiggins (Tex. 1892), 20 S.W. Rep. 730. And the rule is the same under the Massachusetts statute. Gray v. Street Com'rs, 138 Mass. 414.

In Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. Wake County, 87 N. Car. 414, it was held that guarantied stock is stock, and not a credit to be diminished by an outstanding indebtedness.

In Seward County v. Cattle, 14 Neb. 144, it was held that funds in the hands of correspondents or agents were not credits.

Non-Taxable Credits.—United States bonds, though not themselves taxable, will be counted as part of the assets of the taxpayer, and as off-setting to that extent the liabilities which may be deducted from the amount of his estate. State v. Assessors, 37 La. Ann. 850. See also People v. Coleman, 18 N. Y. Supp. 675; 63 Hun (N. Y.) 633; People v. Barker (Supreme Ct.), 25 N. Y. Supp. 394. And the same rule applies to national bank stock. Ruggles v. Fond du Lac, 53 Wis. 436; Weston v. Manchester, 62 N. H. 574.

1. People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516; Seymour v. Peters, 67 Mich. 415; Greenough v. Fulton Coal Co., 74 Pa. St. 486.

In State v. Perkins, 24 N. J. L. 409, it was held that it is not sufficient to give the valuation of property and mention the rate per cent. without mentioning the amount of the tax.

In Harwood v. Brownell, 48 Iowa 657, it was held that the validity of a tax does not depend upon its extension on the tax books in the year in which it was voted, and the failure to extend it does not prevent it from being afterwards entered as an unpaid tax of a former year. See also Robbins v. Barron, 33 Mich. 124.

Where the legislature authorizes the collection of a tax, but authorizes no one to extend the tax upon the tax list, the intention that such duty should be performed by the clerk of the board of supervisors, will be implied. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Kossuth County, 41 Iowa 57.

2. Seymour v. Peters, 67 Mich. 415; Barke v. Early, 72 Iowa 273; Hooper v. Sac County Bank, 72 Iowa 280; Moon v. March, 40 Kan. 58; State v. Perkins, 24 N. J. L. 409; Bellinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Ark. 323.

In Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 595, it was held that such failure does not afformance of this duty cannot be delegated, but must be performed by, or under the supervision of, the body or officer upon whom it is imposed.¹

d. AUTHENTICATION AND RETURN—(1) The Authentication.—The provisions made by statute for the authentication of the assessment roll or list must be substantially complied with. An assessment may be invalidated by the failure of the assessor to annex his certificate² in the manner provided, or to verify by oath,³ or to sign⁴ the roll as required.

The formalities prescribed for the manner of making the oath fect the substantial justice of the tax, and cannot defeat its collection.

A tax is collectible, notwithstanding the fact that the date fixed by law for assessment renders impossible a compliance with the formal requirements of the statute, respecting the manner in which the tax should be extended upon the tax list. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Kossuth County, 41 Iowa 57.

1. People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516; State v. Harper, 11 Mo. App. 301.

The duty is judicial in its nature. Belinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516.

It is presumed that taxes were placed upon the duplicate by the proper officer. Arms v. Davis, 109 Ind. 10.

The board authorized to make the extension must act as a body, and not as individuals. People v. Wemple, 67 Hun N. Y. 495.

Act computing the amount, where the rate of tax is fixed by law, or otherwise, is a mere ministerial act which may be performed by anyone. State v. Magin, 36 La. Ann. 558; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 86; Heft v. Schertz, 64 Pa. St. 510.

2. Van Rensselaer v. Witbeck, 7 N. Y. 100; Matter of Cameron, 50 N. Y. 100.

3. People v. Adams (Supreme Ct.), 1 N. Y. Supp. 295; Westfall v. President, 1 N. Y. 349; Kelly v. Craig, 5 Ired.

120; Norridgewock v. Walker, 10 Mich. 55; Newkirk v. Fisher, 72 Mich.

169; Agar v. Curry, 35 Vt. 382; Reed v. Mayor, 31 Vt. 255; Rowe v. Hu- gh, 11 Vt. 657; Lamb v. Farrell, 21 Fed.

100; Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 101;

4. State v. Schertz, 68 N. Y. 323; Bel- inger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; McNish

v. Com., 14 Neb. 552; Morrill v. Tay- lor, 25 N. Y. 375; Maxwell v. Paine, 53

N. Y. 100; State v. Schooley, 84 Mo.

v. Cook, 52 Mo. 155; Walker

v. Brimingham, 36 Vt. 131; Tunbridge

v. Smith, 48 Vt. 648; Iverslie v. Spaulding, 32 Wis. 394; Jarvis v. Silliman, 21 Wis. 600; Marshall v. Benson, 48 Wis. 558; Griggs v. St. Croix County, 20 Fed. Rep. 341.

An oath executed by a former assessor who had made the valuation, and who was succeeded by another before the book was filled out, was insufficient. Bode v. New England Invest. Co., 6 Dakota 499.

When the quinquennial appraisal of real estate is not sworn to by the listers, a subsequent annual list verified according to the provisions of the statute, does not cure the defect. Houghton v. Hall, 47 Vt. 333.

In Wisconsin, an attempt upon the part of the legislature to make the omission of the affidavit of no effect, declaring the requirement of the affidavit to be merely directory, was held to be invalid as an unauthorized intrusion upon the judicial functions. Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 177; Tierney v. Union Lumbering Co., 47 Wis. 248; Marshall v. Benson, 48 Wis. 565; Scheiber v. Kaehler, 49 Wis. 301; Power v. Kindschi, 58 Wis. 539; 46 Am. Rep. 652.

Impossibility.—The rule of the statute cannot be relaxed by showing that compliance with it is impossible. Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502.

Mandamus will not lie to compel assessors to make oath to their assessment rolls, as prescribed by statute, that they estimated the value of the real estate at the true and full value thereof, when it appears that they have estimated it at less than its full value. People v. Fowler, 55 N. Y. 252.

4. Smith v. Hard, 61 Vt. 469; Bartlett v. Wilson, 59 Vt. 23; Sullivan v. Peckham, 16 R. I. 525; Goddard v. Seymour, 30 Conn. 394.

The signing of a warrant, inserted at the end of the tax bill, was not sufficient or affidavit should be complied with.¹ The requirement to certify necessitates a written certificate.²

Omissions of material parts, or departures from the form of the affidavits or certificates prescribed by statute, will render the assessment invalid.³ But defects in, or the omission of, the authentication do not necessarily render the tax invalid.⁴ To entitle the taxpayer to relief in equity, he must show that the in Foxcroft v. Nevens, 4 Me. 72. Nor was it sufficient on a leaf of the same book containing the assessment. Without a separate signature, the assessment is imperfect and invalid. Colby v. Russell, 3 Me. 227.

But in Lowe v. Weld, 52 Me. 588, it was held that the commitments subscribed by the assessors, prefixed to and incorporated with the lists in the collector's book and specifically referring to them, were a sufficient authentication of the list and compliance with the essential requirements of the statute that the assessors should make perfect lists under their hands, etc. Norridgewock v. Walker, 71 Me. 181.

1. Painter v. Hall, 75 Ind. 208; Whitney v. Thomas, 23 N. Y. 281.

When the affidavit of the assessors was required to be made before a justice of the peace, the deputy county clerk had no authority to administer it. National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 49. But now in New York, under ch. 83, Laws of 1884, the affidavit may be made before any officer authorized to administer oaths. See Kent v. Warner, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 474.

2. O'Donnell v. McIntyre, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 615.

The requirement is not satisfied by parol evidence of the clerk to the board that he has made entry of the assessment by the direction of the assessors. Hagood v. Thompson, 18 S. Car. 583.

In Nevada, there is no particular form required for the certificate, and it is not required to be sworn. State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

3. Inman v. Coleman, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 170; Merritt v. Port Chester, 71 N. Y. 309; 27 Am. Rep. 47; Shattuck v. Bascom, 105 N. Y. 39; Brevoort v. Brooklyn, 89 N. Y. 128.

Where it was required that the supervisor's certificate should state that the property was estimated at "its true cash value and not at the price it would sell for at a forced or auction sale," it was a fatal defect to state "at a fixed or at auction sale," Paldi v. Paldi, 84 Mich. 346; or "at what is believed to be the cash value, as is customary by assessors," Hurd v. Raymond, 50 Mich. 369; or simply "at its true value," Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422; Clark v. Crane, 5 Mich. 151; 71 Am. Dec. 776; Dickison v. Reynolds, 48 Mich. 158; or to omit to state "at the true cash value," Westbrook v. Miller, 64 Mich. 129; or the clause "not at the price it would sell for at a forced or auction sale," Silsbee v. Stocklee, 44 Mich. 562; St. Clair v. Leamet, 51 Mich. 343; or the words "at the price it would sell for," Gilchrist v. Dean, 55 Mich. 244.

The omission of the words "full and true," or the substitution of the word "knowledge" for "judgment," required in an affidavit, was a fatal defect. Hinckly v. Cooper, 22 Hun (N. Y.) 253.

And where it should state that the estimate of real estate should be at what was decided to be the true and full value thereof, it was a fatal defect to say instead "a fair proportionate value," etc. Beach v. Hayes, 58 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 17.

A failure to state in the certificate that each valuation "is the full value which could ordinarily be obtained," as required, was a fatal defect. Scheiber v. Kaehler, 49 Wis. 291; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163.

Use of Original Form When Amended by Statute.—Failure to make a certificate originally required, conform to an amended form, did not invalidate the roll. Darmstaetter v. Moloney, 45 Mich. 921. See also Crooks v. Whitford, 47 Mich. 283. In Sherrill v. Hewitt, 13 N. Y. Supp. 498; 59 Hun (N. Y.) 619, where a certain form was prescribed, but subsequently amended by striking out the words "and at which they would appraise the same in payment of a just debt due from a solvent debtor," and also the words "and true" before "value thereof," it was held that a verification in the original form was sufficient. See also People v. Jones, 106 N. Y. 330.

4. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Lincoln County, 67 Wis. 478; Fisfield v. Marinette County, 62 Wis. 532; Marsh v.

tax is unequal and unjust, and must offer to pay the sum which in justice and equity he ought to pay.¹

In some states, these provisions are held to be merely directory.² And in all cases a substantial compliance is all that is required, and mere informalities in the manner of attaching the certificate, or of signing the roll, are not fatal.³ Unless otherwise provided, a verification of a majority of the assessors is sufficient.⁴ Provisions as to the time when the verification shall be made, are generally held to be directory.⁵

Clark County, 42 Wis. 317; Equalization Board v. Land Owners, 51 Ark. 516; Challiss v. Atchison County, 15 Kan. 49; Wood v. Helmer, 10 Neb. 65; Farrington v. New England Invest. Co., 1 N. Dak. 102; Bode v. New England Invest. Co., 6 Dakota 499; Frost v. Flick, 1 Dakota 137. And see Shoup v. Central Branch, etc., R. Co., 24 Kan. 547.

1. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Lincoln County, 67 Wis. 478; Fifield v. Marinette County, 62 Wis. 532.

2. Moore v. Turner, 43 Ark. 243; Odiome v. Rand, 59 N. H. 504; Smith v. Bradley, 20 N. H. 117; State v. Metz, 31 N. J. L. 378; Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 188. See Hart v. Smith, 44 Wis. 213.

In Stell v. Watson (Ark. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 822, the failure of the assessor to attach the required oath, was no ground for an injunction against the county clerk enjoining him from extending the assessment on the tax book.

In Mississippi, these requirements are held to be directory and not mandatory, in the sense that failure to observe them will annul the subsequent proceedings. Chesnut v. Elliott, 61 Miss. 569; Powers v. Penny, 59 Miss. 5; Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1.

In Pennsylvania, under an act providing that no alleged irregularity in the assessment process, or otherwise, shall be construed or taken to affect the title of the purchaser, the omission of the assessor's signature from the assessment roll did not invalidate the sale. Townsen v. Wilson, 9 Pa. St. 270.

3. Parish v. Golden, 35 N. Y. 462.

It is not necessary to state in the lister's oath every detail of official duty. Brock v. Bruce, 58 Vt. 261.

A failure to state in a certificate that the roll contained a statement of exempt property, was not a jurisdictional defect. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Erie County, 48 N. Y. 93.

If the oath has been actually made at the proper time and filed with the assessment roll as a part thereof, it is not necessary that it be actually attached. McClure v. Warner, 16 Neb. 447; Lynam v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 375.

When the list or roll is in divisions, the oath is sufficient when merely attached to one. Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87. The omission of the official title of the assessor after his signature to the oath, is a mere irregularity. Shoup v. Central Branch, etc., R. Co., 24 Kan. 547. In Bradford v. Randall, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 497, one seal affixed to the signature of the assessors to a warrant concluding with "given under our hands," omitting "and seals," was held valid.

Clerical Errors.—An error in the date of the affidavit to the assessment which is shown to be made on the proper day, will be disregarded. State v. Hurt, 113 Mo. 90.

4. Marshall v. Benson, 48 Wis. 558; Johnson v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29. See also Bangor v. Lancey, 21 Me. 472; Foxcroft v. Nevens, 4 Me. 72; Colby v. Russell, 3 Me. 227.

But a signing by one, when there are three duly qualified assessors, is not sufficient. Belfast Sav. Bank v. Kennebec Land, etc., Co., 73 Me. 404.

The Duty to Certify Cannot Be Delegated.—The duty of passing upon the question of a corrected assessment roll, and certifying to its accuracy and completeness as a perfected roll, is a judicial duty which cannot be delegated. Bellinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 522.

5. Rowe v. Hulett, 50 Vt. 637.

But in State v. Phillips, 102 Mo. 664, it was held that the assessor could not make his affidavit to the roll after the expiration of his term of office.

In New York, the tax assessors may verify the assessment roll after it has been delivered to the supervisors, though it has not been acted upon by them. People v. Jones, 106 N. Y. 330. But the verification cannot be made

The defects or irregularities arising from failure to comply with statutory requirements may be cured, when the proceedings are otherwise valid, by subsequent enactments,¹ and, it has been held, by amendment.² And, in the absence of evidence, it will be presumed that the proper authentication has been made.³

(2) The Return.—After the completion and authentication of the assessment, it is required to be returned to some officer or body designated by law, either for inspection and correction,⁴ or for the enforcement of the tax.⁵ The return in the manner prescribed by law is essential to the validity of the tax.⁶ But provisions as to the time of making the return are usually held to be directory, and failure to comply therewith will not affect the until all the work of the assessors has been completed. Westfall v. Preston, 49 N. Y. 349; Van Rensselaer v. Witbeck, 7 N. Y. 517.

Verification before the hearing of complaints and the making of necessary changes, is a nullity. Smith v. Mosher (Supreme Ct.), 9 N. Y. Supp. 786.

1. Matter of East Ave. Baptist Church (Supreme Ct.), 11 N. Y. Supp. 113; Matter of Byrnes (Supreme Ct.), 11 N. Y. Supp. 113; Smith v. Hard, 61 Vt. 469. See also Kent v. Warner, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 474.

If the thing wanting or omitted constitutes the defect, or the defect is something the necessity for which the legislature might have dispensed with by prior statute, or if something has been done, or done in a particular way, which the legislature might have made immaterial, the omission or irregularity may be cured by a subsequent statute. Where an assessment roll was not signed as required, but the certificate which was written upon the roll itself and which referred to it, was signed, the defect was not jurisdictional. Ensign v. Barse, 107 N. Y. 329.

2. Supplementary List.—In Bangor v. Lancey, 21 Me. 472, it was held that an assessment list returned without an authentication, could be cured by a supplementary list afterwards filed. And see Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 188.

Reassessment.—The absence of the assessor's affidavit to the assessment roll is merely prima facie evidence of the inequality or injustice of the assessment, and does not prevent the roll being used or adopted as a basis of reassessment. Bass v. Fond du Lac County, 60 Wis. 516.

3. Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 565; Upton v. Kennedy, 36 Mich. 215; Brock v. Bruce, 58 Vt. 266.

And the burden of proof is on him who asserts the defect or irregularity. Sherrill v. Hewitt, 13 N. Y. Supp. 498; 59 Hun (N. Y.) 619; Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199.

It will not be presumed that because the copy of the roll upon which the tax is extended has no certificate copied upon it, that the original roll was not properly authenticated. Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28.

4. See Ferton v. Feller, 33 Mich. 203; Norridgewock v. Walker, 71 Me. 181; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 245; Sullivan v. Peckham, 16 R. I. 525; Smith v. Hard, 61 Vt. 469; Howard v. Shumway, 13 Vt. 358.

The assessor who keeps the books and papers, and does the writing, will be considered the principal assessor within a provision requiring lists of assessment to be deposited with the chairman, or principal assessor, for general examination. Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436.

5. See Sullivan v. Peckham, 16 R. I. 525; People v. Burhans, 25 Hun (N. Y.) 186.

6. Blossom v. Cannon, 14 Mass. 177; Lawrence v. Zimpleman, 37 Ark. 643; Smith v. Hard, 61 Vt. 469.

But in Norridgewock v. Walker, 71 Me. 181, it was held that the failure to return the list or a copy of it to the officer, as required, will not invalidate an assessment if the town could prove an assessment regularly made in the hands of the assessors by other legal evidence. And in Smith v. Bradley, 20 N. H. 117, where the return was to be made after the warrant was delivered to the collector, failure to make the return did not affect the validity of the assessment.

In Briggs v. Chandler, 60 Miss. 862, it was not necessary to the validity of an assessment that the roll should have validity of the assessment;¹ although, in some cases, when such provisions are designed for the benefit of the taxpayer, they are deemed to be mandatory, and a strict compliance therewith is essential to the validity of the tax.²

The failure to make the return within the time required, when it is held to be imperative, cannot be cured by subsequent legislation.³

Until the official entry of his determination as to the amount to be levied against the individual is made, the assessor may revise his opinions as to values, deductions, and other matters involved in the assessment.⁴ But when deposited with the proper authority as required, the assessor has no longer any been actually filed, if it was delivered to the clerk of the court within the time required.

1. Pacific R. Co. v. Franklin County, 57 Mo. 223; Breeze v. Haley, 10 Colo. 5; Moore v. Turner, 43 Ark. 244; Anderson v. Mayfield (Ky. 1892), 19 S. W. Rep. 598; State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338; State v. Northern Belle Mill, etc., Co., 15 Nev. 385; Oswego County v. Betts (Supreme Ct.), 6 N. Y. Supp. 934; People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; People v. Haupt, 104 N. Y. 377; Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401; People v. Jones, 43 Hun (N. Y.) 131; Rome, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 39 Hun (N. Y.) 332; O'Neil v. Tyler (N. Dak. 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 434; Russel v. Wernitz, 24 Pa. St. 337; Waddingham v. Dickson (Colo. 1892), 29 Pac. Rep. 177; Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Saline County, 12 Neb. 396.

In Illinois, a revenue law provides that no assessment shall be invalid because the assessment rolls are not completed or returned within the time allowed. See St. Louis Bridge Co. v. People, 128 Ill. 422; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 566; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Wright v. People, 87 Ill. 582; Purrrington v. People, 79 Ill. 11. Formerly it was necessary to return the roll within the time required. See Billings v. Detten, 15 Ill. 219; Marsh v. Chestnut, 14 Ill. 223; Sanderson v. La Salle, 37 Ill. 441.

Presumptions.—Upon failure to show the time when the roll was filed, it will be presumed to have been filed within the time prescribed by law after prima facie proof of the validity of the assessment. Grayson v. Richardson, 65 Miss. 222. It will be presumed to have been filed on the day of the date of the affidavit attached to it. Moore v. Turner, 43 Ark. 243.

Failure to find the assessment roll in the office where the law requires it to be kept, does not establish the fact that it was not regularly filed there. Joyner v. Harrison, 56 Ark. 276.

2. Breeze v. Haley, 10 Colo. 5; Thames Mfg. Co. v. Lathrop, 7 Conn. 550; Greene v. Lunt, 58 Me. 518; Stovall v. Conner, 58 Miss. 138; Mitchum v. McInnis, 60 Miss. 945; Pearce v. Perkins, 70 Miss. 267; Snell v. Fort Dodge, 45 Iowa 564; Ayers v. Moulton, 51 Vt. 115; Frost v. Flick, 1 Dakota 131. So the failure to return the list within the time required to give an owner opportunity to appeal therefrom, renders void a sale of the property. Watson v. Campbell, 56 Ark. 184.

3. Marsh v. Chestnut, 14 Ill. 223.

In Thames Mfg. Co. v. Lathrop, 7 Conn. 550, a statute of Connecticut which provided that "when the assessors have neglected or omitted to return an abstract of the assessment list to the town clerks within a specified time, such list shall not be adjudged void, but that all taxes laid upon them may be levied and collected," referred exclusively to taxes not levied or collected, and was not given a retrospective effect.

4. State v. Silvers, 41 N. J. L. 505; People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 49 Cal. 414; People v. Wilson (B'klyn City Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 627. And see Matter of Schell, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 283; San Luis Obispo County v. White, 91 Cal. 432.

In State v. Williamson, 33 N. J. L. 77, it was held that after the assessor has properly assessed real estate in the name of the owner, he is not obliged to substitute the name of a subsequent owner, even though requested to do so, before the time to complete the assessment has expired.

In Re Williamson, 11 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 235, it was held that a tax which is too power to add to or alter the assessment roll; his authority over it is terminated.¹

5. Conclusiveness and Effect.—Where the assessors have jurisdiction both of the person and of the subject-matter, i. e., the property assessed, their acts partake of a judicial character;² and though their determinations may be subject to appeal or review,³ they cannot be attacked collaterally.⁴ And their acts, like those low may be raised at any time before the tax is paid, and if this is done after the taxpayer's death, the corrected tax may be allowed as a claim against his estate.

Under the Iowa statutes, the auditor has power to correct the tax books after they are placed in the hands of the county treasurer. Ridley v. Doughty (Iowa, 1892), 52 N. W. Rep. 350.

1. Pratt v. Stiles, 17 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 211; O'Donnell v. McIntyre, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 615; Sullivan v. Peckham, 16 R. I. 525; People v. Westchester County, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 607; Colonial L. Assurance Co. v. New York County, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 166; People v. Greene County, 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 217; People v. Forrest, 96 N. Y. 544; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 245; State v. Manhattan Silver Min. Co., 4 Nev. 318; Johnson v. Malloy, 74 Cal. 430; Gibbins v. Adamson, 44 Kan. 203; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Portland, 2 Oregon 81; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206. And see State v. Covington, 35 S. Car. 245; Sullivan v. Peckham, 16 R. I. 525; Downing v. Roberts, 21 Vt. 441.

In Bellows v. Weeks, 41 Vt. 590, it was held that alterations in a tax list, made by persons other than the listers, after it is deposited in the town clerk's office, do not render it void; it remains legal and valid as originally made and deposited. See also Willard v. Pike, 59 Vt. 202.

In Justice's Opinion, 18 Pick. (Mass.) 575, the rule was laid down that after any general assessment of a tax has been made by the assessors, and committed to the proper officer for collection, and before another tax is committed to the assessor to assess, they have no authority to assess any tax on any person for any purpose.

2. Williams v. Weaver, 75 N. Y. 30; Van Rensselaer v. Witbeck, 7 N. Y. 517; Easton v. Calendar, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 90; Brown v. Smith, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 419; Vail v. Owen, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 22; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y.

243; Fensenthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21; St. Louis Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Charles, 47 Mo. 462; Farrington v. New England Invest. Co., 1 N. Dak. 102; Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701; Wilson v. Marsh, 34 Vt. 352; Fairbanks v. Kittredge, 24 Vt. 9; Boody v. Watson, 64 N. H. 162.

If assessors are bound to notify and hear parties, and can decide only after hearing and considering such evidence and arguments as the parties choose to lay before them, their action is judicial. Sanborn v. Fellows, 22 N. H. 473.

In Auditor v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 6 Kan. 500; 7 Am. Rep. 575, it was held that the action of assessors in making an assessment is legislative and not judicial.

3. See infra, this title, Equalization and Review.

4. See Mygatt v. Washburn, 15 N. Y. 321; Williams v. Weaver, 75 N. Y. 30; National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 53; McLean v. Jephson, 123 N. Y. 142; People v. Davenport, 91 N. Y. 574; People v. Wemple, 138 N. Y. 582; Spencer v. People, 68 Ill. 510; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Drainage Com'rs, 134 Ill. 384; Com. v. New England Slate, etc., Co., 3 Allen (Mass.) 391; Union Invest. Co. v. Harrison County, 67 Miss. 614; State v. Hunter, 98 Mo. 386; Miller v. Hurford, 13 Neb. 13; State v. Metz, 31 N. J. L. 365; State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108; Fuller v. Elizabeth, 42 N. J. L. 427; State v. Bettie, 50 N. J. L. 132; Taylor v. Moore, 63 Vt. 60; State v. Ocean Tp., 39 N. J. L. 75; Camden v. Mulford, 26 N. J. L. 49; Den v. Carron, 26 N. J. L. 228; State v. Vanarsdale, 42 N. J. L. 536; Wagoner v. Loomis, 37 Ohio St. 571. And see Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Hammett v. Philadelphia, 65 Pa. St. 146; Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460; Wilson v. Marsh, 34 Vt. 352; Bullock v. Guilford, 59 Vt. 516; Green Bay, etc., Canal Co. v. Outagamie County, 76 Wis. 587; Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535.

One who can obtain a reversal of an assessment, in a direct proceeding, can-of all public officers, are presumed to be valid and correct until the contrary is made to appear.¹

The tax will not be set aside for mere irregularities and informalities in the assessment upon which it is levied,² but if wrong not impeach it collaterally on account of the error. Boody v. Watson, 64 N. H. 162.

1. People v. Collison (Supreme Ct.), 6 N. Y. Supp. 711; Oswego County v. Betts, 6 N. Y. Supp. 934; 53 Hun (N. Y.) 638; People v. MacComber (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 71; Hartwell v. Root, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 345; 10 Am. Dec. 232; Matter of Voorhis, 90 N. Y. 668; People v. Davenport, 91 N. Y. 374; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 390; State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142; Palmer v. Boling, 8 Cal. 384; Linton v. Athens, 53 Ga. 588; Consolidated Coal Co. v. Baker, 135 Ill. 545; Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Cleghorn v. Postlewaite, 43 Ill. 428; Darling v. Gunn, 50 Ill. 424; Adams v. Davis, 109 Ind. 10; Silcott v. McCarty, 62 Iowa 161; Snell v. Fort Dodge, 45 Iowa 564; Beeson v. Johns, 59 Iowa 166; Francis v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 19 Kan. 316; Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374; New Orleans v. New Orleans Canal, etc., Co., 29 La. Ann. 851; New Orleans v. Louisiana Sav. Bank, 31 La. Ann. 826; State v. Louisiana Sav. Bank, 32 La. Ann. 1136; Blossom v. Cannon, 14 Mass. 177; Blackwood v. Van Vliet, 30 Mich. 118; Yelverton v. Steele, 36 Mich. 62; Stockle v. Silsbee, 41 Mich. 615; Hunt v. Chapin, 42 Mich. 25; Perkins v. Nugent, 45 Mich. 157; Cuming v. Grand Rapids, 46 Mich. 150; St. Peter's Church v. Scott County, 12 Minn. 395; Thompson v. Tinkcom, 15 Minn. 297; Brigins v. Chandler, 60 Miss. 862; Miller v. Hurford, 13 Neb. 13; Dewey v. Stratford, 42 N. H. 282; State v. Pierson, 47 N. J. L. 247; State v. Hawkins, 50 N. J. L. 122; Newark v. State, 32 N. J. L. 453; State v. Manning, 41 N. J. L. 275; Farrington v. New England Invest. Co., 1 N. Dak. 102; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 663; MacComber v. Center, 44 Vt. 235; Canfield v. Bayfield County, 74 Wis. 60; State v. Manitowoc County Clerk, 59 Wis. 15.

In the matter of the assessment of taxes by municipal corporations, the intendments are less liberal. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142.

It is unnecessary to adduce evidence to justify an assessment apparently legally made; it stands until it is shown to be erroneous by satisfactory proof. Merchants' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors, 40 La. Ann. 371.

An assessment roll is not to be pronounced invalid and a tax sale void because, many years afterwards, an error appears in the copy, the original being lost. Chamberlain v. Taylor, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 24.

The burden of proof is on the taxpayer to establish a charge of illegality. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374; Macomber v. Center, 44 Vt. 235.

But in Bate v. Speed, 10 Bush (Ky.) 644, it is said that where the action of the ministerial and judicial officers whose duty it is to impose a tax, is called directly in question by the taxpayers, and their authority and jurisdiction denied, no presumption is indulged that the tax was legally imposed.

2. Avant v. Flynn (S. Dak. 1891), 49 N. W. Rep. 15; San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 12; South Platte Land Co. v. Crete, 11 Neb. 344. And see Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Osceola County, 45 Iowa 168; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153; Smith v. Leavenworth County, 9 Kan. 296; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 7 Kan. 210; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Blake, 9 Kan. 489; Wood v. McGuire (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 659; Hayford v. Belfast, 69 Me. 63; Rogers v. Greenbush, 58 Me. 390; 4 Am. Rep. 292; Gilman v. Waterville, 59 Me. 491; State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98; State v. Cook, 32 N. J. L. 347; State v. Saalman, 37 N. J. L. 156; Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488; Fisher v. People, 84 Ill. 491; Atkins v. Hinman, 7 Ill. 451; Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460; Downing v. Roberts, 21 Vt. 441; Sawyer v. Gleason, 59 N. H. 140; George v. Dean, 47 Tex. 73; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45; Com. v. New England Slate, etc., Co., 13 Allen (Mass.) 391; Wilson v. Weber, 96 Ill. 454; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. People, 138 Ill. 367; Hixon v. Oneida County, 82 Wis. 515.

So an injunction will not lie to prevent the collection of the revenues of a municipality for mere irregularities in the assessment. Covington v. Rock- in principle, or based upon an erroneous application of the law, it cannot be upheld;¹ and an unauthorized rule of valuation,² or fraud in the assessment, invalidates the tax and all proceedings thereunder.³

6. Liability of Assessors.—The assessors are personally liable for all injuries resulting from assessments made in the absence of jurisdiction,⁴ and for failure to perform, or the improper performance of, duties which are ministerial.⁵ So if they err in deter-ingham, 93 N. Car. 134. And see Willson v. Wheeler, 55 Vt. 446.

An assessment of land as timber land, where timber has been recently cut, will not vitiate the tax. Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550. See also supra, this title, The Roll; Form and Contents Generally.

1. People v. McComber (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 71; McLean v. Jephson, 123 N. Y. 142; People v. Davenport, 91 N. Y. 574. And see People v. Wemple, 138 N. Y. 582.

The question as to whether persons or property are assessable, is a jurisdictional one and always open to inquiry when the authority to make the assessment is assailed. McLean v. Jephson, 123 N. Y. 142.

Nor is an assessment conclusive as to the place of residence of the person assessed. Preston v. King, 61 Vt. 606.

2. Goff v. Outagamie County, 43 Wis. 55; Hersey v. Barron County, 37 Wis. 75; Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 503; Schettler v. Fort Howard, 43 Wis. 48; Salscheider v. Fort Howard, 45 Wis. 519; Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1.

In People v. Haren (Supreme Ct.), 3 N. Y. Supp. 86, it was held that if the assessors disregard a decision of the court in a similar case in relation to the valuation of property, they are chargeable personally with the costs of an appeal from an order reducing the valuation fixed by them; and in People v. Carter, 119 N. Y. 557, that where there has been a judicial determination fixing the value of land at the sum assessed for several preceding years, the former adjudications are binding and conclusive upon certiorari to review the assessment, in the absence of evidence of some change affecting the value.

3. See Buttenuth v. St. Louis Bridge Co., 123 Ill. 535; St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; English v. People, 96 Ill. 566; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297.

The fact that the assessment is much larger than the one for the preceding year, does not establish fraud, especially where the preceding assessment was less than the cost of the property. St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627.

4. Williams v. Weaver, 75 N. Y. 30; National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 53; Obering v. Foote, 65 N. Y. 263; Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; Herriman v. Stowers, 43 Me. 497; Dickinson v. Billings, 4 Gray (Mass.) 42; Little v. Merrill, 10 Pick. (Mass.) 543; Judd v. Thompson, 125 Mass. 553. And see Ford v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 446; Whitmore v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 451.

Persons acting as assessors, without having been legally elected, are liable for the acts of the collector to whom they have issued a warrant. Allen v. Archer, 49 Me. 346.

The burden of proof of the facts necessary to establish their jurisdiction, rests with the assessors when they are sought to be held personally liable for acts done under color of their office. Dickinson v. Billings, 4 Gray (Mass.) 42.

5. Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20; Kellogg v. Higgins, 11 Vt. 240; Henry v. Edson, 2 Vt. 497; Howard v. Shumway, 13 Vt. 358; Fairbanks v. Kittredge, 24 Vt. 9.

The taxpayer is entitled to an action for damages sustained, but not to recover his money back. Hayford v. Belfast, 69 Me. 63; Gilman v. Waterville, 59 Me. 491.

Where a highway tax which is worked out or paid, is required to be placed in the next assessment, if the assessor fails to do so and places it in a subsequent assessment, an action will lie therefor against him. Eames v. Johnson, 4 Allen (Mass.) 382.

If they transcend the limits of their authority, they cease to act as judges and become responsible for all consequences. Weaver v. Devendorf, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 117; Brown v. Smith, 24 Barb.

mining whether a person is a taxable inhabitant of the district, they are liable to an action by the party aggrieved.¹

But, where exercising discretionary powers, and having jurisdiction of the person taxed and the subject-matter, they are not personally liable when acting in good faith.² So they are not liable for mistakes in the valuation of property, except upon proof of (N. Y.) 419; Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 340; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; Drew v. Davis, 10 Vt. 506; 33 Am. Dec. 213.

An assessment or a change in an assessment made after the time within which the assessment is required to be made, renders the assessors liable. Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; Westfall v. Preston, 49 N. Y. 349; Bennett v. Buffalo, 17 N. Y. 383; Mygatt v. Washburn, 15 N. Y. 316. And see Overing v. Foote, 65 N. Y. 263.

If, in assessing a tax, the assessors exceed the sum voted to be raised, they will be liable in trespass to a person whose goods they distrain. Huse v. Merriam, 2 Me. 375; Libby v. Burnham, 15 Mass. 144.

But in Easton v. Calendar, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 90, it was held that in apportioning a tax, only the sum voted, or otherwise authorized, can be apportioned, but an assessment apportioning the percentages for collection, as well as the tax, was held not to render the assessor liable.

But one cannot maintain an action against assessors for wrongfully placing his name on their rolls, whereby he was compelled to pay a tax, if the assessment had neither been set aside nor reversed, and if the tax was voluntarily paid. Sexton v. Pepper, 28 Hun (N. Y.) 31.

Misinterpretation of the Law.—In Lincoln v. Chapin, 132 Mass. 470, it was held that an assessor was not liable for neglecting to commit the tax list to the collector where he commits it to himself under an erroneous view of the law.

Liability of Two Members of Board.—Where two listers of a town, without the consent of the third, do an act which if done by all would subject them to damages, the two may be held liable therefor. Fuller v. Gould, 20 Vt. 643.

Taxpayer's Procurement.—An erroneous assessment or a non-performance of duty will not subject the assessor, where the error was committed or the omission made at the instance of the taxpayer himself. Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 352; Pease v. Whitney, 8 Mass.

93. But the failure of the taxpayer to appear before the board of equalization and apply for a reduction of his assessment, or the refusal of the board to reduce it, does not excuse the assessor for malicious wrong-doing. Parkinson v. Parker, 48 Iowa 667.

1. People v. Chenango County, 11 N. Y. 563; Ware v. Percival, 61 Me. 391; 14 Am. Rep. 565; Agry v. Young, 11 Mass. 220; Inglee v. Bosworth, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 498; Freeman v. Kinney, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 44.

So they are personally liable for assessing any non-resident for personal property, although the question of non-residence is doubtful. Dorwin v. Strickland, 57 N. Y. 493; Mygatt v. Washburn, 15 N. Y. 316.

They do not act judicially in deciding whether or not they have jurisdiction. Prosser v. Secor, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 608. Where a farm, which lies in two adjoining towns, is assessed in the town in which the owner and occupant does not reside, the assessment and tax are illegal, and the assessors are personally liable. Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261. But see Brown v. Smith, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 419.

2. Williams v. Weaver, 75 N. Y. 30; Easton v. Calendar, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 90; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; Weaver v. Devendorf, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 117; Stewart v. Case (Minn. 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 938; Wall v. Trumbull, 16 Mich. 238; Dillingham v. Snow, 5 Mass. 547; Colman v. Anderson, 10 Mass. 119; Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Griffin v. Rising, 11 Met. (Mass.) 339; Durant v. Eaton, 98 Mass. 469; Odiorne v. Rand, 59 N. H. 504; McDaniel v. Tebbetts, 60 N. H. 497. And see People v. Reddy, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 539; Vose v. Willard, 47 Barb. (N. Y.) 320; Western R. Co. v. Nolan, 48 N. Y. 513; Wilson v. Marsh, 34 Vt. 352; Fuller v. Gould, 20 Vt. 643.

In making assessments in all cases where the assessors have jurisdiction, the assessors act judicially. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Erie County, 48 N. Y. 105; Swift v. Poughkeepsie, 37 N. Y. 511; Barhyte v. Shepherd, 35 N. Y. 238.

wrongful or malicious actions;¹ nor for an erroneous decision as to the taxability of property,² or what is covered by an exemption;³ nor will they be held liable for an omission of property from the rolls through an error in judgment.⁴

It would seem that no liability would attach to an assessor on account of the assessment of a tax in pursuance of an unconstitutional statute or an illegal vote of a town;⁵ but it has been held otherwise.⁶

7. Compensation of Assessors.—Compensation of assessors is governed by the rules generally applicable to public officers, and may be by the payment of a gross sum for a particular service, or period of service,⁷ or in the form of a percentage on the amount

In Vail v. Owen, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 22, it was held that the inquiries which assessors are required to make pertaining to their assessment, are judicial acts.

1. Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20; Fairbanks v. Kittredge, 24 Vt. 9; Moss v. Cummings, 44 Mich. 359; Parkinson v. Parker, 48 Iowa 667; Wade v. Matheeson, 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 158; Vail v. Owen, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 22; Barhyte v. Shepherd, 35 N. Y. 238; State v. Jersey City, 24 N. J. L. 662; Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701.

The overvaluation must have been made with intent to injure. Ballerino v. Mason, 83 Cal. 447.

In Moss v. Cummings, 44 Mich. 359, it was said that making an assessment on a false valuation should be punished criminally.

2. See National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 53; Weaver v. Devendorf, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 117; Robinson v. Rowland, 26 Hun (N. Y.) 501; Hemingway v. Machias, 33 Me. 445; Stickney v. Bangor, 30 Me. 404; Colman v. Anderson, 10 Mass. 105; Meade v. Haines, 81 Mich. 261.

3. Vail v. Owen, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 22; National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 53; Barhyte v. Shepherd, 35 N. Y. 238; Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Hayes v. Hanson, 12 N. H. 284; Salisbury v. Merrimack County, 59 N. H. 359.

Where the assessors have jurisdiction to assess the taxpayer for some amount, it is immaterial whether they assess him too high, in consequence of not allowing an exemption, or of an erroneous valuation of his property. Williams v. Weaver, 75 N. Y. 30.

Assessors of taxes who act in good faith in refusing to allow an exemption, are not chargeable with the costs of proceedings instituted to enforce it. People v. Peterson, 31 Hun (N. Y.) 421.

4. Dillingham v. Snow, 5 Mass. 547; Easton v. Calendar, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 90; Meade v. Haines, 81 Mich. 261. But see Dunham v. Chicago, 55 Ill. 387.

Assessors are not liable to a parish for neglecting to assess a tax equal to the amount voted, when they act under the honest belief that they are carrying out the views and directions of the parish. First Parish v. Fisk, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 264.

5. Boody v. Watson, 64 N. H. 162; Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 580.

6. Little v. Merrill, 10 Pick. (Mass.) 543; Stetson v. Kempton, 13 Mass. 271; 7 Am. Dec. 145; Drew v. Davis, 10 Vt. 506; 33 Am. Dec. 213.

In Massachusetts, assessors were held liable for assessing and issuing a warrant for the collection of a school tax, where the school district was not legally established, even though it was certified to them by one acting as clerk of the school district that the tax had been voted by the district. Judd v. Thompson, 125 Mass. 553; Dickinson v. Billings, 4 Gray (Mass.) 42.

7. Harrison v. Com., 83 Ky. 162; Bell v. Arkansas County, 44 Ark. 493; State v. Ransom, 9 S. Car. 199; State v. Jume, 30 La. Ann. 235.

It cannot be intended that an assessor should receive extra compensation because of an accidental and unforeseen necessity of the county, when he performs no additional service on account thereof. East v. Eichelberger, 69 Ala. 187.

But persons employed to procure evidence necessary to authorize the assessor to subject omitted property to taxation, are entitled to compensation for their services. State v. Hagerty, 5 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 22.

Under the Arkansas statute, the assessor is entitled to one dollar, and no more, for assessing lands of non-resiof taxes received by the collector in order that each tax may bear the expense of its own collection.¹

8. Equalization and Review—a. PROVISION FOR.—Under various state statutes, provision is made for the correction of errors and irregularities committed by assessors in assessing property, and for the equalization of the assessments of the different parts of a taxing district, through boards of equalization or review,² for it is as important, as between the several districts of a county or state, that an equalization should be had, as that a separate valuation of estates as between individuals should be had;³ and all states recognize the necessity of affording an opportunity to the taxpayer of being heard in opposition to an assessment before his liability is definitely fixed.⁴

dents and unknown owners in each township in which there may be any or either. Bell v. Arkansas County, 44 Ark. 493.

And in South Carolina, warrants for expenses of assessments are payable from the first collection of county funds of the fiscal year for which they were made. See State v. Ransom, 9 S. Car. 199.

The board of assessors actually performing the work are entitled to the appropriation made for the compensation of assessors, and not a previous board who were functi officio when the work of assessment was done. State v. Jumel, 30 La. Ann. 235.

In Harrison v. Com., 83 Ky. 162, a statute allowing the assessor a certain sum for each person's list of taxable property returned, was held to entitle him to that amount for each list returned, whether it embraces property or not.

1. And, although the constitution may require the poll tax to be applied exclusively to a certain purpose, as the school fund, it must bear the expense of its own assessment. Shaver v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 195.

In Alabama, assessors are entitled only to commissions on taxes levied for general purposes or ordinary current expenses, and not on levies for special purposes. East v. Eichelberger, 69 Ala. 187.

2. Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701; Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Drainage Dist., 134 Ill. 384; Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; Comstock v. Grand Rapids, 54 Mich. 641; Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 182; Flax Pond Water Co. v. Lynn, 147 Mass. 31; Spalding v. Hill, 86 Ky. 656; Price v. Kramer, 4 Colo. 546; Weaver v. State, 39 Ala. 535; Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1; Smith v. Jones County, 30 Iowa 531; Wharton v. Birmingham, 37 Pa. St. 371; State v. Holmes, 20 Ohio St. 474; Richmond v. Crenshaw, 76 Va. 936; Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1; Fuller v. Elizabeth, 42 N. J. L. 427; Felsenthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21; McLean v. Jephson, 123 N. Y. 142. And such laws are held constitutional and valid, People v. Salomon, 46 Ill. 333; their very purpose being to equalize and make uniform the taxation of property. Spalding v. Hill, 86 Ky. 656.

In Richmond v. Crenshaw, 76 Va. 936, it was held that the Virginia statute providing a remedy for the correction of excessive assessments, applies to assessments in previous years.

Where, under a city charter, the assessors agree to the inventory and valuation of property returned by the owner, it cannot be disturbed; an ordinance creating a board of assessment to examine and revise the list after it has been accepted and entered as satisfactory by the assessor and collector, is illegal. Dwyer v. Hackworth, 57 Tex. 245.

3. Yelverton v. Steele, 36 Mich. 62. And see Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210; Aplin v. Roberts, 83 Mich. 471. The failure to submit the assessment to the proper board, for the purpose of equalization, renders it void. Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460. And see Davis v. Vanarsdale, 59 Miss. 367.

But it will not affect a tax depending upon the equalization. Chamberlain v. St. Ignace, 92 Mich. 332.

In Michigan, the object of the equalization is to obtain a basis for the apportionment of the state and county taxes among the several townships. Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210.

4. Lawrence v. Janesville, 46 Wis. 364.

b. THE PROPER AND EXCLUSIVE REMEDY.—When provision is made for an application to a board of equalization or review for the correction of errors in an assessment,¹ such remedy is exclusive,² and a taxpayer failing to avail himself thereof within

The assessment of property is in the nature of a judicial proceeding, and it is essential that the law authorizing it should provide for notice and an opportunity to be heard before it becomes final, or it will lack the essential ingredient of due process of law. Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 9 Sawy. (U.S.) 165. And see Hagar v. Reclamation District No. 108, 111 U.S. 701.

Assessments of property "which has escaped taxation," if complained of as excessive or illegal, should not be collected by coercive process until passed upon by the board of county commissioners. Lehman v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 219. But the owner must claim to have been prejudiced, or there need be no revision. Scott County v. Hinds, 50 Minn. 204.

1. An application to the board of equalization or review for an abatement, is the proper remedy in all cases of error in the assessment. Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Kimber v. Schuylkill County, 20 Pa. St. 366; Wharton v. Birmingham, 37 Pa. St. 371; Everitt's Appeal, 71 Pa. St. 216; Hutchinson v. Pittsburg, 72 Pa. St. 320; Carlisle School Dist. v. Hepburn, 79 Pa. St. 159; Central Pac. R. Co. v. Board of Equalization, 43 Cal. 365; Morgan v. Smithson, 9 Ill. 368; Macklot v. Davenport, 17 Iowa 379; Richards v. Wapello County, 48 Iowa 510; Little v. Greenleaf, 7 Mass. 236; Osborn v. Danvers, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 98; Preston v. Boston, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 7; Howe v. Boston, 7 Cush. (Mass.) 273; Salmond v. Hanover, 13 Allen (Mass.) 119; Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 101 Mass. 87; Sherwin v. Wigglesworth, 129 Mass. 64; Hicks v. Westport, 130 Mass. 480; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; Walker v. Cochran, 8 N. H. 166.

For instances where property might have been valued and assessed together as one estate, and the taxes as assessed were too large, see People v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 89 Ill. 116; Boston Water Power Co. v. Boston, 9 Met. (Mass.) 199; where one is improperly assessed in the wrong town, Stickney v. Bangor, 30 Me. 404; Hemingway v. Machias, 33 Me. 445; Waite v. Prince- ton, 66 Me. 225; where one is properly taxed for real estate in a town, but improperly taxed for other real estate not in the town, Salmond v. Hanover, 13 Allen (Mass.) 119; Bailly v. Buell, 59 Barb. (N. Y.) 158; where one is taxed for the whole property, when he is taxable only for an undivided share, Davis v. Macy, 124 Mass. 193.

Where one holding personal property in trust for another, is improperly taxed, on account of such property in trust, for a larger amount than he otherwise would be. Bates v. Boston, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 93; Bourne v. Boston, 2 Gray (Mass.) 494.

Applies to Local Assessments.—Similarly, in the case of irregularities in regard to street improvements for which assessments are levied, application should be made to the board of supervisors. Coulin v. Seamen, 22 Cal. 546; Emery v. Bradford, 29 Cal. 75; Nolan v. Reese, 32 Cal. 485; Chambers v. Satterlee, 40 Cal. 497; Windsor v. Field, 1 Conn. 279; Patterson v. Baumer, 3 Iowa 477; Wright v. Boston, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 233.

For an abatement of a disproportionate assessment for a street improvement, see Matter of Auchmutz, 18 Hun (N. Y.) 324.

Where the taxpayer is properly assessed for one estate, the remedy for the improper assessment of another estate is by petition for abatement. Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508. And in Clarke v. Stearns County, 47 Minn. 552, it was held that the assessment to the owner at his place of residence, of property engaged in business in another taxing district, is merely erroneous, and can only be remedied by application for an abatement.

2. Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 182; Hemingway v. Machias, 33 Me. 445; Waite v. Princeton, 66 Me. 225; Gilpatrick v. Saco, 57 Me. 277; Stickney v. Bangor, 30 Me. 404; Comstock v. Grand Rapids, 54 Mich. 641; Williams v. Saginaw, 51 Mich. 120; Hughes v. Klien, 30 Pa. St. 227; Randle v. Williams, 18 Ark. 380; San Jose Gas Co. v. January, 57 Cal. 614; Jeffersonville, etc., R. Co. v. McQueen, 49 Ind. 64; Norcross v. Milford, 150 Mass. 237. And see State v. Fyler, 48 Conn. 145; Mon-

the time prescribed,¹ cannot prevent the collection of a tax for any cause for which he might have had an abatement.² But this roe v. New Canaan, 43 Conn. 309; Madison County v. Smith, 95 Ill. 328; Holten v. Bangor, 23 Me. 264; State v. Danser, 23 N. J. L. 552; Vose v. Willard, 47 Barb. (N. Y.) 320; Tripp v. Merchants' Mut. F. Ins. Co., 12 R. I. 435; infra, this title, Remedies for Erroneous and Illegal Taxation, subtit., General Rights of the Taxpayer as to Remedies.

If not corrected in the mode pointed out by statute, the judgment of the assessors is conclusive. Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535.

But see People v. Duguid (Supreme Ct.), 22 N. Y. Supp. 988, where it was held that a failure to appear before the board, merely raised a question of laches. But in this case it was held that the statute gave a right to review the assessment by certiorari as a concurrent remedy with that of appeal to the board.

1. People v. Haupt, 104 N. Y. 377; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254; People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; People v. Dolan, 11 N. Y. Supp. 35; 57 Hun (N. Y.) 589; New Orleans v. Canal, etc., Co., 32 La. Ann. 157; New Orleans v. Canal, etc., Co., 29 La. Ann. 851; New Orleans Gas Light Co. v. Board of Assessors, 31 La. Ann. 270, 475; State v. Louisiana Mut. Ins. Co., 19 La. Ann. 474; Leeds v. Hardy, 43 La. Ann. 810; Green v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 694; New Orleans v. Buckner, 28 La. Ann. 414; Frost v. New Orleans, 28 La. Ann. 417; First Nat. Bank v. St. Joseph Tp., 46 Mich. 526; Caledonia Tp. v. Rose, 94 Mich. 216. And see Republica v. Deaves, 3 Yeates (Pa.) 464.

Where objections must be filed by a certain day, they must be placed on file before that day commences. Burhans v. Norwood Park, 138 Ill. 147.

Under the Iowa statutes, no time is prescribed within which an appeal may be taken, and no bond is required to be given by the appellant. Ingersoll v. Des Moines, 46 Iowa 553. And see Porter v. Helmick, 2 Iowa 87.

But in Trust, etc., Co. v. Portsmouth, 59 N. H. 33, it was held that where the petitioner was prevented from exhibiting an account, by reason of accident, mistake or misfortune, without fault on his part, he did not lose his right of appeal.

When the Time Begins to Run.—The time begins to run from the time notice of the completion of the roll is given. See People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; McLean v. Jephson, 123 N. Y. 142; People v. Haupt, 104 N. Y. 377; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254; Matter of Corwin, 135 N. Y. 245; Matter of McLean (Supreme Ct.), 6 N. Y. Supp. 230; Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 245; Brunswick v. Finney, 54 Ga. 317; O'Brien v. Cogswell, 17 Can. Sup. Ct. Rep. 420.

An omission to give the notice does not affect the validity of the assessment, but simply leaves the right to review unlimited as to time. People v. Haupt, 104 N. Y. 377. And see State v. Washoe County, 14 Nev. 140.

But the published notice of the completion of the assessment rolls is intended for the information of taxpayers within the jurisdiction only, and has no operation upon non-residents having no taxable property within such locality and no reason to suppose they have been taxed. McLean v. Jephson, 123 N. Y. 142.

2. Conlin v. Seamen, 22 Cal. 546; Emery v. Bradford, 29 Cal. 75; Nolan v. Reese, 32 Cal. 484; Chambers v. Satterlee, 40 Cal. 519; Windsor v. Field, 1 Conn. 279; Peoria v. Kidder, 26 Ill. 351; Adsit v. Lieb, 76 Ill. 198; New Orleans v. Canal, etc., Co., 32 La. Ann. 157; Schmidt v. New Orleans, 28 La. Ann. 429; Deane v. Todd, 22 Mo. 90; Aldrich v. Cheshire R. Co., 21 N. H. 359; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254; Hughes v. Kline, 30 Pa. St. 230; Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 55; Salmond v. Hanover, 13 Allen (Mass.) 119; Ward v. Gallatin County, 12 Mont. 23; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Patterson, 10 Mont. 90; Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535; Meade v. Haines, 81 Mich. 261.

If the taxpayer does not have his assessment corrected and perfected when he has power to do so, he is assumed to admit its correctness. First Nat. Bank v. St. Joseph Tp., 46 Mich. 530.

He is without equity to have the collection of the tax restrained by injunction, Van Nort's Appeal, 121 Pa. St. 118; and the court may, in its discretion, refuse to aid him, Poulson v. Matthews, 40 N. J. L. 268; and where the assessment was not fraudulent, he loses all remedy, State v. Wright, 4 rule does not apply where the tax is illegal by reason of want of power to levy or assess.¹

c. COMPOSITION OF THE BOARD.—Boards of county commissioners or supervisors usually constitute the boards of equaliza-

Nev. 251; even though he was told by the assessor that the assessment would be reduced, People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297.

If one has failed to make the statutory return and to appeal to the board of equalization, he can have no remedy in the courts. Price v. Kramer, 4 Colo. 546.

Where a right of action to set aside taxes has been lost by failure to make objection before a board of review, the subsequent repeal of the act requiring objection before the board, does not restore the right. Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550.

Where a party files an objection to an assessment, with the county clerk, who promises to notify him when to appear before the board, but fails to do so, he has no ground for relief under the head of accident or mistake, the clerk's neglect while acting as his agent being his own. Felsenthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21.

Nor is it any excuse that he was prevented from appearing before the county board by the fraudulent representations of the assessor that the valuation would be reduced by such board to one-third of the "fair cash value." People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297.

In Metcalf v. Messenger, 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 325, it was held that a taxpayer is not estopped to allege any irregularity in the assessment by reason of his non-appearance at a meeting of the assessors, when it does not appear that a meeting was held or that notice thereof was given.

A statute providing that persons dissatisfied with an assessment must file objections with the board at its August meeting, does not apply to cases where the land has been properly valued in the first instance and no objection made by the taxpayer, and if the board raises the assessment at such meeting, the right to apply for a reduction is not lost by failure to appeal within five days in accordance with the statute. Simmons v. Scott County, 68 Miss. 37.

1. In such case the taxpayer is not confined to proceedings before the board; as where no authority to levy or assess the tax exists. Dickey v. Polk County, 58 Iowa 287; Barber v.

Farr, 54 Iowa 57; New Orleans v. McArthur, 12 La. Ann. 47; Davis v. Burnett, 77 Tex. 3; St. Paul v. Merritt, 7 Minn. 258; Silver v. Schuykill, 32 Pa. St. 356; Com. v. Delaware Div. Canal Co., 123 Pa. St. 594; McLean v. Jephson, 123 N. Y. 142; Matter of Ulster County Sav. Bank, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 481; Paddock v. Lewis, 55 Hun (N. Y.) 521; Crane v. Janesville, 20 Wis. 305; State v. Williston, 20 Wis. 228; Williams v. Saginaw, 51 Mich. 120; McCoy v. Anderson, 47 Mich. 502; Judkins v. Reed, 48 Me. 386; Bemis v. Boston, 14 Allen (Mass.) 366; Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 109 Mass. 270; Fairbanks v. Kittredge, 24 Vt. 9; Babcock v. Granville, 44 Vt. 325. Or where the assessment is fraudulent. Buttenuth v. St. Louis Bridge Co., 123 Ill. 535; 5 Am. St. Rep. 545; English v. People, 96 Ill. 566; Mechanics' Sav. Bank v. Granger, 17 R. I. 77. And see Chicago v. Wright, 32 Ill. 192; Taylor Bros. Iron Works Co. v. New Orleans, 44 La. Ann. 554; Pueblo County v. Wilson, 15 Colo. 90.

But fraud must be established by the evidence, or follow as a conclusion of law from the facts proven, and no mere discrepancy between the valuation of the property and the judgment of the court is sufficient to impeach the assessment. St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; an excessive valuation by an assessor, contrary to his official judgment, is a fraud. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 7 Nev. 99.

An assessment is not void because legal taxes are blended with illegal ones, but is merely an overvaluation which the board of equalization will correct on application. People v. Arguello, 37 Cal. 524.

Where the ones making the assessment were not assessors, either de jure or de facto, a writ of certiorari to review the assessment will be dismissed; being absolutely void, it cannot be thus reviewed. People v. Parker, 117 N. Y. 86.

In Colorado, one appealing to the county board on the ground that the tax is illegal, is not thereby precluded from resorting to the courts to test its validity. Pueblo County v. Wilson, 15 Colo. 90. Where property is assessed for a tion and review,¹ but the assessors themselves are in some instances required to hear complaints, and review and correct their own assessments.² Sometimes the power of equalization is con-certain amount, with the consent of the owner, and this amount is raised by the board of equalization and the owner appeals and obtains a reduction to the original amount, he cannot be heard to contend that it is not subject to assessment. Phelps Mortgage Co. v. Board of Equalization, 84 Iowa 610.

1. Commissioners.—Sumner v. Colfax County, 14 Neb. 524; Weaver v. State, 39 Ala. 535; State v. Ormsby County, 7 Nev. 392; Pierre Water Works Co. v. Hughes County, 5 Dakota 145.

Supervisors.—Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1; Atty. Gen'l v. Sanilac, 42 Mich. 72; Meridian v. Phillips, 65 Miss. 362.

In Massachusetts, the application may be made either to the county commissioners or to the assessors, and an appeal from the decision of the latter to the superior court of the county may be made within thirty days after notice of the decision and on payment of the tax under protest. See National Bank of Commerce v. New Bedford, 155 Mass. 313.

Under the Iowa statute, township trustees are constituted a board for the equalization of assessments of property taxable in every township, and have the same power as those usually conferred upon boards of supervisors. Keck v. Keokuk County, 37 Iowa 547.

In Pennsylvania, the appeal from unjust assessments for mercantile taxes is to the board of mercantile appraisers. See Crist v. Morris, 11 Phila. (Pa.) 357.

In Ohio, the board of equalization is composed of the county commissioners, county auditor, and county surveyor, State v. Holmes, 20 Ohio St. 474; and in New Hampshire and Vermont, the selectmen have authority to review the assessments, Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 580; Briggs' Petition, 29 N. H. 547; Leach v. Blakely, 34 Vt. 134; while in Kentucky, it is the board of tax commissioners. Slaughter v. Louisville, 80 Ky. 112.

Legality of Appointment.—It is essential to the validity of the board that it be made up in the manner provided by statute. Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112. And see Hough v. Hastings, 18 Ill. 312. And if the board is authorized to alter or increase assessments, it must be elected or appointed in accordance with constitutional requirements with reference to the election of assessors. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Hays, 118 Ind. 214; Kuntz v. Sumption, 117 Ind. 1; Houghton v. Austin, 47 Cal. 646. And see People v. Raymond, 37 N. Y. 428. But see Baird v. Williams, 49 Ark. 518, where it was held that a statute authorizing the appointment of boards of equalization, by the governor, with power to raise individual assessments, does not contravene a constitutional provision requiring assessors to be elected in each county.

2. See Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; Covington v. Rockingham, 93 N. Car. 134; New Orleans Gas Light Co. v. Board of Assessors, 31 La. Ann. 270; New Orleans City Gas Light Co. v. Board of Assessors, 31 La. Ann. 475; Louisiana Brewing Co. v. Board of Assessors, 41 La. Ann. 565; Gay v. Board of Assessors, 34 La. Ann. 370.

Under the New Jersey Law of 1876, p. 1163, the claim for deduction from taxation can be allowed only by the assessor of the place wherein the mortgaged lands are situate. State v. Jones, 40 N. J. L. 105.

In Maine, the power is conferred upon assessors, with appeal to the county commissioners. Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 182. And see Stickney v. Bangor, 30 Me. 404. And in Illinois, the board is composed of the assessor, town clerk and supervisor, Hough v. Hastings, 18 Ill. 312; while in Oregon, it is the assessor and county clerk. Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; Rhea v. Umatilla County, 2 Oregon 298.

In Massachusetts, it has been held that the assessors may abate a tax assessed by the assessors of the preceding year. Carleton v. Ashburnham, 102 Mass. 348. See also Hubbard v. Garfield, 102 Mass. 72.

The action of a board of review of which an assessor is a member, is not invalid on the ground that he is thereby made a judge in his own cause. Bratton v. Johnson Tp., 76 Wis. 430. And see Hough v. Hastings, 18 Ill.

ferred upon one body while the power to review is conferred upon another body.¹

d. AUTHORITY AND JURISDICTION—(1) In General.—Being creatures of statute, boards of equalization and review can act only when specially authorized,² and the necessary jurisdictional facts must affirmatively appear.³ The authority must be strictly pursued⁴ by a duly qualified full board,⁵ though a majority may 312; Rhea v. Umatilla County, 2 Oregon 298.

In Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County, 54 Tex. 119, the court refused to hold the action of a board of equalization void, upon which a deputy assessor, who was also a county commissioner, sat as a member, where the taxpayer failed to object to the deputy assessor constituting a portion of the board at the time of its action, and it was not shown that there was not a quorum without him.

1. See DuPage County v. Jenks, 65 Ill. 275; State v. Tax Collector, 39 La. Ann. 530.

The Louisiana statute constituting police juries "boards of review," does not create a board of equalization under the constitution, but confers power to correct assessments and valuations and equalize assessments on all properties of a like character only, and does not confer power to reduce the percentage of assessments by wards or otherwise. State v. Tax Collector, 39 La. Ann. 530.

A body having authority to exercise one of the functions only, does not lose it by assuming to exercise the other. Paul v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 35. Equalization and review are entirely different, and an exercise of the one function does not exhaust the power or bar a subsequent exercise of the other. State v. Ormsby County, 7 Nev. 392.

2. Hamilton v. State, 3 Ind. 452; Orr v. State Board of Equalization (Idaho, 1891), 28 Pac. Rep. 416.

They have a special and limited jurisdiction which must be conferred in express terms. People v. Reynolds, 28 Cal. 113; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; Com. v. Luzerne County (Pa. 1888), 15 Atl. Rep. 548; Lackawanna County v. Com., 56 Pa. St. 477.

3. State v. Washoe County, 5 Nev. 317; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17

Nev. 259; Nixon v. Ruple, 30 N. J. L. 58.

Though where jurisdiction appears, all reasonable presumption will be made in favor of the regularity and validity of their acts until the contrary is shown. Tainter v. Lucas County, 29 Wis. 375; Wauwatosa Tp. v. Gunion, 25 Wis. 271; Tierney v. Brown, 65 Miss. 563; 7 Am. St. Rep. 679; Hambleton v. Dempsey, 20 Ohio 168.

4. See State v. Hopper, 54 N. J. L. 544; Madison County v. Smith, 95 Ill. 328; State v. Allen, 43 Ill. 456; Orr v. State Board of Equalization (Idaho, 1891), 28 Pac. Rep. 416.

Under authority to the selectmen to change an assessment on appeal, it was held that the assessment could not be raised. Leach v. Blakely, 34 Vt. 134. And see Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546.

Costs.—In the absence of statutory provision, costs cannot be allowed to either party on an appeal for an abatement of taxes, Lowell v. Middlesex County, 6 Allen (Mass.) 131; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546; though in some states, if it appears to the court that the assessors have acted with gross negligence, costs may be awarded against them. People v. Carter, 119 N. Y. 654. See also People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684; Hall v. Greenwood County, 22 Kan. 37.

Interest.—Nor can interest be allowed on the amount abated unless allowed by the statute. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 550. But in Pennsylvania, interest may be allowed against the complaining taxpayer upon an unsuccessful appeal. Delaware Div. R. Co. v. Com., 50 Pa. St. 339; Com. v. Wyoming Valley Canal Co., 50 Pa. St. 410.

5. Hamilton v. State, 3 Ind. 452; Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112; People v. Parker, 117 N. Y. 86; Nova Ceasarea, etc., Lodge v. Haggerty (Ohio), 28 Wkly. Law Bull. 67.

In Hamilton v. State, 3 Ind. 452, it was held that there being no provision act.¹ Its power cannot be delegated,² though complaints may be referred to a committee of its members for determination, and their acts approved by the full board.³

(2) Boards of Equalization.—The duty of boards of equalization is to adjust and equalize the valuation of property among the several districts, with a view to an equitable apportionment of the burden, and for this purpose they may increase the aggregate valuation of one district and decrease that of another.⁴ But they

that a less number than the whole should act, the board had no authority to act in the absence of one delegate.

The failure of the records to show that the members of the board took the required oath of office, has been held not to invalidate an equalization made by them. State v. Board of Equalization, 108 Mo. 235.

1. People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 428; Connor v. Waxahachie (Tex. 1889), 13 S. W. Rep. 30; Ferris v. Kimble, 75 Tex. 476; Cooley v. O'Conner, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 398. But see Hamilton v. State, 3 Ind. 452.

Where the assessor and town clerk met and organized as a board of review, no person appearing to object to action on the assessments without the presence of the supervisor, the action was held valid. State v. Sullivan, 43 Ill. 412.

In Hough v. Hastings, 18 Ill. 312, it was held that where one member is proved to have been absent at a meeting of the board, the burden rests with the complainant to establish that the other two were present and had complied with the law.

Quorum.—When a quorum is present, the fact that one member was excused from voting does not invalidate the proceedings. State v. Gaylord, 73 Wis. 316. And in State v. Parker, 32 N. J. L. 341, it was held that a member declining to vote was to be considered as assenting to the vote of the majority.

Notice of Meeting.—The members of the board should be notified of the meeting and given an opportunity to attend. Pike County v. Rowland, 94 Pa. St. 238; People v. Parker, 117 N. Y. 86. But a statute requiring them to meet at a stated time and place, is notice to every member. People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 428.

2. Either to third persons, Bellinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516; or to a number of its own members. Wiley v. Flournoy, 30 Ark. 609.

3. Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210; Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488; Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561. See also Yazoo Delta Invest. Co. v. Sudboth, 70 Miss. 416.

Where the equalization of an assessment is referred to a committee of the board, whose report is accepted, it becomes the act of the board. Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89. And the adoption, after a secret session, of a schedule of equalization prepared by one of the assessors, does not affect the validity of the board's decision. New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604.

In Wilson v. Weber, 96 Ill. 454, it was held that the formal order of distribution among counties, of the share of each for local taxation of the rolling stock and capital stock of a railroad, is a ministerial act and can be done by the secretary after the adjournment of the board.

4. Orr v. State Board of Equalization (Idaho, 1891), 28 Pac. Rep. 416; People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 428; People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517; Getchell v. Polk County, 51 Iowa 107; Challiss v. Rigg, 49 Kan. 119; Boyce v. Sebring, 66 Mich. 210; Black v. McGonigle, 103 Mo. 192; State v. Roe, 36 N. J. L. 86; Kelley v. Corson, 11 Wis. 1; People v. Hadley, 76 N. Y. 337. And see State v. Hopper, 54 N. J. L. 544; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560.

A board of equalization may raise or lower the assessment of any township on its own motion without hearing or evidence upon the individual assessments. Fields v. Russell, 38 Kan. 720. And see Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 64 Mo. 294.

Should Be by Valuation.—Equalization should be by valuation, and a board is not authorized to add a certain sum to each acre of land in a township, in equalizing the assessments of real estate as between the townships of a county. State v. Allen, 43 Ill. 456.

They should add or deduct such sum upon the hundred as may be necessary to produce equalization. People v.

cannot, in the absence of statute, change individual assessments,¹ or the valuations placed upon particular classes of property;² nor can they increase the sum of all the valuations of the several districts.³ State boards are sometimes authorized to make original assessments on particular classes of property, such as that of railroad and other corporations.⁴

Nichols, 49 Ill. 517; Tallmadge v. Rensselaer County, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 611. And see Orr v. State Board of Equalization (Idaho, 1891), 28 Pac. Rep. 416.

In Kelley v. Corson, 11 Wis. 1, it was held that a board of equalization cannot reduce the valuation as to a part of the land in a town, without reducing all the estates in the same proportion, unless the part not reduced consists of an incorporated village. See also Kelley v. Corson, 8 Wis. 182; Hersey v. Milwaukee County, 16 Wis. 185.

1. San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 60 Cal. 12; Wells v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Cal. 194; Getchell v. Polk County, 51 Iowa 107; Royce v. Jenney, 50 Iowa 676; Paul v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 35. And see Cummings v. Stark (Ind. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 444; McConkey v. Smith, 73 Ill. 313.

The state board may increase or lower the entire assessment roll of any county, and the county board may increase or lower the individual assessments upon the rolls of their respective counties. Wells v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Cal. 194.

But it is immaterial that the action of the state board affects taxes for county purposes. Baldwin v. Ellis, 68 Cal. 495.

2. Orr v. State Board of Equalization (Idaho, 1891), 28 Pac. Rep. 416; Getchell v. Polk County, 51 Iowa 107.

But it can under the statutes of Oregon, Smith v. Kelly (Oregon, 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 642; and Nebraska. State v. Edwards, 31 Neb. 369.

They cannot increase the valuation of improved lands in a district without also increasing the valuation of unimproved lands in the same district. People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517.

Boards of Equalization also Boards of Review.—Boards of equalization are frequently endowed with the functions of boards of review. See Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 625; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 609; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 513.

And where a county board is required to equalize taxes, it is responsible for the correctness of the assessment, and cannot refuse to levy a tax, upon the ground that it cannot ascertain from the assessment roll, the taxable property within the county or the names of persons owning such property. State v. Yellowstone County, 12 Mont. 503.

3. People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 428; Kittle v. Sherwin, 11 Neb. 65; Kimball v. Merchants' Sav., etc., Co., 89 Ill. 611.

The aggregate valuation cannot be reduced below that returned by the assessors, nor can such amount be increased except in such sum as shall be actually necessary and incidental to a proper and just equalization. State v. Edwards, 31 Neb. 369.

Under the Ohio statute, if a board undertakes to reduce the valuation of certain land, without adding to other parcels an amount equal to the reduction, it exceeds its authority and its action is to be disregarded by the county auditor; and if he fails to do so, and transfers such lands to the new tax duplicate at the reduced valuation, the error is but a clerical one which he may be required to correct. State v. Raine, 47 Ohio St. 447.

4. See TAXATION (CORPORATE).

Such authority may be constitutionally conferred. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 64 Mo. 294; State v. Severance, 55 Mo. 378; Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; Pacific Hotel Co. v. Lieb, 83 Ill. 602; Central Trust Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 27 Fed. Rep. 141; State Railway Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 7 Kan. 210; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 513; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 625; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 609. And does not violate the rule of uniformity. Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666.

Under the Iowa statutes, boards of supervisors do not assess the railroad property lying within their respective districts; but fix the proportion of the

(3) Boards of Review.—As has been said, the powers of boards of review are to be strictly construed,¹ and it is only when author-aggregate assessment made by the executive council which shall be subject to the local taxes of their district. Illinois Cent. R. v. Hamilton County, 73 Iowa 313.

Authority Exclusive.—The authority of the state board is, in such cases, exclusive. People v. Sacramento County, 59 Cal. 321.

And it has been held under the Illinois statutes, that local assessors cannot assess a railroad right of way, notwithstanding the company has by mistake, but without fraud, failed to return as right of way sufficient area to the state board. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Goar, 118 Ill. 134.

Must Be Strictly Construed.—But their power is to be strictly construed and confined to the designated classes, everything else being required to be assessed by the local assessors. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Paddock, 75 Ill. 616; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 53 Ark. 58; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 85 Ky. 198; Red Willow County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 26 Neb. 660. And see Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 118 U. S. 394; California v. Central Pac. R. Co., 127 U. S. 1; San Francisco v. Central Pac. R. Co., 63 Cal. 469; 49 Am. Rep. 98; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Yavapai County (Arizona, 1889), 21 Pac. Rep. 768.

An assessment by both would be a double assessment, and the one not authorized by the facts is void. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 99 Ill. 464.

Repair and machine shops situated upon lands other than the right of way, but connected with the main line by a side track, should, under the Idaho statute, be assessed by the local assessor rather than by the board of equalization. Oregon S. L. R. Co. v. Yeates (Idaho, 1888), 17 Pac. Rep. 457.

Valuation—Standard of Local Assessors.—Boards of equalization should fix the value of property assessed by them, at a fair valuation, without reference to the valuation fixed upon other property by the local assessors. State v. Bettie, 50 N. J. L. 132; Pacific Hotel Co. v. Lieb, 83 Ill. 602.

An assessment against railroad property, based upon a valuation a little above its admitted value, is valid, though the town assessors have assessed other property in the same township at one-third its value. Illinois, etc., R. Co. v. Stookey, 122 Ill. 358. But see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Livingston County, 68 Ill. 458; Bureau County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Ill. 229.

In Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1, it was held that, under a statute providing that the state board shall accept the valuation of the local assessors as a correct standard of value, it cannot take their valuation when they have illegally taken but a small percentage of what they deem to be the true value of the property assessed by them.

But in Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385, where the local assessors assessed property at half its actual value, and the city board of equalization, after equalizing it, assessed the property of railroads and other corporations on the same basis, instead of at its fair cash value, as the statute required, their action was upheld as being in accordance with the constitutional mandate requiring uniformity, rather than the literal terms of the statute.

Under the Missouri statutes relating to taxing railroads, the board of equalization must adopt the same rates as that applied by the general assessors to property of individuals. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 92 Mo. 137. And see People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684.

1. Mercier v. New Orleans, 38 La. Ann. 958; State v. Covington, 35 S. Car. 245; Indianapolis v. Sturdevant, 24 Ind. 391; People v. Delaware County, 60 N. Y. 381; Marsh v. Bowen, 72 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 1; Suydam v. Merrick County, 19 Neb. 155; State v. Hudson County, 46 N. J. L. 93; Williamson's Estate, 153 Pa. St. 508.

The power to correct the tax roll does not include the power to change assessments; the words "change" and "correct" not being equivalent in meaning. Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206. Nor does power to correct and add to the assessments returned, authorize the board to remove any names it may judge to have been unlawfully placed thereon. Biggs v. Buckingham (Del. 1892), 23 Atl. Rep. 858.

When a board of review is authorized to alter assessments under certain speci-ized by statute that they have power to add to the roll property omitted by the assessors,¹ or to strike out assessments not properly made,² or to increase or decrease valuations.³ But fied circumstances, the existence of such circumstances is a condition precedent to its action. People v. Goldtree, 44 Cal. 323; Oregon, etc., Sav. Bank v. Catlin, 15 Oregon 342; McGee v. State, 32 Neb. 149; People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; Adrianse v. New York, 12 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 224; Shove v. Manitowoc, 57 Wis. 5; Buddenuth v. St. Louis Bridge Co., 123 Ill. 535; 5 Am. St. Rep. 545.

Boards of review cannot assess additional taxes for previous years upon land, on a subsequent increased valuation, after the taxes for such years have been paid. Sudderth v. Brittain, 76 N. Car. 458.

1. Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 8 Oregon 337; Royce v. Jenney, 50 Iowa 676; King v. Parker, 73 Iowa 757. And see Cameron v. Cappeller, 41 Ohio St. 533; Parker v. Van Steenburg, 68 Iowa 174; Connor v. Waxahachie (Tex. 1889), 13 S. W. Rep. 30; Ferris v. Kimble, 75 Tex. 476.

Under the Iowa code, this may be done after the supervisors have fixed the rate for the year. Parker v. Van Steenburg, 68 Iowa 174.

When not authorized by statute, they have no such power. Williams v. Greensburgh, etc., Turnpike Co., 42 Ind. 171; Pavey v. Greenburgh, etc., Turnpike Co., 42 Ind. 400; Manford v. Pleasant Grove, etc., Turnpike Co., 42 Ind. 293; Mercier v. New Orleans, 38 La. Ann. 958; Pacific R. Co. v. Cass County, 53 Mo. 17; Paul v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 35; Powder River Cattle Co. v. Custer County, 45 Fed. Rep. 323; Marsh v. Bowen, 12 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 1.

The authority of a board, under the Wisconsin statute, to place upon the roll any property known by them to have been omitted, refers to tangible property and not to money or credits. Shove v. Manitowoc, 57 Wis. 5.

Under the Kansas statute, they may raise or lower the valuation placed upon personal property, but have no power to assess property not already listed. Pomeroy Coal Co. v. Emlen, 44 Kan. 117; McCrie v. Emlen, 44 Kan. 124.

2. Royce v. Jenney, 50 Iowa 676; Harris v. Fremont County, 63 Iowa 639; State v. Ormsby County, 7 Nev. 392.

Under a power to correct erroneous assessments, the board may change an assessment by striking out the names of two non-resident executors, and allow it to stand against the resident executor. People v. Coleman, 42 Hun (N. Y.) 581.

In Illinois, they may give relief against the assessment of property which is exempt. Preston v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 625. But in Louisiana, tax arbitrators have no power to determine what is and what is not exempt. State v. Board of Assessors, 30 La. Ann. 261. And in Mississippi, they cannot place exempt property on the rolls. Meridian v. Phillips, 65 Miss. 362.

They cannot decide on the legality of a tax, Taylor Tp. v. Moore, 39 Iowa 605; the proper function of the board being to review the judgment exercised by the board of assessors in distributing the tax, not to judge of its legality. Matter of Lange, 85 N. Y. 307. And see State v. Dowling, 50 Mo. 134; Babcock v. Granville, 44 Vt. 325.

Power to "correct and add to the assessments returned," and make "addition to and corrections of the assessment list," does not authorize the board to remove names it may deem to be unlawfully thereon. And a statute prohibiting it from taking from the assessment list any name legally appearing thereon, does not by implication empower it to remove a name illegally appearing thereon. Biggs v. Buckingham (Del. 1892), 23 Atl. Rep. 858.

In Florida, the county commissioners have no power to raise or lower the valuation of railroad property assessed by the city comptroller. Pensacola v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 21 Fla. 492.

3. Wells v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Cal. 194; Pulaski County v. Board of Equalization Cases, 49 Ark. 518; State v. Board of Assessors, 30 La. Ann. 261; Collier v. Morrow, 90 Ga. 148; Fratz v. Mueller, 35 Ohio St. 397; State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427; Tweed v. Metcalf, 4 Mich. 579; Smith v. Jones County, 30 Iowa 531; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 245; Lawrence v. Janesville, 46 Wis. 364; Shove v. Manitowoc, 57 Wis. 5; McIntyre v. White Creek, 43 Wis. 630; State v. Gaylord, 73 Wis. 306; State v. Ormsby County, 7 Nev. 392; Pomeroy Coal Co. v. Emlen, 44 Kan. 117; Gillett v.

they are usually authorized to make all proper changes and corrections.¹

c. NECESSITY OF NOTICE—(1) Of Meetings of Boards of Review.—Whenever boards of review are authorized to alter assess-

Lyon County, 30 Kan. 166; Braden v. Union Trust Co., 25 Kan. 362; State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Whilbeck v. Mercantile Nat. Bank, 127 U. S. 193; Darling v. Gunn, 50 Ill. 424; International, etc., R. Co. v. Smith County, 54 Tex. 1. And see Sioux City, etc., R. Co., v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30; Humphreys v. Safe Deposit Co., 29 Ohio St. 608.

Where property is assessed for its full value, instead of for the value of the plaintiff's interest therein, it is an overvaluation to be remedied by an application for abatement. Fall v. Marysville, 19 Cal. 391.

Where provision is made for a reference to arbitrators when the taxpayer and assessor disagree, the arbitrators have power to fix the assessment at the true valuation, regardless of the amount returned by the taxpayer or fixed by the assessor. Collier v. Morrow, 90 Ga. 148. And see Pulaski County Board of Equalization Cases, 49 Ark. 518.

An increase in the assessment will, in the absence of proof, be presumed to have been made as a correction of the valuation, and not as a penalty which the board had no right to impose. Wauwatosa v. Gunyon, 25 Wis. 271.

On a petition for abatement, the assessment cannot be raised. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546. And in Illinois, the county board, in counties under township organization, can only increase the valuation on property assessed after the time fixed for reviewing assessments by the assessor, town clerk, and supervisor. Coolbaugh v. Huck, 86 Ill. 600.

Under the Nevada statute, the board of county commissioners is empowered to modify, equalize, or discharge any supplemental assessments, upon proper application of the party in interest. State v. Ormsby County, 7 Nev. 392. And in New Hampshire, the selectmen may abate a tax for good cause shown. Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; Perry's Petition, 16 N. H. 44; Briggs' Petition, 29 N. H. 547; Manchester Mills v. Manchester, 57 N. H. 309.

Under the Massachusetts statutes, county commissioners, on an appeal for an abatement of taxes, are required to estimate the property at its fair cash value, irrespective of the value placed by the assessors upon similar property in the same district. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372.

In Indiana, an assessment cannot be increased by the auditor, even though the undervaluation be fraudulent. Williams v. Segur, 106 Ind. 368. And in Florida, boards of county commissioners are without power to raise or lower the valuation of railroad property assessed by the state comptroller. Pensacola v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 21 Fla. 492.

Power to remit or reduce taxes gives no authority to exempt from taxation property which under the law is not exempt. People v. Campbell, 93 N. Y. 196.

Erroneous Penalties.—In case of erroneous imposition of the "four-fold tax," or any other irregularity, the court will abate as much as equity requires, leaving the rest in force. Perry's Petition, 16 N. H. 44; Coheco Mfg. Co. v. Stafford, 51 N. H. 455. And see Walker v. Cochran, 8 N. H. 166.

Poverty and inability to pay have been held to constitute a proper ground for abatement by the selectmen. Briggs' Petition, 29 N. H. 547.

1. See Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 8 Oregon 337; Weaver v. State, 39 Ala. 535; Spring Valley Water Works v. Schottler, 62 Cal. 69; Darling v. Gunn, 50 Ill. 424; Smith v. Jones County, 30 Iowa 531; King v. Parker, 73 Iowa 757; Parker v. Van Steenburg, 68 Iowa 174; State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120; International, etc., R. Co. v. Smith County, 54 Tex. 1; State v. Myers, 52 Wis. 628; Briggs' Petition, 29 N. H. 547; Coheco Mfg. Co. v. Strafford, 51 N. H. 455; Melvin v. Weare, 56 N. H. 436; Carpenter v. Dallou, 58 N. H. 615.

Under a provision that if it shall appear to the board of review that there are "any lands, lots, or property not assessed, said board shall make the proper corrections," it has power to raise an assessment by adding property not included therein. Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 8 Oregon 337.

The action of commissioners of ments, the parties affected should have notice of the time and place of meeting,¹ and opportunity to be heard before the proceedings become effectual;² and substantial compliance with statutory requirements on the subject, both as to the form of notice and manner of bringing it to the attention of the taxpayer, is essenappeal in changing an assessment by city lots to an assessment by the acre, without changing the value of the entire tract, does not invalidate the assessment. State v. VanHorn, 40 N. J. L. 143.

1. Patten v. Green, 13 Cal. 325; Haggenmeyer v. Board of Equalization, 82 Cal. 214; Darling v. Gunn, 50 Ill. 424; People v. Ward, 105 Ill. 620; South Platte Land Co. v. Buffalo County, 7 Neb. 253; Alleghany County v. New York Min. Co., 76 Md. 549; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49; State v. Carragan, 37 N. J. L. 264; State v. Harrison, 39 N. J. L. 51; Auer v. Dubuque, 65 Iowa 650; Avery v. East Saginaw, 44 Mich. 587; Thomas v. Gain, 35 Mich. 155; 24 Am. Rep. 535; Dool v. Cassopolis, 42 Mich. 547; Maurer v. Cliff, 94 Mich. 104; Relfe v. Columbia L. Ins. Co., 11 Mo. App. 374; Scott v. Brackett, 89 Ind. 413; Kuntz v. Sumption, 117 Ind. 1; Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; French v. Edwards, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 506; Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 179; Exchange Bank Tax Cases, 21 Fed. Rep. 99; Dean v. Aiken, 48 Vt. 541; Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Brennan, 69 Miss. 103; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Russell, 8 Kan. 558; Gibbons v. Adamson, 44 Kan. 203; New Orleans v. St. Romes, 28 La. Ann. 17; New Orleans v. Stewart, 28 La. Ann. 180. But see Collier v. Morrow, 90 Ga. 148.

A statute conferring power upon a tribunal to finally dispose of the property rights of an individual, which fails to provide for notice, denies to the citizen due process of law and is unconstitutional. Kuntz v. Sumption, 117 Ind. 1.

The legislature may prescribe the form of notice and manner of giving it, but cannot dispense with notice altogether. Scott v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 4 Ry. & Corp. L. J. 538. And a statutory provision that no person shall be heard to question the equalization of an assessment, unless he shall have first made such objection before the board of review, is valid only when reasonable time and opportunity is afforded for making such objection. Bratton v. Johnson Tp., 76 Wis. 430.

But the notice of a proposed increase in an assessment need not specify the property to be added thereto. Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 18 Oregon 377.

In McIntyre v. White Creek, 43 Wis. 620, it was held to be the duty of the town board of review to notify a resident taxpayer before increasing the assessor's valuation of his property; but that a failure to do so is a mere irregularity not available to avoid the tax without proof of substantial injustice.

The giving of an inventory by a taxpayer is not an equivalent for a notice to him of the assessment, and the time and place for hearing complaints, and he is entitled to such notice, even though he willfully refuses to make an inventory. Brush v. Buker, 56 Vt. 143.

What Constitutes Raising.—Where the assessor makes valuations in a memorandum book, and after consultation with the other members of the board, raises them on the final assessment, it has been held not such a raising of valuation as will require a notice to be given the owners. Kissimmee City v. Cannon, 26 Fla. 3. And adding omitted property to the rolls is not a raising of the assessment within a statute requiring a board of equalization to give notice of the raising of an assessment. Jackson v. Chizum, 78 Iowa 209; Kiehl v. Chizum, 78 Iowa 213.

Joint or Common Owners.—In Perkins v. Zumstein, 4 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 371, it was held that notice of intent to increase a valuation, served on an owner of an undivided interest, will not bind any of the other owners nor authorize the board to increase the valuation even as against the one served.

2. Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30; Hough v. Hastings, 18 Ill. 312; Alleghany County v. New York R. Co., 76 Md. 549.

Though the notice be in due form, if the board fails to meet at the time fixed, the levy is invalid. Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112; Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 246. And a taxpayer has the right to assume that the board tial.¹ Notice may usually be given by publication in a newspawill remain in session for the statutory time, and to arrange to be present on any day he may choose. Caledonia Tp. v. Rose, 94 Mich. 216. But a postponement at the instance of the taxpayer will not affect the action of the board. Faribault Water Works Co. v. Rice County, 44 Minn. 12.

The notice will not justify the alteration of one class of assessments when it states an intention to correct errors in another class only. Dool v. Cassopolis, 42 Mich. 547.

Notice of Reduction Not Necessary.—But it is not necessary to give formal notice of the reduction of a tax before proceeding to collect it. Com. v. New England Slate Co., 3 Allen (Mass.) 391.

1. Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 245; Alleghany County v. New York Min. Co., 76 Md. 549; Cleveland County v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 86 N. Car. 541.

Service on the party's tenant is not sufficient. State v. Drake, 33 N. J. L. 194.

Notice posted at the city hall complies with a statute requiring "legal notice." Brunswick v. Finney, 54 Ga. 317. And it may be given by mail. Hagenmeyer v. Board of Equalization, 82 Cal. 214.

A newspaper advertisement signed by the city treasurer who is only an ex officio member of the board, is not a notice by the board. Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112.

In Missouri, it is not required that an actual personal notice be given. State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450. But in Indiana, it has been held that a general notice to the public by publication or posting, is not such notice to an individual taxpayer as is required to authorize a change in the valuation of his property. Kuntz v. Sumption, 117 Ind. 1.

In New Jersey, where notice is required and has not been given, the assessment will be reduced to the valuation made by the assessor, unless evidence is taken to show its insufficiency, and application is made under the act of 1881 to increase it, State v. Love, 47 N. J. L. 436; and an injunction will lie against the collection of the excess. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Brennan, 69 Miss. 103.

Computation of Time.—When notice is given to appear within a certain time, the time for appearance is to be computed as including the day of notice. Hagenmeyer v. Board of Equalization, 82 Cal. 214.

Proof of Notice.—The testimony of the assessor that notice was duly posted, and of a person employed in his office that during that time he posted such notice, coupled with the presumption that the officers did their duty, is sufficient to sustain a finding that notice was posted. Oswego County v. Betts, 6 N. Y. Supp. 934; 53 Hun (N. Y.) 638.

Where no written return or special mode of proof of service of the notice is prescribed, the fact of service by mail may be established by any proper legal testimony, either oral or in writing; and the oral evidence of the clerk that notice was duly mailed is sufficient to establish the fact. Hagenmeyer v. Board of Equalization, 82 Cal. 214.

The absence of notice cannot be proved unless alleged. King v. Parker, 73 Iowa 757.

In Stell v. Watson (Ark. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 822, it was held that failure to give notice required by statute, does not affect the jurisdiction of the board. And in Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488, it was held that notice need not be given for the correction of any error or informality not affecting the substantial justice of the tax itself. See also Scammon v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 269; State v. Love, 49 N. J. L. 235, aff'd 47 N. J. L. 436; Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502; McIntyre v. White Creek, 43 Wis. 620.

But in the absence of provision as to its form and manner of service, any reasonable notice is sufficient. See Farmers', etc., Bank v. Board of Equalization, 97 Cal. 318; Spring Valley Water Works v. Schottler, 62 Cal. 69; Faribault Water Works Co. v. Rice County, 44 Minn. 12; State v. Board of Equalization, 108 Mo. 235; State v. Kearney Tp. (N. J. 1892), 25 Atl. Rep. 327; Black v. McGonigle, 103 Mo. 192; Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20.

In People v. Tax Comr's, 31 Hun (N. Y.) 235, a notice given to a person named as executor in a will, two days before the probate of the will, was held to have been properly given.

In Smith v. Hard, 61 Vt. 469, it was held that a notice of the day and place of the meeting of a board of equalizaper,¹ and a statute prescribing the time and place at which the board shall meet and hear complaints, is sufficient notice.² But tion is sufficient, though it does not give the hour, in the absence of evidence that a person complaining has suffered injury by the omission.

Notice after change is sufficient if opportunity to be heard and obtain a reinstatement of the original assessment is then given. Rockafellow v. Board of Equalization, 77 Iowa 493.

1. In the absence of statutory provision as to the particular mode of giving it. State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98; Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112. And see Brunswick v. Finney, 54 Ga. 317; State v. Jersey City, 25 N. J. L. 309; State v. Jersey City, 28 N. J. L. 500.

Such Notice Constitutional.—Provision for such notice is constitutional. Lamb v. Connolly, 122 N. Y. 531; Pithian v. Wheeler, 125 N. Y. 696; Terrel v. Wheeler, 123 N. Y. 76; Matter of De Peyster, 80 N. Y. 565; Wabash Eastern R. Co. v. Drainage Dist., 134 Ill. 384. And see Serrill v. New Orleans, 27 La. Ann. 520.

Under statutes requiring notice to non-resident landowners by publication in some newspaper, the notice need not address the landowner by name, but may simply describe the land, and an error in the number designating the town is fatal. Miller v. Graham, 17 Ohio St. 1.

2. Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 385; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Hyland v. Brazil, etc., Coal Co., 128 Ind. 335; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 625; Gillett v. Lyon County, 30 Kan. 166; Spalding v. Hill, 86 Ky. 656; Methodist Protestant Church v. Baltimore, 6 Gill (Md.) 391; O'Neal v. Virginia, etc., Bridge Co., 18 Md. 26; 79 Am. Dec. 669; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30; People v. Lothrop, 3 Colo. 428; Nixon v. Ruple, 30 N. J. L. 58; State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98; St. Paul v. Merritt, 7 Minn. 258; State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Worthen, 52 Ark. 529; Hambleton v. Dempsey, 20 Ohio 168; Snell v. Fort Dodge, 45 Iowa 564; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 513; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 609; Smith v. Rude, etc., Mfg. Co., 131 Ind. 150. And see

Pulaski County Board of Equalization Cases, 49 Ark. 518; Evans v. Gage, 1 Ill. App. 202; Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 245; Oregon, etc., R. Co. v. Lane County (Oregon), 1893, 31 Pac. Rep. 964; Glenn v. Raine (Ohio), 30 Wkly. Law Bull. 30; In re McLean (Supreme Ct.), 6 N. Y. Supp. 230.

In such case, the ignorance of an assessment made against a taxpayer does not excuse him for failure to appear before the board to have it corrected, if erroneous. Nugent v. Bates, 51 Iowa 77; 32 Am. Rep. 117.

Many cases hold that such provisions are sufficient to authorize the board either to raise, lower, or otherwise alter assessments as it may deem just, without further notice. State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450; Baird v. Williams, 49 Ark. 518; Collier v. Morrow, 90 Ga. 148; Scammon v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 269; Gillett v. Lyon County, 30 Kan. 166; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87; Suydam v. Merrick County, 19 Neb. 155. And see State v. Bonnell, 49 N. J. L. 317; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575.

But some of the states have adopted the rule that additions cannot be made or valuations increased, without direct notice to the person whose rights and interests are thereby affected. Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30; South Platte Land Co. v. Buffalo County, 7 Neb. 253; Patten v. Green, 13 Cal. 325; Glassford v. Dorsey, 2 Ill. App. 521; Cleghorn v. Postlewait, 43 Ill. 428; Darling v. Gunn, 50 Ill. 424; McConkey v. Smith, 73 Ill. 313; Coolbaugh v. Huck, 86 Ill. 600; Henkle v. Keota, 68 Iowa 334; Leavenworth County v. Lang, 8 Kan. 284; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Russell, 8 Kan. 558; Allegany County v. Union Min. Co., 61 Md. 545; Relfe v. Columbia L. Ins. Co., 11 Mo. App. 374; State v. Northern Belle Mill, etc., Co., 12 Nev. 89; State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450; Appar v. Hayward, 53 N. Y. Super. Ct. 357; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; Avant v. Flynn (S. Dak.), 49 N. W. Rep. 15; Matheson v. Mazomanie, 20 Wis. 191; Lawrence v. Janesville, 46 Wis. 364. And see State v. Kearney Tp. (N. J. 1892), 25 Atl. Rep. 327.

a party, by appearing before the board and objecting to an assessment, waives notice.¹

(2) Of Meetings of Boards of Equalization.—A board of equalization may raise or lower the entire assessment of any particular district without notice to the individual taxpayers or the people of the district.²

f. PROCEEDINGS OF BOARDS.—A board of equalization or review can act in the equalization or correction of assessments, only when sitting as a board for that purpose³ at the time and

In any event, if the board meets at any other time or place than that appointed by law, notice of the time and place must be given. Nixon v. Ruple, 30 N. J. L. 38; Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112.

Before the enactment of the Kansas statutes of 1876, assessments of personal property could not be changed except on notice to the owner, Gillett v. Lyon County, 30 Kan. 166; Leavenworth County v. Lang, 8 Kan. 287; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Wyandotte County, 16 Kan. 587; St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 19 Kan. 225; though a board of equalization had power to change those of real estate without such personal notice. Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Russel, 8 Kan. 558. But under that statute, power was given to such boards to also change assessments of personal property without notice. Gillett v. Lyon County, 30 Kan. 166.

1. Henkle v. Keota, 68 Iowa 338; Hutchinson v. Board of Equalization, 66 Iowa 35; Spring Valley Water Works v. Schottler, 62 Cal. 69; Jewell v. Van Steenburgh, 58 N. Y. 85; Taber v. Wilson, 34 Mo. App. 89; Brown v. Weatherby, 71 Mo. 152; State v. Board of Equalization, 108 Mo. 235; McGee v. State, 32 Neb. 149; State v. Gaylord, 73 Wis. 306; State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

In Collier v. Morrow, 90 Ga. 148, it was held that a taxpayer availing himself of the benefit of a statute providing for the selection of arbitrators to decide as to the propriety of his assessment, cannot complain that the mode of assessment is unconstitutional because the statute fails to make provision for notice or hearing.

One cannot complain that he had no legal notice of the proceeding when it appears that it had previously been twice continued at his instance. Tillis v. Covington County, 91 Ala. 396. And see Faribault Water Works Co. v. Rice County, 44 Minn. 12.

Special Appearance.—A taxpayer does not waive his right to object, however, by merely appearing in court and resisting an entry of judgment against his property for the tax. Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 245.

An appearance waives defects in the notice, Farmers', etc., Bank v. Board of Equalization, 97 Cal. 318; and if objection is not then made, the sufficiency of the acts of the board cannot be afterwards impeached. Hamilton v. Ames, 74 Mich. 298. And a defect in a notice may be waived by taking an extension of time for payment, or by a voluntary payment. Louden v. East Saginaw, 41 Mich. 18.

Presence at Time of Change.—If the owner or his agent is present at the time the change is made and knows of such change, his knowledge is equivalent to notice. Avant v. Flynn (S. Dak. 1891), 49 N. W. Rep. 15; State v. Board of Equalization, 108 Mo. 235; Faribault Water Works Co. v. Rice County, 44 Minn. 12.

2. Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87; State v. Edwards, 26 Neb. 701; on rehearing, 31 Neb. 369; Dundy v. Richardson County, 8 Neb. 508; Fields v. Russell, 38 Kan. 720; Spalding v. Hill, 86 Ky. 656.

3. Sumner v. Colfax County, 14 Neb. 524.

The fact that the county clerk recorded the proceedings of the board of equalization in a journal containing also the proceedings of the board of county commissioners, will not invalidate the action of the board of equalization; especially where the irregularities are not such as could mislead a taxpayer. Fowler v. Russell, 45 Kan. 425.

Under the Nevada statutes, action may be taken by the assessors to modify, equalize, or discharge assessments, irrespective of the character of the session of the board. State v. Ormsby County, 7 Nev. 392.

place provided by law,¹ though statutes, fixing the time of meeting of boards of equalization before whom no contest by parties interested is contemplated, are usually considered merely direct-

1. Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30; Tierney v. Brown, 67 Miss. 109; 7 Am. St. Rep. 679; Yazoo Delta Invest. Co. v. Sud-doth, 70 Miss. 416; Powers v. Larabee (N. Dak. 1891), 49 N. W. Rep. 724. And see Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Wil-son, 35 Kan. 175; St. Joseph Lead Co. v. Simms, 103 Mo. 222; Hyland v. Brazil, etc., Coal Co., 128 Ind. 335; Wiley v. Flournoy, 30 Ark. 609. And see Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1.

A provision requiring boards of review to meet upon certain specified days, is mandatory. Caledonia Tp. v. Rose, 94 Mich. 216. And in Nebraska, the power of the county commissioners to hold sessions as a board of equaliza-tion, is limited to the period of ten days, commencing on the third Mon-day of June of each year. Sumner v. Colfax County, 14 Neb. 524.

But the failure of the board to re-main in session from day to day until objections to the assessments have been determined and the proper cor-rections made, will not render the as-sessment illegal, where sufficient time was given for hearing and determining objections, and the rolls were subse-quently approved by the board. Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1.

In People v. Queens County, 82 N. Y. 275, it was held that the jurisdiction of a board of supervisors to amend an assessment roll, terminates with the levy of the tax and a delivery of the roll and warrant to the proper officer for its collection.

Though the first attempt by a board to approve an assessment roll is made at an unauthorized meeting, the assess-ment will be valid if regularly approved afterwards. Cato v. Gordon, 63 Miss. 320.

But when the board has met and acted and the prescribed time has expired, any further action by it will be void. Wiley v. Flournoy, 30 Ark. 609; Phillips v. New Buffalo Tp., 64 Mich. 683. And see State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 172. But see Nova Ceasarea, etc., Lodge v. Haggerty (Ohio), 28 Wkly. Law Bull. 67.

After an assessment roll is equalized and completed and certified as required by law, it cannot be tampered with or changed, either by the board of equalization itself or by its members. Weston v. Monroe, 84 Mich. 341. And see Peo-ple v. Schenectady County, 35 Barb. (N.Y.) 408.

Adjournment from Day to Day.—In Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89, it was held that where the board meets upon the day prescribed by law and adjourns from time to time, an equalization after-wards made will be regarded as made at the meeting held on the prescribed day. See also Challiss v. Rigg, 49 Kan. 119. And where the statute authorizes the board to meet and adjourn from day to day until the hearing of all cases is finished, the sickness and death of a member of the board, and the pendency of proceedings for the elec-tion of his successor, are sufficient rea-sons for an adjournment from day to day. St. Louis Bridge Co. v. People, 128 Ill. 422.

But where it is provided that they shall not sit after a certain day, and they adjourn until a day subsequent to that date, their power ceases for the year. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 270.

Meeting Presumed Legal.—In Tierney v. Brown, 65 Miss. 563; 7 Am. St. Rep. 679, it was held that the meeting of the board of supervisors not held at an au-thorized time, will be presumed to have been an adjourned meeting, and there-fore legal, in the absence of proof that it was not such a meeting as might have been legally called and held at that time.

Waiver of Error as to Time.—An ap-pearance before a board at a time or place other than that fixed by law is a waiver of the defect. State v. Thomas, 17 N. J. L. 160; State v. Cooper, 59 Wis. 666. And see Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Yavapai County (Arizona, 1889), 21 Pac. Rep. 768; O'Neil v. Tyler (N. Dak. 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 434.

Sundays Not Included.—A statutory requirement that the assessors fix a day for their meeting for the revision and correction of assessments, declaring that they shall continue in session during the business hours of each and every secular day, for a period of twenty successive days, means twenty successive secular days. Walker v. Chicago, 56 Ill. 277.

ory.¹ A method of procedure prescribed by statute is exclusive of all other modes,² but, in proceedings before such boards, the rules of practice in civil actions do not usually apply,³ and provision for trial by a jury may be constitutionally omitted.⁴

It is usually necessary, in order to give a board jurisdiction to review an assessment, that a complaint, either oral or in writing, be filed,⁵ which may be done by anyone liable to assess-

1. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 391. And see St. Louis Bridge Co. v. People, 128 Ill. 422; Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89; Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561; Nashville Sav. Bank v. Nashville, 3 Tenn. Ch. 362; Faribault Water Works Co. v. Rice County, 44 Minn. 12.

2. Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30; State v. New Lindell Hotel Co., 9 Mo. App. 450.

When a board has power to adjourn, it may do so for the purpose of correcting errors in the previous proceedings. Black v. McGonigle, 103 Mo. 192.

In the absence of statutory provision, the board has implied power to make such reasonable rules and regulations as it may deem best. Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561.

3. Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 18 Oregon 377; People v. State Assessors, 47 Hun (N. Y.) 450; Gager v. Prout, 48 Ohio St. 89.

Under the Oregon statutes, where a taxpayer appears before a board of equalization in pursuance of notice, and files an answer, it is not necessary that a reply to such answer be filed. Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 18 Oregon 377.

4. Ross v. Crawford County, 16 Kan. 411; Cocheco Mfg. Co. v. Strafford, 51 N. H. 455; Davis v. Clinton, 55 Iowa 549. And see Dunleith, etc., Bridge Co. v. Dubuque County, 55 Iowa 558.

The court may, in its discretion, send an issue to a jury. Cocheco Mfg. Co. v. Strafford, 51 N. H. 455.

5. State v. Northern Belle Mill, etc., Co., 12 Nev. 89; State v. Washoe County, 14 Nev. 140; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259; Griswold v. Union School Dist., 24 Mich. 262; People v. Goldtree, 44 Cal. 323; Los Angeles v. Los Angeles City Water Works Co., 49 Cal. 638; State v. Dodge County, 20 Neb. 595; Suydam v. Merrick County, 19 Neb. 155; Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; People v. Forrest, 30 Hun (N. Y.) 240.

A written complaint is necessary in Nebraska. State v. Dodge County, 20 Neb. 595; Suydam v. Merrick County, 19 Neb. 155. And in California the application must not only be written, but also verified. Garretson v. Santa Barbara County, 61 Cal. 54.

But in Arkansas the board may act without complaint being made against the assessors' returns. Pulaski County Board of Equalization Cases, 49 Ark. 518.

Where a party appears and moves to set aside an order increasing his assessment made without a complaint being filed, such appearance does not confer jurisdiction by relation; and the refusal to set aside the order does not make it valid. People v. Goldtree, 44 Cal. 323.

In State v. McClurg, 27 N. J. L. 253, it was held that if an insufficient affidavit is presented to the commissioners of appeal, the party presenting it has the right to make an amended affidavit, and the commissioners are bound to receive it.

The statement and affidavits must clearly entitle the taxpayer to the desired relief. People v. Tax Com'rs, 33 Barb. (N. Y.) 116. And see State v. Thompson, 2 N. H. 236; Slaughter v. Louisville, 89 Ky. 112; Bratton v. Johnson Tp., 76 Wis. 430. In New Hampshire, an applicant to the selectmen for abatement, is not bound to show cause before the hearing; and if they neglect unreasonably to afford him a hearing, he may apply by petition to the circuit court. Melvin v. Weare, 56 N. H. 436.

The complaint may be amended so as to limit it to certain parcels of property. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 146 Mass. 403.

When a list or return is required, its rendition in the prescribed manner and form is a condition precedent to the right to relief, and when rendered it is conclusive upon the taxpayer. See infra, this title, Remedies for Erroneous and Illegal Taxation, sub-title, General Rights of the Taxpayer as to

ment,¹ whether the injustice is caused by overvaluation of his own property or undervaluation of that of others.² Boards may generally act upon their own knowledge or personal examination, or any other information or evidence satisfactory to themselves,³ though some statutes only authorize boards of review to Remedies. And see also supra, this title, Listing.

1. Dundee Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Charlton, 32 Fed. Rep. 192. And see Dewey v. Stratford, 40 N. H. 203; Carpenter v. Dalton, 58 N. H. 615; State v. Edwards, 26 Neb. 701.

In Griswold v. Union School Dist., 24 Mich. 262, it was held that a board of review can examine the assessment roll, and review a valuation of property thereon, only on application of a party concerned. See also People v. Forrest, 96 N. Y. 544; Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 599.

Non-resident taxpayers are entitled to apply for the abatement of an illegal or unjust tax, equally with residents, upon complying with the requisitions of the statute; and such compliance will be presumed where there is no palpable violation of such requisitions. Winnissimmet County v. Chelsea, 6 Cush. (Mass.) 477; Hicks v. Westport, 130 Mass. 480; Dewey v. Stratford, 40 N. H. 203.

A conveyance of land to trustees to secure an indebtedness is only a mortgage, and does not preclude the owner from claiming the title in fee, and seeking relief against an illegal tax. Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Auditor Gen'l, 41 Mich. 635.

A bank and its receiver have no such interest in the stock as to warrant an application by them for an abatement of the tax on the shares. People v. Wall St. Bank, 39 Hun (N. Y.) 525. But where, under a state law, the bank furnishes the assessor with a list of its shareholders, and practically itself makes the return, it may petition for an abatement. National Bank of Commerce v. New Bedford, 155 Mass. 313; Price v. Kramer, 4 Colo. 546.

2. Dundee Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Charlton, 32 Fed. Rep. 192. And see Walsh v. King, 74 Mich. 354; Auditor Gen'l v. Jenkinson, 90 Mich. 523; Merrill v. Humphrey, 24 Mich. 170; State v. Edwards, 26 Neb. 701; State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427.

Under a provision permitting any person whose property is assessed, on sufficient cause shown, to apply for relief, a mortgagor can ask for a correction of the assessment of the mortgagee's interest as well as his own. Detroit v. Board of Assessors, 91 Mich. 78.

In Re Des Moines Water Co., 48 Iowa 324, it was held that no one has a right to appear before a board of equalization as a party to a proceeding, and have another's assessment corrected or raised. See also Gilkey v. Merrill, 67 Wis. 459.

A city interested on account of its revenues may make the application through its mayor. St. Louis Bridge Co. v. People, 128 Ill. 422.

Assessments for Benefits.—One against whom benefits are assessed, but whose land is not taken, cannot show an excessive valuation upon lands which are taken, but only that his property was not benefited to the amount of the assessment. St. Louis v. Speck, 67 Mo. 403.

3. Griswold v. Union School Dist., 24 Mich. 262; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; Grand Rapids v. Welleman, 85 Mich. 234; Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Polak, 75 Ill. 292; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Surrrell, 88 Ill. 535; Pulaski County Board of Equalization Cases, 49 Ark. 518; Grimes v. Burlington, 74 Iowa 123; Smith v. Jones County, 30 Iowa 531; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Equalization, 64 Mo. 294; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120; McIntyre v. White Creek, 43 Wis. 620; Shove v. Manitowoc, 57 Wis. 7; State v. Roe, 36 N. J. L. 86; Fields v. Russell, 38 Kan. 720; New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604; People v. Hadley, 76 N. Y. 337.

They may avail themselves of such means of information as they deem necessary. Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Riley County, 20 Kan. 141; Baird v. Williams, 49 Ark. 518; Nova Casarea, etc., Lodge v. Haggerty (Ohio), 28 Wkly. Law Bull. 67. But they cannot act arbitrarily without any evidence or knowledge of the facts. Fratz v. Mueller, 35 Ohio St. 397; Dundy v. Richardson County, 8 Neb. 508; People v. Reddy, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 539; People v. Howland, 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 273; People v. Dykes (Supreme Ct.), act upon evidence formally taken.¹ The burden of proof rests with the taxpayer to establish facts entitling him to relief.²

g. THE DETERMINATION.—An assessment will be modified or altered only to the extent that it is unlawful or unjust,³ and, as a 19 N. Y. Supp. 78; Fond du Lac Water Co. v. Fond du Lac, 82 Wis. 322.

If a board of review, arbitrarily and against all evidence before it, fixes the valuation of land beyond its real value, an injunction will lie to restrain the sale of the land for the tax. Tainter v. Lucas County, 29 Wis. 375.

In McMorran v. Wright, 74 Mich. 356, it was held that a board cannot make a rule prohibiting proof of erroneous assessment, unless the plaintiff appears in person and submits to oral examination.

In Hagenmeyer v. Board of Equalization, 82 Cal. 214, an order of the board was held conclusive that it acted upon proper evidence, unless its record showed affirmatively that it did not. And a complaint merely stating the plaintiff's testimony, and that the board refused to reduce the valuation therefrom, without stating that it was the only evidence presented, does not show that the board acted in disregard of all evidence. Tainter v. Lucas County, 29 Wis. 375. See also La Salle, etc., R. Co. v. Donoghue, 127 Ill. 27.

The affidavit of a taxpayer is not conclusive under the New York statute. People v. Tax Com'rs, 40 Barb. (N. Y.) 334.

1. A determination not based upon evidence being void. Shove v. Manitowoc, 57 Wis. 5; Phillips v. Stevens' Point, 25 Wis. 594; State v. Dodge County, 26 Neb. 595. And see State v. McClurg, 27 N. J. L. 253. See also as to a former Wisconsin rule, McIntyre v. White Creek, 43 Wis. 620; Wilson v. Heller, 32 Wis. 457.

The fact that the board of equalization fixes the same valuation for the property of a railroad company that it did for preceding years, does not raise such a presumption that it acted arbitrarily and without evidence as will overcome the legal presumption that it honestly discharged its duties. State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120.

Under the Oregon statutes, a deduction in indebtedness claimed before a board of equalization, in order to be allowed, must be presented, and the particular indebtedness must be specified and sworn to. Oregon, etc., Sav. Bank v. Catlin, 15 Oregon 342.

Under the Nevada statutes, the statement of the assessor before the board of equalization as to the value of property, is competent evidence, upon which it is authorized to act. State v. Northern Belle Mill, etc., Co., 12 Nev. 89.

The evidence is required to be confined to the value of the property in question; comparison with the valuations on other property similarly situated is not admissible. See Chicopee v. Hampden County, 16 Gray (Mass.) 38; Haven v. Essex County, 155 Mass. 467; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372; White v. Portland (Conn.), 1893, 26 Atl. Rep. 342; Alabama Mineral Land Co. v. Perry County, 95 Ala. 105; State v. Bienville Water Supply Co., 89 Ala. 325; Redd v. St. Francis County, 17 Ark. 416. Contra, Manchester Mills v. Manchester, 58 N. H. 38. And see Lowell v. Middlesex County, 146 Mass. 403.

2. People v. Davenport, 91 N. Y. 574; New Orleans Cotton Exchange v. Board of Assessors, 37 La. Ann. 423; State v. Abbott, 42 N. J. L. 109; State v. Hudson County, 46 N. J. L. 93; Jones v. Tiffin, 24 Iowa 190; People v. Adams (Supreme Ct.), 10 N. Y. Supp. 295.

An affidavit that the deponent has no property in the ward subject to taxation, is sufficient and conclusive, unless controlled by other evidence. State v. McClurg, 27 N. J. L. 253.

3. State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427; Cocheco Mfg. Co. v. Strafford, 51 N. H. 455; Pensacola v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 21 Fla. 492. And see infra, this title, Remedies for Erroneous and Illegal Taxation, sub-tit., General Rights of the Taxpayer as to Remedies.

Where a person is overtaxed for some of his property, and undertaxed to an equal or greater extent for other property, in the same assessment, he is not entitled to an abatement, but only to a correction of the erroneous form of the assessment when it is injurious to him. Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 580. And see Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372; State v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 13 Lea (Tenn.) 500.

If taxable and non-taxable property are joined in one assessment, but the whole amount is not greater than the general rule, the property should be estimated at its fair cash value, irrespective of the value placed by assessors upon other property,¹ though, where other assessments are too low, some decisions hold that a reduction will be made if the taxpayer is thereby compelled to pay more than his just share of the aggregate tax.² Usually the board is authorized merely to determine what alterations should be made and to direct the assessors to make them;³ and, if the assessors refuse or fail to act, they value of the taxable, it will be sustained. State v. Haight, 35 N. J. L. 178.

Executors cannot demand that an assessment be reduced because claims have been presented against the estate, which are not admitted, but contested. People v. Tax Com'rs, 34 Hun (N. Y.) 506.

In Boston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 64 N. H. 490, it was held that where a tax is reduced on appeal, the amount abated is to be allowed on a subsequent tax.

Where any alteration is made in the aggregate valuation, the additions or deductions so made may be expressed in any form which may by calculation be reduced to a percentage. Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12.

1. Ives v. Goshen (Conn. 1893), 26 Atl. Rep. 845; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 152 Mass. 372; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Illinois, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Stookey, 122 Ill. 358; Georgia Midland, etc., R. Co. v. State, 89 Ga. 597. And see Canfield v. Bayfield County, 74 Wis. 60.

But if they reduce it to the rate of valuation at which other property has been assessed, their action cannot be objected to. Darling v. Gunn, 50 Ill. 424.

Where the statute prescribes a rule for the valuation of a certain class of property, it cannot be varied from, although the assessors have wrongfully assessed other descriptions of property at less than their value. People v. Delaware County, 60 N. Y. 381.

In People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297, an assessment at the fair cash value of the property was held not excessive, even though assessments were made by other assessors on adjoining lands at only one-third their value. See also Challiss v. Rigg, 49 Kan. 119.

In New Jersey, the taxpayer must apply to have the low assessments raised, but he cannot have a reduction of his own. See State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427; State v. Taylor, 35 N. J. L. 189; State v. Koster, 38 N. J. L. 308; State v. Segoine, 53 N. J. L. 339.

Reduction Must Be Uniform.—In equalizing the assessment roll of the county the board is not authorized to reduce the valuation as to part of the land in a town, and not reduce all the real estate in the same town, unless the portion not reduced consists of an incorporated village. Kelley v. Corson, 11 Wis. 1.

2. People v. Carter, 109 N. Y. 576; People v. Ganley, 8 N. Y. Supp. 563; 56 Hun (N. Y.) 639; People v. Keator, 67 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 277; Manchester Mills v. Manchester, 57 N. H. 309. And see Cummings v. National Bank, 101 U. S. 153; Phillips v. Stevens' Point, 25 Wis. 594.

But in order to authorize the reduction, the average rate of other assessments must be lower. People v. Badgley, 138 N. Y. 314.

In People v. Ganley, 8 N. Y. Supp. 563; 56 Hun (N. Y.) 639, it was held that an assessment will be reduced to one-fifth of its actual value where all other property is assessed at that rate, even though such reduced assessment is prohibited by law. See also People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684.

3. Keck v. Keokuk County, 37 Iowa 547; Weaver v. State, 39 Ala. 535; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Board of Equalization, 97 Cal. 318; State v. Board of Assessors, 30 La. Ann. 261. And see Connor v. Waxahachie (Tex. 1889), 13 S. W. Rep. 30; Ferris v. Kimble, 75 Tex. 476; Duck v. Peeler, 74 Tex. 268; Gay v. Board of Assessors, 34 La. Ann. 370; People v. Clapp (Supreme Ct.), 19 N. Y. Supp. 531; People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684. But see Boody v. Watson, 64 N. H. 162.

Where a board of equalization exceeds its authority in correcting an error by its own judgment, instead of directing it to be done, it is immaterial, when the error is such that its correction is a mere ministerial duty. Weaver v. State, 39 Ala. 535.

Statutes prohibiting the enjoining or otherwise preventing the collection of may be compelled to do so by the court, under a writ of mandamus.¹

h. CONCLUSIVENESS AND EFFECT.—The acts of boards of equalization and review, in passing upon assessments, are judicial in their nature,² and their determination is conclusive and cannot be attacked collaterally,³ unless their action or determination taxes, do not prevent the issuance of an order to the county auditor to correct his tax lists by deducting the amount of an unauthorized increase in the valuation of property. State v. Cromer, 35 S. Car. 213; State v. Boyd, 35 S. Car. 233.

1. State v. Board of Assessors, 30 La. Ann. 261. And see State v. Cromer, 35 S. Car. 213; Wood v. McGuire (Supreme Ct.), 17 N. Y. Supp. 659.

The officers required to make the corrections act ministerially and can justify a refusal only upon the ground that to do so would violate the constitution of the state. Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241.

In People v. Ontario County, 85 N. Y. 323, it was held that where a decision of the state assessors equalizing and correcting an assessment roll, is forwarded to the clerk of the board of supervisors within the time prescribed by law, the board is bound to enforce the decision, and may be compelled to do so by mandamus, even though the annual session of the board has been adjourned.

Certiorari.—On the assessors' failure to act, the proper correction may be ordered in a certiorari proceeding. Keck v. Keokuk County, 37 Iowa 547.

2. Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535; People v. Goldtree, 44 Cal. 323; Moore v. Taylor, 147 Pa. St. 481; Griswold v. Union School Dist., 24 Mich. 262; State v. Dowling, 50 Mo. 134; St. Louis Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Charles, 47 Mo. 462; St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 182; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604; Bellinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; People v. Hagadorn, 104 N. Y. 516. But see Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 625.

3. Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535; Weaver v. State, 39 Ala. 535; New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604; People v. Kingston, 101 N. Y. 82; St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; Preston v. Johnson, 104

Ill. 625; Illinois, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Stookey, 122 Ill. 358; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Pollak, 75 Ill. 292; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; People v. Big Muddy Iron Co., 89 Ill. 116; Morgan v. Smithson, 9 Ill. 368; West Bend Tp. v. Brown, 47 Iowa 25; Grand Rapids v. Welleman, 85 Mich. 234; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; Atty. Gen'l v. Sanilac County, 42 Mich. 72; Williams v. Saginaw, 51 Mich. 120; Kittle v. Shervin, 11 Neb. 65; Ward v. Beale, 91 Ky. 60; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 26 Nev. 172; State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427; Pickens v. Henderson County, 112 N. Car. 698; Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Moore v. Taylor, 147 Pa. St. 481. And see Canfield v. Bayfield County, 74 Wis. 60; People v. Goldtree, 44 Cal. 323; San Jose Gas Co. v. January, 57 Cal. 614; Monroe v. New Canaan, 43 Conn. 309; Methodist Protestant Church v. Baltimore, 6 Gill (Md.) 391; Com. v. Cary Imp. Co., 98 Mass. 19; Exchange Nat. Bank v. Miller, 19 Fed. Rep. 372; Rhoads v. Cushman, 45 Ind. 85; Center, etc., Road Co. v. Black, 32 Ind. 468; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 633; International, etc., R. Co. v. Smith County, 54 Tex. 1; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Presidio County, 53 Tex. 518; Green Bay, etc., Canal Co. v. Outagamie County, 76 Wis. 587.

Where a question of valuation for taxation has once been regularly referred to the proper board of equalization, the valuation of that tribunal is final. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County, 54 Tex. 119. The courts cannot substitute their judgment for that of the board. State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575. And money collected on an assessment which has been passed upon by a board of review cannot be recovered back in an action at law any more than money collected on an erroneous judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction before it is reversed. Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535.

is impeached on the ground of fraud¹ or because of a want of jurisdiction.²

2. RECORD OF PROCEEDINGS.—Boards of equalization and review should keep a record of their proceedings, showing with clear-

In North Carolina, the determination of the county commissioners is conclusive, unless made upon a wrong principle. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Brunswick County, 72 N. Car. 10; Wade v. Craven County, 74 N. Car. 81.

Under the Ohio statutes, the proceedings had before a board of equalization cannot be pleaded as an adjudication in bar of proceedings before a county auditor for a correction of returns. Gager v. Prout, 48 Ohio St. 89.

In Lackawanna County v. Com., 156 Pa. St. 477, it was held that a transfer of a credit by the board of equalization, which is not within its jurisdiction, is not conclusive on the state, even though it takes no appeal.

Errors of judgment and mistakes in their conclusions are remediable only in direct proceedings established for the purpose of review. New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604; State v. Fish, 4 Nev. 216; Louisville Water Co. v. Clark (Ky. 1893), 21 S. W. Rep. 246; Orr v. State Board of Equalization (Idaho, 1891), 28 Pac. Rep. 416; Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Grand Rapids v. Welleman, 85 Mich. 234; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 536. And see Ward v. Beale, 91 Ky. 60; McGee v. State, 32 Neb. 149; Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1.

In Griswold v. Union School Dist., 24 Mich. 262, it was held that a determination of a board of review changing an assessment, must stand as final until changed upon a rehearing after reasonable notice.

Notice of Determination.—In Lowell v. Middlesex County, 146 Mass. 403, it was held that notice should be given by assessors refusing to abate a tax to the taxpayer, and the time within which a complaint must be made to the county commissioners for an abatement will begin to run from the date of such notice. See also Simmunds v. Scott County, 68 Miss. 37. But see State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575.

1. Tainter v. Lucas County, 29 Wis. 375; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Pollak, 75

Ill. 292; St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; Illinois, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Stookey, 122 Ill. 358; Coal Run Coal Co. v. Finlen, 124 Ill. 666; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 26 Nev. 172; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Backus, 133 Ind. 625; People v. Kingston, 101 N. Y. 82. And see St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 182.

But fraud on the part of the assessor is no ground for disturbing a valuation, where no fraud appears on the part of the board which confirmed the valuation. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 26 Nev. 172.

In attacking the action of a board of equalization, facts showing fraud should be stated, and an important if not essential fact to make out the fraud is, that they acted arbitrarily and against evidence. Tainter v. Lucas County, 29 Wis. 375.

The judgment of the board is conclusive, unless the inequalities are so gross as to show bad faith or arbitrary judgment. Green Bay, etc., Canal Co. v. Outagamie County, 76 Wis. 586. But the fact that several business men differ considerably from the judgment of the assessor and board of review as to the value of certain property, is not sufficient to impeach the assessment or show an intentional undervaluation. Hixon v. Oneida County, 82 Wis. 515.

2. Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; St. Louis Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. People, 127 Ill. 627; Republic L. Ins. Co. v. Pollak, 75 Ill. 292; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 182; People v. Wilson, 119 N. Y. 515; Pueblo County v. Wilson, 15 Colo. 90.

When no appeal is provided for, an assessment cannot be assailed upon any ground other than fraud or want of jurisdiction. State v. Bettle, 50 N. J. L. 132; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 182.

A recital in a certificate of equalization, that due notice was given to the party whose assessment is to be increased, is not conclusive, but may be contradicted in a suit brought to test the legality of the proceedings. State v. Warford, 32 N. J. L. 207.

One who seeks equitable relief by ness and certainty what steps were taken,¹ as well as all facts necessary to give jurisdiction;² and statutes requiring a record injunction against an alleged unauthorized action by a board of equalization, must establish facts showing that the board had acted illegally and without authority. International, etc., R. Co. v. Smith County, 54 Tex. 1.

Their decision is not final as to claims of exemption under statutory or constitutional provisions. Horne v. Green, 52 Miss. 452.

In cases of overvaluation, the decision of the board of review is final, but where overtaxation is claimed, it is not essential to apply to them, nor is their decision refusing an abatement final because the claim denies the jurisdiction of the assessor over the property assessed. Goddard v. Seymour, 30 Conn. 394; Phelps v. Thurston, 47 Conn. 477.

If, however, a taxpayer, admitting that he was taxable on certain property, has claimed and obtained an abatement, he cannot appeal on the ground that he should not have been assessed at all. Phelps Mortgage Co. v. Board of Equalization, 84 Iowa 610.

The action of boards, either of equalization or of review, without jurisdiction or in excess of their authority, does not affect the original assessment. State v. Allen, 43 Ill. 456; Mix v. People, 72 Ill. 241; Los Angeles v. Los Angeles City Water Works Co., 49 Cal. 638; Dickey v. Polk County, 58 Iowa 287; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 7 Kan. 210; Avery v. East Saginaw, 44 Mich. 587; Paul v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 35. And see People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517; Kimball v. Merchants' Sav., etc., Co., 89 Ill. 611.

In Marsh v. Bowen, 12 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 1, it was held that the members of a board of supervisors may be charged in trespass for an unauthorized addition of property or names to the assessment roll. See also, supra, this title, The Assessment; Conclusiveness and Effect.

1. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259; State v. Warford, 32 N. J. L. 207. And see Bowler v. Brown, 84 Me. 376; Louisville v. McKegney, 7 Bush (Ky.) 651.

The record should be intelligible and certain as to its meaning, so that a taxpayer who chooses to examine it can know what action was taken. Paldi v. Paldi, 84 Mich. 346.

A record of equalization which fails to show the assessed valuation of the several townships, and the amounts added to or deducted therefrom for the purposes of the equalization, is entirely defective and voids the entire levy for the year in which it is made. Aplin v. Roberts, 83 Mich. 471.

But mere irregularities will not vitiate it when the entire record is sufficient to indicate the proper steps. Fowler v. Russell, 45 Kan. 425.

A requirement that a board shall state the facts upon its journal upon which a change of assessment is made, is satisfied by an entry that, in view of the facts, the return was insufficient and below the actual value of the property. Fratz v. Mueller, 35 Ohio St. 397. And see Hambleton v. Dempsey, 20 Ohio St. 168. But, as a general rule, the evidence upon which a board of equalization bases its valuation is not required to be preserved in the record. State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 120. And see Becker v. Malheur County (Oregon, 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 543.

The record need not show that changes were made, if the fact of equalization appears. Chamberlain v. St. Ignace, 92 Mich. 332.

Where the record has been mutilated, its failure to show that there was an equalization will not affect the validity of the tax. Easton v. Savery, 44 Iowa 654.

To constitute a record it is not necessary that the proceedings should be kept in a book; a writing or written memoranda is sufficient. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142.

The fact that the proceedings of a board of equalization are recorded in a journal containing the proceedings of the same board sitting as county commissioners, will not invalidate its action. Fowler v. Russell, 45 Kan. 425.

2. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259; State v. Board of Equalization, 7 Nev. 83; Finch v. Tehama County, 29 Cal. 453; Plummer v. Waterville, 32 Me. 566; Nixon v. Ruple, 30 N. J. L. 58; Hecht v. Boughton, 2 Wyoming 368; Rhode v. Davis, 2 Ind. 53; Rosenthal v. Madison, etc., Plank Road Co., 10 Ind. 358.

Where the records of the board of equalization are required to show a complaint, a mere recital that a complaint was made is not enough. State v. Dodge County, 20 Neb. 595.

or prescribing its form are considered mandatory, and must be strictly complied with.¹ The record, when required to be kept, is the proper evidence of the official acts of the board;² though, upon proof of its loss or destruction, secondary evidence of its contents may be received.³ The board may amend its record,

In State v. Board of Equalization, 108 Mo. 235, it was held that an equalization of taxes is not invalidated by the failure of the record to show that the members of the board took the oath of office required by law. See also Taber v. Wilson, 34 Mo. App. 89.

1. Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 391; State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142; State v. Warford, 32 N. J. L. 207; Paldi v. Paldi, 84 Mich. 346; Yelverton v. Steele, 36 Mich. 62; Gilchrist v. Dean, 55 Mich. 244; Batterman v. Neihaus, 4 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 502.

But the Iowa statute has been held merely directory. Hutchinson v. Board of Equalization, 66 Iowa 35.

A provision that the record shall be signed by all the members of the board is also mandatory. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142; Weston v. Monroe, 84 Mich. 341; Pearsall v. Eaton County, 71 Mich. 438. But see Burt v. Wadsworth, 39 Mich. 126. But such a requirement is substantially complied with by the signature of a certificate which is pasted to the roll, accompanied by a certificate that they have completed the review, and corrected and approved the roll. Darmstaetter v. Moloney, 45 Mich. 621. See also Hixon v. Oneida County, 82 Wis. 515.

Under the Kansas statutes, the clerk is required to file in his office a statement of the facts, or the evidence upon which the correction is made, and when he files a statement of the evidence and the order is supported by it, although he adds to his statement something in the nature of a finding of facts which is not sufficiently precise and complete of itself to sustain the order, it is not ground for setting it aside. Ross v. Crawford County, 16 Kan. 411.

Where the statute requires the board to render its judgment concerning additions to an assessment within ten days after the hearing thereon, the certificate of their proceedings must show on its face that their judgment was rendered within that time. State v. Warford, 32 N. J. L. 207.

Where a certificate of equalization is required to be attached to the roll, no steps can be taken in its absence for the enforcement of the tax. Maxwell v. Paine, 53 Mich. 30. But when not required, it may be omitted. Burt v. Wadsworth, 39 Mich. 126; Tweed v. Metcalf, 4 Mich. 579. And see Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 65 Ala. 391.

In Dickison v. Reynolds, 48 Mich. 108, it was held that the fact that a supervisor's certificate to an assessment roll is dated before the day of review, and while the parties have still a right to appear and be heard on their assessment, is not important, as the date may be an error, and if not the review may nevertheless have taken place. See also Yelverton v. Steele, 36 Mich. 62.

2. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259; Timberlake v. Brewer, 59 Ala. 108; St. Louis Bridge Co. v. People, 128 Ill. 422. And see Haven v. Essex County, 155 Mass. 467; Ronkendorff v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 349; Yelverton v. Steele, 36 Mich. 62. The assessor's original list need not be produced. Ronkendorff v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 349.

The record of a town clerk showing that he and the local assessor met to review the assessment and adjourned the hearing to a subsequent day, is the best evidence of the fact of such meeting and adjournment. St. Louis Bridge Co. v. People, 128 Ill. 422.

In an action of ejectment against the holder of a tax title, its validity, especially if it be of long standing, cannot be impeached by parol evidence to show the falsity of the supervisor's certificate of valuation attached to the assessment roll. Blanchard v. Powers, 42 Mich. 619.

In Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374, an entry on the minutes of an assessment board to the effect that it had adjourned, there being no further business to transact, was held conclusive evidence that the assessment of each district was subject to the action of the board as required by law.

3. State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142.

while it still has jurisdiction, so as to make it conform to the truth.¹

j. APPEAL AND REVIEW.—The appraisal of property is an act of such a quasi judicial nature that it can be constitutionally performed by courts on appeal,² provision for which is made by statute in some of the states.³ But, unless authorized by statute,

1. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259; Boyce v. Auditor Gen'l, 90 Mich. 314; Black v. McGonigle, 103 Mo. 192.

It may be compelled by mandamus to correct its record so as to conform to the facts. State v. Dodge County, 20 Neb. 595.

2. Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 584; Pierre Water Works Co. v. Hughes County, 5 Dakota 145; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30. But see Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Riley County, 20 Kan. 141; Auditor Gen'l v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 6 Kan. 500; Rhoads v. Cushman, 45 Ind. 85.

Courts of general jurisdiction, in the city of Chicago, may examine into the proceedings of the common council, as to all matters connected with a tax or assessment, without a resort to the common-law writ of certiorari. Pease v. Chicago, 21 Ill. 500.

If assessors place property upon the tax roll not liable to taxation, and refuse, upon the application of the persons aggrieved, to strike it off, their action is reviewable by certiorari. People v. Ogdensburg, 48 N. Y. 390. And it is essential, in such case, for the board to return a full record of their proceedings. Haven v. Essex County, 155 Mass. 467.

Right to Jury Trial.—Where a jury is demanded and refused, and the finding by the court is the same as under the evidence, the verdict must be sustained; the issue being really one of law, the refusal to grant a jury does not justify a reversal of the judgment. Bremer County Bank v. Bremer County, 42 Iowa 394.

3. Matter of Des Moines Water Co., 48 Iowa 324; Grimes v. Burlington, 74 Iowa 123; Johnson v. People, 84 Ill. 377; Fowler v. Perkins, 77 Ill. 261; Preston v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 625; Simmons v. Scott County, 68 Miss. 37; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 146 Mass. 403; Bradley v. Laconia (N. H. 1890), 20 Atl. Rep. 331; State v. North Plainfield, 43 N. J. L. 349; Knisella v. Auburn, 54 Hun (N. Y.) 634; Kissim- me City v. Cannon, 26 Fla. 3; Randle v. Williams, 18 Ark. 380; Lehman v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 219; Albert v. Board of Revision, 139 Pa. St. 467; Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Pringle's Appeal, 6 Kulp. (Pa.) 525; New Orleans Gas Light Co. v. Board of Assessors, 31 La. Ann. 270, 475; Louisiana Brewing Co. v. Board of Assessors, 41 La. Ann. 565.

Under the Illinois statute, where the town board improperly increases an assessment, the owner of the property assessed may apply for relief to the county board. St. Louis Bridge Co. v. People, 128 Ill. 422.

In New Jersey, power is conferred upon the supreme court to correct an assessment for taxes, if it can be shown that the amount or valuation of the taxable property for which any person is therein assessed is too large. State v. Elizabeth, 39 N. J. L. 249; State v. Metz, 31 N. J. L. 365; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49.

Where there are two affirmative statutes authorizing an appeal from the determination of a board of equalization, one does not repeal the other unless they are directly inconsistent, and courts will seek for such a construction as will reconcile them. Fowler v. Perkins, 77 Ill. 271.

In Pierre Water Works Co. v. Hughes County, 5 Dakota 145, it was held that where the county commissioners constitute a board of equalization, a statute providing for appeal from all decisions of the board of county commissioners gives the right to appeal from their decisions fixing the value of property for taxation, made when acting as a board of equalization.

But in Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 30, it was held that an appeal from a decision of the county commissioners, sitting as a board of equalization, did not lie, the two boards being separate tribunals; the right of appeal allowed by statute from one board, did not necessarily imply a right to appeal from the other.

no appeal can be taken,¹ and, when allowed, it can be taken only in the manner prescribed;² and the amount in controversy must equal the amount required to give jurisdiction in ordinary appeals, unless the statute otherwise provides.³ On appeal by a taxpayer, the assessment cannot be increased,⁴ and the burden of proof rests with the plaintiff.⁵ The county or district, for

1. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence County, 27 Ill. 50; People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Worthington v. Pike, 23 Ill. 363; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. People, 119 Ill. 182; Ward v. Beale, 91 Ky. 60; General Custer Min. Co. v. Van Camp (Idaho, 1884), 3 Pac. Rep. 22; Rhoads v. Cushman, 45 Ind. 85; Durham v. Thompson, 2 N. H. 166; Stewart v. Maple, 70 Pa. St. 221; Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; State v. Bettie, 50 N. J. L. 132; Tomlinson v. Board of Equalization, 88 Tenn. 1. And see Gilpatrick v. Saco, 57 Me. 277; Western R. Co. v. Nolan, 48 N. Y. 513; Bell v. Pierce, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 51; Genesee Valley Nat. Bank v. Livingston County, 53 Barb. (N. Y.) 223; Kimber v. Schuylkill County, 20 Pa. St. 366; Silver v. Schuylkill County, 20 Pa. St. 369; McDonald v. Escanaba, 62 Mich. 555.

The courts cannot substitute their judgment as to the valuation of property for that of the board of assessors or of equalization, State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575; and will not interfere on the ground that the assessors erred in judgment by assessing too high or too low, if they acted honestly. People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297. And see People v. Haupt, 104 N. Y. 377; Monroe v. New Canaan, 43 Conn. 309.

In Boody v. Watson, 64 N. H. 162, it was held that an erroneous judgment of a court of assessment is reversible by the common-law power of general superintendence for correcting errors of courts of inferior jurisdiction, where no other remedy is expressly provided for. And in Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence County, 27 Ill. 50, it was held that if any remedy existed, it was by certiorari. See also Durham v. Thompson, 2 N. H. 166.

2. See People v. Lots in Ashley, 122 Ill. 297; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 146 Mass. 403; Albert v. Board of Revision, 139 Pa. St. 467; People v. Carter, 109 N. Y. 557. In Bremer County Bank v. Bremer County, 42 Iowa 394, it was held that where the statute does not provide the formalities of an appeal, a court of record will be presumed to have acquired jurisdiction when proper notices of appeal have been served.

A petition on appeal must distinctly aver that the board have increased the assessment without any reasonable evidence. King v. Parker, 73 Iowa 757.

In People v. Carter, 119 N. Y. 557, it was held that an allegation that the taxpayer appeared before the assessor on grievance day and asked to have the assessment corrected, which is not denied, and put in issue by the return, must be admitted in proceedings to review the assessment.

But when allowed, the fact that a city council irregularly exercised the authority conferred upon it as a board of equalization, will not deprive a property holder of the right of appeal to the circuit court. Ingersoll v. Des Moines, 46 Iowa 553.

And where a taxpayer prosecuted his case by an original action, when he should have sought his remedy for an improper assessment by an appeal from the action of the board, and no objection was made to the course of procedure by the defendant, who was defeated in the court below, he cannot make the objection for the first time in the appellate court. Babcock v. Board of Equalization, 65 Iowa 110.

3. Henkle v. Keota, 68 Iowa 334; Babcock v. Board of Equalization, 65 Iowa 110.

4. Matter of Des Moines Water Co., 48 Iowa 324. And see King v. Parker, 73 Iowa 757; State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427. In Leach v. Blakely, 34 Vt. 134, it was held that the word "appeal," denotes an application for relief, and that therefore the board is limited to granting the relief by reducing the assessment or to the denial of any relief.

In Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 580, it was held that an appeal from a determination of a board of equalization is an equitable proceeding, and that, however erroneous the law, or in fact the assessment, may be, only so much of the tax is avoided as in equity the appellant ought to pay.

5. King v. Parker, 73 Iowa 757; State which the act of equalization or review is performed, should be made a party on appeal and given an opportunity to be heard.¹

XII. THE TAX LIEN—1. Nature of the Tax Lien.—The tax lien owes its existence wholly to statute. Its duration and limitations, the character of the property to which it attaches, and its priority over existing charges against the property, must be determined by legislative enactment.² The lien does not arise by implication from the power to tax.³ Nor, when expressly created, can it be enlarged by construction;⁴ but, on the contrary, the statute providing for it is to be construed strictly.⁵ The lien may be given for taxes delinquent at the time of the passage of the act creating

v. Bettie, 50 N. J. L. 132; People v. Williams (Supreme Ct.), 20 N. Y. Supp. 350.

A determination will not be disturbed unless clearly erroneous. People v. Campbell, 70 Hun (N. Y.) 599.

Admission of Evidence on Appeal.—As a general rule, evidence may be admitted in addition to the facts shown by the record, the object of the appeal being to secure a new trial on the merits. Grimes v. Burlington, 74 Iowa 123.

In New York, on certiorari to review a tax assessment, the court may appoint a referee to take such testimony as it may direct. People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684. And see Hutchinson v. Board of Equalization, 66 Iowa 35.

1. Oregon, etc., Sav. Bank v. Catlin, 15 Oregon 342. And see Wood v. Riddle, 14 Oregon 254.

2. Heine v. Levee Com'rs, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 655; Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep. 344; U. S. v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 71; Morrow v. Dows, 28 N. J. Eq. 463; State v. Van Horn, 45 N. J. L. 136; Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 398; Garrettson v. Scofield, 44 Iowa 37; Jaffray v. Anderson, 66 Iowa 719; Hedman v. Anderson, 8 Neb. 180; Otoe County v. Matthews, 18 Neb. 466; Meyer v. Burrirt, 60 Conn. 122; Albany Brewing Co. v. Mereden, 48 Conn. 243; Philadelphia v. Greble, 38 Pa. St. 339; Burgwin v. Burchfield, 28 Pittsb. L. J. (Pa.) 13; Allegheny City's Appeal, 41 Pa. St. 60; Brigg's Appeal, 38 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 262; Board of Education v. Old Dominion Iron, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 92 Ky. 64; Miller v. Anderson, 1 S. Dak. 539; Tousey v. Post, 91 Mich. 631; Lyon v. Guthard, 52 Mich. 271; Bailey v. Fuqua, 24 Miss. 497; Anderson v. State, 23 Miss. 459; Barker v. Smith, 10 S. Car. 226.

The obligation to assess taxes does not give a lien on the property on which they ought to be assessed. Heine v. Levee Com'rs, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 655; Rees v. Watertown, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 107. Right of prior payment given by statute does not operate as a lien. Anderson v. State, 23 Miss. 459; U. S. v. Hooe, 3 Cranch (U. S.) 73.

3. Philadelphia v. Greble, 38 Pa. St. 339.

In Barker v. Smith, 10 S. Car. 226, the court, in discussing the question whether, under a certain state of facts, a lien existed, said: "In order to create a lien on land, for the payment of a tax, it is necessary that there should be either a declaration to that effect by some act of legislature, or necessity for such lien, in order to render effective means provided for the enforcement of such tax;" and again, "It follows, therefore, that while the legislature may, as an incident of the enforcement of a tax, create, in terms, a lien that may subsist with or without defined modes of converting such property into money, yet, failing to raise such lien directly, it can only be raised as incidental and subservient to such means as may be authorized for the enforcement of the tax, in which case it becomes an accessory to the power of disposition in respect thereto;" intimating that there might be cases in which the existence of the lien might be inferred from the necessity of the case.

4. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 444; New England L. & T. Co. v. Young, 81 Iowa 738; Jaffray v. Anderson, 66 Iowa 719.

5. Miller v. Anderson, 1 S. Dak. 539; State v. Newark, 42 N. J. L. 38; Howell v. Essex County, 32 N. J. Eq. 672.

The statute must be strictly construed as against the party in whose favor the lien is created, U. S. v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 71; conse-

it, as well as for those subsequently assessed;¹ but the statute will not be given this retroactive effect unless it is clearly so intended.²

The tax lien upon real estate attaches to the land itself and not to any particular interest therein,³ and may be valid, although the tax is assessed to the wrong person.⁴

2. The Lien of Municipal Taxes.—The tax lien of the municipality does not conflict with the lien of the state, but they may exist as current privileges upon the same property.⁵ The municipality, however, has no power to create a lien for its taxes without express legislative authority such as may be conferred by charter or statute.⁶ The power given to a city to levy the tax does not quently, in favor of innocent purchasers of the property subject to the lien. U. S. v. Pacific R. Co., 1 McCrary (U. S.)

1. So a lien created upon land upon which whisky was distilled, was held not to apply to a case where the distillation was made by one upon the land of another without his knowledge or consent. Gudger v. Bates, 52 Ga. 285.

The proceedings authorized by the statute to create and enforce the lien must be followed as directed. Lyon v. Alley, 130 U. S. 177; Creighton v. Manson, 27 Cal. 614.

It was held in Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 492, that the provision in the Massachusetts Tax Act of 1824, "whenever any tax shall be assessed on any real estate liable to taxation, such tax shall be a lien on said estate," extended to county and city taxes as well as to state taxes, and that the lien continued in force until the tax was paid.

1. Kansas v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 77 Mo. 180.

2. Pittsburgh's Appeal, 40 Pa. St. 455. See also Dallam v. Oliver, 3 Gill (Md.) 445; Smith v. Auditor Gen'l, 20 Mich. 398; Clark v. Hall, 19 Mich. 356.

3. Osterberg v. Union Trust Co., 93 U. S. 424; New England L. & T. Co. v. Young, 81 Iowa 740; Parker v. Baxter, 2 Gray (Mass.) 185; Spratt v. Price, 18 Fla. 289.

The lien is upon the land itself and not merely upon the interest of one who has a life interest therein. Cooper v. Holmes, 71 Md. 20. And upon the title as well as the land. Oldhams v. Jones, 5 B. Mon. (Ky.) 458.

The lien attaches without regard to ownership. Dunlap v. Gallatin, 15 Ill. 7; so it matters not whether the owner be a resident or a non-resident. Edwards v. Beaird, 1 Ill. 70.

4. Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346; Vanarsdalen's Appeal, 3 W. N. C. (Pa.) 463.

An assessment on the bank stock in the name of the bank, instead of in the names of the individual stockholders, does not invalidate the lien. Small v. Lawrenceburgh, 128 Ind. 231.

Taxes which are a lien upon land may be paid out of the proceeds of a sheriff's sale of an interest in the land, although the person whose title is sold never held title to the land in his own name, and the title, both legal and equitable at the time of the sale, was in a third person. Dungan's Appeal, 88 Pa. St. 414.

When, by a change of county boundaries made after land has been assessed for taxes, the land falls into another county, the lien of the tax on such land still continues, and the tax collector of the old county may enforce the collection of the tax by a sale. Moss v. Shear, 25 Cal. 38; Devor v. McClintock, 9 W. & S. (Pa.) 80.

5. Bellocq v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 471; Justice v. Logansport, 101 Ind. 326.

Where land is sold for state, county, and municipal taxes, and the proceeds are insufficient to pay all, the state cannot assert a prior right to satisfaction, if no special priority is given it by statute. Nashville v. Lee, 12 Lea. (Tenn.) 454.

6. 2 Dill. Mun. Corp., § 821; Kansas v. Payne, 71 Mo. 159; Schmidt v. Smith, 57 Mo. 135; Jefferson v. Whipple, 71 Mo. 519; Philadelphia v. Greble, 38 Pa. St. 339; Howell v. Philadelphia, 38 Pa. St. 471; Mix v. Ross, 57 Ill. 125.

The want of a tax lien, however, does not deprive a city of the right to recover its taxes by action. Jefferson v. McCarty, 74 Mo. 55. See also Jef- of itself confer the power to create the lien therefor.¹ But it has been held that the power to sell for taxes confers the power to make them a lien.²

3. Validity of the Lien—Essentials.—In order that there may be a valid lien there must be a valid tax and a proper assessment.³ All prerequisites of the law creating the lien must be complied with strictly.⁴ To create a lien for taxes on real estate there person v. Mock, 74 Mo. 61. In New Haven v. Fair Haven, etc., R. Co., 38 Conn. 422; 9 Am. Rep. 399, the lien given to the city by its charter was held to be a security in addition to, and not interfering with, the remedy at law.

1. Where a statute provided that "if any person fails to pay any tax levied on his real and personal property, the town collector may recover the same by a civil action in the name of the corporation before any court of competent jurisdiction," it was held that the tax after assessment did not become a lien, and the collector could not, before a personal judgment, obtain levy upon the property. Alexander v. Helber, 35 Mo. 334; Ham v. Miller, 20 Iowa 450.

In Merriam v. Woody, 25 Iowa 163, it was held that in the charter of a municipal corporation, the grant of the power to levy and collect a special tax on lots within the corporation for the improvement of the walks in front thereof, does not include the power to sell and convey in case of the non-payment of the tax. Nor would such power be inferred from an express provision in the charter to the effect that the collection of the taxes provided for shall be enforced as may be provided by ordinances of the city.

The state may retain the tax lien although it has delegated the power to tax. Cook v. Auditor Gen'l, 79 Mich. 100.

2. Where, by the language of the legislative enactment, a city was empowered to "provide by ordinance or otherwise for the prompt collection of taxes due to the city, and to that end the city shall have power to sell both real and personal property," it was held that this language was sufficiently broad in its scope to allow the city to make its taxes a lien upon the property. Eschbach v. Pitts, 6 Md. 71. See Dallam v. Oliver, 3 Gill (Md.) 445. See also Dill Mun. Corp., vol. 11, § 821, n. 2.

3. People v. Hastings, 29 Cal. 450; People v. Pearis, 37 Cal. 259; Worth- ington v. Whitman, 67 Iowa 190; North Carolina R. Co. v. Alamance, 77 N. Car. 4; Bell v. Barnard, 37 Ill. App. 275.

A city cannot create a valid municipal lien for improving a street, unless the improvement is made in pursuance of law. Hershberger v. Pittsburgh, 115 Pa. St. 78; Western Pa., etc., R. Co. v. Allegheny, 92 Pa. St. 100.

4. U. S. v. Pacific R. Co., 1 McCrary (U. S.) 1; Bryn Mawr v. Anderson, 10 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 442. See also Thurston v. Little, 3 Mass. 429; Louisville v. Bank of Kentucky, 3 Metc. (Ky.) 148; Judevine v. Jackson, 18 Vt. 470.

The list must strictly follow the statute. Graves v. Bruen, 11 Ill. 431. Listing in one class will not authorize the charging of the land with the tax of another class. Tibbetts v. Job, 11 Ill. 453.

A failure of the assessor to swear to the assessment roll when required to do so by statute, renders the tax invalid, and, consequently, no lien can be created therefor. Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236; Lynam v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87; McNish v. Perrine, 14 Neb. 582.

In Dows v. Dale, 74 Iowa 108, where delinquent taxes were not carried forward on the regular tax list as provided by statute, but were entered in a book kept by the treasurer, which was unknown to the law, it was held that there was no valid lien.

When the purchaser of real estate obtains a certificate from the treasurer that there are no delinquent taxes upon the property, and the tax books do not show any tax to be due, but it is found afterwards that there were delinquent taxes due thereon at the time, which had not been brought forward in the tax books, he is an innocent purchaser and takes the estate free from all liens for taxes. Jiska v. Ringgold County, 57 Iowa 630. And if the delinquent taxes are brought forward in the tax books after the purchase, they will not be a lien upon the property, as against the purchaser. Cummings v. Easton, 46 Iowa 183.

Record.—In Pennsylvania, the lien-must be a description thereof sufficient to show its location and extent.¹ Actual demand for the tax is not necessary,² unless made so by statute.³

4. Time When Lien Attaches.—When there is no provision made by statute as to when a lien attaches to real estate, it is the general rule that it takes effect from the moment when the land becomes charged with the payment of a certain fixed sum;⁴ but the statute creating the lien usually specifies the time when it shall attach. In the notes will be found a judicial construction of the provisions in the statutes of several of the states.⁵ As to for taxes cannot exist unless a certified copy has been entered of record as required by the law creating it, Wilson's Estate, 150 Pa. St. 285; Anspach's Appeal (Pa. 1886), 2 Cent. Rep. 532; although, under a prior act of 1824, such a provision of record was held to be simply directory. Parker's Appeal, 8 W. & S. (Pa.) 449; Wallace's Estate, 59 Pa. St. 401.

In Louisiana, registry is essential to preserve the lien of the state for taxes as against third persons, New Orleans Sav. Inst. v. Leslie, 28 La. Ann. 496; Jacob v. Preston, 31 La. Ann. 516; but not as against the person assessed. Adams v. Wakefield, 26 La. Ann. 592. Taxes of the city of New Orleans are required to be registered. Cochran v. Ocean Dry Dock Co., 30 La. Ann. 1365.

Remedy.—But a defective levy may be remedied and the lien enforced by retrospective legislation authorizing the levy and collection in subsequent years upon the assessment of the proper year, 1 Kent's Com. (12th ed.) 455; Fairfield v. People, 94 Ill. 244; and for this purpose the assessment roll of the previous year is used. Cowgill v. Long, 15 Ill. 202.

1. State v. Miles, 48 N. J. L. 450; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Ill. 369. See also Woodside v. Wilson, 32 Pa. St. 52; Richardson v. State, 5 Blackf. (Ind.) 51.

Where a lot was assessed as "lot number 5 in the assessor's subdivision of the west half of section 1, township 13, etc.," no number of acres being given, and it appearing that no plot of such described lot was ever made or recorded, such description was held to be totally insufficient, and no lien could be had against the premises for the taxes assessed thereon. Sanford v. People, 102 Ill. 374. But the fact that property subject to taxation is imperfectly described, will not preclude the purchaser at the tax sale from maintaining an action to enforce a lien against the land intended to be leased and sold. Cooper v. Jackson, 71 Ind. 244; Sloan v. Se-wall, 81 Ind. 180.

A lien will hold if the purchaser can show what property was intended to be taxed. State v. Casteel (Ind. 1887), 8 West. Rep. 893.

Personal Property.—An assessment upon personal property located by a street and number is not a sufficient description to create a lien against the property. Bell v. Barnard, 37 Ill. App. 275.

The identification, it is said, is a question arising for the jury on the evidence. Stewart v. Shoenfelt, 13 S. & R. (Pa.) 360; Thompson v. Fisher, 6 W. & S. (Pa.) 520.

2. Hart v. Tiernan, 59 Conn. 521.

3. Brown v. Goodwin, 75 N. Y. 409. In U. S. v. Pacific R. Co., 4 Dill. (U. S.) 72, it was held that under U. S. Rev. Stat., § 3186, which provides that "if any person liable to pay any tax, neglects or refuses to pay the same after demand, the amount shall be a lien in favor of the United States from the time it was due until paid," etc., demand is necessary to constitute a valid lien. See also U. S. v. Pacific R. Co., 1 McCrary (U. S.) 1.

4. Black on Tax Titles, p. 181; Blackwell on Tax Titles, § 478; Eaton v. Chesbrough, 82 Mich. 214; Webb v. Bidwell, 15 Minn. 479; Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326. See also Hutchins v. Moody, 30 Vt. 655. This time is generally the time of the assessment of the tax. Lyon v. Alley, 130 U. S. 177.

In Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 448, it is said that the lien should attach at the time of the extension of the tax upon the roll; and this is the rule in Michigan. Harrington v. Hilliard, 27 Mich. 271.

5. In Massachusetts, taxes upon real estate constitute a lien thereon for two years after they are committed to the collector, and this lien relates back to personal property there can be no lien until seizure, unless it is given by statute.¹

the day on which they were assessed, Cochran v. Guild, 106 Mass. 59; 8 Am. Rep. 296; Hill v. Bacon, 110 Mass. 387; Davis v. Bean, 114 Mass. 358; and is not secondary or collateral to any personal liability of the person to whom it is assessed. Swan v. Emerson, 129 Mass. 289.

In Missouri, state and county taxes are made a lien on real estate from and after the first Monday in September, and the owner at that time will be liable to a subsequent purchaser for them, on his covenant of warranty, even though the sale is prior to the assessment. McLaren v. Sheble, 45 Mo. 130; Blossom v. Van Court, 34 Mo. 390; 86 Am. Dec. 114.

The lien relates back and takes effect from the inception point of the assessment, although the assessment may not be consummated until a later day or month in the year. Thus, where the statute required the assessment to date from the first Monday of September and to include the taxable property of the taxpayers respectively owned by them on that day, it was held that the taxes became a lien on that date by relation, although not actually assessed until December. It is immaterial that the rights of a third person who purchased for value and without notice, have intervened. McLaren v. Sheble, 45 Mo. 130.

In New York, no lien or incumbrance is created by the tax until after the list containing it is confirmed. Barlow v. St. Nicholas Nat. Bank, 63 N. Y. 399; 20 Am. Rep. 547; Fisher v. New York, 67 N. Y. 73; Washington Heights M. E. Church v. New York, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 297; for the amount of the tax is not ascertained and determined until confirmation. Dowdney v. New York, 54 N. Y. 186.

In Illinois, taxes upon real estate become a lien upon the land charged from and after the first day of May in each year; that being the day on which owners of land are required to list it for taxation, see Cooper v. Corbin, 105 Ill. 224; Almy v. Hunt, 48 Ill. 45; but personal property taxes do not become a lien on real estate until the collector, on failure to collect the tax on personal property, charges a sum on such real estate in his application for judgment for delinquent taxes. Parsons v. East St. Louis Gas Light, etc., Co., 108 Ill. 384; Carter v. Rodenwald, 108 Ill. 351.

No lien is created upon personal property until the tax books are placed in the hands of the collector, Schaeffer v. People, 60 Ill. 179; Gaar v. Hurd, 92 Ill. 315; Binkert v. Wabash R. Co., 98 Ill. 206; Belleville Nail Co. v. People, 98 Ill. 399; and if the collector fails to make any levy on the personal property until after the return day of the warrant, the warrant then being dead, all liens that might have been, but were not, perfected by a levy are lost. Ream v. Stone, 102 Ill. 359.

In California, a judgment rendered to enforce a lien on particular property assessed is made a lien upon all the real estate of the person assessed, and the lien is held to relate back to the time of the assessment. Reeve v. Kennedy, 43 Cal. 643.

In Indiana, the aggregate amount of taxes upon poll, personal and real estate, is a lien upon all real estate of the taxpayer within the county, and such lien attaches on the first day of January in each year. Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 465; Isaacs v. Decker, 41 Ind. 410; Veit v. Graff, 37 Ind. 254. A warrantor before such date does not covenant against them. Overstreet v. Dobson, 28 Ind. 256.

It is also a lien upon personal property for all taxes, but no time is fixed by statute for it to attach. As between the state and the owner at the time of settlement, the lien attaches as soon as the duplicate is issued to the treasurer. Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 465. See McNeil v. Fareman, 37 Ind. 203; Barker v. Morton, 19 Ind. 146.

In Vermont, the lien for taxes becomes a fixed incumbrance when the officer by some official act manifests his intention to pursue the land for the purpose of enforcing the collection of the taxes; and in the case of a non-resident proprietor, taxes become a lien when the constable has made a list of the land and the taxes assessed thereon, and deposited the same in the town clerk's office for record. Hutchins v. Moody, 34 Vt. 433.

In Iowa, taxes on personal property do not become a lien on the real estate of the owner until they are due, and they do not become due by the mere assessment of the property for taxation. Castle v. Anderson, 69 Iowa 428.

1. McKay v. Batchellor, 2 Colo.

The lien attaches at the earliest moment of the day fixed, as there is no point of time less than a day at which the tax may be regarded as attaching.¹

5. To What Property the Lien Attaches.—The statutes creating liens determine what property shall be subject to them.² The lien for taxes upon real estate attaches to each particular tract for the portion of the tax assessed against it;³ otherwise as to the lien upon personal property, where the statute gives such a lien; here the aggregate amount of the taxes may be a lien upon all the personal property of the person assessed.⁴

Taxes upon personal property may be made a lien upon the 593; State v. Rowse, 49 Mo. 586; Maish v. Bird, 22 Fed. Rep. 180. See also George v. St. Louis Cable, etc., R. Co., 44 Fed. Rep. 117.

A collector's warrant is not a lien on property for taxes, before actual seizure. Parsons v. Allison, 5 Watts (Pa.) 72; Baskin v. Kontz, 5 Watts (Pa.) 76, note; Moore v. Marsh, 60 Pa. St. 46.

In Stevens v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 82 Mich. 426, the general lien of the state against all the property of a railroad company for taxes assessed against it, was held to attach from the time the commissioner of the railroad filed a computation of the amount of the tax as required by statute.

1. In Hill v. Bacon, 110 Mass. 387, the grantor of a deed with covenant of warranty dated April 30th, was in possession of the land conveyed till one o'clock in the afternoon of May 1st, when he executed and delivered the deed, and the grantee immediately took possession. The tax on the land for the year beginning May 1st, was assessed to the grantor, who did not pay it, and the land having been sold for such non-payment, it was held that there was a breach of the covenant.

2. Meyer v. Burrirt, 60 Conn. 123; Albany Brewing Co. v. Meriden, 48 Conn. 243.

3. Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 492. And this is usually recognized by statute. Under the constitution of Texas, art. 10, § 20, a lien is a charge merely against each separate tract for the tax assessed against it. See State v. Baker, 49 Tex. 763. And a judgment against the owner of several tracts, declaring a lien upon all for the aggregate amount of taxes due upon all, is invalid, whether the taxes are due to the state or to a municipal corporation. Edmonson v. Galveston, 53 Tex. 157; Jordon v. Brenham, 57 Tex. 655.

Connecticut Gen. Stat., § 3889, empowers the collector, in the event of any person's failure to pay a tax, to enforce by levy and sale any lien upon real estate which exists at the date of the levy. The following section (3890) declares that the estate of any person in any portion of real estate which is by law set in his list for taxation shall be subject to a lien for that part of his taxes which is levied upon the valuation of said real estate as found in said list. It was held that under this statute, where the lien was filed against the owner of mortgaged land, the lien therefor takes precedence of the mortgage only so far as the valuation of the particular tract is concerned, and not as to taxes on other property of the mortgagor. Meyer v. Burrirt, 60 Conn. 117.

So in Illinois, taxes due on one tract are no lien on others of the person against whom they are assessed. Binkert v. Wabash R. Co., 98 Ill. 215; Kepley v. Jansen, 107 Ill. 80. And in Missouri, State v. Sargent, 76 Mo. 557. See also State v. Hand, 41 N. J. L. 517. But under the Indiana statute, the aggregate amount of taxes is a lien upon all the real estate of the taxpayer which is within the county. Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 645. This is the law in Louisiana also. Geren v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 697.

4. Hill v. Figley, 23 Ill. 364; Gaar v. Hurd, 92 Ill. 330; Barker v. Morton, 19 Ind. 146.

But in Arkansas, under the statute which declares "taxes assessed upon real or personal property shall bind the same," and that "all taxes assessed shall be a lien upon and bind the property assessed," it is held that the taxes on each class of personal property are a lien only upon the property of that class, but the whole tax of each class is a lien upon every item of that class. Bridewell v. Morton, 46 Ark. 73.

realty as well as upon the personalty;¹ but, unless it is expressly so provided by statute, no such lien exists.² And so taxes levied on land do not constitute a lien on personal property in the absence of a statute to that effect.³

6. Priority of Lien.—It is within the constitutional power of the legislature to make the tax a lien prior to other rights and incumbrances, whether the same arise before or after the assessment of the tax;⁴ but this extraordinary effect will not be given

1. Isaacs v. Decker, 41 Ind. 410; Peckham v. Millikan, 99 Ind. 352; Carter v. Rodewald, 108 Ill. 351; State v. Newark, 42 N. J. L. 38; Miller v. Anderson, 1 S. Dak. 539; New England L. & T. Co. v. Young, 81 Iowa 732; Paulson v. Rule, 49 Iowa 576; Garrettson v. Scofield, 44 Iowa 35.

Under such a statute, land held by a husband and wife as tenants of the entirety is not subject to a lien for taxes upon the husband's personal estate. Morrison v. Seybold, 92 Ind. 298. Such a lien is not affected by the fact that the owner had other and personal property which might be taken on a tax warrant. Albany Brewing Co. v. Meriden, 48 Conn. 343. The lien may be made to attach to real estate acquired subsequently to the assessment of the tax on personal property. Cummings v. Easton, 46 Iowa 183.

Taxes upon the capital stock of a railroad, constitute a lien on the real property of the company. Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346.

In Illinois, in order to make taxes on personalty a lien on the realty, the collector must select some particular tract, and charge the lien against it in his application for judgment. If the person against whom a tax is assessed, parts with a tract of land before steps are taken by a collector with respect to it, the lien of the tax will not attach to that particular tract, but does not necessarily prevent its attachment against the others. Carter v. Rodewald, 108 Ill. 351; Parsons v. East St. Louis Gas Light, etc., Co., 108 Ill. 380; Bellville Nail Co. v. People, 98 Ill. 399.

2. Lynn v. O'Neill, 55 N. J. L. 58; State v. Powell, 44 Mo. 436.

3. Parker's Appeal, 5 Pa. St. 390; Anderson v. Mississippi, 23 Miss. 459; Bailey v. Fuqua, 24 Miss. 497.

The lien of the state for taxes cannot follow severed fixtures as personal property. State v. Goodnow, 80 Mo. 271.

Under a statute providing that the state shall have a lien upon a railroad and all appurtenances thereof, the personal property of the railroad is clearly within the description. Stevens v. Lake George, etc., R. Co., 82 Mich. 426.

4. Albany Brewing Co. v. Meriden, 48 Conn. 243; Hopper v. Malleson, 16 N. J. Eq. 386; Lydecker v. Pallsade Land Co., 33 N. J. Eq. 415; Hand v. Startup, 38 N. J. Eq. 115; Hardenbergh v. Converse, 31 N. J. Eq. 500; Dale v. McEvers, 2 Cow. (N. Y.) 118; Parker v. Baxter, 2 Gray (Mass.) 185; In re Douglas, 41 La. Ann. 765; Jenkins v. Newman, 122 Ind. 99; New England L. & T. Co. v. Young, 81 Iowa 732; Keating v. Craig, 73 Mo. 507; Rhoads v. Given, 5 Houst. (Del.) 183; Verdery v. Dotterer, 69 Ga. 198; Williams v. Hilton, 35 Me. 547; 58 Am. Dec. 729.

The power of the legislature to make a tax lien superior to that of a mortgage, is not disputed, Paterson v. O'Neill, 32 N. J. Eq. 386; even after the rights of the mortgagee are fully vested. Howell v. Essex County, 32 N. J. Eq. 675.

In Pennock v. Hoover, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 291, a lien of an assessment for paving was declared superior to the claim of mechanics and material-men.

In Titusville's Appeal, 108 Pa. St. 600, where the tax was declared a lien prior to all incumbrances, an additional sum added as a penalty for non-payment was held to have the same incident of prior lien.

The tax lien, being paramount to all other liens, is privileged from marshaling, by reason of its absolute and peremptory character. People's Sav. Bank v. Tripp, 13 R. I. 621.

A tax warrant issued and delivered to the collector, before fi. fa. to the sheriff, and not levied until after levy under the fi. fa., has priority over it. Evans v. Walsh, 41 N. J. L. 281; 32 Am. Rep. 201. And the lien acquired by the issue of a warrant for personal taxes takes precedence of the equitable claim of creditors who subsequently bring the property into the custody of the law. In re Receivership of Columbian Ins.

by implication,¹ unless it is clearly shown to have been within the legislative intent.² The mere declaration that taxes shall be a lien on the property assessed is not sufficient to give precedence to the lien.³ The law creating the lien may give it precedence over all liens and incumbrances existing prior to the passage of the law.⁴ This retrospective effect, however, will not be given, in the absence of clear legislative intent.⁵

Co., 3 Abb. App. Dec. (N. Y.) 239. But a tax levied on the debtor after a sale of personal property on execution issued on a voidable judgment, constitutes no lien on the property. Roraback v. Stebbins, 4 Abb. App. Dec. (N. Y.) 100.

Municipal Taxes.—The priority may be conferred on municipal taxes and assessments. Allen v. Allen, 34 N. J. Eq. 493; Keating v. Craig, 73 Mo. 507.

By the charter of the city of Newark, taxes assessed upon real estate have priority over mortgages, but taxes assessed upon personal property of the owners of land have no such priority. State v. Newark, 42 N. J. L. 38.

But the lien of municipal taxes when given priority over prior mortgages and other incumbrances, will not, as a rule, supersede mortgages made to the state or its representatives, on the ground that the state is not to be included within the operation of the statute, except by express mention or necessary implication. U. S. v. Hoar, 2 Mason (U. S.) 314. So the provision of the charter of the city of Trenton preferring the lien for taxes over prior mortgages and other incumbrances, does not apply to mortgages made to the state to secure the funds of the state invested on the mortgage. Trustees of Public Schools v. Trenton, 30 N. J. Eq. 667.

1. Trustees of Public Schools v. Trenton, 30 N. J. Eq. 679; Howell v. Essex County, 32 N. J. Eq. 676; Rhein Bldg. Assoc. v. Lee, 100 Pa. St. 214.

In State v. Newark, 42 N. J. L. 45, under the charter of the city of Newark, it was held that the lien for taxes on real estate was, by necessary implication, paramount to existing mortgages thereon; but that the lien on real estate for personal property taxes did not have that priority.

2. Where, in addition to the declaration that the tax should be a lien upon the land, the law authorized a sale, severance, and removal of something which constitute part of the land, it was held that there was a sufficient manifestation of the purpose to make the tax a lien paramount to all prior estates in, and liens upon the land, to the extent of a power to sever and remove. Morrow v. Dows, 28 N. J. Eq. 459.

And where a statute makes taxes a lien on land, and gives a mortgagee the right to redeem and attack the money paid in redemption of his mortgage debt, and also provides that his rights under his mortgage shall not be divested without notice that the mortgaged premises have been sold for taxes, a tax lien is, by the statute, the first charge upon the land, and overrides all prior mortgages. Howell v. Essex County, 32 N. J. Eq. 677; virtually overruling O'Neill v. Dringer, 31 N. J. Eq. 507.

In Paterson v. O'Neill, 32 N. J. Eq. 386, the fact that the right of redemption given to the mortgagee, together with the facts that his mortgage was exempt from taxation, and that the mortgaged premises were directed to be assessed to the owner to their full and fair value, made it clear that it was the intention of the legislature that the tax lien should take precedence over a mortgage charged upon the property prior to the levy of the tax. See also Pennington v. Mendes, 38 N. J. Eq. 336; Dosemus v. Cameron, 49 N. J. Eq. 1.

3. Miller v. Anderson, 1 S. Dak. 539. And, when not given precedence, the lien of taxes is marshaled according to the general law determining the rank of liens. Gormley's Appeal, 27 Pa. St. 49. But in Iowa a contrary doctrine seems to prevail. There it is held that when taxes are made a lien upon real estate they become prior and superior to all mortgage and judgment liens. New England L. & T. Co. v. Young, 81 Iowa 740.

4. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 445; Black on Tax Titles, § 185; Lydecker v. Palisade Land Co., 33 N. J. Eq. 415; O'Brien v. Cogswell, 17 Conn. Sup. Ct. Rep. 420. See also State v. Newark, 42 N. J. L. 45. See STATUTES, vol. 23, p. 447.

5. Finn v. Haynes, 37 Mich. 62.

7. Termination of the Lien—a. IN GENERAL.—The tax lien is generally held to be discharged by payment or tender of the amount due to the proper officer.¹ The lien may be terminated by abandonment on the part of the taxing power,² or by the statutory limitation of the term of the lien,³ or by the repeal of the statute under which the taxes are levied, unless there is a clear intention to continue the lien.⁴

b. STATUTORY LIMITATION.—As the lien owes its existence to the statute, it cannot be extended beyond the time fixed by the statute for its duration.⁵ Statutes provide sometimes that land may be sold for taxes after the expiration of the statutory term of the lien, unless the land has been alienated in the meantime.⁶

A statute giving, in general terms, to a tax lien superiority over "liens, mortgages, conveyances and incumbrances," has no application to incumbrances created before the act. See also Harrison v. Metz, 17 Mich. 377.

A municipal claim filed in 1857 by the city of Pittsburgh for grading and paving, was not entitled to payment out of the proceeds of sale of the property against which the lien was filed, in preference to a mortgage of the same premises entered and recorded in 1848. Pittsburgh's Appeal, 40 Pa. St. 455; Cadmus v. Jackson, 52 Pa. St. 295; Allegheny City's Appeal, 41 Pa. St. 60.

1. Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Chaffe v. Ludeling, 34 La. Ann. 962. See infra, this title, Payment.

As to one's right to subrogation of the state for the benefit of those who are entitled to make the payment, see SUBROGATION, vol. 24, p. 187.

2. In Bradley v. Hintrager, 61 Iowa 337, a tax was levied by the city of Dubuque on the lot in question in 1857, and the lot was sold therefor in 1871. A deed was made in 1879 pursuant to such sale, but it appeared that the tax of 1857 had not been carried forward on the tax books of the city for any of the subsequent years, and that the taxes levied for such subsequent years had all been paid. It appeared also that the city had adopted as a guide for the treasurer a "history of delinquent taxes," in which the lot in controversy appeared with no tax of any year entered against it. It was held that the city had abandoned the tax for 1857 on said lot, and that the sale of the lot, and the deed pursuant thereto, vested no title in the purchaser.

3. See infra, this title, Statutory Limitations.

4. McQuilkin v. Doe, 8 Blackf. (Ind.)

581; Mount v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 25; Bryan v. Harvey, 11 Tex. 311. In Gardenhire v. Mitchell, 21 Kan. 83, the lien was not destroyed by the repeal of the statute, under a general law providing that the repeal of a statute should not affect any right accrued, any duty imposed, any penalty incurred, nor any proceeding commenced under and by virtue of the statute repealed.

The substantial re-enactment furnishes ground for inferring that the legislature intended to reserve and continue the lien for taxes which had accrued under prior laws. Gorley v. Sewell, 77 Ind. 316.

5. Isaac v. Swift, 10 Cal. 80; 70 Am. Dec. 698; State v. Van Horn, 45 N. J. L. 136; Field v. West Orange Tp., 37 N. J. Eq. 434.

Where a municipal charter provided that taxes assessed on lands within the city should remain a lien thereon for two years from a designated day, "notwithstanding any devise, descent, alienation, mortgage or other incumbrance, and notwithstanding any mistake or omission as to the owner's name," it was held that the limitation of the lien included the owner of the premises as well as his alienee, etc., and that it could not be extended by the inaction of the municipal authorities in enforcing the lien within the prescribed time. Kirkpatrick v. New Brunswick, 40 N. J. Eq. 46. And in Dubois v. Poughkeepsie, 22 Hun (N. Y.) 117, it was held that a sale made subsequent to the two years prescribed for the continuance of a tax lien, was invalid, although preliminary proceedings and the advertisement commenced within that period.

6. As in Rhode Island, see Bull v. Griswold, 14 R. I. 22; and in Massachusetts. In Russell v. Deshon, 124

The tax lien is not merged into a judgment lien so as to continue during the limitation of the general judgment lien.¹

c. EFFECT OF ALIENATION.—The tax lien is not defeated by alienation, but overrides any title acquired by a purchaser of the land, whether with or without notice; and in however good faith the purchase may have been made, and for whatever value; the lien is like a covenant running with the land and follows the land into the hands of all successive owners, until discharged by payment, lapse of time, or otherwise.²

Mass. 342, it was held that a sale of land by a collector of taxes, more than two years after a warrant for the collection of the tax thereon was committed to his predecessor, is void, although made within two years after the warrant was committed to the collector making the sale, if the land was alienated by the owner after the tax was assessed to him and before the sale.

In Kelso v. Boston, 120 Mass. 297, it was held that where a city ordinance limited the lien of a street assessment to one year, if the land was not alienated in the meantime, it might be sold after the expiration of a year, to satisfy the assessment.

An entry upon land by a mortgagee for the purpose of foreclosing a mortgage between the date of an assessment of the tax upon the land and the date of a reassessment of the same tax, the original tax having been assessed to the wrong person, is not an alienation of the land between the first and second assessment, within the meaning of the statute. Market Nat. Bank v. Belmont, 137 Mass. 407.

In Holden v. Eaton, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 15, it was held that a sale of land for direct taxes laid under United States act of 1815, giving a lien upon the land for the taxes for two years, was valid, although made after the expiration of that period, providing the owner had not aliened or incumbered the land. See also Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; Mason v. Bilbruck, 62 N. H. 440.

In Louisiana, it is held that liens securing city taxes are prescriptible, yet the taxes are not, Stewart's Succession, 41 La. Ann. 128; Leeds v. Treasurer, 43 La. Ann. 811; Mercer's Succession, 42 La. Ann. 1135; but that, notwithstanding the tax privileges have been barred, the taxes remain due and may be collected as ordinary debts. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374; State v. Meyer, 41 La. Ann. 436.

In Pennsylvania, the perpetual lien given under former acts is not repealed by the act of 1889. Under its provisions, the lien of the taxes is limited to two years, unless entered of record, and limited to five if recorded, unless revived and continued by writ of scire facias within said period and duly prosecuted to judgment. Philadelphia v. Hiester, 142 Pa. St. 39. See also Philadelphia v. Kates, 150 Pa. St. 30; Philadelphia v. Scott, 93 Pa. St. 25.

1. Boyd v. Ellis, 107 Mo. 394. See also Riley v. McCord, 21 Mo. 285.

The lodgment of an execution within the year prescribed for the continuance of the tax lien will not extend the lien; but such execution has a lien of its own not possessing priority belonging to the tax lien. State v. Guerry, 15 Rich. (S. Car.) 353.

So in Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 92 Ky. 64, it was held that a simple money judgment for taxes, though the limitation of the judgment was fifteen years, could not extend the lien of the taxes which was limited by statute to five years.

2. U. S. v. Stoltz, 18 Int. Rev. Rec. 5; Alkan v. Bean, 8 Biss. (U. S.) 83; Ewing v. Robeson, 15 Ind. 26; Oldham v. Jones, 5 B. Mon. (Ky.) 465; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Doe v. Deavors, 8 Ga. 479; Dunlap v. Gallatin, 15 Ill. 7; Hogle v. Cohan, 30 Ohio St. 436; Morris v. Lalaurie, 39 La. Ann. 47.

In Freeman v. Atlanta, 66 Ga. 617, it was held that where the lien for taxes attached on the fifth day of April of each year, the fact that the holder at that time sold the property, and upon failure of the purchaser to pay the purchase-money, made a sale, under judicial proceedings, of the lands, as the property of the vendee, did not divest the lien of the municipal authorities for the taxes. "The sheriff's sale conveyed what the defendant had; the lien attached to what the vendor had."

In Doe v. Deavors, 8 Ga. 479, it was

The lien is not discharged by an assignment for the benefit of creditors.¹ An assignee in bankruptcy takes subject to the lien, and the state may follow the property into the hands of the purchaser at an assignee's sale, even though the assignee was directed to sell free of incumbrances.²

d. EFFECT OF JUDICIAL SALE.—Nor is the lien, as a rule, discharged by a judicial sale; but the purchaser takes subject thereto.³ So the lien is not affected by a foreclosure sale of a mortgage upon lands,⁴ unless it is directed that the tax shall be paid from the proceeds of the sale.⁵

But the sale of land for delinquent taxes of one year destroys the lien of all unpaid taxes of previous years; for the lien of each year's tax is paramount to all previous liens.⁶

held that where property liable to taxation was sold under execution, subsequent to the levy of the tax, but prior to the giving in or return of the same, and was sold afterwards under execution to pay the taxes due by the defendant in execution, the purchaser at the tax sale obtained a good title.

In Schmidt v. Smith, 57 Mo. 135, it was held that a trustee holding the naked title to land cannot, on a sale of the property, use part of the purchase-money to satisfy taxes or prior incumbrances, unless he is empowered to do so in the instrument creating the trust. "In such cases," the court said, "the purchaser takes the land subject to the incumbrances." See also Scott v. Shy, 53 Mo. 478.

1. State v. Rowse, 49 Mo. 586. And so, in the case of personal property, where the levy is before an actual change of possession. Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 465.

2. Weeks v. Whatley, 48 Miss. 337; Stokes v. State, 46 Ga. 412; 12 Am. Rep. 588; In re Brand, 2 Hughes (U. S.) 334. Where one bought from a bankrupt firm, property subject to the lien of taxes charged to the owners in the county in which it was situated, notwithstanding the sale, the lien continued, and the treasurer was authorized to enforce it by selling the property. Mesker v. Koch, 76 Ind. 68.

3. Osterberg v. Union Trust Co., 93 U. S. 424; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. State, 63 Ga. 483.

A partition sale cannot have the effect of discharging the lien. Morris v. Lalaurie, 39 La. Ann. 47.

4. Isaacs v. Decker, 41 Ind. 410; Bodertha v. Spencer, 40 Ind. 353; Vaughn v. Clark, 5 Neb. 238; Iler v. Colson, 8 Neb. 331.

5. Annely v. DeSasseur, 12 S. Car. 488.

In Pennsylvania, upon a judicial sale of the property upon which the lien for taxes exists, the lien is thereby discharged, and the duty of the taxing authorities is to proceed upon the fund. And a taxpayer who has sought in vain the aid of a court of equity to restrain the collection of a tax, by a sheriff's sale of the real estate taxed, the lien of which has been diverted by a prior sheriff's sale, does not become a volunteer in the payment of said tax; he may maintain an action to recover the tax thus paid. Shaw v. Allegheny, 115 Pa. St. 46. See also Smith v. Simpson, 60 Pa. St. 169.

In Auspach's Appeal, 112 Pa. St. 27, it was held that upon a sheriff's sale of premises subject to a mortgage, as well as to tax liens, the taxes were entitled to be paid out of the proceeds, before the mortgage, though in point of time the mortgage was superior to the lien, and though there might have been personal property on the premises out of which the collector could levy and collect the taxes. The court said: "The lien of the assessment cannot be defeated by the neglect and want of judgment of the collector."

The fact that the judicial sale was of but a portion of the land liable for the tax, will not prevent the discharge of the lien, since the tax is not apportionable, but rests on the entire tract. Mellon's Appeal, 114 Pa. St. 564. See also City v. McGonigle, 4 Phila. (Pa.) 351.

6. See infra, this title, Tax Sales. See also Langley v. Chapin, 134 Mass. 82; McFadden v. Goff, 32 Kan. 415; Robbins v. Barron, 32 Mich. 36; Irwin v. Frego, 22 Pa. St. 368; Wass v. Smith, 34 Minn. 304; Brewer v. District of Columbia, 5 Mackey (D. C.) 274; Huzzard

XIII. PAYMENT—1. Voluntary Payment—a. OPPORTUNITY TO PAY.—The taxpayer, before his property is levied upon or before steps are taken to enforce the collection of the tax, is entitled to an opportunity to make a voluntary payment.¹ If the statute provides for demand or notice, demand or notice is an essential prerequisite to the validity of steps taken to enforce collection.²

v. Trego, 35 Pa. St. 9; Buckley v. Osburn, 8 Ohio 180; Bradford v. Lafargue, 30 La. Ann. 432; Bowman v. Thompson, 36 Iowa 505; Preston v. Van Gorder, 31 Iowa 250; Shoemaker v. Lacey, 38 Iowa 277; Jarvis v. Peck, 19 Wis. 74; Sayles v. Davis, 22 Wis. 225.

The rule operates as well in favor of the owner who redeems from the sale as of a purchaser at a tax sale. Hough v. Easley, 47 Iowa 330; Kessey v. Connell, 68 Iowa 430. But see Gray v. Coan, 30 Iowa 536; Gray v. Coan, 40 Iowa 329.

A valid tax deed extinguishes and destroys all other titles and liens existing or based upon anything existing at the time of the levying of the tax upon which the tax deed is founded. McFadden v. Goff, 32 Kan. 415; Board of Regents v. Linscott, 30 Kan. 240; Belz v. Bird, 31 Kan. 141. In Law v. People, 116 Ill. 246, it was held that when the state sells land in satisfaction of a tax judgment, it cannot turn round and defeat the purchaser's title by reselling the same land for taxes which were due and owing when the judgment was rendered, and might have been included in it, but that such a sale must be regarded as an abandonment of all back taxes.

The title acquired under a tax sale for taxes of a subsequent year must prevail over a title founded on a sale for taxes of the previous year, Chandler v. Dunn, 50 Cal. 15; even if the sale for the oldest tax has been made after the sale for the later tax. Anderson v. Ryder, 46 Cal. 135. See also Dougherty v. Henarle, 47 Cal. 10. But see Cowell v. Washburn, 22 Cal. 520, which held that a lien for taxes under the revenue law of 1854, continued until the taxes were paid, and was not divested by a sale for taxes levied in the subsequent year.

In Keen v. Sheehan, 154 Mass. 208, it was held that if land is advertised for sale at the same time in the same newspaper by the same collector for the tax of two successive years, and at the time and place appointed is sold by him to one for the tax of the earlier year, and later at the same sale to another for the tax for the year following, the second sale is valid and the purchaser thereof is entitled to the land.

But in Tennessee, it is held that under the revenue laws of that state, the purchaser of land at a tax sale acquires only the interest of the owner of the land in whose name the land is or ought to have been assessed, subject to other existing statutory liens for taxes previously assessed. Nashville v. Cowan, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 209.

Mistake.—In Bowman v. Eckstien, 46 Iowa 583, where a part of the delinquent taxes were by mistake omitted from the sale, it was held that the sale did not operate as a discharge of the lien of the prior delinquent taxes.

1. Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 465; Atkinson v. Amick, 25 Mo. 404; St. Anthony Falls, etc., Co. v. Greely, 11 Minn. 324; Thompson v. Gardner, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 404; Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317. And see State v. Redwood County, 40 Minn. 512.

Until he has such opportunity he is not in default. State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338. But a demand by the collector is not necessary to make the tax due. Such a demand is necessary before a levy, but it is not a condition precedent to the duty of the taxpayer to pay. Goddard v. Seymour, 30 Conn. 394. See also Den v. Helmes, 3 N. J. L. 600.

Non-Resident Owners.—No demand is necessary in case of non-resident owners. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 16 Barb. (N. Y.) 651. See also Smith v. Ryan, 88 Ky. 636.

2. See Hoozer v. Buckner, 11 B. Mon. (Ky.) 183; Julian v. Stephens (Ky. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 6; Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Lathrop v. Howley, 50 Iowa 39; Hier v. Rullman, 22 Kan. 606; Villey v. Jarreau, 33 La. Ann. 291; Wiggin v. Temple, 73 Me. 380; Prince George's County v. Clarke, 36 Md. 206; Langdon v. Stewart, 142 Mass. 576; Reed v. Crapo, 127 Mass. 39; State v. West Hoboken, 40 N. J. L. 109; Parker v. Rule, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 65. But see Noland v. Busby, 28

b. WHEN MADE.—The taxpayer should attend for payment at the time and place provided therefor;¹ though the right to make payment continues until the property is sold for the taxes.²

c. BY WHOM MADE—(1) Generally.—Payment may be made by a co-owner or co-tenant, and, when so made, inures to the benefit of all.³ Payment may be made by the agent of the person liable.⁴ So it may be made by one having an interest or claim in the property, and whose interest will be divested by

Ind. 154; Viriden v. Bowers, 55 Miss. 1. As to what is a sufficient demand, see Himmelman v. Booth, 53 Cal. 50. The collector is the proper person to make the demand. York v. Goodwin, 67 Me. 260.

The Kentucky statute requires the officer to deliver or offer to the person from whom the taxes are due, a statement of such taxes, and to tender a receipt. Unless this is done, he is not authorized to distrain. Hoozer v. Buckner, 11 B. Mon. (Ky.) 183.

Under the Louisiana statute, a written notice to pay is a prerequisite to a tax sale. Villey v. Jarreau, 33 La. Ann. 291.

In Wheelock v. Archer, 26 Vt. 380, it was held that where a collector calls for a tax, and the taxpayer absolutely refuses to pay, the collector may levy at once.

An error in the notice as to amount, etc., will not avoid the assessment, but only the tax warrant. State v. Perkins, 24 N. J. L. 409.

How Notice May be Given.—Notice of a tax due and in arrears may be given by posting it at the courthouse door and at three other of the most public places in the county. Prince George's County v. Clarke, 36 Md. 206. See also Himmelmänn v. Townsend, 49 Cal. 150. And in Connecticut, the publication may be on the sign-post in the town where the land lies, and in a newspaper printed in the same county. But a personal demand is necessary before real estate can be sold to satisfy a tax on personality. Ives v. Lynn, 7 Conn. 505.

Proof of Demand.—A demand of payment of a tax may be proved by parol evidence. Gossett v. Kent, 19 Ark. 602.

1. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Dodge County, 98 U. S. 541; Breisch v. Coxe, 81 Pa. St. 336.

In Iowa, payment made after a sale for taxes is of no avail, though made in ignorance of the sale. Jones v. Welsing, 52 Iowa 220. And payment at a time when the collector is not authorized to receive it will not avoid a subsequent sale. Thornton v. Smith, 36 Ark. 508.

The taxes of one year cannot be compensated by an overpayment of a tax of a previous year. New Orleans v. Davidson, 30 La. Ann. 541; 31 Am. Rep. 228; New Orleans v. Davidson, 30 La. Ann. 554.

2. Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Huber v. Pickler, 94 Mo. 382. And see Mathews v. Buckingham, 22 Kan. 166; Leitzbach v. Jackman, 28 Kan. 524. See also infra, this title, Redemption from Tax Sale.

In Drennan v. Beierlein, 49 Mich. 272, it was held that a taxpayer's right to make payment after the return of taxes, is the same after an extension of the time for making the return as before.

3. Den v. Terrell, 3 Hawks (N. Car.) 283; Chickering v. Faile, 38 Ill. 342; Loomis v. Pingree, 43 Me. 299.

In Brown v. Day, 78 Pa. St. 129, the fact that an assessment against one of several property owners was placed upon the land as unseated land, and the assessment against the interest of another as seated land, was held not to disserve the joint ownership, so as to prevent one claimant from paying taxes on the whole.

The Illinois revenue act, in force in that state in 1877, provided that the collector should receive taxes on part of any parcel of land, if a particular specification of the part was furnished. It was held, therefore, in Lawrence v. Miller, 86 Ill. 502, that, such specification having been made, it was the duty of the collector to receive that part of the taxes so due and to give a receipt therefor. So in Winter v. Atkinson, 28 La. Ann. 650, it was held that the tender of a pro rata share of the tax by one of several co-tenants was sufficient as to him.

4. Hills v. Exchange Bank, 105 U. S. 319; Hawkins v. Dougherty (Del. 1890), 18 Atl. Rep. 951. Tax commissioners have no right to establish a rule a sale for taxes;¹ in case of payment by such a one, he is entitled to be reimbursed by the party primarily liable.² A writ of man- that they will receive taxes from no one but the owner in person, and thus cut off the title by a sale which would not have been necessary had the owner's agent made tender of the amount of the tax, which he refrained from doing because of the rule. U. S. v. Lee, 106 U. S. 196; Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Tracey v. Irwin, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 549; Atwood v. Weems, 99 U. S. 183.

A principal can claim the benefit of a tax paid by his agent without reference to the state of accounts between them. Rand v. Scofield, 43 Ill. 167.

1. U. S. v. Tilden, 9 Ben. (U. S.) 368; Cole v. Wright, 70 Ind. 179; Blackwood v. Van Vleit, 30 Mich. 118; Brown v. Day, 78 Pa. St. 129.

The payment of taxes by any person extinguishes them. Morrison v. Kelly, 22 Ill. 610. And see Wilbert v. Michel, 42 La. Ann. 853. See also Mason v. Chicago, 48 Ill. 420, where taxes on land were paid by mistake by one not the owner, who, on discovering the error got the money refunded, but it was nevertheless, held to operate as a payment.

As the duties of tax officers are ministerial, they cannot decide upon the claim of one offering to pay a tax and claiming to have an interest in the land, but must accept payment. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Guthrie, 53 Iowa 383.

A mortgagee may presume taxes to have been legally assessed and pay them without inquiry as to their validity, unless notified to the contrary. Williams v. Hilton, 35 Me. 547; 58 Am. Dec. 729.

2. Cole v. Wright, 70 Ind. 179; Brown v. Evans, 15 Kan. 88; Lillie v. Case, 54 Iowa 177; Erwin's Succession, 16 La. Ann. 132; Rundell v. Lakey, 40 N. Y. 513.

A lien is sometimes given upon the property to secure such reimbursement. Peay v. Field, 30 Ark. 600; Borthell v. Syverson, 54 Iowa 160; Lillie v. Case, 54 Iowa 177; Cole v. Wright, 70 Ind. 179; Williams v. Hilton, 35 Me. 547; 58 Am. Dec. 729.

When taxes have been paid by a surety, the lien may be kept alive for his benefit, and a tenant or stranger whose goods have been taken to pay taxes, will be treated as a surety. Wallace's Estate, 59 Pa. St. 401. But the right exists only against the owner at the time of the assessment, or some other person primarily liable for its payment. See Henry v. Horstick, 9 Watts (Pa.) 412.

Reimbursement of Mortgagee.—Where mortgaged premises are assessed in connection with other premises of the mortgagor, and the mortgagee, to prevent a forfeiture, pays the whole tax, he can have the whole amount included in his judgment upon the mortgage. Williams v. Hilton, 35 Me. 547; 58 Am. Dec. 729. But in Savage v. Scott, 45 Iowa 130, it was held that there must be an agreement between the parties to that effect, in the absence of facts and equities which would require a court of chancery to make such a provision. But see also Borthell v. Syverson, 54 Iowa 164, where that decision is strictly confined to the facts of that case.

Right to Contribution of Co-tenant Paying Tax.—Where payment is made by one co-tenant, he can look to the others for contribution. Chickering v. Faile, 38 Ill. 343. But under the New Hampshire statute he cannot call on the others for contribution, unless the sheriff, acting as collector, has first delivered a copy of his tax list to the deputy secretary. Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85.

A mere volunteer who pays the taxes of another can acquire no lien or other right against the property. Peay v. Field, 30 Ark. 600. And see Hoffman v. Bell, 61 Pa. St. 444; Crum v. Burke, 25 Pa. St. 377. And tax officers may doubtless refuse to receive taxes from a mere volunteer who claims no interest in the lands, and as such, offers to pay them for the purpose of acquiring a right against the owner. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Guthrie, 53 Iowa 383.

Payments made for the purpose of sustaining tax titles or to bar a redemption thereof, must be under claim and color of title. Chickering v. Faile, 38 Ill. 342; Cofield v. Furry, 19 Ill. 183; Dawley v. Van Court, 21 Ill. 460; Darst v. Marshall, 20 Ill. 227. And see Hardin v. Coate, 78 Ill. 533.

As a rule, every taxpayer has the right, as between himself and third persons, to pay his own taxes, and to pay them to the county in which they are due, and not be compelled to run after a self-substituted creditor and damus may issue to compel a tax collector to accept payment from one who has the right to make it, in case of an unlawful refusal on the part of such collector.¹

(2) As Between Owners of Different Estates.—As between the owners of different estates in the same property, it may be said generally that he who is in the present enjoyment ought to discharge the present impost.² Thus, the tenant for life is required to preserve the remainder by paying taxes, if the estate is sufficient therefor,³ and it is the duty of a mortgagor to discharge all taxes upon the mortgaged premises as long as possession is retained by him.⁴ So, a vendee in possession under a contract of sale is liable, as between himself and his vendor, for taxes assessed make payments to him. Goodnow v. Stryker, 61 Iowa 261.

1. Clementi v. Jackson, 92 N. Y. 591. But see Hawkins v. Dougherty (Del. 1890), 18 Atl. Rep. 951, where it was held that under the constitution and laws of Delaware, payment by the taxpayer in person was contemplated, and that, while the collector could, if he chose, accept payment from a duly authorized agent, he could not be compelled by mandamus to do so.

2. Willard v. Blount, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 624; Spangler v. York County, 13 Pa. St. 322.

3. Clark v. Middlesworth, 82 Ind. 240; Pike v. Wassell, 94 U. S. 711; Waldo v. Cummings, 45 Ill. 421; Olleman v. Kelgore, 52 Iowa 38; Holmes v. Taber, 9 Allen (Mass.) 246; Arnold v. Smith, 3 Bush (Ky.) 163; Varney v. Stevens, 22 Me. 334; Garland v. Garland, 73 Me. 98; Gillespie v. Brooks, 2 Redf. (N. Y.) 363; Wade v. Malloy, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 226; De Witt v. Cooper, 18 Hun (N. Y.) 67; Carter v. Youngs, 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 418; Ex p. McComb, 4 Bradf. (N. Y.) 151; Booth v. Ammerman, 4 Bradf. (N. Y.) 129; Spangler v. York County, 13 Pa. St. 322; McDonald v. Heylin, 4 Phila. (Pa.) 73; Peirce v. Burroughs, 58 N. H. 302; Weaver v. Arnold, 15 R. I. 53; Holcombe v. Holcombe, 29 N. J. Eq. 597; Cadmus v. Combes, 37 N. J. Eq. 264; Anderson v. Hensley, 8 Helsk. (Tenn.) 834. And see Sheldon v. Ferris, 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 124; Hepburn v. Hepburn, 2 Bradf. (N. Y.) 74; Pinckney v. Pinckney, 1 Bradf. (N. Y.) 269; Griswold v. Griswold, 4 Bradf. (N. Y.) 216; Deraismes v. Deraismes, 72 N. Y. 154.

In case of his neglect, a receiver will be appointed. Cairns v. Chabert, 3 Edw. Ch. (N. Y.) 312; Sidenberg v.

Ely, 11 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 358; 90 N. Y. 264; King v. King, 41 N. Y. Super. Ct. 516. And he is liable to an action for waste. Phelan v. Boyle, 25 Wis. 679. If in consequence of his failure, the estate is sold, he will be liable to the remainderman for the loss sustained. Wade v. Malloy, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 226. See also Stetson v. Day, 51 Me. 436; McMillan v. Robbins, 5 Ohio 31.

The burden of proof to show that the income is sufficient to keep down the taxes and incumbrances, rests with the remainderman. Clark v. Middlesworth, 82 Ind. 241.

Apportionment of Assessments for Permanent Improvements.—Assessments for permanent improvements are apportionable between the life tenant and the remainderman, the general rule being that the tenant for life should pay the annual interest on the assessment and the principal be charged against the remainderman. Plympton v. Boston Dispensary, 106 Mass. 544; Gillespie v. Brooks, 2 Redf. (N. Y.) 363; Peck v. Sherwood, 56 N. Y. 615; Thomas v. Evans, 105 N. Y. 612; Stillwell v. Doughty, 2 Bradf. (N. Y.) 312; Fleet v. Dorland, 11 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 489; Miller's Estate, 1 Tuck. (N. Y.) 346.

4. Williams v. Hilton, 35 Me. 547; 58 Am. Dec. 729; Gormley's Appeal, 27 Pa. St. 49.

The court, in rendering its judgment, should order that taxes be paid first out of the proceeds of the sale of the mortgaged property. Opdyke v. Crawford, 19 Kan. 604.

But a mortgagor who has conveyed his interest in the premises before a tax accrues, is not liable for its payment. Gormley's Appeal, 27 Pa. St. 49. A clause in a mortgage that payment after the commencement of his possession;¹ taxes upon property held in trust should be paid by the trustee and allowed him from the income of the trust estate;² and a tax may be recovered against an executor or administrator,³ or an assignee for the benefit of creditors.⁴

As between landlord and tenant, the duty to pay taxes rests usually with the landlord.⁵

d. TO WHOM MADE.—Payment of a tax must be made to the officer authorized by law to collect it,⁶ or to his duly authorized shall be "without any deduction or abatement for taxes," is a stipulation to pay the taxes on the land mortgaged, not on the debt secured. Clopton v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 54 Pa. St. 356.

1. Lillie v. Case, 54 Iowa 177; Sackett v. Osborn, 26 Iowa 146; Cole v. Wright, 70 Ind. 179; Farber v. Purdy, 69 Mo. 601; Francis v. Washburn, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 294; Sherman v. Savery, 2 Fed. Rep. 505. But see Wilson v. Tappan, 6 Ohio 172. And payment of taxes by the purchaser while in possession, but before the deed is executed, will inure to the benefit of his title when consummated. Russell v. Mandell, 73 Ill. 136.

But taxes previously assessed and remaining unpaid are a personal charge against the vendor. Rundell v. Lakey, 40 N. Y. 513; Biggins v. People, 96 Ill. 381; Blodgett v. German Sav. Bank, 69 Ind. 153; Desmond v. Babbitt, 117 Mass. 233; Smirch v. York County, 68 Pa. St. 439; Henry v. Horstick, 9 Watts (Pa.) 412; Alexandria v. Preston, 8 Cranch (U. S.) 53; Greer v. McCarter, 5 Kan. 17.

Where an owner conveys land with covenants against incumbrances after assessment, but before the tax has been extended, he is not liable for the tax, the assessment constituting no incumbrance before it is extended. Barlow v. St. Nicholas Nat. Bank, 63 N. Y. 399; 20 Am. Rep. 547; Dowdney v. New York, 54 N. Y. 186. But compare Rundell v. Lakey, 40 N. Y. 513.

In Tennessee, the vendee of land is required to pay the tax imposed on sales. Guthrie v. South Western Iron Co., 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 826.

2. Holcombe v. Holcombe, 29 N. J. Eq. 597; Holmes v. Taber, 9 Allen (Mass.) 246.

But where a farm was devised to trustees, who were directed to pay the rents to one whom they allowed to occupy it instead, it was held that the taxes should be paid by the occupant and not allowed in the executors' accounts as a charge against the estate. Bates v. Underhill, 3 Redf. (N. Y.) 365.

3. See Brown v. Evans, 15 Kan. 88; Sohler v. Eldredge, 103 Mass. 345; Holcombe v. Holcombe, 29 N. J. Eq. 597; Fleet v. Dorland, 11 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 489; Lawrence v. Holden, 3 Bradf. (N. Y.) 142; even though the assessment was completed and the tax became an existing demand before the death of the decedent. McMahon v. Beekman, 65 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 427.

In Whittaker v. Wright, 35 Ark. 511, it was held to be the duty of an executor, upon the neglect of the mortgagor, to pay the taxes on property mortgaged to the estate, and if he omits to do so, or if there is no representative, a creditor of the estate may pay them, and be reimbursed out of the proceeds of the sale upon foreclosure.

But it is not the duty of an administrator to pay taxes accumulating on the lands after the death of the intestate, where he does not sell or need them for the payment of debts of the intestate. Reading v. Wier, 29 Kan. 429. And in Henry v. Horstick, 9 Watts (Pa.) 412, a purchaser of real estate sold by order of the orphans' court, in a proceeding in partition by the administrator, who had been compelled to pay taxes assessed before the sale, was not allowed to recover them from the administrator.

4. Brooks v. Eighmey, 53 Iowa 276. Taxes due from a dissolved insurance company are payable from its funds by the state superintendent of insurance. In re Life Association of America, 12 Mo. App. 40.

5. See LANDLORD AND TENANT, vol. 12, p. 692.

6. Young v. King, 3 R. I. 196; Marshall v. Baldwin, 11 Phila. (Pa.) 403.

In Dean v. Wills, 21 Tex. 642, it was held that the fact that a person deputy,¹ and must be made in the town, county, or district where the land is located.²

c. HOW MADE—(1) Generally.—The payment or tender of taxes must be absolute and unconditional,³ and must include the whole amount due, in order to discharge the lien;⁴ but a bona signing a tax receipt acts as tax collector, is prima facie evidence of his authority.

1. Jones v. Welsing, 52 Iowa 220.

Where taxes are paid to the person authorized by the county treasurer to receive them, the fact that the receipt is signed only by a stamp, with the fac simile of the treasurer's signature, will not affect the rights of a taxpayer, as against a subsequent purchaser at a sale for the non-payment of the tax. Randall v. Dailey, 66 Wis. 285.

2. Where real estate and personal property have been assessed in a doubtful or disputed territory, by two counties, payment of taxes in the county where the land is actually located will bar an action for the taxes brought in the other county. People v. Wilkerson, 1 Idaho 619. And see Patton v. Long, 68 Pa. St. 260.

In Hilliard v. Griffin, 72 Iowa 331, a sale of land by the treasurer of a newly organized town, for taxes levied before the organization, and while it was attached to another town for revenue purposes, was held void, such taxes being payable to the treasurer of the county to which it was formerly attached.

3. State v. Carson City Sav. Bank, 17 Nev. 146; Stiles v. Hitchcock, 47 Vt. 419; State Railroad Tax Cases, 92 U. S. 575. And where the treasurer made out a receipt for the taxes, and entered them on his books as "paid," it was held not to operate as a discharge, unless followed by actual payment. Ambler v. Clayton, 23 Iowa 173.

Where upon a payment of taxes, the statute requires the tax receiver to give a receipt, a tender is not rendered invalid because such a receipt is demanded. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259.

No arrangement can be made between the collector and taxpayer whereby he is discharged from liability by anything except absolute payment. Reutcher v. Hucce, 3 Ill. App. 144; Conway v. Cable, 37 Ill. 83; 87 Am. Dec. 240; Ambler v. Clayton, 23 Iowa 173; Merriam v. Dovey (Neb. 1888), 36 N. W. Rep. 382.

Though in some states the collector has been permitted to satisfy a tax by payment to the treasurer and then enforce his claim against the person upon whom the tax is a charge. Shriver v. Cowell, 92 Pa. St. 262; Wallace's Estate, 59 Pa. St. 401; White v. State, 51 Ga. 252; Schaum v. Showers, 49 Ind. 285; Jacks v. Dyer, 31 Ark. 334; Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420; Mittenberger v. Cooke, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 421.

In Elson v. Spraker, 100 Ind. 374, an agreement between a taxpayer and a collector, by which the collector delivered the receipt and marked the tax paid when no payment was made, was held equivalent to an advancement of so much money by the collector at the request of the taxpayer, rendering the latter personally liable for the money advanced.

4. Flynn v. Edwards, 36 Fed. Rep. 873; Hunt v. McFadgen, 20 Ark. 277; State v. Carson City Sav. Bank, 17 Nev. 146; Tracey v. Irwin, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 549; Laffin v. Herrington, 16 Ill. 301; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Crum v. Burke, 25 Pa. St. 377; Heft v. Gephart, 65 Pa. St. 510; Auld v. McAllister, 43 Kan. 162.

The treasurer may decline to receive a tender of a part of the tax or to give any receipt therefor, unless the entire amount of the tax is paid. Julien v. Ainsworth, 27 Kan. 446.

But the application of a part payment to a particular portion of the real estate will relieve that portion from liability to sale until the remainder is exhausted. Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 465.

Penalties and Expenses Included.—Penalties for default and expenses incurred in an effort to collect, are included with the tax and must also be paid to discharge the lien. Bracey v. Ray, 26 La. Ann. 710; Joslyn v. Tracy, 19 Vt. 569. But the taxpayer cannot be compelled to pay a penalty in excess of that allowed by law. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hartshorn, 30 Fed. Rep. 541.

May Pay Any One Separate Tax.—Where several assessments are united for convenience of collection, the full amount of any one or more of them fide attempt to pay, frustrated by the fault of the taxing officers, is equivalent to actual payment, and will bar a sale.¹ It is the duty of the officer receiving the tax to give a receipt for all payments properly made,² and upon his refusal, mandamus will lie to compel him.³

(2) Medium of Payment.—Generally speaking, the medium of payment must be legal tender money, or at least money which passes current,⁴ though the legislature may provide for the acceptance may be paid, and the rest refused or contested. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Carroll County, 39 Iowa 151; Olmsted County v. Barber, 31 Minn. 256. And see Lawrence v. Miller, 86 Ill. 502; Auld v. McAllaster, 43 Kan. 162.

Payment of Taxes Upon Realty Includes Appurtenances.—The mains and pipes of a gas company are mere appurtenances of realty whereon the works are situated, and when erroneously assessed as personal property and the company has paid the taxes upon its realty, the treasurer cannot advertise and sell the realty for the alleged delinquent taxes upon the personalty. Capital City Gas Light Co. v. Charter Oak Ins. Co., 51 Iowa 31.

1. Breisch v. Cox, 81 Pa. St. 336; Baird v. Cahoon, 5 W. & S. (Pa.) 540; Neeley v. Wise, 44 Iowa 544; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 629; Lewis v. Withers, 44 Fed. Rep. 165; Griffing v. Pintard, 25 Miss. 173; Doe v. Burford, 26 Miss. 194; Jones v. Dils, 18 W. Va. 759.

Where the owner applies for the taxes assessed against him and pays the amount stated, he has performed his duty, whether the information given him is correct or not. Laird v. Hiester, 24 Pa. St. 452; Philadelphia v. Anderson, 142 Pa. St. 357; Freeman v. Cornwell (Pa. 1888), 15 Atl. Rep. 873; Jiska v. Ringgold County, 57 Iowa 630; Moon v. March, 40 Kan. 58; People v. Brooklyn, 114 N. Y. 19. And see Cummings v. Easton, 46 Iowa 183; Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Randall v. Dailey, 66 Wis. 285.

And a statement of a tax and the receipt therefor, unassailed, have been held clear evidence that the taxpayer applied to the treasurer for the taxes assessed against him and paid all that was demanded. Breisch v. Cox, 81 Pa. St. 336.

But the mistake of an officer in stating the amount of taxes due on property, to a party who, unknown to him, was about to become a purchaser, will not prevent their subsequent collection. El- liot v. District of Columbia, 3 McArthur (D. C.) 396. And see Gow v. Tidrick, 48 Iowa 284.

In Kahl v. Love, 37 N. J. L. 5, it was held that a tax collector is not required to give certificates that property is discharged from the taxes, and if his receipts are used for that purpose it is at the peril of those relying upon them. See also Alkan v. Bean, 8 Biss. (U. S.) 83.

2. Hawkins v. Dougherty (Del. 1890), 18 Atl. Rep. 951; Law v. People, 84 Ill. 142; Lawrence v. Miller, 86 Ill. 502. And see Julian v. Stephens (Ky. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 6.

Where land is assessed in such a way as to render the description uncertain, the owner can tender to the collector the amount of the tax, and demand the receipt with the proper description of the land. Lawrence v. People, 84 Ill. 142. But see Stiles v. Hitchcock, 47 Vt. 419, where it was held that a tax collector is under no obligation to give a receipt for taxes paid him.

3. Law v. People, 84 Ill. 142; Perry v. Washburne, 20 Cal. 318. And see Lawrence v. Miller, 86 Ill. 502.

4. McLanahan v. Syracuse, 18 Hun (N. Y.) 259; Orange County Bank v. Wakeman, 1 Cow. (N. Y.) 446; Mumford v. Armstrong, 4 Cow. (N. Y.) 553; Dickson v. Gamble, 16 Fla. 687; Sawyer v. Springfield, 40 Vt. 305; McWilliams v. Phillips, 51 Miss. 196; Craig v. Smith, 31 Mo. App. 286; Elliott v. Miller, 8 Mich. 132; Doran v. Phillips, 47 Mich. 228; Fuller v. Chicago, 89 Ill. 282; Crutcher v. Sterling, 1 Idaho 307; Wells v. Cole, 27 Ark. 603; State v. Sneed, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 472.

Payment or tender in any other medium will not discharge the lien of the tax. Coit v. Claw, 28 Ark. 516; Loftin v. Watson, 32 Ark. 414.

Where the collector accepts a bank check and gives a receipt for the taxes, the property may afterwards, on the dishonor of the check, be sold for the tax, although the owner had since sold it, showing the collector's receipt as of scrip, etc., in payment of taxes,¹ and, in such case, the collector will be compelled to receive it.²

f. HOW ESTABLISHED.—Payment of taxes may be proved by the record,³ by the original receipt of the tax collector,⁴ or by an evidence that the taxes were paid. Kahl v. Love, 37 N. J. L. 5. See also Koonos v. District of Columbia, 4 Mackey (D. C.) 339.

In Dickson v. Gamble, 16 Fla. 687, it was held that a tax collector cannot enforce a note given him for taxes, particularly where it does not appear that he paid or discharged the taxes at the request of the maker. And in Thorn-dike v. Camden, 82 Me. 39, it was held that a township cannot impose a tax to reimburse a collector who has taken a note in payment of a tax and failed to collect it.

In Trenholm v. Charleston, 3 S. Car. 347; 16 Am. Rep. 732, it was held that plaintiff could not compel the municipality to accept a debt due by it, in payment of taxes. And in Sawyer v. Springfield, 40 Vt. 305, it was held that where a tax collector takes a town order in payment of taxes, it must be regarded as a personal matter, and not as a payment of the order.

Though payment in an illegal and void currency is a nullity, the collector does not thereby acquire any personal right of action for the recovery of the amount. Richards v. Stogsdel, 21 Ind. 74.

Payment in Coin Alone.—Sometimes, taxes have been made payable in coin alone. Whiteaker v. Haley, 2 Oregon 140; People v. Shearer, 30 Cal. 645; Prescott v. McNamara, 73 Cal. 236.

1. English v. Oliver, 28 Ark. 317; Askew v. Columbia County, 32 Ark. 270; Lea v. Memphis, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 103; Marinette v. Oconto County, 47 Wis. 216; Lee v. Harlow, 75 Va. 22.

Under the Arkansas statutes, the orders of school trustees are receivable for school taxes of the district for which they were issued, but not for county taxes; and county warrants are receivable for county taxes, but not for district school taxes. Wallis v. Smith, 29 Ark. 354. And the legislature cannot make the certificates of state indebtedness and auditor's warrants receivable in payment of county or school district taxes. Wells v. Cole, 27 Ark. 603.

Where county warrants are made receivable for taxes by the constitution, they are not receivable in payment of a tax levied to pay an indebtedness existing prior to the adoption of the constitution. Loftin v. Watson, 32 Ark. 415.

Where county orders are received by a town treasurer for county taxes, it operates as a payment of the orders as well as the tax, and when so received they belong to the county and not to the town. Marinette v. Oconto County, 47 Wis. 216.

In Askew v. Columbia County, 32 Ark. 271, it was held that a collector who collects a tax in currency and pays it to the treasurer in county warrants, releases himself from official liability.

Under the California statute of 1866, levee taxes might be paid either with warrants of the district drawn upon by the levee fund, or with money. Prescott v. McNamara, 73 Cal. 736.

2. Virginia Coupon Cases, 114 U. S. 270; Keith v. Clark, 97 U. S. 454; Furman v. Nichol, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 44; English v. Oliver, 28 Ark. 317; Askew v. Columbia County, 32 Ark. 270; Dan-ley v. Pike, 15 Ark. 141; Loftin v. Watson, 32 Ark. 415; Fuller v. State, 73 Ga. 408; Clark v. Keith, 8 Lea (Tenn.) 703; Williamson v. Massey, 33 Gratt. (Va.) 239; Antoni v. Wright, 22 Gratt. (Va.) 833.

In Daniel v. Askew, 36 Ark. 487, it was held that a collector who is required to take county scrip in payment of taxes, cannot refuse it because it is barred by the Statute of Limitations.

But the privilege of paying in something other than a legal-tender medium is strictly limited to the terms of the statute granting it, Wallis v. Smith, 29 Ark. 354; and has been held to extend only to payments made within the time prescribed by law, and not to payments made after default. Bummel v. Houston, 68 Tex. 10.

3. See Adams v. Beale, 19 Iowa 61; Harrison v. Sauerwein, 70 Iowa 291; Dennett v. Crocker, 8 Me. 239.

The letters "pd." on the county treasurer's book opposite the amount for which the land was sold, without any evidence that the taxes were paid before the sale, are not of themselves evidence of payment previous thereto. Ankeny v. Albright, 20 Pa. St. 157. And see Ambler v. Clayton, 23 Iowa 173.

4. Johnstone v. Scott, 11 Mich. 232; any other competent evidence.¹ Like receipts from any other public officers, tax receipts prove themselves.²

g. EFFECT.—Upon payment of a tax, the lien is discharged,³

Hammond v. Hannin, 21 Mich. 374; 21 Am. Rep. 490; Hall v. Hall, 1 Mass. 101; Seigneuret v. Fahey, 27 Minn. 60; Huber v. Pickler, 94 Mo. 382; Deen v. Wills, 21 Tex. 642.

A collector's receipt for taxes is an official paper which the law requires him to give, and is evidence of the payment of the tax in suits between third persons. Johnstone v. Scott, 11 Mich. 232. And see Weimer v. Porter, 42 Mich. 569; Miller v. Hurford, 13 Neb. 13. But it will not sustain a claim of ownership where it is shown that the taxes were paid under a contract with the real owner. Ellen v. Ellen, 16 S. Car. 132.

The receipt of a deputy collector is held to have the same force and effect as that of the treasurer. Jones v. Welsing, 52 Iowa 220; McReynolds v. Longenberger, 57 Pa. St. 13; Hammond v. Hannin, 21 Mich. 374; 4 Am. Rep. 490. But though original evidence, they are not conclusive, and may be rebutted or explained by parol. Elston v. Kennicott, 46 Ill. 188; Rand v. Scofield, 43 Ill. 167; Hammond v. Hannin, 21 Mich. 374; 4 Am. Rep. 490; Wolf v. Philadelphia, 105 Pa. St. 25. And until invalidated by proof, are sufficient. Johnstone v. Scott, 11 Mich. 232.

Where tax receipts inaccurately describing the property are offered in evidence as proof of payment, it is a question for the jury, whether they were intended to cover the property in dispute. Orton v. Noonan, 25 Wis. 672.

1. Adams v. Beale, 19 Iowa 61; Dennett v. Crocker, 8 Me. 239; Hammond v. Hannin, 21 Mich. 374; 4 Am. Rep. 490; McReynolds v. Longenberger, 57 Pa. St. 13.

The payment of a tax is matter in pais, and may be proven by oral evidence. Davis v. Hare, 32 Ark. 386; Adams v. Beale, 19 Iowa 61; McDonough v. Jefferson County, 79 Tex. 535.

The action of the collecting officer in reference to the payment, receipt, and return for taxes, is a part of the res gestæ upon which the validity of a tax deed depends. Johnstone v. Scott, 11 Mich. 232. And where land is erroneously assessed twice in different names, the collector who returns it as delinquent is a competent witness to prove the payment of the taxes by the owner of the land. Davis v. Hare, 32 Ark. 386.

Under a Mississippi statute providing that none but a certain form of receipt shall be valid as evidence, payment of taxes before a sale cannot be shown to invalidate a tax title, unless the prescribed receipt was given; but it does not prevent proof of the loss of a valid receipt. Edmondson v. Ingram, 68 Miss. 32.

As between the parties, payment cannot be shown in opposition to a judicial determination that the taxes are delinquent. Gaylord v. Scarff, 6 Iowa 179; Wallace v. Brown, 22 Ark. 118; 76 Am. Dec. 421; Cadmus v. Jackson, 52 Pa. St. 295.

Certificate of Payment.—A certificate by a tax collector of a county where the land is situate, that no taxes are charged against such land on his books, is not sufficient evidence of payment of taxes. Acklin v. Paschal, 48 Tex. 147.

Previous Payment of Taxes.—Evidence of the payment of taxes for previous years is not admissible to establish payment for a subsequent year. Ankeny v. Albright, 20 Pa. St. 157. Nor is the fact that the tax had been marked reduced on the tax books. State v. School Com'rs, etc., 13 Wis. 409.

Presumption of Payment.—In Smith v. Tharp, 17 W. Va. 221, it is held that the mere lapse of time will not raise a legal presumption of the payment of taxes on lands returned delinquent, though taken in connection with other circumstances it might justify a jury in finding as a matter of fact that taxes have been paid. But see Woodburn v. Farmers, etc., Bank, 5 W. & S. (Pa.) 447; McLaughlin v. Kain, 45 Pa. St. 113. And Brown v. Day, 78 Pa. St. 129, where payment was presumed from the lapse of time.

No presumption of payment arises from the duty of the taxpayer to make it. Any such presumption would be overthrown by the counter presumption that the tax officers have not violated their duty by proceeding to enforce the collection of taxes after they have been paid. Ankeny v. Albright, 20 Pa. St. 157.

2. See RECEIPTS, vol. 19, p. 1111.

3. Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Huber v. Pickler, 94 Mo. 382; and the right to sell the property for non-payment defeated.¹

A sale after payment or tender conveys no title to the purchaser.²

Alexander v. Hunter, 29 Neb. 259; Wallace's Estate, 59 Pa. St. 401; Montgomery v. Meredith, 17 Pa. St. 42; Reading v. Finney, 73 Pa. St. 467; Hunter v. Cochran, 3 Pa. St. 105; Johnson v. Christie, 64 Ga. 117. Payment extinguishes the tax. Morrison v. Kelly, 22 Ill. 610.

Land Twice Assessed.—The fact that the land has been twice assessed to different persons and the payment has been made by only one of them, does not alter the rule. Alexander v. Hunter, 29 Neb. 259; Bradley v. Ewart, 18 W. Va. 598; Montgomery v. Meredith, 17 Pa. St. 42.

1. Morris v. Sioux County, 42 Iowa 416; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Guthrie, 53 Iowa 383; Gaylord v. Scarff, 6 Iowa 179; Wallace v. Brown, 22 Ark. 118; 76 Am. Dec. 421; Davis v. Hare, 32 Ark. 386; Conant v. Buesing, 23 Fla. 559; Blight v. Banks, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 192; 17 Am. Dec. 136; Morrison v. Kelly, 22 Ill. 610; Mason v. Chicago, 48 Ill. 420; Curry v. Hinman, 11 Ill. 420; Wall v. District of Columbia, 6 Mackey (D. C.) 194; Griffing v. Pintard, 25 Miss. 173; Montgomery v. Meredith, 17 Pa. St. 42; Ankeny v. Albright, 20 Pa. St. 157; Hunter v. Cochran, 3 Pa. St. 105; Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Wilbert v. Michel, 42 La. Ann. 853. And see Doty v. Bassitt, 44 Kan. 454; Jackson v. Morse, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 441; 9 Am. Dec. 225; Bank of Utica v. Mersereau, 3 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 328; 49 Am. Dec. 189; Joslyn v. Rockwell, 128 N. Y. 334; Den v. Terrell, 3 Hawks (N. Car.) 283; Hilliard v. Griffin, 72 Iowa 331; Lefebvre v. Negrotto, 44 La. Ann. 792; Patton v. Long, 68 Pa. St. 260.

To authorize a tax collector to sell land by reason of the non-payment of taxes in any case, the taxpayer must be in default. Doe v. Burford, 26 Miss. 194; Green v. Craft, 28 Miss. 70; Williams v. Camnack, 27 Miss. 209; 61 Am. Dec. 508.

Even though a payment is the result of a mistake, a collector has no power to cancel it and revive the assessment. Mason v. Chicago, 48 Ill. 420; Richmond v. Brown, 66 Me. 373. Though where money received in payment of a tax is applied to the payment of another tax through the mistake of a collector, the error may be corrected. Mason v. Chicago, 48 Ill. 420.

A tax paid on unseated land is applied to the tract for which it is paid, without reference to any mistake of the owner, though the land on which the payment was intended is afterwards sold for taxes. Stephens v. Wells, 6 Watts (Pa.) 325. And see Maxwell v. Hunter, 65 Iowa 121. But the payment of taxes assessed upon parts of lots described as the whole should have been described, must be treated as a payment of the whole tax where the owner in good faith so intended it. Merton v. Dolphin, 28 Wis. 456.

2. Walton v. Gray, 29 Iowa 440; Rowland v. Doty, Harr. (Mich.) 3; Rayner v. Lee, 20 Mich. 384; Sigman v. Lundy, 66 Miss. 522; Huber v. Pickler, 94 Mo. 382; Kinsworthy v. Austin, 23 Ark. 375; Laird v. Hiester, 24 Pa. St. 452; Dougherty v. Dickey, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 146; Breisch v. Coxe, 81 Pa. St. 336; Brown v. Day, 78 Pa. St. 129; Reading v. Finney, 73 Pa. St. 467; Cadmus v. Jackson, 52 Pa. St. 295; Schenk v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267; Tracey v. Irwin, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 549; Atwood v. Weems, 99 U. S. 183; Matthews v. Buckingham, 22 Kan. 166; Martin v. Snowden, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 100; Jones v. Dils, 18 W. Va. 759; Randall v. Dailey, 66 Wis. 285; Sprague v. Coenen, 30 Wis. 209. The rule applies to wild lands. Rish v. Ivey, 76 Ga. 738.

A tax sale of land as unseated will transfer no title to the vendee, when the land sold constitutes a part of a seated tract upon which the taxes have been paid. Kramer v. Goodlander, 98 Pa. St. 366.

In Sprague v. Coenen, 30 Wis. 209, it was held that where lands were sold for taxes which had previously been paid, the Statute of Limitations as to tax deeds did not run in favor of the grantee.

When a taxpayer has paid before sale, he is not required to make a tender to the purchaser before bringing suit to set aside the sale. Lefebvre v. Negrotto, 44 La. Ann. 792.

But if the owner voluntarily redeems lands sold for taxes after they have been paid, he cannot recover from the county the amount paid for such redemption. Morris v. Sioux County, 42 Iowa 416.

Nor will the misapplication of a payment by the tax officer destroy its effect as a payment.¹

2. Involuntary Payment.—(See infra, this title, Remedies for Erroneous and Illegal Taxation; DURESS, vol. 6, p. 57; PAYMENT, vol. 18, p. 148.)

XIV. COLLECTION—1. How Provided For.—The power to levy taxes necessarily carries with it the power to enforce their collection,² and to provide the means necessary to accomplish this object.³ Subject to constitutional restrictions,⁴ the choice of

The rule is the same whether the sale is made through the inadvertence or mistake of the parties concerned, or in positive disregard of the fact of payment. Myrick v. Montgomery County, 33 Ind. 333; Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Stephens v. Wells, 6 Watts (Pa.) 325.

Tender of Taxes.—A sale of lands for taxes after tender of payment by the owner, though it is assessed in the name of another person, does not divest him of his title. Kinsworthy v. Austin, 23 Ark. 375.

Where a taxpayer tenders the amount of taxes due from him to the collector, which he refuses because the collection of the taxes for that year has been enjoined in a suit to which the taxpayer is not a party, and the injunction is dissolved, it is necessary, before the taxpayer can be placed in default for non-payment, that a demand be again made. Doe v. Burford, 26 Miss. 194.

Tender Suspends Interest.—The tender of the tax suspends the running of interest. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Carroll County, 39 Iowa 151.

1. Dougherty v. Dickey, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 146; Montgomery v. Meredith, 17 Pa. St. 47; Henderson v. Robinson, 76 Iowa 603; Huber v. Pickler, 94 Mo. 382; Jones v. Dils, 18 W. Va. 759.

Thus, a payment is not defeated by its application to the taxes of other persons. Henderson v. Robinson, 76 Iowa 603; Maxwell v. Hunter, 65 Iowa 121; Lefebvre v. Negrotto, 44 La. Ann. 792. Or to the payment of taxes on other property than that designated by the taxpayer. Dougherty v. Dickey, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 146; Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505.

Where a tax payment is expressly made to satisfy a particular assessment, the collector, if he receives it, must apply the money to the purpose specified, and no other. Fuller v. Grand Rapids, 40 Mich. 395.

Taxpayers are authorized to rely upon the officer to whom payment is made for the proper application of the money given them, and justice will not permit them to lose their lands through the mistake of officers in whom they are authorized to confide. Henderson v. Robinson, 76 Iowa 603. And see Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622; Corbin v. Stewart, 44 Iowa 543; Fenton v. Way, 40 Iowa 196.

Where the owner of unseated land pays the amount demanded of him by the treasurer, but the payment is credited to another tract and his land is sold for non-payment, the sale is void. Laird v. Hiester, 24 Pa. St. 452.

2. Morrison v. Larkin, 26 La. Ann. 701; Slack v. Ray, 26 La. Ann. 675; Gibson v. Mason, 5 Nev. 283; State v. Consolidated Va. Min. Co., 16 Nev. 432; Languille v. State, 4 Tex. App. 312; Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 605. And see Vandine, Petitioner, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 187; Nightingale, Petitioner, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 168; Biscoe v. Couller, 18 Ark. 423; Brooklyn v. Cleaves, 1 Hill & D. Supp. (N. Y.) 231; Buffalo v. Webster, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 99; Bervear v. Com., 5 Wall. (U. S.) 475.

3. Green v. Gruber, 26 La. Ann. 694; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N. Y. 130. And see Chalker v. Ives, 55 Pa. St. 81.

Constitutional provisions, providing a method for the collection of municipal taxes, are not self-operative, and laws on the subject previously in force, continue in operation, until they are otherwise abrogated. New Orleans v. Wood, 34 La. Ann. 732.

4. See Mason v. Rollins, 2 Biss. (U. S.) 99; Edwards v. Williamson, 70 Ala. 145; Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N. Y. 130; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Union R. Co., 50 Md. 275; Languille v. State, 4 Tex. App. 312. And see supra, this title, The Power to Tax.

methods for the collection of taxes is within the discretion of the legislature.¹

2. The Collector—a. SELECTION, REMOVAL, RESIGNATION, ETC.—Sometimes statutes provide that the tax collector shall be elected by popular vote;² other statutes provide that he be appointed.³ And treasurers, sheriffs, constables, and other officers, are, in some instances, authorized to act as collectors.⁴ But whether elected or appointed, or designated in any other manner, the collector must be chosen in the manner provided by law, and must possess the necessary qualifications.⁵

The duties which the law imposes upon the collector can be performed only by the person designated by the statute.⁶

1. In re Elizabeth, 49 N. J. L. 488; State v. State Board of Assessors, 54 N. J. L. 90; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; State v. Mayhew, 2 Gill (Md.) 487; Mason v. Rollins, 2 Biss. (U. S.) 99. And see Falconer v. Shores, 37 Ark. 386; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 334; 76 Am. Dec. 521; Reg. v. Burnskill, 8 U. C. Q. B. 546.

A constitutional provision for the method of taxation is not self-operative, and previous collection statutes continue in force until abrogated. New Orleans v. Wood, 34 La. Ann. 732.

2. See Appeal of Town Council (Pa. 1888), 15 Atl. Rep. 730; Castle v. Lawlor, 47 Conn. 340.

3. Taft v. Barrett, 58 N. H. 447; Com. v. Perkins, 7 Pa. St. 42.

In Falconer v. Shores, 37 Ark. 387, it was said that the legislature might provide for the selection of collector, in any manner it chose.

In New Hampshire, it has been held that the appointment of a tax collector, by the selectmen of a town, must be made in writing and recorded. Ainsworth v. Dean, 21 N. H. 400.

4. See Wilson v. Seavey, 38 Vt. 221; Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Falconer v. Shores, 37 Ark. 386; Scarry v. Lewis, 133 Ind. 96; Hays v. Drake, 6 Gray (Mass.) 387; Youngblood v. Sexton, 32 Mich. 406; 20 Am. Rep. 654; Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 84; Bailey v. Lockhart, 4 Yerg. (Tenn.) 567.

Where the sheriff is required to act as collector, he is usually given the same authority as though he were elected or appointed collector. Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85.

As to the collection of taxes by a coroner, see State v. Irby, 1 McMull. (S. Car.) 485.

Collectors not Constables.—In Gage v. Dudley, 64 N. H. 437, it was held that a constable's power vested in a collector to serve process for the purpose of collection of taxes, did not make him constable for any other purpose.

5. See Com. v. Browne, 1 S. & R. (Pa.) 382; Lincoln v. Chapin, 132 Mass. 470.

In Souhegan Nail, etc., Factory v. McConihe, 7 N. H. 309, it was held that where a collector is appointed, pursuant to a statute, the warrant issued to him is sufficient evidence of his appointment, to justify his acting as such.

In Taft v. Barrett, 58 N. H. 447, it was held that an appointment of L. D. F. "collector of a town," is a sufficient appointment of L. D. F. as "collector of taxes."

Who May Question Authority.—Every person who pays taxes in a ward or township, has such an interest as authorizes the filing of an information, at his instance, to inquire by what authority the collector exercises his office. Com. v. Browne, 1 S. & R. (Pa.) 382.

Not Subject to Collateral Attack.—In Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385, it was held that the right to an office held by a tax officer, cannot be attacked in a collateral proceeding brought to test the validity of a tax sought to be collected. See also Odiorne v. Rand, 59 N. H. 504.

6. Hadley v. Chamberlin, 11 Vt. 618; Fremont v. Boling, 11 Cal. 380; Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575; Johnston v. Wilson, 2 N. H. 202; 9 Am. Dec. 50; Odiorne v. Rand, 59 N. H. 504; Com. v. Browne, 1 S. & R. (Pa.) 382; Waite v. Hyde Park Lumber Co., 65 Vt. 103; Thompson v. Allen County, 13 Fed. Rep. 97; Bryan v. Harvey, 11 Tex. 311.

Neither the whole, nor any part, of or by his deputy.¹ Upon the refusal of a collector to act or qualify, or upon a vacancy, a new collector may be chosen.²

b. QUALIFICATION.—The collector must give the bond or security, and take the oaths required by law.³ The bond and oath must conform to the statute.⁴ But, while this is so, it is the duties of a collector in collecting taxes, can be assigned to another. Hadley v. Chamberlin, 11 Vt. 618.

A collector pro tem cannot be appointed for the purpose of collecting arrearages. Hadley v. Chamberlin, 11 Vt. 618.

In Crowell v. Barham, 57 Ark. 195, it was held that a deputy sheriff cannot discharge the duties of tax collector, even though his principal is both tax collector and sheriff.

1. The collector is a ministerial officer, and may act by deputy. See Aldrich v. Aldrich, 8 Met. (Mass.) 102; Williamstown v. Willis, 15 Gray (Mass.) 427; Holden v. Eaton, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Walters v. Duke, 31 La. Ann. 668.

In Aldrich v. Aldrich, 8 Met. (Mass.) 102, it was held under the Massachusetts statute, that a deputy collector who is also a town treasurer, may execute a warrant for the collection of taxes, though he was appointed deputy before the warrant was issued and the warrant is directed to the collector only.

In Wilhelm v. Cedar County, 50 Iowa 254, it was held that a board of supervisors may employ a special agent or attorney, to assist in the collection of taxes not collectible by the county treasurer in the ordinary discharge of his duty.

2. See Carville v. Additon, 62 Me. 459; People v. Callaghan, 83 Ill. 128; Ridgway Tp. v. Wheeler, 90 Pa. St. 450.

Failure to Qualify.—In Falconer v. Shores, 37 Ark. 386, it was held that upon a failure of the sheriff to qualify as collector, by giving bonds, the office becomes vacant without a judicial ascertainment of the vacancy, and a new collector may be appointed. See also Bailey v. Lockhart, 4 Yerg. (Tenn.) 567; Johnston v. Wilson, 2 N. H. 202; 9 Am. Dec. 50.

The collector's removal from his district, has been held to vacate the office. Gage v. Dudley, 64 N. H. 437.

The resignation of a collector will not be inferred, as a matter of law, from his default and the delivery of his tax warrants to the selectmen, and his refusal to proceed with the collection.

Spaulding v. Northumberland, 64 N. H. 153.

Expiration of Term.—In Haley v. Petty, 42 Ark. 392, it was held that a collector's term continues until his successor is elected and qualified. See also PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378.

3. See PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, pp. 378, 440; OATH, vol. 16, p. 1017.

Acceptance of Bond.—When a bond is produced in a trial by the state, it is prima facie evidence of acceptance. McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 22.

Approval.—It has been held that the approval of a collector's bond is a ministerial act, and that mandamus lies in a proper case, to compel it. Bosely v. Woodruff County Ct., 28 Ark. 226.

New Bond.—In Texas, it has been held that a tax collector may be required to furnish a new bond, at the pleasure of the court, without first having been cited to appear and show cause. Poe v. State, 72 Tex. 625.

Amount of Bond.—It is usual to require from the tax collector, a bond for double the aggregate amount of taxes. Kane v. Garfield, 60 Vt. 79.

Illinois.—As to the oaths and the commencement of the term of office of a town collector, under the Illinois statute, see People v. Callaghan, 83 Ill. 128. As to notice of the amount of taxes to be collected, see Ross v. People, 78 Ill. 375.

4. Bradley v. Rapp, 10 La. Ann. 589; Farnsworth County v. Rand, 65 Me. 21.

A bond for a less amount than that required by statute, is void. Oatman v. Barney, 46 Vt. 594.

In Alabama, a bond was held void where it was made payable to the county court, when the statute required that it should be made payable to the governor. Calhoun v. Lunsford, 4 Port. (Ala.) 345. But in Texas, where the bond was required to run to the county judge, it was held that the county was protected by a bond running to the governor. King v. Ireland, 68 Tex. 682.

Cure of Omission to Give Bond.—The failure to give a bond required by statute, and not by constitution, may be usually held that mere formal irregularities and mistakes may be disregarded.¹

As a bond, whether required by statute or not, may be good at common law, if entered into voluntarily and for a valuable consideration, it follows that a collector's bond, though not in the statutory form, may yet be binding as a common-law bond.²

The execution of the bond is not always a condition precedent to the collector's assuming his official duties.³

The lawful acts of a de facto collector, as such, are valid; thus, payment to him will discharge a tax.⁴ The presumption that remedied by a curative act. Powers v. Penny, 59 Miss. 5.

1. See DeSoto County v. Dickson, 34 Miss. 150; Wilder v. Butterfield, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 385.

A collector's bond will hold the sureties to a liability for all moneys actually collected, even though the condition for accounting and paying over is left out. State v. Hill, 17 W. Va. 452.

A bond in which the sureties bind themselves in several amounts, the aggregate of which is equal to the statutory sum required, is valid against both principal and sureties, though there is no specification as to the amount to which the principal is bound. People v. Love, 25 Cal. 521.

2. Sooy v. State, 38 N. J. L. 324; Horn v. Whittier, 6 N. H. 88; Walker v. Chapman, 22 Ala. 116; Dudley v. Chilton County, 66 Ala. 593; Sweetser v. Hay, 2 Gray (Mass.) 49; Wilder v. Butterfield, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 385; Claassen v. Shaw, 5 Watts (Pa.) 468; 30 Am. Dec. 338; Dixon v. U. S., 1 Brock. (U. S.) 177; U. S. v. Howell, 4 Wash. (U. S.) 620; U. S. v. Fingey, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 115; Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347; Scarborough v. Parker, 53 Me. 252; Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 160; Gorham v. Hall, 57 Me. 58; Stevens v. Almen, 19 Ohio St. 485; People v. Collins, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 554; State v. Matthews, 57 Miss. 1; State v. Harney, 57 Miss. 863. And see DeSoto County v. Dickson, 34 Miss. 150; Harris v. State, 55 Miss. 50; French v. State, 52 Miss. 759; Byrne v. State, 50 Miss. 688; Taylor v. State, 51 Miss. 79; Lewenthal v. State, 51 Miss. 645; James v. State, 55 Miss. 57; 30 Am. Rep. 496; St. Joseph County v. Coffenbury, 1 Mich. 355; Post Master Gen'l v. Rice, Gilp. (U. S.) 554.

Seal.—A tax collector's bond which lacks a seal, may be binding upon him as a simple contract. Wilder v. But- terfield, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 385; Richardson v. Rogers, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 403; Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 160.

Collector Appointed by Military Authority.—The bond of a collector appointed by the military government, is valid security for those interested, though the collector is not governed by the state tax laws. State v. Cooper, 53 Miss. 615.

3. Scarborough v. Parker, 53 Me. 252; Morrill v. Sylvester, 1 Me. 248; Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 160. And see Bosley v. Woodruff County Ct., 28 Ark. 306; People v. Callaghan, 83 Ill. 128; Drew v. Morrill, 62 N. H. 23. But the acts of a collector have been held invalid where a bond was not given. Oatman v. Barney, 46 Vt. 594; Courser v. Powers, 34 Vt. 517.

4. Oldtown v. Blake, 74 Me. 280; Orono v. Wedgewood, 44 Me. 49; State v. Woodside, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 104. And see Waters v. State, 1 Gill (Md.) 302; Com. v. Philadelphia, 27 Pa. St. 497; Stockle v. Silsbee, 41 Mich. 615; Facey v. Fuller, 13 Mich. 527; Douglas v. Wickwire, 19 Conn. 489; Sullivan v. State, 66 Ill. 75; Williams v. School District, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; 32 Am. Dec. 243; Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113; Wilcox v. Smith, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 234; 21 Am. Dec. 213; Burke v. Elliott, 4 Ired. (N. Car.) 355; 42 Am. Dec. 142; Kingsbury v. Ledyard, 2 W. & S. (Pa.) 37; Farmers', etc., Bank v. Chester, 6 Humph. (Tenn.) 458. But see Houston v. Russell, 52 Vt. 110.

A collector of taxes who has not been sworn, is an officer de facto. Oldtown v. Blake, 74 Me. 280; Johnson v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29; Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347; Williams v. School Dist., 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; 32 Am. Dec. 243; State v. Woodside, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 104.

In Greene v. Walker, 63 Me. 311, it was held that the fact that a town treasurer had neither been sworn nor all public officers, who have acted as such, have been duly appointed, unless the contrary is shown, applies to tax collectors.¹ Where one is collector by virtue of the occupancy of some other office, as that of sheriff or constable, he holds two distinct offices, and must qualify for each.²

c. AUTHORITY—(1) Nature and Extent.—A tax collector's authority rests upon his warrant to make collections.³ In the absence of a warrant, he cannot proceed to enforce the payment of taxes.⁴ The tax roll, when completed, partakes of the nature of a judgment, and the warrant delivered with it to the collector is in the nature of an execution.⁵

given bond, was no defense against the enforcement of a tax, as he was still a de facto officer. But see Payson v. Hall, 30 Me. 319, as to the validity of a tax title, where the collector had not qualified. See generally, DE FACTO OFFICERS, vol. 5, p. 93.

1. Capwell v. Hopkins, 10 R. I. 378; Kent v. Atlantic De Laine Co., 8 R. I. 305; Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113; Eldred v. Sexton, 5 Ohio 215. And see Downer v. Woodbury, 19 Vt. 329. See generally, PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 436.

2. In re McCabe, 33 Ark. 396; Falconer v. Shores, 37 Ark. 386; People v. Ross, 38 Cal. 76; Lathrop v. Brittain, 30 Cal. 680; People v. Love, 25 Cal. 521. But see Broadwell v. People, 76 Ill. 554; Hughes v. People, 82 Ill. 78; Kilgore v. People, 76 Ill. 548; Wood v. Cook, 31 Ill. 271.

It is within the power of the legislature, however, to provide that there may be but one bond for both officers. People v. Ross, 38 Cal. 76.

In Mabry v. Tarver, 1 Humph. (Tenn.) 94, the court held that, under a statute requiring from the sheriff, an officer elected for two years, a bond, as collector of taxes, conditioned for the payment of the taxes in each and every year, a bond, given at the beginning of his first year of office, conditioned for the payment of the taxes of each of the two years, is a good statutory bond. See also Nevill v. Day, 3 Humph. (Tenn.) 38; Governor v. Porter, 5 Humph. (Tenn.) 166; McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 271.

3. Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93; Pearce v. Torrence, 2 Grant's Cas. (Pa.) 82; Stephens v. Wilkins, 6 Pa. St. 260; Ream v. Stone, 102 Ill. 359; Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Slade v. Governor, 3 Dev. (N. Car.) 365; Den v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129; First Nat. Bank v. Waters, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.)

242; Erskine v. Holmbach, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 613.

The collector can exercise no authority not authorized by the warrant. State v. Hawkins, 50 N. J. L. 122.

4. Donald v. McKinnon, 17 Fla. 746; Young v. Thomas, 17 Fla. 169; 39 Am. Rep. 93; Ream v. Stone, 102 Ill. 359; Binkert v. Wabash R. Co., 98 Ill. 218; Hill v. Figley, 23 Ill. 418; Corbin v. Hill, 21 Iowa 70; Van Rensselaer v. Witbeck, 7 N. Y. 517; Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85; Den v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129.

In Donald v. McKinnon, 17 Fla. 746, it was held that a sale made by a collector without a warrant, passes no title.

An objection that the collector acted without a rate-bill, must be taken at trial, and cannot be raised, for the first time, upon appeal. Picket v. Allen, 10 Conn. 146.

5. Moss v. Cummings, 44 Mich. 359; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28; Thibodaux v. Keller, 29 La. Ann. 508; Holden v. Eaton, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Hubbard v. Garfield, 102 Mass. 72; Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78; Savacool v. Boughton, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 171; 21 Am. Dec. 181. And see Cheever v. Merritt, 5 Allen (Mass.) 563; Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 55; Greene v. Mumford, 4 R. I. 318; Gossett v. Kent, 19 Ark. 602; Nowell v. Tripp, 61 Me. 426; 14 Am. Dec. 572; Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Mulford v. Sutton, 79 N. Car. 276; Gore v. Mastive, 66 N. Car. 371; Virdenn v. Bowers, 55 Miss. 1; Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 584; Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473; Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Wyandotte County, 16 Kan. 597; First Nat. Bank v. Waters, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 242; Erskine v. Holmbach, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 613. And see Yuba County v. Adams, 7 Cal. 35; Preston v. Boston, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 14; Byars v. Curry, 75

The collector is bound to obey a warrant in due form, issuing from the proper authorities, when it is not illegal on its face.¹

Where a tax is partly legal and partly illegal, and the illegal portion is clearly severable from the rest, it is the duty of the collector to proceed with the collection of so much as is lawful.²

In some states the collector is not required to have any formal writ or warrant; his authority rests upon his compliance with the statutory requirements, and upon the tax book or roll, no preliminary process being necessary.³

The collector cannot, ordinarily, collect taxes for years anterior to his election and qualification; his power extends only to taxes accruing during the period for which he was elected.⁴ The general authority of the collector is confined to the limits of his own collection district, and if he undertakes to execute his warrant beyond these limits, he must bring himself within the provisions of a statute permitting it.⁵

Ga. 515; Harris v. Wood, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 641; State v. Lutz, 65 N. Car. 503; Den v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129.

The duplicate is but a memorandum of the amount which the collector is to collect from the parties therein named respectively. Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93.

A warrant fills the place and performs the functions of a summons, and is the writ to the officer, by which he is authorized to collect the tax, or, in the event of its non-payment, to subject the property of the taxpayer to sale therefor. Donald v. McKinnon, 17 Fla. 746.

The collector's warrant and the tax roll together constitute the execution, and they must be construed together. Van Rensselaer v. Witbeck, 7 N. Y. 517.

1. First Nat. Bank v. Waters, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 242; Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199; Smyth v. Titcomb, 31 Me. 282. And see Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Roach, 80 N. Y. 339.

2. Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Mendocino v. Chalfant, 51 Cal. 369. And see Trull v. Madison County, 72 N. Car. 388.

In Vassalboro v. Nowell, 75 Me. 245, it was held that a collector who accepts a warrant and collects a portion of a tax, part of which is illegal, is obliged to collect so much of the remainder as is legally assessed.

3. Jackson County v. Gullatt, 84 Ala. 243; Parker v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 421; Tallman v. Cooke, 43 Iowa 330; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153; Litchfield v. Hamilton County, 40 Iowa 66; Rhodes v. Sexton, 33 Iowa 540; Timberlake v. Brewer, 59

Ala. 108; Johnson v. Chase, 30 Iowa 308; Hurley v. Powell, 31 Iowa 64; Pentland v. Stewart, 4 Dev. & B. (N. Car.) 386.

4. Otis v. Boyd, 8 Lea (Tenn.) 679; Fremont v. Boling, 11 Cal. 380. And see Skinner v. Roberts (Ga. 1893), 17 S. E. Rep. 353; Peck v. Holcombe, 3 Port. (Ala.) 329; Fitts v. Hawkins, 2 Hawks. (N. Car.) 394.

In some of the states, collectors are empowered to complete their collections, notwithstanding new collectors may have been chosen and sworn. See Scarborough v. Parker, 53 Me. 252; Picket v. Allen, 10 Conn. 146. But this has been changed by statute in Connecticut. See Castle v. Lawlor, 47 Conn. 340.

In Smith v. Riding (Del. 1891), 22 Atl. Rep. 97, it was held that a statute terminating the powers of collectors and abolishing the office, did not take from ex-collectors their power to collect all uncollected taxes included in their warrants for two years after the date thereof.

If the officer is delayed by the taxpayer, he may proceed after the expiration of the time within which he is required to act, Jones v. Arrington, 94 N. Car. 541; or after the expiration of his term of office. Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199. See also Slade v. Governor, 3 Dev. (N. Car.) 365; Gordon v. Lafayette County, 74 Mo. 426.

In Louisiana, the authority of the collector terminates when the delinquent list is returned. Hall v. Hall, 23 La. Ann. 135.

5. State v. Scammon, 22 N. H. 44; Gage v. Dudley, 64 N. H. 437; Mason

(2) The Warrant—(a) Issuance.—The warrant must be issued by authority of law, and in the manner designated by statute. It must be issued by and to the proper person or body.¹ It has been held that two or more warrants may be issued for the same tax.² The officer issuing the warrant is presumed to have performed his duty, and to have complied with all the requirements of law, until the contrary appears.³

v. Johnson, 51 Cal. 612; McKay v. Batchellor, 2 Colo. 591.

Removal of Taxpayer.—In Cheever v. Merritt, 5 Allen (Mass.) 563, it was held that where a taxpayer removes from a collector's district without paying his tax after its assessment, the collector's warrant for distress to the sheriff or constable of the town to which he has removed, need not recite the facts, i. e., the fact of removal, etc., which authorize the collector to issue it. This decision is apparently in conflict with that in Williamstown v. Willis, 15 Gray (Mass.) 427; but in Sherman v. Torrey, 99 Mass. 474, Chapman, C. J., attempts to reconcile them.

Provisions for the collection of personal taxes, from persons removing from one county to another, by sending a tax bill to the sheriff of the county to which they remove, cannot be attacked upon the ground of want of due process of law. De Arman v. Williams, 93 Mo. 158. And the remedy is not impaired by the fact that the removal was made with intent to return. Houghton v. Davenport, 23 Pick. (Mass.) 235.

Unorganized Counties.—An unorganized county is, in effect, a part of the county to which it is attached for the purpose of taxation, and the collection of taxes upon personal property situated in such county, may be enforced by the tax collector of the county to which it is attached. Llano Cattle Co. v. Faught, 69 Tex. 402.

1. Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93; Chalker v. Ives, 55 Pa. St. 81; Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575; Van Wagenen v. Brown, 26 N. J. L. 196; Talmadge v. Rensselaer County, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 611; Waite v. Hyde Park Lumber Co., 65 Vt. 103; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Nashville v. Pearl, 11 Humph. (Tenn.) 249.

In Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575, it was held that where an ordinance does not designate the officer from whom the warrant must issue, as required by statute, the warrant cannot be issued at all, and if issued, will be void.

In State v. Runyon, 42 N. J. L. 568, it was held that until a delinquent list has been duly returned by the proper officers, the warrant cannot issue.

Where several persons collectively are authorized to issue the warrant, it is void unless issued by all. Townsend v. Gray, 1 D. Chip. (Vt.) 127.

The warrant must be properly issued, although there is a statute providing that mere irregularities and omissions shall not invalidate the tax. Muskegon v. Martin Lumber Co., 86 Mich. 625.

In Pearce v. Torrence, 2 Grant's Cas. (Pa.) 81, it was held that it must appear to the justice of the peace that the individual has refused to pay his taxes, before he can issue the warrant.

Duty to Issue Mandatory—Mandamus to Compel.—The duty to issue the warrant is ministerial, and mandamus will lie, in a proper case, to compel the performance of this duty. People v. Halsey, 53 Barb. (N. Y.) 547; aff'd 37 N. Y. 344. See People v. Ashbury, 44 Cal. 617.

That the issuing of a warrant is a ministerial act, see Henry v. Sargeant, 13 N. H. 321; 40 Am. Dec. 146.

Upon Whom the Duty of Issuance Is Imposed.—It is usually imposed upon assessors, treasurers, or other officers connected with the administration of the tax laws. See People v. Halsey, 53 Barb. (N. Y.) 547; Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575.

In Iowa, the county judge signs the tax warrant. Corbin v. Hill, 21 Iowa 70.

2. Eddy v. Wilson, 43 Vt. 362. Compare, however, Inglie v. Bosworth, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 500; 41 Am. Dec. 419; Pond v. Negus, 3 Mass. 230; 3 Am. Dec. 131.

3. Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Bank of U. S. v. Tucker, 7 Vt. 134; Doolittle v. Doolittle, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 312; Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; State v. McIntosh, 7 Ired. (N. Car.) 68; Clemons v. Lewis, 36 Vt. 673.

(b) Contents.—The warrant must comply as to form and contents with the law authorizing its issue, any substantial non-compliance with the statutory requisites invalidating the warrant and all proceedings under it.¹ But irregularities which do not affect the rights of the taxpayer, and accidental informalities, defects, and omissions do not necessarily render the warrant invalid.²

The warrant is usually annexed to the assessment roll or a duplicate thereof,³ and must show distinctly what taxes are to be collected and against whom they are assessed.⁴ The warrant to collect taxes is not a process, and need not run in the name of

1. Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93; Pearce v. Torrence, 2 Grant's Cas. (Pa.) 82; Bradford v. Randall, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 495; Nashville v. Pearl, 11 Humph. (Tenn.) 249. And see Wing v. Hall, 47 Vt. 182; Cheshire v. Howland, 13 Gray (Mass.) 321. See Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Orneville v. Pearson, 61 Me. 552; Machiasport v. Small, 77 Me. 109; Den v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 29; Stephens v. Wilkins, 6 Pa. St. 260; May v. Wright, 17 Vt. 97; Van Wagenen v. Brown, 26 N. J. L. 196.

In Picket v. Allen, 10 Conn. 146, it was held that where the tax warrant was unaccompanied by a rate bill, the collector had no authority to take the property of any individual.

The system of valuation of property, by which a tax is extended, in the collector's return, and the oath or affidavit of the collector required to accompany it, are substantial requirements. People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384.

An execution issued for taxes, should specify for what taxes; otherwise it may be restrained by prohibition. State v. Graham, 2 Hill (S. Car.) 457.

2. Walker v. Miner, 32 Vt. 769; Wells v. Austin, 59 Vt. 157; Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 182; Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85; King v. Whitcomb, 1 Met. (Mass.) 328; Bailey v. Ackerman, 54 N. H. 527; State v. Charleston, 4 Rich. (S. Car.) 286; Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346; Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Spear v. Braintree, 24 Vt. 414; Goodwin v. Perkins, 39 Vt. 598; Wing v. Hall, 47 Vt. 182; Picket v. Allen, 10 Conn. 146; Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; First Nat. Bank v. Waters, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 242; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28; Tweed v. Metcalf, 4 Mich. 579; Mussey v. White, 3 Me. 290; Corbin v. Hill, 21 Iowa 70; American Tool Co. v. Smith, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 121.

In Bellows v. Weeks, 41 Vt. 590, it was held that an error in the date of the warrant, apparent upon its face, does not invalidate it.

A collector has been held to be protected, where the assessment roll was not accompanied by the required affidavit of the assessors. Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401; Boyd v. Gray, 34 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 322. And see Hart v. Smith, 44 Wis. 213.

In Wilcox v. Gladwin, 50 Conn. 77, it was held that the form for a warrant, given in the statute, is not imperative.

In Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85, it was held, where the warrant directed the collector to make the distress twelve days after demanding payment, instead of fourteen days as required by statute, that the warrant was not invalidated, if, in making the distress, the warrant was executed according to law. See also King v. Whitcomb, 1 Met. (Mass.) 328.

3. Black on Tax Titles, § 201. And see Donald v. McKinnon, 17 Fla. 746; Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Bailey v. Ackerman, 54 N. H. 527; Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401.

In Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85, it was held that a warrant to collect taxes, issued to a collector, does not authorize him to collect a tax by distress, unless it is accompanied with a tax list; but it is not necessary that the tax list should be annexed to the warrant. But see Picket v. Allen, 10 Conn. 145.

Under the Vermont statutes, the warrant for the collection of a state tax need not be attached to the rate bill. Bellows v. Weeks, 41 Vt. 590. But if it is annexed to the rate bill of one year, it will not justify taking property to satisfy the tax of another year. Rowell v. Horton, 57 Vt. 31.

4. Clark v. Bragdon, 37 N. H. 562; State v. Perkins, 24 N. J. L. 409. And see Machiasport v. Small, 77 Me. 109.

Where a warrant directs land to be the people.¹ Where a warrant is directed to the officer who is to execute it, as such officer, the omission of his name will not invalidate it.²

A warrant directed to the wrong officer is void,³ and neither he, nor the officer to whom it should have been directed, can execute it.⁴ Where lists are required to be kept separately for different classes of taxes, or for different political subdivisions, the requirement must be obeyed;⁵ but one warrant may direct the collection of all the lists.⁶

The warrant must, either in terms or by implication, authorize the collector to take all the steps necessary to collection, or it is invalid and requires no action on his part.⁷

(c) Execution and Delivery.—The warrant must be signed by the person, or by a majority of the body issuing it,⁸ in such a manner sold for a larger amount than the amount of taxes due thereon, the warrant is null and void as to the land in question. Hopper v. Malleson, 16 N. J. Eq. 382.

Description.—Particularity of description, sufficient to identify lands and ascertain their locations, is required in the duplicate, warrant, and notices of sale, only when the lien upon land for taxes given by statutes is intended to be enforced. State v. Hawkins, 50 N. J. L. 122; Pfeiffer v. Miles, 48 N. J. L. 450. And see Dickson v. Rouse, 80 Mo. 224.

1. Scarritt v. Chapman, 11 Ill. 443; Curry v. Hinman, 11 Ill. 420; Haley v. Elliott, 16 Colo. 159; Mussey v. White, 3 Me. 290; Tweed v. Metcalf, 4 Mich. 579; Wisner v. Davenport, 5 Mich. 501; Sprague v. Birchard, 1 Wis. 457. Compare Nashville v. Pearl, 11 Humph. (Tenn.) 249.

2. Wilson v. Seavey, 38 Vt. 221; Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Byars v. Curry, 75 Ga. 515. And see Pickett v. Allen, 10 Conn. 146; First Nat. Bank v. St. Joseph Tp., 46 Mich. 526; Bedgood v. McLain, 89 Ga. 793; Hays v. Drake, 6 Gray (Mass.) 387. But see Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575.

In Keith v. Freeman, 43 Ark. 296, it was held that a tax warrant addressed to the sheriff is not invalid, where the sheriff and collector are the same person.

3. Stephens v. Wilkins, 6 Pa. St. 260; Dinsmore v. Westcott, 25 N. J. Eq. 470. And see Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575. Compare Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Wilson v. Seavey, 38 Vt. 221.

4. Cannell v. Crawford County, 59 Pa. St. 196. Compare Scarry v. Lewis, 133 Ind. 96, as to the validity of the tax, when the tax duplicate was not delivered to the county auditor.

5. Thayer v. Stearns, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 482; People v. Moore, 1 Idaho 662; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12. And see Brown v. Powell, 85 Ga. 603. But see Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 597.

In Wall v. Trumbull, 16 Mich. 228, it was held that where a tax is placed in a separate column on the tax roll, when it is not required by law to be so placed, the rights of no one can be prejudiced thereby, and no one is entitled to complain. See also Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587.

6. Thayer v. Stearns, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 482.

A warrant authorizing a collector to collect several taxes, separately assessed, may be regarded as several warrants to collect the several taxes. Brackett v. Whidden, 3 N. H. 19.

7. Bachelor v. Thompson, 41 Me. 539; State v. Atkinson, 107 N. Car. 317; Frankfort v. White, 41 Me. 537; Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 161; Boothbay v. Giles, 64 Me. 403; Orneville v. Pearson, 61 Me. 552; Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482; Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 328.

In Orneville v. Pearson, 61 Me. 552, it was held that a collector of taxes, acting under a warrant, is exonerated from completing the service, if the warrant direct and exempt from distress of property not exempted by statute.

It is not necessary that a tax warrant should specifically direct the sales of real estate, in terms. Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502; King v. Whitcomb, 1 Met. (Mass.) 328.

8. Belfast Sav. Bank v. Kennebec

as to show the intention to give it official sanction;¹ but it is immaterial whether the signatures appear at the beginning or the end.²

Provisions in relation to the signature, as for instance, that both list and warrant shall be signed, are mandatory;³ but provisions as to the time of delivery are directory. The delivery of the warrant, however, must be made in time to allow the collector time for compulsory enforcement of the tax by action.⁴

3. Method of Collection—a. GENERALLY.—The government is entitled to all the remedies for the collection of taxes, to which

Land, etc., Co., 73 Me. 404; Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Goddard v. Seymour, 30 Conn. 394; Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436. And see Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420.

In Bellos v. Weeks, 41 Vt. 590, it was held that, in the absence of statutory provision, one selectman may properly perform the mechanical act of writing the names of the other members of the board, to a certificate of assessment, he being authorized by them so to do.

1. Belfast Sav. Bank v. Kennebec Land, etc., Co., 73 Me. 404.

In Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473, it was held that a warrant issued by supervisors of a county for the collection of taxes, is valid, even though the persons describing it are not described therein as supervisors, or by any other official designation.

Presumption of Due Signature.—It will be presumed that the tax list and warrant were duly signed by the assessors, in absence of proof to the contrary. Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199.

2. Belfast Sav. Bank v. Kennebec Land, etc., Co., 73 Me. 404; Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422.

A warrant does not, like a deed, import a sealed instrument. Bradford v. Randall, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 495.

Where the law requires the comptroller's signature to be "affixed" to a collector's warrant, the word "counter-signed" at the left of his name, does not vitiate his signature. Scammon v. Chicago, 42 Ill. 192.

In Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422, it was held that a highway tax is not void simply because the commissioner of highways did not sign the highway list, when he did sign the warrant for collection which was attached to the list. And in Kane v. Brooklyn, 114 N. Y. 586, the same rule was applied to the signature of the board of supervisors upon the city tax rolls of Brooklyn. See also Doolittle v. Doolittle, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 313.

Under the New Hampshire statute, the list of taxes committed to the collector, must be signed by the collector. Gordon v. Rundlett, 28 N. H. 435.

3. Belfast Sav. Bank v. Kennebec Land, etc., Co., 73 Me. 404; Colby v. Russell, 3 Me. 227; Foxcroft v. Nevens, 4 Me. 72; Johnson v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29; Bangor v. Lancey, 21 Me. 472; Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Chase v. Sparhawk, 22 N. H. 134; Copp v. Whipple, 41 N. H. 273. And see Den v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129.

It is not sufficient that the list is specially referred to in the warrant to the collector, accompanying it. Copp v. Whipple, 41 N. H. 273.

In Chase v. Sparhawk, 22 N. H. 134, it was held that selectmen issuing a warrant without authenticating the accompanying list of taxes, are answerable, in an action of trespass, for the act of the collector in the seizure of property for the enforcement of the collection of taxes, in pursuance of the direction contained in the warrant.

4. Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401; People v. Allen, 6 Wend. (N. Y.) 486; Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473; Oswego County v. Betts, 6 N. Y. Supp. 934; 53 Hun (N. Y.) 638; Alvord v. Collin, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 418; Hubbard v. Winsor, 15 Mich. 146; Smith v. Crittenden, 16 Mich. 152; Weeks v. Batchelder, 41 Vt. 317; Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 428.

A tax sale is not invalid because the tax collector's certificate was not dated, or because the auditor's certificate did not show when it was received in his office. Corburn v. Crittenden, 62 Miss. 125. See also Mills v. Scott, 62 Miss. 525; Wheeler, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Ligon, 62 Miss. 560.

it may choose to resort.¹ The state may provide that taxes shall be enforced, to the exclusion of other claims against the person or property.² The method employed to enforce the collection may be changed at any time before the taxes are discharged or paid,³ for example, the state may adopt more stringent measures;⁴ but the law as it was before the change will govern pending proceedings, unless it is otherwise provided.⁵ The statutory remedy is exclusive, unless other remedies are expressly authorized.⁶

1. See Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N. Y. 30; York v. Goodwin, 67 Me. 260; Packard v. Tisdale, 50 Me. 376; State v. Duncan, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 679; Jonesboro v. McKee, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 167; Rutledge v. Fogg, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 568; 91 Am. Dec. 299; Marr v. Bank of Tennessee, 4 Coldw. (Tenn.) 471.

2. A state is not bound to wait until the estate of a deceased person or insolvent has been distributed, but may enforce the payment of taxes, to the exclusion of other creditors. Dunlap v. Gallatin County, 15 Ill. 7. And see Bulfinch v. Benner, 64 Me. 404; Huiscamp v. Albert, 60 Iowa 421; In re Columbian Ins. Co., 3 Abb. App. Dec. (N. Y.) 239; Harvey v. South Chester, 99 Pa. St. 565.

3. Aplin v. Reynolds, 83 Mich. 471; In re Elizabeth, 49 N. J. L. 488; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Edwards v. Williamson, 70 Ala. 145.

The legislature has power to pass an act to remedy defects in a law authorizing a tax, while the tax remains uncollected. Cowgill v. Long, 15 Ill. 203.

4. In re Elizabeth, 49 N. J. L. 488. And see State v. Heman, 70 Mo. 441.

Knowledge of Taxpayer.—Every taxpayer is assumed to know the usual course taken to enforce payment of delinquent taxes. Louden v. East Saginaw, 41 Mich. 18.

5. Karnes v. People, 73 Ill. 274; State v. Waterville Sav. Bank, 68 Me. 519; Oakland v. Whipple, 44 Cal. 303; State v. Tufts, 108 Mo. 418; Fitch v. Elko County, 8 Nev. 271. And see Bellows v. Parsons, 13 N. H. 256; State v. Sloss, 83 Ala. 93; People v. Moore, 1 Idaho 662; State v. Shepherd, 74 Mo. 310; Smith v. Kelly (Oregon, 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 642; Pacific, etc., Tel. Co. v. Com., 66 Pa. St. 70; People v. Latham, 53 Cal. 386; New Orleans v. Day, 29 La. Ann. 416; New Orleans v. Rheinisch Westphalian Lloyds, 31 La. Ann. 784. But see Spokane County v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 5 Wash. 89; Brigins v.

Chandler, 60 Miss. 862; Bryan v. Harvey, 11 Tex. 311.

The repeal of a statute under which taxes are levied, however, puts an end to the right to collect them, unless the intent to preserve the right to collect appears. Gorley v. Sewell, 77 Ind. 317; Mount v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 25; Bleidorn v. Abel, 6 Iowa 5; State v. Hill, 70 Miss. 106.

Additional Taxes.—When the duty to collect taxes, in addition to the ordinary ones, is imposed upon a collector, he should proceed in the same manner as for the collection of other taxes. Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78.

New Remedies.—In Briggs v. People, 106 Ill. 270, it was held that a new remedy given to enforce a tax lien by foreclosure in equity, applies to pre-existing rights, as well as to those subsequently accruing.

Not Applicable to Municipal Assessments.—In Harvey v. South Chester, 99 Pa. St. 565, it was held that an act applying a new method for the collection of taxes in a certain county, has special reference to taxes, properly speaking, and does not apply to municipal claims or assessments which are made liens entitled to priority of payment by statute.

Constitutional Charges.—In New Orleans v. Wood, 34 La. Ann. 732, it was held that a constitutional provision with reference to the method of collecting taxes, is not self-operative, and the former mode of collecting remains in force until otherwise abrogated. Saloy v. Woods, 40 La. Ann. 585.

6. See Raynsford v. Phelps, 43 Mich. 342; Johnston v. Louisville, 11 Bush (Ky.) 527; People v. Lee, 112 Ill. 113; Biggins v. People, 96 Ill. 381; Hibbard v. Clark, 56 N. H. 158; 22 Am. Rep. 442; Pole v. Muscatine, 17 Iowa 298; Packard v. Tisdale, 50 Me. 376; Macy v. Nantucket, 121 Mass. 351; Andover, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Gould, 6 Mass. 43; 4 Am. Dec. 80; Crapo v. Stetson, 8 Met. (Mass.) 393; Alexander v. Helber,

b. SUMMARY PROCESSES—(1) Nature and Constitutionality.—The term “summary processes” is applied to those informal proceedings for the collection of taxes which are of a speedy and peremptory nature, differing from the ordinary and regular proceedings of courts of justice.¹ Such proceedings are not necessarily unconstitutional.²

(2) Construction.—Statutes authorizing summary processes for the collection of taxes, are to be strictly construed, as they are in derogation of the common law. They cannot be extended

35 Mo. 334; Caronchlet v. Picot, 38 Mo. 125; Faribault v. Misener, 20 Minn. 396; Montour v. Purdy, 11 Minn. 384; American Glucose Co. v. State, 43 N. J. Eq. 280; Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 399; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441. But see infra, this title, Collection by Action.

This rule does not apply where the remedy given is inadequate. Johnston v. Louisville, 11 Bush (Ky.) 527; McLean v. Myers, 134 N. Y. 480. And see Ryan v. Gallatin County, 14 Ill. 78; Central Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 109 N. Y. 250.

The rule has been laid down, however, that when the statutory remedy is defective, the courts cannot provide one. See Biggins v. People, 96 Ill. 381; Thompson v. Allen County, 13 Fed. Rep. 97.

In Byrne v. La Salle, 123 Ill. 581, it was held that where forfeited lands are sold for delinquent taxes, an action afterwards brought to recover a personal judgment against the owner may be barred; but such a proceeding will not in any way impair the validity of a personal judgment already rendered.

In State v. Georgia Co., 112 N. Car. 34, it was held that the existence of a special remedy for the collection of state and county taxes, restricts the revenue officers only, and not the state itself, which may pursue other methods than those provided for by statute.

In State v. Georgia Co., 112 N. Car. 34, it was held that the right of a state to forfeit the charter of a domestic corporation, for failure to pay taxes, does not bar its right to bring a creditor's suit for such taxes.

1. See Taylor v. Secor (State Railroad Tax Cases), 92 U. S. 575; McMillen v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 41; Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701; Dows v. Chicago, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 108; New Orleans v. Cannon, 10 La. Ann. 764.

2. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; State v. Sargeant, 76 Mo. 557; Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 494; Gibson v. Mason, 5 Nev. 283; Dingey v. Paxton, 60 Miss. 1038; McCarroll v. Weeks, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 246; McMillen v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 37; Kelly v. Pittsburgh, 104 U. S. 78; Railroad Tax Cases, 13 Fed. Rep. 722; Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586.

It is competent for the legislature to authorize the use of different summary processes for the collection of the sum taxed, see Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; or it may provide for its enforcement, either by action or by summary process, at the option of the officers whose duty it is to effect its collection. York v. Goodwin, 67 Me. 260.

Due Process of Law.—They do not infringe the provision that property shall not be taken without due process of law. Martin v. Mott, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 19; Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272; U. S. v. Ferreira, 13 How. (U. S.) 40; McMillen v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 37; Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586; Pearson v. Yewdall, 95 U. S. 294; Greene v. Briggs, 1 Curt. (U. S.) 311; Pritchard v. Marden, 24 Kan. 486; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Neenan v. Smith, 50 Mo. 525; Taylor v. Porter, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 146; 40 Am. Dec. 274; Jones v. Perry, 10 Yerg. (Tenn.) 59; 30 Am. Dec. 430; Vanzant v. Waddell, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 260; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260.

The constitutional provision that no person shall be deprived of property without due process of law, does not require that taxes shall be collected by an action in court, or under the forms of legal procedure. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260.

But the taxpayer must have an opportunity to comply with the requirements of the law, and the state, not he, must be the actor. Dingey v. Paxton, 60 Miss. 1038.

beyond their legitimate scope, and none of the safeguards which they have provided can be omitted.¹ And it must appear from the face of the proceedings that the requirements of law have been strictly complied with.² In determining what is required, however, the statute must receive a reasonable construction,³ and

Where a tax may be enjoined, and its validity tested, before a court of justice, due process of law is given, even though the party applying for relief is required to give security in advance, as in other injunction cases. McMillen v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 37. And see supra, this title, Due Process of Law.

Appeal.—The taxpayer, however, cannot be deprived of his property by summary process, unless the right of appeal is given to the courts to protect his substantial rights. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; Calhoun v. Fletcher, 63 Ala. 574; Mobile v. Baldwin, 57 Ala. 61; Aplin v. Reynolds, 83 Mich. 471; Railroad Tax Cases, 13 Fed. Rep. 722.

1. Scales v. Alvis, 12 Ala. 617; 46 Am. Dec. 269; Parker v. Burgen, 20 Ala. 251; Elliot v. Eddins, 24 Ala. 508; Gachet v. McCall, 50 Ala. 307; Milner v. Clarke, 61 Ala. 260; Pack v. Crawford, 29 Ark. 489; Graham v. Parham, 32 Ark. 676; Wilcox v. Gladwin, 50 Conn. 77; Redwine v. Hancock, 45 Ga. 364; Barlow v. Sumter County, 47 Ga. 642; Allen v. Scott, 13 Ill. 80; Chicago v. Rock Island R. Co., 20 Ill. 286; Chicago v. Wright, 32 Ill. 192; Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315; Scammon v. Chicago, 40 Ill. 146; People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384; Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 577; People v. Peacock, 98 Ill. 172; People v. Lee, 112 Ill. 113; Veit v. Graff, 37 Ind. 253; Gregory v. Wilson, 52 Ind. 233; Stevens v. Williams, 70 Ind. 536; McGahan v. Carr, 6 Iowa 331; 71 Am. Dec. 421; Ankeny v. Henningsen, 54 Iowa 29; Bishop v. Looan, 4 B. Mon. (Ky.) 116; McCall v. Clark County Ct., 1 Bibb (Ky.) 516; Chiles v. Com., 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 577; Williamsburg v. Lord, 51 Me. 599; Forster v. Forster, 129 Mass. 561; Newsom v. Hart, 14 Mich. 233; King v. Harrington, 18 Mich. 213; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Blair v. Compton, 33 Mich. 414; Ward v. Carson River Wood Co., 13 Nev. 44; Cambridge v. Chandler, 6 N. H. 271; Homer v. Cillely, 14 N. H. 85; Dawson v. Croisan, 18 Oregon 431; Drexel v. Com., 46 Pa. St. 37; Com. v. Standard Oil Co., 101 Pa. St. 119; Michie v. Mullin, 5

Hayw. (Tenn.) 90; Glass v. White, 5 Sneed (Tenn.) 475; Spear v. Ditty, 8 Vt. 421; Bellows v. Elliot, 12 Vt. 574; Sumner v. Sherman, 13 Vt. 612; Carpenter v. Sawyer, 17 Vt. 124; Judevine v. Jackson, 18 Vt. 470; Henry v. Tilson, 19 Vt. 447; Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Boardman v. Goldsmith, 48 Vt. 403; Emerson v. Thompson, 59 Wis. 619; Knox v. Paterson, 21 Wis. 247; Potts v. Cooley, 51 Wis. 355; Williams v. Peyton, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 77; Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 119; Early v. Doe, 16 How. (U. S.) 610.

The state and its officers are as much bound to observe the law, and proceed in the mode pointed out by statute in the collection of a tax, as are individuals in the enforcement of any statutory right. People v. Biggins, 96 Ill. 481.

In Walker v. People, 75 Ill. 614, it was held that an act to provide for the collection of revenue, and for the sale of real estate for non-payment of taxes for state, county, and municipal purposes, does not apply to a city, when it has no legislative authority to direct the time and manner of return of the collector's warrants therein provided for.

The rule of strict conformity to statutory provisions in the collection of taxes, applies also to ordinances adopted by a municipality under statutory authority. Glass v. White, 5 Sneed (Tenn.) 475.

When the statutes direct a thing to be done, or prescribe the form, time, and manner of doing it, it must be done in the form, time, and manner prescribed, or the act is invalid. Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388.

2. Francis v. Washburn, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 294; Hamilton v. Burum, 3 Yerg. (Tenn.) 359; Chicago v. Wright, 32 Ill. 192; Chicago v. Rock Island R. Co., 20 Ill. 286; Allen v. Scott, 13 Ill. 80; Richards v. Stogsdel, 21 Ind. 74; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 119.

3. Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Michie v. Mullin, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 90. And see Wilson v. Herrington, 86

when no particular form or manner of doing a thing is pointed out, any mode which effects the object may be sufficient.¹

(3) Different Kinds of Summary Methods—(a) Detention of Property.—Where the sheriff or other officer has in his hand a fund liable for taxes, the taxes may be deducted by him, or a direct claim for the amount due may be made against the fund by the collector, without instituting any other proceedings.²

So taxes may be collected indirectly, by directing that a debtor shall pay the tax upon the debt due and deduct it from moneys due his creditor, or that a corporation shall pay the tax upon its stockholders' shares, and deduct the sum paid for the dividends due the shareholders.³

Ga. 777; Harriman v. School Dist., 35 Vt. 311; Clemons v. Lewis, 36 Vt. 673.

A collector is not bound to keep or sell distrained property within the limits of the town in which it is first seized by him. Carville v. Additon, 62 Me. 459.

In King v. Whitcomb, 1 Met. (Mass.) 328, it was held that a demand by the collector, of payment of a tax assessed on a non-resident who has no agent or attorney in the city, is sufficient to justify a subsequent seizure and sale of his goods, if it be made at his last usual place of abode, in the town where he is taxed.

1. Chandler v. Spear, 22 Vt. 388; Spear v. Ditty, 8 Vt. 421; Bellows v. Elliot, 12 Vt. 574; Isaacs v. Shattuck, 12 Vt. 668; Michie v. Mullin, 5 Hayw. (Tenn.) 90.

It is no objection to the legality of the collector's proceedings, that one of the days during which he kept the distress according to law, was Sunday. Carville v. Additon, 62 Me. 469.

In Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28, it was held that a tax collector does not become a trespasser ab initio by keeping a horse, which is levied upon, a little longer than is absolutely necessary to giving notice and making sale, and that if the keeping is lawful, the expense of the keeping is a lawful charge, but where the keeping is unlawful, the owner may recover the excess.

2. In re Dupuy, 33 La. Ann. 258; Scholefield v. West, 44 La. Ann. 277; Central Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 109 N. Y. 250; In re Columbian Ins. Co., 3 Abb. App. Dec. (N. Y.) 239; Hoglen v. Cohan, 30 Ohio St. 436. See REVENUE LAWS, vol. 21, p. 301.

Where a city taxes its own stock, payment may be enforced by deducting the amount of the tax from interest due on the stock. Jenkins v. Charleston, 5 S. Car. 393; 23 Am. Rep. 14.

Where real estate on which taxes are due has been sold under a decree of a court of equity, the duty of a tax collector is to apply to the court to have the taxes paid out of the proceeds of sale. Prince George County v. Clarke, 36 Md. 206.

Decedent's Estate—Assignee.—In Millett v. Early, 16 Neb. 266, it was held that, upon the death of a taxpayer, a claim for taxes may be properly filed against his estate.

Under the Missouri statutes, taxes on the personal estate of a decedent, whether accruing before or after his death, are demands which may be established by proceedings either in the probate or circuit court. State v. Tittman, 103 Mo. 553. And see Richardson v. Palmer, 24 Mo. App. 480.

A petition by a collector of taxes, for an order to compel an assignee of a tax debtor to pay taxes due from the assignor, out of funds in his hands, which fails to show that any property went into the assignee's hands to which a lien could attach, and simply charges that he has funds in his hands sufficient to pay the taxes, is wholly insufficient. In re Johnson, 104 Ill. 50.

In Wolf v. Geffroy, 16 Ohio St. 219, it was held that provisions of the Ohio statute for the summary collection of taxes against executors and administrators, does not apply to taxes assessed upon the intestate before his death, but only to taxes assessed upon executors and administrators as such.

In Smith v. Gatewood, 3 S. Car. 333, it was held that where the lien of a municipal corporation for taxes is not displaced by a degree of foreclosure and sale thereunder, the remedy is not against the proceeds of the sale.

3. See Maltby v. Reading, etc., R.

In a proper case, the taxable property may be placed in the hands of a receiver, to collect the profits and apply them to unpaid taxes.¹

(b) Imposition of Penalties.—Penalties are frequently imposed for non-payment of taxes or as a punishment for fraud or evasion,² and where due notice and opportunity to be heard or to pay have been given the taxpayer, the imposition of the penalty is not unconstitutional.³ Though it may be otherwise where such notice

Co., 52 Pa. St. 140; Com. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 429; Com. v. North Pennsylvania R. Co., 129 Pa. St. 460; Ewing v. Robeson, 15 Ind. 26; Ottawa, etc., Glass Co. v. McCaleb, 81 Ill. 556; McVeagh v. Chicago, 49 Ill. 318; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 85 Ky. 108; New Orleans v. Louisiana Sav. Bank, 31 La. Ann. 826; State v. Mayhew, 2 Gill (Md.) 487; Barney v. State, 42 Md. 480; Haight v. Railroad Co., 6 Wall. (U. S.) 15; Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 18 Wall. (U. S.) 206; First Nat. Bank v. Kentucky, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 353; U. S. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 17 Wall. (U. S.) 322. And see also TAXATION (CORPORATE), vol. 25.

Mandamus.—In McVeagh v. Chicago, 49 Ill. 318, it was held that mandamus would lie to compel the officers of the bank to appropriate such dividends as might be necessary to pay the taxes. And to the same effect see Barney v. State, 42 Md. 480. See also State v. Mayhew, 2 Gill (Md.) 487. But in Eyke v. Lange, 90 Mich. 592, it was held that mandamus would not lie.

1. In Covington Gas Light Co. v. Covington, 84 Ky. 95, it was held that, as no portion of the property of a gas company can be seized and sold for taxes, where the effect would be to destroy the public use, the chancellor, in proper proceedings, may require the company through its chief officers to pay the tax into court or place the property in the hands of a receiver for that purpose. See also Louisville Water Co. v. Hamilton, 81 Ky. 521; Brinkman v. Ritzinger, 82 Ind. 358; Darusmonth v. Patton, 4 Lea (Tenn.) 597.

2. See State v. Consolidated Va. Min. Co., 16 Nev. 432; Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496; Burlington v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 41 Iowa 134; High v. Shoemaker, 22 Cal. 363; Slack v. Ray, 26 La. Ann. 675; State v. Jersey City, 37 N. J. L. 39; Durant v. Jersey City, 37 N. J. L. 291; Lacey v. Davis, 4 Mich. 140; 66 Am. Dec. 524; Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561; People v. Saginaw, 32

Mich. 260; People v. Horn Silver Min. Co., 105 N. Y. 76; Myers v. Park, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 550; Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; Wauwatosa v. Gunion, 25 Wis. 271; Com. v. Wyoming Valley Canal Co., 50 Pa. St. 410; State v. Huffaker, 11 Nev. 300; Willard v. Wetherbee, 4 N. H. 118; Ex p. Lynch, 16 S. Car. 32; State v. Manz, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 557; U. S. v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. Rep. 284.

Where the tax itself has been paid, the penalty cannot be enforced. Shaw v. Peckett, 26 Vt. 482.

A discount for payment within a prescribed time is provided for in some jurisdictions; for a similar purpose, see Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Ridgway v. O'Neill, 49 Pa. St. 174.

3. Slack v. Ray, 26 La. Ann. 674; Morrison v. Larkin, 26 La. Ann. 701; Dougherty v. Henarie, 47 Cal. 9; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; 76 Am. Dec. 521; Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; McChesney v. People, 99 Ill. 219; People v. Smith, 94 Ill. 226; Scammon v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 278; Weaver v. State, 89 Ga. 639; Burlington v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 41 Iowa 134; Ankeney v. Henningsen, 54 Iowa 31; DeTreville v. Smalls, 98 U. S. 517; Sharpleigh v. Surdam, 1 Flip. (U. S.) 472; In re Nichols, 54 N. Y. 62; St. Louis v. Sternberg, 69 Mo. 303; State v. Moss, 69 Mo. 495; State v. Cohen, 84 N. Car. 771; State v. Consolidated Va. Min. Co., 16 Nev. 432; State v. Hayne, 4 S. Car. 403; Ex p. Lynch, 16 S. Car. 32; Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 508; Myers v. Park, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 550; Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496.

A statute providing for the collection of a penalty upon taxes due from a defaulting non-resident landowner, is not in violation of a compact between the state and the United States, which declares that in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents. Scott v. Watkins, 22 Ark. 556.

and opportunity to be heard or to pay have not been provided for by the statute, nor their necessity recognized.¹

If the collection of the penalty is not otherwise provided for, it is collected in the same manner as the tax.² It has been said that the penalty should be reasonable in amount,³ but very heavy penalties have been upheld.⁴

To avoid conflict with the constitutional provision requiring equality and uniformity, the penalties must be equally and uni-

In People v. Peacock, 98 Ill. 172, it was held that a percentage added to a tax because of its non-payment, is not interest, but a penalty, within a constitutional provision forbidding the passage of local or special laws regulating the rate of interest.

When Interest and Penalties Begin to Run.—Where interest on taxes is provided for, but no time is fixed for its commencement, it runs from the expiration of the time allowed the taxpayer to make payment. Harrison v. U. S., 20 Ct. of Cl. 175. See also Com. v. Standard Oil Co., 101 Pa. St. 119; Delaware Div. Canal Co. v. Com., 50 Pa. St. 399.

In Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153, it was held that where lands are omitted by the assessor, and are afterwards placed upon the tax list by the county treasurer, as provided by law, the penalties for non-payment begin to run from the time of such entry by the county treasurer.

In Com. v. Standard Oil Co., 101 Pa. St. 119, it was held that the state could only claim interest from the time of notice and demand, under a statute imposing interest upon overdue taxes.

1. See Clayton v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 280; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. People, 46 Mich. 193; Redwood County v. Winona, etc., Land Co., 40 Minn. 512; State v. Certain Lands (Minn. 1889), 42 N. W. Rep. 473; Burger v. Carter, 1 McMull. (S. Car.) 409; Wauwatosa v. Gunyon, 25 Wis. 271.

The courts may be authorized to render judgment for a penalty, but power to impose it cannot be conferred upon a mere ministerial officer without any opportunity to be heard by the taxpayer. Scammon v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 269.

2. State v. Huffaker, 11 Nev. 300; Baker v. Kelley, 11 Minn. 480; Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 508. And see In re Nichols, 54 N. Y. 62; High v. Shoemaker, 22 Cal. 363; People v. Todd, 23 Cal. 181; Kansas, etc., R. Co.

v. Amrine, 10 Kan. 318; Burlington v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 41 Iowa 134. Costs may be collected in the same manner. People v. Todd, 23 Cal. 181.

In State v. Huffaker, 11 Nev. 300, in which the penalty was imposed for the non-payment of both state and county taxes, five-thirteenths of it was held to go to the state and eight-thirteenths, to the county, that being the proportion of the division of the whole tax.

Where, in an action for taxes, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment for the taxes themselves, he cannot recover judgment for penalties, interest, or attorney's fees. San Bernardino County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 118 U. S. 417.

It is not error to include the penalty given for non-payment of taxes, in a judgment for such taxes. Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587.

When penalties are withdrawn from consideration, although a part of the cause of action in that suit, a separate action may be afterwards maintained for their recovery. State v. California Min. Co., 13 Nev. 289.

The penalty is not a part of the tax. Ryan v. State, 5 Neb. 276.

3. See Lacey v. Davis, 4 Mich. 140; 66 Am. Dec. 524; Litchfield v. Webster County, 101 U. S. 773.

In Com. v. Standard Oil Co., 101 Pa. St. 119, it was held that a state can claim interest only from the time of notice and demand, under a statute imposing interest upon overdue taxes.

In Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561, it was held that penalties for the non-payment of taxes within a fixed time, cannot lawfully exceed legal interest. And in Swinney v. Beard, 71 Ill. 27, it was held that when the statute is silent as to the rate, it should be computed at the legal rate of interest.

4. See Ex p. Lynch, 16 S. Car. 35; Craig v. Flanagan, 21 Ark. 319; Pope v. Macon, 23 Ark. 644; Scott v. Watkins, 22 Ark. 556; Mulligan v. Huntrager, 18 Iowa 171; Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea

formly imposed upon all persons similarly situated and belonging to the same class.¹ The penalty, to be valid, must be founded upon the evasion or non-payment of a legal tax.²

A statute imposing a penalty cannot be given a retroactive effect;³ and penalties for non-payment or interest on taxes, the payment of which has been deferred, cannot be recovered, unless clearly authorized by statute.⁴ After the repeal of an act by which a penalty is imposed, the right to the penalty is gone; and (Tenn.) 508; Potts v. Cooley, 56 Wis. 45.

If a tax itself does not exceed the limit as to amount, it is no objection that, with the penalty for its non-payment added, the limit is exceeded. Tobin v. Hartshorn, 69 Iowa 648; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hartshorn, 30 Fed. Rep. 541.

Some of the cases have upheld penalties of an amount equal to the amount of the tax. See Butler v. Bailey, 2 Bay (S. Car.) 244; State v. Manz, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 557.

Interest Besides Penalties.—Where a penalty for each year during which a tax remains unpaid, is fixed, interest in addition thereto is not chargeable. People v. Gold, etc., Tel. Co., 98 N. Y. 67.

In Com. v. Cooke, 50 Pa. St. 201, it was held that a penalty settled by the auditor general and state treasurer, bears interest after three months from the date of settlement, under a statute providing that "balances" found to be due to the commonwealth, upon settlement, shall bear interest.

1. State v. Consolidated Va. Min. Co., 16 Nev. 432.

The imposition of a pecuniary penalty for non-payment upon one class of taxpayers, leaving other classes exempt from any penalty whatever, conflicts with constitutional provisions requiring taxes to be levied and collected under general laws. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 87 Ga. 487.

In Beecher v. Webster County, 50 Iowa 538, a statute conferring power upon supervisors to remit penalties upon unpaid taxes, when not collected within a certain time, has been held not to be in conflict with the constitution, either as impairing the obligation of a contract between the treasurer and the county, or as being a special law for the assessment and collection of taxes, or as being against public policy as encouraging delinquencies in the payment of taxes.

2. See Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 496; State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 71 Mo. 88; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Slack, 1 Holmes (U. S.) 231; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. People, 46 Mich. 193.

The same rule applies where a part of the sum was not legally taxed, Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Slack, 1 Holmes (U. S.) 231; or where the tax is excessive. Pike v. Cummings, 36 Ohio St. 213.

3. See People v. Thatcher, 95 Ill. 109; People v. Peacock, 98 Ill. 172; Ryan v. State, 5 Neb. 276; State v. Winona, etc., R. Co. (Minn. 1888), 40 N. W. Rep. 166; State v. Certain Lands (Minn. 1889), 42 N. W. Rep. 473; State v. Jersey City, 37 N. J. L. 39; Drexel v. Com., 46 Pa. St. 37. And see Fowler v. Fairchild, 3 Wash. 747; People v. Peacock, 98 Ill. 172. But see Biggins v. People, 106 Ill. 270.

A person against whom taxes are levied after the passage of an act authorizing the imposition of a penalty for non-payment, may be subject to the penalty, although the taxes were levied under an act previously passed. Durant v. Jersey City, 37 N. J. L. 271. See also Dougherty v. Henarie, 47 Cal. 9.

4. Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 55 Tex. 314; State v. Southwestern R. Co., 70 Ga. 11; Augusta v. Dunbar, 50 Ga. 387; Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Pendleton County (Ky. 1886), 2 S. W. Rep. 176; State v. Duncan, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 679; Elliott v. East Pa. R. Co., 99 U. S. 573. And see Bennett v. Peck (N. Y. 1889), 20 N. E. Rep. 571; State v. California Min. Co., 13 Nev. 203; Lake County v. Sulphur Bank, etc., Co., 68 Cal. 14.

In Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 85 Ky. 198, it was held that where an action for a penalty is barred after the lapse of a designated number of years, a fine or a triple tax cannot be imposed after the expiration of such period from the year for which the tax is claimed, even though the tax itself is not barred.

this, though the repealing act reserves to the state all taxes accruing or accrued under the statute repealed.¹

Where a state claimed adversely to the true owner of lands, and the proper authorities gave notice to the parties in interest that no legal steps would be taken in the collection of taxes until the title was adjusted, it was held that the statutory interest, which is in the nature of a penalty, could not be exacted for non-payment of taxes within the time prescribed by law, where the owner, on adjustment of the title, offered to pay so much of the taxes as were actually due.² And so, where there is doubt as to the legality of the tax, and payment is deferred until the question of legality can be tested, no penalty can be enforced for the delay.³

(c) Restriction of Rights.—The payment of taxes and penalties is sometimes made a condition precedent to the exercise of certain civil rights.⁴ Thus, by statute or constitution, it is sometimes provided that payment of the taxes for the current year shall be a condition precedent to the right to vote.⁵

And so statutes providing that a suit shall not be maintained upon a chose in action,⁶ nor for the property of which a party has

1. Com. v. Standard Oil Co., 101 Pa. St. 119; Anding v. Levy, 57 Miss. 51; 34 Am. Rep. 435; State v. Jersey City, 37 N. J. L. 39; Snell v. Campbell, 24 Fed. Rep. 880. But see Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153; Tobin v. Hartshorn, 69 Iowa 648; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hartshorn, 30 Fed. Rep. 541.

After a tax and the penalties which have accrued by reason of its non-payment have been swept away by repeal of the law which authorized it, the tax itself may be reimposed by subsequent legislation, but the penalties for the past omission cannot be revived. State v. Jersey City, 37 N. J. L. 39.

Remissions of penalties have been upheld. See Wheatly v. Covington, 11 Bush (Ky.) 18, and Beecher v. Webster County, 50 Iowa 538.

2. Litchfield v. Webster County, 101 U. S. 773. Compare Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153.

3. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Morton, 71 Ga. 24; Challiss v. Baker, 12 Kan. 253. And see Biggins v. People, 106 Ill. 270. But see Winnipiseogee Lake Cotton, etc., Co. v. Guilford, 64 N. H. 514, where it was held that the taxpayer was liable to pay the taxes due by him, as finally determined by the court upon appeal, though the delay in payment was caused by the pendency of the appeal. See also Western Union Tel. Co. v. State, 64 N. H. 265.

25 C. of L.—20

4. See Lott v. Dysart, 45 Ga. 355; Griffin v. Rising, 11 Met. (Mass.) 339; Patterson v. Barlow, 60 Pa. St. 55; Tharp v. Hart, 2 Sneed (Tenn.) 569; Cambiose v. Maffett, 2 Wash. (U. S.) 98.

5. See Griffin v. Rising, 11 Met. (Mass.) 339; Patterson v. Barlow, 60 Pa. St. 54; In re Duffy, 4 Brew. (Pa.) 531; State v. Mayhew, 2 Gill (Md.) 487.

Exceptions contained in such provisions should be liberally construed. Redwine v. Hancock, 45 Ga. 364.

Liability of Assessors.—An action cannot be maintained against assessors by an individual liable to taxation for their omission to tax him, whereby he loses his right to vote, unless the omission was intentional. Griffin v. Rising, 11 Met. (Mass.) 339.

6. See Lott v. Dysart, 45 Ga. 355. A subsequent repeal of an act avoiding a contract for non-payment of a tax, does not render the contract valid. Anding v. Levy, 57 Miss. 51; 34 Am. Rep. 435.

When proof of payment has been made upon the original contract, it need not be made upon a mere renewal thereof; but if the terms are changed, the proof must be made. Greene v. Lowry, 46 Ga. 55.

Where a set-off has been pleaded with a cost of action, it is error to allow the plaintiff to dismiss his action upon his own motion, upon the ground that he has not paid taxes on his own been deprived, unless he shows that the taxes thereon have been paid, have been upheld.¹ Statutes providing that conveyances shall not be recorded until proof of the payment of taxes, are not unconstitutional.² Analogous statutes, however, have been held unconstitutional in some cases.³

(a) Seizure—Levy or Distress of Property.—(See also infra, this title, Tax Sales).—Statutes frequently provide that the collector may enforce collection by a seizure and sale of the delinquent taxpayer's property, and apply the proceeds to the satisfaction of the taxes. Such summary method of collection is not unconstitutional.⁴ Seizure is usually made upon the theory debt, as required by law. Scruggs v. Gibson, 45 Ga. 509.

Offer to Pay into Court.—Where, upon the trial of an action, the plaintiff failed to show that the taxes due upon the debt sued for, had been paid, but proposed in open court then and there to pay them into court, for the use of the state, it was held error for the court to deny him the right so to pay them. Lott v. Dysart, 45 Ga. 355.

In Georgia, when suit is brought by a representative of an estate to which a widow and minor children are entitled, and there are no debts, no proof of payment of taxes need be made. Redwine v. Hancock, 45 Ga. 364.

1. See Taylor v. Burdett, 11 Leigh (Va.) 334; Tharp v. Hart, 2 Sneed (Tenn.) 569; Burrow v. Smith, 2 Sneed (Tenn.) 566.

2. State v. Ramsey County, 26 Minn. 521.

Neither does such a restriction, in effect, impose a penalty for non-payment of taxes. State v. Ramsey County, 26 Minn. 521. Compare Weller v. St. Paul, 5 Minn. 95.

3. In Lassitter v. Lee, 68 Ala. 287, a section of the revenue law of 1868, which provided that before any person claiming title to real property sold for taxes under the act should be entitled to prosecute or defend any suit against any person claiming such property under any tax sale, he should deposit in court double the amount of the purchase-money, together with all taxes and interest accruing since the sale and the value of improvements made by the purchaser, was held to prescribe a condition precedent so unreasonable as to impair constitutional rights. See also Whitworth v. Anderson, 54 Ala. 33; South, etc., Ala. R. Co. v. Morris, 65 Ala. 193; Reed v. Tyler, 56 Ill. 288; Wilson v. McKenna, 52 Ill. 44; Conway v. Cable, 37 Ill. 82; 87 Am. Dec. 240;

Senichka v. Lowe, 74 Ill. 274; Curry v. Hinman, 11 Ill. 420; Weller v. St. Paul, 5 Minn. 95.

In Reece v. Knott, 3 Utah 451, it was held that a statute prohibiting persons who are not taxpayers, from serving on juries, conflicts with the provision of the federal constitution that the right of trial by jury shall be preserved.

4. See State v. Allen, 2 McCord (S. Car.) 55; Biscoe v. Coulter, 18 Ark. 423; Harris v. Wood, 6 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 641; Cone v. Forest, 126 Mass. 97; Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586.

Validity, How Tested.—In Saunders v. Russell, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 293, it was held that the action of a tax collector in seizing property by a distress warrant, is both judicial and ministerial, and the writs of certiorari and supersedeas are the proper means by which to test the validity of a warrant or the right to issue it.

Execution.—The tax collector is sometimes authorized to issue executions against persons who shall make default in returning their taxable property or paying their taxes. State v. Allen, 2 McCord (S. Car.) 39; State v. Hodges, 14 S. Car. 256; State v. Columbia, 6 S. Car. 11; Wilson v. Herrington, 86 Ga. 777; Wright v. Central R., etc., Co., 85 Ga. 649.

In Smith v. Goldsmith, 63 Ga. 736, it was held that upon failure to pay, the officer might issue execution, whether return had been made or not.

In Gardner v. Donaldson, 80 Ga. 71, it was held that a misdescription of improved land, as wild, where the officer had authority to issue execution against land whether wild or improved, did not affect the validity of the sale thereof.

In State v. Charleston, 4 Rich. (S. Car.) 286, it was held that an execution issued by a municipality was not that the tax list and warrant are in the nature of an execution.¹

Property subject to levy and sale for the non-payment of taxes, is not necessarily the same as that subject to execution and attachment.² But where the statute authorizes the tax collector, in general terms, to levy on personal property, it is construed to mean such property as is generally subject to levy and sale under execution.³

It has been held that, in the absence of statute, the collector is not bound, nor even authorized, to seize personalty in satisfaction of taxes on the realty.⁴ And it has been provided by some statutes that each parcel of property shall be liable for its own taxes, and that no parcel shall be liable for the taxes on any other parcel.⁵ But the seizure of personalty in satisfaction of taxes upon defective in not specifying the subject of taxation.

Must be Uniform.—A law subjecting one class of taxpayers to execution for taxes due upon a certain date, while other taxpayers are exempt from such execution until a later date, is unconstitutional. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 87 Ga. 487.

Property Subject to Seizure or Distress.—The property subject to seizure or distress is usually designated by statute. Thus, in Blain v. Irby, 25 Kan. 499, promissory notes were held to be within a law authorizing a levy upon goods and chattels. And in Maus v. Logansport, etc., R. Co., 27 Ill. 77, it was held that the rails of a railroad company might be levied upon for non-payment of taxes, under the Illinois statutes.

In Marshall v. Wadsworth, 64 N. H. 386, it was held that the term applies and is limited to the seizure of personal chattels only.

Exemptions.—In Alabama, it is provided that no property, whether exempt by law from taxation or not, shall be exempt from levy and sale for the payment of taxes. Code of Alabama 1886, §§ 540, 542. Under this provision, it was held that personal property purchased by the delinquent taxpayer, after the assessment, is subject to levy. Solomon v. Willis, 89 Ala. 596.

1. See supra, this title, The Collector—Authority.

2. Kennedy v. Mary Lee Coal, etc., Co., 93 Ala. 494. And see Boyd v. Wilson, 86 Ga. 379; Wilson v. Boyd, 84 Ga. 34. And see also Srock, vol. 23, p. 582, and cases cited in note 7, p. 632.

In Scales v. Alvis, 12 Ala. 617; 46 Am. Dec. 269, it was held that no personal property was exempt from levy and sale under the Alabama statutes, when the object is the collection of delinquent taxes.

3. Kennedy v. Mary Lee Coal, etc., Co., 93 Ala. 494; Souhegan Nail, etc., Factory v. McConihe, 7 N. H. 308. And see Blain v. Irby, 25 Kan. 499.

Vessels, like any other property, are subject to state taxation, and are liable to seizure for taxes levied and due thereon. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374; Wheeling, etc., Transp. Co. v. Wheeling, 99 U. S. 273.

Shares of stock are not subject to levy and sale for taxes, unless made so by statute, such property being incapable of actual or constructive possession or control. Kennedy v. Mary Lee Coal, etc., Co., 93 Ala. 494.

4. State v. Cain, 18 Neb. 631; Littler v. McCord, 38 Ill. App. 147.

5. See Merrick v. Hutt, 15 Ark. 331; State v. Sargeant, 76 Mo. 557. See also Kirkwood v. Magill, 6 Kan. 540; Howland v. Augusta, 74 Me. 79. Where this requirement exists, the collector has no power to apply the proceeds of one lot in payment of the taxes upon another, even though they both belong to the same owner. State v. Sargeant, 76 Mo. 557.

Where the tax is a lien upon the property, the collector may seize and sell it without inquiry as to the title of the person to whom it is assessed. Cooper v. Holmes, 71 Md. 20.

Under the Louisiana statute, it has been held that the collector cannot seize property for the non-payment of taxes upon other property, unless it is shown that he has attempted to reach and seize the property assessed, and has been prevented by the debtor's own act. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La.

realty, has been authorized by statutes in many states;¹ and indeed, as a general rule, it is required that personalty shall be first exhausted before resorting to the realty.²

Ordinarily, a levy upon the goods of one, to pay the taxes of another, is void;³ but the law may adopt the presumption of ownership arising from possession, and provide for seizure, upon failure of the taxpayer to pay the tax imposed on him, of any goods and chattels in his possession.⁴ So, where taxes may be assessed to the occupant, or where the tax is a burden or charge upon the property, the property of the person in possession may be seized for the taxes.⁵

Property of a delinquent taxpayer cannot be seized in the hands

Ann. 374; Meyer v. Parker, 41 La. Ann. 440.

1. See Schaeffer v. People, 60 Ill. 179; Ring v. Ewing, 47 Ind. 246; Ewing v. Robeson, 15 Ind. 26; Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 465; Blain v. Irby, 25 Kan. 499; Lynam v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367; Wright v. Wigton, 84 Pa. St. 183.

2. See infra, this title, Tax Sales.

Penalty.—In Foresman v. Chase, 68 Ind. 500, it was held that the fact that a delinquent taxpayer had personal property out of which his taxes might have been made, but which the collector did not take, did not save the delinquent from a penalty, or release him from the tax.

3. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Cleino, 2 Dill. (U. S.) 175; Dubois v. Webster, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 371; Hallock v. Rumsey, 22 Hun (N. Y.) 89; Daniels v. Nelson, 41 Vt. 161; 98 Am. Dec. 577; Sumner v. Pinney, 31 Vt. 717. And see Meyer v. Larkin, 3 Cal. 403.

The doctrine of constructive fraud, applicable to change of title in personal property, without change of possession, does not apply in favor of a state or municipality levying a tax, and therefore, the seizure of a chattel for the taxes of a vendor after its sale, is illegal, even though it still remains in the vendor's possession. Daniels v. Nelson, 41 Vt. 161; 98 Am. Dec. 577.

In Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Roach, 80 N. Y. 339, it was held that a statute declaring that goods and chattels upon lands shall be deemed to belong to the person to whom the lands are assessed, did not apply to goods transiently upon the lands, belonging to a person in no way liable to pay the tax. See also Stockwell v. Vietch, 15 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 412.

In Indiana, the property of a guardian cannot be seized to pay taxes assessed against him upon the property of his ward. Tousey v. Bell, 23 Ind. 423. But in New York, the individual property of a personal representative or trustee, may be taken for a tax imposed upon him in his representative character, when no property of the testator or cestui que trust can be found. Williams v. Holden, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 224. See also supra, this title, Upon Whom Imposed.

Municipality Not Liable.—In Wallace v. Menasha, 48 Wis. 79; 33 Am. Rep. 804, it was held that a city is not liable in tort for the acts of its treasurer, performed in good faith in the execution of his tax warrant, in seizing and selling the property of one person for the delinquent tax of another.

4. Sears v. Cottrell, 5 Mich. 251; Hersee v. Porter, 100 N. Y. 403; Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473.

Crops grown and matured upon lands are liable to distress and sale for the taxes assessed upon them. Blodgett v. German Sav. Bank, 69 Ind. 153. But where the crop was planted and cultivated by the widow and son of the owner, and the lands were sold under a decree of foreclosure, previous to his death, it is not liable for the payment of taxes charged against him. Gregory v. Wilson, 52 Ind. 233.

The possession required to justify a seizure of property for taxes, is the actual physical, and not the legal or constructive possession. Hersee v. Porter, 100 N. Y. 403. See also Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Roach, 80 N. Y. 339.

5. McGregor v. Montgomery, 4 Pa. St. 237; Wright v. Wigton, 84 Pa. St. 163; Morrow v. Dows, 28 N. J. Eq. 459.

The property of the occupant may be seized, even though it is not upon the premises taxed. McGregor v.

of a bona fide purchaser for value, unless the tax is a lien upon it.¹ Where property is in the hands of the law, it is not liable to seizure and sale without an order of court.²

In general, where taxes on real estate are assessed to a non-resident, the collector cannot seize and sell personal property to enforce the payment thereof.³

The seizure must be made with the formalities, and in the manner, required by law.⁴

The collector should, if possible, distrain no more of the delinquent property than is sufficient to pay the tax.⁵ He should exercise a sound discretion as to the property seized, and should select such articles as will best facilitate the satisfaction of the tax with the least expense and inconvenience to the taxpayer.⁶

Actual custody and control of the property by the collector or his agent is necessary to a valid distraint.⁷ The law governing Montgomery, 4 Pa. St. 237. And see McLean v. Cook, 23 Wis. 364.

In Vermont, property under lease is not distrainable for the lessor's taxes. Bartlett v. Wilson, 60 Vt. 644.

1. See Moore v. Marsh, 60 Pa. St. 46; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Cleino, 2 Dill. (U. S.) 175. See also Lyon v. Guthard, 52 Mich. 271; Maish v. Bird, 22 Fed. Rep. 180; Jacob v. Preston, 31 La. Ann. 518; New Orleans, etc., Inst. v. Leslie, 28 La. Ann. 496.

But it may be seized, if the purchase was conclusively made for the purpose of defeating the collection of the tax. Gray v. Finn, 96 Mich. 62.

In Pennsylvania, real estate which has passed the assignee under a voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors, is not exempt from the payment of taxes, whether assessed thereon before or after the assignment is made, and personal property remaining with the land after the assignment, is liable to distress for their non-payment. Wright v. Wigton, 84 Pa. St. 163.

2. Yuba County v. Adams, 7 Cal. 35; Prince George's County v. Clarke, 36 Md. 206.

3. Lunt v. Wormell, 19 Me. 100; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 16 Barb. (N. Y.) 651. And see Kensworth v. Mitchell, 21 Ark. 145; Merrick v. Fenno, 15 Ark. 331.

In Dawson v. Croisan, 18 Oregon 431, it was held that a requirement that the assessor shall demand immediate payment of a tax, and on default thereof, immediately collect the same, when the property is assessed to any person who is not a permanent resident of the county, or who is about to depart or remove his property therefrom, does not apply to a non-resident to whom a resident has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors.

4. See Covington Gas Light Co. v. Covington, 84 Ky. 94; Veit v. Graff, 37 Ind. 253; Lefavour v. Bartlett, 42 N. H. 555; Howard v. Augusta, 74 Me. 79; Dawson v. Croisan, 18 Oregon 431.

In North Carolina, the officer is not required to exhibit a certified copy of the tax list from the officer required to make it out, before he distrains property to enforce the tax. State v. Lutz, 65 N. Car. 503; Gore v. Mastin, 66 N. Car. 371. It is sufficient if the list has been delivered to him. Gore v. Mastin, 66 N. Car. 371.

5. Cone v. Forest, 126 Mass. 97; Thompson v. Currier, 24 N. H. 239. And see Libby v. Burnham, 15 Mass. 144.

The officer is to exercise a sound discretion as to the amount to be seized. Jewell v. Swain, 57 N. H. 506; Com. v. Lightfoot, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 298.

6. Jewell v. Swain, 57 N. H. 506. And see Forster v. Forster, 129 Mass. 561; Williams v. Peyton, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 77.

The fact that the market and other circumstances were unfavorable at the time the cattle of the delinquent were distrained, was held no ground for an injunction to restrain the sale, where the defendant had induced the delay by his own conduct and request. Breese v. Haley, 10 Colo. 5.

7. Dodge v. Way, 18 Vt. 457; Forth v. Pursley, 82 Ill. 152.

In Forth v. Pursley, 82 Ill. 152, it was held that possession in the officer was not essential to a valid sale as attachments and executions applies to seizures for non-payment of taxes, unless otherwise provided.¹ Thus, a sufficient levy upon personal property for the collection of a tax, is prima facie a satisfaction of the tax.²

(e) Arrest and Imprisonment.—It is sometimes provided that, upon failure to collect the tax out of the property of the taxpayer, the collector may seize the person of the delinquent and commit him to jail upon his warrant; by other provisions, the collector may make application to a court of competent jurisdiction to enforce the tax by attachment or fine.³ Such statutes are not against the party against whom the warrant issued, though it was as to third parties.

In Bellocoq v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 471, it was held that where the seizure is regular, the possession of the owner ceases.

In New Richmond Lumber Co. v. Rogers, 68 Wis. 608, it was held that where the officer took possession of a portion of a lot of heavy lumber upon which taxes had not been paid, and notified the only person near the premises that he had levied on it, this was a sufficient levy upon the whole.

In Louisiana, where the taxpayer refuses to deliver up delinquent property, a judicial proceeding is given to the collector to enforce the delivery, and such proceeding is not unconstitutional. State v. Meyer, 41 La. Ann. 436. And see Parker v. Sun Ins. Co., 42 La. Ann. 1172.

In Alabama, a proceeding in the nature of a garnishment is allowed against persons having in their possession the property of delinquent taxpayers. State v. McAllister, 60 Ala. 105.

1. See Georgia v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 3 Woods (U. S.) 435; Kennedy v. Mary Lee Coal, etc., Co., 93 Ala. 494; Meyer v. Larkin, 3 Cal. 403.

In Meyer v. Larkin, 3 Cal. 403, it was held that where a tax collector levies on the property of a partnership for a tax due from one of the firm, and sells the whole property and disposes of all the partners, he is guilty of a trespass.

A warrant for the collection of a tax issued against an individual doing business under a special name, may be levied upon the money or property used by such person in such business, by that name. Patchin v. Ritter, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 34.

In New Orleans, the registry of taxes due the city is a seizure of the property on which the taxes are assessed, and operates as a binding notice to all future purchasers and incumbrancers of the property. Bellocoq v. New Orleans, 31 La. Ann. 471.

2. Henry v. Gregory, 29 Mich. 68.

In Campbell v. Wyant, 26 W. Va. 702, it was held that where the sheriff levied upon sufficient personal property to pay the taxes on land, for which the levy was made, and the property was lost through his neglect and misconduct, without any fault of the owner, the taxes so levied should be paid. But a levy on and release of the goods of a stranger, under the mistaken supposition that they are the goods of the landlord, is no bar to a distress of the tenant's goods for the same tax. McGregor v. Montgomery, 4 Pa. St. 237.

A distress for a tax, where the goods are retaken and held on replevin, will not operate as a payment or discharge of the tax. Farnsworth County v. Rand, 65 Me. 19.

Forthcoming Bond—Action by Collector on Promise of Taxpayer to Pay Taxes in Consideration of Forbearance.—In Packard v. Tisdell, 50 Me. 376, it was held that an action could not be maintained by a town collector, upon a promise to pay him the tax in consideration that he would forbear to collect the same in the manner required by law, although by such neglect he becomes liable to account for the tax, until he actually pays it to the town.

In Hardesty v. Price, 3 Colo. 556, it was held that, where the owners of personal property levied upon by a collector for delinquent taxes, resumed possession, giving a bond conditioned to abide the decision of the county commissioners as to the legality of the assessment, the transaction was against public policy and the bond was void.

3. Wilcox v. Gladwin, 50 Conn. 77; Nowell v. Tripp, 61 Me. 426; 14 Am. Rep. 572; Liberty v. Hurd, 74 Me. 101; unconstitutional, nor are they affected, it seems, by the abolition of imprisonment for debt.¹

The right to seize the person of the delinquent, must be conferred by statute;² and the collector can act only upon a legal warrant.³ As a general rule, no arrest can be made where McMahon v. Palmer, 102 N. Y. 176; 55 Am. Rep. 796; McMahon v. Redfield, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 1; In re Nichols, 54 N. Y. 66; Appleton v. Hopkins, 5 Gray (Mass.) 530; Daggett v. Everett, 19 Me. 373; Butler v. Washburn, 25 N. H. 251; Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209; Flint v. Whitney, 28 Vt. 680; Henry v. Tilson, 19 Vt. 447.

The affidavit, upon application for the examination of a delinquent taxpayer, under the New York statute, need not show jurisdiction to impose the tax. In re Conklin, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 588.

A taxpayer cannot prove that he had sufficient personal property out of which the collector might have made the tax, in a proceeding in which he has been ordered to appear before a judge to be examined concerning his property, or in a contempt proceeding brought by the receiver of taxes to enforce their payment. In re Hartshorn, 63 Hun (N. Y.) 624. And see McLean v. Erlanger, 62 Hun (N. Y.) 1.

In McLean v. Erlanger, 62 Hun (N. Y.) 1, it was held that the costs of a contempt proceeding in an action for the recovery of a tax, should not be awarded against the taxpayer, where it appears that sufficient personal property existed, upon which to levy.

Arrest, How Made.—In Gordon v. Clifford, 28 N. H. 402, it was held that a collector may lawfully force open the outer door of a house in which the tax debtor has taken refuge, in order to arrest him.

1. McMahon v. Palmer, 102 N. Y. 176; 55 Am. Rep. 796; Com. v. Byrne, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 165.

In Reg. v. Morris, 21 U. C. Q. B. 392, it was held that a warrant might issue to imprison a person for non-payment of statute labor, without first summoning him to answer, or making a conviction.

Imprisonment for Debt.—In Appleton v. Hopkins, 5 Gray (Mass.) 530, it was held that the Massachusetts statute abolishing imprisonment for debt, did not apply to a warrant of distress for non-payment of taxes.

Discharge in Bankruptcy.—Although the delinquent taxpayer had received his certificate of discharge under the United States Bankrupt Act, it was held that he might be arrested upon the warrant. Aldrich v. Aldrich, 8 Met. (Mass.) 102. See also Wilmarth v. Burt, 7 Met. (Mass.) 257.

Bond for Release.—In Skinner v. Lyford, 73 Me. 282, it was held that a poor debtor's bond given to obtain release from an arrest for taxes under a statute authorizing it, should run to the assessors of the town at the time the arrest was made.

2. St. Louis v. Green, 7 Mo. App. 468. And see Marshall v. Wadsworth, 64 N. H. 386; St. Louis v. Sternberg, 4 Mo. App. 453; Shaw v. Peckett, 26 Vt. 482.

Where a penalty of a double tax is proposed for failure to take out a license, the party thus failing is not within the provision of a statute declaring certain acts to be misdemeanors, and providing a penalty therefor, where no other penalty is imposed by statute. State v. Manz, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 557.

A statute authorizing the collection of delinquent taxes, by distress or sale, confers no power to arrest the person of the taxpayer. Marshall v. Wadsworth, 64 N. H. 386.

3. See Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482; Orneville v. Pearson, 61 Me. 552; Lowe v. Weld, 52 Me. 588; Foxcroft v. Nevins, 4 Me. 72; Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 328.

But if the warrant is good, the right to arrest is not affected by the fact that the person arrested was not liable to assessment. Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209.

In Bassett v. Porter, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 487, it was held that a collector may arrest a person for the non-payment of his tax, after the expiration of the time limited in the warrant.

A warrant of arrest, omitting an alternative direction to levy on real estate, is not thereby invalidated. Wilcox v. Gladwin, 50 Conn. 77. But a tax warrant, commanding the officer, on non-payment, to "proceed as the law the delinquent has sufficient goods to satisfy the tax, which the collector might have found if he had sought for them.¹

c. COLLECTION BY ACTION—(1) The Right to Proceed by Action.—Taxes are not debts,² and therefore, as a general rule, the common-law action of debt does not lie for their collection where another remedy is given.³ The right to proceed by action is, however, frequently conferred by statute.⁴

directs," is insufficient to authorize an arrest. Flint v. Whitney, 28 Vt. 680.

1. Lothrop v. Ide, 13 Gray (Mass.) 93; Wilcox v. Gladwin, 50 Conn. 77; McMahon v. Redfield, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 1; Henry v. Tilson, 19 Vt. 447. And see Com. v. Byrne, 20 Gratt. (Va.) 165.

A return of "no goods found" is not conclusive. McMahon v. Redfield, 12 Daly (N. Y.) 1.

To make the tax collector liable for making an arrest, proof of a general request to take property is not sufficient, although the taxpayer has it; there should be a distinct and immediate offer of specific property; the collector is not obliged to delay. Flint v. Whitney, 28 Vt. 680.

In New Hampshire, a collector of taxes is not bound to search for property, but may arrest the body of the delinquent, and is not obliged to discharge him upon his afterwards exposing sufficient property. Osgood v. Welch, 19 N. H. 105. See also Kinsley v. Hull, 9 N. H. 190.

Remedy Exclusive.—Though a collector of taxes in New Hampshire may distrain property, and, for want thereof, take the body, yet, having taken the body, he cannot thereafter distrain property. Butler v. Washburn, 25 N. H. 251.

2. See supra, this title, Nature.

3. Nebraska City v. Nebraska City Gas Light Co., 9 Neb. 339; Cooper v. Savannah, 4 Ga. 68; Camden v. Allen, 26 N. J. L. 398; Detroit v. Jepp, 52 Mich. 458; Richards v. Stogsdel, 21 Ind. 74; Turnpike Com'rs v. Louisville, etc., R. Co. (Ky. 1886), 1 S. W. Rep. 671; Stafford County v. First Nat. Bank, 48 Kan. 561; Packard v. Tisdale, 50 Me. 374; Pierce v. Boston, 3 Met. (Mass.) 520; Crapo v. Stetson, 8 Met. (Mass.) 394; Carondelet v. Picot, 38 Mo. 125; State v. Heman, 7 Mo. App. 428; Alexander v. Helber, 35 Mo. 334; Faribault v. Misener, 20 Minn. 346; Greene County v. Murphy, 107 N. Car. 36; Shaw v. Pickett, 26 Vt. 486; Hibbard v. Clark, 56 N. H. 158; 22 Am. Rep. 442; Durant v. Al- bany County, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 66; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; Lane County v. Oregon, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 71; Meriwether v. Garrett, 102 U. S. 472. And see Board of Supervisors v. Johnson (Miss. 1890), 7 So. Rep. 390; Baldwin v. Hewett, 88 Ky. 673.

Where a right of action is conferred in one court, the tax cannot be collected by action in any other court. Smith v. Clark (Va. 1889), 10 S. E. Rep. 4. And see State v. McAllister, 60 Ala. 105.

In Andover, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Gould, 6 Mass. 40; 4 Am. Dec. 80, it was held that where members of a turnpike corporation expressly agree to pay assessments made by it, an action lies for their recovery, but in the absence of such agreement, the sole remedy is a sale of the shares of the delinquent members.

The constitutional provision of Louisiana that taxes shall be collected without suit, prohibits a reconventional demand made for taxes, praying for a personal judgment against the taxpayer for the amount of taxes due. Rivers v. New Orleans, 42 La. Ann. 1196.

4. See Mercier v. New Orleans, 42 La. Ann. 1135; Littler v. McCord, 38 Ill. App. 147; Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Byrne v. La Salle, 123 Ill. 581; Biggins v. People, 96 Ill. 381; Shaum v. Showers, 49 Ind. 285; Jefferson v. Whipple, 71 Mo. 519; Jefferson v. Curry, 77 Mo. 230; Lord v. Parker, 83 Me. 530; McLean v. Myers, 134 N. Y. 480; Rich v. Tuckerman, 121 Mass. 222; Tripp v. Torrey, 17 R. I. 359; Wheeler v. Wilson, 57 Vt. 157; Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. (U. S.) 237.

Such provisions are constitutional. Pritchard v. Madren, 24 Kan. 486.

Where the collector of taxes of a municipality is authorized to collect the tax by a civil suit, he cannot enforce the payment of the tax by a levy upon the property, before he obtains judgment thereon. Alexander v. Helber, 35 Mo. 334.

In Tennessee, the tax warrant may be

The sale of land for taxes is prohibited by the constitutions of some of the states, unless founded upon the judgment of a duly authorized court of record.¹

When no remedy is especially provided by statute, a remedy by action may be implied.² When a lien is given, the right to enforce it is inherent in chancery.³ It has been laid down in some of the cases that the collector's implied right to an action to enforce the payment of taxes arises from the obligation to pay, for state, county, and municipal taxes, jointly or separately, and an action may be brought for their recovery either jointly or separately, justices of the peace having jurisdiction in all such cases, no matter what may be the amount. Wilson v. Benton, 11 Lea (Tenn.) 51. And see State v. Covington, 4 Lea (Tenn.) 54; Jonesboro' v. McKee, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 167.

Jurisdiction may be conferred upon a justice of the peace or a city recorder, to entertain suits to collect delinquent taxes. State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530. And they are not deprived of jurisdiction by a provision that justices shall not have jurisdiction of actions for or against the town in which they are elected. Hancock v. Merriman, 46 Wis. 159.

Non-Residents.—Action will be permitted against non-residents, unless the statute expressly excludes them. McLean v. Myers, 134 N. Y. 480.

1. See Hinman v. Pope, 6 Ill. 131; Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374.

Such a provision deprives a city of a pre-existing authority to seize and sell property. Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317.

Under a constitutional provision prohibiting the sale of land for taxes, except upon a judgment obtained in a court of record, the legislature may determine the time when application may be made and judgment rendered. And in case of special assessments and local taxes, the power to designate the time may be delegated to local or municipal authorities. Leindecker v. People, 98 Ill. 21.

2. Nebraska City v. Nebraska City Gas Light Co., 9 Neb. 339; State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Mo. 260; State v. New York, etc., R. Co., 60 Conn. 326; Merriam v. Moody, 25 Iowa 163; McInerny v. Reed, 23 Iowa 410; Jefferson v. Whipple, 71 Mo. 519; Jefferson v. McCarthy, 74 Mo. 55; Jefferson v. Curry, 77 Mo. 230; State v. Severance, 55 Mo. 379; State v. Titt- mann, 103 Mo. 553; Dugan v. Baltimore, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 499; Clemens v. Baltimore, 16 Md. 208; Baltimore v. Howard, 6 Har. & J. (Md.) 383; Paine v. Spratley, 5 Kan. 525; Territory v. Reyburn, McCahon (Kan.) 134; Bergen v. Clarkson, 6 N. J. L. 352; Boody v. Watson, 64 N. H. 162; Hillsborough County v. Londonderry, 43 N. H. 453; Amite v. Clements, 24 La. Ann. 27; State v. Williams, 8 Tex. 384; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 39 Tex. 149; Allen v. Galveston, 51 Tex. 302; Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co. 18 W. Va. 441; Portland, etc., Ins. Co. v. Portland, 12 B. Mon. (Ky.) 77. See also Alexander v. Helber, 35 Mo. 334.

3. See State v. Duncan, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 679; Jonesboro' v. McKee, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 170; Rutledge v. Fogg, 3 Coldw. (Tenn.) 568; 91 Am. Dec. 299; Marr v. Bank of Tennessee, 4 Coldw. (Tenn.) 471; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Ark. 323; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Hart v. Tiernan, 59 Conn. 521; New York v. Colgate, 12 N. Y. 140; McInerny v. Reed, 23 Iowa 410; Lancaster County v. Trimble, 34 Neb. 752; Lancaster County v. Rush, 35 Neb. 119; Board of Education v. Old Dominion, etc., Co., 18 W. Va. 441; Garrett v. Memphis, 5 Fed. Rep. 860.

In State v. Duncan, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 679, it was held that to enforce a lien for taxes by action is inherent in chancery courts, and does not depend upon statutory enactment. But in People v. Biggins, 96 Ill. 481, it was held that a tax lien is purely legal in its character, and can be enforced in chancery only when so provided by law. Compare Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265.

Where taxes are levied by a county as trustee for various corporations, such as states, cities, villages, school districts, etc., the county need not pay delinquent taxes before proceeding to foreclose the lien therefor and sell the property taxed. Lancaster County v. Trimble, 34 Neb. 752.

and is not taken away, unless the statutory remedy is expressly made exclusive.¹

As the personal liability to pay the tax exists independently of the lien,² the right to recover the tax by action is not dependent upon the existence of a lien,³ nor does the existence of the lien prevent an action.⁴

As a general rule, judicial proceedings are to be resorted to in aid of the collection only when a seizure might prove an inadequate or inefficient mode of realizing the tax,⁵ or when ordinary

The right of a collector to recover taxes paid by him to the treasurer, but not paid to him by suit, carries with it the right to sue in equity to enforce the lien for taxes, whether the lien has been assigned to him or not. Hart v. Tiernan, 59 Conn. 521.

1. Baltimore v. Howard, 6 Har. & J. (Md.) 283; Eschbach v. Pitts, 6 Md. 71; Dugan v. Baltimore, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 499; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Union R. Co., 50 Md. 275; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 547; Dubuque v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 Iowa 56; Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125; Bergen v. Clarkson, 6 N. J. L. 352; U. S. v. Washington Mills, 2 Cliff. (U. S.) 601; Garrett v. Memphis, 5 Fed. Rep. 860; Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. (U. S.) 237; Metcalf v. Robinson, 2 McLean (U. S.) 364; Oakland v. Whipple, 39 Cal. 112; State v. Duncan, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 679; State v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 14 Lea (Tenn.) 56; 22 Am. & Eng. R. Cas. 201; Memphis v. Looney, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 130. And see Burlington v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 41 Iowa 134; Nashville v. Cowan, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 209; Edgfield v. Brien, 3 Tenn. Ch. 673; Dunlap v. Gallatin County, 15 Ill. 7; Ryan v. Gallatin County, 14 Ill. 78; People v. Davis, 112 Ill. 272; Meyer v. Burritt, 60 Conn. 117.

In Appeal Tax Ct. v. Union R. Co., 50 Md. 274, it was held that upon the assessment of a tax, a duty arises upon the owners of the property taxed, to pay the taxes thus imposed, which may be enforced by an action at law as upon an implied assumpsit, notwithstanding the repeal of the act under which the tax was imposed.

In State v. Georgia Co., 112 N. Car. 34, it was held that a tax is a debt which may be collected after the return of the tax list unsatisfied, by proceedings in the nature of a creditor's bill.

2. Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486; Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 92 Ky. 64. And see Oakland v. Whipple, 39 Cal. 112; O'Grady v. Barnhisel, 23 Cal. 294; Hart v. Tiernan, 59 Conn. 521.

The commencement of a personal action for the recovery of a tax, does not divest its lien. Eschbach v. Pitts, 6 Md. 71.

Where a lien is given for taxes, and a mere money judgment has been obtained against the person whose duty it is to pay them, the state cannot, in an action against an alienee of such person's property, enforce the judgment as a lien on the property, without alleging and proving the steps necessary to the creation of a valid tax lien. Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 92 Ky. 64.

3. Jefferson v. McCarty, 74 Mo. 55; Jefferson v. Whipple, 71 Mo. 519; Jefferson v. Curry, 77 Mo. 230; Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486. And see State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 231.

Rule Applied to Seizures.—In Leeds v. Hardy, 43 La. Ann. 810, it was held that the property assessed remains subject to seizure, even though the Statute of Limitations has run against the lien. Compare Sherwin v. Boston, etc., Sav. Bank, 137 Mass. 444.

4. Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486. And see Rundell v. Lakey, 40 N. Y. 517; State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 231.

5. Mercier v. New Orleans, 42 La. Ann. 1135; Reed v. His Creditors, 39 La. Ann. 115; York v. Goodwin, 67 Me. 260; State v. Tittmann, 103 Mo. 553; Alexander v. Alexandria, 5 Cranch (U. S.) 1.

Authorizing the collection of taxes by distress, does not preclude their recovery by an action of debt, where a distress would be ineffectual. Ryan v. Gallatin County, 14 Ill. 78.

methods have been exhausted and the tax has been returned unpaid.¹

(2) Construction of Provisions for Action.—Where the statute provides for a remedy by action, in particular cases, it is confined exclusively to the cases therein provided for;² and the general rule as to the strict construction and observance of the provisions of tax laws, applies to all requirements that are preliminary and jurisdictional in their nature.³

But this rule requiring strict compliance with every form of law, is not applicable to actions for delinquent taxes where jurisdiction has been acquired;⁴ and mere irregularities will be allowed to effect a recovery, only to the extent that the taxpayer has been injured thereby.⁵

(3) Different Kinds of Actions—(a) Actions in Personam.—Where

1. McCallum v. Bethany Tp., 42 Mich. 457; State v. Adler, 68 Miss. 487; McLean v. Myers, 58 N. Y. Super. Ct. 337; Greene County v. Murphy, 107 N. Car. 36.

In Greer v. Covington, 83 Ky. 410, it was held that the power given by the Kentucky statute to the city of Covington, to sue the taxpayer for unpaid taxes, is concurrent with its power of levy and sale by the tax collector; overruling Covington v. People's Bldg. Assoc. (Ky. 1882), 2 S. W. Rep. 323, where it was held that the tax collector must have first exhausted his power to levy and sell the estate of the taxpayer before resort could be had to the action.

In Durham v. People, 67 Ill. 414, it was held that, in an action for taxes, the taxpayer could not object that the collector had not made the tax by distraining his personal property, where it appeared that the collector did levy on the property, but the objector relieved the same.

In McLean v. Myers, 134 N. Y. 480, it was held that in the city and county of New York, the exhaustion of the warrant is not a condition precedent to the action.

2. Nebraska City v. Nebraska City Gas Light Co., 9 Neb. 339; Baldwin v. Hewett, 88 Ky. 673; Louisville Water Co. v. Com., 89 Ky. 244; McLean v. Myers, 58 N. Y. Super. Ct. 337. And see Washington County v. German-American Bank, 28 Minn. 360.

3. See Territory v. Delinquent Tax List (Arizona, 1887), 21 Pac. Rep. 888; Carlisle v. Watts, 78 Ala. 486; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384; Chicago v. Wright, 32 Ill. 192; Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315; People v. Brislin, 80 Ill. 424; Webb v. Bidwell, 15 Minn. 479; State v. Robyn, 93 Mo. 395; McCallum v. Bethany Tp., 42 Mich. 457; Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 605.

A statute authorizing amendments, and obviating the effect of omissions, errors, etc., cannot be held to waive substantial compliance with steps which are essential to give jurisdiction. It aids and obviates defects of form, but not of substance. People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384.

4. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47; Randolph v. Metcalf, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 400. And see Boyd v. Ellis, 107 Mo. 394; Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385; People v. Davis, 112 Ill. 272.

The personal liability of a taxpayer may be enforced, even though irregularities have intervened in the proceeding, which would be fatal to an ordinary tax sale. Greenwood v. LaSalle, 137 Ill. 225; Sanderson v. LaSalle, 117 Ill. 171. See also Lord v. Parker, 83 Me. 530.

5. State v. Northern Belle Mill, etc., Co., 15 Nev. 385; Hart v. Plum, 14 Cal. 155; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Purrington v. People, 79 Ill. 11; Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385; Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409; Houston County v. Jessup, 22 Minn. 552; Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262. And see Chambers v. People, 113 Ill. 509; Edwards v. People, 88 Ill. 340; Gager v. Prout, 48 Ohio St. 89.

Much greater particularity and precision are required when a forfeiture is sought to be enforced, than when a simple recovery of a tax by suit is asked for. Rockland v. Ulmer, 84 Me. 503.

In Nevada, it has been held that the omissions of officers to perform the duties required of them between the the statute authorizes the enforcement of the personal obligation imposed upon the taxpayer by action, the action contemplated is the ordinary action of debt or assumpsit.¹

Where a common-law action is permitted, assumpsit is the usual form,² but either debt or assumpsit may be maintained.³ The action must be brought against the person whose duty it was to pay.⁴ If the tax is imposed upon property, the action should be brought against the person who owned the property at the time of the assessment,⁵ even though subsequent changes of ownership have taken place.⁶ Personal service has been held a necessary basis for a personal judgment.⁷ The appearance of the taxpayer on an application for judgment against his land, and his defense on the merits, do not change the proceedings from an action in rem to one in personam.⁸

(b) Actions in Rem.—In some states, an action in rem is allowed the collector; that is, an action or an application for judgment against the specific property taxed is authorized.⁹ Such an assessment and commencement of the suit, constitute no defense to a suit for taxes, as such acts are by statute directory only. State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13.

1. Byrne v. LaSalle, 123 Ill. 581. And see Wheeler v. Wilson, 57 Vt. 157; U. S. v. Lyman, 1 Mason (U. S.) 481; Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486.

2. See U. S. v. Washington Mills, 2 Cliff. (U. S.) 601; Baltimore v. Howard, 6 Har. & J. (Md.) 383; Gunther v. Baltimore, 55 Md. 457; Appeal Tax Ct. v. Union R. Co., 50 Md. 274; State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125.

3. Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 10 Wall. (U. S.) 237; Ryan v. Gallatin County, 14 Ill. 78. And see Meredith v. U. S., 13 Pet. (U. S.) 486; U. S. v. Lyman, 1 Mason (U. S.) 498; Portland, etc., Ins. Co. v. Portland, 12 B. Mon. (Ky.) 77.

In Vogel v. Vogler, 78 Ind. 353, it was held that in an action by a county treasurer against a guardian, the wards are not proper parties to the action.

4. Everson v. Syracuse, 29 Hun (N. Y.) 485. And see Freetown v. Fish, 123 Mass. 355.

In Topsham v. Blondell, 82 Me. 152, it was held that a tax assessed against a husband and wife may be recovered in an action against the husband alone, if the non-joinder of the wife is not pleaded in abatement.

The officer authorized to enforce a tax bill, may assume that the person in whom the records show the title to be vested, is the true owner, and sue accordingly. Vance v. Corrigan, 78 Mo. 94.

5. Greenwood v. La Salle, 137 Ill. 225; Laketon Tp. v. Akeley, 74 Mich. 695; Jefferson v. Curry, 77 Mo. 230; Jefferson v. Mock, 74 Mo. 61.

Where persons who are necessary parties to a proceeding for taxes, refuse to appear, and the court has no power to reach them by its process, the bill must be dismissed. Virden v. Needles, 98 Ill. 366.

Where one who has no interest, is made a party defendant, he must disclaim by answer. Kansas City v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 77 Mo. 180.

6. Everson v. Syracuse, 29 Hun (N. Y.) 485; Laketon Tp. v. Akeley, 74 Mich. 695.

Nor does the distinction of the property relieve the owner from liability for the tax. Farrell v. U. S., 99 U. S. 221.

In State v. Sack, 79 Mo. 661, it was held that action may be brought against the record owner of the land, though he is not the true owner.

7. People v. Fox, 39 Cal. 621.

Provisions authorizing constructive service, or service by publication, are not unconstitutional, even when personal judgment may be rendered. New Orleans v. Cannon, 10 La. Ann. 764. And see In re New Orleans Drainage Co., 11 La. Ann. 238; Eitel v. Foote, 39 Cal. 439.

8. People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286.

9. People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286; Hills v. Chicago, 60 Ill. 86; People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384; Pidgeon v. People, 36 Ill. 249; Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 135. And see Scammon v. Chicago, 40 Ill.

action is governed by the general rules applicable to actions in rem, unless the contrary is provided by statute.¹ No personal judgment can be entered, as a general rule, even though the owner of the property appears and defends.²

The proceeding should be brought against the owner and all persons in interest,³ and, as in other actions in rem, a notice by publication may be sufficient, if authorized by law.⁴ But the general rule that, in summary proceedings for the collection of taxes, the provisions of the statute are to be strictly followed, applies with special force to notice by publication,⁵ and a failure to give 146; Thompson v. Carroll, 22 How. (U. S.) 422.

In Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 605, it was said that taxes upon landed property are usually enforced by proceedings providing for their condemnation and sale, and not by a sale under judgment against the owner.

1. See People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; Walsh v. People, 79 Ill. 531; Auditor Gen'l v. Jenkinson, 90 Mich. 523.

In Pidgeon v. People, 36 Ill. 249, it was held that where in Illinois a cause is removed to the circuit court upon repeal, the practice and jurisdiction are not changed, and the trial must be had de novo.

2. People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286; Pidgeon v. People, 36 Ill. 249. And see Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 605.

In California, suit is authorized against both the owner and the property, and personal judgment may be rendered upon personal service of the summons. People v. Fox, 39 Cal. 621.

3. See Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; People v. Quick, 87 Ill. 435; Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Carlisle v. Watts, 78 Ala. 486; Alexander v. Thacker, 30 Neb. 614; Kansas City v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 77 Mo. 180; Simonson v. Dolan, 114 Mo. 176.

The owner of record is the person against whom the action should be brought. Vance v. Corrigan, 78 Mo. 94.

Though all parties in interest are not made parties, a decree may be made as to one who has been made a party. Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265. And see Hogan v. Smith, 11 Mo. App. 314; Desormeaux v. Moylan, 26 La. Ann. 730.

A party having no interest in the lands, has no right to make objections to the rendition of judgment, unless he appears as an agent or attorney of the person interested. Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58. See also McClure v. Martland, 24 W. Va. 561.

The assignee of a note secured by a deed of trust, is a necessary party to a suit to enforce a lien for taxes against the land covered by the trust deed. Boatman's Sav. Bank v. Greeve, 84 Mo. 477. And see Gritchell v. Kreidler, 12 Mo. App. 497.

4. See People v. Fox, 39 Cal. 621; Eitel v. Foote, 39 Cal. 439; Truman v. Robinson, 44 Cal. 623; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Carlisle v. Watts, 78 Ala. 486; People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; New Orleans v. Cannon, 10 La. Ann. 764; Wellshear v. Kelley, 69 Mo. 343; Williams v. Hudson, 93 Mo. 524; State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530; Pritchard v. Madren, 24 Kan. 486; Fudge v. Fudge, 23 Kan. 416; Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Shepard, 9 Kan. 647.

In Goldsworthy v. Johnson, 87 Mo. 233, it was held that an order of publication in a proceeding to charge lands with taxes, need not describe the lands.

5. Scammon v. Chicago, 40 Ill. 146; People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384; Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409; Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315; Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 245; Klipp v. Collins, 33 Minn. 394; Stearns County v. Smith, 25 Minn. 131; Whelen v. Weever, 93 Mo. 430.

General rules with relation to service by publication, apply to the method of obtaining the order of publication in proceedings to enforce taxes. Martin v. Parsons, 50 Cal. 499.

In Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315, it was held that a notice which omitted to state that an order of sale would be asked for, was insufficient.

In Carlisle v. Watts, 78 Ala. 486, it was held that a notice addressed to the estate of the decedent, and left at his former residence, conferred no jurisdiction.

In Durham v. People, 67 Ill. 414, it was held that a description of lands as those upon which taxes remained due and unpaid for the year 1871 and pre-the notice, or to give it in the manner prescribed by statute, is fatal to the validity of the proceedings.¹

The owner, by entering an appearance, however, and urging general objections against the rendition of judgment for taxes, waives the right to object to the sufficiency of the notice.² The making and filing of a delinquent list, containing a description of the property against which the judgment is sought for taxes, is generally an essential requisite to the jurisdiction.³

vious years, was a substantial compliance with the statutory provision requiring such notice to state the years for which the taxes were due.

In Truman v. Robinson, 44 Cal. 623, it was held that a provision for service by publication, did not repeal a provision previously existing for service by delivering a copy to the person or persons to be certified.

1. Fortman v. Ruggles, 58 Ill. 207; Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315; McKee v. Champaign County, 53 Ill. 477; Dentler v. State, 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 259. See also Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570.

In Elting v. Gould, 96 Mo. 535, it was held sufficient to designate the owner of the land taxed, by the name disclosed by recorded deeds.

In Scammon v. Chicago, 40 Ill. 146, it was held, where a newspaper proprietor published a daily newspaper and also a Sunday paper of the same name, which, however, was not delivered to the regular daily subscribers, that the Sunday and daily issues must be regarded as distinct papers, and the publication of the notice in a Sunday paper will be sufficient.

Necessity of Notice.—In all cases there must have been notice, either actual or constructive, for appearance, to confer jurisdiction upon the court. Fortman v. Ruggles, 58 Ill. 207; Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315; McKee v. Supervisors, 53 Ill. 477; Chicago v. Wright, 32 Ill. 192; McKee v. Champaign County, 53 Ill. 477; Dentler v. State, 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 258; Pritchard v. Madren, 24 Kan. 486; Abbott v. Lindenbower, 42 Mo. 162. And see infra, this title, In Actions in Personam, and In Actions in Rem.

The collector's return of service on the notice of condemnation proceedings, is not conclusive, the notice being jurisdictional. Riddle v. Messer, 84 Ala. 236.

Proof of Publication.—Newspapers containing notices of application for judgment against delinquent lands, afford evidence of the publication of the notice, when accompanied by proof that the paper was a newspaper published in the county. Durham v. People, 67 Ill. 414.

Where publication of notice is proved, it will be presumed that the newspaper in which it was published was one of general circulation. Kipp v. Collins, 33 Minn. 394.

A certificate of publication, stating that the foregoing was duly published in the Peoria "Democratic Press," immediately following a tax list, will be held to refer to such list, and it will be presumed that the Peoria "Democratic Press" was a newspaper. Jackson v. Cummings, 15 Ill. 449.

In Fox v. Turtle, 55 Ill. 377, it was held that where notice of application for judgment against lands for taxes, is published by a firm or by a corporation, a certificate of one of the partners, or of an officer of the corporation, showing the official connection of the person making it with the newspaper, is sufficient to prove publication.

2. People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286; People v. Sherman, 83 Ill. 165; Mix v. People, 106 Ill. 425; English v. People, 96 Ill. 566.

In Warren v. Cook, 116 Ill. 199, it was held that the filing of objections, by an attorney having general authority to appear for that purpose, must be regarded as an entry of the owner's appearance.

In Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Yavapai County (Arizona, 1889), 21 Pac. Rep. 768, it was held that appearance constituted a waiver of all objections for irregularities, and that the person appearing could be heard only as to the legality of the tax.

3. People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286; Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409; Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 279; Morgan v. Camp, 16 Ill. 175; Morrill v. Swartz, 39 Ill. 108; People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384; Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315; Fox v. Turtle, 55 Ill. 377; Marsh v.

(4) Procedure—(a) Generally.—In the absence of statutory regulations, the procedure, in actions to enforce the collection of taxes, is governed by the rules applicable to ordinary actions;¹ but, when the procedure is regulated by statute, it must conform thereto.² It has been held that no compromise can be made by subordinate officers.³

The action is usually brought in the name of the political division by which the tax is imposed,⁴ though the officer whose duty it is to prosecute the action, is sometimes permitted to do so in his own name.⁵ The duty to prosecute the action, in the absence of a statute to the contrary, rests upon the collector.⁶

Chesnut, 14 Ill. 223; People v. Brislin, 80 Ill. 423; San Diego County v. California, etc., R. Co., 65 Cal. 282; Bleisdorn v. Abel, 6 Iowa 5.

The report and notice is the foundation of the whole proceeding. Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409; Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 279.

In Chouteau v. Hunt, 44 Minn. 173, it was held that it makes no difference, under a statute requiring the notice to be attached to a list of delinquent taxes, whether the notice precedes or follows the list.

1. State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 398; State v. Duncan, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 679. And see Myers v. McRay, 114 Mo. 377; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 113 Mo. 297; Boulware v. Otoe County, 16 Neb. 26.

Where taxes are required to be collected by action, the procedure is in the discretion of the legislature. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260.

2. McCallum v. Bethany Tp., 42 Mich. 457; Mix v. People, 86 Ill. 312. And see Andrews v. People, 75 Ill. 605; Moran v. January, 47 Mo. 166.

3. In Nevada, it has been held that neither the board of county commissioners nor the district attorney has authority to compromise. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 9 Nev. 79; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47; State v. California Min. Co., 15 Nev. 234. See also State v. California Min. Co., 13 Nev. 289.

In Missouri, it has been held that the county court has power to compromise a disputed claim for taxes. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Anthony, 73 Mo. 431.

In Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265, it was held that where an assessment has been illegally compromised, and the amount agreed upon has been paid, the payment so made should be deducted from the proper tax on a proceeding to foreclose the tax lien.

4. See Oakland v. Whipple, 39 Cal. 113; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 43 Cal. 398; San Luis Obispo County v. White (Cal. 1890), 24 Pac. Rep. 864; San Luis Obispo County v. White (Cal. 1891), 27 Pac. Rep. 756; Ward v. Alton, 23 Ill. App. 475; York v. Goodwin, 67 Me. 260; State v. Tittmann, 103 Mo. 553; Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317; Texas Banking, etc., Co. v. State, 42 Tex. 636.

In State v. Duncan, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 679, it was held that a state, county, or city may file a bill, for the enforcement of a lien for taxes due it, in its own name, without the intervention of any commissioner or other officer.

A lien given to a city for unpaid taxes, may be taken from her by statute and vested in the state, and when this is done, it must be enforced by suit in the name of the state. State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530.

5. Mortensen v. West Point Mfg. Co., 12 Neb. 197; Lord v. Parker, 83 Me. 530; Hart v. Tiernan, 59 Conn. 521.

A mere clerical mistake, in substituting the name of the defendant for that of the collector, in the petition, will not vitiate it. Gibbs v. Southern (Mo. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 713.

In Meyer v. Burritt, 60 Conn. 117, it was held that where, after suit brought for the collection of a tax, the collector pays to the communities or districts, taxes due from the taxpayer, the court may properly admit such communities or districts as parties plaintiff.

In Gonzales v. Lindsay, 30 La. Ann. 1085, it was held that the police jury of a parish is not the necessary party to a suit brought by a state tax collector, for the recovery of parish taxes.

6. Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317; Webster v. Chicago, 62 Ill. 302; Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125.

Other officers, however, are sometimes appointed to conduct actions to enforce the collection.¹

It has been held that causes of action for non-payment of taxes, imposed by different political bodies, could not be joined in the same action;² nor for taxes imposed for different periods.³ Several causes of action, when properly joined, must be separately stated, and must all belong to one class, and affect all the parties to the action.⁴

(b) Pleadings and Proof.—The complaint or declaration should show

And see People v. Brislin, 80 Ill. 423; Ward v. Alton, 23 Ill. App. 475; Parks v. Miller, 48 Ill. 360; Schaeffer v. People, 60 Ill. 179; State v. Hamilton, 94 Mo. 544; Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 127. The complaint or petition must show the right to sue. Bays v. Lapidge, 52 Cal. 481.

In Hills v. Chicago, 60 Ill. 86, it was held that under the constitution of Illinois, the court could not render a judgment for the sale of real estate for taxes, upon an application of any other person than the officer whose duty it was to make such application. But in Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265, it was held that where a suit to foreclose a tax lien was brought by an attorney at law occupying no official position, and nearly two years elapsed before the landowner entered a motion to dismiss the suit, for want of authority the motion would be overruled.

In State v. Hill, 70 Miss. 106, it was held that an action for taxes could not be maintained, where there was no one authorized to prosecute it.

It has been held in Maine, that the right of an officer to sue can be contested only by plea in abatement. Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199.

1. See State v. Hobart, 12 Nev. 408; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47; Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 43 Cal. 398.

It has been held in Illinois, that upon a refusal of the proper officer to act, the county board may institute the necessary proceedings. Ward v. Alton, 23 Ill. App. 475.

In Nevada, the attorney general has entire control of all tax suits on the part of the state. Other attorneys may appear with his consent, but not otherwise; but an attorney thus appearing, will be presumed to have done so with his consent, unless the contrary is shown. State v. California Min. Co., 13 Nev. 203.

2. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83

Cal. 393; People v. California Pac., etc., R. Co. (Cal. 1890), 23 Pac. Rep. 310. And see Los Angeles v. Ballerino (Cal. 1893), 32 Pac. Rep. 581.

Under the Connecticut statutes, a collector who has settled for taxes due the state, town, and city respectively, becomes entitled to all their liens, and should bring but one suit to enforce them. Hart v. Tiernan, 59 Conn. 521.

In Wheeler v. Wilson, 57 Vt. 157, it was held that an action by the collector against a delinquent taxpayer, is an action of assumpsit, under the Vermont statute, and that a count due the collector as an individual, may be joined with that for the tax in the same action.

3. State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; Davenport v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 633.

Under the Nevada statutes, taxes due the state on the proceeds of mines, for the different quarters of each year, cannot be united in the same cause of action; each separate tax, constitutes a separate and independent liability. State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220. And statutes providing that such taxes may be collected in the same manner as other taxes, do not prevent a quarterly collection, though other taxes are collected yearly. State v. Eureka, etc., Min. Co., 8 Nev. 15; State v. California Min. Co., 13 Nev. 203.

In Missouri, all lands owned by the same person may be included in one petition, and in one count thereof, for all taxes of all years remaining due and unpaid. See State v. Rau, 93 Mo. 126.

4. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393.

In Shain v. Markham, 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 578; 20 Am. Dec. 232, it was held to be error to issue a joint summons, in an action for taxes, against several delinquents, for failure to furnish the commissioners with a list of their taxable property.

a prima facie valid tax,¹ and the property against which,² and the person upon whom,³ it is a charge. It should show the jurisdiction of the court over the subject-matter,⁴ and that the

1. Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. People, 138 Ill. 336; People v. Davis, 112 Ill. 272. And see Mix v. People, 122 Ill. 641. But see State v. Rau, 93 Mo. 126.

In People v. Central Pacific R. Co., 83 Cal. 393, it was held that the sufficiency of a complaint in an action to recover delinquent taxes, must be tested by the rules regulating pleadings in civil actions, notwithstanding special provisions therefor. See also People v. California Pac. R. Co. (Cal. 1890), 23 Pac. Rep. 310; Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125.

2. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; People v. California Pac. R. Co. (Cal. 1890), 23 Pac. Rep. 310; Vaughan v. Daniels, 98 Mo. 230; Vaughan v. Noyes (Mo. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 574. And see People v. Cone, 48 Cal. 427; Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. People, 138 Ill. 336. Vagueness of description of the property taxed, in a tax bill, is fatal. Jefferson v. Whipple, 71 Mo. 519.

In Pritchard v. Madren, 24 Kan. 486, it was held that the omission of a description of the land and the name of the owner, from the title of a petition, does not render the judgment void, where the land is fully described in the body of the petition.

In State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 101 Mo. 136, it was held that it is sufficient to set out the number of miles owned by a railroad company in a designated county, but that the petition need not state the number of miles, if it gives the amount of the railroad tax levied against the road by the county.

3. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; People v. California Pac. R. Co. (Cal. 1890), 23 Pac. Rep. 310; Bowman v. People, 114 Ill. 474. But see Pritchard v. Madren, 24 Kan. 486.

In People v. Winkelman, 95 Ill. 412, it was held that a declaration in an action for taxes, should allege that the defendant was the owner of the forfeited property at the time the tax was required to be assessed. See also Biggins v. People, 96 Ill. 381; Bowman v. People, 114 Ill. 474.

In State v. Sloss, 87 Ala. 119, it was held that a complaint in an action against an agent, for taxes assessed against his principal, must show that the recovery is sought under the statute permitting it.

In Pritchard v. Madren, 24 Kan. 486, it was held that the failure to state the name of the true owner of the land, in a petition and judgment, does not vitiate the proceedings.

Unknown Owners.—In State v. Staley, 76 Mo. 158, it was held that where persons unknown are made parties defendant to a suit, for the collection of back taxes, it must be alleged in the petition and recited in an order of publication, that there are persons interested whose names are unknown, and their interests, and the manner in which they were interested, must be described so far as can be ascertained.

4. People v. Davis, 112 Ill. 272; Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. People, 138 Ill. 336; People v. Central Pacific R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; Rockland v. Farnsworth, 83 Me. 228.

It must be made to appear that all the statutory requirements have been complied with. North Tonawanda v. Western Trans. Co., 1 Sheld. (N. Y.) 371; Young v. Lorain, 11 Ill. 637; Williams v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 36. And see Gregon v. Astor, 2 How. (U. S.) 319. And the burden of proof rests with the complainant. Hill v. Crompton, 119 Mass. 376.

In Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272, it was held that the return of a marshal, that he has levied on lands by virtue of his warrant, is prima facie evidence that there were no goods or other chattels to levy on.

Form of Complaint.—The legislature has power to prescribe the form of complaint to be used in actions for the recovery of delinquent taxes. Stockton v. Western Fire, etc., Ins. Co., 73 Cal. 621. And where the statute prescribes the necessary requisites of a good declaration, no other need be added. Wheeler v. Wilson, 57 Vt. 157.

In State v. Rau, 93 Mo. 126, it was held that the cause of action must be set out in the petition, and not in the tax bill. See also Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Pendleton County (Ky. 1886), 2 S. W. Rep. 176.

In Ewing v. Robeson, 15 Ind. 26, it was held that a tax duplicate is not such a written instrument as to make it necessary that a copy thereof should be property is delinquent.¹ It need not aver how and by whom the levy and assessment were made;² nor need it negative defenses arising subsequent to the inception of the tax, as its remission, etc.³

Where one desires to object to the rendition of judgment against delinquent lands, he must show his interest in the property,⁴ and, where exemption from taxation is relied upon, the facts which render the property exempt must be pleaded.⁵ Objections to the form of pleading must be raised by demurrer.⁶

filed with a pleading based upon, or referring to it, under the Indiana code.

1. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; People v. California Pac. R. Co. (Cal. 1890), 23 Pac. Rep. 310; Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317; Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 611.

A petition in a suit for the recovery of back taxes, should expressly allege that the land had been returned delinquent, or had been forfeited to the state; but where such facts may be gathered from its allegations, the petition will be good after verdict. Wellshear v. Kelley, 69 Mo. 343; Ricker v. Brooks, 155 Mass. 400.

In Fisher v. People, 84 Ill. 491, it was held that the notice of application for judgment against delinquent lands, should designate the years for which the taxes are unpaid, with such certainty, that one who reads it may readily determine for what year or years the taxes in any particular tract were delinquent. But in Williams v. Hudson, 93 Mo. 524, it was held that the omission to state one of the years for which taxes were due, in a notice of proceedings for the foreclosure of a tax lien for taxes of several years, is not material.

Penalties.—A complaint in an action for taxes to which a penalty has been added, must show how and when the defendant became indebted for the taxes, and how and when the penalty was added to the amount. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393.

Demand and notice must be shown where required. Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317. And see Mayhew v. Davis, 4 McLean (U. S.) 213.

Under the Maine statute, a defendant in a tax suit is not liable for the costs of the action, or any part thereof, unless it appears that payment of the taxes had been duly demanded, prior to the commencement of the action, and refused. York v. Goodwin, 67 Me. 260.

2. Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317; Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. People, 138 Ill. 336; Kansas v. Johnson, 78 Mo. 661. And see People v. Todd, 23 Cal. 181.

In Vogel v. Vogler, 78 Ind. 353, it was held that a complaint in an action for omitted taxes, afterwards placed upon the duplicate list for collection, must specifically aver by what officer and under what circumstances the assessment was made. See also State v. Howard, 80 Ind. 466.

3. People v. Todd, 23 Cal. 181; Applin v. Slowman, 84 Mich. 118.

4. People v. Quick, 87 Ill. 435.

In Hess v. People, 84 Ill. 247, it was held that the court has power to make a rule limiting the time for filing objections to judgment, against delinquent land, for taxes, and may enforce the same by refusing to entertain them after the expiration of the time fixed.

Who May Move to Vacate.—In Swan v. Knoxville, 11 Humph. (Tenn.) 130, it was held that one who was the owner of lands at the time the report of delinquency was made, has the right to appear and move the court to vacate a judgment rendered thereon.

5. See Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 32 Ark. 131; Andrews v. People, 75 Ill. 605; Olcott v. State, 10 Ill. 481.

6. Ottawa Gas Light, etc., Co. v. People, 138 Ill. 336; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Anthony, 73 Mo. 431. And see Sterling Gas Co. v. Higby, 134 Ill. 557.

In State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220, it was held that a demurrer may be interposed to a complaint in an action for the collection of delinquent taxes, upon any of the grounds of demurrer in ordinary civil actions.

Amendments.—In Greer v. Covington, 83 Ky. 410, it was held that the only limitations on the discretion of the court to permit the amendment of the pleadings in an action for taxes, is that the amendment must be in furtherance of justice, and must not substantially change the claim or defense.

It rests with the plaintiff to show a lawful levy¹ and assessment.² The requisite facts may be shown by the production of the records.³

The delinquent list or assessment roll is made by statute, in some states, prima facie evidence of the facts necessary to maintain the action.⁴ The general presumption that a public officer has performed his duty, applies to the assessor and other revenue officers.⁵ The burden of proof is upon the taxpayer, when he desires to dispute the truth of the facts shown by the record.⁶

(c) Defenses.—The legislature has power to limit the defenses which may be made to a tax suit,⁷ but only so far as the defenses

1. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; People v. California Pac. R. Co. (Cal. 1890), 23 Pac. Rep. 310; Louisville v. Louisville Gas Co. (Ky. 1893), 22 S. W. Rep. 550; North Tonawanda v. Western Trans. Co., 1 Sheld. (N. Y.) 371.

2. State v. Washoe County, 14 Nev. 142; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; People v. California Pac. R. Co. (Cal. 1890), 23 Pac. Rep. 310; People v. Reynolds, 28 Cal. 108; People v. Cone, 48 Cal. 427; Holden v. Eaton, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 15; Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317; Clegg v. State, 42 Tex. 611. And see People v. Flint, 39 Cal. 670; People v. Goldtree, 44 Cal. 323.

3. See Scott v. People (Ill. 1892), 33 N. E. Rep. 180; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Mix v. People, 86 Ill. 313; Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; Muskegon v. Martin Lumber Co., 86 Mich. 625; Den v. Helmes, 3 N. J. L. 600; Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473; San Gabriel Valley Land, etc., Co. v. Witmer, 96 Cal. 623; State v. Eureka, etc., Min. Co., 8 Nev. 15.

In Hopper v. Malleson, 16 N. J. Eq. 382, it was held that a recital in a tax warrant of the words, "Whereas it appears to the mayor and aldermen of the city of Paterson that an assessment of four dollars was made against the estate of M.," was not legal evidence of the fact of an assessment and the demand of payment.

In Mix v. People, 122 Ill. 641, it was held that a tabulated statement prepared by a county clerk, containing a computation of the taxes due and unpaid as shown by the collector's books of certain towns, is admissible as evidence in a tax suit.

4. People v. Donnelly, 58 Cal. 144; Modoc County v. Churchill, 75 Cal. 172; Durham v. People, 67 Ill. 414; Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Buck v. Peo- ple, 78 Ill. 560; Mix v. People, 81 Ill. 118; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Consolidated Coal Co. v. Baker, 135 Ill. 545; People v. Givens, 123 Ill. 352; Fisher v. People, 84 Ill. 491; Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125; State v. Maloney, 113 Mo. 367; State v. Rau, 93 Mo. 126. And see Powers v. Penny, 59 Miss. 5.

Such statutes are not unconstitutional. Andrews v. People, 75 Ill. 605; Burbank v. People, 90 Ill. 554.

In Los Angeles v. Los Angeles Water Works Co., 49 Cal. 638, it was held that a delinquent list is not prima facie evidence of the correctness of the prior proceedings by which the tax was levied and assessed.

5. Durham v. People, 67 Ill. 414; Mix v. People, 86 Ill. 312; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Scott v. People (Ill. 1892), 33 N. E. Rep. 180; Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488; Mix v. People, 81 Ill. 118; Shelbyville Water Co. v. People, 140 Ill. 545. And see State v. Richardson, 77 Mo. 589.

6. Durham v. People, 67 Ill. 414; Mix v. People, 86 Ill. 312; Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; People v. Givens, 123 Ill. 352; Andrews v. Rumsey, 75 Ill. 598; Mix v. People, 81 Ill. 118; Sherrill v. Hewett, 13 N. Y. Supp. 498; 59 Hun (N. Y.) 619. And see Miller v. Hurford, 13 Neb. 13; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; 76 Am. Dec. 521; Wattles v. Lapeer, 40 Mich. 624.

In Miller v. Hurford, 13 Neb. 13, it was held that an answer which admits the assessment, but claims it to be illegal for certain causes therein set forth, shifts the burden of proof as to the assessment upon the party charging the illegality.

7. People v. Wilkerson, 1 Idaho 619; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; DeTreville v. Smalls, 98 U. S. 517. And see Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265;

excluded are based upon irregularities or formal defects.¹ In the absence of such legislative restrictions, any defense may be made to an action for taxes that could be made to an ordinary action.²

The absence of jurisdiction over the person or property taxed,³ the fact that the property taxed was of right exempt from taxation,⁴ the absence or illegality of an assessment,⁵ or any Muskegon v. Martin Lumber Co., 86 Mich. 625.

But the pendency of an application for a judgment against lands for taxes of a prior year is a good defense against the rendition of judgment for the same taxes on a subsequent application. Andrews v. People, 75 Ill. 605.

The burden of proof is upon the taxpayer to show that the informality which prevented the collection of a tax of a previous year still exists, in an action for its collection in a subsequent year. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 140 Ill. 210.

The legislature has the power to provide that a former recovery shall not constitute a defense to an action to recover taxes. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260.

In Biggins v. People, 106 Ill. 270, it was held that a judgment in a suit at law, which exonerated the defendant from liability for back taxes, penalties, interest and costs, does not bar a suit in equity to enforce the statutory lien on the land for the same taxes, penalties, costs, etc.

In People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 140 Ill. 210, it was held that under a statute providing that where the collection of taxes is prevented by any erroneous proceeding, the amount of such taxes may be added to the taxes on such property for any subsequent year, the judgment rendered in favor of a delinquent taxpayer on account of an informality in the assessment, is no bar to an application for judgment for the same taxes the following year.

1. See State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 247; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 94; People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 83 Cal. 393; People v. Wilkerson, 1 Idaho 619; De Treville v. Smalls, 98 U. S. 517.

A law authorizing a judicial proceeding, by which rights of property might be divested or affected, without giving the owner the right to contest every material allegation involved therein, would deprive him of his property without due process of law. Wilburn v. McCalley, 63 Ala. 436. And see Calhoun v. Fletcher, 63 Ala. 574.

2. See State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260; Aplin v. Sloman, 84 Mich. 118; Redwood County v. Winona, etc., Land Co., 40 Minn. 512; St. Louis County v. Nettleton, 22 Minn. 356; Houston County v. Jessup, 22 Minn. 552; Olmsted County v. Barber, 31 Minn. 256; Chisago County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 27 Minn. 109.

3. McCrillis v. Mansfield, 64 Me. 198.

Evidence in a tax suit, that the defendant had retired from the firm on which the tax was imposed, before it was assessed, and thereafter retained no interest in the firm or in the property taxed, is admissible, under a general denial. Washburn v. Walworth, 133 Mass. 499.

The collector's return of service indorsed on the notice in an action for taxes, is not conclusive on the owner, and he may show that in fact he was not served. Riddle v. Messer, 84 Ala. 236.

4. Burcham v. Terry, 55 Ark. 398; State v. Wesleyan Cemetery Assoc., 11 Mo. App. 560; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 247. And see Houston County v. Jessup, 22 Minn. 552.

The fact that lands against which taxes are sought to be enforced, are exempt from taxation, does not affect the jurisdiction of the court in which proceedings are brought to try and determine the legality of the tax, under the Minnesota statute, Chisago County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 27 Minn. 109; and the court may refuse to set aside a judgment for taxes on that ground. Aitkin County v. Morrison, 25 Minn. 295.

In Scholefield v. West, 44 La. Ann. 277, it was held that a taxpayer who pays taxes upon his property assessed in the name of some other person, is estopped from disputing the correctness of the assessment.

5. People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517; Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374; Davis v. Vanarsdale, 59 Miss. 367; other defect rendering the tax wholly invalid,¹ is always a good defense.

Payment of the tax before suit is a bar to a recovery,² but payment under an illegal assessment, is no bar to a recovery, founded upon a subsequent valid assessment.³ Matters which could and should have been set up at an earlier stage of the proceedings and before action brought, are not, as a rule, available by way of defense to the action for the recovery of the tax.⁴

A party resisting judgment against his property for taxes, cannot raise an objection which does not apply to his property, but only to that of others who do not object;⁵ nor can he plead a set-off.⁶ Upon a suit for the collection of taxes, the validity

Adams v. Vicksburg Bank (Miss. 1890), 10 So. Rep. 102; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 7 Nev. 99; Western R. Co. v. Nolan, 48 N. Y. 513.

A defective assessment roll may be introduced on the trial of a tax suit, to show that the taxes were not legally assessed; but it cannot avail in a collateral attack on a judgment. Eitel v. Foote, 39 Cal. 439.

1. See Otter Tail County v. Batchelder, 47 Minn. 512; St. Louis County v. Nettleton, 22 Minn. 356; St. Louis County v. Smith, 22 Minn. 356; Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 246; Blanchard v. Powers, 42 Mich. 619; Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561.

2. Chauncey v. Wass, 35 Minn. 1; McDougall v. Brazil, 83 Ind. 211; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Pope v. Macon, 23 Ark. 644; Craig v. Flanagan, 21 Ark. 319; Powers v. Penny, 59 Miss. 5; Davis v. Vanarsdale, 59 Miss. 367. And see supra, this title, Payment.

But the tender must be of the whole amount due. See Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529. And see supra, this title, Payment.

3. North Carolina R. Co. v. Alamanace, 82 N. Car. 262; Wilmington R. Co. v. Brunswick County, 72 N. Car. 10; Wilmington Bridge Co. v. New Hanover Co., 72 N. Car. 15; Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Brogden, 74 N. Car. 707; Wayne v. Savannah, 56 Ga. 488.

4. See Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; English v. People, 96 Ill. 566; Lehman v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 220; People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351; Rockland v. Rockland Water Co., 82 Me. 188; Boothbay v. Race, 68 Me. 351; State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13; Matter of McLean (Supreme Ct.), 6 N. Y. Supp. 230.

It is no defense to an application for judgment against delinquent lands, that the taxes are high, where there is no unfairness or injustice in the assessment, and no inequality in the taxes imposed. Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Spencer v. People, 68 Ill. 510.

In Houston County v. Jessup, 22 Minn. 552, it was held that the objection that the county commissioners did not designate the paper in which the list of taxes should be published, was not a proper matter for answer in proceedings to enforce the payment of a tax; but should be made by objection on motion to dismiss the proceedings before answering.

In Clayton v. Chicago, 44 Ill. 280, it was held that the question as to whether the collector gave notice that he would levy on personal property in default of the tax, and as to the sufficiency of the notice if given, is wholly immaterial, on an application for judgment against lands for taxes.

In Lehman v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 220, it was held that where complaint is made that an assessment is excessive or illegal, it should not be collected by coercive process until the county commissioners have acted in the case, but upon their failure to do so, the courts may be called upon to redress the wrong.

5. Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Gage v. Busse, 7 Ill. App. 433.

Thus, a misdescription or defective description of a tract of land by an assessor, will not affect the tax imposed upon other tracts. Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560. Nor will the omission of other property in the same jurisdiction. Spencer v. People, 68 Ill. 510.

6. Morris v. Talnier, 39 La. Ann. 47; Wayne v. Savannah, 56 Ga. 448; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 34 Md. 344; Apperson v. Memphis, 2 Flip. (U. S.)

of the organization of the municipality imposing the tax cannot be attacked.¹

In some cases, statutes of limitation have been held to apply to actions for the recovery of taxes;² while in others, it has been held that, though the statute applies to suits by municipalities, it does not apply to an action by the state.³ On the other hand, it has been held that actions for the recovery of taxes are proceedings for the enforcement of a public right, against which no statute of limitation runs.⁴

(d) Application for Judgment.—An application for judgment must be made at the time named in the notice; previous to that time the

364. And see supra, this title, Taxes Distinguished from Debts.

He cannot plead set-off against the collector personally any more than against the state. Humphreys v. Patton, 21 W. Va. 220.

In Dorsett v. Brown, 83 Ga. 581, it was held that where tax executions belong to the tax collector after the expiration of his term of office, they are subject to existing equities between him and the taxpayer, and he or his personal representatives may, in a proper case, be perpetually enjoined from enforcing them.

1. See Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Drainage Dist., 134 Ill. 384; St. Louis v. Shields, 62 Mo. 247; Mendenhall v. Burton, 42 Kan. 570; Briggs v. Whipple, 7 Vt. 15; Burt v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 31 Minn. 472.

Nor can the regularity of the collector's election or appointment be questioned. Odiorne v. Rand, 59 N. H. 504; Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385; Sullivan v. State, 66 Ill. 75.

2. See State v. Yellow Jacket Silver Min. Co., 14 Nev. 220; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Burlington v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 41 Iowa 134; Rich v. Tuckerman, 121 Mass. 222; Condon v. Maynard, 71 Md. 601; Gunther v. Baltimore, 55 Md. 457; Redwood County v. Winona, etc., L. Co., 40 Minn. 512; San Francisco v. Luning, 76 Cal. 610; Los Angeles County v. Ballerino (Cal. 1893), 32 Pac. Rep. 581; Brown v. Porter, 7 Humph. (Tenn.) 373; San Francisco v. Jones, 20 Fed. Rep. 188.

The statute runs from the time the tax becomes due and payable. Condon v. Maynard, 71 Md. 601.

A promise of payment takes a tax out of the statute, the same as in the case of an ordinary claim. Perkins v. Dyer, 71 Md. 421.

In the absence of a Statute of Limitations, applicable to a claim for taxes due, there is no bar to such claim, short of the presumption of payment after the lapse of twenty years. Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546.

In Los Angeles County v. Ballerino (Cal. 1893), 32 Pac. Rep. 581, it was held that a cause of action for delinquent taxes is not within the Statute of Limitations with reference to contract obligations, but must be brought within the time provided for action on a liability created by statute.

Penalties imposed for delay in the payment of taxes, fall within statutes of limitations applicable to the recovery of penalties in ordinary actions. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 85 Ky. 108.

Statutory provisions that the administrator shall not be held to answer to the suit of any creditor of the deceased, unless it is commenced within two years from the time of his qualification, are applicable to suits for taxes. Rich v. Tuckerman, 121 Mass. 222.

3. See Brown v. Painter, 44 Iowa 368; Des Moines v. Harker, 34 Iowa 84; State v. Henderson, 40 Iowa 242; Jefferson v. Whipple, 71 Mo. 519.

4. Greenwood v. La Salle, 137 Ill. 225. And see McKenzie v. Wooley, 39 La. Ann. 944; Reed v. His Creditors, 39 La. Ann. 115.

In Mercier v. New Orleans, 42 La. Ann. 1135, it was held that a judgment for city taxes is not a money judgment, does not possess the attributes of an ordinary judgment, and is not covered by the prescription of judgment defined in the civil code.

In Leeds v. Hardy, 43 La. Ann. 810, it was held that the securities for the payment of city taxes are prescriptible, though the tax itself is imprescriptible.

court has no jurisdiction.¹ The statute must be complied with in the application for and rendition of judgment.²

(5) The Determination—(a) In Actions in Personam.—An ordinary money judgment terminates a personal action for taxes.³ This judgment is enforced, like an ordinary judgment, by execution.⁴ No additional force attaches to the judgment from its having been rendered for taxes.⁵

(b) In Actions in Rem.—In actions in rem the judgment⁶ and execution⁷ are against the property itself. To enable the court to render judgment, the record must affirmatively show facts necessary to the jurisdiction.⁸

The form of the judgment, and its recitals, when prescribed by statute, must be substantially complied with;⁹ but the judg-

1. Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 279; Brown v. Hogle, 30 Ill. 119; Spurlock v. Dougherty, 81 Mo. 171. And see People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517; Kinney v. Forsythe, 96 Mo. 414.

Up to that time, the owner has a right to pay the taxes charged upon the property. Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 279.

In Chouteau v. Hunt, 44 Minn. 173, it was held that the service of the notice and delinquent list is complete with the last publication, and that jurisdiction then attaches, and that therefore a judgment entered twenty days after the last publication is not void, though erroneous. See also Kipp v. Collins, 33 Minn. 394.

Application at Subsequent Term.—In Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488, it was held that under the Illinois statute, the collector may apply for judgment against lands for taxes at the May term; and if for any cause it is not made, or judgment is not recovered at that term, he may apply at any subsequent term. See also People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517.

2. Brown v. Hogle, 30 Ill. 119; Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409; Hough v. Hastings, 18 Ill. 312; Marsh v. Chesnut, 14 Ill. 223; Hope v. Sawyer, 14 Ill. 254; Dukes v. Rowley, 24 Ill. 210; Essington v. Neill, 21 Ill. 139; Morgan v. Camp, 17 Ill. 175; Lane v. Bommelmann, 21 Ill. 143.

Where a decree is entered without authority, it cannot be subsequently validated by entering the affidavit. Simms v. Greer, 80 Ala. 263.

3. Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 92 Ky. 64; Greenwood v. La Salle, 137 Ill. 225.

4. Byrne v. La Salle, 123 Ill. 581.

The judgment in a personal action for a tax when obtained, is purely personal, and may be levied on any property of the defendant, liable to execution. Greenwood v. La Salle, 137 Ill. 225; Douthett v. Kettle, 104 Ill. 356.

5. Kentucky Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 92 Ky. 64; Byrne v. La Salle, 123 Ill. 581; Greenwood v. La Salle, 137 Ill. 225.

Such a judgment cannot be satisfied by a sale as under a judgment in a proceeding in rem. Byrne v. La Salle, 123 Ill. 581.

6. Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 135; Pidgeon v. People, 36 Ill. 249. And see St. John v. East St. Louis, 50 Ill. 92; Chesnut v. Marsh, 12 Ill. 173.

In Chesnut v. Marsh, 12 Ill. 173, it was held that a judgment for taxes cannot be impeached because rendered against the owner as well as against the land; that part of it charging the owner will be regarded as surplusage.

7. Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 138. And see Brown v. Joliet, 22 Ill. 125; Pidgeon v. People, 36 Ill. 249.

8. Carlisle v. Watts, 78 Ala. 486; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Gunn v. Howell, 27 Ala. 663; 42 Am. Dec. 785; Territory v. Delinquent Tax List (Arizona, 1887), 21 Pac. Rep. 888; Young v. Lorain, 11 Ill. 637; Kinney v. Forsythe, 96 Mo. 414.

Where power to maintain an action for taxes is conferred upon a court of special and limited jurisdiction, the powers conferred are special and limited; and to sustain a decree, the record must affirmatively show jurisdiction both of the subject-matter and of the person. Carlisle v. Watts, 78 Ala. 486.

9. Kipp v. Collins, 33 Minn. 394; Gillfillan v. Hobart, 34 Minn. 67; Chesnut v. Marsh, 12 Ill. 173; Mix v. People, 81 Ill. 118. And see Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 138; German-American Bank v. White, 38 Minn. 471.

ment may be amended as to matters of form and immaterial errors.¹

The judgment must be certain,² and must correspond in amount with the delinquent tax specified in the return, notice, or complaint.³ The amount for which the judgment is rendered must appear from the judgment itself, without reference to other sources.⁴

The judgment must describe the lands against which it is rendered.⁵ Usually the description must conform to that of the

A judgment subjecting the lands of non-residents to sale for the payment of delinquent taxes, which follows the form prescribed by statute, and recites that notice has been given as required by law, is sufficient, even though the landowner was entitled to notice by publication in a newspaper published in the county in which the lands lie. Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529.

Mere irregularities and formal defects will not vitiate the judgment, if it is substantially correct. Chesnut v. Marsh, 12 Ill. 173.

Name of Defendant.—A material mistake in the name of the defendant is fatal to the judgment. Simonson v. Dolan, 114 Mo. 176.

Time of Payment.—In Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265, it was held that a decree of foreclosure of a tax lien should fix a certain time within which the amount found due may be paid, so that the parties interested may make payment, and thus avoid a sale.

1. Atkins v. Hinman, 7 Ill. 437.

In Walsh v. People, 79 Ill. 521, it was held that in proceedings for judgment against delinquent lands for taxes, all amendments which could be made by law, in any ordinary action, may be allowed.

2. Tidd v. Rines, 26 Minn. 201; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 53 Ill. 80. And see Brady v. Seaman, 30 Cal. 610; People v. San Francisco Sav. Union, 31 Cal. 132; Dukes v. Rowley, 24 Ill. 210; Cook v. Norton, 43 Ill. 391; Lane v. Bommelmenn, 21 Ill. 143; Eppinger v. Kirby, 23 Ill. 521; 76 Am. Dec. 709; Lawrence v. Fast, 20 Ill. 338; 71 Am. Dec. 274; Randolph v. Metcalf, 6 Coldw. (Tenn.) 400.

3. People v. Nichols, 49 Ill. 517; Pitkin v. Yaw, 13 Ill. 251; Gage v. Williams, 119 Ill. 563; McLaughlin v. Thompson, 55 Ill. 249; Elsley v. Falconer, 56 Ark. 419. And see Alexandria v. Chapman, 4 Hen. & M. (Va.) 270; Mann v. People, 102 Ill. 346.

In Jackson v. Cummings, 15 Ill. 449, it was held that a difference of a quarter of a cent between the delinquent list and the judgment, will not vitiate the proceedings, where all the particulars are truly described. And in Drake v. Ogden, 128 Ill. 603, it was held that an illegal item in a tax judgment will invalidate a sale thereunder, even though it constitutes a very small portion of the judgment.

Costs may be Added.—In Merritt v. Thompson, 13 Ill. 716, it was held that it is not improper, in a suit for taxes, to enter a judgment for costs generally, as in ordinary cases; and in case of such entry of judgment, it will be regarded as a judgment for such amount of costs as are legally chargeable against the land.

4. Eppinger v. Kirby, 23 Ill. 521; 76 Am. Dec. 709; Lawrence v. Fast, 20 Ill. 338; 71 Am. Dec. 274; Lane v. Bommelmenn, 21 Ill. 143; People v. San Francisco Sav. Union, 31 Cal. 132; Woods v. Freeman, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 398. And see Merritt v. Thompson, 13 Ill. 716; Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 138.

Mere numerals in the judgment, without some mark indicating that they stand for money, are insufficient. Woods v. Freeman, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 398; Lane v. Bommelmenn, 21 Ill. 143; Lawrence v. Fast, 20 Ill. 338; 71 Am. Dec. 274; Baily v. Doolittle, 24 Ill. 577; Dukes v. Rowley, 24 Ill. 210; Potwin v. Oades, 45 Ill. 366; Eppinger v. Kirby, 23 Ill. 521; 76 Am. Dec. 709; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 53 Ill. 80; Elston v. Kennicott, 46 Ill. 187; Tidd v. Rines, 26 Minn. 201. But see State v. Eureka, etc., Min. Co., 8 Nev. 15; Cahoon v. Coe, 52 N. H. 518.

5. Sanford v. People, 102 Ill. 374; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Ill. 369; People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286; Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529. And see Bower v. O'Donnall, 29 Minn. 135; assessment and other previous proceedings.¹ Although not technically correct, if the description is that by which the land is commonly known, it may be sufficient.² Latent ambiguities may be cured by extrinsic evidence.³

Where the interests of different persons have been assessed separately, and some have paid the taxes as assessed, the judgment should designate the different interests.⁴ The judgment should be against each lot or parcel of land assessed, and not against several parcels in the aggregate,⁵ though it has been held that a defect in this respect does not go to the jurisdiction.⁶

Kipp v. Fernhold, 37 Minn. 132; Keith v. Hayden, 26 Minn. 212; State v. Hunter, 98 Mo. 386.

It is sufficient if the description is such that the land can be located by one acquainted with plats and surveys. Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262. And see Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 508.

Figures and abbreviations may be used to designate lands against which judgment for taxes is asked, but they must be so certain that the definite locality can be given them. Olcott v. State, 10 Ill. 481.

A bill to correct defective description will not lie. Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265.

1. Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Smith v. State, 5 Blackf. (Ind.) 65; Feller v. Clark, 36 Minn. 338. And see Henderson v. White, 69 Tex. 103; McCormick v. Edwards, 69 Tex. 106; Chouteau v. Hunt, 44 Minn. 173.

In Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570, it was held that there is no variance where the judgment describes a third part of a tract and the delinquent list describes the whole tract, the presumption being that the taxes had been paid upon the remaining two-thirds, before judgment.

2. Gilfillan v. Hobart, 34 Minn. 67; St. Peter's Church v. Scott County, 12 Minn. 280; Stewart v. Colter, 31 Minn. 385.

In Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409, it was held that if the judgment describing the lands to be sold for taxes, shows the year for which the taxes are due, it is sufficient, and need not show the name of the patentee or owner, nor the valuation, nor the county in which it lies.

3. Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529.

Parol evidence has been allowed in aid of the identification of the property taxed, thus rendering certain what might otherwise be ambiguous. Ellis v. Mar- tin, 60 Ala. 394; Clements v. Pearce, 63 Ala. 284; People v. Leet, 23 Cal. 162; People v. Crockett, 33 Cal. 150.

In Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262, it was held that an imperfect description of land contained either in a tax bill, judgment, execution, or sheriff's deed, may be made certain by extrinsic evidence, if the ambiguity is latent and susceptible of explanation.

4. People v. Shimmins, 42 Cal. 121.

In State v. Rand, 39 Minn. 502, it was held to be error to enter judgment for the whole amount of the tax, upon a credit consisting of a part of the purchase price of land formerly owned in common, against those only who were served and have appeared.

5. Pitkin v. Yaw, 13 Ill. 251; Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Olcott v. State, 10 Ill. 481; Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262; 11 Mo. App. 226; Howard v. Stevenson, 11 Mo. App. 410; State v. Kerr, 8 Mo. App. 125; State v. Illinois, etc., R. Co., 8 Mo. App. 599, note; Brockschmidt v. Cavender, 3 Mo. App. 568, note; Edmonson v. Galveston, 53 Tex. 157. And see Kipp v. Fernhold, 37 Minn. 132; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Ark. 323.

Where the judgment reserves the findings for the particulars as to the amount charged as a lien on each tract, it is sufficient. State v. Hunter, 98 Mo. 386.

A judgment that certain lands be sold for taxes assessed against them, amounts to a finding of the tax due on each tract. Mix v. People, 81 Ill. 118.

Description.—If the description as to one or more of several tracts is void for uncertainty, a decree will be erroneous, and the uncertainty will vitiate the sale as to the other tracts. Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265.

6. Brown v. Walker, 11 Mo. App. 226; 85 Mo. 262; Jones v. Driskill, 94 Mo. 190; State v. Kerr, 8 Mo. App. 125. And see Howard v. Stevenson, 11 Mo. App. 410; State v. Hunter, 98 Mo. 386.

(c) Penalties and Costs.—Where the recovery of the penalty, as well as the tax, is expressly authorized,¹ it may be included in the judgment as a part of the amount recovered.²

It has been held that provisions allowing costs against the taxpayer are not unconstitutional.³ Only such costs can be allowed as are provided for by statute.⁴

(d) Validity and Effect.—The validity of a judgment in a tax suit is determined by the rules which govern a judgment in an ordinary action; the judgment is subject to the same mode of attack,⁵ and the same presumptions are indulged in its favor.⁶ If the court has jurisdiction, it is as binding upon the parties as any other judgment.⁷ It is conclusive, and not subject to collateral

The title of a purchaser under such a judgment, is not affected. Jones v. Driskill, 94 Mo. 190.

In Job v. Tebbetta, 10 Ill. 376, it was held that a precept issued upon a judgment against lands for taxes, need not contain a list of the lands ordered to be sold. See also Manly v. Gibson, 14 Ill. 136.

1. See People v. Todd, 23 Cal. 181; People v. Smith, 94 Ill. 226.

2. Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; People v. Smith, 94 Ill. 226; State v. California Min. Co., 15 Nev. 234; State v. California Min. Co., 15 Nev. 259; Potts v. Cooley, 56 Wis. 45; Arnold v. Juneau County, 43 Wis. 627.

3. People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; 76 Am. Dec. 521. And see State v. California Min. Co., 13 Nev. 289; Cheever v. Merritt, 5 Allen (Mass.) 563.

In State v. Illinois, etc., Bridge Co., 8 Mo. App. 599, it was held that collectors' and attorneys' fees are properly charged as costs, in a suit to enforce a lien for taxes, though the taxes, interest, and court costs are paid after the suit and before the sale.

Costs not Allowed Defendant.—In People v. Moore, 1 Idaho 662, it was held that in a suit for taxes, although the defendant recovers, the judgment should be general, without costs.

4. See Potts v. Cooley, 56 Wis. 45; Kent v. Atlantic DeLaine Co., 8 R. I. 305.

Under the Maine statutes, the plaintiff cannot recover costs in an action for taxes, in the absence of proof of a demand made upon the defendant before the action was brought. Topsham v. Blondell, 82 Me. 152.

In State v. Duncan, 6 Lea (Tenn.) 679, it was held that under the Tennessee statute, the complainants in an action to foreclose a tax lien are entitled to costs up to and including the condemnation only.

5. Eitel v. Foote, 39 Cal. 439; Hahn v. Kelly, 34 Cal. 391; 94 Am. Dec. 742; Mayo v. Ah Loy, 32 Cal. 477; Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262; Hogan v. Smith, 11 Mo. App. 314.

6. Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 138; Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262; Hogan v. Smith, 11 Mo. App. 314; Willshear v. Kelley, 69 Mo. 343; Werz v. Werz, 11 Mo. App. 26; McCarter v. Neil, 50 Ark. 188; Hahn v. Kelly, 34 Cal. 391; 94 Am. Dec. 742; McGregor v. Morrow, 40 Kan. 730; Pritchard v. Madren, 31 Kan. 52; Mix v. People, 81 Ill. 118; Pulaski v. Stewart, 28 Gratt. (Va.) 879; Falkner v. Guild, 10 Wis. 572; Harvey v. Tyler, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 332.

No extraordinary or special power of jurisdiction is conferred upon courts, by giving them jurisdiction in tax cases. It is merely an additional remedy or cause of action, by which they may, on certain conditions, foreclose a tax lien. English v. Woodman, 40 Kan. 412; McGregor v. Morrow, 40 Kan. 730.

In English v. Woodman, 40 Kan. 412, it was held that the jurisdiction of the court to render judgment, is not affected by an omission to file proof of service of notice by publication, and obtain its approval by the court, where such publication was actually made.

7. Warren v. Cook, 116 Ill. 199; Graceland Cemetery Co. v. People, 92 Ill. 619; Buckmaster v. Carlin, 4 Ill. 104; Swiggart v. Harter, 5 Ill. 364; Buckmaster v. Ryder, 12 Ill. 207; Wimberly v. Hurst, 33 Ill. 166; 87 Am. Dec. 295; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Mayo v. Ah Loy, 32 Cal. 477; English v. Woodman, 40 Kan. 412. And see Brown v. Hogle, 30 Ill. 119; Gray v. Bowles, 74 Mo. 419; State v. Sargent, 12 Mo. App. 228; Young v. Lorain, 11 attack.¹ But want of jurisdiction invalidates it, and may be shown;² and if the tax is void, the judgment also may be Ill. 624; Wellshear v. Kelley, 69 Mo. 343; Swan v. Knoxville, 11 Humph. (Tenn.) 130.

Former proceedings for taxes for years prior to those involved in a proceeding of the present year, though presenting the same questions, are not to be deemed res adjudicata as to the present year. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. People, 46 Mich. 193.

Personal Judgment Precludes Sale.—After the personal judgment for taxes has been rendered, the tax debtor cannot inaugurate the proceedings to have his land sold to the highest bidder, and thereby relieve himself from personal liability to pay the taxes. Byrne v. La Salle, 123 Ill. 581.

Change of the Law.—Where a statute, under which a decree for taxes was rendered, is repealed, and other taxes are levied under subsequent statutes, the decree cannot be admitted as an estoppel in an action for the recovery of subsequent taxes. Davenport v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 632. And see Richman v. Muscatine County, 77 Iowa 513.

1. Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Grace-land Cemetery Co. v. People, 92 Ill. 619; Job v. Tebbetts, 10 Ill. 376; Drake v. Ogden, 128 Ill. 603; People v. Smith, 94 Ill. 226; Rigg v. Cook, 9 Ill. 336; 46 Am. Dec. 462; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Riddle v. Messer, 84 Ala. 236; Eitel v. Foote, 39 Cal. 439; Mayo v. Ah Loy, 32 Cal. 477; Hogan v. Smith, 11 Mo. App. 314; Wellshear v. Kelley, 69 Mo. 343; Jones v. Driskill, 94 Mo. 190; Kent v. Brown, 38 La. Ann. 802; Aplin v. Sloman, 84 Mich. 118. And see McCarter v. Neil, 50 Ark. 188; Chesnut v. Marsh, 12 Ill. 173; People v. Smith, 94 Ill. 226; Chicago Theological Seminary v. Gage, 12 Fed. Rep. 398.

The fact that a single judgment was rendered against distinct lands in a back tax suit, cannot be shown by parol evidence in an ejectment suit for the purpose of impeaching the judgment. Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262.

The validity of a judgment rendered in a tax suit cannot be attacked in a collateral proceeding, by showing that a portion of the taxes sued for were barred by the Statute of Limitations. Wellshear v. Kelley, 69 Mo. 343.

The amount of costs on a tax sale cannot be made a question, when the judgment comes collaterally in issue. Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409. And see Merritt v. Thompson, 13 Ill. 716.

In Glass v. White, 5 Sneed (Tenn.) 475, it was held that a provision making all the judgments or orders of sale for taxes, conclusive, unless it was shown that the taxes were duly paid before such judgment or order of sale was rendered, embraces public taxes only, and has no application to tax sales by municipal corporations.

2. Brown v. Hogle, 30 Ill. 119; Buckmaster v. Carlin, 4 Ill. 104; Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409; Fleming v. McGee, 81 Ala. 409; Kipp v. Collins, 33 Minn. 394. And see Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 282; Morgan v. Camp, 16 Ill. 175; Fortman v. Ruggles, 58 Ill. 207; McGregor v. Morrow, 40 Kan. 730; English v. Woodman, 40 Kan. 412; Vaughan v. Daniels, 98 Mo. 230; Vaughan v. Moyer (Mo. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 574; Voorhees v. Bank of U. S., 10 Pet. (U. S.) 468; Thompson v. Tolmie, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 162; Kemp v. Kennedy, 5 Cranch (U. S.) 173.

Want of jurisdiction of the court, to render a tax judgment, may be shown by evidence de hors the record. Brown v. Corbin, 40 Minn. 508; Chauncey v. Wass, 35 Minn. 1; Eastman v. Linn, 26 Minn. 215.

In Biggins v. People, 106 Ill. 270, it was held that a decree dismissing a bill to enforce a lien for taxes for want of jurisdiction, does not bar a second bill filed for the same purpose, after the enactment of a law conferring the jurisdiction.

Presumption of Jurisdiction.—The judgment raised a presumption of jurisdiction in the court, which can be overcome only by proof that it had no jurisdiction. Kipp v. Collins, 33 Minn. 394. And see Prout v. People, 83 Ill. 154.

In Williams v. Hudson, 93 Mo. 524, it was held that the omission to name one of the years for which the taxes were due and for which suit was brought from the order of publication, will not affect the judgment when attacked in a collateral proceeding.

A recital in a decree under the California statute, that all the owners and claimants of the property have been duly summoned and have made default, is conclusive that the court acquired jurisdiction, if nothing contradictory to void.¹ Those who have not been made parties, or who have no interest in the land, are not affected by the judgment;² nor by a decree foreclosing the tax lien.³

(6) Appeal and Review.—In the absence of statute, no appeal lies from a judgment in a tax suit.⁴ Where provided for, the statute must be followed, and the right can be exercised only in the manner prescribed.⁵ But it has been held that orders in such it appears in the record. Eitel v. Foote, 39 Cal. 439; Truman v. Robinson, 44 Cal. 623. In the latter case it was also held that legislative bodies have power to provide that a recital in a judgment that the summons has been served on all the defendants, and that they have made default, shall be proof of such facts.

1. See Gage v. Bailey, 102 Ill. 14; Belleville Nail Co. v. People, 98 Ill. 399; Thatcher v. People, 93 Ill. 240; Taylor v. Thompson, 42 Ill. 9; Campbell v. State, 41 Ill. 454; Drake v. Ogden, 128 Ill. 603; Kent v. Brown, 38 La. Ann. 802; Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 26.

2. See Williams v. Hudson, 93 Mo. 524; Hogan v. Smith, 11 Mo. App. 314; Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 138; Blodgett v. Schaffer, 94 Mo. 652; Watt v. Donnell, 80 Mo. 195; Boatmen's Sav. Bank v. Grewe, 13 Mo. App. 335; Mayo v. Ah Loy, 32 Cal. 477; Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Virden v. Needles, 98 Ill. 366; Davenport v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 633; Pritchard v. Greenwood County, 26 Kan. 584; Desormeaux v. Moylan, 26 La. Ann. 730. Compare Reiley v. Lancaster, 39 Cal. 354.

Those claiming under persons made parties to the action, are bound by a judgment in rem, though not made parties. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47; Vance v. Corrigan, 78 Mo. 94.

In Berlien v. Bieler, 96 Mo. 491, it was held that a sale of land for taxes in a proceeding against heirs, will not divest the life estate of the widow under a will.

Where a tax debtor is dead, a judgment against him is void as to his heirs. Crosley v. Hutton, 98 Mo. 196.

A trustee under a deed of trust is an "owner," and so a necessary party to a suit to enforce a lien for taxes; but the omission to join him as a party does not render the tax sale wholly void. His rights are not foreclosed by the tax sale. Gitchell v. Kreidler, 84 Mo. 472. See also Boyd v. Ellis, 107 Mo. 394.

A cestui que trust has the right to pay the taxes and redeem the land from the paramount lien of the state, and when he is not made a party to the tax suit, that right remains unimpaired, and not affected by the judgment and sale in the tax proceeding. Allen v. McCabe, 93 Mo. 138; Williams v. Hudson, 93 Mo. 524.

3. Williams v. Hudson, 93 Mo. 524; Gitchell v. Kreidler, 84 Mo. 474; Stafford v. Fizer, 82 Mo. 393; Corrigan v. Bell, 73 Mo. 53; Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Bleidorn v. Abel, 6 Iowa 6.

In Hogan v. Smith, 11 Mo. App. 314, it was held that the fact that the defendant in an action to enforce a lien for taxes is merely the owner of a life estate in the land and that the remainderman is not made a party, does not make the judgment rendered therein void. But the judgment is not binding upon the remainderman. Allen v. De Groodt, 98 Mo. 159.

4. State v. Jones, 24 Minn. 251; People v. Smith, 94 Ill. 226. See Hess v. People, 84 Ill. 247; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 Kan. 443; State v. Jones, 24 Minn. 251.

In Hess v. People, 84 Ill. 247, it was held that where a statute allowing an appeal from a tax judgment is repealed, no appeal will lie where the final judgment is rendered, after the day the appeal takes effect, although the application is made before that time.

To What Court.—Under the Illinois statutes, suits for taxes are regarded as suits relating to the public revenue, from the determination of which, appeals must be taken directly to the supreme court. Johnson v. Eliel, 9 Ill. App. 520; Mix v. People, 7 Ill. App. 224.

5. See Mix v. People, 7 Ill. App. 224; Johnson v. Eliel, 9 Ill. App. 520; Andrews v. Rumsey, 75 Ill. 598; State v. Jones, 24 Minn. 251; Washington County v. German-American Bank, 28 Minn. 360.

Where the statute requires the transcript of a judgment in a tax suit, to be filed at the next term after the appeal is taken, a delay in doing so amounts to an abandonment of the appeal. Fortman v. Ruggles, 58 Ill. 207.

proceedings may be reviewed where similar orders in ordinary actions are made reviewable.¹

Where the right of appeal is given, and no mode of procedure is prescribed, that obtaining in ordinary actions is adhered to.² For example, a question cannot be raised, for the first time, in the appellate court.³ But this rule does not apply to jurisdictional questions,⁴ nor to questions as to the observance of mandatory requirements of law,⁵ which may be raised upon appeal, though no exceptions were taken in the court below.

4. The Return—a. OF THE WARRANT.—A return of the tax

Parties.—A former owner having no interest in the property taxed, cannot appeal. McClure v. Maitland, 24 W. Va. 561.

Security on Appeal.—In Nashville v. Weiser, 54 Ill. 245, it was held that the appeal bond on an appeal from a judgment against real estate for the non-payment of taxes assessed by a city, in which the city alone is interested, need not be made payable to the people of the state; but may be made payable to the city.

The legislature may constitutionally require one who wishes to appeal from a judgment against his land for taxes, to deposit a sum equal to the amount of the judgment and costs. Andrews v. Rumsey, 75 Ill. 598.

1. Chisago County v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 27 Minn. 109; Aitkin County v. Morrison, 25 Minn. 295.

In Minnesota, notice to the supreme court of an appeal from an order of the district court, refusing to set aside a tax judgment, must be served upon the county attorney. Nobles County v. Sutton, 23 Minn. 299.

2. See State v. Northern Belle Min. Co., 15 Nev. 385; Hosmer v. People, 87 Ill. 385; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Nobles County v. Sutton, 23 Minn. 299.

Where a judgment against land for taxes, is in proper form, and it is affirmed on appeal, a general judgment of affirmance is sufficient, without specifying the taxes due on each tract. Durham v. People, 67 Ill. 414.

In State v. California Min. Co., 13 Nev. 203, it was held that an undertaking on appeal in a suit for taxes, which complies with the Civil Practice Act for a stay of execution, is sufficient.

Jurisdictional Limits.—In Rhode Island, provisions limiting the jurisdiction of the court, on appeal, to a certain amount in ordinary cases, do not apply to tax suits. Tripp v. Torrey, 17 R. I. 359. And see as to Louisiana, State v. Sies, 30 La. Ann. 918.

3. See Speight v. People, 87 Ill. 595; Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385; Karnes v. People, 73 Ill. 274; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Melrose v. Bernard, 126 Ill. 496; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58.

Where a judgment for taxes is partly valid, special objection must be made to the invalid part, in order to save the question on appeal. Jenkins v. Rice, 84 Ind. 343. And see Speight v. People, 87 Ill. 595.

An objection that a delinquent tax list was not properly certified by the auditor, is not available in the appellate court, where the list itself is not contained in the record, and there is no statement showing that there was a want of a certificate, or that it was defective in any respect. State v. Manhattan Silver Min. Co., 4 Nev. 318.

Where a taxpayer appears before the court and makes specific objections to a judgment for taxes, but does not object on account of the levy being improperly made, he admits the legality of the levy, and cannot afterwards question it on appeal. Karnes v. People, 73 Ill. 274.

4. People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286; Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385.

A judgment for illegal taxes or taxes which are in part illegal, will be reversed. Taylor v. Thompson, 42 Ill. 9; Campbell v. State, 41 Ill. 454.

The right of a city to maintain an ordinary action at law for the collection of delinquent taxes, is not a jurisdictional question which may be first urged in the appellate court. Davenport v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 633.

5. Chicago v. Wright, 32 Ill. 192; People v. Dragstran, 100 Ill. 286.

When the error appears upon the face of the record of the tax, it may be first urged upon appeal. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. People, 101 Ill. 446.

warrant, showing the proceedings taken under it, is usually required.¹

A clause in a tax warrant, directing the tax collector to make his return at a certain time, is held directory only, and does not prevent the collector from making collection after that time.² The power to collect remains until the taxes are actually paid,³ and the warrant may be extended when necessary to effect the collection.⁴

b. OF DELINQUENCY.—In general, property cannot be sold to enforce the tax,⁵ nor an action brought for its recovery or to charge

1. See Olean v. King, 116 N. Y. 355; Shimmin v. Inman, 26 Me. 228; Upton v. Kennedy, 36 Mich. 215; Mast v. Nacogdoches County, 71 Tex. 380; Judevine v. Jackson, 18 Vt. 470; Taylor v. French, 19 Vt. 49. See also infra, this title, Tax Sales.

2. Picket v. Allen, 10 Conn. 146; White v. State, 51 Ga. 252; Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420; Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85; Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473. And see Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; Richards v. Stogsdel, 21 Ind. 74; Bassett v. Porter, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 487.

A tax warrant is not invalidated by the fact that an unreasonably brief time was granted for its payment, provided the notice and proceeding by the collector were legal and regular. Weeks v. Batchelder, 41 Vt. 317.

In Walker v. Miner, 32 Vt. 769, it was held that a neglect to comply with a statutory provision requiring a warrant for the collection of a school tax to specify a limited time within which the tax is to be collected, is not a defect of which a taxpayer can take advantage, and, though it may render the warrant informal and defective as between the district and collector, it does not invalidate the action taken by the latter to collect the tax.

3. Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85; Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420; Perry County v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 546; Jacks v. Dyer, 31 Ark. 334; White v. State, 51 Ga. 252; Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346; McCracken v. Elder, 34 Pa. St. 239. And see Brown v. Porter, 7 Humph. (Tenn.) 373; Bassett v. Porter, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 487.

A constitution requiring taxes on movable property to be collected in the year in which the assessment is made, does not prohibit the collection of the tax during a subsequent year; the failure to collect a tax in the year in which it is assessed, not operating to discharge it. Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374.

4. Griswold v. Union School Dist., 24 Mich. 262; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28; Fairfield v. People, 94 Ill. 244; Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401. And see First Nat. Bank v. St. Joseph Tp., 46 Mich. 526; Drennan v. Beierlein, 49 Mich. 272; Brown v. Hogle, 30 Ill. 119; Brown v. Porter, 7 Humph. (Tenn.) 373; Chadwell v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 340.

A renewal signed by all the supervisors personally, and attested by the town clerk, is a sufficient renewal by them as a board. New Richmond Lumber Co. v. Rogers, 68 Wis. 608.

In Blain v. Irby, 25 Kan. 499, it was held that where a levy is made upon the personal property of the person against whom the tax warrant is issued, previous to the return day of the warrant, a sale thereof is not invalid by being made after the return day.

An act extending the time for the collection of taxes does not revive a warrant which has already expired. Phillips v. New Buffalo Tp., 68 Mich. 217.

In Michigan, a township treasurer cannot sue for a tax after the expiration of his warrant, and his warrant cannot be extended beyond the next annual session of the board of supervisors. Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125.

In New Jersey, an alias can be issued by a justice other than the one who issues the original tax warrant, only when a request is made for the issue of the second writ, by the township committee. State v. Dobbs, 42 N. J. L. 136.

5. See Kelly v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129; Mordecai v. Speight, 3 Dev. (N. Car.) 428; Wartensleben v. Haithcock, 80 Ala. 565; Fleming v. McGee, 81 Ala. 409; Simms v. Greer, 83 Ala.

the lands,¹ unless there has been a return of the delinquency. A failure to make such return when required,² or to make it within the time prescribed by law,³ invalidates all subsequent proceedings; but the validity of the tax itself, and of the lien therefor, is not affected.⁴ The delinquent list is usually required to be a copy 263; Otis v. Chicago, 62 Ill. 299; Muskegon v. Martin Lumber Co., 86 Mich. 625; Newkirk v. Fisher, 72 Mich. 113; Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374; Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 119; Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701; Huntington v. Brantley, 33 Miss. 451; Swan v. Knoxville, 11 Humph. (Tenn.) 130; Thompson v. Burhaus, 61 N. Y. 52; Striker v. Kelly, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 323; Johnson v. Elwood, 53 N. Y. 431; Tallman v. White, 2 N. Y. 66.

In Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85, it was held that a sheriff acting as collector, is bound to deliver a copy of his list of taxes to the deputy sheriff, in the same manner as collectors are required to do, and that until such list is so delivered, he cannot lawfully advertise and sell.

Forfeiture.—The return is also necessary, to lay the foundation for a forfeiture. Hill v. Mason, 38 Me. 461.

1. Pidgeon v. People, 36 Ill. 249; Taylor v. People, 7 Ill. 349; Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 279; Morrill v. Swartz, 39 Ill. 108. And see Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560; Ogden v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 592; Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 377.

In some of the states, the filing of a delinquent list constitutes the institution of an action against each tract of land described in it, for the recovery of the taxes appearing in the list against such tract. Redwood County v. Winona, etc., Land Co., 40 Minn. 512; Chauncey v. Wass, 35 Minn. 1. And it is in the nature of a pleading stating what is the cause of action. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. People, 101 Ill. 446.

Under the Nevada statutes, the existence of a delinquent list is not essential to a right of action for taxation, and evidence tending to show that the tax sued for had not been entered on the delinquent list, before the action was commenced, is immaterial. State v. Northern Belle Min. Co., 15 Nev. 385; State v. Central Pac. R. Co. 10 Nev. 47.

2. People v. Otis, 74 Ill. 384; Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 279; Wartensleben v. Haithcock, 80 Ala. 565; Fleming v. McGee, 81 Ala. 409; Simms v. Greer, 83 Ala. 263; Lawrence v. Zimpleman, 37 Ark. 643; Newkirk v. Fisher, 72

Mich. 113; Huntington v. Brantley, 33 Miss. 451; Belden v. State, 46 Tex. 103; Pitts v. Booth, 15 Tex. 453; State v. Kirby, 6 N. J. L. 143; Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 119; Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701. And see Thompson v. Rogers, 4 La. 9.

Parol evidence is inadmissible to supply the omission, when the delinquent list and notice of sale, and proof of their publication, are required by statute to be perpetuated by a record, to be certified to by the court before the sale. It is indispensable that such record be kept. Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701.

3. Weir v. Kitchens, 52 Miss. 74; Huntington v. Brantley, 33 Miss. 451; Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374; Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701. But see Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Leindecker v. People, 98 Ill. 21; Houghton County v. Rees, 34 Mich. 481; Gutches v. Todd County, 44 Minn. 383.

In State v. Carneall, 10 Ark. 156, it was held that a sheriff cannot be deprived of his office by failing to return his assessment list within the time prescribed by law, without an official determination of delinquency.

The return in the prescribed time is also necessary to entitle the collector to credit for lands reported for non-payment. Chadwell v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 340; State v. Viator, 37 La. Ann. 734.

A warrant for the collection of a tax based on a tax roll, returned before the time prescribed by law, furnishes no protection to the collector, Westfall v. Preston, 49 N. Y. 349; and is void. See Ronkendorf v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 349; Flint v. Sawyer, 30 Me. 226; Hobbs v. Clements, 32 Me. 67; Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Bleidorn v. Abel, 6 Iowa 6. But see Jackson v. Cummings, 15 Ill. 449.

Three Weeks.—In Pennell v. Monroe, 30 Ark. 661, it was held that a statute requiring a delinquent list to be published at least three weeks, means twenty-one days.

4. Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; State v. Hurt, 113 Mo. 90; State v.

of the assessment roll ¹ showing what taxes remain due and unpaid,² upon what property, and upon whom they were imposed,³ and that all statutory requisites have been complied with.⁴ A statutory form for the return of delinquency must be substantially complied with.⁵

Hutchinson, 116 Mo. 399; Glover v. Edgewater, 3 Thomp. & C. (N. Y.) 497. And see Oteri v. Parker, 42 La. Ann. 374; People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; 76 Am. Dec. 521.

1. Hayes v. Viator, 33 La. Ann. 1162.

It should appear, either in the return, or in its annexed verification, that it is a transcript of the assessment, or that it was taken therefrom. Thompson v. Burhaus, 61 N. Y. 52.

2. Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488; Bleidorn v. Abel, 6 Iowa 6; Chouteau v. Hunt, 44 Minn. 173. And see Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374; Mann v. People, 102 Ill. 346; Whitney v. Wegler (Minn. 1893), 55 N. W. Rep. 927.

In Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 85 Ky. 198, it was held that in reporting delinquents, the sheriff is not confined to those who become so during his term of office.

A collector's report of delinquent lands, which shows that he was collector of taxes for a certain year, and that he had not been able to collect the taxes due on the lands mentioned in the report, sufficiently shows for what year the taxes were levied. Karnes v. People, 73 Ill. 274.

Where different rates of taxation are imposed upon different property, the return of the collector should specify the several sorts of property, so that each kind may bear its proper rate of taxation. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Morton, 71 Ga. 24.

In Morrill v. Swartz, 39 Ill. 108, it was held that a collector's report merely showing the total amount of taxes due, without showing whether they were due to the state or county, is invalid. See also Fox v. Turtle, 55 Ill. 377.

Abbreviations.—The use of initials or abbreviations at the head of each column in the collector's report, to indicate the kind or amount of tax, is unobjectionable. Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570. And see State v. Eureka, etc., Min. Co., 8 Nev. 15.

Presumption of Payment.—Taxes which are not mentioned in the delinquent list will be presumed to have been paid, in the absence of proof to the contrary. Prout v. People, 83 Ill. 154.

3. Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570;

Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89; Morgan v. Camp, 16 Ill. 175; Chouteau v. Hunt, 44 Minn. 173; Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374. And see Oliver v. Gurney, 43 Minn. 69; Kane v. Brooklyn, 1 N. Y. Supp. 306; 48 Hun (N. Y.) 618; Kelly v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129.

The description must be sufficient to identify the land, and the person or persons against whom it was assessed, must be named. Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374. And see Cooper v. Jackson, 71 Ind. 245; Knight v. Alexander, 38 Minn. 384; 8 Am. St. Rep. 675. But slight variations which are not misleading will not vitiate it. Davis v. How, 52 Minn. 157. And see State v. Rau, 93 Mo. 126.

Where a tract of land containing more than one subdivision is assessed to the owner of one parcel thereof, who pays the proportion of taxes chargeable against his land, the residue of the tract should be returned as delinquent. Pennell v. Monroe, 30 Ark. 661.

In Thompson v. Burhaus, 61 N. Y. 52, it was held that where neither the return of the collector nor that of the treasurer shows that the unpaid taxes are imposed upon non-residents of lands, there can be no sale by the comptroller.

Name of Owner.—In Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89, it was held that where there is a column in a delinquent list, headed "In Whose Name Assessed," and in such column, opposite the several tracts of land, names are given, and the collector states that he gives the owners' names so far as they are known, the names appearing will be taken to be the names of the owners of the land so far as they are known, and the list sufficiently complies with the requirement of the statute in this particular.

4. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.) p. 455. And see Wartensleben v. Haithcock, 80 Ala. 565; Fleming v. McGee, 81 Ala. 409; Williams v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 36; Charles v. Waugh, 35 Ill. 315; People v. Land Owners, 82 Ill. 408; Stambaugh v. Carlin, 35 Ohio St. 209; Belden v. State, 46 Tex. 103; Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 119.

5. Fox v. Turtle, 55 Ill. 377; Pickett v. Hartsock, 15 Ill. 279; Morgan v.

Provisions as to the verification, authentication,¹ and publication of the delinquent list,² together with those having reference to the return and filing,³ are mandatory, and must be strictly complied with. A return in the statutory form has been held good,

Camp, 16 Ill. 175; Morrill v. Swartz, 39 Ill. 108; Simms v. Greer, 83 Ala. 263; Stambaugh v. Carlin, 35 Ohio St. 209. And see Weston v. People, 84 Ill. 284; Morrill v. Swartz, 39 Ill. 108; In re Tranior, 27 La. Ann. 150; Cummings v. Easton, 46 Iowa 183.

A mere omission of a word, where the error is manifest, may be disregarded. Scherber v. Koehler, 49 Wis. 291. And see Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 414.

Where a report contains matters not required by statute, they may be disregarded, if it is otherwise sufficient. Ogden v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 592. And see Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587.

In St. Anthony Falls Water Power Co. v. Greely, 11 Minn. 322, it was held that a list returned by the clerk, which purports to be a list of all taxes "delinquent or unpaid," when the statute provides for a list of all taxes "unpaid and delinquent," is insufficient to authorize a sale thereunder.

1. See Law v. People, 80 Ill. 268; Weston v. People, 84 Ill. 284; Hough v. Hastings, 18 Ill. 312; Hochlander v. Hochlander, 73 Ill. 618; Tabor v. People, 84 Ill. 202; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 83 Ill. 467; Hogelskamp v. Weeks, 37 Mich. 422; Upton v. Kennedy, 36 Mich. 215; State v. Viator, 37 La. Ann. 734; Thompson v. Burhaus, 61 N. Y. 52; Cotzhansen v. Kaehler, 42 Wis. 332; Miner v. McLean, 4 McLean (U. S.) 138; Hannel v. Smith, 15 Ohio 134; Stambaugh v. Carlin, 35 Ohio St. 209; Harmon v. Stockwell, 9 Ohio 94; Skinner v. Brown, 17 Ohio St. 33.

It would appear that a verification of a return is unnecessary, unless required by statute. See Hollister v. Bennett, 9 Ohio 83; Ward v. Barrows, 2 Ohio St. 241; Kane v. Brooklyn, 114 N. Y. 586.

In Bennett v. Blatz, 44 Minn. 56, it was held that defects in the verification of a delinquent list does not affect the jurisdiction of the court over a proceeding for the recovery of a tax. See also Mille Lacs County v. Morrison, 22 Minn. 178.

2. Iverslie v. Spaulding, 32 Wis. 394; Fox v. Turtle, 55 Ill. 377; Pennell v. Monroe, 30 Ark. 661; Hill v. Mason, 38 Me. 461; Merriman v. Knight, 43 Minn.

493. And see Banning v. McManus, 51 Minn. 289; Pitts v. Booth, 15 Tex. 453.

In Chouteau v. Hunt, 44 Minn. 173, it was held that the affidavit of the auditor is no part of the delinquent list, and need not be published with it.

In Buck v. People, 78 Ill. 560, it was held that an affidavit of a printer of a newspaper, of the publication of the delinquent list, and notice of applying for judgment properly sworn to, which states the day on which the publication was made and the paper in which the list and notice were published, is sufficient proof of publication, to confer jurisdiction on the court to render judgment.

The publisher of a delinquent tax list is not entitled to be paid his advertising charge before he delivers to the county treasurer the copies and proof of publication prescribed by law; and if he refuses to make the delivery until he is paid, the refusal is a good defense to his demand. Brown v. Otoe County, 6 Neb. 111.

3. See Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Leindecker v. People, 98 Ill. 21; Dukes v. Rowley, 24 Ill. 210; Babcock v. Bonebrake, 77 Iowa 710; Ring v. Ewing, 47 Ind. 246; Merriman v. Knight, 93 Minn. 493; Hill v. Mason, 38 Me. 461; Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701; Belden v. State, 46 Tex. 103; Simpson v. Edmiston, 23 W. Va. 675.

The filing must precede the publication of notice. Ring v. Ewing, 47 Ind. 246; Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85.

But it must not be filed until the expiration of the time allowed to pay taxes. Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Flint v. Sawyer, 30 Me. 226.

In Adams v. Moulton, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 286, it was held that a statute requiring a collector to return to the selectmen, within a certain time, a list of persons from whom he has received payment of state or county taxes, requires that the list shall remain with the selectmen for their use, and not be taken away again by the collector.

In Louisiana, the failure to annex to a delinquent tax roll the affidavit required by law, does not vitiate the registry resulting from the recording of the roll. Edwards' Succession, 32 La. Ann. 457.

notwithstanding the omission of statements which, in the absence of the statute, would be held requisite.¹

The return should be made and authenticated by the collector, unless some other officer is designated.² The authentication consists generally of an affidavit or certificate to the correctness of the list.³ The return is usually made to the person whose duty it is to enforce the tax.⁴ A return may be amended where the rights of third parties have not intervened.⁵

c. THE RETURN AS EVIDENCE.—A proper and complete return affords prima facie proof of the validity of the tax,⁶ that the preliminary requirements of the law have been complied with,⁷

1. Dickisen v. Reynolds, 48 Mich. 158; Riddle v. Messer, 84 Ala. 236; Kinsworthy v. Mitchell, 21 Ark. 145; Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; Taylor v. People, 7 Ill. 349; Job v. Tebbetts, 10 Ill. 376; Morrill v. Swartz, 39 Ill. 108. And see Ward v. Barrows, 2 Ohio St. 241; Chouteau v. Hunt, 44 Minn. 173; Kane v. Brooklyn, 1 N. Y. Supp. 306; 48 Hun (N. Y.) 618; Alvord v. Collin, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 418. But see Mayhew v. Davis, 4 McLean (U. S.) 213.

In Taylor v. People, 7 Ill. 349, it was held that a collector is not required to state in his return that he is unable to collect taxes by seizure and sale of the personal property of the taxpayer, as this is to be taken for granted from a report in a proper form, the collector being presumed to have done his duty.

Under the Tennessee statutes regulating the sale of land for taxes, the record need not show the preliminary proceeding necessary to a valid tax; as, for example, that all the property in the county was assessed, and that the assessors were duly elected and qualified, etc. Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 508.

2. Law v. People, 80 Ill. 268. And see Weston v. People, 84 Ill. 284; Hannel v. Smith, 15 Ohio 134.

Under the Texas statutes, the comptroller is required to make out a list and forward it to the sheriffs of the counties. Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374.

In Ohio, the list must be signed by the collector, or by his chief clerk. Hannel v. Smith, 15 Ohio 134.

3. See Stambaugh v. Carlin, 35 Ohio St. 209; Weston v. People, 84 Ill. 284.

4. See Tallman v. White, 2 N. Y. 66; Hills v. Chicago, 60 Ill. 86; Babcock v. Bonebrake, 77 Iowa 710.

A statute imposing a specific tax, and requiring payment to the comptroller general, in effect designates that officer as the proper one to receive the return as well as the money. Smith v. Goldsmith, 63 Ga. 736.

5. Jaquith v. Putney, 48 N. H. 138; Shelbyville Water Co. v. People, 140 Ill. 545; Carville v. Additon, 62 Me. 459. And see State v. Phillips, 102 Mo. 664. But see Henrico County v. McGruder, 84 Va. 828.

6. Olmstead County v. Barber, 31 Minn. 256; Mahaney v. People, 138 Ill. 311; Pike v. People, 84 Ill. 80; Fisher v. People, 84 Ill. 491; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570. And see Muskegon v. Martin Lumber Co., 86 Mich. 625; Mast v. Nacogdoches County, 71 Tex. 380.

If the return is insufficient or improperly made or executed, it is not admissible in evidence. See Putman v. Fife Lake Tp., 45 Mich. 125; Kelly v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129; Stambaugh v. Carlin, 35 Ohio St. 209.

In State v. Miller, 16 Mo. App. 539, it was held that a tax bill is admissible in evidence, even though signed by the deputy collector.

7. Burbank v. People, 90 Ill. 554; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; Mix v. People, 81 Ill. 118; Pike v. People, 84 Ill. 80; Caldwell v. Hawkins, 40 Me. 527; Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85; State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530; Boardman v. Goldsmith, 48 Vt. 403; Smith v. Mosher, 9 N. Y. Supp. 786; 56 Hun (N. Y.) 643.

In Ottawa v. Macy, 20 Ill. 413, it was held that a collector's return stating that taxes are unpaid, and that he can find no chattels whereon to levy, is conclusive of the fact stated. If it is false, he is answerable personally. See also Goodrich v. Minonk, 62 Ill. 121.

A demand for payment by the collector may be shown by his return. Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85; and that the tax is delinquent.¹ The return is evidence for the taxpayer as well as for the public.²

Where a list is required by statute to be kept, parol evidence is inadmissible to supply omissions.³ The return is not evidence of anything beyond what the law requires to be stated.⁴ Parol evidence, however, is admissible in behalf of the taxpayer to controvert the list,⁵ and, in such case, it is also admissible on behalf of the collector in rebuttal.⁶ And, in an action against the collector, his proceedings may be proved by parol, when necessary to his justification.⁷

5. Liability of the Collector and Sureties—a. FOR OFFICIAL ACTION.—It may be stated as a general rule that a collector of taxes who is legally qualified, who is acting within the scope of his powers, and who acts under a warrant regularly issued by competent authority, is protected against all irregularities but his own,⁸

Job v. Tebbetts, 10 Ill. 382; Taylor v. People, 7 Ill. 349.

1. See Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; New York v. Goldman, 125 N. Y. 395.

2. See Bruce v. Holden, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 187; Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 570; State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530.

The admissibility of a tax duplicate in evidence, in an action for the recovery of a tax, is not affected by the fact that the taxpayer is a non-resident. Wade v. Kimberly, 5 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 33.

3. Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701; Hosmer v. People, 96 Ill. 58; Boardman v. Goldsmith, 48 Vt. 403; Iverslie v. Spaulding, 32 Wis. 394. And see State v. Northern Belle Min. Co., 15 Nev. 387.

A warrant of arrest against a taxpayer, is not a returnable process, and the proceedings may be shown by other evidence. Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209.

4. Bristol v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 587; Sullivan v. State, 66 Ill. 75; Com. v. Hart, 1 Ashm. (Pa.) 77. And see Ogden v. Chicago, 22 Ill. 592. Nor is it evidence of anything not actually stated. See State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530.

A return by a collector, of unpaid taxes on lands of non-residents, is not evidence of the contents of the assessment roll. Wood v. Knapp, 100 N. Y. 109.

5. Boardman v. Goldsmith, 48 Vt. 403. And see Andrews v. Rumsey, 75 Ill. 598.

In Justices v. Fennimore, 1 N. J. L. 190, it was held that even though the collector is required by statute to enter in a book kept for that purpose, all certificates received by him, and give receipts for the same, other persons may prove his receipt of such certificate, by parol evidence.

Where the statute requires the collector to make his return from the best information that he can obtain, in case of a loss of the records, he is made the sole judge of the sources and sufficiency of the information, and his report cannot be impeached by showing that he could have obtained better information, or that he did not know it to be true, but proof that it was not true would be proper. Andrews v. People, 75 Ill. 605.

6. Boardman v. Goldsmith, 48 Vt. 403.

Irregularities in the delinquent tax list may be corrected by the introduction in evidence of the original assessment roll which gives the true assessment of the property. State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13. 7. Spear v. Tilson, 24 Vt. 420; Hathaway v. Goodrich, 5 Vt. 65. And see Muskegon v. Martin Lumber Co., 86 Mich. 625.

In Hathaway v. Goodrich, 5 Vt. 65, it was held that the collector's certificates showing seizure and sale, are not proper evidence in his favor.

8. Nowell v. Tripp, 61 Me. 426; Carville v. Additon, 62 Me. 459; Judkins v. Reed, 48 Me. 386; Caldwell v. Hawkins, 40 Me. 526; Ford v. Clough, 8 Me. 342; 23 Am. Dec. 513; Seekins v. Goodall, 61 Me. 400; 14 Am. Rep. 568; Bethel v. Mason, 55 Me. 501; Lott v. Hubbard, 44 Ala. 593; Sanders v. Simmons, 30 Ark. 274; Ewing v. Robeson, 15 Ind. 26; Noland v. Busby, 28 Ind. 154; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405; Chiniquy v. People, 78 Ill. 571; Hill v. Fagley, 25 Ill. 156; Sils- even though the tax is void,¹ or though the property is exempt bee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 562; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28; Le Roy v. East Saginaw City R. Co., 18 Mich. 233; 100 Am. Dec. 162; Mathews v. Densmore, 43 Mich. 461; Moss v. Cummings, 44 Mich. 359; Byles v. Genung, 52 Mich. 504; Wall v. Trumbull, 16 Mich. 228; Neth v. Crofut, 30 Conn. 580; Watson v. Watson, 9 Conn. 140; 23 Am. Dec. 324; Peckham v. Bicknell, 11 R. I. 596; Brainard v. Head, 15 La. Ann. 489; Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78; Billings v. Russell, 23 Pa. St. 189; 62 Am. Dec. 330; Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; Loomis v. Spencer, 1 Ohio St. 153; State v. Lutz, 65 N. Car. 503; Colman v. Anderson, 10 Mass. 105; Underwood v. Robinson, 106 Mass. 296; Stetson v. Kempton, 13 Mass. 272; 7 Am. Dec. 145; Noyes v. Haverhill, 11 Cush. (Mass.) 338; Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Upton v. Holden, 5 Met. (Mass.) 360; Aldrich v. Aldrich, 8 Met. (Mass.) 102; Holden v. Eaton, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Hays v. Drake, 6 Gray (Mass.) 389; Rawson v. Spencer, 113 Mass. 80; Howard v. Proctor, 7 Gray (Mass.) 128; Hubbard v. Garfield, 102 Mass. 72; Cone v. Forest, 126 Mass. 97; Kinsley v. Hall, 9 N. H. 190; Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473; Savacool v. Boughton, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 171; 21 Am. Dec. 181; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Roach, 80 N. Y. 339; Parker v. Walrod, 16 Wend. (N. Y.) 514; 30 Am. Dec. 124; Abbott v. Yost, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 86; Patchin v. Ritter, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 34; Doolittle v. Doolittle, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 312; Johnson v. Lane, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 616; Alexander v. Hoyt, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 89; Reynolds v. Moore, 9 Wend. (N. Y.) 35; 24 Am. Dec. 116; North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 49 Mo. 483; Turner v. Franklin, 29 Mo. 285; Walden v. Dudley, 49 Mo. 419; St. Louis Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Charles, 47 Mo. 462; State v. Dulle, 48 Mo. 282; St. Louis Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lightner, 47 Mo. 393; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 480; Brown v. Harris, 52 Mo. 306; McLean v. Cook, 23 Wis. 364; Sprague v. Birchard, 1 Wis. 457; 60 Am. Dec. 393; Erskine v. Hohnbach, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 613; First Nat. Bank v. Waters, 19 Blatchf. (U. S.) 242; Baley v. Wortsman, 2 N. Y. St. Rep. 246; 41 Hun (N. Y.) 637; Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401; Chegaray v. Jenkins, 5 N. Y. 376.

The question whether a tax is laid in the proper town or ward, cannot be raised in an action against the officer executing it, in order to affect the validity of process, regular on its face. Patchin v. Ritter, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 34.

Collector's Assistants.—The tax warrant which protects the collector, will likewise protect those who aid him in making the collection. Doolittle v. Doolittle, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 312.

Vermont.—But in Vermont, it has been held that in order to rely upon a valid warrant, the collector must show that all previous proceedings were valid. Collamer v. Drury, 16 Vt. 574; Shaw v. Pickett, 25 Vt. 423; Spear v. Tillson, 24 Vt. 420; Downing v. Roberts, 21 Vt. 441; Hathaway v. Goodrich, 5 Vt. 65; Parkhurst v. Sumner, 23 Vt. 538; 56 Am. Dec. 91; Downer v. Woodbury, 19 Vt. 329; Wheelock v. Archer, 26 Vt. 380.

A collector, in attempting to collect a tax which exceeds the amount limited by constitutional provision, has been held a trespasser, and no valid tax sale can be made for such a tax. Graham v. Parham, 32 Ark. 676.

1. Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 55; Sanders v. Simmons, 30 Ark. 274; Abbott v. Yost, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 86; Chegaray v. Jenkins, 5 N. Y. 376; Baley v. Wortsman, 2 N. Y. St. Rep. 246; 41 Hun (N. Y.) 637; Prince v. Thomas, 11 Conn. 472; Thames Mfg. Co. v. Lathrop, 7 Conn. 550; Rubey v. Shain, 54 Mo. 207; Ranney v. Bader, 67 Mo. 476; Gove v. Mastin, 66 N. Car. 371; State v. Lutz, 65 N. Car. 503. But see Huse v. Merriam, 2 Me. 376; Baldwin v. McClinch, 1 Me. 102; Graham v. Parham, 32 Ark. 676; Greenwell v. Com., 78 Ky. 320. The remedy of the taxpayer is to proceed to arrest the collection of the tax, Ranney v. Bader, 67 Mo. 476; Rubey v. Shain, 54 Mo. 207; Beach v. Furman, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 229; or to proceed against the persons who illegally assess the tax or issue the warrant. Loomis v. Spencer, 1 Ohio St. 154; Thames Mfg. Co. v. Lathrop, 7 Conn. 550; Moore v. Allegheny City, 18 Pa. St. 58; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Baley v. Wortsman, 2 N. Y. St. Rep. 246; 41 Hun (N. Y.) 637; Alexander v. Hoyt, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 89; Beach v. Furman, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 229; Kelly v.

from taxation.¹ But where the collector intermeddles with the taxpayer's property without a warrant, he is liable as a trespasser.²

To justify the collector, the warrant must have been issued by the duly authorized officer or body,³ having jurisdiction of the matter.⁴ The warrant must conform to the statute⁵ and be regular upon its face.⁶

Noyes, 43 N. H. 209; Henry v. Sergeant, 13 N. H. 321; 40 Am. Dec. 146.

In Bergen v. Clarkson, 6 N. J. L. 352, it was held that proceedings under the authority of a void by-law imposing a tax, are themselves void, and furnish no justification of the acts of the person who undertook to execute it.

It is not competent to show that the forms prescribed by statute for the organization of a school district, have not been complied with, in an action against a collector for taking property in obedience to the warrant for the collection of a school tax. Reynolds v. Moore, 9 Wend. (N. Y.) 35; 24 Am. Dec. 116.

1. Erskine v. Hohnbach, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 613; Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209; Blanchard v. Goss, 2 N. H. 491; Beach v. Furman, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 229; Moore v. Allegheny City, 18 Pa. St. 55.

2. Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93; Stephens v. Wilkins, 6 Pa. St. 260; Lawrence v. Zimpleman, 37 Ark. 643; Gossett v. Kent, 19 Ark. 602; Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575; Donald v. McKinnon, 17 Fla. 746; Homer v. Cilley, 14 N. H. 85; Kelly v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 129; Lamb v. Farrell, 21 Fed. Rep. 5; Miner v. McLean, 4 McLean (U. S.) 138. And see Hannel v. Smith, 15 Ohio 134.

3. Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93; Chalk v. Ives, 55 Pa. St. 81; Garber v. Conner, 98 Pa. St. 551; Prince v. Thomas, 11 Conn. 472; Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482; Bennett v. Burch, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 141; Butler v. Nevin, 88 Ill. 575; Brown v. Harris, 52 Mo. 306.

4. See St. Louis Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Charles, 47 Mo. 466; Ranney v. Bader, 67 Mo. 476; State v. Shacklett, 37 Mo. 280; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 489; State v. Dowling, 50 Mo. 134; St. Louis Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lightner, 47 Mo. 393; Walden v. Dudley, 49 Mo. 419; Rubey v. Shain, 54 Mo. 207; Jefferson City v. Opel, 49 Mo. 191; Rawson v. Spencer, 113 Mass. 80; Hubbard v. Garfield, 102 Mass. 72; Suydam v. Wyckoff, 13 Johns. (N. Y.) 444; Dubois v. Webster, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 371; Clifton

v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78.

But where the property is taxable in some form, and the assessor has jurisdiction over it, it is sufficient. North Missouri R. Co. v. Maguire, 49 Mo. 482; Ranney v. Bader, 67 Mo. 497; Moore v. Allegheny City, 18 Pa. St. 58.

In Hallock v. Rumsey, 22 Hun (N. Y.) 89, it was held that where property is improperly assessed to one not the owner, a warrant issued on such assessment is void, and furnishes no justification to the collector. See also Billinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610.

5. Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93; Warrensburg v. Miller, 77 Mo. 56; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Apperson, 97 Mo. 300; Bennett v. Burch, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 141. And see Dubois v. Webster, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 371.

Mere formal irregularities not affecting the validity of the warrant, will not affect its power to protect the collector. See King v. Whitcomb, 1 Met. (Mass.) 328; Hubbard v. Garfield, 102 Mass. 72. And defects in the proceedings are unimportant, when jurisdiction has attached. Barrett v. Crane, 16 Vt. 246.

Where an affidavit which is made a part of the assessment roll and delivered to the collector with the warrant, discloses the want of jurisdiction of the board of supervisors to issue the warrant, the latter furnishes no protection to the collector. Westfall v. Preston, 49 N. Y. 349; Van Rensselaer v. Witbeck, 7 N. Y. 517. And see Smith v. Mosher, 9 N. Y. Supp. 786; 56 Hun (N. Y.) 643; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 16 Barb. (N. Y.) 651.

But where he has several warrants, he is not a trespasser because part of them are illegal upon their faces. Woolsey v. Morris, 96 N. Y. 311; Hays v. Drake, 6 Gray (Mass.) 387; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28.

6. Underwood v. Robinson, 106 Mass. 298; Rawson v. Spencer, 113 Mass. 40; Hubbard v. Garfield, 102 Mass. 72; Sherman v. Torrey, 99 Mass. 472; Savacool v. Boughton, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 170; 21 Am. Dec. 181.

In Hays v. Drake, 6 Gray (Mass.)

While, as a general rule, a ministerial officer may execute an invalid process which is good on its face, but is not bound to do so,¹ some cases have adopted the rule that in such case it is his duty to collect without regard to his opinion as to the regularity or legality of the assessment or other precedent steps.² But it has been held that he is not protected in the execution of a warrant, regular on its face, if he has knowledge of facts which render it void.³

The collector is liable in damages for acts not authorized by his warrant,⁴ and for unlawful or fraudulent misconduct in the performance of his duties.⁵ And it has been held that if he makes 387, it was held that a tax warrant otherwise valid, addressed to one as "collector or constable," who is authorized to act as collector at the time of its delivery to him, though not at the time of its date, will protect the officer acting under it.

1. See Earl v. Camp, 16 Wend. (N. Y.) 562; Connell v. Barnes, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 35; Lott v. Hubbard, 44 Ala. 593; Davis v. Wilson, 61 Ill. 527.

2. Gove v. Newton, 58 N. H. 359; Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209; Clark v. Bragdon, 37 N. H. 562; State v. Roberts, 52 N. H. 492; Roberts v. Holmes, 54 N. H. 560; Walden v. Dudley, 49 Mo. 419; Watson v. Watson, 9 Conn. 140; 23 Am. Dec. 324. And see Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199.

A collector who has a warrant from an authority having power to issue it, cannot inquire into the precedent steps. Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78. See also Paul v. Vankirk, 6 Binn. (Pa.) 124; Stephens v. Wilkins, 6 Pa. St. 260; Hilbish v. Hower, 58 Pa. St. 93.

3. Leachman v. Dougherty, 81 Ill. 324; Grace v. Mitchell, 31 Wis. 545; 11 Am. Rep. 613.

A collector cannot be held chargeable with notice of irregularities in a tax levy, by reason of his having been a member of the taxing board when the tax was levied. Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28. But he cannot rely upon statements made by the attorney of the taxpayer, in ignorance of the true facts, when he had been fully informed before making the levy that the tax was void and would not be paid. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Apperson, 97 Mo. 300.

4. Cone v. Forest, 126 Mass. 97; Veit v. Graff, 37 Ind. 253; Meyer v. Larkin, 3 Cal. 403; Henry v. Bell, 75 Mo. 194.

As where he sells more property than is necessary to satisfy the tax. Cone v. Forest, 126 Mass. 97.

A levy, after the tax is satisfied by payment or tender, renders the collector a trespasser. Willis v. Miller, 29 Fed. Rep. 238.

One who is unlawfully arrested and committed to prison on a warrant for the collection of a tax, may show the manner in which he lived while detained in prison and the inconvenience which he suffered while detained there, in an action against the collector to recover for illegal arrest on the question of damages. Hall v. Hall, 3 Allen (Mass.) 5.

5. See Mix v. People, 116 Ill. 265; Hardesty v. Price, 3 Colo. 559; Cone v. Forest, 126 Mass. 97.

The complaint in a suit against a county treasurer for selling land for taxes, where there was personal property, must allege the character of the personal property, that it was subject to seizure and sale, and was shown to the officer. Bunnell v. Farris, 82 Ind. 393.

Exemplary damages are not recoverable against a collector for imprisoning the delinquent taxpayer as a matter of right; in awarding them, the jury must be governed by the malice or the wantonness of the collector, as shown by the conduct for which they find him liable. Boardman v. Goldsmith, 48 Vt. 403.

Prosecutions.—In State v. Green, 87 Mo. 583, it was held that prosecutions against collectors, for collecting illegal taxes, must be founded upon the statute making it a misdemeanor, and they cannot be instituted under general provisions for criminal prosecutions for obtaining money under false pretenses.

The county is not liable, where a county treasurer fraudulently collected money as taxes, and converted the same to his own use. Estep v. Keokuk County, 18 Iowa 199.

a lawful levy for a tax, but afterwards abuses his authority, he becomes a trespasser ab initio.¹

Where the tax is illegal, or the warrant is invalid, though good upon its face, replevin will lie against the collector to recover property seized thereunder.²

It has been held that taxes illegally assessed, which have been paid under protest after seizure, may be recovered back from the collector, if the action is promptly brought before he is required to pay them over;³ but that after the money has been paid into the treasury, no recovery can be had from the collector.⁴ Money in the hands of a collector is not subject to execution or attachment.⁵

b. TO ACCOUNT FOR COLLECTIONS—(See also PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378)—(1) Extent of the Liability.—The collector must keep safely all money received for taxes, and pay it over to the proper officer at the time and in the manner prescribed by statute.⁶ He is liable to the political division, for and by which

1. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 802. And see Prince v. Thomas, 11 Conn. 472; Veit v. Graff, 37 Ind. 253; Farnsworth Co. v. Rand, 65 Me. 19; Brackett v. Vining, 49 Me. 356; Libby v. Burnham, 15 Mass. 144; Pierce v. Benjamin, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 356; 25 Am. Dec. 396.

In Wilson v. Seavey, 38 Vt. 221, it was held that if an officer acting under two rate-bills, one of which is valid and the other invalid, seizes no more property than he is authorized to by virtue of the valid process, and sells the same for more than enough to satisfy that process, and applies the excess to satisfy the invalid process, such misapplication does not render the officer a trespasser ab initio, but he will be liable for the excess so misapplied.

Where a collector refuses to receive payment of a tax in a proper medium, he is liable to action by the party whose chattels have been levied on to enforce its collection, notwithstanding the fact that such receipt is prohibited by an unconstitutional statute. Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 270; White v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 307; Chaffin v. Taylor, 114 U. S. 309.

2. McKay v. Batchellor, 2 Colo. 591; Morford v. Unger, 8 Iowa 82; Le Roy v. East Saginaw City R. Co., 18 Mich. 233; 100 Am. Dec. 162; Wright v. Briggs, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 77; Hudler v. Golden, 36 N. Y. 446; Dubois v. Webster, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 371; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Cleino, 2 Dill. (U. S.) 175. See also Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473.

Where property transiently upon the lands assessed, belonging to another person not liable for the tax, is assessed, an action to recover possession thereof may be maintained against the collector. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Roach, 80 N. Y. 329.

Statutes providing that property taken by virtue of a tax warrant cannot be replevied, are not applicable where property owned by one person is seized for the taxes of another. Hallock v. Rumsey, 22 Hun (N. Y.) 89.

3. Hardesty v. Fleming, 57 Tex. 395. See also Dickins v. Jones, 6 Yerg. (Tenn.) 483; 27 Am. Dec. 488.

4. Dickins v. Jones, 6 Yerg. (Tenn.) 483; 27 Am. Dec. 488; Enloe v. Hall, 1 Humph. (Tenn.) 303; Crutchfield v. Wood, 16 Ala. 702; Lewis County v. Tate, 10 Mo. 650; Gray v. Otis, 11 Vt. 629; Hodgson v. Dexter, 1 Cranch (U. S.) 345; Elliott v. Swartout, 10 Pet. (U. S.) 137.

5. Moore v. Chattanooga, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 850.

A judgment creditor of a municipality cannot reach funds accrued to it by taxation by process of garnishment, either while in the course of collection, or after they have been paid into the treasury. Underhill v. Calhoun, 63 Ala. 216; Pruitt v. Armstrong, 56 Ala. 308; Droz v. East Baton Rouge, 36 La. Ann. 340; Moore v. Chattanooga, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 850; Brown v. Gates, 15 W. Va. 131. Nor can the taxpayer be garnished. Brown v. Gates, 15 W. Va. 131.

6. See Brunswick v. Snow, 73 Me. 181; Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 162;

the taxes are imposed, for all moneys collected by him and not accounted for, both personally and on his bond.¹

He cannot escape from this liability by denying the authority under which he acted, as, having asserted the validity of his authority by collecting the tax, he is estopped from denying it, and disputing the right of the state to money thus coming into his hands.² The fact that the tax was unconstitutional, illegal, or

Baird v. People, 83 Ill. 387; Mason v. Fractional School Dist., 34 Mich. 234; People v. Brown, 55 N. Y. 180.

Where a collector of taxes for a town or city has collected, but not paid over, the taxes, the amount constitutes a fiduciary debt within the bankrupt law, and is not barred by such collector's obtaining a discharge in bankruptcy. Richmond v. Brown, 66 Me. 373. And see Morse v. Lowell, 7 Met. (Mass.) 152. And he may be guilty of larceny by converting them to his own use. State v. Dale, 8 Oregon 229.

A tax collector is not personally liable for paying money to a treasurer who is required to increase his bond before receiving the same, when he acted without knowledge that the treasurer had not increased it. Woodall v. Oden, 62 Ala. 125; Morrow v. Wood, 56 Ala. 1.

Cannot Pay Judgments.—A tax collector of a parish has no right to pay out of taxes collected by him, a judgment against the parish. Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736.

1. Adams v. Farnsworth, 15 Gray (Mass.) 423; Morse v. Lowell, 7 Met. (Mass.) 152; Lincoln v. Chapin, 132 Mass. 470; Orneville v. Pearson, 61 Me. 552; Webb County v. Gonzales, 69 Tex. 455; Boggs v. State, 46 Tex. 10; McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 22; State v. Britt, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 298; Waters v. Edmondson, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 384; People v. Cooper, 10 Ill. App. 384; Copley v. Dinkgrove, 7 La. Ann. 595; Duncan v. State, 7 La. Ann. 377; Buffington v. Dinkgrove, 4 La. Ann. 550; Goldsmith v. Kemp, 58 Ga. 106; Feigert v. State, 31 Ohio St. 432; Crawford v. Carson, 35 Ark. 565; People v. Love, 25 Cal. 520; Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Wake County v. Magnin, 78 N. Car. 181.

The liability extends to interest and penalties imposed for delay, as well as to the tax itself. Wheeling v. Black, 25 W. Va. 266.

In Hughes v. People, 82 Ill. 78, it was held that a sheriff who has received money from a bank, as compensation for deposits of tax moneys made by him, is properly sued upon his bond as sheriff, and not upon the additional bond the sheriff is required to give as collector of taxes.

In Haley v. Petty, 42 Ark. 392, it was held that a collector whose bond provides for the payment of moneys collected by him by virtue of his office, is liable thereon for moneys received by him from the collection of a preceding term.

Where a collector has defaulted, and the town has advanced the amount due the state, the collector and his sureties are liable for the amount so advanced. Richmond v. Toothaker, 69 Me. 451.

Moneys Received by Deputy.—A sheriff is responsible for money actually received by his deputy upon process committed to the deputy for service, although it is void on its face. Williams-town v. Willis, 15 Gray (Mass.) 427. See also New Hampshire Sav. Bank v. Varnum, 1 Met. (Mass.) 34. Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 162; Brunswick v. Snow, 73 Me. 177; Gorham v. Hall, 57 Me. 61; State v. Shacklett, 37 Mo. 280; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Shacklett, 30 Mo. 550; State v. Guilbeau, 37 La. Ann. 718.

2. See Horn v. Whittier, 6 N. H. 88; Johnston v. Wilson, 2 N. H. 202; 9 Am. Dec. 50; Meredith v. Ladd, 2 N. H. 517; Charleton v. Whilcher, 5 N. H. 196; Tucker v. Aiken, 7 N. H. 113; Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736; Scarborough v. Stevens, 3 Rob. (La.) 147; McGuire v. Bry, 3 Rob. (La.) 196; Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Prince v. McNeill, 77 N. Car. 398; Hewlett v. Nutt, 79 N. Car. 263; State v. Woodside, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 104; Wake County v. Magnin, 78 N. Car. 181; Billingsley v. State, 14 Md. 369; Lincoln v. Chapin, 132 Mass. 470; Cheshire v. Howland, 13 Gray (Mass.) 321; Williamstown v. Willis, 15 Gray (Mass.) 427; Howard v. Proctor, 7 Gray (Mass.) 128; Sandwich v. Fish, 2 Gray (Mass.) 298; Great Barrington v. Austin, 8 Gray (Mass.) 444; Spencer v. Jones, 6 Gray (Mass.) 502; Wendell v.

otherwise defective,¹ or that the taxpayer, though voluntarily paying, might have refused to pay the tax, is no defense.² Even Fleming, 8 Gray (Mass.) 613; Pease v. Smith, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 122; Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Alvord v. Collin, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 418; Colerain v. Bell, 9 Met. (Mass.) 499; Briggs v. Murdock, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 305; People v. Cooper, 10 Ill. App. 384; State v. Harney, 57 Miss. 863; Taylor v. State, 51 Miss. 79; Webb County v. Gonzales, 69 Tex. 455; Berrien County v. Bunbury, 45 Mich. 79; Gorham v. Hall, 57 Me. 58; Kellar v. Savage, 17 Me. 445; Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347; Brunswick v. Snow, 73 Me. 177; Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482; Hale v. Cushing, 2 Me. 218; Ford v. Clough, 8 Me. 334; 23 Am. Dec. 513; Johnson v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29; Orono v. Wedgewood, 44 Me. 49; 69 Am. Dec. 81; Governor v. Montgomery, 2 Swan (Tenn.) 613; Jones v. Scanlan, 6 Humph. (Tenn.) 195; 44 Am. Dec. 300; Wilson v. State, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 316; Mississippi County v. Jackson, 51 Mo. 23; State v. Rushing, 17 Fla. 226; Frier v. State, 11 Fla. 300; Treasurers v. Hilliard, 8 Rich. (S. Car.) 412; Scott v. Watkins, 22 Ark. 566; Webb County v. Gonzales, 69 Tex. 455; State v. Middleton, 57 Tex. 185; Com. v. Titman, 148 Pa. St. 168; Ridgway Tp. v. Wheeler, 90 Pa. St. 150; King v. U. S., 99 U. S. 229; Swan v. State, 48 Tex. 121; Morris v. State, 47 Tex. 583; People v. Brown, 55 N. Y. 180; Lovington v. Board of Trustees, 99 Ill. 564; Dogan v. Griffin, 51 Miss. 782; Com. v. Philadelphia, 27 Pa. St. 497; Ross v. Curtis, 31 N. Y. 605; Murdock v. Aiken, 29 Barb. (N. Y.) 59; Walden v. Lee County, 60 Ga. 296; Arnett v. Griffin, 60 Ga. 349; Wilkinson v. Bennett, 56 Ga. 290.

After a tax collector has acted under the ordinance of a police jury, and collected taxes laid by it, neither he nor his sureties can contest the legality of the ordinance. Vermillion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736.

A tax collector, having acted in that capacity and given a bond, is estopped from contesting the legality of his election. Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199. And he cannot be excused from the performance of his duty in collecting and paying over taxes committed to him, by reason of any illegality in the prior proceedings of the town, or of its officers, unless he was thereby prevented from performing his own duty safely. Kellar v. Savage, 17 Me. 444; Ford v. Clough, 8 Me. 343; 23 Am. Dec. 513; Smyth v. Titcomb, 31 Me. 272.

In Pennsylvania, it has been held that a collector is not criminally liable for a tax collected, where it was afterwards shown that such tax had been improperly assessed by the assessor and county commissioners. Buck v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 110.

1. Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Hewlett v. Nutt, 79 N. Car. 263; San Francisco v. Ford, 52 Cal. 198; State v. Cunningham, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 339; Smyth v. Titcomb, 31 Me. 272; Thompson v. Stickney, 6 Ala. 579; Olean v. King, 116 N. Y. 355; O'Neal v. Washington County, 27 Md. 227; Waters v. State, 1 Gill (Md.) 302; State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 34 Md. 344; Williams v. Holden, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 223; Stalel v. O'Malley, 39 Wis. 328; Moore v. Allegheny, 18 Pa. St. 55; Com. v. Philadelphia, 27 Pa. St. 497; Mast v. Nacogdoches County, 71 Tex. 380; Chandler v. State, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 296; Wilson v. State, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 316; Feigert v. State, 31 Ohio St. 432; Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 562; Dogan v. Griffin, 51 Miss. 782; Webb County v. Gonzales County, 69 Tex. 455; Bell v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 4 Wall. (U. S.) 598.

Where a collector collected a "dog tax" which was declared unconstitutional, and penalties, though the act imposing the penalties had been repealed, the court held that he and the sureties on his bond were liable for the same. Chandler v. State, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 296; Wilson v. State, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 316; Lovington v. Board of Trustees, 99 Ill. 564.

That the tax was paid under protest, is no defense. San Francisco v. Ford, 52 Cal. 198; People v. Austin, 46 Cal. 520.

The question of constitutional authority to levy a tax, can arise only between the collector and the person taxed before payment, and between the state and the person taxed after payment. Waters v. State, 1 Gill (Md.) 302.

2. People v. Cooper, 10 Ill. App. 384; Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199; Ford v. Clough, 8 Me. 334; 23 Am. Dec. 513; Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347; Johnson though the collector might have refused to collect the tax, having collected it under color of authority, he must account for the moneys received.¹ He is responsible for moneys collected by him, even though they are lost or stolen without negligence on his part.²

v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29; Orono v. Wedgewood, 44 Me. 49; 69 Am. Dec. 81; Lyndon v. Miller, 36 Vt. 329. And see Ham v. Greve, 34 Ind. 18; Burks v. Wonerline, 6 Bush (Ky.) 20; Mississippi County v. Jackson, 51 Mo. 23; Lynn v. Cumberland (Md. 1893), 26 Atl. Rep. 1001; Moss v. Riddle, 5 Cranch (U. S.) 351.

In State v. Woodside, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 104, the court held that although the county clerk may not deliver to the sheriff an official copy of the list of taxables, yet if he proceeds, without such official list, to collect the taxes, he and his sureties on his bond are bound for the amount he may so collect, notwithstanding he could not have enforced the collection without such certificate from the clerk. See also Slade v. Governor, 3 Dev. (N. Car.) 365; Kelly v. Craig, 5 Ired. (N. Car.) 131.

1. Adams v. Farnsworth, 15 Gray (Mass.) 423; Cheshire v. Howland, 13 Gray (Mass.) 321; Lincoln v. Chapin, 132 Mass. 470; Sandwich v. Fish, 2 Gray (Mass.) 298; Reynolds v. Lofton, 18 Ga. 47; Barlow v. Sumter County, 47 Ga. 639; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Palmer v. Craddock, Sneed (Ky.) 182.

A collector's receipt for tax bills, whereby he agrees "to collect and pay over" the taxes, is not an absolute agreement on his part to collect and pay over, irrespective of the legality of the taxes. There is, in such case, an implied agreement on the part of the town that the taxes are valid and collectible. For the non-collection of taxes illegally assessed, neither the collector nor the sureties on his bond are liable. But for the misapplication or misappropriation of all moneys voluntarily paid to the collector on such taxes, they are liable. Tunbridge v. Smith, 48 Vt. 648.

A collector of taxes is excusable for not proceeding under a defective warrant, and he cannot be held liable for non-collection of the taxes when his warrant confers no authority to distrain. Frankfort v. White, 41 Me. 537; Orneville v. Pearson, 61 Me. 552; Boothbay v. Giles, 64 Me. 403.

But while the collector is under no obligation to execute a warrant irregular on its face, the taxpayers may waive any formal defects and pay their taxes to the collector; and if he receives them, the defective warrant is no defense against the claim of the town for the money thus actually received. Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347, and cases cited.

2. U. S. v. Prescott, 3 How. (U. S.) 578; U. S. v. Morgan, 11 How. (U. S.) 154; State v. Houston, 78 Ala. 576; 56 Am. Rep. 59; Morbeck v. State, 28 Ind. 86; Albany County v. Dorr, 25 Wend. (N. Y.) 440; Muzzy v. Shattuck, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 233; Boggs v. State, 46 Tex. 10; Monticello v. Lowell, 70 Me. 438; State v. Harper, 6 Ohio St. 508; 67 Am. Dec. 363; State v. Lanier, 31 La. Ann. 423; New Providence v. McEachron, 33 N. J. L. 339; Com. v. Comly, 3 Pa. St. 372. And see State v. Lott, 69 Ala. 147; U. S. v. Thomas, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 337; United States v. Dashiell, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 182; U. S. v. Morgan, 11 How. (U. S.) 154; U. S. v. Keebler, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 83; Boyd v. U. S., 13 Wall. (U. S.) 17; Halbert v. State, 22 Ind. 125; State v. Harper, 6 Ohio St. 609; 67 Am. Dec. 363; Redwood County v. Tower, 28 Minn. 45; State v. Moore, 74 Mo. 413; 41 Am. Rep. 322; Cumberland v. Pennell, 69 Me. 357; 31 Am. Rep. 284; York County v. Watson, 15 S. Car. 1; 40 Am. Rep. 675; Hancock v. Hazzard, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 112.

His liability depends upon his contract, and not upon the law of bailment. State v. Harper, 6 Ohio St. 608; 67 Am. Dec. 363.

The collector can be released from liability only upon the ground that the moneys were taken from him by irresistible force. State v. Houston, 78 Ala. 576; 56 Am. Rep. 59.

In Halbert v. State, 22 Ind. 125, the court held that a public officer who is required to give bond for the proper payment of money that may come into his hands, as such officer, is not a mere bailee of the money, exonerated by the exercise of ordinary care and diligence; but his liability is fixed by his bond, and the fact that the money is stolen from him without his fault, does not release him from his obligation

The collector is liable for taxes which he might have collected by reasonable diligence, but which, by reason of his negligence, having been left uncollected, have been lost.¹ So he is liable for taxes for which he has receipted without receiving payment.² Where, however, he has discharged his duties, and been guilty of no negligence, he is not liable for sums which he has not actually received.³ He is not liable for taxes which it was to make such payment. See also State v. Harper, 6 Ohio St. 607; 67 Am. Dec. 363.

But it has been held in Ohio, that when the legislature passes an act exonerating such officer and his sureties from the payment of such money, and directs that a tax be levied in the territory upon which the loss must fall, to meet the deficit, such act is not forbidden by the constitution, state or federal. Board of Education v. McLandsborough, 36 Ohio St. 227; 38 Am. Rep. 582.

The collector cannot be said to be without fault or neglect, if there has been previously an omission, without exonerative cause, to discharge any duty, the performance of which, as and when required, would have prevented the money from being subject to loss by robbery. If there was such a failure of duty, the condition of the bond was then broken, and such default of the collector, co-operating with the robbery, contributed to the loss of the money. State v. Houston, 78 A. 579; 56 Am. Rep. 59; Evans v. U. S., 13 Wall. (U. S.) 56; Halliburton v. U. S., 13 Wall. (U. S.) 63.

1. Pittsburg v. Tabor, 61 N. H. 100; Richmond v. Brown, 66 Me. 373; Marlar v. State, 62 Miss. 677; Governor v. McEwen, 5 Humph. (Tenn.) 241. And see State v. Britt, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 298; Prince v. Britt, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 290.

A township committee has no power to direct the township collector not to collect a tax which, although illegal, has never been set aside. If, therefore, he fails to collect such a tax, the direction of the committee constitutes no defense to the suit of the township on his official bond. Painter v. Blairstown, 43 N. J. Eq. 317.

In Colerain v. Bell, 9 Met. (Mass.) 499, it was held that in case of the removal of the collector from office, he and his sureties are liable for such part of the taxes committed to him as are lost by reason of his remissness, even though the uncollected portion thereof has been committed to his successor, who has also given bond for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office.

2. McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 22; State v. Britt, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 298. And see Jackson County v. Gullatt, 84 Ala. 243; McWilliams v. Phillips, 51 Miss. 196; Olean v. King, 116 N. Y. 355.

Under the Vermont Gen. Sts., ch. 84, § 64, the collector is accountable to the town for all of an abatement not allowed to him by the selectmen, without regard to previous custom. And under section 65 of the same chapter, he is accountable in like manner for the excess of the state tax remaining in his hands after satisfying the warrant of the state treasurer, and the non-payment thereof constitutes a breach of his bond. Essex v. French, 50 Vt. 413.

3. See State v. Daspit, 30 La. Ann. 1112; Gutches v. Todd County, 44 Minn. 383.

In Com. v. Masonic Temple Co., 89 Ky. 658, the court held that under Gen. St. Kentucky (ed. 1873), ch. 92, art. 8, §§ 3, 8, which impose a liability on the collector for all taxes collected, and give the commonwealth a lien on his land therefor, which shall not be discharged until he has obtained a quietus, a sheriff was entitled to a quietus for taxes with which he had become chargeable during his term, but which he had been enjoined from collecting by order of court.

In School Dist. v. Tebbetts, 67 Me. 239, it was held that, the fact that money, which accrued from the sale of a district schoolhouse, and which was shown to have been finally disposed of in accordance with the vote of the district, although it had gone through the town treasurer's hands contrary to the vote of the district, before reaching its destination, had been duly accounted for, the town treasurer could not be held liable to the district a second time for it. Treasurers v. Hilliard, 8 Rich. (S. Car.) 412. But the insolvency or want of ability to pay is no defense to a suit on the collector's bond, when he not his duty to collect;¹ nor is he liable where the warrant would not have protected him had he proceeded under it.²

(2) The Accounting.—The collector must make out his accounts and settle with the state at the time³ and with the formalities prescribed by law.⁴ He can receive nothing but money in payment of taxes, unless he is expressly permitted by statute to receive something else, and, in the absence of such a provision, nothing but money will be received from him in settlement of his accounts.⁵

The collector is not authorized to use his office for purposes of speculation, such as buying up demands against the public to has failed to execute his warrant of distress, or otherwise exhausted his power. Gorham v. Hall, 57 Me. 58; Colerain v. Bell, 9 Met. (Mass.) 499.

1. See West Baton Rouge v. Morris, 27 La. Ann. 459; Lincoln v. Chapin, 132 Mass. 470.

A superseded tax collector and his sureties are liable only for the amount collected by him, and not accounted for; and in a suit to recover the same, the amount must be proved by the state. State v. Daspit, 30 La. Ann. 1112.

But he is liable even for taxes of a preceding term if he has collected them. Haley v. Petty, 42 Ark. 392.

Where the sheriff has failed to file the list of delinquent taxes until after the time prescribed by law, the collector is not liable for uncollected taxes. Gutches v. Todd County, 44 Minn. 383.

2. Reynolds v. Lafton, 18 Ga. 47; Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 161; Cheshire v. Howland, 13 Gray (Mass.) 321. And see Barlow v. Sumter County, 47 Ga. 639.

It must be established that the collector has been legally authorized to collect the taxes, or that he has collected them. Machiasport v. Small, 77 Me. 109.

In Williamstown v. Willis, 15 Gray (Mass.) 427, it was held that a denial by the officer that any warrant was committed to him for services, authorizes proof that a warrant so committed was void on its face.

In State v. Atkinson, 107 N. Car. 317, it was held that a constable could not escape liability for failure to collect taxes committed to him, upon the ground that the warrant and list contained no direction to collect.

3. Moeng v. People, 138 Ill. 513.

Account for and Pay Over.—The statute and the condition in a treasurer's bond requiring him to "account for and pay over" moneys, do not create two distinct grounds of liability; but the accounting is merely preliminary to the payment. Franklin v. Kirby, 25 Wis. 498.

4. See Pettitt v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 320; Wood v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 329; McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 22; Simmons v. Boulitt, 26 La. Ann. 277; State v. Powell, 40 La. Ann. 241.

Under the Nebraska statutes, it is only where the county commissioners fail to settle with the treasurer, and allow him credit for uncollectible taxes, and for errors in the tax lists, that the county clerk has authority to examine the lists and correct them. Eatherly v. State, 14 Neb. 287.

5. Miltenberger v. Cooke, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 421; U. S. v. Morgan, 11 How. (U. S.) 154; Johnson v. U. S., 5 Mason (U. S.) 425; Smith v. Speed, 50 Ala. 276; Crutcher v. Sterling, 1 Idaho 306; Askew v. Columbia County, 32 Ark. 270; Sheridan v. Rahway, 44 N. J. L. 587; Frier v. State, 11 Fla. 300; Simmons v. Boulitt, 26 La. Ann. 277. And see Lawson v. Pulaski County, 3 Ark. 1; Wellington v. Lawrence, 73 Me. 125; Sawyer v. Springfield, 40 Vt. 305.

In McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 22, the court held that Tennessee bank notes receivable by the state in payment of taxes, if received by the collector and not paid over, must be accounted for as money, at their face value; and so of county warrants.

In Orneville v. Pearson, 61 Me. 552, it was held that, if a person who was collector for consecutive years, paid money, without any appropriation on his part, to the treasurer, who applied it to the oldest liability, having no notice that the money came from the assessments of any particular year, it cannot afterwards be applied by the collector to his liabilities for the subsequent year, even though collected from the taxes of that year.

use in his settlement with the state.¹ And even where the statute directs that such demands are receivable for taxes, they cannot be used in accounting, unless they were actually received by the collector in making his collections.²

A settlement is not conclusive evidence of a proper accounting, but mistakes in it may be shown.³

Settlement, in the absence of statutory provision, must be made within a reasonable time after collection.⁴ Where the collector delays payment after the time for settlement, he is chargeable with interest.⁵ Penalties may be imposed upon the collector for failure to pay over.⁶

1. Frier v. State, 11 Fla. 300. And see Elliott v. Miller, 8 Mich. 132; Smith v. Speed, 50 Ala. 276.

In Cheshire v. Howland, 13 Gray (Mass.) 321, it was held that payments made by a collector of taxes in behalf of the town, and allowed to him by the town in account, cannot be again allowed him in an action by the town on his official bond.

2. Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 319; Simmons v. Boultt, 26 La. Ann. 277; Vermillion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736. But see Askew v. Columbia County, 32 Ark. 270.

The right of debtors to the State of Virginia, to discharge their debts in the state's tax-receivable coupons, is not available to a tax collector who has collected taxes which he has not turned over, nor to the surety on his official bond. Burgess v. Winston, 28 Fed. Rep. 559.

In Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318, the court held that, notwithstanding the collector's tender at the treasury, and in court of warrants on the treasury, made receivable for taxes, which were refused by the treasurer, the state was entitled to recover the amount of her demand against the collecting officer.

3. Moore County v. McRae, 89 N. Car. 95; State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; People v. Cooper, 10 Ill. App. 384; Justices v. Fennimore, 1 N. J. L. 190. And see Kilpatrick v. Pickens County, 66 Ala. 422; Kinney v. State, 4 Ill. 357; Washington County v. Parlier, 10 Ill. 232; Wellington v. Lawrence, 73 Me. 125; O'Neal v. Washington County, 27 Md. 227.

In Allbright v. Governor, 25 Tex. 687, it was held that a comptroller's statement of accounts is not evidence in an action against the collector.

In Adams v. Farnsworth, 15 Gray (Mass.) 423, it was held that in an action to recover sums of money not included in the treasurer's account, he may show errors in the account tending to balance the omission without pleading them in his answer or in set-off.

4. Houston v. Russell, 52 Vt. 110.

Where the statute required the collector to pay when the law should direct, while the bond required him to pay when the county commissioners should by law direct, the court held that there was no material difference, and that payment to the treasurer was in law payment to the county commissioners. Frownfelter v. State, 66 Md. 80.

Where a collector has paid money into the treasury, on account of taxes collected, before he is legally required to account, the payment has relation to the time when he is legally required to pay. Wyman v. Smith, 45 Me. 522.

5. Sheridan v. Stevenson, 44 N. J. L. 371; Glover v. Wilson, 6 Pa. St. 290. And see State v. Van Winkle, 43 N. J. L. 125; State v. Lacey Tp., 42 N. J. L. 536; State v. Lott, 69 Ala. 147; Brunswick v. Snow, 73 Me. 177; McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 22; Hartford v. Franey, 47 Conn. 76; Wheeling v. Black, 25 W. Va. 266; Hawkins v. Minor, 5 Call (Va.) 118.

In the absence of testimony showing when the amount sued for actually came into the hands of the collector, or that he was in default before the end of the fiscal year, that would be the date from which to charge interest against him. Cordray v. State, 55 Tex. 140.

In Gaskins v. Com., 1 Call (Va.) 194, it was held that interest will not be computed upon the damages recovered against a public collector, until after judgment.

6. See Carnall v. Crawford County, 11 Ark. 604; Lawson v. Pulaski County, 3 Ark. 1; Smith v. Speed, 50 Ala. 276; State v. Lewenthall, 55 Miss. 589.

c. REMEDIES AGAINST DEFAULTING COLLECTOR—(1) By Action—(a) The Right to Maintain.—A state or municipality may pursue a delinquent collector for moneys collected and not paid over, or for failure to collect, by suit at common law;¹ or suit may be brought upon his official bond.²

As there is an adequate remedy at law, a bill in equity will not lie against a collector.³ Demand or notice to pay is unnecessary as a foundation for an action against him.⁴

A penalty may be imposed without notifying the collector of the adjustment, as it constitutes part of the preliminary proceedings that may be conducted ex parte, and any objection for want of such notice should come from him when summoned to show cause; and if want of knowledge is shown by him, as to the penalty, and is disallowed as a defense, he should spread it on the record bill of exceptions. Carnall v. Crawford County, 21 Ark. 604. See also Christian v. Ashley County, 24 Ark. 142.

Where a penalty is imposed on a tax collector for failure to account, it is a legal incident, and need not be specially claimed in a declaration against him and his sureties. State v. Lewenthall, 55 Miss. 589.

1. Adams v. Farnsworth, 15 Gray (Mass.) 423; Baird v. People, 83 Ill. 387; Helvey v. Huntington County, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 317; Wentworth v. Gove, 45 N. H. 160; Spencer v. Perry, 18 Mich. 394; Richmond v. Brown, 66 Me. 373; Dogan v. Griffin, 51 Miss. 782.

2. Boykin v. State, 50 Miss. 375. And see BONDS, vol. 2, p. 448; PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378; SURETYSHIP, vol. 24, p. 714.

3. Hindman v. Aledo, 6 Ill. App. 436; Clinton County v. Schuster, 82 Ill. 137; Ramsey v. Clinton County, 92 Ill. 225; Baird v. People, 83 Ill. 387; Kilgour v. People, 76 Ill. 548.

In Livingston v. Anderson, 80 Ga. 175, it was held that the sureties of a defaulting tax collector's bond are subrogated to the rights of the state for the uncollected tax, upon settling with the state therefor, and may recover such taxes by appeal to equity, where no legal remedy is provided therefor.

In Turner v. Teague, 73 Ala. 554, it was held that the statutory lien on the property of a collector for the payment of any judgment which may be rendered against him in his official capacity, is enforceable only in equity.

4. Wentworth v. Gove, 45 N. H. 160; Watson v. Walker, 23 N. H. 471; Hicks v. Burns, 38 N. H. 151; Brewster v. Van Ness, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 133. Compare Moody v. Mahurin, 4 N. H. 296; Weston v. Ames, 10 Met. (Mass.) 247; Prairie v. Worth, 78 N. Car. 169; Worth v. Cox, 89 N. Car. 44; State v. McIntosh, 9 Ired. (N. Car.) 307; Prairie v. Jenkins, 75 N. Car. 545; State v. Woodside, 9 Ired. (N. Car.) 496; Houston v. Russell, 52 Vt. 110. And see Tappan v. People, 67 Ill. 339; Dodge v. People, 113 Ill. 491; Carnall v. Crawford County, 11 Ark. 604.

In Sweetser v. Hay, 2 Gray (Mass.) 49, it was held that if any demand of payment of a sum of money due upon a bond given by the town treasurer and collector of taxes to the selectmen, is necessary, before commencing an action on the bond, the demand upon such treasurer, made by two of the three selectmen and the town treasurer for the time being, after the three selectmen and treasurer have been appointed by the town, a committee to settle with the former treasurer is sufficient. See also Adams v. Farnsworth, 15 Gray (Mass.) 423.

Where a collector fails to settle and pay over, at the time prescribed, it is the duty of the county court to adjust his accounts according to the best information that can be obtained; but such adjustment being but a preliminary step, he is not entitled to previous notice. Carnall v. Crawford County, 11 Ark. 604. And suit by the commonwealth on a collector's bond, is sufficient notice. Lehigh Crane Iron Co. v. Com., 55 Pa. St. 448.

In Tappan v. People, 67 Ill. 339, it was held that while no demand is necessary in order to recover the amount collected by a collector, if it is also sought to recover a penalty for failure to pay over according to law, demand must be made, penal statutes being required to receive a strict construction.

The form of the action may be assumpsit for money had and received;¹ though, sometimes, a special action on the case,² or, in some cases an action of debt, may be brought.³

(b) How Prosecuted.—In the absence of statutory provisions, the proceedings are the same in a tax suit as in ordinary actions.⁴

The suit is generally required to be brought in the name of the state or municipality imposing the tax,⁵ and should be prosecuted generally by the officer to whom the money should have been paid over.⁶

1. Adams v. Farnsworth, 15 Gray (Mass.) 423; Richmond v. Brown, 66 Me. 373.

In Hindman v. Aledo, 6 Ill. App. 436, it was held that where it is merely sought to recover a sum of money which the defendant has in his hands, and which is the property of the state or municipality, assumpsit will lie.

In O'Neal v. Washington County, 27 Md. 227, it was held that the fact that a collector is responsible upon his official bond for moneys due the state, is no bar to an action of assumpsit for their recovery.

In School Dist. v. Tebbetts, 67 Me. 239, it was said by Barrows, J.: "That, under any ordinary circumstances, an action of assumpsit by a school district against the treasurer of a town is not the proper remedy to recover any balance of their moneys which has been paid into his hands as such treasurer, is sufficiently obvious. The broad remark made by the court in Bailey v. Butterfield, 14 Me. 112, and McMillan v. Eastman, 4 Mass. 378, that an action of assumpsit, as implied by law, is never a proper remedy against a public officer for neglect or misbehavior in his office, might, under some unusual and peculiar condition of things, need qualification. See Adams v. Farnsworth, 15 Gray (Mass.) 423. But, ordinarily, a special action on the case, setting forth the particulars which constitute the default or misfeasance, or, in some cases, an action of debt, has been deemed the proper form."

2. School Dist. v. Tebbetts, 67 Me. 239; Bailey v. Butterfield, 14 Me. 112; Charleston v. Stacy, 10 Vt. 562.

3. School Dist. v. Tebbetts, 67 Me. 239; Bailey v. Butterfield, 14 Me. 112.

4. See Tappan v. People, 67 Ill. 339.

5. See Snyder v. State, 21 Ind. 77; Pep- per v. State, 22 Ind. 399; 85 Am. Dec. 430; Fry v. State, 27 Ind. 348; Taggart v. State, 49 Ind. 42; Neal v. State, 49 Ind. 51; Scotten v. State, 51 Ind. 52;

Cabel v. McCafferty, 53 Ind. 75; Caldwell v. Fayette County, 80 Ind. 99; Vanarsdale v. State, 65 Ind. 176; Solano County v. Neville, 27 Cal. 465; Tappan v. People, 67 Ill. 339; Dodge v. People, 113 Ill. 491.

The recovery is in trust for the district by which the tax was levied. Tappan v. People, 67 Ill. 339.

An official bond is not a "contract for the payment of money," within statutory provisions requiring actions on such contracts to be brought in the name of the party really interested. Morrow v. Wood, 56 Ala. 1. See Skinner v. Bedell, 32 Ala. 44; Rouse v. Moore, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 407; Galway v. Stinson, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 136; Looney v. Hughes, 26 N. Y. 514.

Under the Alabama Code, § 163, the official bond of a tax collector is properly made payable to the state, and an action thereon may be maintained by the county, as the person injured, on account of the default of the collector. Dudley v. Chilton County, 66 Ala. 593.

In Wake County v. Magnin, 78 N. Car. 181, the court held that an action upon the official bond of a county treasurer for the recovery of money belonging to the school fund of the county, collected by him and not paid over, is properly brought in the name of the board of commissioners of the county.

6. See Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145; Gaunt v. State, 81 Ind. 137; Walton v. Jones, 7 Utah 462.

In Gibson County v. Harrington, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 260, it was held that county commissioners may sue a delinquent tax collector, even though the collector of the county is required to pay over to the county treasurer, and not to the county commissioners; but that they must assign non-payment to the county treasurer as a breach of the collector's duty.

In North Carolina, to recover an amount due the county by a county treasurer, the action should be brought

Proof of the receipt of the money by the collector, and of his delinquency in not paying it over, is sufficient to sustain the action,¹ and to cast upon him the burden of showing that he has rightfully disposed of it.²

The defense of set-off will not be allowed the collector in an action against him by the state.³

A claim against a collector for taxes collected by him and not paid over is a fiduciary debt, within the bankrupt law, and is not barred by his discharge in bankruptcy.⁴

on the relation of the commissioners, and not by the succeeding treasurer. Wescott v. Thees, 89 N. Car. 55.

A district attorney has authority, under the California Act of May 17th, 1861, to bring an action upon the official bond of a tax collector of a county, for moneys due both to the county and the state, on his own valuation, with or without instructions from the comptroller, the county court, or the board of supervisors. People v. Love, 25 Cal. 520.

But in Mississippi, where the proper officer fails to institute the action, it may be brought by any taxpayer who renders himself responsible for the costs. State v. Harris, 52 Miss. 686.

In French v. State, 53 Miss. 651, it was held that in an action on the bond of a tax collector, under Code Mississippi 1871, § 1752, the declaration is bad, if it does not contain the allegation that the person on whose relation the suit is instituted is a taxpayer, and fails to aver that he is a citizen of the state.

1. Coons v. People, 76 Ill. 383. And see Boothbay v. Giles, 64 Me. 403; Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347; Cheshire v. Holland, 13 Gray (Mass.) 321; Houston County v. Dwyer, 59 Tex. 113; Ferrisburg v. Martin, 60 Vt. 330.

But proof of a mere commitment to the collector, and a failure to account, is not sufficient. Boothbay v. Giles, 64 Me. 403.

The comptroller's statement of the amount due from a tax collector to the state, is prima facie evidence against the collector and his sureties, but not conclusive. Anderson v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 13; McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 22; Wood v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 329. And see Johns v. State, 55 Md. 350.

Evidence of the contents of the collector's books to show payment for taxes, cannot be given, when no reason is shown for not producing them. State v. Lewenthal, 55 Miss. 589.

In the prosecution of a collector, for converting money collected by him as taxes, it may be shown that he received sums of money from different individual taxpayers. State v. Dale, 8 Oregon 229.

In U. S. v. Hunt, 105 U. S. 183, it was held that a duly certified treasury transcript of the collector's accounts is admissible in evidence, although it contains no dates as to when the money was collected, it being certified to cover the period of his bond.

2. Coons v. People, 76 Ill. 383. And see Carpenter v. Corinth, 62 Vt. 111; Houston County v. Dwyer, 59 Tex. 113.

He may show allowances and releases upon the trial. Pettitt v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 320. And instructions from the comptroller or other superior officer may be shown where set up in defense. Allbright v. Governor, 25 Tex. 689.

If the collector has abstracted the record of his receipts and payments of taxes required by Mississippi Code 1880, §§ 517-19, his sureties cannot require that the state, after establishing his collection of the amount claimed, shall prove that he has not settled with the auditor. Gibson v. State, 59 Miss. 341.

3. Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318; Shaver v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 195; Finnegan v. Fernandina, 15 Fla. 379; Hibbard v. Clark, 56 N. H. 155; 22 Am. Rep. 442; Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75 N. Car. 1; Wilson v. Lewistown, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 428; State v. Baldwin, 14 S. Car. 135.

Where the proportion of the land tax due to the county has not been paid, the collector, in an action on his official bond, cannot set off county orders against the claim. Byers v. State, 2 Ohio 106.

4. Richmond v. Brown, 66 Me. 375; Morse v. Lowell, 7 Met. (Mass.) 152.

Fiduciary debts like those of the public against a tax collector, may be proved in bankruptcy, equally with other debts,

The Statute of Limitations begins to run against an action for breach of a collector's bond from the time of the breach, and not from the date of the bond.¹ Mere delay short of the statutory period, in enforcing the bond against a defaulting tax collector, does not release his sureties, nor impair their right of subrogation.²

(c) The Measure of Damages.—The tax collector is prima facie liable for the whole amount of his assessment roll; that is, for all the taxes committed to him for collection, in respect to which he has not exhausted his authority to enforce payment; and if he fails to pay in that amount at the proper time, the whole burden of proof is on him to show discharge, payment, or any other defense he may have in extinguishment of his liability.³

The measure of damages for taxes collected and not paid over, is the amount actually collected, with interest, deducting all payments made by the collector,⁴ and the compensation which he is if the creditor to whom they are due so elect; and if they are so proven, and dividends thereon are accepted, they are barred, like other debts, by the debtor's discharge. Morse v. Lowell, 7 Met. (Mass.) 152.

1. Moore County v. McRae, 89 N. Car. 95. See also Barker v. Munroe, 4 Dev. (N. Car.) 412; Coomer v. Little, Conf. Rep. (N. Car.) 92.

2. State v. Guilbeau, 37 La. Ann. 718; Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736. And see Northumberland v. Cobleigh, 59 N. H. 250.

Notice to Sureties.—Where the officers of a state knew of a tax collector's default under a previous term of office, but did not notify the surety of the collector on his bond, given on a subsequent appointment, it was held that the omission of the state officers to notify the surety of such default, is not a fraud, or fraudulent concealment of the fact by the state or its officers, and constitutes no defense to the surety in an action upon his bond for a subsequent default. State v. Rushing, 17 Fla. 226.

3. Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736; Vermillion Parish v. Comeau, 10 La. Ann. 695; State v. Powell, 40 La. Ann. 241; Scarborough v. Stevens, 3 Rob. (La.) 147; Boring v. Williams, 17 Ala. 510; Thompson v. Stickney, 6 Ala. 579; Timberlake v. Brewer, 59 Ala. 108; Gutches v. Todd County, 44 Minn. 383; Houston County v. Dwyer, 59 Tex. 113; Swan v. State, 48 Tex. 121; Cordray v. State, 55 Tex. 141; Shaw v. State, 43 Tex. 359; Burnett v. Henderson, 21 Tex. 590; Allbright v. Governor, 25 Tex. 687;

Lockhart v. Houston, 45 Tex. 317; Morris v. State, 47 Tex. 593; Olean v. King, 116 N. Y. 355; Gorham v. Hall, 57 Me. 58; Howard v. State, 8 Mo. 361; Jackson County v. Gullatt, 84 Ala. 243; Treasurers v. Cleary, 3 Rich. (S. Car.) 372.

The safe keeping, by a collector, of tax money levied by a defunct village corporation, until someone has a right to demand and receive the same, is no breach of the bond. Dodge v. People, 113 Ill. 491.

The Louisiana revenue laws require of tax collectors the performance of certain acts as conditions precedent to the allowance of deduction lists as credits in their favor—viz.: They must verify these lists with an oath that they have exhausted all legal means for the collection of the sums upon them, and must deposit them in the recorder's office at a certain time. Unless these requirements are complied with, they are not legally entitled to be credited with the amount of these deduction lists. State v. Viator, 37 La. Ann. 734. See also State v. Guilbeau, 37 La. Ann. 718.

4. Brunswick v. Snow, 73 Me. 177; James v. Governor, 1 Ala. 605.

Where a tax collector has improperly levied upon property, and it is purchased by the owner at the tax sale, the measure of damages is the price bid at the sale, and the amount of the tax should be deducted therefrom. Alexander v. Helber, 35 Mo. 334. And where the collector himself purchases at the tax sale, it is the value of the goods sold, deducting the amount applied by entitled to receive,¹ and including all penalties imposed upon the collector for delinquencies.²

(2) Summary Process—(a) Provisions for.—In many of the states, in order to secure the speedy payment of taxes collected, and to enable judgment to be obtained without the usual delays incident to ordinary actions, summary remedies are provided against defaulting collectors and their sureties.³ Thus, summary judgment may be obtained against the collector and his sureties on motion or order to show cause,⁴ or a warrant of distress or execution may be issued against them by the treasurer or other proper officer.⁵

the collector to the payment of the tax. Pierce v. Benjamin, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 356; 25 Am. Dec. 396.

It is not necessary that the amount of the default of a tax collector should have been ascertained by a judgment at law; such default may be ascertained and determined, and the lien enforced, by a proceeding in equity. Knighton v. Curry, 62 Ala. 404.

1. Brunswick v. Snow, 73 Me. 177.

2. Christian v. Ashley County, 24 Ark. 142; Tappan v. People, 67 Ill. 339.

Penalties may also be recovered of sureties for the collector. Tappan v. People, 67 Ill. 339.

In Johnson v. Thompson, 4 Bibb (Ky.) 294, it was held that a judgment against a principal is not admissible evidence against his deputy, when he was not a party to the suit, and is liable to the principal without a judgment.

3. See Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Boring v. Williams, 17 Ala. 510; Bassett v. Governor, 11 Ga. 207; Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736; Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606.

The power to collect taxes is not exhausted by the receipt of the money by the collector. Its purpose is to raise money for the use of the government, and, whoever may have possession of it, the power to use appropriate means to secure its proper application, continues until its actual disbursement. Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272.

4. Carmichael v. Hays, 66 Ala. 543; Armstrong v. State, Minor (Ala.) 160; Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318; De Soto County v. Dickson, 34 Miss. 150; Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606; Mallory v. Miller, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 113.

In Alabama, the motion may be made in the name of the county, and is not required to be in the name of the treasurer, Stamphill v. Franklin County, 86 Ala. 392; and a judgment by default in such summary proceedings is conclusive as to the amount then due. State v. McBride, 76 Ala. 51.

A motion against a tax collector carries with it the right to judgment against the securities. Brown v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 871.

In Missouri, the practice is for the county court to ascertain the balance due from the collector to the county, and order its payment, and on his failure to respond, to render judgment against him at the next term, and order execution to issue thereon. Owens v. Andrew County Ct., 49 Mo. 372.

5. Crawford v. Carson, 35 Ark. 565; Bassett v. Governor, 11 Ga. 207; Smyth v. Titcomb, 31 Me. 281; Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482; Scarborough v. Stevens, 3 Rob. (La.) 147; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Bringard v. Stellwagen, 41 Mich. 54; Myers v. Com., 34 Pa. St. 270; Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272.

And if the treasurer neglects to issue his warrant of distress against the collector, mandamus lies to compel him. Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323.

In Phillips v. Robbins, 59 Mo. 107, it was held that where one is both collector and sheriff, a writ may issue against him to the sheriff of an adjoining county, without further proof that the sheriff of the proper county is disqualified.

No particular form is prescribed by the Louisiana statute, for a warrant or execution on behalf of the state, against a delinquent tax collector. Scarborough v. Stevens, 3 Rob. (La.) 147.

Necessity of Return.—An officer levying on an extent against a delinquent tax collector, under the Vermont statute, is not required to make a return; and such return, if made, can be varied by parol evidence. Hackett v. Amsden, 57 Vt. 432.

And, further, the bond is made a lien on all the real estate of both principal and sureties.¹ The defenses that are allowed to be set up may be limited.² In some states the certificate or statement of certain officers is made sufficient evidence to establish the amount due by the collector, in the absence of rebutting testimony.³ Some of the statutes, in case of delay or non-payment, authorize the imposition of a penalty of a certain per cent. on the amount due by the collector;⁴ others, the imprisonment or removal from office of the collector.⁵ It has been held that upon

Not a Tax Sale.—The sale of the land of a defaulting tax collector, under a warrant from the county commissioners, is not a sale for taxes, and not covered by the law relating to tax sales. The warrant has no return day, and is effectual as long as the commissioners may choose, and when it is irregular, no one but the defaulter can take advantage of it, and the commissioners may buy the land for the benefit of the county and lease or sell it at pleasure. Schuykill, etc., R. Co. v. McCreary, 58 Pa. St. 304.

Lien of Treasurer's Warrant.—In Pennsylvania, the lien of a treasurer's warrant levied on the collector's real estate has priority over a subsequent judgment. Stauffer v. Lancaster County, 1 Watts (Pa.) 300.

1. See Wilder v. Butterfield, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 385; Butler County v. Henry, 3 Pen. & W. (Pa.) 26; Warner v. Emory, 3 Yeates (Pa.) 50; Irby v. Livingston, 81 Ga. 281.

The statutory lien created by the approval and recording of a collector's bond, attaches not only to the lands then owned by the principal, but also to after acquired lands, the same as in the case of a judgment. Crawford v. Richeson, 101 Ill. 351; Baker v. Schuessler, 85 Ala. 541.

Under the Illinois statutes, a homestead not exceeding one hundred dollars in value, owned and occupied by the collector as his residence, is exempt from the statutory lien of his bond, but if it exceeds that value, the excess is subject to the lien; and evidence of a homestead right is competent, under a general denial, as going to show that the bond was never a lien on the land. Crawford v. Richeson, 101 Ill. 351.

But in Georgia, the homestead is liable for the collector's default. Davis v. State, 60 Ga. 76.

Discharge of Lien.—Payment to the proper officer discharges the lien. Russell's Appeal, 59 Pa. St. 401.

Subrogation of Sureties.—In Irby v. Livingston, 81 Ga. 281, it was held that one who buys property of a defaulting tax collector, after his bond is given, takes it subject to the lien of the bond, and to the right of the sureties thereon to reimburse themselves out of the proceeds of the property.

2. See Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318.

3. Prather v. Johnson, 3 Harr. & J. (Md.) 487; Billingsley v. State, 14 Md. 369; State v. Powell, 40 La. Ann. 241; Johnson v. Thompson, 4 Bibb (Ky.) 294; Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318; Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272.

The treasurer's certificate to an account against the collector of state taxes, authenticates itself. Milburn v. State, 1 Md. 1.

4. See State v. Lewenthall, 55 Miss. 589; Owens v. Andrew County Ct., 49 Mo. 372.

Where damages on the amount due by the collector are allowed, they are a legal incident to the collection of the tax and need not be specially claimed in the declaration, but will follow a recovery of the amount in default. State v. Lewenthall, 55 Miss. 589.

5. See Hartland v. Hackett, 57 Vt. 92; Daggett v. Everett, 19 Me. 373; Com. v. Ruff, 3 Rawle (Pa.) 95.

Under Georgia Rev. Code, § 918, the governor may vacate the commission of a defaulting tax collector, and fill the vacancy. State v. Frazier, 48 Ga. 137.

In Vermont, the two remedies given to a town against a delinquent tax collector are to be regarded as elective and not concurrent; and if the town procures an extent to be issued against a defaulting collector, on which he is imprisoned and held, an action cannot be maintained on his bond, for the reason that the prosecution of one remedy is a bar to the other. Hartland v. Hackett, 57 Vt. 92.

proof of delinquency of the collector, mandamus will lie to compel him to pay over.¹

(b) Nature and Validity.—The collector, by accepting the office, and his sureties by giving the bond under the existing laws providing for such summary remedies, impliedly agree to make them a part of the contract.² They are upheld upon the ground of necessity,³ and are not in contravention of the constitutional provisions prohibiting anyone from being deprived of property without due process of law,⁴ and guaranteeing trial by jury.⁵ But there should

1. See State v. Staley, 38 Ohio St. 259; Smyth v. Titcomb, 31 Me. 272; People v. Brown, 55 N. Y. 180; State v. Rahway, 44 N. J. L. 587.

It is not a ground for refusing a writ, that the collector has, by his voluntary and wrongful act in paying over the money to the supervisors of the town, subjected himself to loss, or made the performance of his duty difficult or inconvenient. People v. Brown, 55 N. Y. 180.

In People v. Mead, 36 N. Y. 224, it was held on application for a mandamus to compel a county treasurer to pay over moneys assessed and collected to pay certain bonds, that he might show that the necessary assent of the taxpayers of the town to the issue of the bonds was never obtained.

2. See Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Chappee v. Thomas, 5 Mich. 53; State v. Carleton, 1 Gill (Md.) 249; Whitehurst v. Coleen, 53 Ill. 247; Hoke v. Henderson, 4 Dev. (N. Car.) 1; Cotten v. Ellis, 7 Jones (N. Car.) 545; Bunting v. Gales, 77 N. Car. 283; Philadelphia v. Com., 52 Pa. St. 451; Bennett v. McWhorter, 2 W. Va. 441; Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272; Head v. University, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 526; People v. Van Eps, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 387; Lewis v. Garrett, 6 Miss. 434; Pratt v. Donovan, 10 Wis. 378.

The bond is to be read as if the provisions of the statute were set forth at large in it, and had thereby received the express assent of the parties. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 717.

The collection of the revenues is under the controlling power of the legislature, and sheriffs and their bondsmen are affected with notice thereof, and subject to its exercise. Worth v. Cox, 89 N. Car. 45; Prairie v. Worth, 78 N. Car. 169; Oates v. Darden, 1 Murph. (N. Car.) 500; Prairie v. Jenkins, 75 N. Car. 545.

The sureties on the collector's bond, therefore, are not subject to summary remedies other than those accepted by them by giving their bond under a statute providing for such remedies. See Boughton v. State, 7 Humph. (Tenn.) 193; Mallory v. Miller, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 103.

But the collector himself may be subjected to a change of remedies or to new remedies imposed by subsequent statutes. Morrow v. Wood, 56 Ala. 1; U. S. v. Cheeseman, 3 Sawyer (U. S.) 424; Com. v. Toms, 45 Pa. St. 408.

3. Tift v. Griffin, 5 Ga. 185; Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318.

In Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272, the court, by Curtis, J., said: "Probably there are few governments which do, or can, permit their claims for public taxes, either on the citizen or the officer employed for their collection or disbursement, to become subjects of judicial controversy, according to the course of the law of the land. Imperative necessity has forced a distinction between such claims and all others, which has sometimes been carried out by summary methods of proceeding."

4. Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Bringard v. Stellwagen, 41 Mich. 54.

Unreasonable Searches and Seizures.—Statutes authorizing summary process against delinquent tax collectors and their sureties, do not violate constitutional provisions prohibiting unreasonable searches and seizures. Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201.

5. Tift v. Griffin, 5 Ga. 185. See also Ex p. Randolph, 2 Brock. (U. S.) 447; Harper v. Elberton, 23 Ga. 566; Boring v. Williams, 17 Ala. 510; Gorham v. Hall, 57 Me. 58.

The adjustment of the balance due from accounting officers is not necessarily a judicial controversy; there is a distinction in this respect between claims of government for its taxes, and be notice and a hearing of some kind upon the question of delinquency;¹ and proof of delinquency in some form is essential.²

(c) Construction and Applicability.—As summary processes against defaulting collectors are in derogation of common law, a strict compliance with all statutory provisions is required, and no intendments will be taken in their favor.³

of other claims. Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272.

Any legal process which was originally founded in necessity, and has been consecrated by time and approval and acquiesced in by universal consent, must be considered an exception to the right of trial by jury, and is embraced in the alternative law of the land. State v. Allen, 2 McCord (S. Car.) 56; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201.

1. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 721. And see Walker v. Chapman, 22 Ala. 116; Stamphill v. Franklin County, 86 Ala. 322; Armstrong v. State, Minor (Ala.) 160. Notice would appear to be necessary in case of a motion for judgment. See Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318.

Notice of the motion for judgment is regarded as serving the double purpose of process and pleading. But the technical precision and accuracy of a declaration at common law is not required. Timberlake v. Brewer, 59 Ala. 108.

In Den v. Hoboken Land, etc., Co., 18 How. (U. S.) 272, it was said that matters which, from their nature, are subject to suit at common law, or in equity or admiralty, cannot be withdrawn from judicial cognizance. See also Myers v. Com., 34 Pa. St. 270.

2. Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Frary v. Dakin, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 75; Mills v. Martin, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 7; Newsom v. Hart, 14 Mich. 233; Platt v. Stewart, 10 Mich. 260; Morgan County v. Lutman, 63 Mo. 210; Machiasport v. Small, 77 Me. 109; Crawford v. Carson, 35 Ark. 565.

A mere recital in a warrant against a collector, that he is in default in the payment of taxes, is a statement of a legal conclusion, and not a sufficient statement of jurisdictional facts to authorize its issue. Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201.

To authorize a recovery of money collected but not paid over, it is not necessary that the evidence should show, with mathematical precision, the exact amount collected. The presumption must be, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that he did his duty, and collected all the taxes which he ought to have collected; and when the entire amount of taxes assessed, the amount allowed for errors and insolvency, and the amount of payments made to the county treasurer, are established, enough is shown to authorize a recovery. Dudley v. Chilton County, 66 Ala. 593.

Under the Georgia statutes, where a tax collector denies that he owes any part of the money for which execution against him has issued, he may, by filing an affidavit of illegality, cause an issue to be formed which must be tried; and in such case, the trial should proceed, even though no counsel appear for the municipality. Bridges v. Dooly County, 83 Ga. 275.

But it is within legislative power to prescribe and establish the rules of evidence in suits against collectors and their sureties, on all contracts entered into subsequent to the legislative provision. Com. v. Rodes, 5 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 318. And see Phillips v. Robins, 59 Mo. 107; Johnson v. Thompson, 4 Bibb (Ky.) 294.

In Scofield v. Perkerson, 46 Ga. 360, the court held that the issuing of executions by the comptroller general, to collect the public revenues of the state, is the act of the executive department of the government; and the courts have no power to prescribe the kind or sufficiency of the evidence which shall be necessary to authorize the process of execution to issue against defaulting officers or agents, or to restrain that department in pursuing this course. See also Eve v. State, 21 Ga. 50; Manning v. Phillips, 65 Ga. 548; Goldsmith v. Kemp, 58 Ga. 106.

3. Prather v. Johnson, 3 Har. & J. (Md.) 487; Sprigg v. State, 54 Md. 480; Mallory v. Miller, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 113; Boughton v. State, 7 Humph. (Tenn.) 193; Governor v. Powell, 23 Ala. 579; De Soto County v. Dickson, 34 Miss. 150; Smyth v. Titcomb, 31 Me. 272; Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482; Daggett v. Everett, 19 Me. 373; Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323; Tift v. Griffin, 5 Ga. 185; Bassett v.

It has been held that summary process lies against the collector only while he remains in office.¹ These summary remedies cannot be had upon the official bond unless it is in the statutory form; upon a mere common-law bond only the usual common-law remedies may be had.² Summary process will not lie against a collector for failure to collect, where the commitment and warrant were not such as authorized him to compel payment.³

The state may elect between an action against the collector and his sureties on his official bond and a summary process.⁴ Compulsory process against the treasurer, or other officer, whose duty

Governor, 11 Ga. 207; Walden v. Lee County, 60 Ga. 296; Cahn v. Wright, 66 Ga. 119; Nashville v. Smith, 86 Tenn. 213; Ex p. Christian, 23 Ark. 641; Lawson v. Pulaski County, 3 Ark. 1; Carnall v. Crawford County, 11 Ark. 604; Christian v. Ashley County, 24 Ark. 142; Crawford v. Carson, 35 Ark. 565; Lee v. State, 22 Ark. 235; Bringard v. Stellwagen, 41 Mich. 54; Houghton County v. Rees, 34 Mich. 481; Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Owen, 30 Mich. 441; Denison v. Smith, 33 Mich. 155; Clark v. Adams, 33 Mich. 159; Clark v. Lichtenberg, 33 Mich. 307; Smalley v. Lighthall, 37 Mich. 348; Alverson v. Dennison, 40 Mich. 179; Myers v. Com., 34 Pa. St. 270; Warner v. Emory, 3 Yeates (Pa.) 50.

Under the Georgia statutes, an execution may be issued against a defaulting collector for the amount of taxes collected by him after they have been credited to him as insolvent. Reid v. Wright (Ga. 1880), 9 S. E. Rep. 834.

If the statute has not been complied with, the officer issuing the process becomes a trespasser. Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201.

In State v. McBride, 76 Ala. 51, it was held that the summary remedy by notice and motion against a defaulting tax collector, provided for by the Alabama code, may be pursued, even though the default occurred prior to the adoption of the code.

1. Owens v. Andrew County Ct., 49 Mo. 372.

Summary process cannot be had against one who has been ousted on quo warranto as a usurper. Hartley v. State, 3 Kelly (Ga.) 233. See Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 721.

2. See Mallory v. Miller, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 113; State v. Starnes, 5 Lea (Tenn.) 545; Lee County v. Walden, 68 Ga. 664.

Nor will judgment be rendered by motion, where the bond is dated more than a year after the collection. De Soto County v. Dickson, 34 Miss. 150.

But where the statute required the bond to be double the amount of the taxes to be collected, the court held that because the bond was made for less than the requisite amount, it is no valid objection why judgment should not be rendered by motion. Mabry v. Tarver, 1 Humph. (Tenn.) 94.

3. Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201.

In Snow v. Winchell, 74 Me. 408, it was held that a certificate to a town treasurer, by the assessors, that they had delivered to the collector the list of the assessments of a tax "with a warrant in due form of law," will justify the treasurer in issuing a warrant of distress against the collector for a failure to collect and pay the taxes into the treasury as required by law, whether the warrant so delivered to the collector was in fact a good one or not. Distinguishing Pearson v. Canney, 64 Me. 188.

4. Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606; Gorham v. Hall, 57 Me. 59. And see Mallory v. Miller, 2 Yerg. (Tenn.) 113.

A judgment for unpaid taxes is for the benefit of the state, and collection may be enforced under it, even though, through the delay of the collector, the right of the state to exact unpaid taxes from him and his sureties, has accrued. Until the satisfaction of the judgment by motion on the collector's bond, the state has a right to resort to both remedies. Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606.

Not Concurrent Remedies.—The two remedies against a delinquent tax collector, by imprisonment on an extent, and by suit on his official bond, are elective and not concurrent. Hartland v. Hackett, 57 Vt. 92.

In Hellings v. Com., 5 Rawle (Pa.) 64, it was held that when the statute it is to issue summary process against the defaulting collector, has been upheld.¹

(d) Procedure.—The proceeding is generally brought in the name of the officer or political division to which the bond is payable,² and is prosecuted by the officer from whom the money is unlawfully withheld.³ In general, facts which warrant the issuing of the process must appear upon its face.⁴

In a summary process against the tax collector and his sureties, it has been held that the principal is a necessary party to the notice.⁵ Nothing but the tax and such penalties as have been imposed can be recovered.⁶

points out a specific remedy against a collector who embezzles taxes, indictment will not lie.

1. Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323. And see Crawford v. Carson, 35 Ark. 565; Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482.

Illegalities in the assessment are no defense to an application for such a process. Tremont School Dist. v. Clark, 33 Me. 482.

It is within the discretion of the court, when applied to for compulsory process against a treasurer to compel him to issue a warrant against a collector, to withhold or grant it according to the justice of the case. Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323.

2. Nabors v. Governor, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 15; Stamphill v. Franklin County, 86 Ala. 392; Mayberry v. State, 1 Stew. (Ala.) 266; Lyon v. State Bank, 1 Stew. (Ala.) 466; Colgin v. State Bank, 11 Ala. 222; Walker v. Chapman, 22 Ala. 116; Hardaway v. Chairman County Ct., 5 Humph. (Tenn.) 557; Bassett v. Governor, 11 Ga. 207; Scarborough v. Stevens, 3 Rob. (La.) 147.

In Boring v. Williams, 17 Ala. 510, it was held that a summary proceeding against a tax collector is properly instituted in the name of the county treasurer. And in Wheat v. State, Minor (Ala.) 199, it was held that it may be had in the name of the state, even though the collector's bond is executed in the name of the governor.

In Shepherd v. Hamilton County, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 380, the court held that the motion for non-payment of school moneys collected by a tax collector, ought to be in the name of the county trustee, and a motion in the name of the county is erroneous.

It has been held in Alabama, that notices to a delinquent tax collector and his sureties, of a motion to be made for judgment against them, need not be in the name of the state nor directed to any officer. Armstrong v. State, Minor (Ala.) 160.

3. See Scofield v. Perkerson, 46 Ga. 360; Stamphill v. Franklin County, 86 Ala. 392; Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323; Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201; Bringard v. Stellwagen, 41 Mich. 54; Scarborough v. Stevens, 3 Rob. (La.) 147.

4. Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201. And see Wilson v. Lilly, 1 Blackf. (Ind.) 358.

In Pennsylvania, the warrant of a county treasurer, committing a delinquent collector of taxes, need not show what prior proceedings were had, or that the board of commissioners were in session; nor need it run in the name of the commonwealth. Com. v. Ruff, 3 Rawle (Pa.) 95.

Objections Must Be Specific.—On the trial of a motion against a delinquent tax collector, an objection to the admissibility of the comptroller's certificate, without pointing out specific grounds of objection, does not enable the defendant to assign for error that the certificate was not under seal. Carlton v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 16.

5. Governor v. Powell, 23 Ala. 579. And see Orr v. Duvall, 1 Ala. 262; Mason v. Brazier, 1 Ala. 635; James v. Auld, 9 Ala. 462; Logan v. Barclay, 3 Ala. 361.

In Waldron v. Lee, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 323, it was held that where an alternative mandamus issues against a treasurer, to compel him to issue summary process against a collector, it is not necessary to make the collector a party, or to give him notice.

6. Covington, etc., Bridge Co. v. Mayer, 31 Ohio St. 317. And see Walker v. Chapman, 22 Ala. 116; Reid v. Wright (Ga. 1889), 9 S. E. Rep. 834.

The recovery is limited to the amount

(e) The Judgment.—It has been held that the judgment must show the facts necessary to give the court jurisdiction, and to establish the liability of the defendants.¹ It is conclusive as to the amount due from the collector to the state;² so that neither he nor his sureties can, in any subsequent action, set up credits which might have been put in as a defense to the tax suit.³

Where the collector's bond is a lien upon the lands of himself and his sureties, the latter have an equitable right to require that the former's lands shall be first resorted to.⁴ Indeed, by some statutes, the estate of a collector is required to be exhausted before resort can be had to the property of his sureties.⁵

d. UPON HIS OFFICIAL BOND—(See also BONDS, vol. 2, p. 448; PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378; SURETYSHIP, vol. 24, p.

of taxes actually received by the collector. Weimer v. Bunbury, 30 Mich. 201.

The remedy given by statute to the county against the tax collector, for money collected and not paid over, does not extend to the recovery of damages for his negligence in failing to collect moneys which he could and ought to have collected. Dudley v. Chilton County, 66 Ala. 593.

Under the Alabama statute of 1822, in a proceeding against a delinquent tax collector, the measure of damages is the amount of the county taxes unpaid, with 15 per cent. damages without interest. James v. Governor, 1 Ala. 605.

1. Graham v. Reynolds, 45 Ala. 578. And see Smith v. Branch Bank, 5 Ala. 26; Andrews v. Branch Bank, 10 Ala. 375; Barclay v. Barclay, 42 Ala. 345; Connolly v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 29 Ala. 373.

2. State v. McBride, 76 Ala. 51; Jones v. State, 14 Ark. 170.

Review.—Where the proceeding is judicial, it is subject to review by certiorari. Owens v. Andrew County Ct., 49 Mo. 372.

3. State v. McBride, 76 Ala. 51.

Payment of Judgment.—In Pettitt v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 320, it was held that credit may be obtained by a tax collector, from the comptroller, after the rendition of judgment against him.

A sheriff who collects money on executions issued by the comptroller general, against a defaulting tax collector, must pay it to the comptroller directly, and he has no right to retain it until claims of third persons thereto can be passed upon by a court. The courts have no authority over the comptroller's judgment. Reid v. Wright (Ga. 1889), 9 S. E. Rep. 834.

When a tax collector's property, seized in execution by the state, is released on a forthcoming bond, the bond, whether regularly taken or not, is no satisfaction of the debt; its forfeiture is a fraud on the state, of which the official sureties cannot avail themselves. Their only remedy is to pay and make the amount out of the forfeited bond, if they can. Copley v. Dinkgrave, 7 La. Ann. 595.

4. Crawford v. Richeson, 101 Ill. 351.

This is so, even where the collector's lands have passed into the hands of innocent purchasers. Crawford v. Richeson, 101 Ill. 351.

Where sureties appropriate the tax moneys to their own use, they are placed in the position of principal debtors, and their property should be sold in the enforcement of the lien of the bond, before any sale of the collector's property; but if a deficiency should remain after a sale of their property, then the real estate of the collector may be resorted to. Wilder v. Butterfield, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 385.

5. See Crawford v. Richeson, 101 Ill. 351; Phillips v. Robbins, 59 Mo. 107.

Where the lien of a collector's bond attaches to land, a part of which was acquired after the recording of the bond, and such lands have been sold to different persons and at different times, it is proper to order their sale in the inverse order of their alienation. Crawford v. Richeson, 101 Ill. 351.

In Phillips v. Robbins, 59 Mo. 107, it was held that a sheriff's return, that the proceeds of a sale of the collector's property are not enough to satisfy the debt, is sufficient to show an exhaustion of his estate and to authorize a levy on that of his securities.

714).—The general rules of suretyship are applicable to the liability of a collector and his sureties upon his official bond.¹

Where the undertaking of the sureties is that the tax collector shall pay over all moneys collected by him, they are liable for all moneys collected, whether with or without a warrant,² and without regard to any irregularity in the tax list,³ or the legality of the tax or assessment.⁴

In general, the sureties' liability extends only to the breach of some duty described in the bond, or which was attached to the office at the time of making the bond.⁵ But, of course, the rule is otherwise where by statute the bond is required to be, and is, conditioned for the faithful performance of all duties, as well

Under the Georgia statutes, one who buys property of a defaulting tax collector after his bond is given, takes subject to the lien created by the bond, and to the rights of the sureties thereon to reimburse themselves out of the proceeds of the property. Irby v. Livingston, 81 Ga. 281.

1. Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 162. See also SURETYSHIP, vol. 24, p. 714.

Where each of the sureties of a tax collector has obligated himself for a specified sum, each can be held for that sum only, and all of them can be held for no more than the full amount due by the collector to the state. Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736.

Death of Collector.—In the event of the death of a defaulting collector, the sureties on his bond may be sued in the first instance. Scott v. Dewees, 2 Tex. 153; Ennis v. Crump, 6 Tex. 85.

2. Johnson v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29. And see Prince v. McNeill, 77 N. Car. 398.

3. Johnson v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29; Ford v. Clough, 8 Me. 334; Orono v. Wedgewood, 44 Me. 49; Williamston v. Willis, 15 Gray (Mass.) 427; State v. Rushing, 17 Fla. 226; Burks v. Wontertine, 6 Bush (Ky.) 20; Moss v. Riddle, 5 Cranch (U. S.) 351; Ham v. Greve, 34 Ind. 18; State v. Woodside, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 104; New Hampshire Sav. Bank v. Varnum, 1 Met. (Mass.) 34; Frier v. State, 11 Fla. 300; State v. Middleton's Sureties, 57 Tex. 185. See generally, SURETYSHIP, vol. 24, p. 714.

One of the duties of a collector is to pay the treasurer all the money received upon the taxes committed to him for collection, though received under a defective warrant, and a neglect to do so is a breach of his bond conditioned to secure a faithful performance of his duties, and the securities in the bond having entered into the same covenant as the principal, are equally reliable for such breach. Brunswick v. Snow, 73 Me. 177.

4. Moore v. Allegheny City, 18 Pa. St. 55.

5. Mechem Pub. Off., § 306, and cases cited; Lafayette v. James, 92 Ind. 240; U. S. v. Kirkpatrick, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 720; Eaton v. Kelly, 72 N. Car. 110; Prince v. McNeill, 77 N. Car. 398. And see Holt v. McLean, 75 N. Car. 347; State v. Long, 8 Ired. (N. Car.) 415; State v. Brown, 11 Ired. (N. Car.) 141; Jones v. Montfort, 3 Dev. & B. (N. Car.) 73; State v. Gibbs, 2 Jones (N. Car.) 326; Evans v. Blalock, 2 Jones (N. Car.) 377. See also, in respect of duties imposed on the officer during his term, by acts passed after execution of his bond, U. S. v. Cheeseman, 3 Sawy. (U. S.) 424; Com. v. Toms, 45 Pa. St. 408.

In Crumpler v. Governor, 1 Dev. (N. Car.) 52, a sheriff had given four bonds, but the condition of no one of them expressly provided for the payment of state taxes, the non-payment of which was the breach alleged. All of them contained general words, "faithfully executed the office," etc. It was held that these words did not extend beyond the duties specially described and provided for in the preceding clause.

In White v. East Saginaw, 43 Mich. 567, it was held that the sureties of a sheriff were not bound for his default in the performance of duties as a tax collector, imposed upon him by a law passed after the execution of the bond.

Special Bond.—In McLean v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 270, the court held that the general bond of a tax collector will not be intended to include money collected for railroad taxes, where the law additional duties imposed by subsequent legislation, as those existing when the bond was given.¹

For any delinquencies occurring before or after the time for which the sureties are bound, they are not liable;² but they are liable for money in the official possession of the collector at the time the bond was given, though it was collected before that time.³

It must be shown that the collector actually received the money for taxes and failed to account for it, to establish the liability of his sureties; it is not sufficient to establish a mere commitment of the tax list to the collector and his failure to account.⁴

Where the bond is voluntarily executed, it becomes a valid requires a special bond, expressly to cover said collection. And see also State v. Starres, 5 Lea (Tenn.) 545.

1. Morrow v. Wood, 56 Ala. 1; Board of Education v. Quick, 99 N. Y. 138. Compare Brewer v. King's Sureties, 63 Ala. 511.

In Dawson v. State, 38 Ohio St. 1, it was held that where a bond is conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties "according to law," it embraces whatever duties are required of the officer during the term covered by the bond, whether the statute requiring them was passed before or after the execution of the bond.

In State v. Bradshaw, 10 Ired. (N. Car.) 229, the court held that where a statute requires a bond from an officer, for the faithful discharge of his duty, and a new duty is attached to the office by statute, such bond, given subsequently to the latter statute, embraces a new duty and is a security for its performance; unless where, when the new duty is attached, a bond is required to be given specifically for its performance. See also Cameron v. Campbell, 3 Hawks (N. Car.) 285; Crumpler v. Governor, 1 Dev. (N. Car.) 52; Governor v. Barr, 1 Dev. (N. Car.) 65; Governor v. Matlock, 1 Dev. (N. Car.) 214.

2. Conover v. Middletown, 42 N. J. L. 382; Patterson v. Freehold, 38 N. J. L. 255; Farrar v. U. S., 5 Pet. (U. S.) 373.

In Wilson v. Glover, 3 Pa. St. 404, it was held that an agreement to discharge a surety of a tax collector and accept another in his place, does not discharge him, until the agreement has been performed, and the substituted surety has given bond, the new security being required to be one which would have been good, if given in the first place.

Misapplication of the Funds After They Have Reached the Treasurer.—

Thus, the sureties are not liable for a misapplication of the funds after they have legally reached the treasurer. State v. Middleton's Sureties, 57 Tex. 185; Hetten v. Lane, 43 Tex. 279; People v. Smith, 12 Ill. 281; U. S. v. January, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 572; U. S. v. Boyd, 5 How. (U. S.) 48; U. S. v. Girault, 11 How. (U. S.) 28; Jones v. U. S., 7 How. (U. S.) 681; Pickering v. Day, 2 Del. Ch. 333; Boring v. Williams, 17 Ala. 525; Porter v. Stanley, 47 Me. 515; Miller v. Com., 8 Pa. St. 444; Lyndon v. Miller, 36 Vt. 329; Chapman v. Com., 25 Gratt. (Va.) 742. See generally, SURETYSHIP, vol. 24, p. 714.

For What Sureties are Liable.—Where each of the sureties of a tax collector has obligated for a specific sum, each can be held for that sum only, and all of them can be held for no more than the full amount due by the collector to the estate. Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736.

When the same person is town collector and town treasurer, and as treasurer pays to the state treasurer the school fund and school tax, and charges it as paid by him as collector, and it is allowed to him in his settlement of collections, the town cannot hold the sureties on his collector's bond therefor. Norridgewock v. Hale, 80 Me. 362.

3. Conover v. Middletown, 42 N. J. L. 382.

4. Boothbay v. Giles, 64 Me. 403; Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347; Cheshire v. Holland, 13 Gray (Mass.) 321.

To determine the liability of the bondsmen of a tax collector, it is necessary to ascertain what tax bills were delivered to him during the time named in the bond, the amount collected by him on the same, and when collected, security for taxes, and the sureties are bound thereby, even though the bond is not required by law.¹ The acceptance of the bond is a sufficient consideration to cover all official delinquencies.² The bond is binding, whether the collector is an officer de jure or de facto.³

The general rule that an extension of time granted to a principal debtor by the creditor, without the consent of his sureties, operates to discharge them, does not apply to the sureties on the bond of a collector, for the reason that an extension of time for the collection of taxes is regarded as beneficial to the sureties.⁴

6. Compensation of Collectors.—(See also PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378).—It is for the legislature to fix the compensation of collectors, and they are entitled only to those fees and costs which are expressly given them by law;⁵ and this is true, not-the amount paid by him to the treasurer, and when paid; and where the report of a referee does not furnish these facts, it must be recommitted. Ferrisburg v. Martin, 60 Vt. 330.

1. State v. Matthews, 57 Miss. 1; State v. Harney, 57 Miss. 863. And see Harris v. State, 55 Miss. 50; Stevens v. Allmen, 19 Ohio St. 485.

2. Boothbay v. Giles, 68 Me. 160. And see Trescott v. Moan, 50 Me. 347; Scarborough v. Parker, 53 Me. 252.

3. Waters v. Edmondson, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 384; Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736.

A condition in a collector's bond that the principal obligor shall well and faithfully execute his office as collector, estops the sureties upon the bond, as well as the collector himself, from denying that the principal obligor had been appointed collector. Billingsley v. State, 14 Md. 369.

A collector's bond, perfect on its face, containing no conditions, cannot be avoided by the sureties, upon the ground that they signed it on condition that it should not be delivered unless it was executed by another person who did not sign. Richardson v. Rogers, 50 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 403.

The condition of the bond securing the faithful collection of the public taxes, given by a sheriff in September, 1874, who was elected the preceding August, embraces the taxes to be collected for the fiscal year preceding the 1st of April, 1875, and not the taxes due and collected for the year ending April, 1874. The collection of the latter is secured by his former bond, if he was sheriff at that time. State v. McNeill, 74 N. Car. 535.

In State v. Baldwin, 14 S. Car. 135, where there was no law limiting the tenure of office of the county treasurers, a county treasurer and the sureties on his official bond were held liable for a defalcation committed by said treasurer more than two years after the execution of the bond.

4. See Cooley on Taxation, p. 502; State v. Carleton, 1 Gill (Md.) 249; Crawford v. Richeson, 101 Ill. 351; Bennett v. McWhorter, 2 W. Va. 441. But see Johnson v. Hacker (Tenn. 1874), 2 Cent. L. J. 625; State v. Roberts, 68 Mo. 234.

The renewal of a warrant for the collection of taxes, extending it beyond the time originally fixed for its return, will not release the sureties on the official bond of the collector. Olean v. King, 116 N. Y. 355.

5. State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; Miner v. Solano County, 26 Cal. 115; Solano County v. Neville, 27 Cal. 465. And see Com. v. Scott, 7 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 409.

The power to fix the compensation of local and municipal officers is often delegated to the board or body to which is intrusted the transaction of local and municipal affairs. See Hughes v. People, 82 Ill. 78; Broadwell v. People, 76 Ill. 554.

Where the questions upon which a collector's right to commissions depend, are left to his discretion, his determination is binding upon the courts. San Mateo County v. Maloney, 71 Cal. 205.

Excessive Fees.—In Garber v. Conner, 98 Pa. St. 551, it was held that an officer who has no right to charge fees of any kind, is not subject to a penalty withstanding that in a particular case the fees provided by law are not adequate compensation for the work done.¹

Where the sheriff or treasurer is ex officio collector, and his compensation is fixed as sheriff or treasurer, he is not entitled to any additional compensation as collector.² Where there is no provision as to the fees of a collector, they are generally to be determined by the auditing body of the state or municipality imposing the tax.³

The collector sometimes receives a fixed salary;⁴ but the more usual method of compensation is the allowance of commissions proportionate to the amount collected.⁵ These commissions are sometimes allowed to be deducted from the taxes collected,⁶ in imposed upon officers taking greater or other fees than those provided for by law.

Where the accounts of the collector have been settled, and through inadvertence he has credited himself with excessive commissions, his accounts may be readjusted, and the same proceedings may be taken against him to compel him to refund, as are admissible to recover a balance of the amount collected. Wilson v. State, 51 Ark. 212.

A collector is entitled to retain only his original costs and commissions, though the taxpayer is required to pay double the amount of taxes, costs, and commissions, in order to effect a redemption. Ramsey v. State, 78 Tex. 602.

1. Labette County v. Franklin, 16 Kan. 450; Thralls v. Sumner County, 24 Kan. 594; Miner v. Solano County, 26 Cal. 115; Board of School Com'rs v. Wasson, 74 Ind. 134; Treasurers v. Burger, 3 Rich. (S. Car.) 357; Garber v. Conner, 98 Pa. St. 551. And see Richmond v. Brown, 66 Me. 373; People v. Besson, 6 N. Y. Supp. 135; 53 Hun (N. Y.) 632; Gilchrist v. Wilkesbarre, 142 Pa. St. 114; People v. Long, 13 Ill. 629.

If a sheriff receives interest on tax money deposited by him in a bank, it is a perquisite derived from his office, and he cannot retain it in addition to the compensation allowed him by the county board. Hughes v. People, 82 Ill. 78.

In Treasurers v. Burger, 3 Rich. (S. Car.) 357, it was held that commissioners of the poor cannot allow, for collecting the poor rates, a higher percentage than that fixed by law, but may allow the collector, for services not within the scope of his duties as collector, a further compensation.

2. Hughes v. People, 82 Ill. 78; Broadwell v. People, 76 Ill. 555; Price v. Adamson, 37 Mo. 151; Lane v. Coos County, 10 Oregon 124.

3. State v. Baldwin, 14 S. Car. 135. And see Shaver v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 195.

They cannot be determined by the verdict of a jury. State v. Baldwin, 14 S. Car. 135.

Fees for Collection of State Tax.—Fees allowed a city officer for the collection of a state tax are not the property of the city. Bright v. Hewes, 18 La. Ann. 666.

4. See Castle v. Lawlor, 47 Conn. 340; Board of School Com'rs v. Wasson, 74 Ind. 134; People v. Besson, 6 N. Y. Supp. 135; 53 Hun (N. Y.) 632.

A statute giving a collector a certain sum for collecting taxes, in lieu of all other compensation, means that he is to receive that sum for his services for one year, and not for the collection of all the taxes that become payable during the year, and he is therefore a salaried officer. Castle v. Lawlor, 47 Conn. 340.

5. See State v. Drew, 16 Fla. 303; Gorman v. Boise County, 1 Idaho 647; Fountain County v. La Tourette, 60 Ind. 460; Randolph County v. Trogon, 75 N. Car. 350; Garber v. Conner, 98 Pa. St. 551; Com. v. Scott, 7 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 409; Davidson County v. De Grove, 2 Coldw. (Tenn.) 494.

The fees are sometimes the same as those allowed executive officers for collection under execution. See Labette County v. Franklin, 16 Kan. 450; Thralls v. Sumner County, 24 Kan. 594; Board of School Com'rs v. Wasson, 74 Ind. 134.

6. See Shaver v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 195; Wilson v. State, 51 Ark. 212; Waycross v. Board of Education, 87 which case each tax must bear the expense of its own collection.¹ But the commissions are usually added to the tax and collected from the taxpayer, unless otherwise expressly provided for.² Where the commissions are to be collected from the taxpayer, no liability attaches to the state therefor, and where, at a sale of land for taxes, the land falls to the state, the collector is entitled to no fees.³

A defaulting collector is, of course, entitled to nothing for his services.⁴ And when no services have been rendered, there can be

Ga. 22; Jonas v. Cincinnati, 18 Ohio 318.

Under the Tennessee statutes, where lands sold for unpaid taxes are bid off by the collector in the name of the treasurer as superintendent of public instruction, for the use of common schools, the fees are paid to the officers out of the common-school fund by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller. Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606.

Priority of Claim.—Under the Nevada revenue act, the auditor, assessor, and tax collector are preferred creditors, and entitled to their pay for assessing and collecting the taxes before the money collected is distributed among the several funds to which it properly belongs. Grimes v. Goodell, 3 Nev. 79.

1. In Shaver v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 195, it was held that even though the constitution requires that the money derived from the poll tax shall be applied exclusively in aid of the public-school fund, it must nevertheless bear expense of its own assessment and collection. And the auditor has no power to direct a tax collector to retain from a poll tax collected during the current year, the commissions earned by collecting a poll tax from a preceding year. See also State v. Drew, 16 Fla. 303; Waycross v. Board of Education, 87 Ga. 22; Davidson County v. De Grove, 2 Coldw. (Tenn.) 494.

In Bagley v. Shoppach, 47 Ark. 72, it was held that tax collectors are entitled to a fee for a certificate of each tract sold, even though they include several tracts in one certificate upon request of the taxpayer.

2. See Board of School Com'rs v. Wasson, 74 Ind. 134; Garber v. Conner, 98 Pa. St. 551; State v. Guilbeau, 37 La. Ann. 718; Payne v. Washington County, 25 Fla. 798; State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; Merrill v. Marshall County, 74 Iowa 24; Thralls v. Sumner County, 24 Kan. 594; Cheever v. Merritt, 5

Allen (Mass.) 563; Seldenstricker v. State, 2 Gill (Md.) 374; Fitch v. Elko County, 8 Nev. 271; State v. Gaines, 4 Lea (Tenn.) 352. But see to the contrary, Jonas v. Cincinnati, 18 Ohio 318.

In Board of School Com'rs v. Wasson, 74 Ind. 134, it was held that commissions of tax collectors, which are collectible out of the property of the taxpayer, can be deducted from the amount of the tax, interest, and penalty, only when the sum realized is insufficient to pay both the tax and the commissions.

Increase or Decrease of Rate.—In People v. Lee, 28 Hun (N. Y.) 470, it was held that a constitutional provision prohibiting the increase or decrease of fees, percentages, or allowances of public officers during their term of office, does not prevent the exemption of taxpayers from the payment of fees in addition to the tax, such fees being payable in the first instance by the taxpayer, and not by the government.

3. State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; State v. Kinne, 41 N. H. 238; Dean v. State, 54 Tex. 313. See also Miner v. Solano County, 26 Cal. 115. Compare Payne v. Washington County, 25 Fla. 798; Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606.

Each Subject Must Pay Its Own Expense.—Where lands of several non-residents are advertised in the same advertisement, to be sold for taxes, the collector cannot legally exact the whole expense from one of them; and if he does so, he is liable in an action of assumpsit for the recovery of the excess. Findley v. Adams, 2 Day (Conn.) 369.

4. Vermilion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736.

Other officers who have performed services and incurred expenses, are entitled to their fees, notwithstanding the fact that the sales made by the collector were void through his disregard of statutory regulations. Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606.

no claim for commissions.¹ Where the statute allows commissions upon collections actually made, no compensation can be recovered for expenses incurred in ineffectual efforts to collect.² Ordinarily, however, reimbursements for reasonable and necessary expenses will be allowed.³

Where the commissions or fees are payable by the government, claims therefor are generally required to be audited by a designated officer before they become a public liability.⁴ Where the fees are added to the tax and collected from the taxpayer, the same methods are pursued for their collection as for the collection of the tax itself.⁵

1. See Wheatley v. Covington, 11 Bush (Ky.) 18; Labette County v. Franklin, 16 Kan. 450; Vermillion Parish v. Brookshier, 31 La. Ann. 736; Anderson v. Hawks, 70 Miss. 638; Smith v. New York, 37 N. Y. 518.

In Com. v. Scott, 7 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 409, it was held that a collector is not entitled to commissions on an abatement allowed by law to the taxpayer for prompt payment.

In Randolph County v. Trogdon, 75 N. Car. 350, it was held that an outgoing sheriff is entitled to the commissions on the amount of taxes he pays over to his successor in office, and that such successor is not entitled to commissions thereon. See also Bright v. Hewes, 18 La. Ann. 666.

In Boggs v. Placer County, 65 Cal. 561, it was held that a tax collector can recover fees only for taxes collected by himself, and not for taxes recovered by a suit brought by the district attorney on behalf of the county.

In Aplin v. Baker, 84 Mich. 113, it was held that a delinquent taxpayer is not liable for the expense of unnecessary trouble in serving several different subpoenas issued by a county clerk against several distinct lots owned by the taxpayer; he is liable for the cost of one subpoena only.

2. Gordon v. Lafayette County, 74 Mo. 426; Thralls v. Sumner County, 24 Kan. 594; Titus v. Howard County, 17 Kan. 363; Labette Co. v. Franklin, 16 Kan. 450; Miles v. Miller, 5 Neb. 269. And see Gilchrist v. Wilkes Barre, 142 Pa. St. 114.

In Wheatly v. Covington, 11 Bush (Ky.) 18, it was held that a tax collector cannot recover damages because he has been prevented from performing the services of his office, whereby he would have earned the compensation attached thereto. In Aldrich v. Pickard, 14 Lea (Tenn.) 456, it was held that the compensation of a collector who sells land for taxes, does not depend upon the validity of the sale.

3. See Joslyn v. Tracy, 19 Vt. 569; People v. Long, 13 Ill. 629; Titus v. Howard County, 17 Kan. 363; Carville v. Additon, 62 Me. 459; Gilchrist v. Wilkes Barre, 142 Pa. St. 114; Titus v. Howard County, 17 Kan. 363; Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 597; Taylor v. Umatilla County, 6 Oregon 402; O'Grady v. Barnhisel, 23 Cal. 287.

In Philadelphia v. Flanigen, 47 Pa. St. 21, it was held that a receiver of taxes has no power to bind the state for advertising fees in excess of the amount appropriated therefor, or to advertise otherwise than as directed by the council.

4. See PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, pp. 378, 537. And see also Mathies v. Knox County, 82 Ind. 172; Shaver v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 195; State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; Akers v. Burch, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 606.

Where the county treasurer, by mistake or otherwise, retains a less percent, for making a collection, than he is entitled to, he is entitled to an order from a county board for repayment of the amount to which he was entitled, in excess of the amount actually retained. Harrison County v. Benson, 83 Ind. 469. But if the commissioners of a county allow an excessive claim for printing the delinquent list, the same cannot be recovered back, where the list was before them, and there was no mistake of fact. Warren County v. Gregory, 42 Ind. 32.

5. See Board of School Com'rs v. Wasson, 74 Ind. 134; Thralls v. Sumner County, 24 Kan. 594; Baker v. Kelley, 11 Minn. 480; Wilcox v. Gladwin, 50 Conn. 77.

XV. TAX SALES—1. Personal Property.—The provisions of the statutes in regard to notice of the time and place of the sale are generally mandatory.¹ It has been held that where the collector is also constable, his notification of the sale is not vitiated by his adding to his signature the word “constable” instead of “collector.”² When the officer is required to keep the property a specified time before offering it for sale, in order that the owner may have an opportunity to redeem, the sale is illegal if the full time be not given.³ And, on the other hand, if the sale be made after the expiration of the time limited by statute for the purpose, it is irregular, and the officer becomes a trespasser ab initio.⁴ The officer may adjourn the sale in his discretion; his powers for that purpose being identical with those of an officer having an execution for collection.⁵ But the adjournment must be to a definite time; and a sale before the time to which the adjournment is made, is void.⁶ Where the officer who sells becomes himself the purchaser, the sale is voidable at the instance of the owner of the goods.⁷ The property should be sold in separate parcels, and only so much should be sold as is required to pay the taxes, charges, and costs.⁸

1. Lyle v. Jacques, 101 Ill. 644; Ward v. Carson River Wood Co., 13 Nev. 44.

As to the requisites of notice of the sale in Massachusetts, see Rawson v. Spencer, 113 Mass. 40; Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85.

Vermont Rev. Stat., p. 530, §§ 10, 11, requiring the officer to keep the goods four days before advertising the sale, and to give six days' notice before selling, does not restrict him to that time, though he may not advertise and sell in less time. But he must advertise and sell within a reasonable time after the four and six days, respectively, have expired. Clemons v. Lewis, 36 Vt. 674.

In Maine, the collector is not required to sell the distrained property within the limits of the town in which it is first seized by him. Carville v. Additon, 62 Me. 459.

2. Barnard v. Graves, 13 Met. (Mass.) 85.

3. Lefavour v. Barlett, 42 N. H. 555; Mason v. Thomas, 36 N. H. 302; Souhegan Nail, etc., Factory v. McConihe, 7 N. H. 309.

4. Brackett v. Vining, 49 Me. 356; Pierce v. Benjamin, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 356; 25 Am. Dec. 396.

Where the statute requires the sale to be made within seven days after seizure, a sale not made until twenty days thereafter is void. Noyes v. Haverhill, 11 Cush. (Mass.) 338.

5. Spear v. Tilson, 24 Vt. 420.

6. Buzzell v. Johnson, 54 Vt. 90. Here the sale was had at ten a. m., under an adjournment until one p. m.; this was held to be irregular and to render the officer a trespasser. And it mattered not that the property sold well, was applied to the plaintiff's taxes, and that the plaintiff's attorney was present, knew of the mistake, and said nothing.

But where the hour named in the notice of adjournment was 4 a. m. instead of 4 p. m., and the officer rectified the mistake sometime in the morning of the day on which the sale occurred, it was held that this mistake was obvious and not calculated to mislead anyone, and that the officer in making the sale was not a trespasser. Wheelock v. Archer, 26 Vt. 379.

7. Pierce v. Benjamin, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 356; 25 Am. Dec. 396.

8. In Shimer v. Mosher, 39 Hun. (N. Y.) 153, the sale was adjudged void and the officer a trespasser ab initio, for these reasons: The property, consisting of a horse and six watches, was sold in one parcel; it was not within the view of, or exposed to, the bidders; and it was struck off to a bidder before anyone else could possibly make a bid, although many expressed a desire to do so.

In Ward v. Carson River Wood Co., 13 Nev. 44, the officer was required by the statute to sell “a sufficient amount

2. Lands—a. POWER TO SELL.—A county, city, or other municipal corporation has no power to enforce the collection of taxes by a sale of lands, in the absence of an express grant to that effect.¹ A grant of power to “assess and collect taxes,” does of the property to pay the taxes, charges,” etc. He sold two thousand cords of wood, the entire quantity, though there was no proof that this course was necessary in order to pay the sum due, and it was held to be irregular—he should have offered the wood for sale by the cord, and sold only so much as was sufficient to pay the taxes, charges, etc.

In Leaton v. Murphy, 78 Mich. 77, the defendant, a township treasurer, sold two horses, the property of the plaintiff, under a tax warrant. The horses were sold together and bought in by a brother of the defendant for the amount of the taxes. The horses were not a matched team; nor did it appear that it was better for the interest of the parties to sell them together, and from an appraisal, it appeared that either of the horses was worth more than the taxes due. The sale was declared void.

For a case of sale of a note and mortgage for taxes, and purchase of the same by the maker for an amount less than their face value, see Irby v. Blain, 31 Kan. 716.

In Kansas, it is held that where the sheriff holds a tax warrant issued by a county treasurer and levies it previous to the return day of the warrant, but does not sell the property until three days after the return day, the sale is not void because made after the return day. Blain v. Irby, 25 Kan. 499.

The words “the distress shall be openly sold” as used in Maine Rev. Sts., ch. 6, § 104, are not to be construed as authorizing the officer to sell any additional articles after enough has been sold to pay the sum due. Where the officer, after selling enough to pay the sum due, sells other personal property distrained, he will not become a trespasser ab initio as to any of the articles sold, except such as he has sold in excess of his authority. See Seekins v. Goodale, 61 Me. 400, explaining Williamson v. Dow, 32 Me. 559.

Return.—In Connecticut, the officer's return is not required to specify the day of the week on which the sale was had. Pickett v. Allen, 10 Conn. 145.

In New Hampshire, the tax collector's warrant is not a returnable process. Hoitt v. Burnham, 61 N. H. 620; Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209; Johnson v. Allen, 48 N. H. 235.

1. Sharp v. Speir, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 76; Merriam v. Moody, 25 Iowa 163; Dubuque v. Harrison, 34 Iowa 163; McInerny v. Reed, 23 Iowa 410; Ham v. Miller, 20 Iowa 450; Bergen v. Clarkson, 6 N. J. L. 352.

In Sharp v. Speir, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 76, the court, by Bronson, J., said: “A corporation must show a grant, either in terms or by necessary implication, for all the powers which it attempts to exercise. And especially must this be done when it claims the right, by taxing or otherwise, to divest individuals of their property without their consent.”

In Beatty v. Knowler, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 152, which was a case of a corporation sale of lands for taxes, the court, by McLean, J., remarked: “That a corporation is strictly limited to the exercise of those powers which are especially conferred upon it; the exercise of the corporate franchise being restrictive of individual rights cannot be extended beyond the letter and spirit of the act of incorporation.” And he subsequently adds: “The power to impose a tax on real estate and to sell it where there is a failure to pay the tax, is a high prerogative and should never be exercised where the right is doubtful.” Referring to this observation Bronson, J., in Sharp v. Speir, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 76, said: “The justice of the remark is obvious. Every statute derogatory to the rights of property or that takes away the estate of a citizen, ought to be strictly construed. It should never have an equitable construction.”

And in Merriam v. Moody, 25 Iowa 163, the court, by Dillon, C. J., said: “The rule of law denying to these corporations constructive power to sell the property of the citizen, except where the power is unmistakably given, and the further rule of law that if there fairly exists a doubt concerning the power, the doubt is to be resolved against the existence of the power, in favor of the public and against the corporation, are founded in the highest wisdom and sanctioned by universal experience.”

And Mr. Blackwell, in his work on not carry with it the power to collect by sale.¹ Nor will the power be inferred from an express provision in the charter that the collection of the taxes "shall be enforced as may be provided for by ordinances of the city."²

But where the grant of the power "to assess and collect" is accompanied by provisions distinctly and unequivocally assuming the existence of the power to sell, it must be regarded as a legislative interpretation recognizing the existence of such power.³ And when the power to sell is given, it is to be strictly construed. Thus, power given to a city to sell lands for taxes imposed thereon, does not authorize a sale for taxes which by the charter are to be imposed upon owners and occupants merely, and not upon their land;⁴ nor will a power given to sell for taxes authorize a

Tax Titles (4th ed.) 448, says that a corporation, whose powers in this respect are more strictly construed than those of the state, "cannot sell the goods or lands of the delinquent unless there is an express grant in its charter."

See the following cases where the right was given in express terms: Haskell v. Burlington, 30 Iowa 232; Augustine v. Jennings, 42 Iowa 108; Ide v. Finneran, 29 Kan. 569; Placerville v. Wilcox, 35 Cal. 21; Jennings v. Rudd, 40 Ga. 49.

The power to sell lands for taxes levied by a municipality situated in one of the territories of the United States, is to be found in the act of Congress, not in the ordinances of the municipality. The latter can neither increase nor vary it, nor impose any terms or conditions which can affect the validity of a sale made within the authority conferred by the statutes. Thompson v. Roe, 22 How. (U. S.) 422.

1. McInerney v. Reed, 23 Iowa 410; Dubuque v. Harrison, 34 Iowa 163; Merriam v. Moody, 25 Iowa 163; Ham v. Miller, 20 Iowa 450. In this last case it is said the power to "provide for the assessment of all taxable property" or "to collect taxes," does not include that of selling and conveying in case of non-payment. This power, so high, delicate and important in its nature and character, must not rest upon an implication so remote, nor depend for the mode and manner of its exercise upon the mere will or discretion of the city council; and especially is this so, where the charter, as in this instance, fails to leave this or any kindred matter to such discretion or will. And in Paine v. Spratley, 5 Kan. 525, following the above decisions, the court said: "One ground (and perhaps the most important and valid, and, in our opinion at least, a sufficient one) upon which these decisions rest, is that such power of sale is not a necessary incident to the power to 'levy and collect,' nor indispensable to the objects and purposes of a municipal corporation. The power to levy and collect can be exercised and enjoyed, and the objects of the corporation secured, without the power of sale . . . as for instance by judicial proceedings."

2. Merriam v. Moody, 25 Iowa 163; Paine v. Spratley, 5 Kan. 525.

3. St. Louis v. Russell, 9 Mo. 508. In this case the charter of St. Louis gave to the city council the power "to levy and collect taxes upon all persons and property made taxable by law for state purposes." The court said: "If this section of the act were alone on the subject, there might be room for contending that the sale of land was not the only, or the necessary, mode by which the tax could be collected, and therefore, the power of sale would not arise by implication from the granted power 'to levy and collect.' But we regard the eighth section of the sixth article of the charter as a legislative interpretation of this power 'to levy and collect taxes.' That section provides that the mayor and council shall have power by ordinance to direct the manner in which any property, real or personal, advertised for sale, or sold for taxes by authority of the corporation, may be redeemed. This is a clear and distinct recognition of the power in the city to sell land for the non-payment of taxes, and is sufficient to remove any doubt which the general phraseology of the previous article might create." See also Carondelet v. Picot, 38 Mo. 125.

4. Sharp v. Speir, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 76.

sale for a mere assessment for benefits.¹ There exists a well-recognized distinction between a tax, properly so called, and an assessment.²

In the absence of clear legislative intent that the grant of the power to sell shall have a retrospective operation, a prospective operation only will be given it.³

b. PRIMARY LIABILITY OF PERSONALTY.—In some of the states, the personalty is made primarily liable for the taxes, recourse to the realty being allowed only in the event of failure of the officer, after diligent search, to discover personalty sufficient to satisfy the demand. And when the delinquent has personalty within the jurisdiction, out of which the taxes may be satisfied, equity will, at his instance, enjoin the sale of his lands;⁴ or if a sale has been made, it will be set aside, and the execution of a deed restrained.⁵ But this right to have the personalty first exhausted, is a personal right, of the violation of which the tax-

1. Sharp v. Speir, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 76; Allen v. Galveston, 51 Tex. 302.

2. See supra, this title, Taxes and Taxation; Their Nature; also infra, this title, Local Assessments; Allen v. Galveston, 51 Tex. 302; Sharp v. Speir, 4 Hill (N. Y.) 76.

3. Dallam v. Oliver, 3 Gill (Md.) 445. See also STATUTES, vol. 23, p. 447.

4. Abbott v. Edgerton, 53 Ind. 196; Johnson v. Hahn, 4 Neb. 139, overruling Hallenbeck v. Hahn, 2 Neb. 377. In Nebraska, since the act of legislature of 1877, lands may be sold without first exhausting the personalty. Lancaster v. Rush, 35 Neb. 119.

5. Scales v. Alvis, 12 Ala. 617; 46 Am. Dec. 269; Stondenmire v. Brown, 57 Ala. 481; Driggers v. Cassady, 71 Ala. 529; Johnson v. Hahn, 4 Neb. 139; Wilhelm v. Russell, 8 Neb. 120; Richardson County v. Miles, 7 Neb. 118 (it is otherwise in this state since 1877); Lancaster v. Rush, 35 Neb. 119; Helms v. Wagner, 102 Ind. 385; Michigan Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Kroh, 102 Ind. 515; Volger v. Sidener, 86 Ind. 545; Morrison v. Bank of Commerce, 81 Ind. 335; Sharpe v. Dillman, 77 Ind. 280; Bowen v. Donovan, 32 Ind. 379; McWhinney v. Brinker, 64 Ind. 360; Ring v. Ewing, 47 Ind. 246; Catterlin v. Douglass, 17 Ind. 213; Cones v. Wilson, 14 Ind. 465; Ellis v. Kenyon, 25 Ind. 134; Schrodt v. Deputy, 88 Ind. 90; Hutchins v. Moody, 37 Vt. 313; Jackson v. Shepard, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 88; 17 Am. Dec. 502; Wheeler v. Bramel (Ky. 1888), 8 S. W. Rep. 199; Julian v. Stephens (Ky. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 6.

Under the Alabama Rev. Laws of 1868, lands could be sold for taxes only when reasonable search failed to discover personalty; and no property was exempt from sale for taxes, though it might be exempt from taxation. Accordingly, a sale of lands is invalid when it is shown that the officer made no search nor personal demand, and that the person against whom the taxes were assessed had personalty sufficient to pay them, though it was exempt from taxation. Doe v. Minge, 56 Ala. 121.

A complaint to enjoin the execution of a deed for the lands sold, which avers that the owner at the time of the sale had sufficient personalty in the county out of which taxes could have been made, is good on demurrer. Morrison v. Bank of Commerce, 81 Ind. 335.

In Indiana, in an action to set aside the sale of the land, relief will not be granted until the amount of the taxes has been paid or tendered to the purchaser. McWhinney v. Brinker, 64 Ind. 360; Harrison v. Haas, 25 Ind. 281; Volger v. Sidener, 86 Ind. 545.

Where the deed fails to show that the personalty of the delinquent had been exhausted before the sale of land, or that he had no such property, it is not admissible as evidence of title, until such facts are shown aliunde. Smith v. Kyler, 74 Ind. 575; Woolen v. Rockefeller, 81 Ind. 208; Ward v. Montgomery, 57 Ind. 276; Keeper v. Force, 86 Ind. 81; Pitcher v. Dove, 99 Ind. 175.

And the testimony of the auditor of the county wherein such lands are payer alone may complain, and of which no third party will be allowed to take advantage.¹ If personal property sufficient to discharge the taxes is levied on, and lost solely through the neglect or misconduct of the officer, a sale of the land is void, and equity will cancel the deed thereto.² Usually, proper evidence is required, in the form of a return, that an attempt has been made to subject the personalty in compliance with the statute, before proceedings can be instituted for the sale of the realty.³ In some of situations, "that the records in his office showed there was no personal property assessed" to the delinquent in but one of two years in which the taxes on the lands became delinquent, is insufficient to prove the facts necessary to be established under the law for the purpose of showing the legality and validity of the sale, and to entitle the deed made in pursuance thereof to be admitted in evidence. Smith v. Kyler, 74 Ind. 575.

In Jones v. McLain, 23 Ark. 432, it was held that a recital by the officer in his deed to the purchaser that the taxpayer failed to pay on demand, and "not knowing of any personal property" whereon to levy, he proceeded to levy on and advertise the lands for sale, is not a direct and satisfactory mode of reciting that sufficient personalty could not be found; but that for the purposes of the case, such recital may be treated as sufficient to put upon the taxpayer the burden of showing that he had, at the time the lands were levied upon, sufficient personalty liable to be taken by the collector, and within his reach upon such reasonable diligence as the law imposes upon him, to satisfy the taxes.

In Iowa, the deed is conclusive that the officer complied with his duty in attempting to make the tax by a sale of personalty, before selling the realty. Stewart v. Corbin, 25 Iowa 144.

It has been held that although the sale of the realty is ineffectual to convey title, yet it is effectual to transfer the lien of the state, and is, therefore, not absolutely void. Sinclair v. McClure, 111 Ind. 467; State v. Casteel, 110 Ind. 174; Scarry v. Lewis, 133 Ind. 96; and that a complaint to set aside the sale, and to enjoin the auditor from issuing a deed on that ground, will not lie. Sinclair v. McClure, 111 Ind. 467.

1. Frost v. Flick, 1 Dakota 131. In this case it was held that although the Laws of Dakota, 1868, 1869, ch. 25, § 59, provide that no lands "belonging to any person shall be sold for taxes while personal property belonging to such party can be found," the sale will not be enjoined because the plaintiff's grantor, who was the owner of the land when the tax was levied, has personal property subject to execution.

2. Campbell v. Wyant, 26 W. Va. 702.

3. In Tennessee, it is essential to the validity of the sale of lands that it should appear on the record of the court by which the order of sale is made, that the officer had returned that there were no goods and chattels of the delinquent out of which the taxes could be made. Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 119.

In Alabama, the affidavit which the officer is required to make and enter in the book filed by him in the office of the probate judge, as to his inability to find personal property after diligent search, is a jurisdictional fact, without which the court has no power to grant an order to sell the land. And if it is not made until after the sale of the land, it cannot retroact so as to impart validity to the sale or decree. Simms v. Greer, 83 Ala. 263; Feagin v. Jones, 94 Ala. 597; Wartensleben v. Haithcock, 80 Ala. 565; Fleming v. McGee, 81 Ala. 409.

Under the Texas statute, June 2d, 1873 (Pasch. Dig. 7775), the sheriff, on receiving from the comptroller the delinquent list for his county and finding no personalty belonging to the delinquent, is required to certify that fact to the district clerk when filing the list with him, and the failure of the sheriff so to certify that he finds no personal property, will be fatal to subsequent proceedings under the statute. Belden v. State, 46 Tex. 103.

Where the statute prescribes the form of the officer's return, and does not make it necessary that he should state that he was unable to collect the taxes assessed on land out of the personalty, the return need not contain such a statement. It will suffice if it follow the the states, it is not necessary that the officer before selling the land shall first exhaust the personalty.¹

c. PROCEEDINGS BEFORE SALE—NOTICE.—The various proceedings which must precede a sale of lands for non-payment of taxes have already been set forth. The first step required of the officer who is to sell, is that he shall give notice of his intention to do so.² This notice, usually, is required to state a description of the property, the amount of the tax,³ for what year form prescribed; in which case, it will be presumed that he did his duty in proceeding first against the personalty. Taylor v. People, 7 Ill. 349; Ottawa v. Macy, 20 Ill. 413; Job v. Tebbetts, 10 Ill. 376; Goodrich v. Minonk, 62 Ill. 121.

1. West v. Duncan, 42 Fed. Rep. 430; Smith v. Jones, 40 Ga. 39; Plant v. Eichberg, 65 Ga. 64; Dyer v. Boswell, 39 Md. 465 (at least in the case of state taxes). In Nebraska, since the act of 1877 took effect, the county treasurer may sell the realty without first exhausting the personalty. Kittle v. Shervin, 11 Neb. 65; Lancaster County v. Rush, 35 Neb. 119.

The estate which the owner has in lands in the city of Newark, may be sold for personal taxes against him before resorting to his personalty. State v. Newark, 42 N. J. L. 38; Martin v. Carron, 26 N. J. L. 228.

In Mississippi, a tax sale of lands may not be resisted on the ground that the tax debtor had personal property in the county, out of which the taxes might have been made. The statute prescribes the order in which the two classes of property are to be sold, but its observance is not a pre-requisite to the power of sale in the officer. Virden v. Bowers, 55 Miss. 1.

2. "That the law should direct a public sale of property without notice to be given, would be a perfect anomaly and would lead to consequences so mischievous that we could not, without the strongest necessity, be justified in imputing such a course to the legislature; especially where there has been no judicial proceeding, and where a man's highest estate, his land, is to be forfeited and lost to him by the summary process of distress, and sold for the non-payment of taxes." Carr, J., in Nalle v. Fenwick, 4 Rand. (Va.) 585. See also Marx v. Hanthorn, 30 Fed. Rep. 579; Thatcher v. Powell, 6 Wheat. (U. S.) 119.

3. Amount of Tax.—Washington v. Pratt, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 681. And a slight error in stating the amount of the tax in the notice is fatal. Knowlton v. Moore, 136 Mass. 32. As for instance, publishing the amount as $4.12, when in fact it was only $3.30. Alexander v. Pitts, 7 Cush. (Mass.) 503.

Where the advertisement gave as the sum due, the whole amount, including both state and county tax, and the latter was illegal and therefore not due, the sale was adjudged void. Clarke v. Strickland, 2 Curt. (U. S.) 439.

But in Thweatt v. Black, 30 Ark. 732, it was held that an erroneous advertisement of land for the taxes of three years, when only the taxes for one year are due, will not vitiate, if the mistake is discovered, and the lands are sold for only the taxes that are in fact due. In this case it was said that any advertisement is essential to the authority of the collector to sell delinquent lands, but mere informalities or unimportant variances from the law will not invalidate the sale.

If, however, such a mistake is not corrected, but is carried into the sale, it will be fatal. Kinsworthy v. Mitchell, 21 Ark. 154.

In Bonham v. Weymouth, 39 Minn. 92, in a column headed merely "Amt." were placed the figures "26," "25," "27," opposite the respective descriptions, without anything to indicate what they were intended to represent—whether dollars, cents, or something else. It was held not a sufficient statement of the amounts—the most that could be claimed being that it would inform parties interested that the amount of taxes was either so many dollars or so many cents, but which would be entirely a matter of conjecture or surmise.

In Tolman v. Hobbs, 68 Me. 316, the record of the state treasurer declared: "Previous to said sale, I caused notice of the time and place of sale, and lists of said tracts intended for sale, with the amount of said unpaid taxes, interest and costs, on each parcel, to be published three weeks successively as follows, viz.: 1. In the Kennebec Journal, assessed,¹ time and place of sale,² and that the sale will be the state paper, a list of all said tracts. 2. In the Ellsworth American, a newspaper printed in the county of Hancock, a list of all said tracts which lie in that county." It was held that the record did not show that the treasurer published in such papers the amount of such taxes, etc., as required by the law, but only a list of the lands taxed.

Transposition of State and County Taxes.—It seems that the transposition in the advertisement of the state and county taxes, is not an error that affects the validity of the sale. Scott v. Watkins, 22 Ark. 556.

Abbreviations in Indicating Dates and Amounts.—Under Alabama Code of 1886, § 583, authorizing abbreviations to be employed in indicating dates and amounts in tax sales of real estate, abbreviation by a peculiar mode of designating fractions, known by the court to be not infrequently used, are permissible. Riddle v. Messer, 84 Ala. 236.

Kind and Purpose of the Tax.—A misdescription in regard to the purpose and kind of tax for which the land is to be sold, is generally fatal. Thus in Pierce v. Richardson, 37 N. H. 307, in the advertisement the tax was called "money tax," when in fact it was a "state, county, and school tax;" the error was held fatal.

And in Langdon v. Poor, 20 Vt. 13, the advertisement described the tax as being "for the purpose of making and repairing and building bridges," whereas the tax authorized by the statute was "for the purpose of making and repairing road and building bridges." The sale under the advertisement was declared void.

1. The Year.—A misstatement of the year for which the tax was assessed, and for the non-payment of which the land is to be sold, is fatal, although the notice states correctly the amount of the tax. Knowlton v. Moore, 136 Mass. 32.

2. Time and Place.—It is essential to the validity of the sale that the notice should state the time and place of sale. Blalock v. Gaddis, 33 Miss. 452; Henderson v. White, 69 Tex. 103. And an omission in this regard is not aided by a recital in the deed that the land was offered at public auction at the time and place and in the manner required by law.

Where the notice wholly omits to mention the place of sale, a tax deed founded upon such sale will be adjudged defective and set aside if challenged before the running of the Statute of Limitations. Corbin v. Young, 24 Kan. 199; Russell v. Hudson, 24 Kan. 571.

But if the statute prescribes the form of notice, it is sufficient to follow it, although it does not specially name the place of sale; that being otherwise fixed. Clark v. Mowyer, 5 Mich. 462; Wisner v. Davenport, 5 Mich. 501. See also Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 508.

The Maryland Local Code applicable to the city of Baltimore, does not direct where the sale shall take place. But the purpose and object of giving notice of a sale being to inform the owner of the land and the public of the place as well as the time where and when the sale is to take place, that they may attend and bid if they think proper, both time and place should be certain and fixed. Accordingly, a notice which states that the sale will take place at the courthouse or "at such other place as may hereafter be designated," is fatally defective. Matter of Tax Sale of Lot No. 172, 42 Md. 196.

A notice for the sale "on the 4th day of April next," posted Jan. 31st, 1874, and published in a newspaper three weeks successively in February 1874, indicates sufficiently the time of sale, although the year is not named. Taft v. Barrett, 58 N. H. 447.

Where the officer's return showed that he gave the required notice of the "time" of sale, but did not state that he gave notice of the "place" of sale as well, the sale was declared invalid. Lovejoy v. Lunt, 48 Me. 377.

Where the notice stated that the sale would be "at the court house in Warren," but failed to add the words "Trumbull County," the notice was nevertheless held sufficient; the court taking judicial notice of the fact that at the date of the advertisement there was no township in the state by that name except in that particular county. Sheldon v. Coates, 10 Ohio 278.

Where a delinquent tax list is headed "office of the county treasurer," dated "July 10th, 1878," and recites that "so much of the following lands as may be necessary will on the public.¹ The manner of giving notice is by advertisement in newspapers, or posting in public places, or both; and some statutes, in addition, provide for personal notice. Generally speaking, any error or omission in any of these particulars will vitiate the sale. The power of the officer to sell is a naked power, not coupled with an interest; and in all such cases, the law requires that every prerequisite to the exercise of that power must precede its exercise.² The description must be sufficiently specific to clearly identify the premises.³ Failing to give the name of the owner when third day of September and next succeeding days be sold," etc., "at my office for the taxes of the year 1877," it was held that such notice is not misleading as to time and place of sale. Ireland v. George, 41 Kan. 751.

1. Statement that Sale Will Be "Public," or "At Public Auction."—Hafey v. Bronson, 33 Kan. 598; Hoffman v. Groll, 35 Kan. 652; Belz v. Bird, 31 Kan. 139. These cases hold that an omission to state in the notice that the sale will be "at public auction," as required by the statute, will not render the sale absolutely void, but voidable merely.

2. Early v. Doe, 16 How. (U. S.) 610; Williams v. Peyton, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 77; Ronkendorff v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 349; Hobbs v. Clements, 32 Me. 67; Elliot v. Doe, 24 Ala. 508.

In Gomer v. Chaffee, 6 Colo. 314, Elbert, C. J., for the court, said: "The power of an officer making a tax sale is purely statutory. A statutory power must be exercised according to statutory directions. In no class of cases has this rule been more strongly insisted upon than in case of tax sales. A substantial, and in many cases, a strict compliance with the provisions of the law preparatory to and authorizing the sale, is a condition of the power and essential to its rightful exercise."

In Brown v. Veazie, 25 Me. 359, the court, by Whitman, C. J., said: "Sales of real estate for the non-payment of taxes must be regarded, in a great measure, as ex parte proceedings. The owner is to be deprived of his land thereby; and a series of acts preliminary to the sale are to be performed, to authorize it on the part of the assessors and collector, to which his attention may never have been particularly called; and experience and observation render it notorious that the amount paid by the purchasers at such sales is uniformly trifling in comparison with the real value of the property sold. In this very instance the purchaser at the collector's sale bought, for less than $17, an estate valued by the assessors at $900. It has, therefore, been held, with great propriety, that to make out a valid title under such sales, great strictness is to be required, and it must appear that the provisions of law preparatory to and authorizing such sales, have been punctiliously complied with." And in Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 470, it is said to be an accepted axiom when tax sales are under consideration, that "a fundamental condition to their validity is that there should have been a substantial compliance with the law in all the proceedings of which the sale was the culmination. This would be the general rule in all cases in which a man is to be divested of his freehold by adversary proceedings, but special reasons make it peculiarly applicable to tax sales." Quoted with approval in Dane v. Glennon, 72 Ala. 160.

But in Doe v. Lucey, 1 Murph. (N. Car.) 311, it was held that the acts making it the duty of the sheriff to advertise the sale in some newspaper printed in the state, and at three public places in the county, and to set forth the location of the land, the names of the owners, etc., are merely directory to that officer. His neglect to observe these directions may make him liable in damages at the suit of the party injured by his neglect, but it will not affect the title of the purchaser unless there is collusion between him and the officer.

And under a statute of Mississippi, it seems that no defect or error in the advertisement will of itself invalidate the sale. Virden v. Bowers, 55 Miss. 1.

3. Description of Premises.—Keely v. Sanders, 99 U. S. 441; Nason v. Ricker, 63 Me. 381; Thibodaux v. Keller, 29 La. Ann. 508. The principal objects in giving notice are: (1) To apprise the owner of a proceeding which, unless arrested by the payment of the tax, will divest him of his property; (2) to give notice to persons desirous of purchasing, so they may know the particular property to be sold. It is not sufficient that such a description should be given in the advertisement as would enable the person desirous of purchasing to ascertain the situation of the property by inquiry. Nor, if the purchaser at the sale is informed of every fact necessary to enable him to fix a value upon the property, yet the sale will be void unless the same information has been communicated to the public in the notice. Its defects, if any, exist in the description of the property to be sold, and cannot be cured by any communication made to bidders on the day of sale by the auctioneer. Ronkendorff v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 349. An erroneous published description which is calculated to mislead, is insufficient to constitute notice. Knight v. Alexander, 38 Minn. 384; 8 Am. St. Rep. 675.

The fact that a parcel of land, advertised and sold as one lot, was divided into six lots by heavy stone walls, does not invalidate the sale where the tract as a whole is described correctly. Howland v. Pettey, 15 R. I. 603.

In Georgia, it is held that the sale is not void because the lands are described as wild, when in fact they are improved, as the collector has power to issue execution against either. Gardner v. Donalson, 80 Ga. 71.

In Iowa, it is held that the fact that the description of certain lands was omitted by mistake from the list of lands advertised for sale for delinquent taxes, will not vitiate the sale, provided the taxes were in fact due. Shawler v. Johnson, 52 Iowa 473. See also Allen v. Armstrong, 16 Iowa 508; Hurley v. Powell, 31 Iowa 64; Madson v. Sexton, 37 Iowa 562.

A description of the land to be sold as "80 x 143 feet in Wilson's addition in S. 29, T. 23, R. 4," though so uncertain and indefinite as to render a sale ineffective, is sufficiently certain to carry a lien. Millikan v. Lafayette, 118 Ind. 323.

Where the pamphlet containing the catalogue of property to be sold for delinquent taxes contains merely the part of a map, which map describes the bounds of a particular piece of property, without further description, such description is inadequate; and especially so when by the appearance of the map itself the exact bounds of the property are uncertain. Smith v. Walker, 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 391.

Where a parcel of land, which, by the ancient division of the town, was embraced in "lot 6" was assessed and sold under a different description contained in a new map of the town, which had been recognized by the town officers and the citizens, but which had not been formally adopted, it was held that the owner was not affected by the sale, if he did not know of the map, but recognized the parcel as part of "lot 6" and so described it to the assessor. Richter v. Beaumont, 67 Miss. 285.

In Hunt v. State, 48 N. J. L. 613, the description was as follows: "Third ward, Chapman, Julia A.; cost 1.50; int. 24.22; tax 177.23; total 202.95." This was the only advertisement of eight tracts of land. It was held, there being no notice to purchasers to indicate whether one or eight lots were to be sold, and no description by which they could be identified, that the sale was void.

A description as "No. 5 of lot 4, section 20, township 28, north, and of range 22, east," is too vague and indefinite to afford the requisite notice to the landowner or others interested, notwithstanding the Wisconsin Laws, ch. 105, providing for such descriptions in the assessors' books and maps. Murphy v. Hall, 68 Wis. 202.

The description "60 acres, part of the North half, section 13," is too vague and uncertain. In this case the court says: "Which 60 acres? is an inquiry to be naturally made." Treon v. Emerick, 6 Ohio 391. See also Lafferty v. Byers, 5 Ohio 458; Douglas v. Dangerfield, 10 Ohio 152.

A description as a certain number of lots of certain dimensions in a certain square between certain streets, without giving their respective numbers, is too vague to identify the property. Martin v. New Orleans, 30 La. Ann. 293. See also Carmichael v. Aiken, 13 La. 205; Jacques v. Kopman, 6 La. Ann. 542.

Where the property was described as "house and lot bought of David Harris," such person being only one of three grantors, and merely joined in the deed for the purpose of releasing whatever interest he might have in right of his wife, the description is required,¹ or designating the lands as belonging to another than the true owner, is such an error as will invalidate the sale.² If the lands are described as situate in a certain county, when in fact two-thirds of the tract are in another county, the sale is void so far as regards the latter.³ There is no objection to employing abbreviations in the description, provided they are intelligible and identify the premises.⁴ The notice must be published in the papers,⁵ and at the intervals, and for the length of time,⁶ specified both imperfect and inaccurate. Whitmore v. Learned, 70 Me. 276.

A description of premises as "two thirds of block 4, in Bass' out lots" is bad for uncertainty. It is not a description of any particular parcel of land. Bidwell v. Coleman, 11 Minn. 78.

A notice describing property as block 54 "lot 112 pt." does not give the owner of "lot 112" notice that it is proposed to sell his lot. People v. McGuire (Bklyn. City Ct.), 8 N. Y. Supp. 852.

A description as "except 1264 acres in the Southeast corner of subplot 1, lot 1, North section Robinson's reserve" is meaningless and void for uncertainty. Pickering v. Lomax, 120 Ill. 289.

Where the lands were described as being situated in range No. 3, East, instead of 3 West, their true description, the advertisement was held to be fatally defective. Patrick v. Davis, 15 Ark. 363.

For other cases in which the question of a sufficient description has been passed upon by the courts, see Coombs v. O'Neil, 1 McArthur (D. C.) 405; Woods v. Freeman, 1 Wall (U. S.) 398; Griffin v. Creppin, 60 Me. 270; Greene v. Lunt, 58 Me. 518; Brown v. Veazie, 25 Me. 359; French v. Patterson, 61 Me. 203; Bingham v. Smith, 64 Me. 450; Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420; Cruger v. Dougherty, 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 464; State v. Galloway Tp., 44 N. J. L. 145; State v. Woodbridge, 42 N. J. L. 256; Henderson v. Oliver, 32 Iowa 512; Iowa Land Co. v. Sac County, 39 Iowa 124; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153; Lafferty v. Byers, 5 Ohio 458; Henderson v. Staritt, 4 Sneed (Tenn.) 470; Gardner v. Brown, 1 Humph. (Tenn.) 354; Finley v. Gaut, 8 Baxt. (Tenn.) 148; Currie v. Fowler, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 145; Alvord v. Collins, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 418; Sargent v. Bean, 7 Gray (Mass.) 125; Wills v. Auch, 8 La. Ann. 19; Morris v. Davis, 75 Ga. 169; Cooper v. Holmes, 71 Md. 20; McQuade v. Jaffray, 47 Minn. 326.

1. Farnum v. Buffum, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 260; Styles v. Weir, 26 Miss. 187.

2. Milner v. Clarke, 61 Ala. 258.

Where the lands were described as belonging to D. and P., when in fact they had never belonged to such parties, but had been owned by D. ever since their severance from the public domain, the notice was adjudged void. Denègre v. Gèrac, 35 La. Ann. 952.

3. Williams v. Harris, 4 Sneed (Tenn.) 332.

Under a statute declaring that "when the name of the place in which such lands lie may have been altered by any act of this commonwealth within three years next preceding such advertisement, the collector shall express not only the present name, but the name by which the same was last known," it was held that where lands have, within the time specified, been taken from one town and annexed to another, the name of the former town as well as of the latter must be expressed in the advertisement. Porter v. Whitney, 1 Me. 306.

4. Sibley v. Smith, 2 Mich. 486.

5. Hughey v. Horrel, 2 Ohio 231; Doe v. Sweetser, 2 Ind. 649; Russell v. Gilson, 35 Minn. 366; Eastman v. Linn, 26 Minn. 215; Reimer v. Newel, 47 Minn. 237; Isaacs v. Shattuck, 12 Vt. 668; Bussey v. Leavitt, 12 Me. 378; Hart v. Smith, 44 Wis. 213; Weer v. Hahn, 15 Ill. 299. In this last case the statute required the publication to be in the "nearest newspaper to the county," and it was held that the question of the nearest paper must be determined by comparing the distances between the places of publication and the county line.

6. Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701; Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111; Pope v. Headen, 5 Ala. 433; Farrar v. Eastman, 10 Me. 191; Delogny v. Smith, 3 La. 418; Kellogg v. Mc- in the statute. Where the notice is required to be published for three weeks, publication in a daily paper on Monday and Thursday of each week, for three successive weeks, is sufficient—it need not be inserted in every issue of the paper.¹ But two insertions in a weekly paper is obviously not a compliance with a law requiring publication three times in ten days.² If the requirement is Laughlin, 8 Ohio 114; Caston v. Caston, 60 Miss. 475; Allen v. Smith, 1 Leigh (Va.) 231; Cummings v. Holt, 56 Vt. 384; Finley v. Gaut, 8 Baxt. (Tenn.) 148; Henderson v. Staritt, 4 Sneed (Tenn.) 470; Wistar v. Kammerer, 2 Yeates (Pa.) 99.

Where the deed shows upon its face that the requisite notice was not given, it is void. Moore v. Brown, 4 McLean (U. S.) 211; affirmed 11 How. (U. S.) 414; Dow v. Chandler, 85 Mo. 245.

In Kane v. Brooklyn, 114 N. Y. 586, the notice, in pursuance of which the plaintiff's property was sold, was dated and first published, on the 15th of March. The day of sale specified therein was the 14th of April. It was held that this was a compliance with the New York Laws of 1885, ch. 405, § 1, requiring the sale to be at a time "not less than thirty days after the first publication."

Under Maryland Code, art. 4, § 874, both the day of giving the notice or making its first publication and the day of sale, should be excluded in computing the thirty days' notice of sale provided for. Steuart v. Meyer, 54 Md. 454.

Where the statute required the treasurer, on or before September 1st, to send a notice to certain newspapers for publication, and the notice sent by that officer was dated September 15th, the error was held to be immaterial; the provisions of the statute relating to the preparation and delivery of the notice were mandatory in so far only as to require it to be delivered in time to be published for the prescribed time preceding the sale. Chamberlain v. Taylor, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 24. See also Stout v. Coates, 35 Kan. 382.

Proof of Publication.—The county auditor's certificate that the delinquent list was published for four consecutive weeks prior to December 1st, does not show a compliance with 1 Kerwin's Ohio Sts. 630, requiring the delinquent list and notice of sale to be published for four weeks between the first day of October and the first day of December. Magruder v. Esmay, 35 Ohio St. 221.

See also Ramsay v. Hommel, 68 Wis. 12; Morris v. Carmichael, 68 Wis. 133.

The certificate of a printer that the notice given by the officer was published for thirty days beginning February 21st, 1869, is not sufficient proof that the notice was published "once a week for four weeks," as required by the Maryland Code, art. 81, § 56. The proof in this particular must be affirmative and certain and nothing left to inference and conjecture. Prince George's County v. Clarke, 36 Md. 207.

In Fitch v. Pinckard, 5 Ill. 69, to prove the notice and advertisement, newspapers were introduced, published in 1837, containing the notice and advertisement dated "1836." It was held that it was not permissible to show by parol that the date was a mistake and that it was intended for 1837.

Under a statute requiring the first publication of the notice in a newspaper to be eight weeks before the day of sale, the date of the paper is ordinarily to be considered as the date of its publication. And evidence tending to prove that the paper was actually printed and ready to be delivered on the afternoon of the day before such printed date, and was actually delivered to the subscribers in the place of its publication that afternoon or evening, and the remainder were left in the post office that night directed to the other subscribers, and went by the mail of the next morning; that the whole edition was about four or five hundred—from fifty to seventy-five for the village subscribers—is not competent evidence to show that the paper was published the day before its date. Schoff v. Gould, 52 N. H. 512.

In Kansas, where the proof of the publication of notice is not transmitted to the county treasurer within the time prescribed by the statute, the charge for such publication may not be included in the amount for which the property is sold. And if it is included, the sale will be void. Fox v. Cross, 39 Kan. 350.

1. Thurston v. Miller, 10 R. I. 358.

2. Person v. O'Neal, 32 La. Ann. 228.

that the publication shall be "once a week for at least twelve successive weeks," a period of twelve full weeks or eighty-four days must intervene the time of the first notice and the day of sale.¹ A law requiring publication "once a week" is complied with, and its object effectuated, by an insertion on any day of the week—it need not be on any particular day of the week.² When the language of the statute is, that publication shall be "immediately" after a certain day, it should be made so soon thereafter as may be reasonably done, and a delay of fifty days, no reason being assigned therefor, confers no authority to sell.³ And it has been held that by a provision for three months notice, is meant the three months immediately preceding the sale, as otherwise the notice might be at such an interval of time as to render nugatory nearly all the objects to be attained by giving notice.⁴ The notice may be published in a supplement, provided its circulation is co-extensive with that of the paper itself.⁵ Non-compliance with a requirement that the publication shall be in several languages, is fatal to the notice and the sale founded thereon.⁶ The question whether a particular place is a "public

1. Early v. Doe, 16 How. (U. S.) 610. In this case the first insertion was on Saturday, 26th Aug.; the last, on Wednesday, 15th Nov., the day of sale—being a period of 82 days only—and the sale was declared illegal.

2. Ronkendorff v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 349. In this case the act of Congress under which land in the city of Washington was sold, required that public notice of the time and place of sale should be given by advertising "once a week" in some newspaper in the city for three months. Notice of the sale was published for three months; but in the course of that period eleven days at one time, ten days at another, and eight days at another, transpired in succeeding weeks, between the insertions of the advertisement. The notice was published Monday, the 6th of January, and was not published again until Saturday, the 18th of January, leaving an interval of eleven days. Still the publication on Saturday was within the week preceding the notice on the 6th, and this was sufficient. The court said: "It would be a most rigid construction of the act of Congress, justified neither by its spirit nor its language, to say that this notice must be published on any particular day of the week."

3. Doe v. Flagler, 1 Ind. 542.

4. Delogny v. Smith, 3 La. 418. The publication of the notice of a tax sale required by Kansas Gen. Sts. of 1868, § 82, ch. 107, need not be continuous up to the day of sale. Watkins v. Inge, 24 Kan. 612; McCurdy v. Baker, 11 Kan. 111; Whitaker v. Beech, 12 Kan. 492.

Where the advertisement is required to be published three months, two irregular advertisements for that space of time may not be coupled together so as to authorize the sale, although a verbal consent to this course was given by the delinquent. Scales v. Alvis, 12 Ala. 617; 46 Am. Dec. 269. In this case, the officer on the 4th of January advertised the property to be sold on the 1st of February following, but having ascertained this notice to be too short, did not sell the land on the day fixed, but in the first publication made after that time, changed the time of sale in the advertisement, and fixed it for the first Monday of April following, at which time the sale took place. The delinquent taxpayer was personally notified by the officer of the different time fixed for the sale, and consented to it. It was held upon the circumstances of the case that the collector was not invested with authority to sell.

5. Zahradnicek v. Selby, 15 Neb. 579; Davis v. Simms, 4 Bibb (Ky.) 465; Tully v. Bauer, 52 Cal. 487.

6. Delogny v. Smith, 3 La. 418; Young v. Martin, 2 Yeates (Pa.) 312; Wistar v. Kammerer, 2 Yeates (Pa.) 99.

place," within the meaning of a statute regulating the posting of notices of sale, is held to be a question partly of fact and partly of law. The nature and situation of the place, and the uses to which it is applied are matters of fact to be settled by the jury; when these are settled, whether the place will be considered a public place within the intent of the statute, is purely a question of law.¹ When the law expressly requires printed notices to be

1. What is a "Public Place."—Tidd v. Smith, 3 N. H. 178. In this case the court held, as a matter of law, that a shoemaker's shop was not a public place within the statute. This case was followed in Cahoon v. Coe, 57 N. H. 576, when two of the judges held as a matter of law, that upon the evidence reported, each of the six dwelling houses in Wentworth's Location was a public place, although the jury had found that there was no public place in that township; and the remaining judge who sat in the case concurred in the result.

In Hoitt v. Burnham, 61 N. H. 620, the defendant proved the posting of notices at a certain inn, and at the post office in the town of Dover, and the court ruled as a matter of law that prima facie both might be regarded as public places. No evidence was introduced as to the character of either place.

And in Scammon v. Scammon, 28 N. H. 419, it is held, that for the purpose of posting a notice, a meeting-house is prima facie a public place.

The words "public place" mean such places as in comparison with others in the same town are those where the inhabitants and others most frequently meet, or resort, or have occasion to be, so that a notice there would for that reason be most liable to be seen. Russell v. Dyer, 40 N. H. 173. See also Wells v. Burbank, 17 N. H. 411; Alger v. Curry, 40 Vt. 437; Austin v. Soule, 36 Vt. 645.

In Cambridge v. Chandler, 6 N. H. 271, the advertisement was put upon a board that was fixed in the sand by the side of a certain river. There was no settlement nor inhabitant in Cambridge at that time. Hunters were accustomed to pass up and down the river. There was a public highway laid out through that place, leading from another point in that state to the State of Maine. It was held that the notice was not posted in a public place.

A notice of the sale posted "at the courthouse door and at three other of the most public places in the county," is a compliance with the requirement of the Maryland Code, art. 81, § 59, that the notices shall be put up "at the courthouse door and at the most public places in such county." It is not required that the notice shall be put up at all of the most public places in the county. Prince George's County v. Clarke, 36 Md. 207.

Failure by the county treasurer to post a notice of a tax sale "in a conspicuous place in his office," as required by Wisconsin Rev. Stat., § 1130, will render invalid a deed founded upon such sale. Morrow v. Lander, 77 Wis. 77.

An affidavit of the posting of the notice in four specified places, "the same being four public places in the village of N.," etc., does not show that it was posted in four public places in the county, since the places may have been public so far as the village was concerned, and yet not public so far as the whole county was concerned. Ramsay v. Hommel, 68 Wis. 12. See also Hilgers v. Quinney, 51 Wis. 62; Jarvis v. Silliman, 21 Wis. 600; Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Wisconsin River Land Co., 71 Wis. 94.

And where the officer's affidavit does not show a proper posting of the notices, the fact that they were duly posted may not be shown by parol at the trial of an action involving the validity of the tax title, as this would be calculated to defeat the object of the statute in requiring the affidavit to be filed and preserved in the clerk's office. Iverslie v. Spaulding, 32 Wis. 394, distinguishing Adams v. Wright, 14 Wis. 408.

In Ireland v. George, 41 Kan. 751, it was held that where some evidence is offered tending to show that a delinquent tax notice was duly posted in four public places as required by law, such evidence is conclusive when approved by the trial court; and in the absence of all proof, such duty is presumed to have been performed. See also Hart v. Smith, 44 Wis. 213.

Time of Posting.—In proving the posted, a sale under a written notice is void.¹ By "delinquent," in a statute providing for personal notice of the proposed sale, is meant the legal owner.² A mortgagee is such an owner and entitled to notice.³ And notice of sale to one tenant in common does not operate as notice to the others, nor prejudice their rights.⁴ Whether the requirements of the statute respecting notice of sale have been complied with, is usually a mixed quesposting of a notice, by the officer, of the time and place of sale, in some convenient and public place within his precinct, three weeks before the time of sale as required by Massachusetts R. S., ch. 8, § 27, the time when such notice was posted must be established with certainty, and its contents must be sufficiently shown, in order to identify it with the notice required to be published by the 24th section of the same chapter. Farnum v. Buffum, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 260.

An affidavit of the collector that an advertisement of the lands had been posted up more than eight weeks, is no evidence that the lands have been duly advertised. The affidavit should state the time when the advertisement was posted up, so that it may be seen whether the posting was made in due season. Nelson v. Pierce, 6 N. H. 194.

1. Lagroue v. Rains, 48 Mo. 536. In this case the court said: "There are doubtless good and sufficient reasons why the notice should be printed. Some persons can read printing who cannot read writing. Printed notices are calculated to attract more attention, impart more information, and give greater facility for examining into what land is to be sold or has become delinquent. Everything that has a tendency to inform the community and promote competition in these sales is essential. But without giving reasons, it is sufficient for us to know that the law absolutely demanded that the handbills posted up should be printed, and that the officers disregarded and disobeyed its express mandates. If they could make one kind of substitution, they could another, and no person could ever know how or where to look for the protection of his rights."

2. Hill v. Nicholson, 92 N. Car. 24. The written notice to the owner or his agent, prescribed by Louisiana Act No. 47 of 1873, is an essential prerequisite of the sale, and in its default, the sale is absolutely void. Villey v. Jarreau, 33 La. Ann. 291. Accordingly, a sale of property assessed in the name of another person than the true owner, preceded by notices given to the party assessed and not to the true owner, is absolutely void. Lague v. Boagni, 32 La. Ann. 912. See also Workingman's Bank v. Lannes, 30 La. Ann. 871.

In McPhee v. Venable, 77 Ga. 772, the ordinance provided that personal notice should be given to "the owner, or the tenant in possession, if the owner is unknown." The owner was a non-resident, but had a resident agent, who was so known to be by the officer, he having paid the taxes on the lot for several years, and his name being entered on the city books as the agent of the owner. It was held that the notice required should have been given to him.

Where the statute requires notice to be served upon the owner, his agent or representative, or left at his residence, after the death of the owner, the notice must be given to his heirs, or personal representative, and a notice addressed to his "estate" and left at his former residence, confers no jurisdiction to order a sale, when it is shown that he had been dead many years, that his estate had been finally settled and distributed, and that the lands were at the time of the assessment in the possession of purchasers from his heirs. Carlisle v. Watts, 78 Ala. 486.

3. Hill v. Nicholson, 92 N. Car. 24; Whitehurst v. Gaskill, 69 N. Car. 449; 12 Am. Rep. 655; Ex p. McCay, 84 N. Car. 63.

4. Howze v. Dew, 90 Ala. 178.

Where an estate was owned by several heirs, and the collector levied upon the entire estate, and advertised it for sale, and gave notice to only one of the heirs, the sale was adjudged void for want of notice to the other heirs. It seems, however, that had the collector levied only on the interest of the heir who was notified, and advertised his interest for sale, the sale would have been good. Thurston v. Miller, 10 R. I. 358.

tion of law and fact, in the determination of which both court and jury have a voice.¹

d. CONDUCT OF SALE—(1) Time and Place.—A sale held at a time²

1. Cooley v. O'Connor, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 391.

2. Vernon v. Nelson, 33 Ark. 748; Allen v. Ozark Land Co., 55 Ark. 549; McGehee v. Martin, 53 Miss. 519; Mead v. Day, 54 Miss. 58; Harkreader v. Clayton, 56 Miss. 384; Mayer v. Peebles, 58 Miss. 628; Caston v. Caston, 60 Miss. 475; Haynes v. Heller, 12 Kan. 381; Eutrekin v. Chambers, 11 Kan. 368; Park v. Tinkman, 9 Kan. 615; Doe v. Allen, 67 N. Car. 346; Den v. Rose, 4 Dev. (N. Car.) 549; Essington v. Neill, 21 Ill. 139; Dougherty v. Crawford, 14 S. Car. 628; Roddy v. Purdy, 10 S. Car. 137; Chandler v. Keeler, 46 Iowa 596; Conrad v. Darden, 4 Yerg. (Tenn.) 307; Gomer v. Chaffee, 6 Colo. 314. If the statute does not specify the time and place, but provides that the sale shall be at a time and place to be stated in the notice of sale, a sale at another time or place than that stated in the notice is void. Prindle v. Campbell, 9 Minn. 212; Sheehy v. Hinds, 27 Minn. 259.

Under the Ohio Act of 1822, the sale must be on the day named in the advertisement, or, if made on a subsequent day, the reason therefor must appear in the officer's return. Wilkins v. Huse, 10 Ohio 140.

In Bestor v. Powell, 7 Ill. 119, the statute required the sale to be made on the "second Monday succeeding the term of the court" at which judgment against the land was rendered, and it was held that the statute intended the second Monday after the first day of the term. It was, however, intimated that a sale made on the second Monday after the close of the term, would not be objectionable. But the latter position was denied in Hope v. Sawyer, 14 Ill. 253, where it was held that the sale must be made on the second Monday succeeding the commencement of the term of the court, and if not made on that day, the sale is invalid. Followed in Polk v. Hill, 15 Ill. 131, where it was held that if more than two weeks intervene between the commencement of the term and the sale, the sale is void.

Where the statute directed the sale to be made on the first Monday in July "and the next ensuing days," and the officer's certificate recited that he sold on the first Monday in July "and the next ensuing days," but failed to show on which of these days the tract in controversy was sold, or how long the sale continued, the omission was deemed fatal; as the statute authorized the owner to redeem within a certain time from the date of sale, if the day of sale does not appear, this valuable right may be lost. Bloomstein v. Brien, 3 Tenn. Ch. 55.

Where the tax deed shows that the land was sold two days before the time advertised for sale, the deed on its face shows that there is not a valid sale. Cook v. Pennington, 15 S. Car. 185.

While the sale may, under the charter of the City of Kansas, be continued from day to day, the officer must begin it on the day for which the notice was given; and if not begun then, his power to sell becomes functus officio. Sullivan v. Donnell, 90 Mo. 278.

In Spear v. Ditty, 8 Vt. 419, it was held that where the officer advertises the sale to take place at a particular time and place, and his return states it to have been held in the town and on the day designated, it will be presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that it was held at the precise time and place named.

Under the Kansas laws of 1860, when lands have been duly advertised for sale at the regular sale days, and are not sold on those days by reason of injunction or other judicial proceeding, they may be sold at any time after the dissolution of the injunction, or restraining order, upon ten days' notice. Patterson v. Carruth, 13 Kan. 494. See also Jordan v. Kyle, 27 Kan. 190; Morrill v. Douglass, 17 Kan. 291.

The auditor general of Michigan may not directly or indirectly postpone tax sales beyond the time fixed by law. People v. Auditor Gen'l, 41 Mich. 28.

In Shell v. Duncan, 31 S. Car. 547, South Carolina Gen. St., § 592 was construed as empowering the comptroller general to postpone the time of the sale in question.

Under section 558 of the Mississippi Code of 1880, providing that if from any cause the sale shall not be made at the time appointed by law, it may be had thereafter, in the same or a subsequent or place¹ other than that prescribed by law, cannot be sustained. Manifestly, the object of naming a day and place is that the public may then and there assemble and have an opportunity to bid, and thus insure a fair sale. This object would be defeated if the officer were permitted to sell either at another time year, at any time designated therefor by order of the board of supervisors of the county, the board may not, on the day fixed by law for the sale, make an order relieving the officer of the duty to sell on that day, and fixing a future day for such sale. Any such order and sales made in pursuance thereof are nullities. The purpose of the statute was to provide for failures to sell land at the time prescribed by law. It sprang from the apprehension that by inadvertence or oversight, some land might escape sale at the regular time, and was intended especially for such cases. Brougher v. Conley, 62 Miss. 358.

The treasurer may, under section 776 of the Iowa Revision, when, from certain named causes, the property cannot be duly advertised and offered for sale on the first Monday in October, make the sale on the first Monday of the next succeeding month in which it can be made, allowing time for publication. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa 100; Sully v. Kuehl, 30 Iowa 274; Easton v. Savery, 44 Iowa 654.

And the reasons or causes why the sale was not held on the first Monday in October, but at such subsequent time, need not appear of record. Sully v. Kuehl, 30 Iowa 275.

And where the deed recites that the sale was begun on the first Monday of December, instead of on the first Monday of October, the presumption is that the causes recognized by the statute for commencing the sale on the first Monday of some month subsequent to October, existed. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa 160; Love v. Welch, 33 Iowa 192; Easton v. Savery, 44 Iowa 654.

Under the Arkansas revenue laws, in force in 1867, it was only as to lands of non-residents that the county court was empowered, upon failure of the officer to sell on the day fixed by law, to order the sale to be had on a different day. Spain v. Johnson, 31 Ark. 314. See also McDermott v. Scully, 27 Ark. 226; Hogins v. Brashears, 13 Ark. 242.

In Doe v. Allen, 67 N. Car. 346, it was held that the sheriff's power to sell lands for taxes being given on the condition that it be exercised within a certain time, the legislature may not, by a private act, empower him to sell after the expiration of the time allowed by law.

A sale made at 10 o'clock a. m., March 9th, 1887, instead of between the hours of 12 m. and 5 p. m., as required by Revision N. J. 1040, § 1, is validated by act March 23d, 1887, confirming all sales theretofore or thereafter made, although not made during the hours prescribed. State v. Landis Tp., 50 N. J. L. 374.

Sale Before Default.—Where the statute provides that the taxes are to be paid on or before the first day of May of each year, and lands delinquent are to be sold on the second Monday of the same month, a sale after the first day, but before the second Monday, of May, is void; the days intervening between said dates are intended as days of grace to the taxpayer, and no final default can occur until the latter date. Davis v. Schmidt, 68 Miss. 736. See also Orr v. Tasvacier, 21 Iowa 68; Person v. O'Neal, 32 La. Ann. 228.

1. Park v. Tinkham, 9 Kan. 615; Richards v. Cole, 31 Kan. 205.

Where the statute requires the sale to be made before the courthouse door, a sale made within the courthouse cannot be upheld. Rubey v. Huntsman, 32 Mo. 501. In this case it was said: "It is immaterial whether it was more convenient to all persons or better in any respect to sell within than before the courthouse. The law has prescribed the place of sale and that is the only proper place. It is so because the law has said so, and there can be no reasoning about it." Followed in McNair v. Jenson, 33 Mo. 312. See also Vasser v. George, 47 Miss. 713.

Where Statute is Silent as to Place—Extent of Officer's Power.—In Rice v. Johnson, 20 Ga. 639, the statute was silent as to the place of sale, but it was held that the power of the officer must nevertheless be restricted to this extent—the sale is to be held at that place where there will be the best or at another place.¹ As it is the officer's duty to conduct the sale for the best interests of all concerned, he may adjourn the sale, if he deems it necessary.² But the adjournment must be to a definite time;³ and there can be no legal sale before the time to which the adjournment is made.⁴ An adjournment "from day to day," means from one day to its succeeding day.⁵

(2) Must Be by Proper Officer.—The statute of each state designates the officer who is to make the sale—being usually the sheriff, treasurer, auditor, or the collector himself. A sale by any other than the officer named for the purpose, or his deputy, is unauthorized and void.⁶

chance for the sale accomplishing the objects of the grant of the power to sell—viz., the collection of the tax, and its collection at the least cost to the taxpayer—the place where the property is situated, or some place in that vicinity, as the courthouse of the county is such place, and a sale out of the county is unauthorized.

In Rhode Island, where the statute is silent as to the place of sale, a sale at the sheriff's office about twenty miles from the lands sold, will be upheld, where it appears that the officer acted in good faith, that no objection was made by complainant to the place of sale during the time the advertisement was running, and no steps were taken to set it aside for more than five years after the sale. Howland v. Pettay, 15 R. I. 603.

1. See cases cited in notes to this section.

2. Wells v. Austin, 59 Vt. 157; Butler v. Delano, 42 Iowa 350.

Under the Iowa Rev. Sts., §§ 764, 773, and Laws of Extra Sess. 1861, p. 32, when lands have been once properly advertised for sale, the sale may be made at any time thereafter, pursuant to adjournments regularly made, without a further advertisement. Hurley v. Street, 29 Iowa 429.

And the tax deed is at least prima facie evidence that a proper adjournment was made to the day on which the sale took place. It is not essential that such adjournment should be shown by the records. Bullis v. Marsh, 56 Iowa 747. See also Lorain v. Smith, 37 Iowa 67.

But proof that the alleged sale took place at a time to which there had been no adjournment of a prior sale, will overcome the prima facie evidence of the sale presented by the deed. Thompson v. Ware, 43 Iowa 455.

In Plympton v. Sapp, 55 Iowa 195, the answer averred that the sale "was held upon the 17th day of March, 1870, a day not authorized by law therefor." The time fixed by law was the first Monday of October. The plaintiff insisted that March 17th may have been a legal day for the sale, because there may have been an adjournment from the day appointed by law. But the court held that the averment precluded the supposition that it may have been an authorized day by reason of an adjournment.

3. Buzzell v. Johnson, 54 Vt. 90.

4. Buzzell v. Johnson, 54 Vt. 90. In this case the adjournment was to one o'clock in the afternoon, and the sale was made at ten o'clock in the forenoon. It was held that the sale could not be sustained, notwithstanding the property sold well, and that the owner's attorney was present, knew of the collector's mistake, and said nothing. Butler v. Delano, 42 Iowa 350.

5. Burns v. Lyon, 4 Watts (Pa.) 363. But at the same time, it was held in this latter case that, although the Pennsylvania act authorizing the sale of unseated lands for taxes, provides for an adjournment of the sale "from day to day," yet a title is good that is founded on a sale made by adjournment to a certain day, which does not immediately succeed the first. The uniform practice in the state requires such a construction.

6. In Louisiana, a sale may be made by the deputy of the collector. Villey v. Jarreau, 33 La. Ann. 291.

Under the Virginia statute of 1813-1814, a sale of land forfeited for non-payment of taxes, may be made either by the sheriff or his deputy, but whichever officer makes the sale, that officer alone is competent to make the conveyance to the purchaser. Chapman v. Doe, 2 Leigh (Va.) 329; Wilsons v. Doe, 7 Leigh (Va.) 22.

In Pennsylvania, after the expiration of the treasurer's term of office and the appointment and qualification of his successor, a sale by him of unseated lands is void.¹

In Arkansas, the collector for a particular year is the only officer authorized to collect the taxes for that year, and although his term expires before the day fixed for the sale of lands for such taxes, no one other than himself or his deputy may sell; it is only when the collector dies, or is removed from office, or is otherwise disqualified to act, that the actual collector may sell in such case.²

Where a county is divided, after land therein is assessed for taxes and returned delinquent, and before they are sold, and by such division the land is included within a new county, the sale for such taxes should be made by the proper officer of the old county.³

(3) Quantity to Be Sold—And in What Parcels.—In many of the states are found statutes limiting the power of the officer to sell land for taxes to so much as will pay the taxes and charges. If the officer disregards the provision, the sale will be void.⁴ It has been said that, in the absence of any statute limiting the officer's

The New York Act of 1850, repealed N. Y. R. S., pt. I., tit. 3, ch. 13, arts. 2 and 3, in regard to the assessment and collection of taxes, but with the proviso that the repeal should not affect "any tax levied or assessed prior to the year 1849, nor any proceeding for the collection thereof by a sale of the lands taxed or otherwise," and changed the proceedings for the collection of non-resident taxes by transferring the authority from the comptroller to the treasurer. It was held that a sale made by the treasurer in 1852, pursuant to the act of 1850, for taxes levied in 1849, but returned to the comptroller before the date of the repealing act just referred to, was valid. Ensign v. Barse, 107 N. Y. 329.

In Illinois, a sale by a city collector under a judgment against the lands for taxes rendered in March, 1870, before the present constitution of that state was adopted and went into effect, is not void because not made by some general officer of the county authorized to receive taxes. The constitutional provision is not retrospective, and does not apply to judgment for taxes before it became operative and before the necessary and appropriate legislation was had under such provision. Garrick v. Chamberlain, 97 Ill. 620.

The sheriff of St. Louis county is, by virtue of his office, required to collect the revenue, but when he does so it is not in his capacity as sheriff. In a suit brought by him in his capacity as collector, and to his use as such, it was held that the process was properly served by him as sheriff, and that under an execution upon the judgment in his favor as collector he properly sold the land and made the deed as sheriff; that as sheriff he was not a party to the suit for taxes, and that as collector his interest therein was not such as to disqualify him from acting in his capacity as sheriff. Webster v. Smith, 78 Mo. 163.

1. Cuttle v. Brockway, 32 Pa. St. 45.

2. Hogins v. Brashears, 13 Ark. 242; Twombly v. Kimbrough, 24 Ark. 459.

In California, a sheriff whose term of office has expired has no right to collect the state and county taxes as unfinished business—and therefore no right to make a sale—from the assessment list which came into his hands while in office. Fremont v. Boling, 11 Cal. 380.

3. Hilliard v. Griffin, 72 Iowa 331; Collins v. Storm, 75 Iowa 36; Austin v. Holt, 32 Wis. 478.

4. Stead v. Course, 4 Cranch (U. S.) 403; Ainsworth v. Dean, 21 N. H. 400; Clarke v. Rowan, 53 Ala. 400; Loomis v. Pingree, 43 Me. 299; Straw v. Poor, 74 Me. 53.

Where two town lots, one improved, the other unimproved, worth about $500, were sold together for a tax of $4.00, the sale was declared illegal. O'Brien v. Coulter, 2 Blackf. (Ind.) 421.

power in this particular, a restriction to the quantity requisite to pay the sum due, would be intended by the law.¹ And in one instance a law requiring the whole land to be sold, in all cases, without regard to the fact that a division thereof might be practicable without injury, and the taxes paid by a sale of part, was adjudged unconstitutional.² On the other hand, under a statute making it optional with the officer to sell the whole or a part, a sale of the whole was upheld, although a part might conveniently have been sold.³

The provision, found in some of the states, that the officer shall "only sell the smallest quantity which any purchaser will take and pay the taxes and costs," being intended for the protection of the taxpayer, is mandatory upon the officer; and a sale of the land in

So where two tenements on the same lot, worth each several thousand dollars, were sold to satisfy a tax of less than one hundred dollars, the sale was held to be absolutely null and void. Doane v. Chittenden, 25 Ga. 103. See also Morris v. Davis, 75 Ga. 169.

In Maine, in order to authorize the sale of the whole, it must distinctly appear of record that the sale of the whole was required to pay the taxes and charges. French v. Patterson, 61 Me. 209; Whitmore v. Learned, 70 Me. 276; Lovejoy v. Lunt, 48 Me. 378; Wiggin v. Temple, 73 Me. 380; Straw v. Poor, 74 Me. 53; Brookings v. Woodin, 74 Me. 222.

In Ives v. Lynn, 7 Conn. 505, it was held that when the officer's deed recites that he sold "sufficient" of the land to discharge the taxes and costs, the presumption is that he did his duty and sold no more than was necessary.

In the Maine statute, the language that the officer is to sell "so much of such real estate or interest as is necessary to pay the tax," etc., means that he is to sell an undivided fraction of the whole; as for instance, one-fourth, one-third, one-half. To sell a separate and distinct portion of the farm, as, for example, that portion which composes the pasture, will be as illegal as to sell the whole when it is only necessary to sell a part. Allen v. Morse, 72 Me. 502.

In New Hampshire, where the rights of third parties have not intervened, the officer's return that he exposed the whole to sale, may be amended, conformably to the truth, so as to show that he in fact offered for sale only so much of the lot as was necessary to discharge the taxes and charges. Jaquith v. Putney, 48 N. H. 138. See also Bishop v. Cone, 3 N. H. 513.

In Missouri, the sale may not be impeached in a collateral proceeding, for the neglect of the officer to sell the land, by its smallest legal subdivision. Flynn v. Edwards, 36 Fed. Rep. 873; Wellshear v. Kelley, 69 Mo. 419; Brown v. Walker, 85 Mo. 262.

1. Guisebert v. Etchison, 51 Md. 478; Margraff v. Cunningham, 57 Md. 585; Brinson v. Lassiter, 81 Ga. 40; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 490.

In Dyer v. Boswell, 39 Md. 471, it was said that "art. 81, § 60 of the code of that state, providing that the officers shall sell no more of any tract of land than may be sufficient to discharge the taxes and legal charges due thereon, merely asserts a general principle which is applicable to sales made by sheriffs and collectors, and has been often enforced upon grounds of equity and reason, which forbid such officers from selling en masse a whole tract of land to pay a small sum of money when the sale of one or two acres would be sufficient." In this case the collector sold a tract containing one hundred acres, worth about $1,500, to satisfy the sum of $1.25, state taxes, without attempting to sell a portion thereof, set apart by a sufficient and certain description, and the sale was declared void.

2. Martin v. Snowden, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 100.

3. Southworth v. Edmands, 152 Mass. 203.

In Lawton v. U. S., 21 Ct. of Cl. 44, where the law charged each tract with a distinct tax, the sale of two tracts was held to be not illegal, although the receipts from either were more than sufficient to pay the taxes on both. See also State v. Sargent, 12 Mo. App. 236.

one parcel to the highest bidder is illegal.¹ But if the least quantity that any one is willing to take for the sum due is the whole, then the sale of the whole will be upheld.²

With reference to the parcels or lots in which the lands may be sold, the general rule is, the sale must follow the assessment list.³

A sale of several parcels of land, separately assessed, or in fact distinct, en masse for a gross sum, is irregular and cannot be upheld, and a deed showing that this course was pursued, is void upon its face.⁴

1. French v. Edwards, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 506; Mora v. Nunez, 10 Fed. Rep. 634; LeRoy v. Reeves, 5 Sawyer (U. S.) 102; Carpenter v. Gann, 51 Cal. 193; Hewell v. Lane, 53 Cal. 213; Gillis v. Barnett, 38 Cal. 393; Frink v. Roe, 70 Cal. 297; Reynolds v. Lincoln, 71 Cal. 183.

2. State v. Galloway Tp., 44 N. J. L. 145; Hewes v. McLellan, 80 Cal. 393.

3. Ballana v. Forsyth, 13 How. (U. S.) 18; McQuesten v. Swope, 12 Kan. 32; Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 492; State v. Sargeant, 76 Mo. 557; Corburn v. Crittenden, 62 Miss. 125.

Moulton v. Doran, 10 Minn. 67, was an action to set aside the sale on the ground that the property was sold as one entire tract, while there were several distinct lots. The sale was upheld, however, because it conformed to the assessment, the assessment not having been questioned, and the statute making a distinction between errors in the assessment and errors in the sale, not permitting the assessment to be questioned after the sale was made.

4. Nason v. Ricker, 63 Me. 381; Wallingford v. Fiske, 24 Me. 390; Andrews v. Senter, 32 Me. 394; Terrill v. Groves, 18 Cal. 149; Tucker v. Whittlesy, 74 Wis. 74; Woodburn v. Wireman, 27 Pa. St. 18; Morton v. Harris, 9 Watts (Pa.) 319; Pack v. Crawford, 29 Ark. 489; Pettus v. Wallace, 29 Ark. 476; Montgomery v. Birge, 31 Ark. 491; Cocks v. Simmons, 55 Ark. 104; Crane v. Randolph, 30 Ark. 579; Penn v. Clemans, 19 Iowa 372; Boardman v. Bourne, 20 Iowa 134; Byam v. Cook, 21 Iowa 392; Ferguson v. Heath, 21 Iowa 438; Harper v. Sexton, 22 Iowa 442; Ackley v. Sexton, 24 Iowa 321; Ware v. Thompson, 29 Iowa 67; State v. Richardson, 21 Mo. 420; Walker v. Moore, 2 Dill. (U. S.) 256; Keene v. Barnes, 29 Mo. 377; Long v. Wolf, 25 Kan. 523; Farnham v. Jones, 32 Minn. 7; Brown v. Setzer, 39 Minn. 317; San- born v. Mueller, 38 Minn. 27; Hayden v. Foster, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 492; Barnes v. Boardman, 149 Mass. 106. As to what constitutes a "tract" or "parcel," in Iowa, see Martin v. Cole, 38 Iowa 141.

Each parcel of a person's land separately assessed is only liable to sale for its own specific tax. State v. Hand, 41 N. J. L. 517.

In Illinois, where several adjoining tracts are levied upon, it is the duty of the sheriff to offer each tract separately, and if no bids are made for one tract, to add another to it, and so on until all the pieces are offered, and if no bid is made, then to sell all the tracts en masse for a reasonable bid. Douthett v. Kettle, 104 Ill. 356. See also Phelps v. Conover, 25 Ill. 309; Morris v. Robey, 73 Ill. 462.

Section 521 Mississippi Code, provides that the officer "shall first offer forty acres, and if the first parcel so offered does not produce the amount due, then he shall add another similar subdivision and so on until the requisite amount is produced." And where the officer in selling a one-hundred acre tract first offered forty acres, then another forty acres, then the remaining twenty, without receiving a bid, and then sold the whole tract, the sale was held to be void, notwithstanding section 525 of the code declaring in effect that no defense shall avail against a tax title, unless it is shown that the taxes were paid before the sale. Griffin v. Ellis, 63 Miss. 348.

As to the method of selling under section 38 of the Mississippi Act of 1841, see Hodge v. Wilson, 12 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 500; Boisgerard v. Doe, 23 Miss. 122; Ray v. Murdock, 36 Miss. 692; Raskins v. Doe, 24 Miss. 431.

In Missouri, a sale under a special execution, issued on a judgment for back taxes, may not be collaterally impeached because two lots were sold together, the judgment being rendered for a specific amount against each of

But several parcels adjoining, and lying in compact form, which are used and occupied as a single tract, may, for the purposes of taxation, be listed and valued together, and sold for a single consideration and as a single parcel.¹

When the lots are sold separately, the purchaser is entitled to a deed reciting the fact, so that it may appear that the sale was conducted as required by law.² It seems, however, that where the same party buys two separate and distinct parcels, including them in one deed will not necessarily raise a presumption that they were sold en masse.³

The sale will not be set aside on the ground that the land was sold en masse, when no such objection is made in the petition and no relief asked upon that ground.⁴

Where several parcels are assessed as an entirety, at a gross sum, they must be sold together; the tax may not be arbitrarily apportioned, and the parcels sold separately, each for its proportionate share of the tax.⁵ And such a sale may not be upheld by testimony that the apportionment of the tax was a fair one.⁶

Without express statutory authority, the officer may not, when the assessment is of the entire tract, sell an undivided interest in the land, so as to constitute the purchaser a tenant in common with the owner, unless perhaps, where the interest of the delinquent is already an undivided one; if less than the whole is sold, it must be a designated portion by metes and bounds.⁷

(4) Illegal and Excessive Taxes and Charges—Omitting Back Taxes.—If part of the taxes for which the land is sold is illegal, the lots. Howard v. Stevenson, 11 Mo. App. 410.

In Walker v. Boh, 32 Kan. 354, the deed recited that the east half of northeast quarter of section 9, the northeast quarter of section 11, and other sections, were bid off for $4.51 for the east half, and $8.27 for the northeast quarter of section 11, and so on. It was held that this did not show a sale in gross.

It seems that a grantee in good faith from the purchaser of lands sold en masse, will be protected if he had no notice of the irregularity. Martin v. Ragdale, 49 Iowa 589.

1. Dodge v. Emmons, 34 Kan. 732; Mack v. Price, 35 Kan. 144; Hall v. Dodge, 18 Kan. 277; McQuesten v. Swope, 12 Kan. 32; Brien v. O'Shaughnessy, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 724; State v. Landis Tp., 50 N. J. L. 374; Howland v. Pettay, 15 R. I. 603. When the use and nature of the lots require them to be regarded as one parcel, the law will so treat them. Weaver v. Grant, 39 Iowa 294; Green v. Wheeler, 41 Iowa 85.

In Springer v. U. S., 102 U. S. 586, it was held to be not improper for the collector to sell in one parcel, a homestead containing two city lots, surrounded by a common inclosure.

2. State v. Richardson, 21 Mo. 420.

3. Towle v. Holt, 14 Neb. 221.

In Gage v. Bailey, 102 Ill. 11, the fact that several lots were included in one certificate of purchase was held to avoid no evidence that they were not sold separately as required by law.

In Waddingham v. Dickson, 17 Colo. 223, the deed conveyed title to several tracts, and showed that they were advertised separately, and that the purchasers offered to pay for them separately; this was held sufficient to show that they were sold separately.

4. Wallace v. Berger, 25 Iowa 456.

5. Wyman v. Baer, 46 Mich. 418; Willey v. Scoville, 9 Ohio 43; Shaw v. Kirkwood, 24 Kan. 476; Heil v. Redden, 38 Kan. 255; O'Neil v. Tyler (N. Dak. 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 434; Allen v. Morse, 72 Me. 502; Morristown v. King, 11 Lea (Tenn.) 669.

6. Kregelo v. Flint, 25 Kan. 695.

7. Roberts v. Chan Tin Pen, 23 Cal.

the sale is void; it may not be upheld to the extent of the legal taxes.¹ It is a presumption of law that when the land has been sold for taxes, in part illegal, some portion of the land is taken to satisfy an illegal demand, and would not have been sold at all if only what was lawful had been called for.² And so, if the sale is made for a sum in excess of the tax costs and charges, it is void.

260; Townsend Sav. Bank v. Todd, 47 Conn. 190; Loud v. Penniman, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 539; Wall v. Wall, 124 Mass. 65; Sanford v. Sanford, 135 Mass. 314; Forster v. Forster, 129 Mass. 559; Clarke v. Strickland, 2 Curt. (U. S.) 439; Hodge v. Wilson, 12 Smed. & M. (Miss.) 498; Corbin v. Inslee, 24 Kan. 154; Auld v. McAllaster, 43 Kan. 162; Cragin v. Henry, 40 Iowa 158; Jordan v. Hyatt, 3 Barb. (N. Y.) 275; Harper v. Rowe, 55 Cal. 132.

But where the owner of an undivided interest is allowed to pay the taxes on that interest, a sale of the residue is valid. Peirce v. Weare, 41 Iowa 378. See also Fellows v. Denniston, 23 N. Y. 420; Lawrence v. Miller, 86 Ill. 502.

And where the interests of two tenants in common in a tract of land are allowed to be assessed separately, upon default by one to pay the taxes assessed upon his undivided interest, it may be sold without a sale of the entire interest of both—the co-tenant having paid his share of the taxes. Ronkendorff v. Taylor, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 346; Paine v. Danley, 18 Ark. 441.

In Vermont, it is held that if the officer's deed of land sold by him describes the land simply as so many acres of a certain lot, it passes an undivided interest in such lot equal to the proportion which the number of acres sold bears to the whole number of acres in the lot. Sheafe v. Wait, 30 Vt. 735.

Locating the Part Sold.—In California, the owner of the lands may designate, prior to the commencement of the sale, the portion he wishes offered; if he does not so designate, then the officer shall do so. But the designation, whether by the owner or the officer, must precede the actual sale to the purchaser; and it must be by metes and bounds, so that the purchaser may know its exact boundaries. Roberts v. Chan Tin Pen, 23 Cal. 259.

In Wands v. Brien, 13 Lea (Tenn.) 732, it was held that the designation, "eighty-four feet of this lot," does not sufficiently define the quantity of the land bid off, and is void.

Under the Tennessee Act of 1873, ch.

118, § 65, authorizing and requiring the officer to accept as the purchaser, the bidder who will pay the amount due for the least quantity of the tract, to be run off from the beginning corner, it is not necessary that the officer should indicate to the bidders the corner of the tract which he considers the beginning corner. Nance v. Hopkins, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 508.

In Illinois, the quantity sold, when less than the whole, must be taken from the eastern portion of the tract, and the line drawn due north and south, and far enough west of the most eastern point of the tract to make the requisite quantity. Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409.

In an early Pennsylvania case, it was held that a treasurer's sale of part of a tract, and a conveyance of that part designating the quantity, but not the locality, was valid; and an unrestricted choice of locality to the purchaser was a necessary incident of the sale, and a consequence of a fair and reasonable interpretation of the statute. Coxe v. Blanden, 1 Watts (Pa.) 533.

1. Libby v. Burnham, 15 Mass. 144; Bangs v. Snow, 1 Mass. 181; Drew v. Davis, 10 Vt. 506; 33 Am. Dec. 213; McQuilkin v. Doe, 8 Blackf. (Ind.) 581; Noble v. Indianapolis, 16 Ind. 506; Barker v. Blake, 36 Me. 433; Brown v. Snell, 6 Fla. 741; Young v. Joslin, 13 R. I. 675; People v. Hagadorn, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 610; Dogan v. Griffin, 51 Miss. 782; Beard v. Green, 51 Miss. 856; Gamble v. Witty, 55 Miss. 26; Peterson v. Kittredge, 65 Miss. 33; Rougelot v. Quick, 34 La. Ann. 123; Kemper v. McClelland, 19 Ohio 308; Younglove v. Hackman, 43 Ohio St. 69; McLaughlin v. Thompson, 55 Ill. 249; Drake v. Ogden, 128 Ill. 603; Wills v. Austin, 53 Cal. 152; Hardenburgh v. Kidd, 10 Cal. 402; McCann v. Merriam, 11 Neb. 241; Covell v. Young, 11 Neb. 510; Shattuck v. Daniel, 52 Miss. 834; Buttrick v. Nashua Iron, etc., Co., 59 N. H. 392; Elwell v. Shaw, 1 Me. 339; Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111.

2. Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 569.

It has been contended that when the excess is very small, the sale should be upheld upon the principle de minimis non curat lex; but this maxim applies to tax sales only in a very limited sense, the rule being that the sale is void if the excess is as much as the smallest fractional coin authorized by law.¹ But the fact that the

1. Burroughs v. Goff, 64 Mich. 464; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; Hammon-tree v. Lott, 40 Mich. 190; Doland v. Mooney, 79 Cal. 137; Treadwell v. Patterson, 51 Cal. 637; Axtell v. Gerlach, 67 Cal. 483; Boston Tunnel Co. v. McKenzie, 67 Cal. 485; Harper v. Rowe, 53 Cal. 233; Knox v. Higby, 76 Cal. 264; Kimball v. Ballard, 19 Wis. 601; 88 Am. Dec. 705; Pierce v. Schutt, 20 Wis. 423; Board of Regents v. Linscott, 30 Kan. 240; Pack v. Crawford, 29 Ark. 489.

A tax sale for anything more than is lawfully chargeable, is a sale without jurisdiction, and therefore void. Smith v. Ryan, 88 Ky. 636.

A trivial sum exacted of each taxpayer becomes a matter of importance as applied to the body of the taxpayers at large, and may become important in amount to each individual owner of property by reason of the continued exactions of successive years. Lufkin v. Galveston, 73 Tex. 340.

Where the excess was only nine cents, the court said that "there can be no valid sale for a tax in excess of that authorized by law. The maxim de minimis non curat lex cannot save it." Wells v. Burbank, 17 N. H. 393.

Fractions which cannot be expressed in legal money of the country have been regarded as trifles. But a sum large enough to be paid in coin that may be a legal tender, and which constitutes a debt and may be collected by legal process, cannot be regarded by the law as worthless and trivial. If such a sum be a trifle, it will be difficult to draw the line and say how much a sum must be, not to be a trifle. Glidden v. Chase, 35 Me. 90.

In Boyden v. Moore, 5 Mass. 365, the sum of 41 cents was considered not a trifle. The chief justice observes that "fractions not to be expressed in the legal money of account are trifles and may be rejected."

In Huse v. Merriam, 2 Me. 376, an excess of 87 cents was held to render the sale void. It was contended that this sum was such a trifle as to fall within the range of the maxim de minimis non curat lex, but the court said that this maxim is so vague in itself as to form a very uncertain ground of proceeding or judging, and it may be almost as difficult to apply it as a rule in pecuniary concerns, as to the interest which a witness has in the event of a cause, and in such a case it cannot apply; any interest excludes him.

In Wisconsin, including in the amount for which the lands are offered the sum of five cents for United States revenue stamp, imposed by act of Congress upon each certificate of sale, Congress having no power to impose the sum, renders the sale void. Barden v. Columbia County, 33 Wis. 445; Baker v. Columbia County, 39 Wis. 447; but in such a case the validity of the sale may not be questioned after the expiration of the period of limitation. Milledge v. Coleman, 47 Wis. 184.

In Kansas, if the proof of publication of notice of the sale is not transmitted by the printer to the county treasurer, as required by law, the printer's fees do not become a charge against the county nor against the lands, and to include them in the amount for which the land is sold, will invalidate the sale. Fox v. Cross, 39 Kan. 350; Blanchard v. Hatcher, 40 Kan. 350; Jackson v. Challiss, 41 Kan. 247.

In McQuesten v. Swope, 12 Kan. 32, the court said that whatever may be the rule when the excess is but nominal or trifling, a sale cannot stand when the excess is large and substantial.

But the words "substantial excess" are used in comparison with the total amount of the actual charges. Thus, where the actual cost of advertising was eight cents, and the sum included in the sale for that purpose was 17 cents, more than twice the legal fees, the excess was held to be substantial. Genthner v. Lewis, 24 Kan. 226. See also Harris v. Curran, 32 Kan. 580; Haggood v. Morten, 28 Kan. 766.

In Bode v. New England Invest. Co., 6 Dakota 499, it was held that a sale for a tax of seven mills on a dollar is void when it appears that the only tax levy made for that year was but for four mills.

recitals of the amount in the certificate of sale and deed differ, does not show that the sale was for a sum in excess of the legal amount.¹

In several states, statutes have been enacted providing in effect, that a sale, otherwise regular, shall not be rendered invalid by reason of the fact that a portion only of the taxes is illegal or erroneous. The constitutionality of these statutes has been assailed, but, with one exception, they have been upheld.² In some of the states it is provided that the sale shall be made for the total amount of taxes, interest, and costs. In the notes will

If a judgment against land for taxes includes costs not due or earned at the time of its rendition, but to accrue subsequently to the entry of the judgment, the error is fatal and a sale under such judgment passes no title. Gage v. Lyons, 138 Ill. 571; Combs v. Goff, 127 Ill. 431; Gage v. Goudy, 141 Ill. 215.

But in O'Grady v. Barnhisel, 23 Cal. 287, it was held that a slight mistake by the officer in estimating the amount of taxes and costs, by which the property was sold for a small sum more than the amount actually due, will not vitiate the sale, particularly when it is not made to appear that the owner has suffered any injury by reason of the mistake.

And in Harvard v. Day, 62 Miss. 748, it was held that a sale for one and six-tenths of a cent in excess of the legal amount due, is not invalid where the excess is not in the levy, but occurs in the officer's calculation of the amounts of the several taxes and the aggregate thereof, and is produced by conformity to the common practice of writing down whole numbers rather than fractions where no appreciable difference results.

In Drennan v. Beierlein, 49 Mich. 272, ejectment was brought against the purchaser of land which was sold for 32 cents in excess of the amount of the tax, but the record did not show whether this additional sum was charged as a penalty under the name of interest, or for some other purpose, and it did not exclude the possibility that it was made up of legitimate charges for the cost of advertising, etc. It was held that in the absence of a clear showing to the contrary, it must be assumed that the charge was lawfully made. See also Salls v. Barons, 40 Kan. 697.

In Crooks v. Whitford, 47 Mich. 283, it is held that the deed cannot be held invalid on the ground that the tax for which the land was sold exceeded the regular statutory limit, if it appears that during the period within which it was levied, extraordinary levies were authorized to which this limitation did not apply and which might have justified the tax.

In New York, where the officer returned four cents too much, the mistake was held not to invalidate the sale; the maxim de minimus, etc., being held to apply. Colman v. Shattuck, 62 N. Y. 353.

In Ohio, the sale is not affected by an overcharge of tax subsequent to the forfeiture to the state for non-payment. Winder v. Sterling, 7 Ohio, pt. II., 191.

1. Doland v. Mooney, 79 Cal. 137. In this case the amount recited in the certificate was fifty cents less than that in the deed. The court, in holding that this did not show an excessive sale, said that "if the sale was in fact for an excessive sum, that may be shown to invalidate the sale, but the presumption is in favor of the regularity of official action."

2. Iowa.—Parker v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 421; Sully v. Kuehl, 30 Iowa 275; Hurley v. Powell, 31 Iowa 64; Genther v. Fuller, 36 Iowa 604; Rhodes v. Sexton, 33 Iowa 540; Parker v. Cochran, 64 Iowa 757; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622. And evidence of such illegal or erroneous taxes may be properly excluded on the ground of immateriality. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa 160.

The reasoning upon which these cases proceed is: If any portion of the tax is legal, the power to sell arises therefrom. The fact that erroneous or illegal taxes are associated with the valid and legal, will not defeat the power any more than if they had been entirely omitted. So long as the power and right to sell exist as to any part of the taxes, the owner is not prejudiced by the erroneous or illegal part, since his property would be

be found cases arising under these statutes, showing the effect upon the sale of omitting back taxes and of selling for an amount insufficient to pay the sum due.¹

(5) Competition at Sale—Fraud.—The sale is required to be sold for the valid part, and he is entitled to have the erroneous portion refunded.

By the Mississippi Code of 1880, § 525, a sale for an amount of taxes and costs in excess of what is due, is not invalid if there was no tender of the legal amount before the sale. Carter v. Hadley, 59 Miss. 130; Corburn v. Crittenden, 62 Miss. 125; Lewis v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 67 Miss. 82.

Under the Massachusetts Gen. Sts., ch. 12, § 56, a sale is not invalid because the taxes were in part appropriated by the town to a purpose for which it could not lawfully raise money. Southworth v. Edmands, 152 Mass. 203.

Michigan Comp. L., § 1129, that no sale shall be held invalid unless it be made to appear that all legal taxes are paid or tendered, and that all taxes shall be presumed to be legally assessed until the contrary is affirmatively shown, is unconstitutional so far as it sustains sales for taxes which are in part illegal. Silsbee v. Stockle, 44 Mich. 561.

1. In Nebraska, a sale can be lawfully made only by including all the taxes, interest and costs due at the time; and a sale for a portion only, is not binding upon the owner. O'Donohue v. Hendrix, 13 Neb. 257; Tillotson v. Small, 13 Neb. 202; McGavock v. Pollack, 13 Neb. 535; State v. Helmer, 10 Neb. 25.

In Iowa, the fact that the land is not sold for all the delinquent taxes is an irregularity merely, which will not defeat the sale after the execution and recording of the tax deed made in pursuance thereof. Kessey v. Connell, 68 Iowa 430; Hough v. Easley, 47 Iowa 330; Shoemaker v. Lacey, 38 Iowa 277; Preston v. Van Gorder, 31 Iowa 250 (holding that one who purchases the land at a sale for part of the delinquent taxes may restrain the officer from making a sale for the remaining delinquencies); Bowman v. Thompson, 36 Iowa 505 (holding that where land is sold for the taxes of several years, and subsequently sold for taxes of years prior to those for which the first sale was made, the title obtained at the first sale is paramount). Compare with the foregoing cases, Bowman v. Eckstein, 46 Iowa 583.

In Massachusetts, where land is advertised for sale at the same time in the same paper by the same officer for the taxes of two successive years, and at the time and place named is sold by him to one for the tax of the earlier year, and then at the same sale, to another for the tax of the later year, the second sale is valid, and the purchaser at that sale acquires title to the land. Keen v. Sheehan, 154 Mass. 208.

In Crowell v. Merrill, 60 Iowa 53, land was sold for delinquent state and county taxes at a time when certain taxes voted in aid of a railroad were also delinquent and a lien upon the land. Subsequently, the land was again sold for the railroad tax; and after this the owner redeemed from the first sale, and instituted an action to set aside the second sale, relying upon section 871 of the Iowa code, providing that the sale shall be made for, and in payment of, the total amount of the taxes, etc. But it was held that the word "taxes" in this section must be construed to mean state and county taxes only, and not railroad taxes; and that the second sale for the railroad taxes must be upheld.

In Illinois, it is held that where the state sells land in satisfaction of a tax judgment, it may not defeat the purchaser's title by resale of the same for taxes which were due and owing at the rendition of the judgment, and which might have been included in it. Such sale must be deemed an abandonment of all back taxes. Law v. People, 116 Ill. 244.

See further as to presumption of abandonment, Bradley v. Hintrager, 61 Iowa 337. And as to presumption of payment, McLaughlin v. Kain, 45 Pa. St. 113.

In Louisiana, if the highest bid for which property offered is insufficient to pay the taxes, costs, etc., such bid must be rejected, and the officer may bid in the property for the state. And should he sell for such bid, the sale will be void for all purposes; and a transfer thereunder may be disregarded by any creditor of the owner of the property. Renshaw v. Imboden, 31 La. Ann. 661; Waddill v. Walton, 42 La. Ann. 763.

In Kansas, where there is no intenmade openly, publicly, and fairly, with an opportunity for competition in the bidding.¹ It has been said that "It may seriously be questioned whether the legislature possesses the power to provide for the extinguishment of the owner's title by a secret or private sale."²

Generally speaking, any conduct on the part of the officer which tends to prevent the attendance of bidders, or a fair competition among those who do attend,³ or any arrangement be-tion of selling for a less sum than the taxes, costs, etc., a sale made for one cent less than the sum due will be upheld. Ireland v. George, 41 Kan. 751.

In Shelley v. St. Charles County, 28 Fed. Rep. 875, it was held that where the owner of property, knowing that the taxes levied upon it are less than required by law, allows it to be sold under a judgment for such taxes and buys it in himself, another tax may be levied upon the same land to make up the deficiency.

In Iowa, if the delinquent taxes are not carried forward on the tax books, as required by section 845 of code of that state, a sale for such taxes is invalid. Gardner v. Early, 69 Iowa 42; Barke v. Early, 72 Iowa 273; Hooper v. Sac County Bank, 72 Iowa 280; Buckley v. Early, 72 Iowa 289.

1. See cases cited in succeeding notes to this section. See also supra, this title, Proceedings Before Sale—Notice; Conduct of Sale—Time and Place.

In Indiana, a private sale of land, by the marshal of an incorporated town, for delinquent taxes, assessed by the town, is absolutely unauthorized and void. Stevens v. Williams, 70 Ind. 536.

In Pennsylvania, county treasurers may sell unseated lands only in pursuance of public notice and by open vendue—they have no authority to make private sales. Cuttle v. Brockway, 32 Pa. St. 45.

Under the revenue law of Nebraska, in force December, 1887, where lands had been advertised, and not sold for lack of bidders, the treasurer could sell the same at private sale, and was not required to give notice of, or invite competition at, such sale. Kittle v. Shervin, 11 Neb. 65.

But he had no right to sell at a private sale until after his report of sales of land at public sale was made, and filed in the office of the county clerk. And a tender and demand to purchase at private sale made before the report was made and filed gave no right to the writ of mandamus to compel such sale. State v. Helmer, 10 Neb. 25.

And a deed purporting to have been founded on a private sale, must recite that the land had been previously exposed for sale at a public sale, and not sold for lack of bidders. Ludden v. Hansen, 17 Neb. 354.

2. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), ch. xv., p. 489.

3. Townsend Sav. Bank v. Todd, 47 Conn. 190; Gage v. Graham, 57 Ill. 144.

Tax sales, whenever characterized by fraud or unfairness, should be set aside, or the purchaser be required to hold the title in trust for the owner. A court of equity is the proper tribunal to afford relief. Slater v. Maxwell, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 268; Schenk v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267.

To allow a party to select from the tax list certain lands and become the purchaser thereof for the taxes due, without competition, is contrary to equity, and fraudulent. Brown v. Hogle, 30 Ill. 119.

In Massachusetts, a sale is not invalidated by reason of the fact that the officer announces at the sale that he hopes no one will bid more than the amount of the taxes, interest and charges, because of the difficulty in disposing of the surplus. Southworth v. Edmonds, 152 Mass. 203.

In Arkansas, although the sheriff who is concerned in the purchase of lands at the sale, is liable to a penalty, to be recovered by indictment, yet when the bill simply charges that the sheriff was interested in the purchase of certain lands, without alleging that by a combination between the sheriff and the purchaser it was intended to prevent competition, or that such was the effect, or that any other person did bid, or desired to bid for himself, this does not amount to a charge of fraud. Twombly v. Kimbrough, 24 Ark. 460.

Inadequacy of price, without more, does not constitute a valid objection to tween the officer and the purchaser, whereby a private sale is substituted for the public sale contemplated by the law,¹ operates as a fraud upon the owner and vitiates the sale. And a combination among the purchasers to the effect that they will not bid against each other, or that they will take turns in bidding, will render the sale void.² But an agreement between two or more persons to bid jointly, if not made to prevent competition, the sale. Slater v. Maxwell, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 268.

In Howland v. Pettey, 15 R. I. 603, the complainant prayed to have the sale vacated on the ground that the price was inadequate, because of an understanding among the bidders that he was to receive the land back upon reimbursing the purchaser the price paid and costs. It was held that such an understanding was not prejudicial to the complainant; the land having been offered to him by the purchaser for the price paid, with costs and expenses, which offer he did not accept, though able to do so, and never at any time offering to redeem the land.

1. Where the officer does not sell the lands at public auction, as required by law, but simply allows persons who desire to purchase, to hand him slips of paper with the description of the lands which they wish to purchase written thereon, and the officer then at his leisure enters these lands on his books as though they had been regularly sold at public auction for the taxes delinquent, and issues to the purchaser who handed him the slips of paper, certificates in ordinary form, such a sale is illegal and voidable, if not void. Young v. Rheinecher, 25 Kan. 366; Arn v. Hoppin, 25 Kan. 707.

And the fact that the officer made sales in the foregoing manner, may be proved by witnesses who know the facts, and can testify with regard thereto from their own personal knowledge, although they may not be able to testify with respect to any particular tract of land, but only with regard to the general manner and custom of the officer in making his sales. Young v. Rheinecher, 25 Kan. 366.

In Leavitt v. Watson, 37 Iowa 93, the irregularity in the sale was, that the persons wishing to buy handed in a list of the lands to the officer, on which they were willing to pay the taxes due, and if there was no competition, such bid was received and the land treated as sold without publicly crying the bid, or publicly striking off the land; the sale was upheld. This decision was followed in Slocum v. Slocum, 70 Iowa 259. But in Butler v. Delano, 42 Iowa 350, it was said, "that case goes to the very verge in sustaining a tax title, but not perhaps beyond what the law creating presumptions in favor of the validity of tax sales requires." Here the officer announced that the sale would be adjourned from day to day, and posted a notice to that effect, but instead of resuming the sale and adjourning it upon the following day, or any day thereafter, he made no further offer of the lands until the agent of the purchaser handed him a list of tracts belonging to certain delinquents and offering in behalf of the person whose name was placed opposite each tract, to take it for the taxes due and the officer, receiving no better offer, struck off the entire list. It was held that this did not constitute a public sale within the meaning of the statute, and should be set aside for irregularity. Followed in Trusdell v. Green, 57 Iowa 215; Thompson v. Ware, 43 Iowa 455; Miller v. Corbin, 46 Iowa 150; Chandler v. Keeler, 46 Iowa 596. See also Burdick v. Bingham, 38 Minn. 482.

In Dodge v. Emmons, 34 Kan. 732, at a regular tax sale the officer publicly offered certain lots for sale, and none of the persons present bidding thereon, he publicly struck them off and entered them as sold to A., who had, prior to that time, given him money with the instruction that where a parcel was offered and no one else offered to buy, it should be struck off to him. The officer acted in good faith, intending no injury or fraud to anyone concerned. It was held that while the sale was not in the manner prescribed by statute, it was a sale in fact, and that the action of the officer was such as may be cured by the lapse of time.

2. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Yarger, 12 Fed. Rep. 487; Kerwer v. Allen, 31 Iowa 578; Johns v. Thomas, 47 Iowa 441; Easton v. Mawkinney, 37 Iowa 601; Frank v. Arnold, 73 Iowa 370.

but for the purpose of protecting their own interest, is not fraudulent.¹ And the mere fact that one acts as the agent of two purchasers or that two agents act for one purchaser,² or that both principal and agent are present and bid,³ does not per se constitute a fraudulent and illegal combination. An illegal combination is not to be implied from the fact that there is no competition among the parties present.⁴ The fraud on the part of the purchaser at the sale will not defeat the title of a subsequent purchaser for value, and without notice of the fraud.⁵ And it has been held that the purchaser at the sale will not be affected by the fraud of others, to which he is not a party, and of which he was ignorant.⁶

(6) Who May Purchase.—(See TAX TITLES, vol. 25, p. 674.)

(7) Terms of Sale.—The sale must be for cash, unless credit is expressly authorized to be given.⁷ But where there is no stipu-

Misrepresentation by Purchaser to Prevent Competition.—Where the purchaser prevented competition by representing that it was useless to purchase, as the owner would defeat the sale by redemption, and thereby he was enabled to buy for a trifling amount, the sale was adjudged void. Slater v. Maxwell, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 268.

One who induces others to refrain from bidding at the sale by representing that he desires to buy in the land for the defendant in the tax suit, who was his neighbor, and who so purchases at such sale, will be treated as the trustee for the defendant, or the latter may have the sale set aside. Merrett v. Poulter, 96 Mo. 237.

1. Morrison v. Bank of Commerce, 81 Ind. 335. See also Hunt v. Elliott, 80 Ind. 245; 41 Am. Dec. 794; Phippen v. Stickney, 3 Met. (Mass.) 384; National Bank v. Sprague, 20 N. J. Eq. 159.

And a combination to prevent competition is not to be implied from the mere fact of a joint purchase by two persons. Kerr v. Kipp, 37 Minn. 25.

But an agreement among several that they will advance funds and one shall buy, so as to prevent competition, and afterwards divide the land purchased, is fraudulent, and equity will relieve against the purchase. Dudley v. Little, 2 Ohio 504; 15 Am. Dec. 575.

2. Pearson v. Robinson, 44 Iowa 413.

3. Jury v. Day, 54 Iowa 573.

4. Davis v. Harrington, 35 Kan. 196; Beeson v. Johns, 59 Iowa 166. In this latter case, the court uses the following language: "There were three bidders at the tax sale and they did not bid against each other. And this constitutes the only evidence there was of a fraudulent combination. We feel constrained to say this evidence is not, in our opinion, sufficient. Fraud cannot be presumed, but the contrary presumption must be indulged in, in the absence of evidence. It might well be that each bidder obtained all the land he wanted without the necessity of bidding against any one else."

5. Van Shaack v. Robbins, 36 Iowa 201; Sibley v. Bullis, 40 Iowa 429; Huston v. Markley, 49 Iowa 162; Martin v. Ragsdale, 49 Iowa 589. See also Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa 161.

Holder Under Quit-claim Deed.—But one who holds under a quit-claim deed from the assignee of a tax certificate void for fraudulent combination, is not entitled to protection as an innocent purchaser. Watson v. Phelps, 40 Iowa 482; Light v. West, 42 Iowa 138; Springer v. Bartle, 46 Iowa 688; Merrett v. Poulter, 96 Mo. 237.

6. Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; Martin v. Cole, 38 Iowa 141; Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa 161.

In Boyd v. Wilson, 86 Ga. 379, it was held that a purchaser who is neither implicated in, nor aware of, any fraud contemplated by the selling officer, is not affected thereby.

7. Cushing v. Longfellow, 26 Me. 306; Donnel v. Bellas, 34 Pa. St. 157.

In Kansas, where the land is bid off by the officer for the county, it is not necessary that anything should be paid at the time therefor. McCauslin v. McGuire, 14 Kan. 234.

In North Carolina, the purchaser will get no title when he has not observed the mandate of the statute, to pay the amount of the taxes immediately, take a receipt from the sheriff, and have the same registered. Hays v. Hunt, 85 N. Car. 303.

In Indiana, where the officer accepts in payment for the lands sold a "ditch certificate," and is subsequently sued under § 6465, R. St., of that state, which renders him liable to the holder of the certificate of sale, when the taxes for which the lands are sold have been previously paid, he is not estopped from showing that the certificate was not a cash payment and that he had no authority to receive the same. And further, in such a case, the purchaser is bound to know that the officer's act was unauthorized, and a subsequent purchaser of the certificate of sale occupies no better position than the original purchaser. Baldwin v. Shill, 3 Ind. App. 391.

Pennsylvania — Surplus Bond. — In Pennsylvania, by statute, if there is a surplus above taxes and costs, the officer is authorized and required to take a bond for this from the purchaser. Donnel v. Bellas, 34 Pa. St. 157.

Generally speaking, the bond is indispensable to the validity of the sale. Cuttle v. Brockway, 24 Pa. St. 145.

And payment of the whole amount of the purchase-money cannot be taken as a substitute for the bond. Connelly v. Nedrow, 6 Watts (Pa.) 451; but it seems that where the cost of giving the bond would exceed the surplus, it need not be given. Devinney v. Reynolds, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 328.

And where the officer charges too much costs, and thus uses the whole amount of the purchase-money to pay the taxes and costs, whereas upon a correct calculation there would have been a surplus, for which it would have been necessary for the purchaser to give bond, his not having done so under the circumstances will not affect his title. Gibson v. Robbins, 9 Watts (Pa.) 156.

If a bond was given, although for an amount which did not exactly correspond with the actual surplus, it will be attributed to the mistake of the officer, and will not affect the title. Frick v. Sterrett, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 269.

And in Turner v. Waterson, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 171, it is held that the recital in the deed of the amount for which the land was sold, is not conclusive evidence of the fact. But the purchaser may show by the sale book, and by parol evidence, that it brought a different sum, and that the bond given by him corresponded with the actual amount produced by the sale.

In Sutton v. Nelson, 10 S. & R. (Pa.) 238, it was held that if the purchaser neglected to file the bond within two years after the sale, he acquired no title.

In later cases, however, it has been held that the word "file" was used in the case just mentioned carelessly for the word "deliver," on a supposition that the one would follow the other as a matter of course. If, then, the purchaser has performed his part by giving the bond, the omission of the officer to file it will not vitiate the title. White v. Willard, 1 Watts (Pa.) 42; McDonald v. Maus, 8 Watts (Pa.) 364; Burns v. Lyon, 4 Watts (Pa.) 363; Dreisbach v. Berger, 6 W. & S. (Pa.) 564.

Failure to give the bond on the purchase of unseated lands, and paying the whole purchase price to the officer, are irregularities which are cured by the limitation in the Pennsylvania Act of April 3d, 1804. Rogers v. Johnson, 67 Pa. St. 43.

The receipt of the officer for the bond is competent evidence that the bond was given. Fager v. Campbell, 5 Watts (Pa.) 287; White v. Willard, 1 Watts (Pa.) 42; Dreisbach v. Berger, 6 W. & S. (Pa.) 564. And as it thus becomes prima facie evidence, it must, in the absence of rebutting proof, like all prima facie evidence, be deemed conclusive. Robinson v. Williams, 6 Watts (Pa.) 281.

The same is true of a recital in the officer's deed, that a bond was given. Devinney v. Reynolds, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 328.

But proof is not admissible by the oath of the officer that the bond had been given and filed in the proper office, without preliminary evidence of a search for the bond and its loss. Dreisbach v. Berger, 6 W. & S. (Pa.) 564.

Where the deed contains a receipt for the cost of a bond, it will be presumed, after a lapse of nearly thirty years, during which time the purchaser has paid the taxes, that the bond was given as required. Lackawanna Iron, etc., Co. v. Fales, 55 Pa. St. 90. See also Huzzard v. Trego, 35 Pa. St. 9.

But in ejectment for the land, where the officer's deed recited the payment of the purchase-money in full, a receipt for which was appended to it, but did not recite a surplus bond, it was held that no presumption that a lation for credit before the sale, it seems the fact that the purchase price was not promptly paid,¹ or that the officer received the promissory note of the purchaser for part of the purchase-money, will not invalidate the sale.² Where the law requires the sale to be made to the "highest bidder," this method must be pursued and the officer may not substitute another person therefor.³ By the "highest bidder" in these statutes is ordinarily meant the one who will pay the taxes and the incidental expenses, for the least quantity of the land.⁴

e. PROCEEDINGS AFTER SALE—(1) Report and Record.—The statutes provide for a report by the officer of his proceedings in the tax sale. The return usually is required to recite the fact of notice of sale, the time of sale, the quantity of land, or the estate therein sold, the name of the purchaser, and the amount of the bid. These requirements, as well as that in regard to the time in which the return is to be made, are, as a general rule, mandatory.⁵ If the officer omit to append to his return the affidavit prescribed, or if he omit from the affidavit a material or substantial portion bond was given would arise either from lapse of time, the payment of taxes, or the duty of the officer to see that a bond was given, as against the evidence in the deed that the whole bid was paid in money, and that, therefore, no bond for the surplus was given. Alexander v. Bush, 46 Pa. St. 62. As to the contents of the bond, see Bartholemew v. Leech, 7 Watts (Pa.) 472.

1. Anderson v. Ryder, 46 Cal. 135; Mania v. Elliott, 51 Cal. 8.

2. Longfellow v. Quimby, 29 Me. 196. In this case the sale was on the usual terms for cash, and there was no understanding that the officer should not call on the purchaser for the money until it was wanted. After the sale, the purchaser paid a part of the consideration and gave his note for the balance; the officer having no occasion for the money and considering the note as good as the common currency of the country. The court said that this was unlike the case where a stipulation is made before the sale that credit is to be given to the purchaser. Here the officer, as such, was accountable for the whole sum for which the land was sold, and the taking of the note for a part of the purchase-money was a matter between the plaintiff and himself in his private character.

3. Keene v. Houghton, 19 Me. 368; Bean v. Thompson, 19 N. H. 290; 49 Am. Dec. 154; Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182.

Where the record of the sale shows that its terms were that the highest bidder shall be the purchaser, and then shows that M. was the purchaser, this is evidence that M. was the highest bidder. Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420.

4. Lovejoy v. Lunt, 48 Me. 378.

5. In Maine, the sale is invalid if the collector's return does not show that he gave the required notice of the time and place of sale, or, if when the whole tract is sold, it does not state that this course was necessary to pay the taxes due. Lovejoy v. Lunt, 48 Me. 377.

A failure of the officer to state in his report the estate in the lands sold by him, when required, renders the sale absolutely void, although in all other respects regular and valid. Braxton v. Rich, 47 Fed. Rep. 178; Jones v. Dils, 18 W. Va. 759.

Section 175, Rev. Stat., District of Columbia, requiring the collector to report the sale to the recorder of deeds, is not superseded by the act of the legislative assembly of the District of Columbia, Aug. 23d, 1871; and the District is estopped from enforcing a sale of which there has been no report to the recorder, as against one who afterwards purchased the land for the full value thereof, and without notice of the sale. King v. District of Columbia, McArthur & Mackey (D. C.) 36.

The Missouri Revenue Act of 1847 requires the officer after the sale to return the certified list furnished by the register with a note to each tract or lot, showing the disposition made of it; if sold, to whom, and the amount bid, etc. Merely writing a name opposite the tract is no compliance with the requirement, and does not afford the information required by the law, nor fulfill its purpose. Donohoe v. Hartless, 33 Mo. 335.

In North Carolina, if the sheriff fails to return the land sold according to the requirements of the Revised Code, ch. 19, § 91, the sale is imperfect and may not be perfected by his afterwards doing the act. Doe v. Allen, 67 N. Car. 346.

In New Hampshire, a copy of the sale must be lodged with the town clerk within ten days after the sale, but the account of the sale need not be made by the collector himself. It is sufficient if he leaves with the proper officer a copy as stated by his clerk, if such copy be attested by himself. Cardigan v. Page, 6 N. H. 182.

A failure of the sheriff to return a list of the land sold within ten days, as prescribed by the West Virginia Act, ch. 31, § 31, and a failure of the recorder to note the time of filing such list as required by the same statute, render the sale invalid. De Forest v. Thompson, 40 Fed. Rep. 375.

Section 59 of the Nebraska revenue law does not require the treasurer to file his return of lands sold in the clerk's office of his county until the amount bid therefor has been collected and paid. Richardson County v. Miles, 7 Neb. 118.

The effect of the Michigan Comp. Laws of 1871, § 1129, is that the sale shall not be void because a return cannot be found in the proper office, unless it is shown that the return never existed. Upton v. Kennedy, 36 Mich. 215.

In Rhode Island, the collector's return is not invalidated by an omission to state the fact of notice or the amount of the bid, provided the claimant under the deed can in any way prove a compliance with the statute in these particulars. Thurston v. Miller, 10 R. I. 358.

In Mississippi, the failure of the officer to make and file with the clerk of the chancery court separate lists of the land sold on or before the first Monday of April following the sale, as directed by section 40 of the Revenue Act of 1878 of that state, does not affect the title of the purchaser at the sale, the purchaser being protected by § 8, art. 12, of the constitution of that state, providing that "the courts shall apply the same liberal principles in favor of such titles as in sales by execution." Wolfe v. Murphy, 60 Miss. 1.

But it was otherwise before the adoption of this constitutional provision. Hopkins v. Sandidge, 31 Miss. 668.

In Tennessee, a failure of the officer to make a return of the order of sale in due time as required by the statute, will not affect the rights of the purchaser. Brien v. O'Shaughnessy, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 724.

New Jersey Stat. 1879 (Laws 340), amended March 12, 1880 (Supp. Revision 993, § 67), in regard to sales of land, does not require that the return shall show the time of sale or an adjournment. These matters may be supplied by proof aliunde. Nor are copies of the certificates of sale or adjournment, with an affidavit that the copies are true, required to be annexed to the return. A copy of the notice of the sale, however, is necessary. State v. Landis Tp., 50 N. J. L. 374.

In New Hampshire, the omission of the officer to lodge, within the ten days required, with the town clerk, the newspapers containing the advertisements of the sale, will not avoid the sale, the statute in this regard being deemed directory merely. Smith v. Messer, 17 N. H. 420. See also Cahoon v. Co., 52 N. H. 518. And where the original papers relating to the sale filed in the clerk's office are destroyed by fire, their contents may be established by any secondary evidence, where the case from its nature does not disclose the existence of other and better evidence, and it is not necessary in such a case that the record should be made up anew under the direction of the court, and copies only, used. Such records are not proper records of the court, but are merely deposited in the clerk's office. Wells v. Jackson Iron, etc., Co., 47 N. H. 235. Parol evidence that the collector made a return of his proceedings to the clerk's office ten days after the sale, as required by ch. 40, § 15 of Revised Statutes of Rhode Island, is admissible. Thurston v. Miller, 10 R. I. 358.

Mr. Cooley says: "The making of this report is important to the landowner if his right to redeem is to depend upon or to be ascertained by it, and then the failure to make it will be fatal. . . . But where the case is such that a report is of no impor-thereof, there is ground for setting aside the sale and restraining the execution of a deed in pursuance thereof.¹ The provisions that the officer's return shall be recorded and filed are also imperative.²

(2) Confirmation.—In some of the states, the sale must be reported to, and confirmed by, the court. Judicial confirmation of the sale, when required by law, is essential to a valid tax title.³ No one is to be heard to oppose the confirmation who is not tance to the landowner, he would probably not be heard to complain of a failure to make a return or of errors or imperfections in it." Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), ch. xv., p. 513.

As to amending the return, see French v. Edwards, 5 Sawyer (U. S.) 266; Jaquith v. Putney, 48 N. H. 138; Taft v. Barrett, 58 N. H. 447; Morrison v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 96 Mo. 602.

For further illustrations of these principles, see Beale v. Brown, 6 Mackey (D. C.) 574; Pinkham v. Morang, 40 Me. 587; Shimmin v. Inman, 26 Me. 228; Orr v. Wiley, 19 W. Va. 150; Green v. Craft, 28 Miss. 70; Ives v. Lynn, 7 Conn. 505; Sumner v. Sherman, 13 Vt. 609; Lane v. James, 25 Vt. 482; Giddings v. Smith, 15 Vt. 357; Judevine v. Jackson, 18 Vt. 470; Richardson v. Dorr, 5 Vt. 9; Culver v. Hayden, 1 Vt. 359; Coit v. Wells, 2 Vt. 318; Spear v. Ditty, 9 Vt. 282; Isaacs v. Shattuck, 12 Vt. 668; Carpen-ter v. Sawyer, 17 Vt. 121.

Failure to Sign Return.—In Vermont, the statute requires that the return of the proceedings of the collector shall be signed by him. Where the record showed a return of the sale, then a minute of the adjournment of the vendue, and then a minute that, it being found at the time to which the vendue was adjourned that all the land was sold and no mistakes made, the vendue was dissolved, and the collector signed the minutes of adjournment and dissolution only, it was held that this could not be deemed a signing of the anterior proceedings, and that the defect was fatal. Taylor v. French, 19 Vt. 49.

1. Jackson v. Kittle, 34 W. Va. 207. In this case the statute required the sheriff's affidavit to the list to be in this form: "I am not now, nor have I at any time been, directly or indirectly interested in the purchase of said real estate," etc. In the affidavit objected to the words italicized in the prescribed affidavit were omitted, and it was held to be neither in form nor in substance the affidavit required by law. To same effect, see Hays v. Heatherly, 36 W. Va. 613.

2. New York Laws 1874, ch. 610, as amended by New York Laws 1880, ch. 506, providing that within thirty days after the sale the supervisors by whom the sale is made shall file a duplicate certificate in the office of the treasurer, is imperative, and a failure to file the certificate within that time invalidates the sale. Dykman, J., dissenting. Tilden v. Duden (Supreme Ct.), 1 N. Y. Supp. 292.

In West Virginia, it is the official duty of the recorder to note in his office the day on which the sheriff returned thereto his list of sales of land and the certificate of the oath attached thereto. If he fails to make such note so that his office does not show when such list was returned by the sheriff, this omission is such a fact appearing upon the face of the proceedings of record in the office of the recorder as renders invalid any deed he may make to a purchaser of the land sold for such taxes. Barton v. Gilchrist, 19 W. Va. 223; Simpson v. Edmiston, 23 W. Va. 675; McCallister v. Cottrille, 24 W. Va. 173.

In Vermont, the collector of a particular land tax must cause his return of his proceedings to be recorded in the office of the town clerk within thirty days after the sale, whether the vendue was dissolved on that day or not. Taylor v. French, 19 Vt. 49.

In New Hampshire, if the return of the officer of his proceedings in making the sale, is put upon file in the clerk's office, it is not necessary that it should be copied into the record. Gibson v. Bailey, 9 N. H. 168.

3. Boon v. Simmons, 88 Va. 259.

Where, at a sale under the Arkansas "Overdue Tax Act" of March 12th, 1881, lands are stricken off to the state by the commissioner, the state is merely a preferred bidder, and no title passes, adversely interested.¹ The decree should describe the sale accurately, so as to leave no room for doubt that the sale in question was before the court, and by it acted upon.² Where a decree is made by a court not legally constituted, but subsequently a deed is executed in pursuance of the sale by order of the proper court, and an order for possession entered, this is tantamount to a confirmation, and validates the title.³ The court will refuse to confirm the sale, if it is shown that the purchaser was guilty of fraud.⁴

(3) Certificate.—As a rule the statutes make a proper certificate of sale a part of, and essential to, the sale.⁵ It is usually required until the sale is confirmed by the court. Neal v. Andrews, 53 Ark. 445.

Under ch. 384, § 63, Maryland Act 1872, providing that the court shall, if the proceedings appear to be regular, etc., order notice to be given to all parties by advertisement, to show cause why said sale shall not be ratified and confirmed, and if no cause be shown against the ratification, the sale shall be ratified and confirmed; but if good cause, in the judgment of said court, be shown in the premises, said sale shall be set aside, the judge may set aside such sale without said notice by advertisement, if he finds upon the preliminary examination that the proceedings are not regular and in conformity with law. Matter of Tax Sale of Lot No. 172, 42 Md. 196.

This order to appear, etc., is not final and conclusive; irregularities upon the face of the proceedings in relation to the sale are open to examination at the final hearing for ratification. Prince George's County v. Clarke, 36 Md. 206.

In Arkansas, it is held that all inquiry as to the validity of the tax title is cut off by a decree confirming the sale under which the title was acquired. Boehm v. Botsford, 52 Ark. 400. See also Worthen v. Ratcliffe, 42 Ark. 330.

But in Maryland, where the statute confers upon the courts designated a special and limited jurisdiction, although the sale may be confirmed by the court, the order of confirmation operates only to relieve the purchaser of the onus of proof, and to cast the onus of showing the illegality of the proceeding, upon the party resisting the sale. The effect, therefore, of the order of ratification is only prima facie in support of the sale, not conclusive; the sale under the order of confirmation affording evidence of a good title until successfully assailed by evidence showing illegality in the proceedings upon which it is founded.

Guisebert v. Etchison, 51 Md. 478; Steuert v. Meyer, 54 Md. 454; Cooper v. Holmes, 71 Md. 20. Until such proof is offered by the assailing party, the sale, if ratified and confirmed, stands good and effective by operation of the statute; but where it is affirmatively shown that no legal or sufficient notice was given of the time and place of sale, the prima facie effect of the order of ratification is overcome, and the whole proceeding is thereby rendered null and without effect. Steuert v. Meyer, 54 Md. 454.

The loss of such order, if properly proved, will authorize the admission of secondary evidence of its contents. And, although the docket entries show that an order of ratification was filed, it can only be determined that it was such an order, when its contents are made to appear. Cooper v. Holmes, 71 Md. 21.

1. Black v. Percifield, 1 Ark. 472.

2. Northrup v. Devore, 11 Ohio 359. In this case the sale was made on the 10th day of November, and the order of confirmation described a sale made on the 10th, 11th, and 12th days of December. The court held that the order afforded no evidence that the sale of November was ever acted upon by the court, and, consequently, it passed no title.

3. Miller v. Reynolds (Ark. 1890), 13 S. W. Rep. 597.

4. Hunt v. McFadgen, 20 Ark. 277. In this case, the purchaser bid off a certain tract of land for the taxes due, and refused to pay the same, whereby the officer was compelled to reoffer the land, and the same party bid off a larger quantity of the same tract for the same taxes. This was considered a fraud upon the owner, and the court refused to sanction and confirm the sale.

5. The act of Congress, 1863, proto recite the fact of sale, the name of the purchaser, a description of the property, and the time when the purchaser will be entitled to a conveyance.¹ The certificate must be executed at the time of the sale, or at least within such time thereafter as may be reviding for the levy and collection of a direct tax, contemplates a certificate in cases where the United States was the purchaser as fully as where the purchase was made by another. Cooley v. O'Connor, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 391; De Treville v. Smalls, 98 U. S. 517. And the certificate is valid, though signed by only two of the three commissioners. Cooley v. O'Connor, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 391; Billings v. Starke, 15 Fla. 297; Hill v. Vanderpool, 15 Fla. 128. A certificate under the Ohio Act of 1804, signed by the sheriff as collector and not as sheriff, is valid. Sheldon v. Coates, 10 Ohio 278.

In Taylor's Sts., Wisconsin, § 171, ch. 22, p. 449, prescribing a form for the certificate, the words at the end, "according to the facts," are no part of the form, but simply a direction to the officer as to the manner of filling out the certificate. Manseau v. Edwards, 53 Wis. 457.

Certificate as Evidence.—Missouri Rev. Sts., 1879, § 6836, making the certificate prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited, is not unconstitutional as impairing the right of trial by jury. State v. Van Every, 75 Mo. 530.

In California, the certificate is not evidence of any matters not therein recited, nor of any matter necessarily preceding its valid existence. Hall v. Theisen, 61 Cal. 524.

And in New York, the certificate is only presumptive evidence of the facts required by the statute. Overing v. Foote, 43 N. Y. 290.

The certificate which, by the act of Congress, 1863, the board of tax commissioners is required to give to purchasers, is prima facie evidence, not merely of the regularity of the sale, but also of its validity, and of the title of the purchaser. DeTreville v. Smalls, 98 U. S. 517; Keely v. Sanders, 99 U. S. 441; Sherry v. McKinley, 99 U. S. 496.

And under the Nebraska Rev. Law of 1869, the certificate is presumptive evidence of the regularity of all prior proceedings, including the assessment, equalization, levy, advertisement and sale, and payment of the purchase price. Bryant v. Estabrook, 16 Neb. 217.

In Iowa, the certificate is admissible to establish the amount of taxes due upon the lands covered thereby, for the year for which the sale was made. Lee v. Breezly, 54 Iowa 660. And it is competent evidence to show the manner of sale, etc., when offered by either party; but where there is a difference between the certificate and the record of sale, the former must yield to the latter. McCready v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 356; 4 Am. Rep. 214; Henderson v. Oliver, 32 Iowa 512; Clark v. Thompson, 37 Iowa 536. It is otherwise in Minnesota. McQuode v. Jaffray, 47 Minn. 326.

The fact that two certificates are issued by the auditor, one reciting that he had sold a single tract for a named sum, and the other that at the same sale he had sold to the same party six separate parcels, including the one named in the first certificate, for a certain other and larger sum, will not destroy the effect of the first certificate as prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein. Bennett v. Blatz, 44 Minn. 56.

And the certificate has the prima facie effect given it by statute, even where, on account of its loss or destruction, its contents are proved by parol. Mitchell v. McFarland, 47 Minn. 535.

The certificate cannot be used to prove the jurisdiction of the officer making the sale. Smith v. Ryan, 88 Ky. 636.

Where the certificate fails to recite any matter which under the law is a matter of substance, it is invalid as a statutory certificate of sale and a conveyance, and is incompetent evidence for any purpose in the case. Farnham v. Jones, 32 Minn. 7; Gilfillan v. Hobart, 35 Minn. 185; Vanderlinde v. Canfield, 40 Minn. 541.

Tennessee Act of 1844, ch. 92, § 1, giving effect to a sheriff's deed, does not operate to give any special force to a certificate of sale; such certificate must be accompanied by proof of all the requirements to constitute a valid sale. Quinby v. North American Coal, etc., Co., 2 Heisk. (Tenn.) 596.

1. Description.—Lyon County v. Goddard, 22 Kan. 389; Murphy v. Hall, 68 Wis. 202; Reinhart v. Oconto

sonably necessary for the purpose, and if not executed until after many years, it is of no effect.¹ The certificate does not pass title to the land, but is simply evidence that the holder has the right to acquire a title by deed, or to receive the money necessary to effect redemption.² The owner of a valid certificate, to whom a deed fatally defective in form has been issued, and who has never been in actual possession of the land, may compel the execution of a proper deed by mandamus.³ It is essential to the validity of a certificate executed by an officer of another state that it be shown that the person signing it is the officer authorized by the laws of that state to execute it, and that his signature thereto is genuine.⁴ Under some of the statutes the certificate is required to be recorded; where no time is fixed for this act, it must be done within a reasonable time.⁵ The certificate is not a negotiable instrument, and the owner's interest in the land will not pass by a mere delivery of the certificate.⁶ In general, the statutes give the purchaser the right to assign his certificate,⁷ and an assignment in due form vests in the assignee all the right and title

County, 69 Wis. 352; Smith v. Blackiston, 82 Iowa 240; Quinby v. North American Coal, etc., Co., 2 Heisk. (Tenn.) 596.

1. Time of Execution.—Stewart v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 36 Minn. 355; Gilfillan v. Chatterton, 37 Minn. 11; 5 Am. St. Rep. 810; Kipp v. Hill, 40 Minn. 188.

2. Interest and Rights Carried by the Certificate.—Flemister v. Flemister, 83 Ga. 79. The certificate does not convey a legal title, but it is evidence of an equitable title, and enables the purchaser to call in the legal title. Rice v. White, 8 Ohio 216; Dolph v. Barney, 5 Oregon 191.

The certificate given under the 72d section of the Alabama Rev. Law of 1867, does not convey such title as will enable the purchaser to maintain ejectment, within two years after the sale, against the owner remaining in possession, Hibbard v. Brown, 51 Ala. 469; or the latter's tenant, or to recover the rents accruing. Costley v. Allen, 56 Ala. 198.

In Iowa, the holder of the certificate has a lien on the property, and may maintain an action to enjoin the removal of buildings therefrom; the lien dates only from the judgment, and is subject to other liens attaching prior to its rendition. Phillips v. Myers, 55 Iowa 265.

Under a certificate of sale of island lands by United States tax commissioners, the vacant marshes surrounding the island being the property of the state, and, therefore, not taxable under the act of Congress, did not pass, and evidence may be introduced to establish the ownership of the state. State v. Pinckney, 22 S. Car. 484.

3. State v. Winn, 19 Wis. 304.

4. Ward v. Carson River Wood Co., 13 Nev. 44.

5. Reeds v. Morton, 9 Mo. 878.

6. Not Negotiable Instrument.—Horn v. Garry, 49 Wis. 464. See also White v. Brooklyn, 122 N. Y. 53.

7. The mere writing of his name by the purchaser on the back of the certificate is not an indorsement within the Comp. Laws of New Mexico, section 2885, providing that the certificate "shall be assignable by indorsement;" the terms of the assignment should be written upon the instrument, as well as the name of the assignor. And one to whom a certificate is delivered by the purchaser with his name indorsed thereon, has no authority by reason of such delivery to write a formal assignment over the signature. Territory v. Perea (N. Mex. 1892), 30 Pac. Rep. 928.

But under section 894 of the Iowa Code, providing that notice to redeem from the sale shall be given by "the lawful holder of the certificate," when the purchaser indorses the certificate in blank and delivers it to another person with the intent to transfer the property in it, such person is the lawful holder, and it is immaterial that the assignment has not been recorded in the office of the county treasurer under section 888 of the code. Swan v. Whaley, 75 Iowa 623.

And under § 54, ch. 22, Wisconsin Laws of 1859, a certificate might be transferred by delivery with an assignment in blank. Hyde v. Kenosha County, 43 Wis. 129.

Under a statute providing that the county clerk or treasurer may assign the certificates "by writing his name in blank on the back thereof . . . with his official character added," they may be assigned by the officer stamping his name and official character upon them with intent to assign. Dreutzer v. Smith, 56 Wis. 292; or by an assignment written upon the face of the certificate. Potts v. Cooley, 56 Wis. 45.

In Wisconsin, one to whom the certificate has been assigned by the purchaser, can transfer the same only "by a written assignment indorsed upon or attached to the same." Jackson v. Jacksonport, 56 Wis. 310. State v. Winn, 19 Wis. 304; Horn v. Garry, 49 Wis. 464; Smith v. Todd, 55 Wis. 459.

Wisconsin Laws of 1864, ch. 267, prohibiting the county treasurer or his deputy from purchasing a certificate held by the county, does not prohibit the treasurer or his deputy from purchasing a certificate from any other party than the county, and having a deed issued thereon to him. Coleman v. Hart, 37 Wis. 180.

Certificate to One Person.—Deed to Another.—Where the certificate is issued to one person and the deed to another, there must be some evidence of an assignment of the certificate by the original purchaser; a memorandum at the foot of the deed below the signatures of the clerk and witnesses, with no intelligible indication that it was a part of the deed, is not evidence of the assignment. Florida Sav. Bank v. Brittain, 20 Fla. 507.

Assignment or Redemption.—Evidence to show.—In Woodman v. Clapp, 21 Wis. 350, the certificate on which a deed was based bore this indorsement by the officer: "Received of J. C. $3.65 in full for the tax, interest and costs on the within certificate." It was further indorsed in blank by J. C. It was held that parol evidence was competent to show whether the money was received in redemption of the lands, or as a consideration for an assignment of the certificate.

Fraud.—Where fraud in the sale has been established, and the assignment is also alleged to have been fraudulent, the assignee must show affirmatively that he is a bona fide purchaser for value. Light v. West, 42 Iowa 138. And where the assignor denies that the assignment was for value, and contends that it was for another purpose than to transfer the title, he must establish it. Bird v. Jones, 37 Ark. 195.

Rights of Assignee of Original Certificate as Against Purchaser of Duplicate.

—The purchaser of a duplicate certificate cannot acquire a title thereunder as against or superior to that of a subsequent assignee of the original certificate, who purchased it and obtained a deed thereon without notice of the issue of the duplicate or of the rights of the holder thereof. Griswold v. Wilson, 36 Iowa 156.

Merger of Certificate in Legal Title.—

Where the legal owner of the land becomes the owner of the certificates covering the same, and afterwards releases to another all his estate, title, interest, and claim, in and to the land, his interest therein by virtue of the certificate, passes with the legal title by the conveyance, and becomes merged in the legal title, so that no valid tax deed may thereafter be issued on the certificate. Bennett v. Keehn, 57 Wis. 582.

Purchase and Assignment of Certificate by Party Bound for the Taxes.—In Bassett v. Welch, 22 Wis. 175, it was held that where the certificate has been purchased and assigned by the party who is bound for the tax, the assignee, to sustain a deed issued thereon, must at least show that he took without knowledge that his assignor was so bound. But whether this would be sufficient, was not determined.

The mere fact, however, that one is in possession of land, does not debar him of the right to purchase from another a certificate of the sale of that land and to obtain a deed thereunder for the purpose of relying upon the same as color of title under the statute. Stubblefield v. Borders, 92 Ill. 279.

Enjoining Assignment.—Equity will not, as a rule, interfere to restrain by injunction the assignment of the certificate where the property is liable to taxation, on the ground of irregularities in the assessment and levy, and the sale, unless the party seeking the relief shall first pay or tender the amount of taxes admitted to be due, or just, or which the court finds upon the evidence ought to be paid. Hageman v. Cloud County, 19 Kan. 394.

acquired by the purchaser in the land, but no more.¹ And the certificate in the hands of an assignee is chargeable with all the infirmities that would affect it in the possession of the original holder.² After assignment, the purchaser may not be reinvested in his ownership by fraudulently procuring the certificate to be redelivered to him, and erasing the assignment, and having a deed made to himself.³ Where the owner buys his own land at an illegal sale, and assigns for a valuable consideration his certificate, he is estopped to deny the title of his assignee, or those claiming under him, on the ground that the sale was void.⁴ Equity will not decree the cancellation of the certificate at the instance of the owner of the land for mere irregularities in the prior proceedings, especially where he makes no offer to pay the amount of taxes justly and equitably due.⁵ Upon the death of the purchaser, the certificate will descend to the heir at law.⁶

XVI. FORFEITURE FOR NONCOMPLIANCE WITH TAX LAWS—(See also TAX TITLES)—1. The Doctrine.—It is provided by statute in some of the states, that lands upon which taxes are, or ought to be, assessed, shall be forfeited to the state in case of the failure or refusal of the owner to comply with specified legal requirements designed to facilitate the collection of the revenue.⁷

Omission to list the land for taxation,⁸ and failure to pay the taxes within the time prescribed by law therefor,⁹ are the causes which have been declared by statute to work a forfeiture; and in some of the states there must have been not only a failure to pay

1. Rights of Assignee.—Smith v. Stephenson, 45 Iowa 645; McCauslin v. McGuire, 14 Kan. 234; Bird v. Jones, 37 Ark. 195; Horn v. Garry, 49 Wis. 464.

2. Infirmities in Certificate.—Watson v. Phelps, 40 Iowa 482; Besore v. Dosh, 43 Iowa 211; Light v. West, 42 Iowa 138; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Yarger, 12 Fed. Rep. 487.

3. Bird v. Jones, 37 Ark. 195.

4. Kinsworthy v. Mitchell, 21 Ark. 145.

5. Craig v. Pollock, 5 Dill. (U. S.) 449; Wood v. Helmer, 10 Neb. 65.

6. Rice v. White, 8 Ohio 216.

7. Martin v. Snowden, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 100; Kinney v. Beverly, 2 Hen. & M. (Va.) 318; Barbour v. Nelson, 1 Litt. (Ky.) 59; Baker v. Kelley, 11 Minn. 480; Morrison v. Larkin, 26 La. Ann. 699; State v. Thompson, 18 S. Car. 538; U. S. v. Repentigny, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 211.

In America, forfeitures were first directed for non-performance of tax laws by the legislature of Virginia, several years before the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, in order to determine the titles to unoccupied lands and to promote their settlement. Martin v. Snowden, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 100.

8. Staats v. Board, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 400; Hale v. Branscum, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 418; Wilde v. Serpell, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 405; Marshall v. McDaniel, 12 Bush (Ky.) 378; Yokum v. Fickey, 37 W. Va. 762.

Listing in Good Faith.—When a taxpayer in good faith has listed the lands as his own, the lands are not forfeited because he has not complied with certain formalities in obtaining title. Lohrs v. Miller, 12 Gratt. (Va.) 452.

9. In Louisiana, when a collector has made out and returned the delinquent list of unpaid taxes, and this has been filed according to law in the office of the auditor of public accounts, the title to the lands vests in the state. §§ 74, 75, Act No. 114, Acts of 1869; Hall v. Hall, 23 La. Ann. 135. As to the later statute, see Gorner v. Anderson, 27 La. Ann. 338; Morrison v. Larkin, 26 La. Ann. 699.

Under the Virginia statute of 1790, providing that a failure to pay taxes should forfeit the land, it was held that it was necessary that the land

the taxes, but the land must have been exposed for sale therefor in the manner prescribed by law, and there must have been a failure to sell for want of bidders.¹ The forfeiture of the whole tract may take place, notwithstanding that a tenant in common has paid the portion of tax chargeable upon his undivided interest.²

The rule generally adopted is that a forfeiture vests in the state the absolute title to the property forfeited;³ and if the state has two distinct titles, a subsequent sale by the state passes both titles.⁴ But in some states the forfeiture is treated as merely vesting the title in the state as security for taxes, and the title of the owner can only be defeated by showing forfeiture and sale by the state.⁵

The forfeiture is to the state, and, where it has once accrued, no possession, adverse to the owner in whose name the land was forfeited, can run against the state;⁶ but the state may direct the forfeiture to inure to the benefit of some third person by whom the taxes are paid, or otherwise, without any new grant.⁷ Provision is usually, if not always, made for the sale by the state or county of the lands which it has acquired by forfeiture,⁸ payment should have been assessed, listed, returned to the auditor of public accounts, and advertised, before the forfeiture occurred. Kinney v. Beverly, 2 Hen. & M. (Va.) 318.

Auditor's Certificate.—In Smith v. Tharp, 17 W. Va. 221, however, the auditor's certificate of delinquency was held only prima facie evidence. And see Woodard v. Sloan, 27 Ohio St. 592.

Indiana.—In Williams v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 36, it was held that there must be proof that the requisites of the law had been complied with before title would vest in the state. See also Barnes v. Doe, 4 Ind. 133.

Description.—Payment of taxes upon land sufficiently described to identify it, will preclude a forfeiture, though the description is not accurate. Kelly v. Salinger, 53 Ark. 114, citing Hershey v. Thompson, 50 Ark. 484.

1. See supra, this title, Tax Sales.

2. Smith v. Tharp, 17 W. Va. 221.

3. Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111; Hall v. Hall, 23 La. Ann. 135. And see Buckley v. Osburn, 8 Ohio 180; Wild v. Serpell, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 405; McClure v. Maitland, 24 W. Va. 561; Yokum v. Fickey, 37 W. Va. 762.

When Forfeiture Is Complete.—Forfeiture is not complete, and the title is not perfected, until all the statutory steps have been complied with. In re Baton Rouge Oil Works, 34 La. Ann.

255. See Flint v. Sawyer, 30 Me. 226; Owens v. Owens, 25 S. Car. 155.

A forfeiture to the state for taxes, but with right of redemption existing, does not extinguish the lien of a mortgage. Annelly v. DeSaussure, 12 S. Car. 488.

4. Smith v. Chapman, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 445.

5. Thevenin v. Slocum, 16 Ohio 519; State v. Herman, 70 Mo. 441; Guittard Tp. v. Marshall County, 4 Kan. 388; Schenk v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 668; Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326.

Property struck off to the county does not thereby become subject to the control of the county commissioners. Morrill v. Douglass, 14 Kan. 307. See also supra, this title, Tax Sales.

6. Staats v. Board, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 400; Hale v. Branscum, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 418.

7. See Thevenin v. Slocum, 16 Ohio 519; Wild v. Serpell, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 405.

Parties who would avail themselves of the provisions of the act in relation to forfeited and delinquent lands, which vests title in actual occupants of land who claim under title derived from grant, must show not only possession, but title, derived from or under grant of the commonwealth, and possession within the grant. Kenna v. Quarrier, 3 W. Va. 210.

8. See Buckley v. Osburn, 8 Ohio of the taxes charged being made out of the proceeds of the sale.¹ A forfeiture declared after due payment of the taxes is void, and the state takes no title to convey to a purchaser.²

2. Constitutionality; Construction of Statutes.—Statutes providing for forfeiture for noncompliance with tax laws are usually held to be constitutional, even where the title is vested in the state without an inquisition of office.³

Sometimes an inquisition of office, or other adjudication to which the owner is a party, is deemed necessary to divest title.⁴ A statute will not be construed, however, to divest title without inquisition of office, except by express terms or necessary implication.⁵

A decree of court upon motion, after publication, adjudging

180; Hannel v. Smith, 15 Ohio 134; Woodward v. Sloan, 27 Ohio St. 592; Miller v. Reynolds (Ark. 1890), 13 S. W. Rep. 597; Bender v. Dungan, 99 Mo. 126; Lombard v. White, 76 Wis. 445; Kinney v. Beverly, 1 Hen. & M. (Va.) 531; Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111; Newby v. Brownlee, 23 Fed. Rep. 320.

Where land forfeited to the state was sold without a compliance with the statutory provisions in regard to such sales, it was held that the sale having resulted in a payment to the state, the former owner or owners were possessed of an equitable title, the purchaser's deed being void. Owens v. Owens, 25 S. Car. 155.

1. See State v. Purcel, 31 Ohio St. 352. Whenever forfeited land has been sold, if sold for more than the taxes due, the surplus should be placed to the credit of the former proprietor. Thevenin v. Slocum, 16 Ohio 519.

In Illinois, where a forfeiture of land to the state has occurred, the back tax and expenses with one year's interest at ten per cent. on the amount of the tax, is to be added to the amount of the current year. People v. Smith, 94 Ill. 226; People v. Gale, 93 Ill. 127; Biggins v. People, 106 Ill. 270; Belleville Nail Co. v. People, 98 Ill. 399.

2. Davis v. Hare, 32 Ark. 387. And see Biscoe v. Coulter, 18 Ark. 423.

Payment by the owner of land of the current taxes thereon, to which have been added back taxes with penalties, interest and costs, will not operate to avoid a forfeiture of the land for such back taxes. Biggins v. People, 106 Ill. 270.

3. Wild v. Serpell, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 405; Smith v. Chapman, 10 Gratt.

(Va.) 469; Martin v. Snowden, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 127; Morrison v. Larkin, 26 La. Ann. 699; Hall v. Hall, 23 La. Ann. 135; Garner v. Anderson, 27 La. Ann. 338; Hodgdon v. Wight, 36 Me. 326; Adams v. Larrabee, 46 Me. 516; Buckley v. Osburn, 8 Ohio 181. And see Hale v. Branscum, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 418; Flanagan v. Grimmet, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 421; Usher v. Pridge, 15 Gratt. (Va.) 190; Yokum v. Fickey, 37 W. Va. 762; U. S. v. Repentigny, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 211; Smith v. Maryland, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 286; Owens v. Owens, 25 S. Car. 155; Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Schenk v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267. But see to the contrary, Griffin v. Nixon, 38 Miss. 424. And see Baker v. Kelley, 11 Minn. 480; St. Anthony Falls Water Power Co. v. Greely, 11 Minn. 326. Upon the ground that it is the taking of property without due process of law, the Mississippi case (Griffin v. Nixon, 38 Miss. 424) is referred to with disapproval in the later case of Martin v. Dix, 52 Miss. 59; 24 Am. Rep. 661.

4. Harlan v. Seaton, 18 B. Mon. (Ky.) 312; Robinson v. Huff, 3 Litt. (Ky.) 38; Barbour v. Nelson, 1 Litt. (Ky.) 60; Marshall v. McDaniel, 12 Bush (Ky.) 378. And see Currier v. Fowler, 5 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 145; Hill v. Lund, 13 Minn. 451. See obiter in Kinney v. Beverly, 2 Hen. & M. (Va.) 318.

5. Blackwell on Tax Titles (5th ed.), § 1037; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 462. And see Fairfax v. Hunter, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 603; Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Schenk v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267; Barbour v. Nelson, 1 Litt. (Ky.) 60; Martin v. Snowden, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 100; Dickerson v. Acosta, 15 Fla. 614.

delinquent lands to be vested in the state, has been held to fulfill the constitutional requirement of "due process of law."¹

The statutes providing for the forfeiture of lands for non-payment of taxes are in derogation of common law and must be construed strictly. Doubtful words and phrases must be interpreted in favor of the owner. All statutory provisions must be strictly observed,² and all formalities necessary to complete the title of the purchaser from the state must be complied with.³

An action to test the validity of a forfeiture may be maintained

1. Dentler v. State, 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 259.

Where the legislature conferred jurisdiction on a court to order the sale of forfeited lands reported as forfeited by the commissioner, the authority of the court extends only to lands actually forfeited, and its decree of sale is not conclusive of the forfeiture; but the owner whose lands have been sold as forfeited, upon such decree may show that the land was not in fact so forfeited. Twigg v. Chevallie, 4 W. Va. 463.

In order to constitute due process of law in proceedings for the collection of taxes, the machinery may be simple and the proceedings summary, but the taxpayer must have an opportunity to comply with the requirements of the law; and the state, not he, must be the actor. Dingey v. Paxton, 60 Miss. 1038.

2. Biscoe v. Coulter, 18 Ark. 423; Davis v. Hare, 32 Ark. 386; Dickerson v. Acosta, 15 Fla. 614; Garrett v. Wiggins, 2 Ill. 335; Scott v. People, 2 Ill. App. 642; Smith v. People, 3 Ill. App. 380; Vetter v. People, 3 Ill. App. 385; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Boller, 7 Ill. App. 625; Williams v. State, 6 Blackf. (Ind.) 36; In re Baton Rouge Oil Works, 34 La. Ann. 255; State v. Labranche, 34 La. Ann. 538; Moulton v. Blaisdell, 24 Me. 283; Flint v. Sawyer, 30 Me. 226; Hill v. Mason, 38 Me. 461; Tolman v. Hobbs, 68 Me. 316; Stearns County v. Smith, 25 Minn. 131; West v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 40 Minn. 189; Bonham v. Weymouth, 39 Minn. 92; Hopkins v. Sandidge, 31 Miss. 676; Mayson v. Banks, 59 Miss. 447; Adams v. Larrabee, 46 Me. 516; State v. Heman, 70 Mo. 441; Register v. Bryan, 2 Hawks (N. Car.) 17; Hannel v. Smith, 15 Ohio 134; Woodward v. Sloan, 27 Ohio St. 592; Magruder v. Esmay, 35 Ohio St. 222; State v. Thompson, 18 S. Car. 538; Owens v. Owens, 25 S. Car. 155; Kinney v. Beverly, 2 Hen. & M. (Va.) 318; Lohrs v. Miller, 12 Gratt. (Va.) 452; Kenna v.

Quarrier, 3 W. Va. 210; Twigg v. Chevallie, 4 W. Va. 463; Schenk v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267; Bennett v. Hunter, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 326; Clarke v. Strickland, 2 Curt. (U. S.) 439; Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 463.

Where it is required that delinquent lands shall be advertised, and the advertisement shall contain a notice that a motion will be made at the next term of court to vest the lands in the state, unless the taxes are paid before that time, a publication without such notice is not sufficient. Dentler v. State, 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 258.

Where lands have been forfeited to the state, as of a particular boundary, the commissioners, or the court under which the commissioners act, in a proceeding for the sale of the land, cannot alter the beginning corner called for by the deed. Smith v. Chapman, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 445.

Thus, where it was provided that a tax collector should return lists of delinquent lands before a certain date, it was held that a return of the lists before that date was an essential prerequisite to a valid forfeiture. Hopkins v. Sandidge, 31 Miss. 668.

Where the state acquires no title to forfeited lands, the forfeiture may be stricken from the books of the auditor of public accounts. Cannon v. Barry, 59 Miss. 289.

In Illinois, it is not important to enquire whether a judgment under which land is forfeited to a state is in every respect in conformity to law, if the land was in point of fact so forfeited. Biggins v. People, 106 Ill. 270.

An intention to deprive a citizen of his freehold will not be inferred from general or ambiguous language which will admit of a different construction. Martin v. Snowden, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 100.

3. See Hannel v. Smith, 15 Ohio 134; Bender v. Dungan, 99 Mo. 126; Kinney v. Beverly; 1 Hen. & M. (Va.) 531; by any person interested therein against the county in which the lands are situated;¹ or, if they have been sold, against the purchaser.²

3. Redemption.—Usually a period of redemption is allowed the proprietor,³ and special provision is sometimes made for infants,⁴ lunatics,⁵ and non-residents.⁶ Sometimes a further period to redeem is given by subsequent statutes.⁷

4. Waiver.—The act on the part of the state which will be deemed a waiver must be such as, carried to its necessary end, would be inconsistent with the recognition of the forfeiture having been made,⁸ as, for example, a legislative authorization of a Mayson v. Banks, 59 Miss. 447; Worthen v. Badgett, 32 Ark. 497; Owens v. Owens, 25 S. Car. 155.

Where the deed from the state to the purchaser alleged forfeiture of the land for different taxes than those for which it was forfeited, it is void. Waddill v. Walton, 42 La. Ann. 763.

1. Willard v. Redwood County, 22 Minn. 61.

In an action to test the validity of a forfeiture, it is not necessary to allege that the forfeited land has not been purchased from the state. Willard v. Redwood County, 22 Minn. 61.

2. See Thevenin v. Slocum, 16 Ohio 532; Barbour v. Nelson, 1 Litt. (Ky.) 60; Robinson v. Huff, 3 Litt. (Ky.) 38; Mayson v. Banks, 59 Miss. 447; Chandler v. Wilson, 77 Me. 76; Tolman v. Hobbs, 68 Me. 316; Ketchum v. Mullinix (Mo. 1887), 4 S. W. Rep. 447.

Jurisdiction of Federal Courts.—The federal courts have jurisdiction of a suit between citizens of different states, to set aside sales of land forfeited to the state for illegality and irregularity, though such sales and deeds were made pursuant to an order of a state court of the county where the lands sold were situated. De Forest v. Thompson, 40 Fed. Rep. 375.

Contest Without Tender of Tax.—Where land is claimed by forfeiture for non-payment of the taxes, the validity of the assessment and subsequent proceedings may be contested without payment or tender of the tax. Williamsburg v. Lord, 51 Me. 599.

3. Blackwell on Tax Titles (5th ed.), § 1028. And see Hall v. Hall, 23 La. Ann. 135; Garner v. Anderson, 27 La. Ann. 338; Morrison v. Larkin, 26 La. Ann. 699. See also infra, this title, Redemption from Tax Sale.

As to what the owner must do to be entitled to redeem in West Virginia, see Yokum v. Fickey, 37 W. Va. 762.

Constitutionality of Redemption Statute.—The West Virginia statute of 1872, which permits lands forfeited to the state for non-payment of taxes to be redeemed within one year from the time of the sale, is constitutional. Braxton v. Rich, 47 Fed. Rep. 178; Wagoner v. Wolf, 28 W. Va. 820.

4. Infants are excepted from the Kentucky statute of Dec. 19, 1801. Marshall v. McDaniel, 12 Bush (Ky.) 378.

Where a forfeiture occurred in the owner's lifetime, but he died before the time for redemption had expired, and his heirs were infants, it was held that they were entitled to the period allowed infants for redemption. Reynolds v. Leiper, 7 Ohio 17.

5. Persons non compos mentis are excepted in Kentucky by the statute of Dec. 19, 1801. Marshall v. McDaniel, 12 Bush (Ky.) 378.

6. See Barbour v. Nelson, 1 Litt. (Ky.) 59; Hill v. Mason, 38 Me. 461.

7. A statute passed several years after a forfeiture has accrued, permitting the land to be redeemed within a limited period, is evidence to show that the state never intended to preclude the proprietor from redeeming. Hodgdon v. Wight, 36 Me. 326; Clarke v. Strickland, 2 Curt. (U. S.) 439.

Where lands have been forfeited from the state for the non-payment of a tax, and a subsequent act of the legislature has extended the time for the payment of such taxes, the title to such lands under a tax sale must be established under the later act. Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111.

8. See Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111; Clarke v. Strickland, 2 Curt. (U. S.) 439.

An act passed subsequently to the time at which the forfeiture had accrued, giving an additional time for redemption, does not release the for-new levy of taxes on the land.¹ A county board, however, has no power to set aside a forfeiture when it has once accrued;² nor can the collector's receipt for unpaid taxes militate against the state's title,³ though the failure upon the part of the state to comply with the conditions of a statute extending the time of redemption may be remedied by legislation.⁴

XVII. REDEMPTION FROM TAX SALE—1. Definition.—To redeem from a tax sale is to free the property sold from the rights of the purchaser under the sale. Unless the sale is valid, redemption is unnecessary.⁵ If the sale is invalid, the land may be recovered without tender of the statutory penalty and costs, even though there are general provisions in the statutes requiring their payment in order to recover land sold for taxes,⁶ provisions of this nature referring only to land held under valid sales.⁷

It is often difficult to distinguish a redemption from a purchase of the tax purchaser's interest. It is principally a question of intention. In general, a payment by the owner or by one acting in his interest, will be construed to be a redemption,—by a stranger, to be a sale.⁸

feiture, unless the owner or proprietor has availed himself of the privilege of redemption. Staats v. Board, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 400; Smith v. Tharp, 17 W. Va. 221; McMillan v. Robbins, 5 Ohio 28.

A state causing land to be listed for taxation to an occupier, does not waive its right to an escheat. Crane v. Reeder, 25 Mich. 303.

Additional time given the owner, in which to redeem, does not operate as a waiver of a forfeiture, unless he actually redeems within the time given. Usher v. Pride, 15 Gratt. (Va.) 199; Staats v. Board, 10 Gratt. (Va.) 400.

1. Clarke v. Strickland, 2 Curt. (U. S.) 439; Hodgdon v. Wight, 36 Me. 326; Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 111.

In State v. Heman, 70 Mo. 441, the circumstance that the forfeiture statute declared that the owner, when redeeming forfeited lands, should pay taxes levied in a special manner after the forfeiture was assumed to have accrued, was said to be an important element in deciding that the state intended merely to give a lien on the land, and not vest an absolute title in the state.

2. Madison County v. Smith, 95 Ill. 328.

3. Smith v. Tharp, 17 W. Va. 221.

Entry on Commissioner's Book After Forfeiture.—A tract of land omitted from the commissioner's book, and thus forfeited to the state under the Virginia Act of Feb. 27th, 1835, is not relieved from forfeiture by its entry on the commissioner's book in the year 1866. Yokum v. Fickey, 37 W. Va. 762.

4. Hodgdon v. Wight, 36 Me. 326.

The state may by statute cure any irregularity for failure to comply with notices, or failure to comply with other provisions under which the sale of forfeited land is made. Hodgdon v. Wight, 36 Me. 326.

5. Morris v. Sioux County, 42 Iowa 416; Gould v. Sullivan (Wis. 1893), 20 L. R. A. 487.

6. Covell v. Young, 11 Neb. 510. A party seeking to set aside a tax sale for irregularities, in equity, must "do equity," but this only requires the tender of the amount paid at the tax sale with the legal rate of interest, not penalties and costs.

Hickman v. Kempner, 35 Ark. 505; Roberts v. Merrill 60 Iowa 166; Wilder v. Cockshutt, 25 Kan. 504; Blanton v. Ludeling, 30 La. Ann. 232; thus where the land is bought by the county clerk, the sale is irregular and the rate of interest will be the legal rate only. Cole v. Moore, 34 Ark. 582.

In ejectment, no tender or payment is necessary. Coe v. Farwell, 24 Kan. 566.

7. Thus, California Pol. Code, § 3803, which provides that land sold for taxes may be recovered on payment of the purchase price and fifty per. cent penalty, does not apply to a valid tax sale. Harper v. Rowe, 53 Cal. 233.

8. Faler v. McRae, 56 Miss. 227; Jenks v. Wright, 61 Pa. St. 410. If one

2. Origin of the Right.—The right of redemption is recognized almost universally, but is unknown to the common law.¹ Sometimes it is secured by constitution.² To avail oneself of the right, the statute regulating it must be followed;³ in the absence of this, equitable considerations will not avail.⁴ The right may be implied as well as expressed;⁵ but once given, expressly or by implication, must be exercised as pointed out by the statute.⁶ The right of redemption is almost always restricted to real property.⁷

A right of redemption may be given by contract between receives and records a deed of another given as security for debt, and enters into possession of the land, and he afterwards purchases at a tax sale, there is a redemption. Miller v. Ziegler, 31 Kan. 417. Whether the transaction is a purchase or a redemption, is a question of fact for the jury. Coxe v. Wolcott, 27 Pa. St. 154. Where a purchaser, upon a claim of right to redeem, conveys or assigns the legal title to the claimant, receiving the amount of the redemption, there is a redemption, and not a purchase. Coxe v. Sartwell, 21 Pa. St. 480.

Where an owner purchases a tax title which he knows to be bad, from the purchaser in possession, there is a redemption, not a purchase, and the owner cannot, under a statute allowing such a right, recover his money from the county on the ground that the tax was invalid. Jones v. Miami County, 30 Kan. 278.

But where the owner pays more than the amount required for redemption, and takes a regular assignment of the tax title, there is a purchase, not a redemption. Arthurs v. King, 95 Pa. St. 167.

If one buys a tax title, falsely representing that he is acting in the interest of the owner, there is a purchase, not a redemption, the one buying being under no agreement with the owner. Culbertson v. Munson, 104 Ind. 451.

The purchase of bids of the state at a tax sale by the owner constitutes a redemption. Gould v. Day, 94 U. S. 405.

Where one supposing himself to be an agent, paid his own money and took an assignment of the certificate of purchase, it was held that a ratification would be presumed, and that the transaction was a redemption, not a purchase. Houston v. Buer, 117 Ill. 324.

1. Boyd v. Holt, 62 Ala. 266; Thompson v. Sherrill, 51 Ark. 453; Gage v. Scales, 100 Ill. 218; Pearson v. Robinson, 44 Iowa 413.

2. As in Illinois, Nebraska, Louisiana and Texas. See Weer v. Hahn, 15 Ill. 298.

3. Keely v. Sanders, 99 U. S. 441.

4. Moore v. Hamlin, 38 Iowa 482; Van Benthuyssen v. Sawyer, 36 N. Y. 150.

Where the owner neglected to redeem, under the belief that the taxes had been paid, it was held that his mistake did not entitle him to relief. Playter v. Cochran, 37 Iowa 258.

Where a party by mistake redeemed the wrong tract, it was held that this was no defense in a suit of ejectment brought by the purchaser's vendee to recover the land. Hollinger v. Derling, 105 Pa. St. 417.

The fact that the owner is a resident of a state in rebellion, does not extend the time. Finley v. Brown, 22 Iowa 538.

One cannot have the time for redemption extended merely because he tried three times to find in his office the officer to whom payment should, under the law, be made; and having failed in this, left the money with his own agents, telling them that he would return to attend to the matter in person, which plan he was unable to carry out because of sickness. Harrison v. Owens, 57 Iowa 314.

But where sales for taxes of two different years were made on the same day, and the owner, through ignorance of this fact, redeemed from one of the sales only, it was held that he might redeem from the other after the expiration of the statutory period. Shoemaker v. Lacey, 38 Iowa 277.

5. Bonds v. Greer, 56 Miss. 710.

6. Keely v. Sanders, 99 U. S. 446; Craig v. Flanagan, 21 Ark. 319; Pope v. Macon, 23 Ark. 644; Thompson v. Sherrill, 51 Ark. 453. Redemption cannot be had by a bill in equity, the statute not so providing. Mitchell v. Green, 10 Met. (Mass.) 101.

7. Hadley v. Musselman, 104 Ind. 459.

the owner and the tax purchaser, independent of statute.¹

3. Construction of Redemption Statutes.—It may be stated, as a general rule governing the construction of statutes, that statutes conferring the right of redemption are construed liberally in favor of him whose land has been sold for taxes.²

4. The Law Governing the Right.—The law which obtains is that in force at the time of the sale,—not that in force at the time of the assessment.³ It has been held that changes in a law after the sale and before the expiration of the time allowed for redemption are invalid as affecting vested rights; but the rule may be said to be that the right is a special privilege which may be withdrawn or modified at the legislative will, and hence, that a law shortening the time for redemption is valid.⁴ With the purchaser, however, a contract relation exists. Any attempted change which infringes his rights is unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts. Hence, the time for redemption cannot be extended.⁵ Statutory changes, however, which relate merely to the remedy, are valid.⁶ Where land has been forfeited

1. But the owner must see to it that his contract is with the real holder of the tax title. A contract with the holder of record who is not the real party in interest, gives him no rights in the land. Swan v. Whaley, 75 Iowa 623.

2. Dubois v. Hepburn, 10 Pet. (U. S.) 1; Schenck v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267; Corbett v. Nutt, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 674; 10 Wall. (U. S.) 464; Keely v. Sanders, 99 U. S. 441; Boyd v. Holt, 62 Ala. 296; Burton v. Hintrager, 18 Iowa 348; Penn v. Clemans, 19 Iowa 372; Rice v. Nelson, 27 Iowa 148; Fenton v. Way, 40 Iowa 196; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622; Foster v. Bowman, 55 Iowa 237; Winchester v. Cain, 1 Rob. (La.) 421; Alter v. Shepherd, 27 La. Ann. 207; Bonds v. Greer, 56 Miss. 710; Merrill v. Dearing, 32 Minn. 479; State v. Woodbridge, 47 N. J. L. 142; Mastersson v. Beasley, 3 Ohio 301; Rich v. Palmer, 6 Oregon 339; Patterson v. Brindle, 9 Watts (Pa.) 98; Gault's Appeal, 33 Pa. St. 97; Hale v. Penn, 25 Gratt. (Va.) 261; Jones v. Collins, 16 Wis. 594; Karr v. Washburn, 56 Wis. 303.

3. Thompson v. Sherrill, 51 Ark. 953; Negus v. Yancey, 22 Iowa 57; Merrill v. Dearing, 32 Minn. 479.

In Wolfe v. Henderson, 28 Ark. 304, it was held that where an act superseded another act, but provided that the former should be in force as to the collection of taxes levied thereunder, it should also be in force as to the redemption.

The provisions of California Pol. Code, § 3785, as amended in the year 1885, requiring notice of an application for a tax deed, do not apply where the right to the deed had become absolute at the time of the enactment. Rollins v. Wright, 93 Cal. 395.

4. See Negus v. Yancey, 22 Iowa 57; Moody v. Hoskins, 64 Miss. 468; Cargill v. Power, 1 Mich. 369; Robinson v. Howe, 13 Wis. 341, 346; Smith v. Packard, 12 Wis. 371; Butler v. Palmer, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 324. See also Black on Tax Titles, § 175; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 545.

5. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 545; Oullahan v. Sweeney, 79 Cal. 537; Merrill v. Dearing, 32 Minn. 479; Dikeman v. Dikeman, 11 Page (N. Y.) 484; Forqueran v. Donnally, 7 W. Va. 141; Robinson v. Howe, 13 Wis. 341. See also Goenen v. Schroeder, 8 Minn. 387.

Gault's Appeal, 33 Pa. St. 94, construed a local statute extending the time for redemption from sales made for municipal claims. It was held that the statute should be construed liberally in favor of the right of redemption; that it applied to cases of sales made before its passage, where no deeds had been executed to the purchaser, and that, although thus retroactive, it did not violate in such case the obligations of the contract for that there was no contract with the purchaser under a municipal claim until the acknowledgment of the deed.

6. A statute requiring a notice to to the state for the non-payment of a tax, the time for redemption may be extended by the legislature.¹

5. Nature of the Right.—In some states the right to redeem is not an estate, but is a mere right to defeat a title;² in some, the purchaser has no title until the expiration of the time for redemption.³ Rents and profits belong to the tax debtor;⁴ he may assign his right of redemption.⁵

6. Effect of Redemption.—The exercise of the right of redemption creates no new title, but merely cuts off the purchaser's rights and makes the original title absolute.⁶ After redemption, a tax deed to the purchaser effects nothing,⁷ and if the sale is confirmed the confirmation will be set aside.⁸ If the purchaser had another title than the tax title he may assert it, notwithstanding the exercise of the right of redemption.⁹

7. Mode of Redemption.—a. THE ESSENTIAL ACT.—Subject to exceptions created by statute, the act essential to redemption is the payment or tender of the proper amount to the proper person. This act cuts off the right of the purchaser and vests an absolute title in the former owner.¹⁰ Once performed, it makes no differredeem is constitutional, and may apply to sales made before its passage as well as after. Gage v. Stewart, 127 Ill. 207; 11 Am. St. Rep. 116; Oullahan v. Sweeney, 79 Cal. 537 (under the California Pol. Code, § 3785).

The law will be construed, however, if possible, as requiring the notice only in case of sales made after it was passed. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank, 48 Iowa 354; First Nat. Bank v. Beeson, 48 Iowa 711.

1. Hodgdon v. Burleigh, 4 Fed. Rep. 121.

2. Craig v. Flanagan, 21 Ark. 319; Bender v. Bean, 52 Ark. 132.

3. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 542; Douglass v. Dickson, 31 Kan. 310 (overruling Stebbins v. Guthrie, 4 Kan. 353); Spratt v. Price, 18 Fla. 289.

4. Mayo v. Woods, 31 Cal. 269; Jones v. Johnson, 60 Ga. 260. The entry of the purchaser will be a trespass. Shalemiller v. McCarthy, 55 Pa. St. 186.

In Kansas, he will be liable to an action for waste if he commits acts injurious to the title of the owner before he gets his deed. Douglass v. Dickson, 31 Kan. 310.

5. Stout v. Merrill, 35 Iowa 47.

The right is not a purely personal one. If he conveys the land, it passes as an incident and may be enforced by his vendee. Neil v. Rozier, 49 Ark. 551.

In Massachusetts, it cannot be attached in an action at law. Adams v. Mills, 126 Mass. 278.

6. Black on Tax Titles, §§ 174, 179; Blackwell on Tax Titles (5th ed.), vol. 2, §§ 700, 701; Gray v. Coan, 30 Iowa 536; Lake v. Grey, 35 Iowa 44; Phillips v. Zerbe Run, etc., Imp. Co., 25 Pa. St. 56; Cuttle v. Brockway, 32 Pa. St. 45. This is so, whether the redemption was within the allowed time, or made afterwards by consent of the purchaser. Coxe v. Wolcott, 27 Pa. St. 154.

7. Hunt v. Seymour, 76 Iowa 751; Hartman v. Anderson, 48 Iowa 309. If the grantee brings ejectment, the fact of the redemption constitutes a complete defense. Cooper v. Shepardon, 51 Cal. 298.

8. Adair v. Scott, 53 Ark. 480.

9. Terrell v. Grimmell, 20 Iowa 393. The lien of one tax sale is not removed by redeeming from a later one. Gray v. Coan, 40 Iowa 327.

The purchaser, if he holds both titles, may assert the later one after redemption from the former sale. But where the holder of two tax titles required the holders of a mortgage to redeem from the later tax sale, they having no notice of the earlier, it was held that he was estopped to assert the earlier title against them. Chard v. Holt (Supreme Ct.), 18 N. Y. Supp. 405; Cooper v. Bushley, 72 Pa. St. 252.

10. Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374. Where a mortgage creditor who has a right to redeem has tendered the redemption money, and it is refused, he ence whether or not it is entered correctly on the record,¹ nor whether, in case payment is made to a public officer, the money ever reaches the tax purchaser, or even whether he has notice that the redemption has been effected.² No notice of an intention to redeem is necessary.³ But there must be an actual tender or payment. A mere offer to redeem is insufficient.⁴ The marking of the land by mistake, as "redeemed," avails nothing to the owner who has not paid or tendered the redemption money.⁵

b. AS AFFECTED BY STATUTES.—The statutes frequently prescribe minutely the steps incident to redemption.⁶ The tendency of the courts is to construe such statutes strongly in favor of the former owner, and to regard them, so far as their details are concerned, as declaratory only.⁷ These statutes provide often that application for redemption shall be made to some officer, and that payment shall be made to him, a redemption certificate issued, and a record made thereof.⁸

8. Who May Redeem—a. THE RULE.—The statutes sometimes provide specifically as to who may redeem. Often, on the other hand, mere general terms, such as "owner," or "party in interest,"⁹ are made use of, while, in a third class of cases, the right is created, but nothing is said as to who may exercise it.¹⁰ The terms "owner," "person in interest," and like expressions, have received a broad construction.¹¹ may seize and sell the property to satisfy the debt. Montgomery v. Burton, 31 La. Ann. 330.

If payment or tender has been made, equity will set aside a tax deed executed thereafter. Wyatt v. Simpson, 8 W. Va. 394.

1. Cooper v. Shepardson, 51 Cal. 298; Soutter v. Miller, 15 Fla. 625; Baker v. Crabb, 73 Iowa 412; Burke v. Cutler, 78 Iowa 299; Fenton v. Way, 40 Iowa 196; Chapin v. Curtenius, 15 Ill. 427; 2 Blackwell on Tax Titles (5th ed.), § 708; Wyatt v. Simpson, 8 W. Va. 394. Failure to file a receipt in the office of the recorder does not prejudice redemptioner's title. Cooper v. Shepardson, 51 Cal. 298.

Payment was made to the auditor of the amount necessary to redeem from two sales. It was held that this redeemed from both sales, notwithstanding the auditor failed to issue a certificate showing a redemption from both. Corbin v. Stewart, 44 Iowa 543.

2. Coxe v. Sartwell, 21 Pa. St. 480.

3. Rich v. Palmer, 7 Oregon 133.

4. In Shoemaker v. Porter, 41 Iowa 197, it was held that such an offer would not relieve an owner who was afterwards successful in an action to redeem, from paying the costs of the suit.

5. State v. Com'rs of School, etc., Lands, 13 Wis. 409.

6. See the statutes of the various states.

7. Cooper v. Shepardson, 51 Cal. 298; Byington v. Buckwalter, 7 Iowa 512; 74 Am. Dec. 279. The provision of law that the recorder shall give to the owner a receipt and file a duplicate thereof in his office, is merely directory. Wyatt v. Simpson, 8 W. Va. 394.

8. See for example, the Arkansas statute. See Ellsworth v. Green, 59 Iowa 622.

Under the Alabama statute, requiring that the redemptioner must pay the tax for which the land was sold, and also the taxes paid by the purchaser since the sale, he must pay municipal as well as state and county taxes. Turner v. White (Ala. 1892), 12 So. Rep. 601.

9. See the statutes of Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, New Hampshire, New York, Wisconsin.

10. Maine Rev. Stat. 1883, § 198, p. 164.

11. In Dubois v. Hepburn, 10 Pet. (U. S.) 1, a statute was construed

The right of redemption may be perfect or inchoate,¹ in possession or in action,² legal or equitable;³ the test is, will the interest in question be affected by the tax conveyance.⁴ Where the right is given to the "owner," the original owner may exercise it, although there is an outstanding tax title.⁵

The right cannot be defeated by showing an outstanding paramount title.⁶ It is immaterial to whom the lands were assessed.⁷ The person redeeming must, however, have some title; a mere stranger cannot redeem.

Any payment by an agent or other person occupying a confidential relation to the owner will inure to the benefit of the owner, even though made with the agent's own money. The agent in that case will have a lien on the land for his money.⁸

b. INSTANCES.—One in possession under color of title may redeem.⁹ An administrator or executor may redeem the land of the deceased;¹⁰ either a trustee or his cestui que trust that of the trust estate;¹¹ and a guardian is entitled to redeem land of his which gave the right of redemption to the owner or owners. It was said that "any right, which in law or equity amounts to an ownership in the land; any right of entry upon it, to its possession, or enjoyment, or any part of it, which can be deemed an estate in it, makes the person the owner, so far as it is necessary to give him the right to redeem." This language was adopted in Adams v. Beale, 19 Iowa 61. See generally, OWNER, vol. 17, p. 299.

1. A person holding a deed for an unassigned right of dower in certain real estate, has such an interest as entitles him to redeem the same from a tax sale. Rice v. Nelson, 27 Iowa 48.

2. One may redeem who holds under a title bond of a donation claim. Rich v. Palmer, 7 Oregon 133.

3. Cowdry v. Cuthbert, 71 Iowa 733; Campbell v. Packard, 61 Wis. 88. The beneficiary of a deed of trust executed by way of collateral security may redeem. Elliott v. Shaffer, 30 W. Va. 347. Thus, a bankrupt, under act of Congress, may redeem land which belonged to him before going into bankruptcy, where the right is given to the "owner." Hampton v. Rouse, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 264.

4. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 538.

5. Lancaster v. County Auditor, 2 Dill. (U. S.) 478.

6. Jamison v. Thompson, 65 Miss. 516 (under Mississippi Code II 531, giving the right to the "owner . . . or any person for him").

7. If the tax is assessed to "unknown," the real owner may redeem. Lyman v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367.

Redemption by Agent.—Houston v. Buer, 117 Ill. 324. As to the common-law rule, see McBride v. Hoey, 2 Watts (Pa.) 443; Townshend v. Shaffer, 30 W. Va. 176. An agent with power to take care of land, may redeem a tax sale after the death of his principal. Patterson v. Brindle, 9 Watts (Pa.) 98. The authority of one purporting to redeem as agent of another, is established by slight evidence. Trego v. Huzzard, 19 Pa. St. 44. It has been held that it will be presumed. State v. Harper, 26 Neb. 761. Where the agency is disputed, it should be left to the jury under instruction. Rogers v. Johnson, 70 Pa. St. 224. The declarations of the trustee of the title are admissible.

8. See IMPLIED TRUSTS, vol. 10, p. 73; UNDUE INFLUENCE.

9. Foster v. Bowman, 55 Iowa 237; Brown v. Day, 78 Pa. St. 129. It has been held that a redemption, in case there is a paramount title, will inure to the benefit of the true owner. Levick v. Brotherline, 74 Pa. St. 149.

10. Bowers v. Williams, 34 Miss. 324. Where a testator devised a part of a tract to certain persons, and the residue to the executor, charging him with the duty of selecting and setting aside the shares of the devisees, it was held that the executor could redeem. White v. Smith, 68 Iowa 313.

11. The trustee can redeem, if he acts with the consent of the cestui que trust, even if his appointment is invalid.

wards.¹ The holder of the equitable title,² such as one holding under title bond or agreement to convey, may redeem;³ so may a judgment or other lien creditor,⁴ a purchaser at a sheriff's sale,⁵ or subsequent tax sale;⁶ or one holding a power of attorney to sell the land.⁷ The lessee, as well as the lessor, may redeem.⁸ A husband may redeem his interest in land belonging to his wife.⁹

Corbett v. Nutt, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 464; 18 Gratt. (Va.) 624.

Where A verbally admitted that lands held by him by a title apparently absolute were in fact held in trust for B, and A conveyed them to C upon a parol trust in favor of B, it was held that B could redeem. Karr v. Washburn, 56 Wis. 303.

1. Witt v. Mewhirter, 57 Iowa 455. But the production from the possession of the guardian, of an unacknowledged deed of land sold after the tax sale, is not prima facie evidence of ownership in the minor, entitling him to redeem. Walker v. Sargent, 47 Iowa 448.

2. Plumb v. Robinson, 13 Ohio St. 304. See also McKee v. Spiro, 107 Mo. 452.

3. Woodward v. Campbell, 39 Ark. 580; Rogers v. Rutter, 11 Gray (Mass.) 410; Rich v. Palmer, 7 Oregon 133.

A vendor who has given a title bond may redeem to protect his interest. He will have a lien on the land for the money thus paid. Braley v. Langley, 28 Kan. 804.

4. Bacon v. Curtiss, 2 Root (Conn.) 39; Basso v. Benker, 33 La. Ann. 432. Having redeemed, he may recover the amount paid from his debtor. Ward v. Matthews, 80 Cal. 343. A lien creditor is "an owner of the land" within the statute stating who may redeem. Schenck v. Peay, 1 Dill. (U. S.) 267.

A judgment creditor cannot redeem by advancing the amount of his judgment upon a purchaser's bid at a tax sale. Russell v. Dodson, 6 Baxt. (Tenn.) 16.

Where land upon which several persons have liens is redeemed by one of them, the title to, and liens upon, the land, stand thereafter in the same condition as though no sale for taxes had taken place. Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178.

Where the holder of a judgment procures a tax title to the land of the debtor, which he agrees shall be subject to redemption on paying the amount of his judgment, other claimants can redeem only on these terms. Jordan v. Brown, 56 Iowa 281.

In Louisiana, a creditor, even though not a mortgagee or lien creditor, may redeem. Basso v. Benker, 33 La. Ann. 432.

5. Byington v. Walsh, 11 Iowa 27. In this case it was held that it made no difference whether his purchase was before or after the tax sale.

Where property has been sold at a sheriff's sale and the purchaser put in possession, and the alleged debtor surrenders possession and pays rent, he cannot redeem the property. Whitaker v. Ashbey, 43 La. Ann. 117.

A purchaser at a sheriff's sale, of the right of one in possession, may redeem, though he shows no title in the former owner, who has been in possession for many years previous to the sale. Shearer v. Woodburn, 10 Pa. St. 511. If the sheriff's sale is afterwards set aside, the purchaser has a lien upon the land for money which he has paid to redeem it from tax sale. Harlan v. Jones, 104 Ind. 167.

6. A purchaser at a tax sale under the act of Congress for non-payment of a direct tax may redeem a prior sale by a state officer. McBride v. Hoey, 1 P. & W. (Pa.) 54.

7. McCord v. Burgantz, 7 Watts (Pa.) 487; Townshend v. Shaffer, 30 W. Va. 176.

8. The lessee of property sold for taxes is an owner within the meaning of section 505, Iowa Code (1851), and as such is entitled to redeem, though his interest is acquired after the sale, and the redemption is made without the knowledge or authority of the owner of the fee. Byington v. Rider, 9 Iowa 566.

9. Dubois v. Hepburn, 10 Pet. (U. S.) 1. The North Carolina statutes provide that when a person "seised, as tenant by curtesy or dower, as tenant for life, or in right of his wife," of land which is sold for taxes, shall fail to redeem the same within a year, the land shall be forfeited to the person "next in title in remainder or reversion," who may redeem within a year from such forfeiture. It is held that the homestead allotted to a widow "during widowhood" in lieu of dower, and so, on the same principle, a wife may redeem her interest in her husband's land.¹

The title of one redeeming need not be perfect; thus, a corporation, holding under irregular condemnation proceedings, may exercise the right.² The one to whom the land was assessed may redeem, and the purchaser cannot object on the ground that such redemptioner has no interest.³

c. MORTGAGEES.—A mortgagee's title is sufficient to enable him to redeem the mortgaged premises.⁴

may be redeemed by the person next in title when the widow allows it to be sold for non-payment of taxes. Tucker v. Tucker, 108 N. Car. 235.

1. A wife may redeem her right in a homestead. Adams v. Beale, 19 Iowa 61; Pliffner v. Krapfel, 28 Iowa 27. A doweress may redeem. Rice v. Nelson, 27 Iowa 148.

2. After land was sold for taxes, a railroad company condemned and took possession of a right of way over it. It was held that the railroad company had a right to redeem from the tax sale, and to personal service of notice to redeem; and this, although the condemnation proceedings were carried on without notice to the purchaser at the tax sale. Garmo v. Sturges, 65 Iowa 147.

3. Townshend v. Shaffer, 30 W. Va. 176.

4. The mortgagee of record at the time of tender may redeem, though he did not hold the record title at the time of the tax sale. Hawes v. Howland, 136 Mass. 267.

The right of redemption exists in the mortgagee independent of statute. Lloyd v. Bunce, 41 Iowa 660; Leitzback v. Jackman, 28 Kan. 527; Montgomery v. Burt, 31 La. Ann. 330; Shannon v. Lane, 33 La. Ann. 489; Rondez v. Buras, 34 La. Ann. 1245; Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178; Griffith v. Utley, 76 Iowa 292; People v. Edwards, 56 Hun (N. Y.) 377; Sidenberg v. Ely, 90 N. Y. 257; 43 Am. Rep. 163. A mortgagee is an "owner," within the meaning of the term as used in redemption statutes. Alter v. Shepherd, 27 La. Ann. 207.

The purchaser at a sale under a deed of trust given to secure a debt may redeem. Giraldin v. Howard, 103 Mo. 40. A mortgagee may redeem before condition broken. Plumb v. Robinson, 13 Ohio St. 304. One who lends his credit to enable another to redeem, gets no title, although the act acknowledging the loan expressly subrogates him to the owner's rights. Cambron v. Lapene, 40 La. Ann. 557. See generally, MORTGAGES, vpl. 15, p. 819.

The holder of a mortgage given to secure from liability as surety, who has received from the mortgagee money to apply on the amount needed to redeem, has sufficient interest to enable him to exercise the right of redemption. Elliott v. Shaffer, 30 W. Va. 347. The heir of a mortgagee may redeem. Burton v. Hintrager, 18 Iowa 348. Redemption by the mortgagee under the charter of Jersey City, inures to the benefit of both mortgagor and mortgagee. Duncan v. Smith, 31 N. J. L. 325. Where the assignee of a mortgage land acquired a tax title to protect his mortgage security, which tax title he assigned, it was held that the assignee was chargeable with notice of the equities of the mortgagor who was in possession of the land, and that the mortgagor was entitled to redeem. Ragor v. Lomax, 22 Ill. App. 628.

Land Security for Amount Paid.—If the mortgagee redeems, he can add the amount to the mortgage debt, both being equally secured by the land. Burr v. Veeder, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 412; Eagle F. Ins. Co. v. Pell, 2 Edw. Ch. (N. Y.) 631; Marshall v. Davies, 78 N. Y. 414; Sidenberg v. Ely, 90 N. Y. 257.

Effect of Tender by Mortgagee.—If the mortgagee makes tender, but the purchaser refuses the money, the former may enforce the mortgage. Montgomery v. Burton, 31 La. Ann. 330.

Mortgagee's Successors in Interest.—If the mortgagee is dead, his administrator may redeem the land, Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178; and so may his heir, Burton v. Hintrager, 18 Iowa 348. And where he assigns the mortgage, without having had notice of the sale, the assignee may redeem. Faxon v. Wallace, 98 Mass. 44.

Guardian as Mortgagor.—Where a

d. PAYMENT BY STRANGER.—A person having neither right nor interest in the land cannot redeem.¹ While there is a conflict in the decisions, the more generally accepted rule is that tender or payment by a stranger to a public official, does not inure to the benefit of the true owner, but that such payment or tender has no effect upon the title.²

If, however, the purchaser himself accepts the money, he cannot afterwards set up his title, but the redemption is complete and operative, and an assignment by the purchaser afterwards passes nothing.³ In case a payment inures to the owner's benefit, the one making it cannot withdraw the money after the time for redemption has passed, and thus defeat the owner's right.⁴

e. PART OWNERS.—As redemption does not create a new title, but merely cuts off the right of the purchaser, it follows that any redemption operates in favor of all the former owners.⁵

The owner of a portion of the land sold may redeem, but he must redeem the whole, if it was properly included in one sale, guardian holds a mortgage upon lands in trust for his ward, the ward has such an interest therein as will entitle him, or the guardian in his behalf, to redeem the land from the tax sale. Wilt v. Newhirter, 57 Iowa 545.

1. Byington v. Buckwalter, 7 Iowa 512; 74 Am. Dec. 279; Penn v. Clemans, 19 Iowa 372; Lynn v. Morse, 76 Iowa 665; Wood v. Welpton, 29 Fed. Rep. 405; Rutledge v. Price County, 66 Wis. 35. And see Whitaker v. Ashley, 43 La. Ann. 117; Eaton v. North, 25 Wis. 514; Cousins v. Allen, 28 Wis. 232. The words "or other person" in a statute enumerating those who may redeem, do not include those having no interest. Rutledge v. Price County, 66 Wis. 35. A person claiming under a tax sale, which is void, cannot redeem from a prior sale. McBride v. Hoey, 2 Watts (Pa.) 436; Byington v. Buckwalter, 7 Iowa 512; 74 Am. Dec. 279; Penn v. Clemans, 19 Iowa 372; Staples v. Mayer, 44 La. Ann. 628; McBride v. Hoey, 2 Watts (Pa.) 436; Trego v. Huzzard, 19 Pa. St. 441; Huzzard v. Trego, 35 Pa. St. 9.

By means of forgery, one procured an assignment of tax certificates to himself. It was held that he could not found a right of redemption on this. Wood v. Welpton, 29 Fed. Rep. 405.

2. A son-in-law of the owner of the land is not entitled to redeem for his own benefit, but a redemption by him will inure to the benefit of the owner. Dixon v. Hockady, 36 S. Car. 60.

If one not the owner redeems, the redemption inures to the benefit of the owner, even though the redemptioner intended to act for himself upon an adverse claim of title. Jamison v. Thompson, 65 Miss. 516. See also Greene v. Williams, 58 Miss. 752.

3. 2 Desty on Taxation, p. 880; Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 540; Burroughs on Taxation, § 125; Orr v. Cunningham, 4 W. & S. (Pa.) 294.

The purchaser need not receive the money; if he does so, he is estopped from setting up his title. Coxe v. Sartwell, 21 Pa. St. 480.

Land was assessed as a whole tract, but before sale it was subdivided into lots. One of the lots was owned by one person in severalty before the assessment, but was not assessed separately to the owner. The owner of the remaining lots redeemed the whole. It was held that such redemption inured to the benefit of the owner of the single lot. Alexander v. Ellis, 123 Pa. St. 81.

4. Levick v. Brotherline, 74 Pa. St. 149.

5. People v. McEwen, 23 Cal. 54; Busch v. Huston, 75 Ill. 343; Burnes v. Byrne, 45 Iowa 285; Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178; Hurley v. Hurley, 148 Mass. 444; Maul v. Rider, 51 Pa. St. 377.

Where the whole tract of unseated land is assessed in a body, and sold for taxes, the payment of the redemption money by one who owns a large share of the tract, divests the title of the purchaser to the whole. Alexander v. Ellis, 123 Pa. St. 81.

After a co-tenant has redeemed, a and must pay the whole amount.¹ He may, however, collect from each of the other owners his proper proportion of the sum.² If the land of the one redeeming was improperly grouped and sold with other land of his own, or of others, he may exercise his right by tendering the proportionate amount due on the piece sought to be redeemed.³ Similarly, holders of undivided interests may redeem the whole,⁴ but not their individual interests.⁵

The rule in the case of redemption by minors, under statutes extending the time allowed them for redemption, is otherwise.⁶

Any attempted purchase on the part of a co-owner during the period of redemption will—except under unusual circumstances—operate as a redemption;⁷ after that period has elapsed, how-tender to the purchaser by another co-tenant of his proportion of the amount, is of no avail. Walkins v. Eaton, 30 Me. 529.

But see Quinn v. Kenney, 47 Cal. 147, which held that while a part owner must pay the whole amount in order to redeem, the payment has the effect of redeeming his own interest only.

1. State v. Schaack, 28 Minn. 358. A statute providing for the redemption of an undivided interest by itself does not allow a redemption of a part of the land. State v. Schaack, 28 Minn. 358.

2. See CONTRIBUTION, vol. 4, p. 9; JOINT TENANTS, vol. 11, p. 1109.

He has a lien on the land for the amount. Bracken v. Cooper, 80 Ill. 221.

A bill, however, cannot be sustained by a tenant in common to redeem the land from the lien of his co-tenant for money paid for taxes. Chase v. Durfee, 16 R. I. 248.

Another co-tenant cannot maintain a writ of entry against the one paying, without tender of his share of the amount. Watkins v. Eaton, 30 Me. 529; 50 Am. Dec. 637.

3. Where the land of one is unlawfully sold with that of others, and the informality is subsequently cured by a validating act, it can be redeemed on payment of the proportion of the tax fairly chargeable to the land, and the whole amount does not have to be tendered. Dietrick v. Mason, 57 Pa. St. 40.

So if land is improperly assessed in gross, to the several owners, and sold as such, one of the owners may redeem his part by paying his pro rata share, without reference to whether the redeemed part was taxed at more or less than its true relative value. Penn v. Clemans, 19 Iowa 372.

4. Rich v. Palmer, 6 Oregon 339.

One tenant in common may redeem for himself and his co-tenant. Halsey v. Blood, 29 Pa. St. 319.

5. People v. McEwen, 23 Cal. 54; Quinn v. Kenney, 47 Cal. 147; Curl v. Watson, 25 Iowa 35; 95 Am. Dec. 763; Rice v. Nelson, 27 Iowa 148; Rich v. Palmer, 6 Oregon 339.

One having a lien on an undivided two-thirds interest in land cannot redeem by paying two-thirds of the amount. O'Reilly v. Holt, 4 Woods (U. S.) 645. See also Smith v. Thorp, 17 W. Va. 221.

When an undivided interest in lands, the whole of which is subject to a tax sale, is sold in execution, the sheriff must pay the whole tax from the proceeds. Dungan's Appeal, 88 Pa. St. 414.

6. Miller v. Porter, 35 Iowa 166.

Where adults and infants are co-tenants of lands sold for taxes, and the limitation has expired as to the adults, the infants can redeem only their interests and not the whole tract. Wilson v. Sykes, 67 Miss. 617; Jacobs v. Porter, 34 Iowa 341; Miller v. Porter, 35 Iowa 166.

After the redemption, the infants who redeem will hold as tenants in common with the tax purchaser, or his successors in interest. Stout v. Merrill, 35 Iowa 59.

7. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 843.

In Arthurs v. King, 95 Pa. St. 174, the court, speaking by Sterrett, J., said: "There is no valid reason why either the owner of land sold for taxes, or a stranger to the title, may not, within the time allowed for redemption, take from the purchaser at the treasurer's sale, a conveyance of his inceptive title, and hold the same until it ripens into a complete tax title. Where, as in this ever, if there is no special confidential relation between the co-owners, any one of them may buy the land and get absolute title in himself.¹

A right is frequently given by statute, however, to part-owners to redeem their own proper shares; when this is the case it may be enforced by mandamus.² Such a privilege does not take away the ordinary right of a co-tenant to redeem the whole interest in the land.³

9. Period for Redemption—a. IN GENERAL.—Statutes fix the time within which redemption may be made.⁴ The rule generally adopted is that the time begins to run from the acceptance of the bid, which is the real time of sale,⁵ unless provided otherwise in the statute.⁶

Where the law requires that the deed be filed in a public office and remain there during the time allowed for redemption, the time does not run until the deed is so filed.⁷ The bringing of a suit to quiet title does not affect the rights of the owner, who may tender the money after the suit is instituted.⁸

There can be no redemption after the expiration of the time case, the consideration paid is more than would be required to redeem the land, and a regular assignment of the tax title is executed, it would be unreasonable to infer that the transaction is a redemption and not a purchase."

1. Keele v. Cunningham, 2 Heisk. (Tenn.) 288.

2. People v. Treasurer of Detroit, 8 Mich. 14; 77 Am. Dec. 433.

3. Loomis v. Pingree, 43 Me. 312.

4. See generally, Heard v. Walton, 39 Miss. 388; Winchester v. Cain, 1 Rob. (La.) 421; McCormack v. Russell, 25 Pa. St. 185; Gault's Appeal, 33 Pa. St. 94; State v. Woodbridge, 47 N. J. L. 142; Millen v. Howell, 81 Ga. 653; Eggleston v. Gage, 33 Ill. App. 184; Gage v. Parker, 103 Ill. 528; Tug River Coal Co. v. Brewer, 91 Ky. 402; Lander v. Bromley, 79 Wis. 372; McKee v. Spiro, 107 Mo. 452.

5. Stevens v. Cassaday, 59 Iowa 113; McCalmonet v. Rockland Coal, etc., Co., 72 Pa. St. 221. And not from the issuing of the treasurer's deed or certificate of sale, Cromelien v. Brink, 29 Pa. St. 522; nor from the recording of the sheriff's deed. Boyd v. Wilson, 86 Ga. 379. But see Maina v. Elliott, 51 Cal. 8, which held that in California, where the time allowed for redemption is six months from the sale, if the purchaser delays to take his certificate of purchase promptly, the landowner has six months to redeem in after the certificate has been taken out, but is liable to lose his land if the right of a bona fide purchaser intervenes at any time after six months from the actual sale. See also People v. Cady, 105 N. Y. 299; Coombs v. Steere, 8 Ill. App. 147; Doudna v. Harlan, 45 Kan. 484.

As to the date of sale in Alabama, from which the time begins to run, see Jones v. Randle, 68 Ala. 259; Lassitter v. Lee, 68 Ala. 287; Pugh v. Youngblood, 69 Ala. 296.

Similar decisions on similar statutes were rendered in the following cases: Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa 160; Henderson v. Oliver, 28 Iowa 20; McCready v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 356; 4 Am. Rep. 214; Thomas v. Stickle, 32 Iowa 71; Robb v. Bowen, 9 Pa. St. 71; Johnston v. Jackson, 70 Pa. St. 164.

6. If a city charter allows for redemption eighteen months after sale and deposit of the deed with the mayor, the time does not begin to run until a deed fully executed and properly acknowledged is so left. Leaving it in an incomplete shape has no effect. Berthold v. Hoskins, 38 Fed. Rep. 772. See, under the Wisconsin statute, Lander v. Bromley, 79 Wis. 372.

7. West v. Duncan, 42 Fed. Rep. 430.

8. White v. Smith, 68 Iowa 313.

But in order to redeem at this stage, the plaintiff is bound to pay the taxes and penalties provided by law, regardless of the Statute of Limitations. Long limited by statute,¹ even though the deed has not been executed to the purchaser at the tax sale.² It has been held, however, that during the redemption period the record must disclose a valid sale for taxes, and that any irregularity appearing on the face of the record cannot be cured by amendments after the time has expired.³

A deed may not be issued before the expiration of the time allowed for redemption; if so issued, it is void.⁴

In the computation of the time, the day of the sale is excluded.⁵

b. WAIVER OF REQUIREMENTS AS TO TIME.—The purchaser, by express agreement,⁶ or by the receipt of the money after the period allowed for redemption has expired, may waive a strict compliance with the requirements as to time. Payment thus accepted by him will constitute a perfect redemption.⁷ A public officer, however, cannot waive the purchaser's right, and acceptance by him will not work a redemption.⁸

c. PERSONS UNDER DISABILITY.—The same strict rules apply to persons under disability as to others, unless the statutes other-

v. Smith, 67 Iowa 22. See also Harber v. Sexton, 66 Iowa 211.

1. Pearson v. Robinson, 44 Iowa 413; Scofield v. McDowell, 47 Iowa 129; Meredith v. Phelps, 65 Iowa 118; Long v. Smith, 62 Iowa 329; Spengin v. Forry, 37 Iowa 242.

After that, nothing passes under an execution sale of the former owner's interest. Church v. Riddle, 20 W. & S. (Pa.) 509; Smith v. Macon, 20 Ark. 17; Thweatt v. Black, 30 Ark. 732.

2. Pearson v. Robinson, 44 Iowa 413; Long v. Smith, 62 Iowa 329; Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178.

A county has the same time within which to redeem as has an individual. Reeves v. Bremer County, 73 Iowa 165.

3. Judevine v. Jackson, 18 Vt. 470; Langdon v. Poor, 20 Vt. 13.

4. Swope v. Prior, 58 Iowa 412; Cummings v. Wilson, 59 Iowa 14; Reed v. Thompson, 56 Iowa 455; Bowman v. Wettig, 39 Ill. 416.

5. Richards v. Thompson, 43 Kan. 209. Thus, if two years are given, a tender on the second anniversary of the sale is in time. Hare v. Carnatt, 39 Ark. 196.

A deed executed on the last day, is premature. Cable v. Coates, 36 Kan. 191. The general rules as to the computation of time are applicable here. See DAY, vol. 5, p. 81; TIME, COMPUTATION OF. See Gladwin v. French, 112 Mass. 186.

If the last day falls on Sunday, the right to redeem extends, generally, through the next day. Gage v. Davis, 129 Ill. 236; 16 Am. St. Rep. 260; Hill v. Timmermeyer, 36 Kan. 252.

6. Shoemaker v. Porter, 41 Iowa 197. As by an agreement in writing by the purchaser to convey to the owner on being paid the amount of the bid with twenty-five per cent. additional. Rogers v. Johnson, 70 Pa. St. 224. A waiver may be conditional, in which case the condition must be strictly performed in order to entitle the owner to the benefit of it. McCulloch v. Dodge, 6 R. I. 346.

7. Blackwell on Tax Titles (5th ed.), vol. 2, § 716; Thweatt v. Black, 30 Ark. 732; Coxe v. Wolcott, 27 Pa. St. 154; Philadelphia v. Miller, 49 Pa. St. 440; Byington v. Hampton, 13 Iowa 23. See also, Terrell v. Grimmel, 20 Iowa 393.

8. His receipt for money paid after the time has expired is a nullity. Thornton v. Smith, 36 Ark. 508.

Land sold for taxes was purchased by the town in which it was situated. After the time within which redemption might have been made, had expired, the tax, interest, costs and charges were paid by the person succeeding to the rights of the original owner, to the county treasurer, who received the same in full payment, and marked the land redeemed upon his books. No claim of forfeiture was made at the time. It was held that the person making such payment was not entitled to a lease of the premises wise provide.¹ Statutes, however, frequently provide for an extension of time in favor of minors, married women, idiots, insane persons, and others under disabilities.²

An infant, to bring himself within the statute, must have been the owner at the time of the tax sale.³ So must a married woman.⁴ One claiming under such a statute must show himself to be within its terms.⁵

The statutes giving an additional time to redeem, grant an additional privilege, and do not take away the right to redeem during the continuance of the disability,⁶ nor suspend the right of the purchaser to take out his deed at the time allowed by statute. His title is at most subject to be defeated by redemption after the removal of disability.⁷

As the right to redeem after the usual period has expired rests upon statutes, only such interests as are included therein may be redeemed.⁸ The right is not affected by mortgage foreclosure proceedings brought during the time allowed.⁹ Statutes giving a person under disability a longer time to redeem merely extend for the term for which they were sold. People v. Hegeman (Supreme Ct.), 14 N. Y. Supp. 567.

1. Smith v. Macon, 20 Ark. 17; Thompson v. Sherrill, 51 Ark. 453; Little Rock Junction R. Co. v. Burke, 53 Ark. 430; Hood v. Mathers, 2 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 558; Levy v. Newman, 130 N. Y. 11; McCormack v. Russell, 25 Pa. St. 185.

2. As to the Arkansas statute, see Neil v. Rozier, 49 Ark. 551; Carroll v. Johnson, 41 Ark. 59; Little Rock Junction R. Co. v. Burke, 53 Ark. 430; Thompson v. Sherrill, 51 Ark. 453; as to the Iowa statute, Jacobs v. Porter, 34 Iowa 341; Stout v. Merrill, 35 Iowa 47; Myers v. Copeland, 20 Iowa 22; McGee v. Bailey (Iowa, 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 309; as to the Mississippi statute, Price v. Ferguson, 66 Miss. 404; as to the Wisconsin statute, Karr v. Washburn, 56 Wis. 303; Tucker v. Whittlesey, 74 Wis. 74; Harding v. Vaughn, 36 Fed. Rep. 742; Dayton v. Relf, 34 Wis. 86; as to redemption under the Brooklyn charter, Levy v. Newman, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 438.

3. Under Iowa Code, § 892; Tallman v. Cook, 39 Iowa 402; Stevens v. Casady, 59 Iowa 113; Pearsons v. American Investment Co., 83 Iowa 358. The rule is the same under the Kansas statute. Doudna v. Harlan, 45 Kan. 484; Culp v. Culp (Kan. 1893), 32 Pac. Rep. 1118.

The death of the owner, subsequently to the sale, leaving minor heirs, does not enlarge the time for redemption. McCormack v. Russell, 25 Pa. St. 185; Burton v. Hintrayer, 18 Iowa 348.

4. See Finch v. Brown, 8 Ill. 488, which holds that the feme covert must own the land sold at the time of sale. If it belonged to her husband at that time, her contingent right of dower does not entitle her to redeem.

5. Harding v. Vaughn, 36 Fed. Rep. 742. This case holds that a deed to the minor from his father and mother, dated before the tax sale, but which has an undated acknowledgement, and which was not recorded until after the tax deed was given, is not sufficient proof of title in the minor at the time of sale, without other evidence.

6. Witt v. Mewhirter, 57 Iowa 545; Goodrich v. Florer, 27 Minn. 97. Thus, a married woman, together with her husband, may institute proceedings to redeem during the continuance of the coverture. Plumb v. Robinson, 13 Ohio St. 298.

7. Dayton v. Relf, 34 Wis. 86.

8. If the statute allows the redemption of "the real property of a married woman," a homestead interest is included. Adams v. Beale, 19 Iowa 61.

Under the West Virginia statute, a wife's separate estate is not included. Williamson v. Russell, 18 W. Va. 612.

9. In Iowa, a minor, or his representative, may, at any time before he becomes of age, redeem from a tax sale of land devised to him. Where the purchaser had quit-claimed to another, taking a the period; they do not otherwise affect the right of the former owner.¹

10. Payment and Tender—a. IN GENERAL.—Payment and tender are alike effectual to revest title in the former owner.² Tender must be of the whole amount,³ and must be continuous,⁴ unconditional,⁵ and made in good faith. If made collusively, upon an agreement that the money shall be refunded, it has no effect.⁶ A mere offer to redeem without tender, is generally inoperative.⁷ If, however, the offer is refused on the ground that there is no right to redeem, and no exception is taken to the omission to tender, it has been held to work a redemption.⁸ An agreement to accept a redemption, although allowed by both parties to remain open, and never finally concluded, extinguishes the constructive possession of the holder of the tax title.⁹ Tender relieves the owner from all liability for costs and subsequent charges.¹⁰ A deed made after tender or payment is void.¹¹ Tender and payment may be purchase-money mortgage from him, it was held that he could not, by foreclosure proceedings, get title in himself and cut out the interest of the minor. Strong v. Burris, 61 Iowa 375.

1. Ethel v. Batchelder, 90 Ind. 520.

2. Cunningham v. Marklands, 5 U. C. Q. B. 645; Bender v. Bean, 52 Ark. 132; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622; Heaton v. Knight, 63 Iowa 686; State v. Haughey, 5 Kan. 625; Mathews v. Buckingham, 22 Kan. 166; Olin v. Rohrbaugh, 28 Kan. 412; Brooks v. Hardwick, 5 La. Ann. 675; Basso v. Benker, 33 La. Ann. 432; Loomis v. Pingree, 43 Me. 299; State v. Woodbridge, 47 N. J. L. 142; Broughton v. Journeay, 51 Pa. St. 31; Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374; Sperry v. Gibson, 3 W. Va. 522. So in Connecticut by statute. Gen. Stats. (1888), § 3893.

3. Fitts v. Huff, 63 Miss. 594.

A tender of the amount of purchase-money at a tax sale, without also tendering the premium allowed by law, will not accomplish redemption; and for the purchaser to name a larger amount than he was entitled to, while it would dispense with the actual production of the money tendered, will not dispense with full readiness to pay the proper amount at the time of offering to redeem. Lamar v. Sheppard, 84 Ga. 561.

4. Hamlett v. Tallman, 30 Ark. 505.

5. Halsey v. Blood, 29 Pa. St. 319.

A tender was not invalid because a receipt or certificate was demanded, when it was rejected by the treasurer solely upon the ground that he had no power to receive such money and give such certificate. People v. Edwards, 56 Hun (N. Y.) 377.

Tender is not vitiated by a request to the purchaser, after it is made, to deliver possession. Bacon v. Conn., 1 Smed. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 348.

6. Woodbury v. Shackelford, 19 Wis. 55.

7. Polindexter v. Doolittle, 54 Iowa 52, which held that the owner of land, having made no tender of the amount required to redeem from the sale, would be chargeable with the costs of an action to set aside the deed, although he offered to redeem, and the offer was refused by the auditor.

But it has been held in Louisiana, that where lands have been sold to pay taxes, the owner has a right to redeem the same upon offering to pay to the purchaser the price, costs, improvements, and interest, and is not compelled to make a tender of the money, unless the purchaser has rendered an account of those items. Brooks v. Hardwick, 5 La. Ann. 675. See also Binford v. Boardman, 44 Iowa 53.

8. Bender v. Bean, 52 Ark. 132.

9. Cornell University v. Mead, 80 Wis. 387.

10. Russell v. Hudson, 28 Kan. 99; Cole v. Moore, 34 Ark. 582.

11. Mathews v. Buckingham, 22 Kan. 166; Olin v. Rohrbaugh, 28 Kan. 413; Leitzback v. Jackman, 28 Kan. 524.

Where a tax deed was made after the owner had paid to the clerk the amount necessary to redeem from the sale, it was held that the deed was unauthorized and void, and that the fail-excused if the amount cannot be discovered,¹ or may be waived by the purchaser.²

b. KIND OF MONEY REQUIRED.—Sometimes statutes designate the kind of money required for tender or payment.³ If the public officer whose duty it is to receive payment disregards the statutory requirement, he may be compelled to pay over lawful money to the holder of the tax title redeemed.⁴ Payment by check may be good, if not objected to.⁵

c. TO WHOM MADE.—The statutes provide, frequently, that tender or payment must be made to the person possessing the tax title at the time of redemption;⁶ for example, to the purchaser or his agent,⁷ or to the purchaser's assignee.⁸ An ineffectual assignment does not make it necessary to pay or tender to the assignee.⁹

Statutes provide, sometimes, for payment or tender to some specified public officer;¹⁰ this being done, the redemption is effectual, even though such officer withholds the money.¹¹ These statutes generally do not deprive the redemptioner of the right to make payment to the purchaser.¹²

ure of the clerk to notify the treasurer of the payment would not defeat the redemption. Fenton v. Way, 40 Iowa 196. See also Gage v. Bailey, 115 Ill. 646.

1. Miller v. Montagne, 32 La. Ann. 1290; Wederstrandt v. Freyhan, 34 La. Ann. 705.

2. Bright v. Boyd, 1 Story (U. S.) 478.

3. In Idaho, "lawful money of the United States;" in Illinois, "legal money of the United States;" in California and Oregon, gold or silver. A county cannot redeem in its own warrants. Reeves v. Bremer County, 73 Iowa 165.

4. Murphy v. Smith, 49 Ark. 37.

5. Townshend v. Shaffer, 30 W. Va. 176.

6. Thweatt v. Black, 30 Ark. 732; Banks v. Bingham, 3 Yerg. (Tenn.) 312. See various state statutes.

7. A husband as general agent for the management of his wife's separate estate, purchased land at a tax sale in the name of his wife, and with money derived from her separate estate. It was held that he was a proper person to whom to tender the redemption money. Dauser v. Johnsons, 25 W. Va. 380.

8. Thweatt v. Black, 30 Ark. 732.

Where land of an infant has been forfeited to the state and sold by it for taxes before his time for redemption has expired, he may redeem from the purchaser from the state, and the redemption money will belong to the purchaser and not to the state. Keith v. Freeman, 43 Ark. 296.

If the purchaser has accepted part of the money, the owner may redeem by tendering the rest to his grantee under a quit-claim deed. Taylor v. Court-nay, 15 Neb. 190.

Tender to the purchaser may be good, notwithstanding a conveyance by him of which the redemptioner has no knowledge, the purchaser remaining in possession. Faxon v. Wallace, 101 Mass. 444.

The Louisiana statute provides that redemption may be effected by tendering the amount to the purchaser at the tax sale; therefore, it is immaterial that before the tender he has conveyed his title to another. Wheelwright v. Lemore, 56 Fed. Rep. 163.

9. Faxon v. Wallace, 98 Mass. 44; Faxon v. Wallace, 101 Mass. 444; Rice v. Bates, 68 Iowa 393.

10. See various statutes.

11. Corbett v. Nutt, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 624; 10 Wall. (U. S.) 464.

12. State v. Woodbridge, 47 N. J. L. 142, overruling State v. Woodbridge, 46 N. J. L. 109; Broughton v. Jour-neay, 51 Pa. St. 31. But in Oregon, the payment must be made to the sheriff, not the certificate holder. Rich v. Palmer, 7 Oregon 133.

An act allowing a minor to redeem within three years after attaining mad. WHEN DISPENSED WITH—(1) Mistake or Fraud of Officer.—One seeking to redeem may rely on information given him as to time and amount by the proper officer in response to his inquiries.¹ Thus, if the amount named be too small, the redemption is valid if the sum given be actually paid or tendered,² although not otherwise.³ If the owner be led by the officer to believe that there has been but one tax sale, and redemption is made from that, the owner may redeem from an undisclosed sale, on discovering the fact, even though the statutory time has elapsed.⁴ The inquiry made of the officer must, however, be specific,⁵ and refer to matters which it is his duty to disclose.⁶ If the inquiry relates to taxes only, it will avail nothing to the owner that the majority, by paying the redemption price to the one who paid the tax, does not take away the privilege given him by another statute of paying the amount to the collector within one year. Holloway v. Clark, 27 Ill. 483.

1. Hintrager v. Mahoney, 78 Iowa 537; Gage v. Scales, 100 Ill. 218; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622; Price v. Mott, 52 Pa. St. 315; Mather v. Hutchinson, 25 Wis. 27. But see McGahen v. Carr, 6 Iowa 331; 71 Am. Dec. 421, which holds that the fact that the public officer informed an owner who has failed to redeem, that no taxes were assessed against the land, gives him no additional rights in the absence of collusion between the officer and the purchaser. See also Harmon v. Steed, 49 Fed. Rep. 779.

2. Converse v. Rankin, 115 Ill. 398; Forrest v. Henry, 33 Minn. 434; People v. Registrar of Arrears, 114 N. Y. 19; Randall v. Dailey, 66 Wis. 285. See also Bubb v. Tompkins, 47 Pa. St. 359; Breisch v. Coxe, 81 Pa. St. 336, 348. Equity will grant relief to the owner in such a case. Noble v. Bullis, 23 Iowa 559; 92 Am. Dec. 442; Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622; Iowa Falls, etc., R. Co. v. Storm Lake Bank, 55 Iowa 606; Gould v. Sullivan (Wis. 1893), 20 L. R. A. 487; Gage v. Scales, 100 Ill. 218.

Where the officers named too small a sum, and the owner paid it, and on learning the mistake paid more than enough to cover the deficiency, it was held that there had been a redemption. McDonald v. Geisendorff, 128 Ind. 153.

Title reverts on the tender of the amount as given by the officer, even though it be too small. It is immaterial that the officer subsequently discovered his mistake and told the owner, who neglected to pay the additional amount. Hintrager v. Mahoney, 78 Iowa 537.

But where the officer to whom the redemption money should be paid, gives the wrong amount to the owner who pays, but on discovering his mistake, furnished a corrected statement, whereupon the owner sent an agent who demanded another statement, which was refused, it was held that there had been no misconduct sufficient to extend the time. Van Benthuyssen v. Sawyer, 36 N. Y. 150.

Where a landowner was wrongly informed by the officer that no taxes were assessed against his land and thereupon it was sold at a tax sale, it was held that the tax deed passed nothing; that he could, on discovering the error, bring ejectment for the land; and that the three years' limitation for attacking tax titles applied only to a case where the deed was rightly issued and did not govern such a case as this. Gould v. Sullivan (Wis. 1893), 20 L. R. A. 487. See also Darrow v. Union County (Iowa, 1893), 54 N.W. Rep. 149.

3. Ellsworth v. Cordrey, 63 Iowa 675.

4. Noble v. Bullis, 23 Iowa 558; 92 Am. Dec. 442.

5. Lamb v. Irwin, 69 Pa. St. 436. It has been held that a general offer to pay all taxes due is too indefinite, if no amount is specified, and no request made to redeem from particular sale. Bolinger v. Henderson, 23 Iowa 165. But see Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Iowa 622.

6. Under the Missouri statutes, the owner has a right to redeem by paying the amount for which the property was sold on his procuring from the auditor "a statement setting forth the amount required to redeem." It was held that where a lot had been sold for the taxes of several years, the officer said nothing of tax sales;¹ if to one sale only, it matters not that nothing was said of other sales.²

Likewise fraud or misconduct of the officer cannot prejudice the owner.³ If the officer keeps his records in such a manner that the owner cannot learn of the sale, redemption may be made when the facts are discovered, even though the time has expired.⁴

(2) Fraud of Purchaser.—If the owner be prevented from redeeming within the time, by the fraud or deception of the purchaser, he may exercise his right thereafter, on discovering the facts.⁵

Where the purchaser, by promising to assign the certificate to the owner, induces him to let the time of redemption go by, the court will order a reconveyance.⁶ Where he tells the owner that the land sold is not his, and thus leads him to fail to redeem, he will be perpetually enjoined from receiving his deed.⁷

e. EQUITABLE REDEMPTION.—Payment may be made otherwise than by the passing of money from the owner to the purchaser. If the latter is indebted to the former, the money due on the debt may be applied toward the redemption price, and if as great, such application may constitute an equitable redemption.⁸

11. Amount.—The amount required for redemption varies with the statutes. Repayment of the purchaser's bid with a specified interest by way of penalty, together with costs, and subsequent auditor could not be required to give the statement of the amount necessary to redeem from the taxes of one year only. State v. Tufts, 108 Mo. 418.

1. Moore v. Hamlin, 38 Iowa 482.

2. Lamb v. Irwin, 69 Pa. St. 436.

3. An attempted redemption will avoid the deed where the owner could not find out the amount necessary to redeem because the sheriff failed to report the sale, and the purchaser did not file his certificate until within two days of the expiration of the time allowed for redemption, the owner having several times applied to the county clerk for information as to the amount. Tug River Coal Co. v. Brown, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 1.

If the tax be assessed in the name of another, the owner may still pay, and the refusal of the officer to accept, does not invalidate the redemption. Kinsworthy v. Austin, 23 Ark. 375.

4. If the officer wrongfully allowed a lot to stand upon the tax book against the former owner so that he did not know of the sale, his right is not lost, but he may redeem on discovering the facts. Martin v. Barbour, 34 Fed. Rep. 701.

5. Converse v. Rankin, 115 Ill. 398. In this case, one attempted to redeem in good faith, but not knowing the amount, paid two dollars less than the proper sum, the purchaser agreeing to let him know the correct amount. When, instead of doing this, he took out a deed, it was held that equity would set it aside.

6. Laing v. McKee, 13 Mich. 124.

7. Koon v. Snodgrass, 18 W. Va. 320.

8. Gaskins v. Blake, 27 Miss. 675.

But where the purchaser's grantee enters upon the land before the time of redemption has expired under a voidable deed, and makes use of it, and the value of his use exceeds the redemption amount, there is no equitable redemption. Babcock v. Bonebrake, 77 Iowa 710.

Where by statute, title does not vest until the deed is recorded, the entry and receipt of profits before recording, but after the expiration of the period of redemption, do not constitute an equitable redemption. Spenglin v. Ferry, 37 Iowa 242.

In Georgia, the owner of land sold for taxes is entitled to occupy it free of rent for one year from the date of sale. But where rent is paid during that time, it cannot be treated as having been paid toward the redemption of the land where it was not then the taxes paid by the purchaser, with interest, are usually required.¹ Sometimes the statute provides that the purchaser shall be reimbursed for improvements.² There is no distinction as to amount between an individual who redeems and the state or county.³

Statutes frequently fix the interest at a very high rate.⁴ Interest runs from the time of sale, and not from the time of the actual payment.⁵

The whole amount must be paid in order to insure redemption, even though certain of the items may be barred by the Statute of Limitations.⁶ If the sum actually paid at the sale was less than the amount of the taxes and other charges, this fact will not affect the amount to be tendered.⁷ If the payment is to an assignee of the purchaser, it is immaterial what his rights may have cost him;⁸ only the costs that have legally accrued need be paid.⁹ So far as the question of amount is concerned, it is immaterial whether or not a suit to enforce the tax purchaser's claim is pending.¹⁰ The full amount prescribed by statute must be paid in order that there may be a redemption.¹¹ In some cases, however, where the deficiency is small, the courts have relaxed the rule.¹² intention of the parties that it should be so applied, and no claim for such application was made until after the expiration of the period for redemption. Lamar v. Sheppard, 84 Ga. 561.

1. See various local statutes: See also Comstock v. Cover, 35 Ill. 470; Swan v. Huse, 15 Neb. 465; Byington v. Rider, 9 Iowa 566; Tebbetts v. Charleston, 33 W. Va. 705.

2. Towle v. Holt, 14 Neb. 221. See also Lynch v. Brudie, 63 Pa. St. 206; Boatmen's Sav. Bank v. Grewe, 101 Mo. 625; Bender v. Bean, 52 Ark. 132.

If improvements are allowed to a bona fide purchaser, one redeeming may be such, although the title which he brought was clearly bad to the eye of a lawyer. House v. Stone, 64 Tex. 677. See also Indiana Rev. Stats. (1881), § 6477.

3. Briscoe v. Ellsworth County, 23 Kan. 334; State v. Haughey, 5 Kan. 625. Where the state bids in property, and afterwards assigns it to a purchaser, the sum paid by such purchaser is "the amount sold for" to be inserted in the notice to redeem and to be paid on redemption. Sperry v. Goodwin, 44 Minn. 207.

4. See various state statutes. In Estes v. Stebbins, 25 Kan. 315, a rate of fifty per cent. was held to be within the power of the legislature to fix. See also Milligan v. Hintrager, 18 Iowa 171; Augustin v. Jennings, 42 Iowa 198. In Kittle v. Shervin, 11 Neb. 65, forty per cent. was upheld. In this state the constitution prohibited the enactment of local or special laws regulating interest.

5. So in New York. People v. Cady, 105 N. Y. 299.

6. Long v. Smith, 67 Iowa 22.

7. Under the Iowa statutes, where land offered for sale for two years for delinquent taxes, was finally sold for less than the amount due under the provisions of a statute, it was held that the owner must pay the whole amount of the taxes and penalty in order to redeem. Soper v. Espeset, 63 Iowa 326.

8. Culbertson v. Munson, 104 Ind. 451.

9. Thus, if it is provided that land struck off to a county remains unredeemed for five years, it may be sold, but the five full years must elapse before any steps can be taken towards the second sale, and if costs are made within the five years, they are illegal. Heir v. Rullman, 22 Kan. 606.

10. Tebbetts v. Charleston, 33 W. Va. 705.

11. Chace v. Durfee, 16 R. I. 248.

Tender of amount of purchase-money without the premium allowed by law avails nothing. Lamar v. Sheppard, 84 Ga. 561.

12. A payment of five dollars and ninety-nine cents instead of six dollars and four cents is sufficient, the deficiency being too trivial to invalidate the redemption. Wyatt v. Simpson, 8 W. Va. 394.

The failure to pay anything as

Where land was sold for taxes and under a judgment at the same time, it was held that the whole amount paid, and not that of the taxes only, must be tendered.¹ Taxes paid by the purchaser subsequent to redemption cannot be recovered,² nor can those paid subsequent to the sale but before the deed is made, unless so provided in the statute.³ Neither can taxes levied and due prior to the sale.⁴ Where lots are assessed and sold separately, redemption of any one lot must be made by tendering the whole amount due on it.⁵

12. Notice to Redeem—a. GENERALLY.—The statutes frequently require notice to be given to him whose land has been sold for taxes, of the expiration of the time allowed for redemption, and of the purchaser's intention to apply for a deed.⁶ The form and contents of the notice vary with the language of varying statutes.⁷ The notice must be addressed to the proper person.⁸ It is presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the land is assessed at the time of notice against the same person as at printer's fees for publication of notice of the tax sale will not avoid the redemption where the treasurer had no notice of their amount. State v. Harper, 26 Neb. 761.

The notice of the amount required to redeem from a tax sale specified the date of the judgment instead of the date of the sale as the time from which interest was to run, but the consequent increase of the amount required to redeem was little more than one cent. It was held that the defect was not substantial. Robert v. Western Land Assoc., 43 Minn. 3.

In an action to redeem land sold for taxes, the plaintiff tendered and brought into court the amount which he in good faith believed to be due, the exact amount depending upon the construction of a doubtful law. The court found a larger sum to be due, but held that a judgment in his favor should not be disturbed. Kraus v. Montgomery, 114 Ind. 103.

1. Clower v. Fleming, 81 Ga. 247.

2. Byington v. Allen, 11 Iowa 3; Byington v. Walsh, 11 Iowa 27; Byington v. Wood, 12 Iowa 479; Byington v. Hampton, 13 Iowa 23.

If the law provides for the payment of subsequent taxes, the payment of the purchase-money and premium, without such taxes, will not effect a redemption. Harmon v. Steed, 49 Fed. Rep. 779.

3. Stephens v. Holmes, 26 Ark. 48.

4. If the law prescribes that the one redeeming shall pay the amount for which the land sold, with interest and costs and taxes paid for any subsequent years, he need not tender taxes of previous years. Sheppard v. Clark, 58 Iowa 371.

5. People v. McEwen, 23 Cal. 54.

Where lots have been assessed and sold separately, they must be redeemed separately. Boatmen's Sav. Bank v. Grewe, 101 Mo. 625.

6. See various local statutes. See also NOTICE, vol. 16, p. 787.

See Emeric v. Alvarado, 90 Cal. 444, as to the California statute.

7. See Swan v. Whaley, 75 Iowa 623; Hinkel v. Krueger, 47 Minn. 497.

In the absence of the required notice, the statutory limitation may not be set up in defense to a suit to redeem, but a notice which is merely defective, as for lack of a seal, for example, does not affect the bar. Slyfield v. Healy, 32 Fed. Rep. 2.

The Massachusetts statute provides for redemption by a mortgagee of record at any time within two years after he has actual notice of the sale. It was held in Keith v. Wheeler (Mass. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 174, that the fact that a release to him from the mortgagor declared that the release was "subject to any and all unpaid taxes," was not equivalent to actual notice of a sale for taxes.

8. Hillyer v. Farneman, 65 Iowa 227; Slyfield v. Barnum, 71 Iowa 245; Lynn v. Morse, 76 Iowa 665; Wilson v. Russell, 73 Iowa 395. An immaterial variance does not invalidate the notice, as where it is directed to "Corless," instead of "Corlls," the names being the time of the sale.¹ The requirement of notice, where notice is required, is a condition precedent to the right of the purchaser to demand a deed.² A deed issued without the notice is bad.³ So is a deed executed before the expiration of the time named in the notice.⁴

One who founds ejectment upon a tax title must prove that notice was given, where notice is necessary.⁵ The surrender of the tax certificate in response to a bad notice does not make valid a deed prematurely issued.⁶

A strict compliance with the statutory requirements is essen-idem sonans. Nycum v. Raymond, 73 Iowa 224. A notice not properly addressed is bad, even though served upon the right person. Steele v. Murry, 80 Iowa 336.

If a notice by publication is addressed to "unknown owners," where the land is taxed to one by name, it is insufficient. Hartley v. Boynton, 17 Fed. Rep. 873.

A notice directed to A and some fifteen other named persons, and unknown owners, and referring to the land in question and some fifteen other descriptions, is bad. White v. Smith, 68 Iowa 313; Adams v. Burdick, 68 Iowa 666.

Waiver.—An occupant cannot waive the notice to which the owner is entitled. Jackson v. Esty, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 148.

1. See Ellsworth v. Cordrey, 65 Iowa 303.

2. Caulkins v. Chamberlain, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 113; Ellsworth v. Van Ort, 67 Iowa 222.

Proof of the service of notice establishes a prima facie case in favor of the tax deed. Wilson v. Crafts, 56 Iowa 450.

The statutory notice to redeem is indispensable when a tax deed is wanted, but it is not so where the holder of the tax certificate merely wants to foreclose the tax lien. Lammers v. Comstock, 20 Neb. 341. See also Lockwood v. Gehlert, 127 N. Y. 241; Dentler v. State, 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 258.

Defective Notice.—A notice defective in substance will not support a tax title. Gage v. Bailey, 100 Ill. 530; Wisner v. Chamberlin, 117 Ill. 568; Gage v. Mayer, 117 Ill. 632; Long v. Smith, 62 Iowa 329; Adams v. Griffin, 66 Iowa 125; Long v. Wolf, 25 Kan. 522; Simonton v. Hays, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 286.

In People v. Cady, 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 180, it was held that if the notice to redeem is insufficient and invalid, the case stands as if no notice had ever been given, but that the sale is not invalid.

3. Long v. Smith, 62 Iowa 329; Wilson v. McKenna, 52 Ill. 43; Wisner v. Chamberlin, 117 Ill. 568; Dalton v. Lucas, 63 Ill. 337; Gage v. Bailey, 100 Ill. 530; Holbrook v. Fellows, 38 Ill. 440; Gavin v. Shuman, 23 Ind. 32; Long v. Wolf, 25 Kan. 522; Blackstone v. Sherwood, 31 Kan. 35; People v. Walsh, 22 Hun (N. Y.) 139; Merrill v. Dearing, 32 Minn. 479; Arthurs v. Smathers, 38 Pa. St. 40; Doughty v. Hope, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 594; Gage v. Bani, 141 U. S. 344; Gage v. Lyons, 138 Ill. 590. See also Swope v. Prior, 58 Iowa 412.

The doctrine that the claimant under a tax title must show that he gave the notice prescribed by the constitution, has reference to cases where a paramount title is claimed under such deed, and not to cases where such deed is merely color of title under the Statute of Limitations. Morrison v. Norman, 47 Ill. 477.

After deed has been made it will be presumed that the notice, if needed, was given. Garmoe v. Sturgeon, 65 Iowa 147.

4. See Swope v. Prior, 58 Iowa 412; Barnard v. Hoyt, 63 Ill. 341. See also Bowers v. Hallock, 71 Iowa 218; Holbrook v. Fellows, 38 Ill. 440; Morrison v. Norman, 47 Ill. 477.

5. Holbrook v. Fellows, 38 Ill. 440; Sanborn v. Mueller, 38 Minn. 27; Nelson v. Central Land Co., 35 Minn. 408.

In Illinois, under the statute, the tax deed is void, if it does not allege that notice has been given. Smith v. Prall, 133 Ill. 308.

If the statute prescribes that the notice be recorded, the recording is a condition precedent to the issuing of the deed. Reeds v. Morton, 9 Mo. 878.

6. Long v. Smith, 62 Iowa 329.

tial.¹ A notice served too soon is bad.² It need not be served on the premises.³

b. TO WHOM GIVEN—(1) In General.—Notice need be given only to the persons named in the statute.⁴ Where the constitution requires notice to "parties interested," and the statute notice to the owner merely, notice to the mortgagee is not necessary.⁵ A corporation requires the same notice as does an individual.⁶

(2) The Owner.—Under a requirement of notice to the owner, one to whom land was assessed and in whom the record title was at the time of the sale, is prima facie the owner at the time of the giving of notice.⁷ The death of the owner does not dispense with notice.⁸

1. Blackistone v. Sherwood, 31 Kan. 35; Thompson v. Burhans, 61 N. Y. 52; Clifton Heights Land Co. v. Randell, 82 Iowa 89.

The discovery by the owner, in the treasurer's office, of the sale of his land for taxes, is not the formal official notice required by law. Broughton v. Journey, 51 Pa. St. 31.

That the land was unoccupied, does not preclude the necessity for notice. Lucas v. McEnerney, 19 Hun (N. Y.) 14.

A requirement that notice shall be published at least six months before the expiration of the time for redemption, is not disregarded by a notice published sixteen months before such time. Hoffman v. Clark County, 61 Wis. 5.

2. Griffin v. Tuttle, 74 Iowa 219; Smith v. Walker, 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 391; Donahue v. O'Connor, 45 N. Y. Super. Ct. 278; Lockwood v. Gehlert, 127 N. Y. 241; 53 Hun (N. Y.) 15; Arthurs v. Smathers, 38 Pa. St. 40.

3. Gage v. Bailey, 102 Ill. 11.

4. If notice is required to be served on the person in possession and also on the one in whose name the land is taxed, if a resident of the county where the land lies, none is needed where there is no one in possession and the land is not taxed in the name of any one. Lawrence v. Hornick, 81 Iowa 193; Fuller v. Armstrong, 53 Iowa 683; Tuttle v. Griffin, 64 Iowa 455; Chambers v. Haddock, 64 Iowa 556; Parker v. Cochran, 64 Iowa 757.

Where three years after the sale of land for taxes, it was both unoccupied and taxed to no one, the purchaser was held to be entitled to a deed therefor without giving any notice to the owner at the expiration of the time for redemption; and such deed will be good though made pursuant to a notice published several years later when the land was both occupied by and taxed to the owner. Meredith v. Phelps, 65 Iowa 118.

Under the Minnesota statute, requiring that the notice be served on the person in whose name the land is assessed, service must be made on such person, even though he is the holder of the tax sale certificate. The statute makes no exception. Mitchell v. McFarland, 47 Minn. 535.

5. Smyth v. Neff, 123 Ill. 310. See People v. Edwards, 56 Hun (N. Y.) 377, as to notice to the mortgagee, under the New York statute.

6. Garmoe v. Sturgeon, 65 Iowa 147.

7. Ellsworth v. Cordrey, 65 Iowa 303. Under a statute requiring notice to be given to the owner personally or by publication, it was held that the owner must be designated by name. If the land was described as listed to "owners unknown," the notice was insufficient. Hartley v. Boynton, 17 Fed. Rep. 873; 5 McCrary (U.S.) 453.

Where the land is owned by a woman, it is not enough, under the Illinois statute, to leave a copy of the notice with her husband. Cotes v. Rohrbeck, 139 Ill. 532.

See, as to notice to the owner, Hall v. Guthridge, 52 Iowa 408; Martin v. Stoddard (Bklyn. City Ct.), 4 N. Y. Supp. 177; Lyman v. Anderson, 9 Neb. 367.

8. The fact that the original owner, J. T., is dead, does not make it proper to dispense with notice; it does not follow that there may not be another of the same name, the land remaining taxed to J. T. after the death of the original J. T. Kessey v. Connell, 68 Iowa 430. If the owner dies, the notice must be given to his successor in interest. A

(3) The Occupant.—Notice must, by many statutes, be given to the "occupant" or the person "in possession."¹ The terms refer to actual occupancy or possession only,² and to occupancy and possession at the time of the giving of notice.³ In the absence of proof, it is presumed that the owner is in possession.⁴ Slight acts of ownership are sufficient to constitute occupancy, neither residence on the land nor systematic cultivation being essential.⁵ A cultivation of a part of the tract sold entitles the one cultivating to notice. If it be not given, the title to the notice addressed merely to his estate is insufficient. McGee v. Fleming, 82 Ala 276. As to owners generally, see OWNER, vol. 18, p. 299.

1. Notice given to the adjoining owner by mistake does not invalidate the title if notice was also served on the proper person in possession. Clifton Heights Land Co. v. Randell, 82 Iowa 89. As to definitions, etc., see OCCUPANT, vol. 17, p. 29; POSSESSION, vol. 18, p. 840.

2. Taylor v. Wright, 121 Ill. 455. See, under the Iowa statute, Parker v. Cochran, 64 Iowa 757; Cahalan v. Van Sant (Iowa, 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 433; Snell v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co. (Iowa, 1893), 55 N. W. Rep. 310.

3. Hand v. Ballou, 12 N. Y. 541; Gonzalia v. Barblesman, 143 Ill. 634.

Where personal notice must be given to one in occupation, the mere fact that five months before the expiration of the time for redemption the land was unoccupied does not authorize publication. Gage v. Bailey, 100 Ill. 530.

Such notice must be given, even though at the time of the assessment the land was unoccupied. Comstock v. Beardsley, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 348.

4. Hall v. Guthridge, 52 Iowa 408; Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178.

The owner of cultivated land let it on shares to another, to whom it was assessed. After possession was surrendered, although some of the lessee's property remained on the land with the lessor's consent, notice to redeem was served on the lessee. It was held that the service was insufficient, that it should have been upon the owner, although he did not reside on the land. Whities v. Farsons, 73 Iowa 137.

Service of notice on one in possession as agent of the purchaser, is not a compliance with the Illinois statute. Burton v. Perry (Ill. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 60.

5. Comstock v. Beardsley, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 348, where the court, by Nelson, J., said: "An occupancy that would constitute a good adverse possession of the entire lot, and which might ripen into a title in twenty years, was not within the contemplation of the statute. It was not intended to regard the title of the land thus sold, but the object was to afford to any person who might happen to be an occupant at the date of the deed an opportunity to redeem, presuming that he might be the owner, or in some way legally interested in the land."

Facts Constituting Possession.—Removal of dirt and cutting down weeds from year to year are such acts of ownership as to put the purchaser on inquiry, and make it incumbent on him to give notice to one performing these acts. Sapp v. Walker, 66 Iowa 497. See also Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178.

Facts Insufficient to Constitute Possession.—Where a person placed a few stacks of hay upon land actually occupied by another, and inclosed the stacks with boards to protect them from rain, and there was no agreement for the payment of rent, it was held that his possession was not of such nature as made it necessary for a purchaser of the land at a tax sale to serve notice to redeem upon him under a law requiring notice to "every person in actual possession or occupancy." Drake v. Ogden, 128 Ill. 603.

A joint owner of land, who resided upon it merely as a housekeeper for her brother, but who claimed no control over or interest in the property by reason of such residence, is not in such possession as to entitle her to notice under the Iowa code. Rowland v. Brown, 75 Iowa 679.

Under the Iowa code, one who herds cattle over a range of uninclosed land extending from one to two miles in area, including a particular quarter-section, is not in possession of such quarter-section. Brown v. Pool, 81 Iowa 455.

whole tract fails, not that of the part occupied only.¹ The occupancy must be intentional. Mere accidental encroachments do not constitute occupancy.²

The question whether or not land was occupied or in possession is for the jury.³ The fact that the occupant is unknown to the purchaser will not dispense with notice,⁴ nor will the fact that the one in possession had in fact no interest in the land.⁵

(4) The Person in Whose Name Assessed.—If the statute prescribes notice to the person in whose name the land was assessed, it must be given, even though such person has no interest in it.⁶ The notice must be given to the person assessed at the time of notice.⁷ Where the land is taxed in the name of the purchaser at the tax sale, notice has been held necessary.⁸ So if assessed in the name of the purchaser's wife, it must be given.⁹ Notice to one member of a firm, where land is assessed to the firm, is insufficient.¹⁰

c. GENERAL REQUISITES.—The notice must be precise and

1. Comstock v. Beardsley, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 348; Bush v. Davison, 16 Wend. (N. Y.) 556; Leland v. Bennett, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 286.

2. Smith v. Sanger, 4 N. Y. 577.

3. Smith v. Sanger, 4 N. Y. 577; Jones v. Chamberlain, 109 N. Y. 100.

4. If notice is dispensed with if land be vacant, an affidavit stating that there was no person in actual possession or occupancy, "except as hereinafter stated," and then saying that the lands were fenced in and in the possession of persons unknown, does not bring it within the dispensation. Combs v. Goff, 127 Ill. 431.

5. Clifton Heights Land Co. v. Randall, 82 Iowa 89.

6. In Illinois, where by statute, notice must be served on the person assessed, the notice must be given, even though such person had no interest in the land and claims none. If this is not done the deed will be void, even though notice by publication is given. Barnard v. Hoyt, 63 Ill. 341. Under a law requiring notice to the person in whose name the land is assessed, a notice to the owner, if not that person, is inoperative. Hillyer v. Farneman, 65 Iowa 227.

See, as to notice under the Iowa statute, where the land is taxed to an unknown owner, White v. Smith, 68 Iowa 313; Lawrence v. Hornick, 81 Iowa 193.

7. Heaton v. Knight, 63 Iowa 686;

Heaton v. Knight, 65 Iowa 434; Adams v. Snow, 65 Iowa 435.

Where there has been lawful service of notice to redeem from a tax sale, the fact that when proof of service is made, the land is assessed to another, is immaterial. Rice v. Bates, 68 Iowa 393.

If notice must by statute be given to the person in whose name the property is assessed, it is not invalidated by the fact that it contains also the name of the person to whom it was assessed when tax was levied. Sperry v. Goodwin, 44 Minn. 207.

8. Wakefield v. Day, 41 Minn. 344. But see Lamoreux v. Huntley, 68 Wis. 24.

If the land is assessed to an unknown owner, but the holder of the tax certificate paid the taxes, and the treasurer entered his name as owner, no notice to himself need be given. Knight v. Campbell, 76 Iowa 730; Irwin v. Dakin, 79 Iowa 72; Brown v. Pool, 81 Iowa 457.

9. Western Land Assoc. v. McComber, 41 Minn. 20.

Under a statute providing that notice shall be served upon the person in whose name land is taxed, it was held that when land is taxed to an unknown owner and the name of the holder of the certificate is first entered on the tax list as owner, no notice is necessary. Irwin v. Burdick, 79 Iowa 69.

10. Gage v. Reid, 118 Ill. 35; Hughes v. Carne, 135 Ill. 519.

full.¹ It is better that it should be in writing, although it may be given orally, unless provided otherwise by law.² If it fails to state whether the land was sold for a tax or a special assessment it is defective.³ The land must be described with sufficient fullness to identify it.⁴ The name of the owner should be given, although its omission has been held not a fatal defect.⁵ More than one tract of land may be included in the same notice.⁶

d. CONTENTS OF NOTICE—(1) The Expiration of the Time to Redeem.—The notice must state clearly and directly when the period allowed for redemption expires.⁷

1. Broughton v. Journeay, 51 Pa. St. 31; Long v. Wolf, 25 Kan. 522; Blackstone v. Sherwood, 31 Kan. 35; Garrick v. Chamberlin, 97 Ill. 620; Gage v. Davis, 129 Ill. 236; 16 Am. St. Rep. 260; Griffith v. Utley, 76 Iowa 292; Robert v. Western Land Assoc., 43 Minn. 3; Landregan v. Peppin, 86 Cal. 122; Poindexter v. Doolittle, 54 Iowa 52.

For a notice sufficient to comply with the statute requiring that the notice specify a "day certain," on which to make the redemption, see Hennesey v. Volkening, 22 N. Y. Supp. 528.

A notice which fails to state for what year the land was taxed and to whom it was taxed, is insufficient as a foundation for a tax deed. Taylor v. Wright, 121 Ill. 455; Brophy v. Harding, 137 Ill. 621; Smith v. Buhler, 121 N. Y. 213. If the published list gives the year at the head, and the owner after each tract, it is sufficient. Sperry v. Goodwin, 44 Minn. 207.

2. In Broughton v. Journeay, 51 Pa. St. 31, it was held that although written notice might not be essential, the evidence of its service should be preserved in the archives of the treasurer's office as a muniment of title. And that where the witnesses differed as to the fact of notice and the treasurer could not fix the time within less than three months, the proof of notice was insufficient to go to the jury.

3. Gage v. Waterman, 121 Ill. 115; Stillwell v. Brammell, 124 Ill. 338; Gage v. DuPuy, 137 Ill. 652; Gage v. Webb, 141 Ill. 533.

4. If the number of the township in which the lands lie is wrongly given, the defect is fatal. Thompson v. Burhans, 61 N. Y. 53. If the description is the same as on the tax records and is by reference to a recorded plot of a city, town or subdivision, it is sufficient, even though the county and state are not given. Sperry v. Goodwin, 44 Minn. 207. An erroneous statement of the quantity of land will be treated as surplusage, and will not invalidate the notice. Rowland v. Brown, 75 Iowa 679.

A description as "W. side, N. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. E. N. W. 10 acres sec. 8 T. 23 R. 10," is sufficiently certain. Taylor v. Wright, 121 Ill. 455.

A description omitted to mention the state, county, or city. The land was described as "lot 8, block 4, of Penniman's Addition." The notice was issued by the auditor of H. county. The tract referred to was commonly known as Penniman's Addition, although platted as "Penniman's Addition to Minneapolis." It was held that the description was sufficient to make the notice good. Reimer v. Newell, 47 Minn. 237.

5. Shoup v. Central Branch, etc., R. Co., 24 Kan. 547.

6. Sperry v. Goodwin, 44 Minn. 207; Drake v. Ogden, 128 Ill. 603.

7. Wilson v. McKenna, 52 Ill. 43; Barnard v. Hoyt, 63 Ill. 341; Wisner v. Chamberlin, 117 Ill. 569; Gage v. Bailey, 100 Ill. 530; Gage v. Stewart, 127 Ill. 207; 11 Am. St. Rep. 116; Gage v. Davis, 127 Ill. 236; 16 Am. St. Rep. 260; English v. Williamson, 34 Kan. 212; Torrington v. Rickershauser, 41 Kan. 486; Landregan v. Peppin, 36 Cal. 122; Simonton v. Hays, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 286; Hill v. Timmermeyer, 36 Kan. 252.

A mistake of one day in stating the time for redemption in a notice of purchase at a tax sale will invalidate the tax title. Benefield v. Albert, 132 Ill. 665. But see Hicks v. Nelson, 45 Kan. 51, which held that a notice is not invalidated by the fact that the officer gave by mistake a day too much for redemption.

Notice Sufficient.—Where a delinquent tax notice recited that the sale was made September 3d, 1878, and that the owner must redeem on or before

The owner has until the next day and the time should be so stated in the notice.¹

(2) Amount Due.—Where the statute requires that the amount of the redemption money be stated in the notice, a disregard of this requirement, or a mistake in the amount, renders the notice bad.²

c. PUBLICATION.—Provision is sometimes made by statute for notice by publication.³ If notice can be given personally, not-

September 3d, 1881, it was held that full three years were given for redemption by such notice. Ireland v. George, 41 Kan. 751; Hicks v. Nelson, 45 Kan. 47.

If the sale is made September 7th, 1880, a notice saying that the time will expire September 8th, 1883, is sufficient where three years are given in which to redeem. Torrington v. Rickershauser, 41 Kan. 486.

Under a statute requiring that the notice shall specify the expiration of the redemption period, a notice which stated "that the time for redemption from said sale will expire sixty days after service of this notice," was held sufficient. Parker v. Branch, 42 Minn. 155.

Insufficient Notice.—A notice stating that the land will be deeded "on and after September 5th, 1879, or within three years from the day of sale," is sufficient. Blackstone v. Sherwood, 31 Kan. 35.

A notice stating that the time will expire October 26th, when really November 6th is the correct date, is fatally defective. Gage v. Bailey, 100 Ill. 530.

Where city lots were sold at a tax sale on September 16th, 1875, for the taxes of 1874, and the notice stated that they were sold at a tax sale "commenced September 7th, and closed September 16th, 1875, and that unless such lots are redeemed before the days limited therefor, they will be conveyed to the purchaser," it was held that the notice was insufficient. Jackson v. Challiss, 41 Kan. 247.

A notice which stated the day on which the right of redemption would expire to be the same as that on which it is alleged the sale was made, was held void. Wilson v. McKenna, 52 Ill. 43.

1. Gage v. Davis, 129 Ill. 236; 16 Am. St. Rep. 260; Hill v. Timmermeyer, 36 Kan. 252.

2. A notice stating the amount slightly in excess (one dollar) of that in fact due, has been held, under the California statute, not to comply with the statute and therefore not to bar the right to redeem. Reed v. Lyon, 96 Cal. 501.

In Roberts v. Western Land Assoc., 43 Minn. 3, an error in computing interest, which made a difference of three cents only, was said to be too trifling to invalidate the notice.

In Watkins v. Inge, 24 Kan. 612, the notice stated the amount erroneously; but no redemption was attempted, no offer was made to redeem, and in the circumstances the notice misled no one and worked no injustice. It was held that the error was unimportant.

3. In Frew v. Taylor, 106 Ill. 159, notice by publication was held good, it appearing that there was no occupant within three months before the time of redemption, and that the person in whose name the tax was assessed, could not be found in the county.

An affidavit made more than five months before the expiration of the time for redemption, that no one was in possession of the premises, and that they were vacant and unoccupied at that time, is not sufficient to authorize notice to the owner by publication in a newspaper. Gage v. Bailey, 100 Ill. 530.

Under the Illinois statute, diligent inquiry must be made before publication. Burton v. Perry (Ill. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 60.

In Minnesota, proof of publication of notice of the expiration of the time for redemption is inadmissible without first proving that it is addressed to the party in whose name the land was assessed, and that it had been delivered to the sheriff for service, and that he had made return thereon to the county auditor. Mueller v. Jackson, 39 Minn. 431. See also, as to service by publication under the Minnesota statute, Reimer v. Newall, 47 Minn. 237.

The fact of non-residence must appear in some way, to authorize notice by publication. Sweeley v. Van Steenburg, 69 Iowa 696.

withstanding non-residence, such a notice is generally good, although notice by publication might be equally so.¹

If the publication is to be in a newspaper printed in the county, one published there answers this description, although actually printed elsewhere.² If it is to be in the nearest newspaper to the county, the one published in the town nearest the county line is the proper one.³ Such statutes generally require that the notice be published a certain number of times at stated intervals.⁴ Unless their provisions are complied with, the conveyance to the purchaser at the tax sale is void.⁵ Provisions sometimes exist requiring notice by posting, and similar results follow a failure to comply with them.⁶

f. AFFIDAVIT OF SERVICE AND PUBLICATION.—Statutes provide sometimes for an affidavit of service or publication, to be filed with the officer whose duty it is to execute the tax deed.⁷

1. Baker v. Crabb, 73 Iowa 416. In Seymour v. Harrison (Iowa, 1892), 52 N. W. Rep. 114, it was held that a personal service, though made in another state, superseded the necessity for publication.

2. Nycum v. Raymond, 73 Iowa 224.

3. Weer v. Hahn, 15 Ill. 299.

4. In Wisconsin, where the statute requires the publication "at least six months" before the expiration of the period allowed for redemption, it was held that a publication sixteen months before, was within the discretion of the clerk. Hoffman v. Clark County, 61 Wis. 5.

The requirements of the Nebraska statute for publication in a newspaper at least three times, the first publication not more than five months and the last not less than three before the end of the redemption period, are mandatory. State v. Gayhart, 34 Neb. 192.

Where the statute required that an advertisement be published at least six months before the expiration of two years from the sale, at least twice a week for six weeks successively, it was held that the six weeks must be completed six months before the expiration of the two years. Doughty v. Hope, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 594; 1 N. Y. 79.

To same effect is Bennett v. New York, 1 Sandf. (N. Y.) 485.

5. Bunner v. Eastman, 50 Barb. (N. Y.) 639; Westbrook v. Willey, 47 N. Y. 457.

But it has been held that the provision requiring land to be advertised six months before the expiration of the time of redemption is directory only, and that failure to comply does not affect the purchaser's title. Wright v. Sperry, 21 Wis. 331.

6. As for example, in Kansas, Stout v. Coates, 35 Kan. 382.

Where the affidavit of the county treasurer attached to the redemption notices in his office, recites that the notices were posted at four different places in his county, one of which was in his office, it must be assumed in the absence of other testimony that the notices were posted in public places and that one of them was posted in a conspicuous place in his office. Washington v. Hosp, 43 Kan. 324; 19 Am. St. Rep. 141.

The notice by posting is complete when the notices are put upon the post. Washington v. Hosp, 43 Kan. 324; 19 Am. St. Rep. 141.

7. See the various statutes. The affidavit must be signed. Lynn v. Morse, 76 Iowa 665.

It is insufficient if signed by one merely as "agent," without stating for whom he acted. Taylor v. Wright, 121 Ill. 455.

The purchaser of land at a tax sale conveyed it by quit-claim deed without either assigning the certificate of purchase, or making proof of the service of notice of the expiration of the period for redemption. It was held that he might still make proof of the service of notice; because, if still the lawful holder of the certificate, he was authorized to make such proof by section 894, Iowa Code, and if not such holder, his grantee would be presumed to have authorized his act, which was for the grantee's benefit. Babcock v. Bonebrake, 77 Iowa 710.

Such affidavit is then a prerequisite to the validity of the tax deed.¹ Under these statutes the affidavit cannot be made by the proprietor or publisher of the newspaper.² If so made, however, the defect is cured by the lapse of the statutory period within which the action to set the deed aside may be brought.³

The affidavit must state everything essential.⁴ Omissions in

Where the affidavit of service of notice recited that the affiant was agent of the holder of the tax certificate, and the owner of the land accepted service by him, it was held that there was sufficient proof of his authority. Baker v. Crabb, 73 Iowa 412.

The mere request of the purchaser at a tax sale made to the foreman of a newspaper in which notice of the expiration of the time for redemption is published, to make affidavit to the fact of such publication and return it to the treasurer, does not constitute such foreman an agent of the purchaser within the meaning of section 894 of the Iowa Code. Chambers v. Haddock, 64 Iowa 556.

If the affidavit must be recorded, this is done when it is left with the proper officer. His failure to spread it upon his books does not prejudice the purchaser's right. The original affidavit, or if lost, a copy duly proved, is admissible in evidence. Baker v. Crabb, 73 Iowa 412.

Under the Iowa statute, the affidavit need not recite all the facts required by the statute, nor have attached to it a copy of the notice. Knudson v. Litchfield (Iowa, 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 199.

1. American Missionary Assoc. v. Smith, 59 Iowa 704; Ellsworth v. Cordrey, 63 Iowa 675; Smith v. Heath, 80 Iowa 231; Wisner v. Chamberlin, 117 Ill. 568; Williams v. Underhill, 58 Ill. 137; Davis v. Gossnell, 113 Ill. 121; Gage v. Hervey, 111 Ill. 305; Gage v. Mayer, 117 Ill. 632; Lockwood v. Gehlert, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 15. See also Rowland v. Brown, 75 Iowa 679.

The omission to file with the sheriff a sufficient affidavit, as required by statute, before taking a sheriff's deed for land sold for taxes, will not prevent such deed from being claim and color of title required in good faith under the Illinois Limitation Act of 1839. Whitney v. Stevens, 89 Ill. 53. But where no affidavit of notice can be found in the county clerk's office, a presumption is raised that the notice was not given, and it becomes the duty of a party claiming under a tax deed to prove that the notice was actually given, in order to constitute himself a holder in good faith. Dalton v. Lucas, 63 Ill. 337.

2. American Missionary Assoc. v. Smith, 59 Iowa 704; Adams v. Griffin, 66 Iowa 125; Sweeley v. Van Steenburg, 69 Iowa 696. Compare Stout v. Coates, 35 Kan. 382.

And such defect is not cured by the additional affidavit of the holder of the certificate that publication was made for three consecutive weeks, without stating when the publication was made. Such proof of notice does not limit the time within which the owner may redeem. Ellsworth v. Cordrey, 63 Iowa 675.

It is sufficient if the affidavit of the holder of the certificate of purchase refers to the annexed affidavit of the publisher, that the printed notice pasted upon the latter was published as required by law. Smith v. Heath, 80 Iowa 231; Stull v. Moore, 70 Iowa 149.

In Kansas, where the printer, who published a tax list and notice, makes affidavit thereof as prescribed by the statute, and such affidavit is filed with the county clerk to be preserved by him, the failure or omission of the county treasurer to make another affidavit of the printing of the list and notice in accordance with the statute, is only an irregularity, and will not affect fatally the tax proceedings. Stout v. Coates, 35 Kan. 382.

An affidavit of service on one "as owner," does not comply with the Illinois statute which requires an affidavit of service of notice on "the owner." Stillwell v. Brammell, 124 Ill. 338.

3. Trulock v. Bentley, 67 Iowa 602.

4. Rowland v. Brown, 75 Iowa 679; Davis v. Gossnell, 113 Ill. 121; Price v. England, 109 Ill. 394; Gage v. Hervey, 111 Ill. 305; Stillwell v. Brammell, 124 Ill. 338; Caulkins v. Chamberlain, 37 Hun (N. Y.) 163; Ellsworth v. Van Ort, 67 Iowa 222. It must show service upon the proper person. Brickey v. English, 129 Ill. 626. It need not state where the service was made, this being immaterial.

the affidavit cannot be cured nor can defects be supplied by parol testimony.¹

13. Evidence.—Tender and payment are matters in pais, which may always be shown by parol evidence in order to defeat a tax title.² The failure of the officer to file the affidavit of the facts on which the right of redemption is based, will not defeat the redemption; the facts may be proved by other evidence.³

Where the law provides that a certificate of redemption shall issue, such certificate is evidence of the fact of payment,⁴ but not of the right to redeem, or the age of the redemptioner, or other facts;⁵ neither is it a muniment of title in itself.⁶ Likewise the books of redemptions are competent evidence,⁷ and verified copies of their entries are admissible.⁸ The receipt of the proper officer is prima facie evidence of redemption;⁹ no proof of title need be deduced before the officer to whom redemption money is to be paid. It is enough to show some connection with the title, past or present, by deed, descent, contract, or possession.¹⁰

14. Remedies.—While it is true that redemption need not be sought and cannot be had in a court of equity, in the absence of a statute giving it jurisdiction,¹¹ it is nevertheless the case that the fact of redemption may be of importance as a matter of claim or defense in suits in equity. The statute sometimes grants power to the court to entertain jurisdiction of a bill to redeem.¹² If such a suit is allowed, it cannot be the means of determining

An affidavit which failed to state who was in possession when the notice was served, has been held to be fatally defective. Wisner v. Chamberlin, 117 Ill. 568.

An affidavit "that this affiant served, or caused to be served, written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, notices" is fatally defective. Brickey v. English, 129 Ill. 646.

1. Gage v. Mayer, 117 Ill. 632.

2. Cooper v. Shepardson, 51 Cal. 298. A sufficient foundation for the proof must be laid in the plea for redemption, which must set out facts sufficient to satisfy the statute prescribing the mode of redemption. People v. Ryan, 116 Ill. 73.

3. Chapin v. Curtenius, 15 Ill. 427.

4. Henricksen v. Hodgen, 67 Ill. 179; Byington v. Rider, 9 Iowa 569. See also Rice v. Nelson, 27 Iowa 148.

It is admissible, however, only when made as required by law. Shelton v. Dunn, 6 Kan. 128.

5. Henricksen v. Hodgen, 67 Ill. 179.

The county auditor's certificate that the period allowed for redemption has expired, is not of itself sufficient evidence that the notice has been duly given. Jewell v. Truhn, 38 Minn. 433.

6. Boykin v. Smith, 65 Ala. 294.

7. Gage v. Parker, 103 Ill. 528; Huzzard v. Trego, 35 Pa. St. 9.

8. Johns v. State, 55 Md. 350.

9. Taylor v. Steele, 1 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 316.

The stub of the redemption certificate, kept in the auditor's office, is a "record." Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178.

10. Masterson v. Beasley, 3 Ohio 301.

The officer should receive the money of any one seeking in apparent good faith to redeem, leaving the question of his right for further determination. Cummings v. Wilson, 59 Iowa 14.

As to the presumption of notice arising from possession of the deed, see Fuller v. Armstrong, 53 Iowa 683; Chambers v. Haddock, 64 Iowa 556; Reed v. Thompson, 56 Iowa 455; Ellsworth v. Low, 62 Iowa 178; Baker v. Crabb, 73 Iowa 412.

Where, in an action to redeem, both parties claim title from a common source, the plaintiff need not go behind such source. McKee v. Spiro, 107 Mo. 452.

11. Mitchell v. Green, 10 Met. (Mass.) 101.

12. Craig v. Flanagan, 21 Ark. 319; Serrin v. Brush, 74 Iowa 489; Culver the validity of the tax title; that is assumed.¹ If it be brought by a part owner, it need not describe his interest.² Such a bill does not lie merely to redeem land from the lien of a tax paid by another part owner.³ The petitioner must "do equity;" he must be ready to pay all past dues, whether outlawed or not.⁴ The decree will be that the purchaser quit-claim to the owner.⁵ If tender has been properly made and refused, an injunction will be granted to restrain the execution of the tax deed,⁶ or the public officer can be compelled to accept the money and grant the redemption by mandamus.⁷ If a void tax deed is issued, the claim of the purchaser may be removed as a cloud upon the owner's title,⁸ or it may be treated as a nullity and the land recovered from the tax purchaser in an action of ejectment.⁹ A law requiring payment of the purchase-money and interest, as a condition precedent to questioning the validity of a tax deed, is unconstitutional.¹⁰ The statutes of many states provide that the right of redemption may be foreclosed.¹¹ Their provisions must be strictly followed.¹² Only those made parties to a bill to foreclose are bound by the decree.¹³ An action to foreclose cannot be maintained after redemption, for the purpose of securing costs.¹⁴ If a tax sale is void, the owner cannot be compelled to

v. Watson, 28 N. J. Eq. 548. Such a bill must be brought promptly. Fuller v. Butler, 72 Iowa 729.

Under the Ohio Act of March 3d, 1831, an action to redeem need name no defendant, and no service was necessary. It was essentially a proceeding in rem. Plumb v. Robinson, 13 Ohio St. 298.

1. Chace v. Durfee, 16 R. I. 248.

But an action to redeem under the Minnesota statute, is an action to test the validity of title to land within the statute providing compensation for improvements to occupying claimants in good faith. Goodrich v. Florer, 27 Minn. 97.

In Massachusetts, an action to redeem lies only after a valid sale. Smith v. Smith, 150 Mass. 73. Not so in Iowa. Callanan v. Lewis, 79 Iowa 452.

2. Rich v. Palmer, 6 Oregon 339.

3. Chace v. Durfee, 16 R. I. 248.

4. Barke v. Early, 72 Iowa 273.

A bill to redeem, setting up the respective interests of the parties and praying that the petitioner be allowed to redeem as provided by law, implies a tender, and where there is no objection to its terms or to the fact that no tender was actually made, title is re-vested in the owner, and the estate of the purchaser terminated. The purchaser is thereafter liable for rents and profits. Bender v. Bean, 52 Ark. 132.

5. Simonds v. Towne, 4 Gray (Mass.) 603.

6. Koon v. Snodgrass, 18 W. Va. 320.

7. State v. Haughey, 5 Kan. 625; People v. Treasurer of Detroit, 8 Mich. 14; 77 Am. Dec. 433; People v. Registrar of Arrears, 114 N. Y. 19. See also MANDAMUS, vol. 14, p. 151.

8. Smith v. Gage, 11 Biss. (U. S.) 217; Reed v. Tyler, 56 Ill. 288; Lynn v. Morse, 76 Iowa 605; Smith v. Smith, 150 Mass. 73. For a form in such a suit under the codes of civil procedure, see Maxwell on Code Pleading, pp. 676, 677.

9. Cooper v. Shepardson, 51 Cal. 298.

10. Reed v. Tyler, 56 Ill. 288.

11. Atkins v. Paige, 50 Iowa 666.

12. Peet v. O'Brien, 5 Neb. 360; Dayton v. Relf, 34 Wis. 86; Durbin v. Platto, 47 Wis. 484; Dentler v. State, 4 Blackf. (Ind.) 258; Gaylor v. Scarff, 6 Iowa 179; McGahan v. Carr, 6 Iowa 330; 71 Am. Dec. 421; Byington v. Buckwalter, 7 Iowa 512; 74 Am. Dec. 279; Abell v. Cross, 17 Iowa 171; Carter v. Hadley, 59 Miss. 130; McNish v. Perrine, 14 Neb. 582.

13. Coe v. Manseau, 62 Wis. 81. Thus if a cestui que trust is not made a party he may afterwards redeem. Corrigan v. Bell, 73 Mo. 53.

14. Two Rivers Mfg. Co. v. Beyer, 74 Wis. 210; 17 Am. St. Rep. 131.

pay redemption money, and, if he does so, he cannot recover the amount so paid.¹

XVIII. DISTRIBUTION AND DISPOSITION OF THE AVAILS OF TAXATION

—1. Settlement Between State and County.—The county officers must account to the state for the whole amount of the state taxes assessed and levied; if they fail to collect such taxes, the loss must fall upon the county and not upon the state, for the amount remaining uncollected cannot be deducted in the settlement.² In the event of delinquencies, suits pertaining thereto

1. Morris v. Sioux County, 42 Iowa 416; Marsh v. St. Croix County, 42 Wis. 355. The fact that the payment is under protest does not affect the rule. Shane v. St. Paul, 26 Minn. 543; Jones v. Duras, 14 Neb. 40. But see as stating a doctrine contrary to that of the text, Clapp v. Pinegrove Tp., 138 Pa. St. 35.

Where one tract of land has been sold for taxes due upon another, the owner of the tract which has been sold has a lien upon the other tract for the redemption money. Cockrum v. West, 122 Ind. 372.

2. New York v. Davenport, 92 N. Y. 604; State v. Kings County, 125 N. Y. 312; Winchester County v. Toyer, 24 Wis. 312. The relation between the state and the county is that of debtor and creditor, and not that of principal and agent. Com. v. Philadelphia County (Pa. 1887), 10 Atl. Rep. 772; Schuylkill County v. Com., 36 Pa. St. 524. But see Wood v. Monroe County, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 1; and State v. Leavenworth, 2 Kan. 61.

So long as the county is indebted to the state for state taxes, the latter may withhold the amount due the county on account of funds collected by the state for the several townships. Ottawa County v. Auditor Gen'l, 69 Mich. 1; 23 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 606. But the county cannot, in an action against it by the auditor general, for state taxes levied and collected by it, set up by way of counter-claim, a demand of its own against the state. Auditor Gen'l v. Van Tassel, 73 Mich. 28.

Mandamus will lie, on relation of the state treasurer, to compel the treasurer of a county to pay over the state's proportion of taxes collected by him. State v. Staley, 38 Ohio St. 259; People v. Jackson County, 24 Mich. 237; and a sum of money lost to the state in consequence of the failure of a county treasurer to account for moneys received at a tax sale, may be compulsorily required to be spread on the tax rolls of the county by the board of supervisors. People v. St. Clair County, 30 Mich. 388.

The mere fact of a tax being collected under an improper head and as for the county, will not entitle the county thereto and deprive the state thereof where the full limit of taxes for the county was also collected. State v. Currituck County, 107 N. Car. 110.

The board of revenue commissioners of Pennsylvania have ample power, under sections 2 and 3 of the act of 1876, to inquire into the corrections of any county's return of personal property subject to state taxation; hence, their decision thereon unappealed from, is conclusive upon both the county and the commonwealth; and the latter is estopped, upon appeal by the former, from an account settled by the auditor general and state treasurer, to set up the claim that the return was grossly below the actual assessment. Com. v. Philadelphia County (Pa. 1887), 10 Atl. Rep. 772.

A statute authorizing the state to sell lands which it bid in at a tax sale and held for five years, and to charge back to the proper county any deficiency in the amount bid at such re-sale below the amount bid by the state at the first sale, is invalid in so far as it authorizes losses on previous purchases to be charged back to the county. Auditor Gen'l v. Ottawa County, 76 Mich. 295. See also Aplin v. Shiawassee County, 74 Mich. 536; People v. Monroe County, 36 Mich. 70; Stevens v. Saginaw County, 62 Mich. 579. These cases are distinguished from Aplin v. Van Tassel, 73 Mich. 28, and Aplin v. Grand Traverse County, 73 Mich. 182, in that, in those cases the respondent sought to set off as a counter-claim the money paid to the state for losses upon the sale of state tax lands, and in these cases, such losses are made one of the items in relator's account.

On application for a writ of mandamus to compel the board of supervisors must be prosecuted by the county, or for the benefit of the county.¹

to assess and collect a sum which the county is alleged to be owing the state, the respondent's claim that an item of the alleged indebtedness is invalid, is not a counter-claim and may be considered. Aplin v. Shiawassee County, 74 Mich. 536. But under a constitutional provision that "no money shall be paid out of the treasury except on appropriations made by law, and on warrant drawn by the proper officer," a statute providing for the payment of bounties by a county treasurer for the destruction of certain wild animals or poisonous weeds, and for planting trees, the amount to be credited in his settlement with the state treasurer, is unconstitutional. Institute for Education of Mute and Blind v. Henderson, 18 Colo. 98.

Under the tax system of Michigan, all unpaid taxes which are returned as delinquent, belong to the state, and the counties have no further concern with, or control over them, except in case any tax is found to be illegal and is lawfully set aside by the proper state authority; and every dollar of taxes returned unpaid, in due course of law is a payment to that extent of the debts due from the county to the state, and the accounting between county and state is upon this basis; but the state is not authorized to charge back to the county because of injunctions, any taxes which have been returned as delinquent, until they have been rejected or held invalid by some competent authority; though if the injunctions were issued under circumstances which left authority in the auditor general to reject them for illegalities, and he actually rejected them for adequate causes, the fact that he did not wait for a decree, would not be important. People v. Monroe County, 36 Mich. 70.

Where the manner of dealing between the state and county, shows that no settlement was ever made between the two, and that there was never any express undertaking on the part of the county to pay or allow the accounts containing an item afterwards objected to, the most that can be claimed by the state is an "account stated" which would leave the dealings open to be impeached by the county for fraud or mistake. White v. Campbell, 25 Mich.

468; Stevens v. Saginaw County, 62 Mich. 579. And see Aplin v. Midland County, 84 Mich. 121.

A settlement which is unappealed from and unopened, made with a county by the auditor general and state treasurer, is conclusive, and a credit due the county thereon cannot be diminished by the transfer of a portion to a county subsequently erected out of the former, without that county's consent. Com. v. Luzerne County (Pa. 1888), 15 Atl. Rep. 548.

How Payment to the State May Be Made.—A statutory provision that payment of the state tax by a county treasurer "may also be made by depositing such money to the credit of the treasurer of the state" etc., does not limit such payment to the mode specified; any mode which brings the money to the official custody of the state treasurer, is lawful and proper. Phelps v. People, 72 N. Y. 334.

Interest on Arrears of Taxes.—In New York, by statute (Sess. 38, ch. 29, § 4) interest runs on arrears of taxes owing by a county, to be calculated after thirty days from the time when the account current is made up and rendered by the comptroller. People v. New York County, 5 Cow. (N. Y.) 331. And where it has been customary to charge interest on the annual balances due the state, and, when unpaid, to carry them forward into the account of the ensuing year, of which they form a partial balance, such balances are considered debts due the state, and such method of computing interest is not illegal as compounding it. Auditor Gen'l v. Ottawa County, 76 Mich. 295.

A county cannot object to interest charged on items charged back to it by the auditor general where such has been the custom for many years, and it has made no objection to such charges in the annual statements furnished it. Aplin v. Shiawassee County, 74 Mich. 536. And see Mason v. Hazelton Tp., 82 Mich. 440.

A judgment against a defaulting tax collector should recite the date from which interest allowed is calculated on public money collected. Timon v. San Patricio County, 58 Tex. 263.

1. Sexton v. Peck, 48 Iowa 250; Brown v. Painter, 44 Iowa 368; Bur-

In controversies between the state and a county, growing out of tax proceedings, the state, while represented by the auditor general, is the real party in interest, and, in the legal positions taken, speaks through the attorney general, while the county speaks by its board of supervisors.¹

County officials are not authorized to deduct fees or costs of collection in accounting with the state.² They must make settlement with the state at the time fixed by law, and the state auditor has no power to extend the time.³ It is not a sufficient accounting for the collector to pay over the money in liquidation of a balance against him in the tax digest of a previous year,⁴ lington v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 41 Iowa 134; State v. Henderson, 40 Iowa 242.

And where a plaintiff holds the right and claim of the county and state, his right must be determined by the same rule as though the action had been brought by the county. Callanan v. Madison County, 45 Iowa 561.

The county treasurer is the proper relator, in a suit on a share of official bond, to recover taxes collected for school purposes. Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145.

1. Stevens v. Saginaw County, 62 Mich. 579. See also People v. Regents, 4 Mich. 98; Water Com'rs v. Common Council, 33 Mich. 170; Ayers v. State Auditors, 42 Mich. 430; Wood v. Supervisors, 2 N. Y. Supp. 369.

2. When the state treasurer charges to each county the amount of revenue assessed to each for state purposes, the county and state stand in the relation of debtor and creditor, the revenue becomes a debt to be paid in full, and the county cannot burden it with any drawback or percentage for collecting it. Multnomah County v. State, 1 Oregon 358. And a constitutional provision that all taxes must be paid into the state treasury without deduction for commissions or other charges, is self-enforcing. Cunningham v. Moody, 2 Idaho 862. But see Biehn v. Bucks County, 132 Pa. St. 561, where by statute the county treasurer is allowed to retain his commission; and State v. Donnelly, 20 Nev. 214.

The State Purchaser of Lands at Tax Sale—Liability for County Taxes, or Tax Collector's Fees.—When the state becomes the purchaser of lands sold for taxes, the sum bid must include the county tax, with interest and penalties incurred; but the state is not liable to the county for this part of the amount bid, nor is a tax collector entitled, on settlement of his accounts, to a credit for it. The state is never liable for costs or fees, unless expressly given against it by law; and the tax collector is not entitled to fees for levying on and selling the lands bought in by the state. State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287. See also State v. Kinne, 41 N. H. 238.

Penalties.—Money collected as a penalty, added to delinquent taxes, belongs to the county and state, respectively, in proportion to the amount of the state and county taxes. Hancock County v. State, 119 Ind. 473. See also State v. Jersey City, 50 N. J. L. 359; People v. Reis, 76 Cal. 269; Wood v. Monroe County, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 1.

3. When state tax collectors do not make settlement with the state at the time fixed by law, they are defaulters, and the auditor of the state has no power to extend the time of settlement. State v. Lanier, 31 La. Ann. 423.

4. Collector's Funds Cannot Be Applied to a Pre-existing Debt.—Taxes collected and paid into the treasury cannot lawfully be applied to a discharge of a pre-existing debt of the tax collector, on a former account. The collector cannot authorize it, nor can the comptroller apply it to the injury of the sureties of the collector, and the fact that the comptroller was ignorant of the source from which the funds had been received, which he had applied, without instructions from the collector, to his indebtedness for taxes for former years, will not deprive the sureties of the benefit of the payment of such funds into the treasury by their principal. State v. Middleton, 57 Tex. 185. See also U. S. v. Eckford, 1 How. (U. S.) 261; Jones v. U. S., 7 How. (U. S.) 688; U. S. v. January, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 575; Meyers v. U. S., 1 McLean (U. S.) 496; Pickering v.

nor can he escape liability for state taxes collected, because of the invalidity of orders under which they were collected,¹ or by the mistake of the state officials in the accounting.² But where a collector has paid over to the state a tax which he has failed to collect, he may recover the same from the person assessed, as money paid to his use.³ On the general question of the responsibility of a county for the defaults of its treasurer, and what effect laches on the part of the state may have, as between the state and its municipal subdivisions, reference is made to the authorities cited in the notes.⁴

Day, 2 Del. Ch. 367; Boring v. Williams, 17 Ala. 525; Porter v. Stanley, 47 Me. 518; Wilkinson v. Bennett, 56 Ga. 290.

1. The tax, though part of it be illegal and avoidable by the taxpayer, when collected under process and by color of office, cannot be retained by the collector, but must be accounted for to the proper party. Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145. See also Mississippi County v. Jackson, 51 Mo. 23; Wilkinson v. Bennett, 56 Ga. 290; Fort v. Clough, 8 Me. 334; Johnson v. Goodridge, 15 Me. 29; Orono v. Wedgewood, 44 Me. 49; Hewlett v. Nutt, 79 N. Car. 263; Wake County v. Magnin, 78 N. Car. 181.

In Sandwich v. Fish, 2 Gray (Mass.) 298, the court, by Shaw, C. J., says: "Defects on the warrant or tax list might be a good excuse for not executing the warrant. But to say that a collector who has collected the money without objection by the taxpayers, is not liable to account therefor, would be contrary to the rules of law as to justice."

2. The failure of a state auditor, in settling with a tax collector, to include items with which he was justly chargeable, will not bar the state from an appropriate action against the officer; but the error must be shown, as in other cases of mistakes in accounting; it cannot be proved or shown prima facie, by a restatement by a succeeding auditor. Hobson v. Com., 1 Duv. (Ky.) 172. See also Richmond County v. Ellis, 59 N. Y. 620; Onondaga County v. Briggs, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 26; Arthur v. Adam, 49 Miss. 404; U. S. v. Jones, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 375; Porter v. School Directors, 18 Pa. St. 144; Middletown Tp. v. Miles, 61 Pa. St. 290; Burnett v. Portage County, 12 Ohio 54; Kendall v. U. S., 12 Pet. (U. S.) 524; Treasurer of Mobile v. Huggins, 8 Ala. 440.

And the fact that state and county taxes have been accidentally blended and confused on the tax list, does not exonerate the collector from the duty of paying each tax to the party entitled thereto. Clifton v. Wynne, 80 N. Car. 145.

3. Ward v. Richardson, 1 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 449. See also McCracken v. Elder, 34 Pa. St. 239. But compare Wallace's Estate, 59 Pa. St. 401, where taxes assessed on land under an act making taxes a lien prior to all other charges on the premises, had been paid over by the collector, but were unpaid by the owner. In 1859, the owner confessed judgment to the collector for their amount as collateral, and shortly afterwards died. The land was sold in 1864 by order of the Orphans' Court; there had always, up to the time of the sale, been sufficient personal property on the premises to satisfy the taxes, and the court held that the collector had no priority over liens which preceded his judgment.

Reclamation of Fees Paid Over by Mistake.—Under the Indiana fee and salary law (Acts 1875, Spec. Sess., p. 37) entitling a county treasurer to five per centum on delinquent taxes collected, a county treasurer, by mistake, retained only one per centum. Held, he was entitled under the assessment law of 1872, §§ 177 and 178, and under the Act of March 31st, 1879, § 5811, R. S. 1881, to an order from the county board for repayment. Harrison County v. Benson, 83 Ind. 470.

4. People v. St. Clair County, 30 Mich. 387; Hart Tp. v. Oceana County, 44 Mich. 417; Detroit v. Weber, 26 Mich. 284; Potter County v. Oswayo Tp., 47 Pa. St. 162; People v. Columbia County, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 363. And where a county treasurer reported to the auditor general that the county had used for certain purposes, money paid on sales of lands for state taxes, and the auditor general took his receipt for

2. Accounting Between Subdivisions of the State.—It is the duty of the county officials, after settlement with the state, to divide the revenue, collected for other than state purposes, between the county and city, and the various districts to which the taxes collected are to be appropriated, in the proportions provided for by statute.¹

the same and charged the amount to the county, it was held, on the treasurer becoming a defaulter, that the county must bear the loss, although it had never used the money. Aplin v. Shiawassee County, 74 Mich. 536.

The state is not to be prejudiced by the laches of its agents; so where the bond, taken from the county treasurer for the faithful performance of his duties in behalf of the commonwealth, and approved by the judges of the court of quarter sessions, was insufficient, the county was not thereby released from liability to the state. Schuykill County v. Com., 36 Pa. St. 524; and statute providing that all losses sustained by the default of a county treasurer, in the discharge of the duties imposed upon him, shall be chargeable to the county, covers a default in the treasurer in not paying over the amount due the state on tax sales. People v. St. Clair County, 30 Mich. 388.

Where a county treasurer fails to pay over the proceeds, from a state tax, which have come into his hands, the board of supervisors is not required to levy a new tax for the sum retained, until all remedies against the county treasurer and the sureties on his official bond are exhausted, for the money cannot be said to be actually lost, pending such litigation. People v. Livingston County, 17 N. Y. 486.

1. A statutory enactment providing for a division of taxes collected and paid into the county treasury, between the county and city in a certain proportion, is not unconstitutional and may be enforced by law. Logan County v. Lincoln, 81 Ill. 156; Springfield v. Power, 25 Ill. 187.

A county is responsible to a township for township taxes collected by the county treasurer and not paid over by him. Potter County v. Oswayo Tp., 47 Pa. St. 162. But see Marquette County v. Dillon, 49 Mich. 244. But not until such taxes have come into the county treasury in a legal way. Guittard Tp. v. Marshall County, 4 Kan. 388. And see Honey Creek Tp. v. Floete County, 59 Iowa 109. In Pontiac v. Axford, 49 Mich. 69, it was held that a city treasurer whose duty is to collect taxes and to make return to county treasurer, and who has power to collect unpaid taxes in the name of the city, may pay over the amount of the city tax to the county treasurer, even though the taxes of certain individuals have not been paid. An action may afterwards be maintained against them in the name of the city for the amount of their assessments.

Where the county authorities received and held money under a public law for the benefit of a city, the obligation of the county existed by law and it could not avail itself of the Statute of Limitations in a suit by the city to recover it. Logan County v. Lincoln, 81 Ill. 156.

Where a township collector has paid over to the county collector all county taxes levied in the township for a given year, he is not liable to the county for a portion thereof credited by order of the township committee to taxes due from the township for a previous year in which there was a deficit. State v. Mathe, 51 N. J. L. 216.

The duty imposed by statute on the county judge and on the mayor of a city, to divide the county revenue between the city and county, is merely ministerial, and on the neglect of those officers to perform the duty, the amount due the city may be ascertained in any other satisfactory manner. Logan County v. Lincoln, 81 Ill. 156.

Where a township issuing bonds in aid of a railway is entitled, by statute, to the county taxes collected from the railroad within the township and devoted to payment of the bonds, any diversion of such tax from the lawful object is an injury to the township which may be protected by an action in its behalf. Bridges v. Sullivan County, 92 N. Y. 570. And see Wood v. Monroe County, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 1.

Preference of Town Over County.—In Winchester County Treasurer v. Tozer, 24 Wis. 312, the court held that under Wisconsin R. S., ch. 18, a town treasurer is justified in giving preference to the town over the county, where he was not able to collect sufficient taxes to pay both. See also

A treasurer failing to pay over the proper quota may be compelled to do so by mandamus,¹ and will be charged with interest thereon from the time it should have been paid.²

3. Appropriations.—It will be presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that the revenues will be sufficient to meet all appropriations made against them;³ but the money raised for general purposes by a municipal corporation must first be applied to the payment of current expenses.⁴ Generally speaking, a tax raised professedly for one purpose may be applied to any other

Wolff v. Stoddard, 25 Wis. 503; Stahl v. O'Malley, 39 Wis. 328. But in New Jersey, under act 1886, § 83 (N. J. Rev. 1159), the county and state taxes must be paid out of the first moneys collected under the tax levy. State v. Jersey City, 50 N. J. L. 359; State v. Bernards Tp., 42 N. J. L. 338.

County Orders.—County orders received by a town treasurer in payment of county taxes, belong to the county and not to the town, and the town treasurer cannot hold them for the use of the town, but must deliver them to the county treasurer in his settlement. Webster v. Oconto County, 47 Wis. 216. See also Pelton v. Crawford County, 10 Wis. 69.

Where New County is Organized.—Where a county is organized from territory detached from others, the equities between the new and old counties as to county taxes previously levied, should be adjusted under Michigan Comp. L., ch. 9, p. 226. But township, school district, and road district taxes should be accounted for by the county to which returns were made, and with the respective townships and districts for which they were levied. Clare County v. Auditor Gen'l, 41 Mich. 182.

A county liable for a balance to a township set off from it, cannot relieve itself of any share of its liability by compromising with a defaulting treasurer. Such act cannot be treated as an act of agency on behalf of the township. Roscommon Tp. v. Midland County, 49 Mich. 454.

1. Cass Tp. v. Dillon, 16 Ohio St. 38; State v. Bernards Tp., 42 N. J. L. 338; State v. Jersey City, 50 N. J. L. 359. And see People v. Jackson County, 24 Mich. 237.

2. State v. Van Winkle, 43 N. J. L. 125; Sheridan v. Stevenson, 44 N. J. L. 371. See also People v. Gasherie, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 71; Chenango County v. Birdsall, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 453; Board of Justices v. Fennimore, 1 N. J. L. 242; State v. Sooy, 39 N. J. L. 539.

3. State v. State Auditor, 32 La. Ann. 89; State v. Clinton, 28 La. Ann. 400. And see In re Appropriations, 13 Colo. 316.

Where the whole amount of a city levy is not collected, the portion collected need not be pro-rated between the objects named in the general appropriation ordinance, in the relative proportion that each particular tax bears to the whole sum levied. Fuller v. Heath, 89 Ill. 296.

But in order to compel the state auditor by mandamus to issue his warrant for an appropriation, it must clearly appear, either that there were funds in the treasury at the date of the appropriation, not otherwise appropriated, or that the legislature provided for the levying of a sufficient tax to pay it within the proper fiscal year. Henderson v. People, 17 Colo. 587; In re Appropriations, 13 Colo. 316.

Taxes authorized for the current fiscal year and which will be paid within that year, are revenue from which the appropriations from that year may be paid, notwithstanding they cannot actually come into the state treasury until its expiration. State v. Kenney, 10 Mont. 488.

4. See State v. Harvey, 12 Neb. 31; East St. Louis v. Board of Trustees, 6 Ill. App. 130, which was a petition for a mandamus to compel the payment of a judgment. And see Tucker v. Raleigh, 75 N. Car. 267, in which it was held that when a city exercises its powers of taxation to the utmost, and the amount realized is sufficient to pay only necessary current expenses, no portion of such taxes can be diverted to the payment of antecedent debts.

A general appropriation act to defray the expenses of the executive, legislative, and judicial departments of the state government, must take precedence over an appropriation for the legitimate purpose,¹ and the legislature may provide for the payment of deficiencies out of other sources of income than a deficiency tax specially levied;² but special taxes must go exclusively

Soldiers' and Sailors' Home; but although the appropriation for the Home provides that a part of such sum may be used during a particular year, this does not amount to an appropriation of such sum out of the revenue of that year. Henderson v. People, 17 Colo. 587. And see In re Appropriations, 13 Colo. 316.

Where, by the charter of a city, a fund raised by annual tax is authorized for the purpose of paying the necessary current expenses and administration, not including payments on account of certain city bonds, a court cannot require such fund to be appropriated to the payment of the bonds. See St. Louis v. U. S., 110 U. S. 321.

1. "There may, perhaps, be an exception where a tax is levied by a special authority from the legislature, or upon the vote of the people, which would not otherwise be lawful. We speak only of a tax levied under the ordinary powers of the county commissioners." Long v. Richmond County, 76 N. Car. 273. And under the constitution of South Dakota, an act levying a tax for an extraordinary expense, must clearly state its object, and the tax so levied cannot be diverted to any other use. In re Limitation of Taxation (S. Dak. 1893), 54 N. W. Rep. 417. And where taxes collected on the assessed valuation of a railroad in a municipality which has issued bonds in aid of its construction, instead of being used by the county treasurer to purchase the bonds, or invested by him as required by the act authorizing their issue in aid of the road, have been applied to the payment of county obligations, the town has an equitable cause of action against the board of supervisors to compel the levying of a tax upon the county for the amount so misappropriated. Kilbourne v. Sullivan County, 137 N. Y. 170. And see Collins v. Henderson, 11 Bush (Ky.) 74; Paxton v. Baum, 59 Miss. 531; Morgan v. Pueblo, etc., R. Co., 6 Colo. 458; State v. Harvey, 12 Neb. 31; Merrill v. Marshall County, 74 Iowa 24; Vinton v. Cattaraugus County, 2 N. Y. Supp. 367; 50 Hun (N. Y.) 600; Brown v. Hertford County, 100 N. Car. 92.

In State v. St. Louis County Ct., 34 Mo. 546, it was held that money collected by a county for specific purposes might, by act of the legislature, be diverted to another use. And see State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 9 Mo. App. 532; St. Louis v. Shields, 52 Mo. 351; State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; Blanding v. Burr, 13 Cal. 343; Graham v. Parham, 32 Ark. 676.

But county commissioners have no power to appropriate a fund raised by taxation to defray county charges and expenses of the current year, to the erection of permanent county buildings. State v. Marion County, 21 Kan. 419. And see National Bank v. Barber, 24 Kan. 545; State v. Haben, 22 Wis. 660.

But it will not be presumed that a tax levied for parks and boulevards will be expended upon improvements in a town other than that in which it was collected, although it is payable to park commissioners who control boulevards not situated in such town. Halsey v. People, 84 Ill. 89.

If the funds raised for a particular purpose have been wrongfully diverted to other purposes, the only remedy of the municipality or government levying taxes, is against those guilty of the wrong-doing. The creditors for whose benefit the tax was levied are not to suffer thereby. Pope County v. Sloan, 92 Ill. 177.

2. See State v. Cobb, 8 S. Car. 123, where it was held that the legislature could constitutionally provide that the poll tax of any year should be applied to the payment of past due school claims against the county. And in State v. State Auditor, 32 La. Ann. 89, it was held that the legislature might provide for the payment of a just debt of the state, out of a surplus of the revenues of any particular year.

A balance of a claim for sheep killed by dogs, after applying all the taxes of the year applicable thereto, may be paid out of the tax of the following year, under Pennsylvania Act, May 15th, 1889, providing for the payment to the school fund, of any surplus of the fund amounting to $100, as the statute does not forbid nor prohibit the carrying forward of the unpaid balance of a former claim. Nevin v. Dreher School Dist., 2 Pa. Dist. Rep. 565; 12 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 449.

in the channel directed by the special act,¹ and county commissioners will be enjoined from diverting the sinking fund tax from the purpose for which it was raised, and transferring it to the general fund.² Where, by constitutional provision, the revenues of each year must be devoted to the expenses of the same year, an appropriation for the expenses of a joint committee of the preceding legislature, cannot be made from current revenues, by the legislature of the succeeding year.³ Internal improvements, for which an appropriation is made, must be of a permanent nature and within the state.⁴

1. Coy v. Lyons, 17 Iowa 1; Santee v. Allegheny City, 10 Pitts. Leg. J. 241; Louisville v. Murphy, 86 Ky. 53; Beck v. Allen, 58 Miss. 143; Galma v. Amy, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 705; Ranger v. New Orleans, 2 Woods (U. S.) 128. And see Clark v. Sheldon, 106 N. Y. 104.

And when collected and set apart, according to the provisions of the act by which they are authorized, they constitute a trust fund, and the municipality or officer in whose charge they are placed may be enjoined from using them for any other than the designated purpose. Maenhaut v. New Orleans, 2 Woods (U. S.) 108; Ranger v. New Orleans, 2 Woods (U. S.) 128; Aurora v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Ill. App. 360; Bradford v. Chicago, 25 Ill. 411. And the Statute of Limitations will not run against the party entitled to the fund. Aurora v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Ill. App. 360.

A county or other municipality is a trustee, so far as it uses the funds or means gathered from its taxpayers, to the extent, at least, of the due collection and application of such funds to the purposes authorized by law. Winston v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 1 Baxt. (Tenn.) 60.

Where a tax voted in aid of a railroad remains in the hands of a treasurer as a distinct fund, no judgment can be rendered against the county for its repayment, when forfeited by the railroad company. Barnes v. Marshall County, 56 Iowa 20. But where a tax voted in aid of a railway is collected and placed in the general funds of the county, and expended in paying ordinary county indebtedness, its identity is lost and the county is liable for the amount to the railway company or its assignee. Merrill v. Marshall, 74 Iowa 24.

2. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Dawson County, 12 Neb. 254; Clark v. Sheldon, 134 N. Y. 333; 40 Am. & Eng. Corp. Cas. 695. See also, in addition to the foregoing cases, Morton v. Comptroller Gen'l, 4 S. Car. 430; People v. Cairo, 50 Ill. 154; Wood v. Monroe County, 2 N. Y. Supp. 369; 50 Hun (N. Y.) 1.

Where a city is limited by its charter to the levying of a certain per cent., a designated portion of which is required to be applied to the payment of its bonded indebtedness, if the city levies a less amount than that limited, it must apply the same proportion of the amount levied to its bonded indebtedness as it would have applied had the whole amount been levied. East St. Louis v. Underwood, 105 Ill. 308.

3. See Klein v. Johnson, 33 La. Ann. 587. But the effect of an act which, after appropriating a certain sum for a certain legal purpose, payable in annual installments, provides that "out of all state taxes collected, one-half of one mill on every dollar shall be set apart of the general funds as a fund to meet" said sum, is merely to diminish the general fund tax by the amount it levies, and does not violate the constitutional provision. Harris v. Dubuclet, 30 La. Ann. 662. Such a provision does not repudiate the subsisting obligations of the state if the legislature fails to provide an annual revenue sufficient to pay them. The effect of such neglect would be that a subsequent legislature would, by taxation and appropriations, provide for their payment. State v. Johnson, 28 La. Ann. 511. And see State v. New Orleans, 29 La. Ann. 863; and State v. State Auditor, 32 La. Ann. 89.

In California, each year's income and revenue of a municipality must pay each year's indebtedness and liability, and no indebtedness or liability incurred in any one year can be paid out of the income or revenue of any future year. San Francisco Gas Co. v. Brickwedel, 62 Cal. 641.

4. Appropriations for transient objects, such as for personality, or for the World's Fair, or to defray current ex-

XIX. REMEDIES FOR ERRONEOUS AND ILLEGAL TAXATION—1. Remedies of the State—a. REMEDIES BY LEGISLATIVE ACTION.—Defects in a law authorizing a tax may be remedied by amendments, so as to affect any tax levied thereunder which has not yet been collected.¹

Subject to the constitutional restrictions upon local and special legislation,² defective or irregular proceedings in the exercise of a valid authority to levy, assess, or collect taxes,³ and even the lack of such authority,⁴ may be cured retrospectively by an act of the penses in carrying on state institutions, cannot be made from such fund. In re Internal Improvements, 18 Colo. 317. But an appropriation to exhibit the resources and progress of the state at the World's Fair, is for a public or governmental purpose. Norman v. Kentucky Board of Managers, etc. (Ky. 1892), 20 S. W. Rep. 901.

1. Cowgill v. Long, 15 Ill. 202; Boardman v. Beckwith, 18 Iowa 292.

2. See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, vol. 3, pp. 670, 695; STATUTES, vol. 23, p. 140.

3. Allen v. Archer, 49 Me. 346; Hart v. Henderson, 37 Mich. 218; People v. Ingham County, 20 Mich. 95; Butler v. Saginaw County, 26 Mich. 22; Vaughan v. Swayzie, 56 Miss. 504; State v. Love, 47 N. J. L. 436; Tift v. Buffalo 82 N. Y. 204; Russel v. Wertz, 24 Pa. St. 337.

Thus, the legislature may prescribe a mode of correcting and enforcing an informal assessment. People v. Seymour, 16 Cal. 332; 76 Am. Dec. 521; People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 432; Muselman v. Logansport, 29 Ind. 533. See remarks obiter in People v. San Francisco Sav. Union, 31 Cal. 132; or may simply ratify, confirm, and relevy the tax. Newman v. Emporia, 41 Kan. 583; People v. Bleckwenn (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 914; Francklyn v. Long Island City, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 451; Van Deventer v. Long Island City, 10 N. Y. Supp. 801; 57 Hun (N. Y.) 590. See infra, this title, Reassessment.

Failure of the assessors to make the required affidavit, or to subscribe to it, or to attach it to the rolls, can be validated. In re Lamb, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 633; In re East Ave. Baptist Church (Supreme Ct.), 11 N. Y. Supp. 113; Smith v. Hard, 61 Vt. 469.

The Illinois statute (Rev. Stats. 1891, ch. 20, § 191), which provides that no tax shall be vitiated by any error or informality not affecting the substantial justice of the tax itself, does not apply to taxes levied before the law was passed. Gage v. Nichols, 135 Ill. 128.

Assessment of corporation property, as of a partnership of which those who organized the corporation were members, is an irregularity which may be cured under the Michigan statute. Petrie Lumber Co. v. Collins, 66 Mich. 64.

As to the unconstitutionality of an act which, in making the tax deed conclusive evidence of the regularity of all prior proceedings, deprives one of his property without due process of law so far as respects the essential prerequisites for the exercise of the taxing power, such as assessment, levy, sale, and the like, see McCreedy v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 356, wherein it is said also that, as to non-essentials or matters purely directory, the legislature may cure irregularities. In this case the subject is discussed at length by Cole, J.

The power of the legislature to validate a tax, extends also the interest which has accrued upon it. Collins v. Long Island City, 9 N. Y. Supp. 866; 56 Hun (N. Y.) 647.

4. Lack of authority can be cured if the authority could have been given in the first instance. Kunkle v. Franklin, 13 Minn. 127; Grim v. Weissenberg School Dist., 57 Pa. St. 433; 98 Am. Dec. 237; Hewitt's Appeal, 88 Pa. St. 55; Bellows v. Weeks, 41 Vt. 590. But acts which could not have been authorized cannot be confirmed. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Iola, 9 Kan. 689. And see cases cited in last note.

If a tax authorized to be levied for a specified number of years, be levied after the expiration of that period, the levy can be validated by statute. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bullitt County (Ky. 1891), 17 S. W. Rep. 632.

Lack of authority to levy a tax cannot, however, be validated by an act intended to cure irregularities in proceedings for the enforcement of taxes, legislature, provided no injustice be inflicted thereby;¹ and a proceeding once so validated cannot be subsequently invalidated by a repeal of the validating act.² No void acts,³ however, or unconstitutional exercises of power,⁴ nor any omissions to perform acts essential to the validity of a tax can be cured by this means.⁵ Thus, the want of an assessment,⁶ or of a valuation,⁷ cannot be cured, nor can a void assessment be validated.⁸ The legislature has, moreover, no power to obviate jurisdictional defects in tax proceedings by establishing conclusive rules of evidence.⁹

as distinguished from their levy. Bert-hold v. Hoskins, 38 Fed. Rep. 772.

1. Forster v. Forster, 129 Mass. 559; Mattingly v. District of Columbia, 97 U. S. 687; Albany City Nat. Bank v. Maher, 20 Blatchf. (U. S.) 341.

2. Lewis v. Eastford, 44 Conn. 477.

3. The act of an officer or board who had no jurisdiction, is void, and cannot be validated. People v. Goldtree, 44 Cal. 323; Hart v. Henderson, 17 Mich. 218; Dean v. Borchsenius, 30 Wis. 236.

A district not legally constituted cannot authorize taxes, and hence the acts of assessors under claim of authority from such a district, are void, and cannot be validated. Withington v. Eveleth, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 106; Dickinson v. Billings, 4 Gray (Mass.) 42. So in the case of an assessment against a person not residing in the district. Herriman v. Stowers, 43 Me. 497; Freeman v. Kenney, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 44; Baker v. Allen, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 382. So of land outside the taxing district, even though the limits were subsequently enlarged so as to include the land. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Maquilkin, 12 Kan. 301. So in the case of a single assessment of the lands of two persons. Hamilton v. Fond du Lac, 25 Wis. 495.

4. Adams v. Lindell, 5 Mo. App. 197; People v. White, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 540; Matter of Union College, 129 N. Y. 308. An unconstitutional tax or one for an illegal purpose cannot be validated. Cooley on Taxation 303; Commercial Nat. Bank v. Iola, 9 Kan. 696; Dean v. Borchsenius, 30 Wis. 236; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163.

5. Thus the assessment of land of a non-resident in the column for residents, the assessment in the name of a deceased owner's estate instead of the name of his devisee, and the signing and delivery of tax-warrants, by the board of supervisors, in blank, are jurisdictional defects, which the legislature cannot cure. Cromwell v. Wilson, 5 N. Y. Supp. 474; 52 Hun (N. Y.) 614. See the two next notes.

6. Schumacker v. Toberman, 56 Cal. 508; Stewart v. Shoenfelt, 13 S. & R. (Pa.) 360; Bratton v. Mitchell, 1 W. & S. (Pa.) 310; Miller v. Hale, 26 Pa. St. 432; McReynolds v. Longenberger, 57 Pa. St. 13. But a failure of the assessor to sign his roll, may be validated. Townsen v. Wilson, 9 Pa. St. 270.

It has been held in Illinois, that the failure of an assessor to return his list within the prescribed time cannot be cured. Marsh v. Chesnut, 14 Ill. 223. But the contrary has been held in Indiana, Musselman v. Logansport, 29 Ind. 523; and Mississippi, Fanning v. Funches, 60 Miss. 541.

7. People v. San Francisco Sav. Union, 31 Cal. 132.

8. People v. Holaday, 25 Cal. 300; Taylor v. Palmer, 31 Cal. 240; People v. Lynch, 51 Cal. 15; 21 Am. Rep. 677; Schumacker v. Toberman, 56 Cal. 510; Mowry v. Blandin, 64 N. H. 3; Doughty v. Hope, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 594; Cromwell v. Wilson, 5 N. Y. Supp. 474; 52 Hun (N. Y.) 614.

9. Cooley on Taxation (2d ed.), p. 299. Thus, although a tax deed may be made prima facie evidence of the regularity of the proceedings which preceded and attended the sale, it cannot be made conclusive evidence. White v. Flynn, 23 Ind. 46; Corbin v. Hill, 21 Iowa 70; McCready v. Sexton, 29 Iowa 356; Powers v. Fuller, 30 Iowa 476; Ware v. Little, 35 Iowa 234; Taylor v. Miles, 5 Kan. 498; Groesbeck v. Seeley, 13 Mich. 329; Abbott v. Lindenbower, 42 Mo. 162; Abbott v. Lindenbower, 46 Mo. 291; Wright v. Cradlebaugh, 3 Nev. 341; Newell v. Wheeler, 48 N. Y. 486.

As to the manner in which the sale was conducted, a tax deed may be conclusive evidence. Ware v. Little, 35 Iowa 234; Jeffrey v. Brokaw, 35 Iowa 505; Sibley v. Bullis, 40 Iowa 429.

If the time within which certain acts must be done be extended by a curative act, they must be done within the extended period in order to be valid.¹

b. REASSESSMENT.—It is generally provided by statute that when, in the course of proceedings to annul an assessment or to recover money paid for taxes, it is judicially decided that, although the tax itself is lawful,² the assessment is invalid as to a part³ of the property listed, a reassessment shall be made,⁴ and in some states, proceedings must be stayed until this is done,⁵ but such reassessment cannot be made conclusive evidence of the amount justly due from the plaintiff.⁶

A reassessment may also be made directly by a curative act of the legislature, where the assessment was irregular,⁷ or unauthorized,⁸ or made under a defective law,⁹ or even where it was inadequate.¹⁰

In some states, the assessor may reassess of his own motion,¹¹

And all non-jurisdictional defects may be remedied by making tax deeds conclusive evidence that the sale and proceedings prior thereto were regular. Ensign v. Barse, 107 N. Y. 329.

1. Osburn v. Hide, 68 Miss. 45.

2. If the tax has been levied unconstitutionally or for illegal purposes, or upon exempt property, or has been already paid, no reassessment is possible. Dean v. Charlton, 23 Wis. 590; 99 Am. Dec. 205; Dill v. Roberts, 30 Wis. 178; Dean v. Borchsenius, 30 Wis. 238; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163.

3. Brevoort v. Detroit, 24 Mich. 322; Dean v. Charlton, 27 Wis. 522.

4. Dean v. Charlton, 23 Wis. 590; 99 Am. Dec. 205; Dill v. Roberts, 30 Wis. 178; Whittaker v. Janesville, 33 Wis. 76; Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502.

Local assessments may be reassessed, as well as general taxes. Brevoort v. Detroit, 24 Mich. 322.

A reassessment will be ordered where the original assessment is void for inequality. Tallman v. Janesville, 17 Wis. 71.

The fact that the property has changed hands since the original assessment was made, is no bar to a reassessment. Tallman v. Janesville, 17 Wis. 71; Cross v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 509.

It is within the power of the legislature to provide that when a just and valid reassessment has been made pendente lite, judgment for the taxpayer shall be conditioned upon payment of the tax as reassessed. Warden v. Fond du Lac County, 14 Wis. 618; Kellogg

v. Oshkosh, 14 Wis. 623; Myrick v. La Crosse, 17 Wis. 442; Howes v. Racine, 21 Wis. 514; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 184.

5. Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163; Flanders v. Merrimack, 48 Wis. 567; Single v. Stettin, 49 Wis. 645; Kingsley v. Marathon County, 49 Wis. 649; Johnston v. Oshkosh, 65 Wis. 473.

In such a case it is error to proceed to judgment without awarding a reassessment. Monroe v. Fort Howard, 50 Wis. 228.

6. Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163; Newman v. Emporia, 41 Kan. 583; People v. Bleckwenn (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 914; Francklyn v. Long Island City, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 451; Van Deventer v. Long Island City, 10 N. Y. Supp. 801; 57 Hun (N. Y.) 590.

7. Mills v. Charlton, 29 Wis. 400; Dean v. Borchsenius, 30 Wis. 236.

A constitutional provision for an assessment in every fifth year does not prevent a reassessment within the five years. Ex p. Lynch, 16 S. Car. 32.

8. State v. Newark, 34 N. J. L. 236. Matter of Van Antwerp, 56 N. Y. 261; Mills v. Charlton, 29 Wis. 400.

9. Lang v. Kiendl, 27 Hun (N. Y.) 66; Spencer v. Merchant, 100 N. Y. 585; 125 U. S. 345.

10. Butler v. Toledo, 5 Ohio St. 225.

11. State v. Northern Belle Mill, etc., Co., 15 Nev. 385; Himmelmann v. Cofran, 36 Cal. 411; Bangor v. Lancey, 21 Me. 472; Pond v. Negus, 3 Mass. 230; 3 Am. Dec. 131; Libby v. Burnham, 15 Mass. 144; Tweed v. Metcalf, 4 Mich. 579.

to correct an invalid assessment, or it may be requested by a person in interest,¹ or ordered by a superior authority.²

A reassessment must be made upon the same valuation as the original assessment,³ and in strict accordance with statutory requirements,⁴ and it is similarly subject to review both by the board of equalization and the courts.⁵ The tax reassessed is due as from the time when it should have been first assessed.⁶ Property not within the taxing district when the original assessment was made cannot be reached by a reassessment.⁷

The term reassessment is sometimes used for the assessment of property which has been omitted from the list in some previous year, when such assessment is made in a subsequent year for that when the omission occurred;⁸ and also for a second local assessment upon delinquent property to cover the deficiency caused by such delinquency.⁹

2. Remedies of the Taxpayer—a. GENERAL RIGHTS OF THE TAXPAYER AS TO REMEDIES.—There is an important distinction between those provisions of a tax law which are intended for the protection of the taxpayer, and those which seek to promote the efficiency of the tax-collecting service. If the former be violated, the tax is illegal, but although infractions of the latter may be

The circumstance that in the assessment of a tax, some individuals are assessed who are not liable to the tax, does not vitiate the assessment as respects those who are liable; and a second assessment made for the purpose of rectifying the error is illegal and void. Inglee v. Bosworth, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 498.

1. If a reassessment be made for alleged errors, on the request of a person interested, he cannot afterwards question the authority of the assessors to make the reassessment. Burr v. Wilcox, 13 Allen (Mass.) 269.

2. In states under township organization, a township must pay the cost of a reassessment rendered necessary by errors, though such reassessment was ordered by the county board. Crawford County v. Huls, 12 Ill. App. 406.

The comptroller may order a relevy where the tax is invalid because the assessor's oath is defective or has been omitted, and no error has been alleged till after the "grievance days" had elapsed. People v. Wemple, 53 Hun (N. Y.) 197.

3. Davis v. Boston, 129 Mass. 377. See Scheiber v. Kaehler, 49 Wis. 291.

4. People v. Goff, 52 N. Y. 436.

5. Cooley on Taxation 311; Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163.

Where the taxpayer has paid part of the taxes already assessed, the same will be credited, with interest, to the payment of the taxes newly assessed. Tallman v. Janesville, 17 Wis. 71.

6. Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163. See Hubbard v. Garfield, 102 Mass. 72.

Hence the lien of a tax reassessed on real estate relates back to the time the original assessment should have been made. Peters v. Myers, 22 Wis. 602; Simmons v. Aldrich, 41 Wis. 241.

7. Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Portland, 2 Oregon 81.

8. Allwood v. Cowen, 111 Ill. 481; State v. Louisiana Sav. Bank, etc., Co., 32 La. Ann. 1137; Overing v. Foote, 43 N. Y. 294; People v. Board of Assessors, 92 N. Y. 430; Shelby County v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 16 Lea (Tenn.) 401.

In Tennessee, where the owner of property disputes such subsequent assessment, either as to the amount or as to his liability to taxation, he has ten days in which to have a reassessment before the judge or chairman of the county court. No continuance to a time beyond the ten days can be granted on application of the person assessed. Warner Iron Co. v. Pace, 89 Tenn. 707.

9. Ayer v. Lake, 11 Ill. App. 564.

punishable offenses, they do not prejudice the taxpayer.¹ Hence, no informality, irregularity, or error of any public officer or servant in regard to the assessment, levying, or collection of taxes, impairs the validity of the tax or its assessment, unless the justice of the tax itself be in any degree affected,² and

1. Torrey v. Millbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64. See also State Auditor v. Jackson County, 65 Ala. 142, 152.

2. Thatcher v. People, 79 Ill. 597; Law v. People, 87 Ill. 385; Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 351; Bittinger v. Bell, 65 Ind. 445; Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502; Bemis v. Caldwell, 143 Mass. 299; Stockle v. Silsbee, 41 Mich. 615; Brigins v. Chandler, 60 Miss. 862; Bradley v. Ward, 58 N. Y. 401; Scheiber v. Kaehler, 49 Wis. 291.

Hence, merely formal objections to taxes levied will not be entertained: Purrrington v. People, 79 Ill. 11; State v. Jersey City, 24 N. J. L. 108; State v. Taylor, 35 N. J. L. 184; State v. Runyon, 41 N. J. L. 98.

The Iowa statute, providing that where land has not been assessed by the proper officer, the owner shall have this done, and that no irregularity in the assessment shall affect the legality of the tax, renders it the owner's duty to see that the assessment is correct. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa 153. See also Patterson v. Baumer, 43 Iowa 477. So, under the Maine statute, a mistake in the name of the party assessed is within the provision that no assessment shall be void for error in the making or because money is not raised for a legal object; but that the taxpayer may sue the town for damages caused by such an error. Farnsworth Co. v. Rand, 65 Me. 19. And under the Massachusetts statute, providing that in case of any error in the name of the person on the assessor's list, the tax may be collected of the person whom the tax was intended to cover, all cases of error in a name are embraced, in whatever list occurring. Tyler v. Hardwick, 6 Met. (Mass.) 470; and a party assessed can be identified by parol evidence. Westhampton v. Searle, 127 Mass. 502.

Instances of Immaterial Errors.—

Where the councils of a city, through inadvertence, did not determine the amounts and levy the taxes, nor file nor correct the assessment roll, until a time beyond that fixed by the city charter, it was held that these irregularities would not avoid the tax, even at law; still less would they entitle the plaintiff to relief in equity. Mills v. Johnson, 17 Wis. 598.

The fact that the city taxes were levied after the usual time, or later than they ought to have been, there being no act of limitations, is not ground for enjoining tax proceedings. Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 87.

Where in a levy of taxes, the several estimated objects of expenditure, and the rate for each, are set out in detail, instead of being, as contemplated by the statute, grouped together under the single head of "general fund," it is at most a mere irregularity, in no way invalidating the tax. Burlington etc., R. Co. v. Lancaster County, 12 Neb. 324.

Where the board of supervisors had ordered certain specified taxes spread upon the rolls, it was held that the fact that others were added would not invalidate the tax without an affirmative showing that they were not duly authorized. Hunt v. Chapin, 42 Mich. 24.

The omission to return a local levy does not affect the substantial justice of the tax. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Surrell, 88 Ill. 535.

Accidental omissions from taxation of persons or property that should be taxed, arising from mistakes of fact or errors of judgment through the negligence or default of officers, will not vitiate the tax. People v. McCreery, 34 Cal. 432; Schofield v. Watkins, 22 Ill. 66; Merritt v. Farris, 22 Ill. 311; Dunham v. Chicago, 55 Ill. 361; Williams v. School Dist. No. 1, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; 32 Am. Dec. 243; Watson v. Princeton, 4 Met. (Mass.) 602; State v. Platt, 24 N. J. L. 108; State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 431; People v. Brooklyn, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 196; Insurance Co. v. Yard, 17 Pa. St. 331; Speer v. Braintree, 24 Vt. 414; Weeks v. Milwaukee, 10 Wis. 262; Dean v. Gleason, 16 Wis. 1; Hersey v. Milwaukee County, 16 Wis. 185; 82 Am. Dec. 713; Bond v. Kenosha, 17 Wis. 284; Smith v. Smith, 19 Wis. 615; 88 Am. Dec. 707; Hale v. Kenosha, 29 Wis. 599; Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 510; Muscatine v. Mississippi, etc., 1 Dill. (U. S.) 542.

Omissions made by the taxing officers will not invalidate the assessment. Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163.

Though a tax is vitiated by discrimination in the valuation of property made in intentional disregard of law, it is not necessarily vitiated by discrimination arising from mistake of fact or errors in computation or judgment. Brauns v. Green Bay, 55 Wis. 113.

If there be no evidence to show that the property assessed be not taxable in the taxing district, nor that the assessment was greater than the taxpayer could justly be called upon to pay, it is immaterial whether the assessment was made precisely as directed by the statute or not. Pacific Hotel Co. v. Leib, 83 Ill. 604. In such a case the assessment will not be set aside on certiorari, nor the collection restrained by injunction. State v. Morris, 48 N. J. L. 99; Union Pac. R. R. Co. v. Lincoln County, 2 Dill. (U. S.) 279.

A formal assessment, even if it does not in every respect conform precisely to the requirements of the statute, will, in an equitable proceeding, support a levy of taxes, otherwise legal. Stephenson County v. Manny, 56 Ill. 160; Wood v. Helmer, 10 Neb. 65; South Patte Land Co. v. Crete, 11 Neb. 344; Hallo v. Helmer, 12 Neb. 89.

The legality of a tax is not affected by a mere circumstantial error or defect in making up the list, or in consequence of any error of judgment in the listers, in determining any question which is within their legitimate discretion. Henry v. Chester, 15 Vt. 460; Downing v. Roberts, 21 Vt. 441.

That several distinct taxes are blended together in an assessment, and that the duplicate does not show directly the value per acre of the land assessed, are errors in form only, and do not warrant setting the assessment aside. State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45.

Where the statute directs that the roll shall have two columns for value, and it contains but one, this is a mere irregularity. Torrey v. Millbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64; Blackburn v. Walpole, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 97; Case v. Dean, 16 Mich. 12; Wall v. Trumbull, 16 Mich. 228.

The requirement as to the form of assessment on the duplicate is directory, and the taxes will not be set aside for variations or omissions. State v. Manning, 41 N. J. L. 275.

A bank tax for "money on hand, at interest or on deposit," will not be abated on appeal, for the assessors' omission of the statutory words, "surplus capital." First Nat. Bank v. Concord, 59 N. H. 75.

The form of statement adopted in the list is a matter resting altogether in the discretion of the listers, and they are only liable for errors purposely made, out of malice to the party injured. Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20.

In Ohio, a chose in action omitted from the list may be put in by the auditor. Cameron v. Cappeller, 41 Ohio St. 533.

The imperfect statement in the tax roll of the facts ascertained by the assessment, does not affect the liability to the tax. George v. Dean, 47 Tex. 73.

Error in stating the quantity of land will not vitiate the assessment. Gilman v. Rlopelle, 18 Mich. 145; Williston v. Colkett, 9 Pa. St. 38; Brown v. Hays, 66 Pa. St. 229.

An assessment of an unseated tract by its proper number in the name of the original warrantee is sufficient, though the number of acres contained in it are misstated. Williston v. Colkett, 9 Pa. St. 38; Brown v. Hays, 66 Pa. St. 229; Putnam v. Tyler, 117 Pa. St. 570. See Wells v. Austin, 59 Vt. 157.

An assessment will not be vacated merely because one of the tenants in common was named as owner. Fleischauer v. West Hoboken, 40 N. J. L. 109.

Listing the name of a person other than the owner (Stilz v. Indianapolis, 81 Ind. 582), or making a mistake in the name of the owner, not calculated to mislead, will not invalidate the assessment. Pierce v. Richardson, 37 N. H. 306; Carpenter v. Dalton, 58 N. H. 615; State v. Matthews, 40 N. J. L. 269; Van Voorhis v. Budd, 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 479.

The omission of the official title of the assessor after his signature to the oath to his official return of the valuation of real estate, and the absence of the official seal of the county clerk on the jurats to the oath of the assessor attached to such return, and upon the affidavit of publication of the tax levy and tax sale, are mere irregularities, and will not invalidate the tax proceedings based upon them. Shoup v.

then only to the extent to which injustice may have been done.¹

It may be stated as a general rule that a taxpayer cannot, ordinarily, dispute an assessment based upon a return which he has himself furnished;² nor if he has failed to comply with his obligation to make the return required of him,³ or has made it

Central Branch U. P. R. Co., 24 Kan. 547.

An irregularity in issuing notice of the meeting of the county clerks, who are to act as a board of assessors, will not invalidate a tax. Missouri River, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 7 Kan. 210.

The failure of a board of review to notify a taxpayer before increasing the assessor's valuation of his property is merely an irregularity, not available in equity to avoid the tax, without proof of substantial injustice. Marsh v. Clark County, 42 Wis. 502; McIntyre v. White Creek, 43 Wis. 620. As to sufficiency of notice left in the town clerk's office, see Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20.

A sale of property for taxes will not be enjoined on account of irregularities in the matter of notice of time and place of sale. Finnegan v. Fernandina, 15 Fla. 379.

An informality in the organization of the meeting of the electors or board may be ratified by a subsequent meeting so as not to affect the tax levied at such meeting. Jordan v. School Dist., 38 Me. 164.

Mere clerical mistakes will not vitiate an assessment. Atkins v. Hinman, 7 Ill. 451.

A resident of one place, doing business in another, cannot enjoin the collection of a tax on personalty assessed in the former, unless he shows that it is in fact assessed in the latter place also. Skeel v. Thompson, 9 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 478.

It is held in New Jersey, that a taxpayer whose property is assessed at a higher rate than that of others should apply to have their assessments raised, and cannot have a certiorari to review the assessment in his own case. State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427; State v. Taylor, 35 N. J. L. 189; State v. Koster, 38 N. J. L. 308; State v. Segoine, 53 N. J. L. 339.

1. Van Vorst v. Quaife, 23 N. J. L. 89; State v. McClung, 27 N. J. L. 253; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45.

Massachusetts Pub. Sts. 1882, ch. 11, § 84, provide that an excessive assessment is void only to the extent of the illegal excess. But this does not affect the question of whether a tax on land should be regarded as integral or as a distinct tax on each parcel, and this question may affect the validity of the tax. Schwarz v. Boston, 151 Mass. 226.

Where more tax is assessed than was authorized, the assessment will be set aside, as to such excess, and a proportionate abatement made from the tax of each individual; but the assessment, as to the residue, will be affirmed. State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 427.

If a part of the tax was valid and a part void, and the void part can be distinguished, the plaintiff is entitled to recover back only that part. Torrey v. Millbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64.

However erroneous, in law or in fact, the assessment may be, the appeal being an equitable proceeding, and the appellant, seeking equity, being required to do equity, only so much of his tax is abated as in equity he ought not to pay. Perry's Petition, 16 N. H. 48; Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 586.

2. See supra, this title, The Assessment, sub-title, Listing.

Prior payment of taxes on certain property, and the fact that the taxpayer's agent had once listed the property, have been held evidence of assent to the assessment, so as to estop the taxpayer from denying its validity a subsequent year. Ives v. North Canaan, 33 Conn. 402.

3. State v. Leavell, 3 Blackf. (Ind.) 117; State v. Hamilton, 5 Ind. 310; Louisville R. Co. v. State, 25 Ind. 177; Donovan v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 30 Md. 155; Peninsula Iron, etc., Co. v. Crystal Falls Tp., 60 Mich. 510; State v. Welch, 28 Mo. 600; State v. Bell, 1 Phil. (N. Car.) 76; Weatherhead v. Guilford, 62 Vt. 327; State v. Washoe County, 5 Nev. 317; State v. Board of Equalization, 7 Nev. 83; State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 17 Nev. 260; State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13; State v. Diamond Valley, etc., Co., 21 Nev. 86; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546; Otis Co. v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49; Oregon, etc., Sav. Bank v. Catlin, 15 Oregon 342. And see People v. Carter, 119 informally,¹ can he dispute the valuation adopted, provided it has been made in good faith.² He must have availed himself of the ordinary remedies before he can resort to the more extraordinary ones,³ and must, to secure any relief, have complied

N. Y. 654; Louisiana Brewing Co. v. Board of Assessors, 41 La. Ann. 565.

If a taxpayer has any property, however small in amount, he cannot complain of the assessment, however large, if he fails to return it. Tripp v. Torrey, 17 R. I. 359.

The rule is applicable to corporations. Otis Co. v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509.

In Freedom v. Waldo County, 66 Me. 172, it was held that the fact that a sworn statement of a taxpayer's property has been accepted by two of the three town assessors, does not entitle him to adjudication by the board of equalization, if he afterwards refuses to make a more explicit statement.

The Rhode Island statute (Pub. Stats., ch. 43, §§ 6, 7), on this point applies to over assessments only, not to void taxes. Mechanics' Sav. Bank v. Granger, 17 R. I. 77.

1. See Vaughan v. Street Com'rs, 154 Mass. 143; Porter v. Norfolk County, 5 Gray (Mass.) 365; In re Williamson's Estate, 153 Pa. St. 508.

The taxpayer's return only controls the action of the assessors if sworn to. The fact that they wholly disregard an unsworn statement does not warrant a recovery of taxes paid. Other remedies should have been resorted to. Lawrence v. Janesville, 46 Wis. 364.

In order to authorize any abatement of a tax, the sworn list of estate liable to taxation, required to be furnished the assessor, cannot be filed after an appeal from the assessors to the county commissioners. Otis Co. v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509.

The omission by a taxpayer to bring to the assessors a list of his property, verified by oath, within the time required by statute, is not a ground for dismissing a petition for the abatement of a tax, if the assessors expressly assented to the delay, and a list verified by oath was brought in before the filing of the petition for abatement. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546.

2. A taxpayer's failure to make a return does not warrant an exorbitant and unjust valuation, nor, if such a valuation be made, debar him from a defense against proceedings to collect the tax. State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 7 Nev. 99.

Under the Rhode Island statute, it is held that a taxpayer who makes no return, has no remedy whatever, even though the assessment be greatly in excess of the value of his taxable property. Tripp v. Torrey, 17 R. I. 359.

3. See Dundee Mtg., etc., Invest. Co. v. Charlton, 32 Fed. Rep. 192; Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535; State v. Matthews, 40 N. J. L. 268; Hall v. Snedeker, 42 N. J. L. 76; Appelget v. Pownell, 49 N. J. L. 169; Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1; Baird v. Williams, 49 Ark. 518; Small v. Lawrenceburgh, 128 Ind. 231; Monroe v. New Canaan, 43 Conn. 309; Lewis v. Eastford, 44 Conn. 477; State v. Louisiana Mut. Ins. Co., 19 La. Ann. 474; Louisiana Brewing Co. v. Board of Assessors, 41 La. Ann. 565; New York, etc., Grain, etc., Exchange v. Gleason, 121 Ill. 502; Madison County v. Smith, 95 Ill. 328; Felsenthal v. Johnson, 104 Ill. 21; Butternuth v. St. Louis Bridge Co., 123 Ill. 535; Porter v. Rockford, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 561; San Jose Gas Co. v. January, 57 Cal. 614; Peninsula Iron, etc., Co. v. Crystal Falls Tp., 60 Mich. 510; Gilpatrick v. Saco, 57 Me. 277; Hemingway v. Machias, 33 Me. 445; Red River, etc., Line v. Parker, 41 La. Ann. 1046; Yazoo Delta Invest. Co. v. Suddoth, 70 Miss. 416; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254; Johnson County v. Seairight Cattle Co., 3 Wyoming 777; Wiconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Ashland County, 81 Wis. 1; Bratton v. Johnson Tp., 76 Wis. 430; Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550; Lehman v. Robinson, 59 Ala. 219; Harris v. Fremont County, 63 Iowa 639; Missouri Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County, 74 Iowa 283; Bath v. Whitmore, 79 Me. 182; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Patterson, 10 Mont. 90; Norcross v. Milford, 150 Mass. 237; Schwarz v. Boston, 151 Mass. 226; O'Neal v. Virginia, etc., Bridge Co., 18 Md. 1; 79 Am. Dec. 669; Rhea v. Umatilla County, 2 Oregon 298; Shumway v. Baker County, 3 Oregon 246; Wharton v. Birmingham, 37 Pa. St. 371; Stewart v. Maple, 70 Pa. St. 221; Covington v. Rockingham, 93 N. Car. 134; Kittle v. Shervin, 11 Neb. 65;

Mead v. Haines, 81 Mich. 261; Peninsula Iron, etc., Co. v. Crystal Falls Tp., 60 Mich. 510; Jamaica, etc., Road Co. v. Brooklyn, 123 N. Y. 375; In re McLean (Supreme Ct.), 6 N. Y. Supp. 230; Duck v. Peeler, 74 Tex. 268; International, etc., R. Co. v. Smith County, 54 Tex. 1; Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550; Lawrence v. Janesville, 46 Wis. 364; Sage v. Burlingame, 74 Mich. 120; Osborn v. Danvers, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 98; Howe v. Boston, 7 Cush. (Mass.) 273; Bourne v. Boston, 2 Gray (Mass.) 469; Bates v. Boston, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 93; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; Hughes v. Kline, 30 Pa. St. 227; Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Van Nort's Appeal, 121 Pa. St. 118; Moore v. Taylor, 147 Pa. St. 481; Caledonia v. Rose, 94 Mich. 216; Smith v. Marshalltown (Iowa, 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 286; Norcross v. Milford, 150 Mass. 237; State v. Louisiana Mut. Ins. Co., 19 La. Ann. 474; State v. Wright, 4 Nev. 251. And see Red River, etc., Line v. Parker, 41 La. Ann. 1046; Stickney v. Bangor, 30 Me. 404; Holton v. Bangor, 23 Me. 269; Oregon, etc., Sav. Bank v. Jordan, 16 Oregon 113; Ramp v. Marion County (Oregon, 1893), 33 Pac. Rep. 681; Camp v. Simpson, 118 Ill. 224; New York, etc., Grain, etc., Exchange v. Gleason, 121 Ill. 505; Phoenix Grain, etc., Exchange v. Gleason, 121 Ill. 524; Beers v. People, 83 Ill. 488; Dickey v. Polk County, 58 Iowa 287; Ward v. Gallatin County, 12 Mont. 23; Williams v. Holden, 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 223. But see People v. Wilson, 119 N. Y. 515; Ingersoll v. Des Moines, 46 Iowa 553.

Though an appeal will not lie directly from the assessor to the court, complaint being required to be first made to the city council, yet one who is aggrieved need not complain more than once to the council. Ingersoll v. Des Moines, 46 Iowa 553.

The repeal of an act requiring objections to be first made to a board of review, does not affect questions then pending, or relieve the plaintiff therein from the necessity of complying with the requirement. Bratton v. Johnson Tp., 76 Wis. 430; Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550.

An injunction is out of the question until a proper application to the board of equalization and review (or any other tribunal provided by law for the purpose) has been made, and has proved unsuccessful. Boyd v. Selma (Ala. 1892), 11 So. Rep. 393; Breeze v.

Haley, 10 Colo. 5; New York, etc., Grain, etc., Exchange v. Gleason, 121 Ill. 502; Phoenix Grain, etc., Exchange v. Gleason, 121 Ill. 524; Louisiana Brewing Co. v. Board of Assessors, 41 La. Ann. 565; Noxubee County v. Ames (Miss. 1887), 3 So. Rep. 37; Deane v. Todd, 22 Mo. 90; Meyer v. Rosenblatt, 78 Mo. 495; Baldwin v. Elizabeth, 42 N. J. Eq. 11; Mills v. Board of Equalization, 1 Cinc. Super. Ct. (Ohio) 556; Duck v. Peeler, 74 Tex. 268; Davis v. Burnett, 77 Tex. 3; Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550; Dundee Estg., etc., Invest. Co. v. Charlton, 32 Fed. Rep. 192.

If relief has not been sought before the board of review, some valid excuse for not doing so must be given. Johnson v. Roberts, 102 Ill. 655; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Presidio County, 53 Tex. 518.

Where it is clear that application to the proper officer will be futile, it is unnecessary to make it. Hills v. Exchange Bank, 105 U. S. 319.

Collection of a street assessment will not be enjoined, if the plaintiff never attempted to prevent the improvement from being made. Weber v. San Francisco, 1 Cal. 455; Kellogg v. Ely, 15 Ohio St. 64.

A fortiori, where the plaintiff requested that the work should be done. Sleeper v. Bullen, 6 Kan. 300; Motz v. Detroit, 18 Mich. 495.

There can be no injunction for any matter as to which the board's decision is final. Alexandria Canal R., etc., Co. v. District of Columbia, 1 Mackey (D. C.) 217; Clayton v. Lafargue, 23 Ark. 137.

In Iowa, if the tax be wholly unauthorized, application to the board of supervisors is not a prerequisite to an injunction. Hubbard v. Johnson County, 23 Iowa 130.

Certiorari.—Similarly, a writ of certiorari will not be granted where there has been a failure or neglect to appeal to the proper inferior tribunal. Pulasiki County Board of Equalization Cases, 49 Ark. 518; Menzies v. Board of Equalization, 62 Cal. 179; Pease v. Chicago, 21 Ill. 500; State v. Bentley, 23 N. J. L. 532; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49; State v. Snedeker, 42 N. J. L. 76; State v. Pownell, 49 N. J. L. 169; People v. Tax Com'rs, 4 N. Y. Supp. 41; 51 Hun (N. Y.) 641; People v. Dolan (Supreme Ct.), 11 N. Y. Supp. 35; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254.

with all statutory requirements¹ (including in some states, the making of a sworn return),² and have done all other things that

But, by a recent statute in New York, the making of a return and an appearance before the assessors, is not a prerequisite to the obtaining of a certiorari, except in New York City. People v. Cheetham, 45 Hun (N. Y.) 6; People v. Gray, 45 Hun (N. Y.) 243; People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471; People v. Assessors (Supreme Ct.), 19 N. Y. Supp. 142.

In the District of Columbia, when, contrary to law, a tax is laid upon a corporate franchise, and the corporation applies to the court for relief, it cannot be objected that no appeal was taken to the board of equalization, that board having no power in the premises. Alexandria Canal, etc., Co. v. District of Columbia, 5 Mackey (D. C.) 376.

Where a party had no notice and no opportunity to be heard, he is entitled to a review by certiorari in State v. Munn, 39 N. J. L. 422.

So, in Nebraska, no action on a claim against a county on account of an erroneous sale of land for taxes can be maintained, except after presenting it to the county board for audit and allowance. Richardson County v. Hull, 28 Neb. 810.

In Wisconsin, the statute providing that the equalization of an assessment could not be questioned unless application were first made to the board of review, has been repealed. See Boorman v. Juneau County, 76 Wis. 550.

In Louisiana, a timely effort to have the board of assessors correct the alleged error while the matter was within their control, is essential to relief in the courts. Shattuck v. New Orleans, 39 La. Ann. 206; Leeds v. Hardy, 43 La. Ann. 810.

1. Otis Co. v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509; State v. McChesney, 34 N. J. L. 63; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 71.

2. The having made a sworn return is, in some states, essential to the right to apply for an abatement. Lott v. Hubbard, 44 Ala. 593; Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 62; Porter v. Norfolk County, 5 Gray (Mass.) 365; Otis Co. v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509; State v. Appgar, 31 N. J. L. 358; Young v. Parker, 33 N. J. L. 192; State v. Board of Equalization, 7 Nev. 83. Compare State v. Washoe County, 5 Nev. 317. Even though a sufficient excuse be shown. Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 101 Mass. 87.

In Massachusetts, a sworn list must have been brought to the assessors before the tax is assessed. Porter v. Norfolk County, 5 Gray (Mass.) 365; Otis Co. v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509; Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 101 Mass. 87.

In Maine, the taxpayer, after due notice, must have made and brought in to the assessors a true and perfect list of his poll, real and personal estate liable to taxation, and, if required, have made oath to its truth. Lambard v. Kennebec County, 53 Me. 505; Freedom v. Waldo County, 66 Me. 176; unless he make it appear to the commissioners that he was unable so to do. Lambard v. Kennebec County, 53 Me. 505; Fairfield v. County Com'rs, 66 Me. 387; and his refusal to be sworn to a further statement, required by the commissioners, bars his right to have an adjudication by them. Freedom v. Waldo County, 66 Me. 176.

The owner must have personally exhibited the list, that the assessors might examine him on oath; sending it by another is not sufficient. Winslow v. Kennebec County, 37 Me. 561.

Where one excused himself from making a list, saying it was unnecessary, this was held to be a refusal. State v. Parker, 33 N. J. L. 192; State v. Bishop, 34 N. J. L. 45; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49; State v. McChesney, 34 N. J. L. 63.

Where a taxpayer, being furnished by the assessor with a blank to be filled up with the particulars of his property, under oath, told the assessor that he would see his attorney, and if it was right, etc., he would fill up the blank and return it to the assessor's office, it was held, that the assessor, hearing nothing further from the taxpayer, was justified in assessing his property at its highest estimated value. State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49.

A taxpayer cannot justify his neglect to list, by showing that an article which he himself should have listed, another person had listed. Olds v. Com., 3 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 465.

In Georgia, the making return of its property, is a condition precedent to the right of a railroad company to contest the validity of a tax by means of an affidavit of illegality. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Goldsmith, 62 Ga. 463; Gold- could legally be expected of him,¹ and have been guilty of no laches in respect of time.² Failure on the part of a taxpayer to smith v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., 62 Ga. 468; Goldsmith v. Georgia R. Co., 62 Ga. 485; Goldsmith v. Southwestern R. Co., 62 Ga. 495; Goldsmith v. Central R. Co., 62 Ga. 509.

To entitle a person assessed to a reduction, he must deliver the statement required by section 20 of the act of 1866 to the assessor personally, or at his office, or at his dwelling, with a proper person. Nothing but unavoidable inability to effect such delivery will afford an excuse. State v. Horner, 38 N. J. L. 212. See Winslow v. Kennebec County, 37 Me. 561.

Where complainant had failed to make the return, and, after the time for appeal from the return made by the assessor, had applied to the commissioners for relief, alleging that he had misunderstood the notice, and the commissioners had offered to accept his return even then, but he had failed to make any, it was held that collection of the tax could not be enjoined. Van Nort's Appeal, 121 Pa. St. 118.

Where a person had rendered a true account to the selectmen, which was received by them, he need not furnish a second account on a public notice subsequently posted. Melvin v. Weare, 56 N. H. 436.

Where, in the absence of an individual, a member of the family gives in his invoice, on the application of the selectmen, and it is received without objection, they cannot doom, as in case of neglect to give in an invoice, without notice that the invoice given in is not satisfactory. Walker v. Cochran, 8 N. H. 166.

The same rule is applied where equitable relief is sought. Union Trust Co. v. Weber, 96 Ill. 346; Camp v. Simpson, 118 Ill. 224.

A sworn return is also, in some states, a condition precedent to the obtaining a certiorari. Orland v. Hancock County, 76 Me. 462; Otis Co. v. Ware, 8 Gray (Mass.) 509; State v. Massaker, 25 N. J. L. 531; State v. Grey, 29 N. J. L. 380; State v. Appgar, 31 N. J. L. 358; State v. Parker, 32 N. J. L. 341; State v. McChesney, 34 N. J. L. 71; People v. Tax Com'rs, 99 N. Y. 254.

In New York, the failure of a railroad company to make the written statement of its property required by statute, will not prevent its obtaining a certiorari to review an assessment, the statute imposing no such penalty. People v. Cheetham, 45 Hun (N. Y.) 6.

1. Covington v. Rockingham, 93 N. Car. 134; Harrison v. Vines, 46 Tex. 15; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Ryan, 2 Wyoming 391.

A mortgagee who forecloses without making any township officer a party to the foreclosure proceedings, cannot, on certiorari, have a tax warrant issued for sale of the land for a tax assessed against the mortgagor subsequently to the mortgage, although the mortgagee's estate in the land is not affected by the mortgage. State v. Pidcock, 43 N. J. L. 165.

Persons affected by an illegal ordinance are not, however, required to attempt to have it set aside before an assessment has been made under it. State v. Hudson, 29 N. J. L. 475.

In order to avail himself of equitable remedies, the taxpayer must himself act equitably. Ewing v. Batzner, 24 Ind. 409.

Hence, where property has been converted into United States securities for the express purpose of avoiding taxation, the collection of a tax assessed against it will not be enjoined. Mitchell v. Leavenworth County, 91 U. S. 206; Ogden v. Walker, 59 Ind. 460.

2. Hubbard v. Hickman, 4 Bush (Ky.) 204; 96 Am. Dec. 297; Galveston County v. Gorham, 49 Tex. 279.

Failure to apply for abatement within the statutory time may be excused in cases of accident or misfortune. Trust, etc., Co. v. Portsmouth, 59 N. H. 33.

In Wisconsin (under Rev. Stats., § 2831), a court or judge (which term includes county judge and court commissioner) may allow objections to a reassessment to be made after the expiration of the time limited and even on an ex parte application. Woodruff v. Depere, 60 Wis. 128.

The Tennessee statute requiring applications for abatement to be made at a certain term of the county court "and never thereafter," is merely directory, and does not take away the general jurisdiction of the court in such cases. The court would incline to follow the statute unless there were a plain case for relief and good cause for the delay.

object to or to avail himself of irregularities at the proper time, is deemed a waiver of his rights in the matter.¹

b. ABATEMENT (APPEAL).—Where the general power to assess exists, an application for an abatement, called an appeal in some states,² is the proper remedy for over-taxation and irregularities in the assessment.³

c. CERTIORARI.—(See also CERTIORARI, vol. 3, p. 60).—Agreeably to the principles characteristic of certiorari in general,⁴ the office of the writ, in tax-proceedings, is merely to ascertain whether the inferior tribunal whose proceedings are sought to be reviewed had jurisdiction and lawfully exercised it.⁵ Its use for these purposes cannot constitutionally be prohibited Nashville Sav. Bank v. Nashville, 3 Tenn. Ch. 362.

1. People v. Wall St. Bank, 39 Hun (N. Y.) 525.

Thus where, under the Ohio statute authorizing process to compel the appearance of persons suspected of making false returns and requiring notice to be given of increased assessment, verbal notice was given to one who had appeared in response to a subpoena, and he did not object to the informality of the notice at the time, he cannot afterwards do so. Sturges v. Caster, 114 U. S. 511.

Under the New York statute requiring the petition for a certiorari to state the grounds of the illegality, failure of the assessors to make oath to the assessment rolls before the proper person, must appear in the petition or it cannot be taken advantage of. People v. Tierney, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 357.

A party who, though objecting to the legality of the meeting of a board of review on the ground that it is not held at the proper place or on proper notice, appears and submits voluntarily to the board, offering evidence and asking for a decision on the merits, waives the objections taken. State v. Cooper, 59 Wis. 666.

The fact that the officer who made the assessment was also a member of the board of review, does not remove the obligation to appear before the board and contest the assessment on account of irregularity. Bratton v. Johnson Tp., 76 Wis. 430.

Where the owner's agent appears and objects to the valuation only, it is a waiver of objection to the mode of assessment. Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 339.

A failure to appeal from the assessment has been held to conclude the person assessed. Yazoo Delta Invest. Co. v. Suddoth, 70 Miss. 416.

A failure to allege in the petition to the board of equalization for the correction of errors in the assessment, that application has been made to the petitioner's court to correct the alleged irregularity and over-valuation, is ground for refusing an injunction. Swenson v. McLaren (Tex. 1893), 21 S. W. Rep. 300.

A failure to appear before the board of assessors on grievance day, has been held laches sufficient to deprive one of his remedy by certiorari. People v. Duguid, 68 Hun (N. Y.) 243.

A suit to recover back taxes is defeated by showing that objection to the over-assessment complained of was not made before the board of equalization. Johnson County v. Searight Cattle Co., 3 Wyoming 777.

A taxpayer who fails to appear at the appointed time and place cannot afterwards assail the assessment. Caledonia v. Rose, 94 Mich. 216. Nor can he, where he has failed to appear before the city board of equalization authorized to correct assessments. Smith v. Marshalltown (Iowa, 1892), 53 N. W. Rep. 286.

2. This is the case in Pennsylvania. See Hughes v. Kline, 30 Pa. St. 227; Clinton School Dist.'s Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 315; Van Nort's Appeal, 121 Pa. St. 118.

3. See supra, this title, The Assessment, sub-title, Equalization and Review.

4. See CERTIORARI, vol. 3, p. 60.

5. As the remedy by certiorari (to review the action of any inferior tribunal which is alleged to have exceeded its jurisdiction) is expressly provided in some states by statute, while in others, resort is had to the common-

by the legislature,¹ but this use is strictly confined to the review of judicial acts and errors in law; that is to say, to cases where injustice is alleged to have been done to any taxpayer or to the community for whose benefit a tax has been levied,² by illegal action or neglect or misperformance of official duty³ law writ; and as a broader scope is usually given to the statutory certiorari than characterizes the writ at common law (See CERTIORARI, vol. 3, p. 60), the character and extent of the relief to be obtained in tax proceedings from an employment of the writ, will depend, in each state, upon which of the writs (the common law or the statutory certiorari), with their distinguishing characteristics, the parties may be permitted under the law to invoke.

Under the constitution and laws of New Jersey, the county circuit courts have no jurisdiction by certiorari in matters of taxation. State v. Decue, 31 N. J. L. 302.

A proceeding by certiorari to review the action of the tax assessors in refusing to exempt certain property, must be under New York Act of 1880, ch. 269, and not under the general provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. People v. Assessors, 106 N. Y. 671.

1. Traphagen v. West Hoboken, 39 N. J. L. 232. The contrary has, however, been held in Tennessee, on the ground that an adequate statutory remedy was provided in its place. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 8 Heisk. (Tenn.) 633.

2. E. g., in cases of improper abatement of a tax, the inhabitants can have the matter reviewed on certiorari. Winslow v. Kennebec County, 37 Me. 561; Fairfield v. Somerset County, 66 Me. 385; Levant v. Penobscot County, 67 Me. 429. So, where an assessment is plainly much lower than the law requires. State v. Howland, 48 N. J. L. 425.

"If promptly urged, upon proper proofs presented to assessors in due season, this remedy is adequate for the correction of all the errors and injustice liable to be committed in the performance of their official duties." Western R. Co. v. Nolan, 48 N. Y. 514.

3. The fact that boards of assessors are officers of the state proposing to discharge their duties as such, does not affect the propriety of relief by certiorari or supersedeas, where they have disregarded the law regulating their action. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bate, 12 Lea (Tenn.) 573.

The object of a certiorari being to keep inferior tribunals within the bounds of their jurisdiction, it is no argument against its use to say that the tax was assessed or the application for abatement heard, by those who had no jurisdiction over the property assessed, and whose acts were therefore void. State v. Dowling, 50 Mo. 134; State v. Thompson, 2 N. H. 237. Hence, certiorari lies where the board of equalization adds to the assessment roll or tax list property not assessed, strikes therefrom property duly assessed, or changes the valuation of property, the board having no authority to do so. Orr v. State Board of Equalization, 2 Idaho 923; Royce v. Jenney, 50 Iowa 676. Or where it assesses the personal property, not within the state, of one who has ceased to reside therein. Remey v. Board of Equalization, 80 Iowa 470. Or where property not liable to taxation is assessed. Worcester Agricultural Soc. v. Worcester, 116 Mass. 193; People v. Ogdensburgh, 48 N. Y. 390. It lies to review an erroneous assessment of taxes by the comptroller upon the franchise or business of a corporation. People v. Wemple, 129 N. Y. 543, 664; People v. Wemple, 63 Hun (N. Y.) 444.

As the tax laws of the District of Columbia contemplate only the taxation of corporeal property, a tax directly upon the franchise of a corporation, as an independent and distinct subject matter, is invalid and void, and relief may be had either by certiorari or suit in equity. Alexandria Canal, etc., Co. v. District of Columbia, 5 Mackey (D. C.) 376.

If the jurisdiction of the assessing or reviewing body be in any way brought in question, certiorari will lie. Patchin v. Brooklyn, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 664. But where a tax was illegally assessed for bounty money, and afterwards ratified and confirmed by a special law, the writ will be dismissed. State v. Apgar, 31 N. J. L. 358.

It has been held in New York, that where an assessment is illegal because in direct contravention of the express on the part of any of the officers concerned in the assessment of taxes, or in reviewing such assessment, or by any judicial error in any decision rendered by them,¹ including cases where the tax terms of the statute, certiorari is an inadequate remedy, and the assessors are personally liable. National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 49.

Certiorari lies where the assessor has failed to note in the assessment book a change in an assessment, made by order of the township trustees. Heck v. Keokuk County, 37 Iowa 547.

Where the report of commissioners for a municipal improvement does not show compliance with the law, an assessment made thereunder will be set aside on certiorari, State v. Newark, 25 N. J. L. 399; State v. Jersey City, 26 N. J. L. 445; and a sale of land to collect the assessment will also be set aside. State v. Montclair R. Co., 35 N. J. L. 331.

The validity of a distress warrant to collect taxes, and the legality of its issuance, may be tested by certiorari. Saunders v. Russell, 10 Lea (Tenn.) 293.

Certiorari does not ordinarily lie in cases of mere overvaluation. State v. Powers, 24 N. J. L. 406; State v. Parker, 34 N. J. L. 49; Shelby County v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 16 Lea (Tenn.) 401. Unless the overvaluation be itself the result of legal error. State v. Randolph, 25 N. J. L. 428; State v. McClurg, 27 N. J. L. 253. See State v. Howland, 48 N. J. L. 425.

It lies in New Jersey, by the act of 1884, in cases of both overvaluation and undervaluation of railroad and canal property. Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1. And in Alabama, for excessive occupation taxes. Carroll v. Tuscaloosa, 12 Ala. 173.

1. Swift v. Poughkeepsie, 37 N. Y. 511; People v. Hillhouse, 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 87; People v. Westchester County, 57 Barb. (N. Y.) 377; Mutual Ben. L. Ins. Co. v. New York, 32 How. Pr. (N. Y. Ct. App.) 359.

It lies as well before, as after, an appeal from the commissioners. State v. Betts, 24 N. J. L. 555. And to review the acts of a municipal corporation, whether they are judicial or legislative. Camden v. Mulford, 26 N. J. L. 49.

Certiorari will issue to correct the error of county commissioners in awarding costs upon an appeal from the refusal of assessors to abate a tax.

Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546; 6 Allen (Mass.) 131; Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 109 Mass. 270.

The decision of county commissioners, in adjudging the return of certain property to be conclusive upon the assessors as to the valuation placed upon it by the owner, and in rejecting evidence offered to sustain the valuation of the assessors, is erroneous and will be set aside on certiorari. Newburyport v. Essex County, 12 Met. (Mass.) 211.

A decision by county commissioners on a petition for the abatement of a tax assessed upon the property of a corporation, that the price for which the stock sold in the market was a conclusive test of the value of the company's real estate and machinery, for the purpose of taxation, the corporation owning no other property and owing no debts, is an error for which a writ of certiorari will issue. Chicopee v. Hampden County, 16 Gray (Mass.) 38.

Where assessors, having jurisdiction of a bank and of the subject-matter, the description, amount and value of its property liable to taxation, assess such bank at the full amount of its capital, they, in so doing, act within their jurisdiction, and if they err, the error is a judicial one which can be reviewed upon certiorari. Genesee Valley Nat. Bank v. Livingston County, 53 Barb. (N. Y.) 223.

Though the passing of an ordinance by a common council for the construction of a sewer, being a ministerial act, cannot be reviewed on certiorari, yet it is competent for the supreme court, in a proper case, to vacate the estimate and assessment of the common council in affirming the proceedings for the construction of the sewer, as the council then acts in a judicial capacity. People v. New York, 5 Barb. (N. Y.) 43.

A writ of review may be prescribed to review the orders made by the county board of equalization correcting the assessment of an individual taxpayer. Rhea v. Umatilla County, 2 Oregon 298; Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 8 Oregon 337.

The New Jersey Act of 1884 provides for a review on certiorari of the is void,¹ or the record of the proceedings, authorizing the enforcement of the tax, is erroneous or defective.²

The writ lies, moreover, only in cases where there is no appeal from the extrajudicial action complained of, nor, in the judgment of the court, any plain, speedy, and adequate remedy.³ It does not lie to review the discretionary action of the tribunal below, further than to ascertain whether such tribunal has kept within action of the state board of assessors in valuing the property of railroads and canals. Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1.

Where an assessment of taxes has been made on erroneous principles, certiorari will lie; but the judgment of the commissioners of appeal is by statute final and conclusive on the mere valuation of property. State v. Quaffe, 23 N. J. L. 89.

The judgments of the county court in the matter of hearing and determining appeals from assessments, are reviewable on certiorari. State v. St. Louis County Ct., 47 Mo. 594.

By the New York statute of 1880, ch. 269, the power of the court to review and correct assessments by certiorari is confined to those cases in which it appears by the return of the writ, or the evidence taken thereunder, "that the assessment complained of is illegal, erroneous or unjust." It does not authorize a review where it appears that the assessment in question was made in accordance with the statutes then in force, and in the due performance of the duty then obligatory upon the assessors. People v. Tax Com'rs, 91 N. Y. 593; People v. Greenburgh, 43 Hun (N. Y.) 677; 106 N. Y. 671; People v. Low, 40 Hun (N. Y.) 176; People v. Dolan (Supreme Ct.), 11 N. Y. Supp. 35.

1. Ex p. Buckner, 9 Ark. 73; Murphy v. Harbison, 29 Ark. 340.

Certiorari is the proper remedy if the tax be void on its face, or if the fact that it is void would necessarily appear in the evidence of one claiming under a sale of real estate for non-payment of the tax. Hatch v. Buffalo, 38 N. Y. 276.

Where a tax or assessment is void because levied under an unconstitutional law, the delay of the prosecutor in making his complaint does not affect his right to the relief sought. Bogert v. Elizabeth, 27 N. J. Eq. 568; State v. Newark, 43 N. J. L. 576.

2. State v. Newark, 25 N. J. L. 399; State v. Parker, 32 N. J. L. 341.

3. Carroll v. Tuscaloosa, 12 Ala.

173; Benton v. Taylor, 46 Ala. 388; Floyd v. Gilbreath, 27 Ark. 675; Central Pac. R. Co. v. Placer County, 43 Cal. 365; Orr v. State Board of Equalization, 2 Idaho 923; Smith v. Jones County, 30 Iowa 531; Polk County v. Des Moines, 70 Iowa 351; Newburyport v. Essex County, 12 Met. (Mass.) 211; Farmington River Water Co. v. Berkshire County, 112 Mass. 206; Fractional School Dist. v. Joint Board, 27 Mich. 3; State v. Apgar, 31 N. J. L. 358; People v. Ogdensburg, 48 N. Y. 390; People v. Betts, 55 N. Y. 600; People v. Queens County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 195; Matter of Mt. Morris Square, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 14; Storm v. Odell, 2 Wend. (N. Y.) 287; Ex p. Albany, 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 277; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bate, 12 Lea (Tenn.) 573.

Where a revenue law provides a tribunal for the correction of errors, such quasi appellate jurisdiction, though exclusive quoad hoc, does not prevent a resort to the general remedy by certiorari to the special tribunal. Macklot v. Davenport, 17 Iowa 379.

A railroad company cannot appeal to the circuit court from an assessment of its property for taxation by a board of supervisors. The remedy, if any exists, would be by certiorari. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence County, 27 Ill. 50.

The proper remedy against an order of the county court refusing to correct a mistake in a settlement with an administrator, is by appeal to the circuit court, not by certiorari. But if no such appeal is provided, certiorari will lie. O'Hare v. Hempstead, 21 Iowa 33.

In an action of certiorari, it is peculiarly the duty of the court to scrutinize the petition and interfere only in a case properly made; and even then, the court may exercise a measure of discretion in granting or quashing the writ. Woodworth v. Gibbs, 61 Iowa 398.

The fact that an assessor had no jurisdiction, and that his assessment was void, while it would render the collector personally liable, will not jurisdictional limits,¹ nor for errors, mere defects of form, or prevent a review of his proceedings by certiorari. State v. Dowling, 50 Mo. 134.

Where parties dissatisfied with an assessment for a local improvement may petition for a jury, certiorari will not lie. North Reading v. Middlesex County, 7 Gray (Mass.) 109; Jones v. Boston, 104 Mass. 461; Whiting v. Boston, 106 Mass. 89.

A board of equalization made an order adding to the assessed value of petitioner's property. Held, that a writ of certiorari would not issue, the petitioner having another plain, speedy and adequate remedy, viz., a good defense pro tanto in any suit for the tax. State v. Washoe County, 14 Nev. 140.

In Michigan, certiorari will not bring tax proceedings before the supreme court for review, Whitbeck v. Hudson, 50 Mich. 86; but it is a common remedy to review proceedings in laying out drains and assessing the cost upon lands benefited, though nothing but jurisdictional questions will be reviewed. Cooley on Taxation, note p. 754, and cases cited there. See Bennett v. Scully, 56 Mich. 374.

In New York, a certiorari will not be allowed for the purpose of enabling a party, by procuring a reversal of proceedings, to recover back taxes paid. People v. Tax Com'rs, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 494; People v. Reddy, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 539.

But the contrary rule obtained in New Jersey. State v. Clothier, 30 N. J. L. 351. Randle v. Williams, 18 Ark. 380; Jones v. Boston, 104 Mass. 461; State v. Kingsland, 23 N. J. L. 85; State v. Massaker, 25 N. J. L. 531.

1. Erroneous views entertained, or incorrect reasons assigned, or evidence erroneously admitted in deciding the controversy, are not to be considered upon certiorari. Central Pac. R. Co. v. Placer County, 43 Cal. 365.

But disregard of evidence may be acting in excess of jurisdiction, and therefore reviewable. Milwaukee Iron Co. v. Schubel, 29 Wis. 444.

The board of supervisors has power under its authority to alter or equalize the assessment of property, and its discretion in this respect in a particular case, though erroneous, cannot be reviewed on certiorari. Smith v. Jones County, 30 Iowa 531; Harney v. Mitch- ell County, 44 Iowa 203; Polk County v. Des Moines, 70 Iowa 351.

Errors of judgment, either as to the facts or the law of the case, cannot be inquired into on certiorari. Doolittle v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 381.

The action of the county auditor, in charging back to a county certain taxes in his settlement with the county, being the exercise of an official discretion belonging to an executive department of a state government, is not subject to judicial review, and cannot be examined into upon certiorari. Midland County v. Auditor Gen'l, 27 Mich. 165.

Where the only questions to be decided by a board of supervisors were those of the facts of assessment and payment, its rejection of a just and legal claim for the refunding of certain prior taxes was held to be an error, reviewable on certiorari. People v. Madison County, 51 N. Y. 442.

In trying questions raised in cases of review, the court will not try questions of fact passed on by the inferior tribunal, unless such findings are manifestly wrong. Poppleton v. Yamhill County, 8 Oregon 337.

For errors or mistakes of law in the proceedings of county commissioners, certiorari will lie, but not for the review of mere questions of fact, Gibbs v. Hampden County, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 298; Newburyport v. Essex County, 12 Met. (Mass.) 211; Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 61; Chicopee v. Hampden County, 16 Gray (Mass.) 38; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 6 Allen (Mass.) 131; unless the competency of the evidence be objected to, so as to raise a legal question. Farmington River Water Co. v. Berkshire County, 112 Mass. 213.

Certiorari lies to correct errors of law, and not to settle disputed facts. It is not the province of the court to inquire whether an assessment for street repairs was for a larger quantity of work than had actually been done, or whether the street had been graded according to contract. State v. Hudson, 32 N. J. L. 365; State v. Davis, 48 N. J. L. 112.

The writ issues only to bring up for review the record of the proceedings complained of, and is not a citation to appear and justify the action of the tribunal, as though a judgment were to irregularities not affecting the substantial rights of the parties,¹ nor when public inconvenience or hardship would ensue.²

The writ must be applied for promptly,³ and while the officer be rendered against its members. The board of appeals cannot, therefore, be called upon to justify a levy. State v. Dowling, 50 Mo. 134.

In New York, while in ordinary cases the only question is as to whether the inferior tribunal kept within the sphere of jurisdiction allowed it (People v. Com'rs, 30 N. Y. 72; People v. Assessors, 39 N. Y. 81; People v. Betts, 55 N. Y. 602; People v. Fredericks, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 173), yet if necessary to prevent a failure of justice, the whole evidence in the case, as well as the ground or principle of the decision rendered, will be reviewed. Susquehanna Bank v. Supervisors, 25 N. Y. 312; Baldwin v. Buffalo, 35 N. Y. 380; Swift v. Poughkeepsie, 37 N. Y. 511; People v. Supervisors, 57 N. Y. 382; People v. Van Alstyne, 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 131.

This is especially the case since the passage of the act of 1880, providing for a review of illegal, erroneous and unjust assessments. The proceeding by certiorari under that act is essentially of an equitable character, untrammelled by strict common-law rules. See People v. Keator, 36 Hun (N. Y.) 592.

Under that statute, the petitioner must set forth either that the assessment is illegal, specifying the ground of the illegality, or is erroneous by reason of overvaluation, or is unequal in that the assessment has been made at a higher proportionate valuation than other real or personal property on the same roll, by the same officers, and that the petitioner is or will be injured by such alleged erroneous or unequal assessments. People v. Dolan, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 589.

Certiorari does not lie from a comptroller's refusal of a second application for a revision of an account settled by him with a corporation, he having once passed upon the matter on a first application and it being discretionary with him to grant or refuse a reconsideration. People v. Campbell, 19 N. Y. Supp. 652.

1. Ex p. Keenan, 21 Ala. 558; Cushing v. Gay, 23 Me. 9; West Bath, Petitioners, 36 Me. 74; Winslow v. Kennebec County, 37 Me. 561; Furbush v. Cunningham, 56 Me. 184; Levant v. Penobscot County, 67 Me. 433;

Conover v. House, 46 N. J. L. 347; State v. Manitowoc County, 59 Wis. 23.

An assessment will not be quashed on certiorari because of the failure of the assessor to take the oath of office. Moore v. Turner, 43 Ark. 243. Nor because all the assessors did not join in the valuation and the verification of the assessment roll. People v. Parker, 45 Hun (N. Y.) 432.

An assessment will not be set aside for including property not taxable with that which is, if the whole valuation is not excessive for that which is taxable. State v. Haight, 35 N. J. L. 178.

Where the return of the commissioners does not show that any substantial wrong or injustice has been done, the writ of certiorari should be quashed. State v. Manitowoc County, 59 Wis. 23.

If it appears from the record that the decision of the county commissioners was founded upon a consideration of adequate and uncontradicted evidence, and was substantially correct and worked no injustice, the proceedings will not be vacated, although the commissioners' view of the law as to the burden of proof was not expressed with technical accuracy. Mendon v. Worcester County, 5 Allen (Mass.) 13.

Any inaccuracy of statement or omission to state a fact in their record, not in any way injuring the petitioners, would be no ground for quashing the proceedings upon certiorari. Jones v. Boston, 104 Mass. 461.

It is not a sufficient reason for setting aside an assessment of taxes, that the year in which the town meeting was held, at which they were raised does not appear in the record, if it can be shown by parol proof. State v. Bentley, 23 N. J. L. 532.

2. Fractional School Dist. v. Joint Board, 27 Mich. 3; State v. Kingsland, 23 N. J. L. 85; Matter of Mount Morris Square, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 14; People v. Allegany County, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 198.

3. State v. Water Com'rs, 30 N. J. L. 247; State v. Street Com'rs, etc., 38 N. J. L. 320; State v. Jersey City, 41 N. J. L. 510; State v. Love, 42 N. J. L. 355; State v. Street Com'rs, etc., 42 N. J. L. 510; State v. Binninger, 42 N. J. L. 528.

In the case of an assessment made or tribunal whose proceedings it is sought to review retains control over the subject-matter.¹ If the petition, which may be filed by a fiduciary as well as by one interested in his own right,² and which must specify the illegality relied upon,³ be filed by one or more individual taxpayers for themselves alone, it must show that they have some special interest in the proceedings, not common to all the taxpayers of the district.⁴ If filed by more than one, verification by one is sufficient.⁵ If all taxpayers have the same interest, the writ should be maintained in the name of the people.⁶

under an unconstitutional law, the legislature cannot limit the time within which a certiorari shall issue. Trappahagen v. West Hoboken, 39 N. J. L. 232; State v. Jersey City, 43 N. J. L. 97; State v. Newark, 43 N. J. L. 576; Bogert v. Elizabeth, 27 N. J. Eq. 568.

The delay may be excused where it is due to the inaction of public officers, inducing a belief that the taxes will not be collected. State v. Manning, 41 N. J. L. 275.

A town where the property is claimed to have been assessed at too high a rate, cannot obtain a certiorari after nine months have passed and the greater part of the tax has been collected. State v. Board of Assessors (N. J. 1891), 21 Atl. Rep. 938.

In New York, a certiorari to review the comptroller's settlement of an account with a corporation, must be obtained within thirty days after notice of the settlement. This period cannot be extended by applying to him for a readjustment of the account. People v. Campbell (Supreme Ct.), 19 N. Y. Supp. 652.

Certiorari to review the action of a township drain commissioner in laying out a drain and levying a tax to pay for it, was sustained, where the plaintiff had seasonably sought the proper remedy at first, but had lost it without his fault, and where its allowance would not stay anything but the collection of his share of tax. Burnett v. Scully, 56 Mich. 374.

But where, in proceedings in a drain case, parties who, eleven months before, had appeared before the circuit court and opposed the confirmation of the report of the drain commissioners, afterwards sued out a certiorari, the writ was quashed for laches in the suing out of the writ. In re Lantis, 9 Mich. 324.

The owner of land over which a street is laid out by a city council, who objects, at the hearing before them, to the regularity of the proceedings, and gives written notice to the city, before the commencement of the construction of the street, of his intention to take legal measures to protect his rights, is not guilty of laches in waiting six months, until the next term of court, before he petitions for a certiorari. Dwight v. Springfield, 4 Gray (Mass.) 107.

1. If a writ of certiorari be served on the assessors of a town after the assessment roll has been perfected and delivered to the supervisor, the writ should be quashed as to the assessors. People v. Fredericks, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 173; People v. Tompkins, 40 Hun (N. Y.) 228; People v. Board of Assessors, 16 Hun (N. Y.) 407; People v. Queens County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 195; People v. Delaney, 49 N. Y. 655; People v. Dolan (Supreme Ct.), 11 N. Y. Supp. 35; People v. Allegany County, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 198; People v. New York, 2 Hill (N. Y.) 9; People v. Reddy, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 539; People v. Com'rs of Taxes, etc., 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 494; People v. Dunkirk, 38 Hun (N. Y.) 7.

2. State v. Holmdel Tp., 39 N. J. L. 79.

3. People v. Tierney, 57 Hun (N. Y.) 357, 589.

4. Benton v. Taylor, 46 Ala. 388; Levant v. Penobscot County, 67 Me. 434; Libby v. West St. Paul, 14 Minn. 288; State v. Middletown, 24 N. J. L. 124.

5. People v. Cheetham, 20 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 44; People v. Coleman, 41 Hun (N. Y.) 307.

6. The writ should not be allowed upon the relation of a town unless the petitioner was directed so to do, by the electors of the town. State v. Manitowoc County, 59 Wis. 15.

In People v. Westchester County, 57 Barb. (N. Y.) 377, the court, by Pratt, J., said: "The distinction between a taxpayer who acts as relator

Those whose interests are different cannot join in the petition.¹

The writ should be directed to the person or body having the legal custody of the record² (and the person or body whose proceedings are sought to be reviewed must usually be notified of the granting of the writ),³ and it should require a return only of the records affecting the property of the particular relator.⁴ The return should show what the rulings and proceedings were,⁵ and that they were as authorized by statute.⁶ If insufficient, the

in a legal proceeding, in which all the inhabitants of a political division of the state have a common interest, and a suit by a private individual to redress a wrong personal to himself, is clear. . . . The public has the same interest that a tax shall be proper as to a town or aggregation of individuals, as it has that it shall be right as to one person." That was the case of an appeal from an order superseding a common-law certiorari to review and correct certain items alleged to have been illegally included in the tax levy and warrant to be issued against a town. The relator was simply a resident and taxpayer of the town.

1. The judgment of the court of county commissioners, increasing the valuation of property as assessed for taxation, is a separate and distinct judgment as to each taxpayer, in which the other taxpayers have no individual interest, and certiorari will not be awarded to bring up for review jointly, judgments involving different rights. Carter v. Cullman County, 80 Ala. 394.

Where several townships separately voted taxes to aid in the construction of a railroad, and in the proceedings in each township a defect was alleged to exist which avoided the taxes, it was held that the taxpayers in the several townships could not unite as plaintiffs in certiorari to test the validity of the taxes. Woodworth v. Gibbs, 61 Iowa 398.

2. People v. Queens County, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 199; People v. Fredericks, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 173; People v. Delaney, 49 N. Y. 655.

If the writ be directed to one who has not the legal custody of the record (e. g., to the commissioners of appeal after they have rendered their decision and returned the duplicate to the collector with their certificate), it will be dismissed. State v. Howell, 24 N. J. L. 519.

If directed to the proper party, and also to an improper party, the writ will be quashed as to the former only. State v. Street Com'rs, etc., 42 N. J. L. 510.

Certiorari to bring up the proceedings of the town board of review should be directed to the town clerk. Milwaukee Iron Co. v. Schubel, 29 Wis. 444.

Certiorari to correct a local assessment in New York City, must be directed to the board having the matter in charge, not to the city. People v. New York, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 73.

In New York, the writ may be directed to village trustees, although the rolls are with the collector. The statute does not require the original rolls to be returned. People v. Adams, 125 N. Y. 471.

3. Levant v. Penobscot County, 67 Me. 434.

In New York, under the statute providing for the review of illegal assessments, notice of the granting of the certiorari may be dispensed with. People v. Smith, 24 Hun (N. Y.) 66.

4. Facts affecting other property, relevant as showing a disproportionate valuation, should be left to be shown by the evidence. People v. Com'rs of Taxes, 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 35.

5. Farmington River Water Co. v. Berkshire County, 112 Mass. 206; Lowell v. Middlesex County, 146 Mass. 403.

The findings are conclusive as to facts, and if they report evidence, the proceedings will not be set aside if the evidence supports the findings. Great Barrington v. Berkshire County, 112 Mass. 218.

6. To certiorari to reduce an assessment made under a statute regulating the valuation, the assessors should certify in the return that they followed the statute, not merely that they fairly assessed the property. People v. Weaver, 67 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 477.

return may be supplemented by amendment.¹ The common-law effect of the writ when served (as a supersedeas, staying all proceedings of the officers to whom it is addressed),² has, in some states, been changed by statute in tax cases.³ Upon the petition for a certiorari, the whole case will be heard,⁴ but when the case is before the court on the writ, no evidence extrinsic to the record is allowed⁵ (except where this rule has been changed by statute),⁶ nor will the validity of the title of the assessors to their offices, or of other persons whose action is reviewed, be inquired into.⁷

The judgment of the court is, in most states, either to dismiss the writ (but this is not conclusive as to the validity of the assess-

1. Levant v. Penobscot County, 67 Me. 434; Orland v. Hancock County, 76 Me. 462.

Upon certiorari, omissions or errors going to the formality and regularity of the proceedings and record of county commissioners, may be cured by amendment, or the whole proceedings may be quashed, if the errors are such as demand it. Rutland v. Worcester County, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 71; Brimmer v. Boston, 102 Mass. 91, and cases cited; Blake v. Norfolk County, 114 Mass. 583; Taber v. New Bedford, 135 Mass. 162; Gilkey v. Watertown, 141 Mass. 317.

The plaintiff cannot rely upon the affidavit for the certiorari to supply the deficiencies of the return. Whitbeck v. Hudson, 50 Mich. 86.

2. See CERTIORARI, vol. 3, pp. 60, 66.

3. The right to recover back the taxes, if paid, is considered to render a stay of proceedings unnecessary. State v. State Board of Assessors, 54 N. J. L. 90; Bank of Com. v. New York, 43 N. Y. 185; People v. Coleman, 48 Hun (N. Y.) 602.

In Wisconsin, the writ operates as a stay where the invalidity of the tax appears by an admission upon the record. Griggs v. St. Croix County, 20 Fed. Rep. 341.

4. Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435; Levant v. Penobscot County, 67 Me. 429.

5. Floyd v. Gilbreath, 27 Ark. 675; Com'rs v. Carthage, 27 Ill. 140; Smith v. Jones County, 30 Iowa 531; Levant v. Penobscot County, 67 Me. 434; Mendon v. Worcester County, 5 Allen (Mass.) 13; Charlestown v. Middlesex County, 109 Mass. 270; Central R. Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 49 N. J. L. 1; State v. Manitowoc County, 59 Wis. 15.

If the return set up matters dehors the record, it should be objected to by motion to strike out, not by demurrer. Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435.

In Arkansas, however, the acts of executive officers or boards are only prima facie evidence of their regularity. Vance v. Little Rock, 30 Ark. 435.

6. In New York, when the return traverses material allegations in the petition or introduces new matter, the court may, under the statute, order testimony to be taken by a referee, if it be deemed necessary. People v. Cheetham, 20 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 44.

Refusal of the assessor to hear testimony offered by the person assessed, is a sufficient reason for such a reference. People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684.

Where a taxpayer, supposing himself to be legally a non-resident, gave the commissioners no evidence as to the value of his taxable property, testimony will be taken, and the court may reduce the assessment. People v. Tax Com'rs (Supreme Ct.), 16 N. Y. Supp. 834.

Where testimony of unequal valuation is introduced, the taxpayer must show that he is required to pay more than his just proportion. People v. Carter, 109 N. Y. 576; modifying 46 Hun (N. Y.) 444.

An order of reference, under this statute, and an order refusing to set such order aside, are not reviewable, as they are not final and do not affect substantial rights. People v. Smith, 85 N. Y. 528.

The common-law rule as to evidence does not apply to cases involving assessments levied under the charter of Chicago. Rue v. Chicago, 66 Ill. 256.

7. State v. Holmdel Tp., 39 N. J. L. 75; People v. Walter, 68 N. Y.

ment),¹ or to vacate the assessment, though in some states the statute allows the court to reduce it.² The assessment may be vacated either in its entirety,³ or as to the prosecutors only, in which case the officer having custody of the roll is ordered to strike the assessment from it.⁴ Costs are not allowed the petitioner, except where the officers have acted negligently or in bad faith, or have unreasonably persisted in their defense.⁵ If the tax be affirmed, payment of costs as well as of the tax may be enforced by attachment.⁶

d. PROHIBITION—(See also PROHIBITION, vol. 19, p. 274).—Generally the writ of prohibition is not available as a preventive remedy for an illegal collection.⁷

e. INJUNCTION—(See INJUNCTIONS, vol. 10, p. 857).—The law applicable to the writ of injunction in connection with taxation is set forth elsewhere.⁸

f. REFUNDING AND RECOVERY OF TAXES PAID.—It is provided by statute in some states that taxes illegally collected shall be refunded on application to the board of supervisors, county commissioners, or other like body.⁹ Apart from such a provision 403; People v. Parker, 45 Hun (N. Y.) 432.

1. People v. Kingston, 101 N. Y. 82.

2. People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684; People v. Tax Com'rs (Supreme Ct.), 16 N. Y. Supp. 834.

3. Bergen v. State, 32 N. J. L. 490; State v. Bergen, 34 N. J. L. 438.

4. Bergen v. State, 32 N. J. L. 490; People v. Reddy, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 545; People v. McLean, 5 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 137.

The whole assessment will not be set aside, if proper relief can be given the prosecutor without this. State v. Kingsland, 23 N. J. L. 85.

5. Lowell v. Middlesex County, 3 Allen (Mass.) 546; State v. Newark, 44 N. J. L. 323; People v. Keator, 67 How. Pr. (N. Y. Supreme Ct.) 277; People v. McComber (Supreme Ct.), 7 N. Y. Supp. 71; People v. Zoeller (Supreme Ct.), 15 N. Y. Supp. 684.

6. Smith v. State, 31 N. J. L. 216.

7. See the law stated and cases cited in PROHIBITION, vol. 19, p. 274.

8. See INJUNCTIONS, vol. 10, p. 857.

9. The Illinois statute provides for the pro rata refunding by order of the county board, of state, county, city, town and village taxes, in case of double assessment. The board's order creates no claim on the county except for county taxes, or other taxes collected by the county and not yet distributed. If they have been distributed, a certified copy of the refunding order should accompany an application to each of the various bodies who have received a share of the tax. Barber v. Jackson County, 40 Ill. App. 42.

In Indiana, it is provided that the common council of a city may at any time order the amount erroneously assessed against and collected from any taxpayer, to be refunded to him. This provision is mandatory, and applies to the assessment of property outside the city limits. Indianapolis v. McAvoy, 86 Ind. 587.

Where the assessor and the city treasurer have refused to deduct a taxpayer's indebtedness from his assessment list, the excess paid on that account may be recovered, whether voluntarily paid or not, and previous application to the board of equalization is unnecessary. Indianapolis v. Vajen, 111 Ind. 240.

By the Indiana statute, county taxes "wrongfully assessed" must similarly be refunded by the county commissioners. The word "wrongfully" means that the taxes should not have been assessed at all, not merely that they were irregular or unauthorized. Howard County v. Armstrong, 91 Ind. 528; Durham v. Montgomery County, 95 Ind. 182; Carroll County v. Graham, 98 Ind. 279; Henry County v. Murphy, 100 Ind. 570.

This statute applies to illegal increase of valuations by the state board of equalization, the legislature having ordered the money to be refunded to the counties. Newsom v. Bartholomew County, 92 Ind. 229. Also to illegal increase of valuation by a county auditor. Pulaski County v. Senn, 117 Ind. 410.

As to the repeal of the act for the refunding of illegal taxes on school lands, see St. Joseph County v. Buckman, 57 Ind. 96; Henderson v. State, 58 Ind. 244.

The Iowa statute provides that the county board of supervisors shall direct the county treasurer to refund to the taxpayer any tax, "illegally exacted or paid." This applies to all cases where, on account of errors or illegal proceedings, the taxpayer was not bound to pay, and if the board of supervisors refuse so to direct, an action will lie. Lauman v. Des Moines County, 29 Iowa 310; Isbell v. Crawford County, 40 Iowa 102; Richards v. Wapello County, 48 Iowa 507; Dickey v. Polk County, 58 Iowa 287; Winzer v. Burlington, 68 Iowa 279; Thomas v. Burlington, 69 Iowa 140. But it does not apply to the case of taxes paid under a misapprehension as to ownership of the taxed property, the taxpayer knowing all the facts upon which his claim of title was based. Dubuque, etc., R. Co. v. Webster County, 40 Iowa 16.

In the case of a city, the fact that its indebtedness exceeds the constitutional limit does not affect the right to recover a tax illegally exacted. Thomas v. Burlington, 69 Iowa 140.

The Iowa statute does not require protest. Richards v. Wapello County, 48 Iowa 507. It applies to local assessments, as well as to taxes. Robinson v. Burlington, 50 Iowa 240.

Where lands are sold for more than the legal tax due, the excess may be recovered under this section. Harper v. Sexton, 22 Iowa 442; Rhodes v. Sexton, 33 Iowa 540.

The taxpayer's failure to pursue other remedies to defeat the collection of a tax does not affect his right to recover under this section. Dickey v. Polk County, 58 Iowa 287.

This section does not authorize the refunding of redemption money paid after a void sale for taxes, such redemption being unnecessary. Morris v. Sioux County, 42 Iowa 416.

A city may, by ordinance, be subjected to the liability to refund, imposed by this ordinance. Tallant v. Burlington, 39 Iowa 543.

If the board of supervisors or the treasurer refuse to act, they may be compelled by mandamus, but no action will lie against the county. Eyerly v. Jasper County, 72 Iowa 149.

An order of the board of supervisors, authorizing the repayment, is essential in the case of an ordinary county tax (Crosby v. Floete, 65 Iowa 370), but not in other cases, e. g., in that of a railroad aid tax. Barnes v. Marshall County, 56 Iowa 20.

The New York statute (3 Rev. Stats. 1890, p. 287, § 55), authorizes the boards of supervisors, either on application by a taxpayer or on order of the county court, to refund taxes "illegally or improperly" assessed. This means illegality in the tax, and not merely in the assessment. Harris v. Niagara County, 33 Hun (N. Y.) 279.

It is not essential to such refunding that the taxpayer should have made a return, nor that he should have paid under duress. People v. Madison County, 51 N. Y. 442.

The county court may order the supervisors to refund, although the assessment has not been first adjudged illegal by any tribunal. Matter of New York Catholic Protectory, 77 N. Y. 342.

The assessor's affidavit, attached to the roll, that the latter contains a true statement of property "at the full and true value thereof," is no evidence that the proper deductions were not made, so as to warrant proceedings to compel refunding. Matter of Farmers' Nat. Bank, i Thomp. & C. (N. Y.) 383.

The New York statute authorizing the comptroller to review and adjust accounts already settled by him with any corporation and to "charge or credit" it with any balance due, does not authorize the refunding of any excess amount paid for taxes. The money remains in the treasury to be applied to future taxes. People v. Wemple, 133 N. Y. 617.

Under the New York statute authorizing a refunding by a two-thirds vote of the county supervisors under certain circumstances, the two-thirds vote is essential. Van Antwerp v. Kelly, 50 Hun (N. Y.) 513.

Under the North Carolina statute, in the case of illegal state taxes paid under protest, the commissioners certify the amount to the state auditor, who draws his warrant upon the treasurer for the amount due the taxpayer. North Carolina R. Co. v. Alamance, 77 N. Car. 4.

In an action to recover taxes charged to have been collected unlawfully, the as this, the general doctrine of law as to the recovery of money paid¹ applies in the case of payment for illegal taxes, so that, in the absence of fraud² or mistake of fact,³ taxes paid without legal duress cannot be recovered back,⁴ nor their application action of the board of review and equalization having power to change or set aside assessments, cannot be reviewed, the action of the board having consisted in reducing the assessments on real estate fifty per cent. and leaving those on personal property unchanged. Biggs v. Lake County (Ind. App. 1893), 34 N. E. Rep. 500.

A proceeding in the nature of an action to recover back taxes paid, is not available where a corporation has voluntarily reported for taxation and paid the taxes assessed on property exempt. People v. Wemple, 69 Hun (N. Y.) 367. See generally Wiesmann v. Brighton, 83 Wis. 550; Ratterman v. American Express Co., 49 Ohio St. 608; Simonson v. West Harrison, 5 Ind. App. 459.

1. See PAYMENTS, vol. 12, pp. 220, 222.

2. Where a property owner was liable for only half the cost of laying certain pipes, but, not knowing the actual cost, paid the whole in reliance upon fraudulent misrepresentations by the city officers, such payment was held not to be voluntary. Harrison v. Milwaukee, 49 Wis. 247.

3. Taxes paid through mistake of fact as to the ownership of real estate, may be recovered from the real owner. Fenton v. Way, 40 Iowa 196; Union R. Co. v. Skinner, 9 Mo. App. 189. But not from the county. Scott v. Chickasaw County, 53 Iowa 47.

Some courts have held a mistake as to the legality of a tax, as being in the nature of a mistake of fact, in so far as to warrant a recovery of the money paid. Louisville v. Anderson, 79 Ky. 334; Newport v. Ringo, 87 Ky. 635; Torbitt v. Louisville (Ky. 1887), 4 S. W. Rep. 345; Delano v. New York, 32 Hun (N. Y.) 144; Wooley v. Staley, 39 Ohio St. 354.

But the contrary has been held in Lester v. Baltimore, 29 Md. 415; Bradley v. Laconia (N. H. 1890), 20 Atl. Rep. 331; Custin v. Viroqua, 67 Wis. 314.

In Hubbard v. Hickman, 4 Bush (Ky.) 204, and Galveston County v. Gorham, 49 Tex. 279, the fact that the mistake was one of law was held a defense where the taxes had been paid for several years and repayment would derange the finances of the local government. To the same effect, Manistee Lumber Co. v. Springfield Tp., 92 Mich. 277.

In Jackson v. Atlanta, 61 Ga. 228, a mistake of the city engineer, whereby property outside the city was assessed for municipal taxation, was held to be no ground for requiring repayment of the taxes.

Where the property taxed was situated in a district which, after the assessment, but before the taxes were due, became part of another county, taxes paid to the treasurer of the old county were held recoverable as a payment to a public officer, under color of his office, after his authority had ceased. Fremont, etc., R. Co. v. Holt County, 28 Neb. 742.

4. Santa Rosa Bank v. Chalfant, 52 Cal. 170; Mills v. Austin, 53 Cal. 379; Merrill v. Austin, 53 Cal. 379; De Fremery v. Austin, 53 Cal. 380; Younger v. Santa Cruz County, 68 Cal. 241; Grimley v. Santa Clara County, 68 Cal. 575; Tatum v. Trenton, 85 Ga. 468; St. Joseph County v. Ruckman, 57 Ind. 96 (a case not within the statute); Dickinson County v. National Land Co., 23 Kan. 196; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hopkins County, 87 Ky. 608; Walker v. St. Louis, 15 Mo. 563; Wilcox v. New York, 53 N. Y. Super. Ct. 436; People v. Brinckerhoff, 40 Hun (N. Y.) 381; Meylert v. Sullivan County, 19 Pa. St. 181; McCrickart v. Pittsburgh, 88 Pa. St. 133; Babcock v. Fond du Lac, 58 Wis. 230; Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Tappan, 16 Blatchf. (U. S.) 296; Little v. Bowers, 134 U. S. 547. And if taxes are voluntarily paid by a claimant of real estate whose title is subsequently adjudged invalid, he cannot recover them from the successful claimant. Garrigan v. Knight, 47 Iowa 525.

Where a non-resident holder of certain city bonds was illegally assessed for them, and the banks where the interest was payable deducted the tax from their remittance to him, he not objecting for several years, this was held equivalent to a voluntary payment on his part. Baltimore v. Hussey, 67 Md. 112.

If the duress be removed by a promise restrained,¹ even protest being immaterial,² except in those states where, by the statute, payment under protest is made sufficient to entitle the taxpayer to recover.³ In the other states actual to pay, subsequent payment will be voluntary. Gachet v. McCall, 50 Ala. 307; Savannah v. Feeley, 66 Ga. 31.

That the levy or assessment was in violation of the statute does not alter the case. McGehee v. Columbus, 69 Ga. 581; People v. Miner, 46 Ill. 374.

In Galveston v. Sydnor, 39 Tex. 236, however, it was held that it would be "contrary to good conscience" for a city to retain money collected as taxes under an ordinance not authorized by its charter, and that therefore an action would lie to recover money so collected, whether paid under duress or not. This case seems to be clearly at variance with the usual doctrine.

That the law under which the tax was collected was afterwards declared unconstitutional in some other case, does not make the payment less voluntary. Taylor v. Board of Health, 31 Pa. St. 73; San Francisco, etc., R. Co. v. Dinwiddie, 8 Sawyer (U. S.) 312.

But where the taxpayer himself subsequently succeeds in having the assessment set aside by a judicial decision, this has been held to do away with the voluntary character of his payment, he having "pushed his claim to a successful result." Jersey v. Riker, 38 N. J. L. 225.

Voluntary Payment by Receiver.—

Where the receiver of a railroad company, pending a foreclosure sale, paid taxes, the amount of which were allowed to him by the court without objection, the purchasers of the railroad, who had been parties to the suit, were not allowed to recover. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Smyth County, 87 Ga. 521.

1. One who cannot recover back the money paid as a tax will also be unable to restrain its application to the object for which the tax was levied. Babcock v. Fond du Lac, 58 Wis. 230.

2. Raisler v. Athens, 66 Ala. 194; First Nat. Bank of Americus v. Americus, 68 Ga. 119; People v. Miner, 46 Ill. 374; Conkling v. Springfield, 132 Ill. 420; Whitbeck v. Minch, 48 Ohio St. 210; Georgetown College v. District of Columbia, 4 MacArthur (D. C.) 43.

Even where the payment under protest is made in pursuance of an agreement that the taxpayers' rights and their assertion in the courts shall not be prejudiced by such payment, it cannot be recovered back. Galveston City Co. v. Galveston, 56 Tex. 486.

3. The Massachusetts statute requires the protest to be in writing. An oral protest is insufficient, even though the treasurer has instructed the clerk to make a note of all protests, written or oral. Knowles v. Boston, 129 Mass. 551. But if the taxpayer writes the protest across the face of his tax bill, and presents that to the collector, but does not leave it with him, it is sufficient. Borland v. Boston, 132 Mass. 89.

The taxpayer need not resist the collector, nor resort to any other remedies. McGee v. Salem, 149 Mass. 238.

If he be taxed by two municipalities, the taxpayer cannot file a bill in equity to determine in which one he is properly taxable; he should pay under protest and sue. Macy v. Nantucket, 121 Mass. 351.

The statute does not apply to cases of overvaluation or overtaxation, if the taxpayer was properly taxable at all. The remedy in such a case is by application for abatement, as it was before the statute was passed. Bourne v. Boston, 2 Gray (Mass.) 494; Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 55; Salmond v. Hanover, 13 Allen (Mass.) 119; Hicks v. Westport, 130 Mass. 478; Boston Mfg. Co. v. Com., 144 Mass. 598; Richardson v. Boston, 148 Mass. 508; Norcross v. Milford, 150 Mass. 237. Hence, where one partner paid under protest the amount of a tax assessed against his firm after its dissolution, it was held that he could not recover it back, unless, at the date of the assessment, the firm's affairs had been wound up or it had no taxable property remaining undisposed of. Oliver v. Lynn, 130 Mass. 143.

And the question of the invalidity of a sewer assessment, on account of the omission therefrom of persons benefited by the sewer, cannot be tried in an action to recover the money paid. Kelso v. Boston, 120 Mass. 297.

The Michigan statute allows recovery from a township within thirty days after protest, if the tax be illegal for the reasons specified in the protest.

The protest is a mere notice, and a copy may be evidence if service be proved. Michigan Land, etc., Co. v. Republic, 65 Mich. 628.

duress is essential,¹ and if the tax or assessment be demanded by an officer who has in his possession at the time a warrant in the nature of an execution against the taxpayer's property, so that he can only protect himself by paying, this is held to constitute

The illegality gives the right of action; the protest merely determines the time from which the amount may be recovered. White v. Millbrook, 60 Mich. 532.

The statute applies to excessive taxation. See Solomon v. Oscoda, 77 Mich. 365.

A protest in the form "Paid under protest to protect property from being sold, and on account of taxes being illegal" is sufficiently specific where the claim is that the taxes are wholly illegal, and not merely so in some special point. Whitney v. Port Huron, 88 Mich. 268.

The Nebraska statute requires that, before suit can be brought against a county treasurer, demand must be made of all the treasurers, state, county, district, etc., to whom the money was to be distributed. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo County, 14 Neb. 51.

The statute covers the case of local occupation taxes. Caldwell v. Lincoln, 19 Neb. 569.

The Tennessee statute providing for action, within thirty days of the time of payment, to recover "illegal" taxes, has been held not to apply to an unconstitutional tax, such a tax being void. U. S. Express Co. v. Allen, 39 Fed. Rep. 712. A judgment for a tax under this statute has precedence over other claims upon the county treasury. Sheldon v. Platt, 139 U. S. 591.

The Wisconsin statute applies to school-district taxes, though not expressly mentioned therein. Matteson v. Rosendale, 37 Wis. 255.

1. On the question of what constitutes such duress as will give a taxpayer, who pays under protest, the right to recover, the courts of the different states are not altogether in harmony. In general it may be said that a payment made to avoid an actual levy and sale of the taxpayer's property, is made under duress. Howard v. Augusta, 74 Me. 79; Lyon v. Guthard, 52 Mich. 71; Bruecher v. Port Chester, 31 Hun (N. Y.) 550; Dutchess County Mut. Ins. Co. v. Poughkeepsie (Supreme Ct.), 4 N. Y. Supp. 93; Grim v. Weissenberg, 57 Pa. St. 433; Galveston Gas Co. v. Galveston County, 54 Tex. 287; Allen v. Bur- lington, 45 Vt. 202; Parcher v. Marathon County, 52 Wis. 388.

But it has been held that if that which is not distrainable be distrained and advertised for sale, payment of the tax to avoid sale is voluntary. Sowles v. Soule, 59 Vt. 131. And payment to avoid an action or prosecution, where the invalidity of the law would be a defense, is not under duress. Maxwell v. San Luis Obispo County, 79 Cal. 466.

Payment of a tax to avoid an impending sale, after an unsuccessful application for an injunction against the sheriff, is not voluntary. Shaw v. Allegheny, 115 Pa. St. 46.

Payment before legal proceedings are begun, though after they have been authorized, is voluntary. Barrett v. Cambridge, 10 Allen (Mass.) 48; Wilson v. Pelton, 40 Ohio St. 306. And so of payment prior to a demand, which was an essential prerequisite to a seizure. Conkling v. Springfield, 19 Ill. App. 167.

Threats of sale, of legal proceedings, or of adding costs, do not constitute duress. Buchnall v. Story, 46 Cal. 595; De Baker v. Carillo, 52 Cal. 473; De Fremery v. Austin, 53 Cal. 379; Vanderbeck v. Rochester, 46 Hun (N. Y.) 87; Taylor v. Board of Health, 31 Pa. St. 73. A fortiori, payment of a tax is voluntary, although under protest, when made before such threats have been made. Woodland Bank v. Webber, 52 Cal. 73.

Threats either before or after sale, to execute a tax deed, which, being void upon its face, would not cloud the title, do not constitute duress. De Fremery v. Austin, 53 Cal. 379; Shane v. St. Paul, 26 Minn. 543. A mere assertion by city officials that they have power to require payment, is not duress. Holder v. Galena, 19 Ill. App. 409. But under certain circumstances threats may amount to compulsion. Magnolia v. Sherman, 46 Ark. 358; Cade v. Perlin, 14 S. Car. 1. E. g., where the collector, having repeatedly demanded the tax, threatens to shut up the taxpayer's shop. Vicksburg v. Butler, 56 Miss. 72.

A demand for the tax, accompanied by a threat of immediate and effectual enforcement, is held to be duress in duress.¹ Payment of the tax is not considered voluntary when necessary to clear the title to real estate.²

To warrant a recovery, the tax must be itself illegal, or at least illegally assessed, and not merely irregularly so,³ and no right of Michigan. First Nat. Bank v. Watkins, 21 Mich. 483.

1. Williams v. Corcoran, 46 Cal. 556; Smith v. Farrelly, 52 Cal. 77; Atwater v. Woodbridge, 6 Conn. 223; Adam v. Litchfield, 10 Conn. 127; Mills v. Hopkinsville (Ky. 1889), 11 S. W. Rep. 776; Amesbury Woollen, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Amesbury, 17 Mass. 461; Sumner v. Dorchester, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 361; Preston v. Boston, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 7; Perry v. Dover, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 206.

But in Union Pac. R. Co. v. Dodge County, 98 U. S. 541, it was held that where warrants were issued to the county treasurer, directing him to seize and sell personal property, upon default in the payment of taxes upon certain lands, but he made no special effort to do so, payment was voluntary.

In Boston, etc., Glass Co. v. Boston, 4 Met. (Mass.) 181, it was held that where the collector has a tax bill and warrant in the form prescribed by law, payment is compulsory, and that protest is only essential to the recovery of interest.

In Chicago v. Fidelity Sav. Bank, 11 Ill. App. 165, and Dunnell Mfg. Co. v. Newell, 15 R. I. 233, it is stated that the mere fact that the collector has a warrant does not make the payment compulsory, as he may not execute it, but proceed at law; but in the opinion in the latter case it was stated that if payment be made under protest, it may be recovered back. The opinion is not very clear.

The mere fact that the taxes are included in the delinquent list does not make payment compulsory, especially when the taxpayer has no land on which they would be a lien. Dear v. Varnum, 80 Cal. 86.

It has been held in Pennsylvania, though by a divided court, that the advertisement of land for sale for the taxes is not duress. Union Ins. Co. v. Allegheny, 101 Pa. St. 250.

In Bailey v. Buell, 50 N. Y. 662, reversing 59 Barb. (N. Y.) 158, it was held that the order of a county judge that a tax should be paid, was in the nature of a judgment, and nugatory without further action, so that payment in compliance therewith was voluntary; and this was followed in Drake v. Shurtliff, 24 Hun (N. Y.) 422, even though the taxpayer had been enjoined from disposing of his property till payment was made. It had previously been held (Bank of the Commonwealth v. New York, 43 N. Y. 184), that the assessment itself was in the nature of a judgment which the taxpayer was legally bound to pay, and had no lawful means of resisting, and hence that payment on demand of the proper authority was not voluntary. This view was followed in Union Bank v. New York, 51 N. Y. 638, reversing 51 Barb. (N. Y.) 159, where the plaintiffs had paid on being notified by the officer in charge of the collection that in the event of non-payment, a warrant would be issued to collect the same, but no warrant had issued. It seems difficult to harmonize these cases.

Where it became the immediate duty of the county treasurer, however, if the tax were not paid, to issue a warrant to the sheriff to levy upon and sell the taxpayer's personal property, payment was held to be under duress. Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Wyandotte County, 16 Kan. 589. To the same effect, Preston v. Boston, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 7.

2. State v. Nelson, 41 Minn. 25; Vaughn v. Port Chester, 43 Hun (N. Y.) 427; Stephan v. Daniels, 27 Ohio St. 527.

3. Stephenson County v. Manny, 56 Ill. 160; Chicago v. Fidelity Sav. Bank, 11 Ill. App. 165. See Indiana cases under statute cited in note supra; Williams v. School Dist., 21 Pick. (Mass.) 75; Rogers v. Greenbush, 58 Me. 390; Hanson v. Haverhill, 60 N. H. 218; Matter of New York Catholic Protector, 8 Hun (N. Y.) 91.

Where a tax payable in labor was assessed as a money tax, without the statutory notice and demand, the remedy was held to be against the assessor for damages sustained. Hayford v. Belfast, 69 Me. 63.

Where a county auditor increased the assessment of certain property as listed, this was held to be a revaluation, not an assessment, of omitted property, and as the auditor could not revalue, a recovery was had. Douch v. Lake County, 4 Ind. App. 374.

action arises from the fact that the proper officers have agreed to refund a tax voluntarily paid, and not of itself illegal and void.¹ If the amount of an illegal tax be actually collected by distress and sale of personal property, it can of course be recovered back, as the question of duress does not arise,² and if the owner of land sold for illegal taxes redeems it, it has been held that he can recover the redemption money,³ though in some cases the redemption has been regarded as a voluntary payment.⁴

In Minnesota, it has been held that the taxation of property properly taxable elsewhere, was erroneous, but not void, so that the taxpayer should have sought to have the error corrected, and could not recover the money paid. Clarke v. Stearns County, 47 Minn. 552.

In Swift v. Poughkeepsie, 37 N. Y. 511, it was held that where both the person and the property taxed were within the jurisdiction of the taxing authority, the fact that some of the property taxed was exempt, did authorize an action against the county or municipality for erroneous tax after it was paid—that the remedy was by certiorari, writ of error, or application to the legislature. In Newman v. Livingston County, 45 N. Y. 676, it was attempted to extend this limitation of municipal responsibility to a compulsory payment of a tax due from a former occupant of the taxpayer's premises, a tax void as to the latter; but the Court of Appeals, reversing 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 476, declared that in such a case a recovery could be had against the county or municipality that had received the money.

In Bank of Com. v. New York, 43 N. Y. 184, it was held that money paid for a tax erroneously assessed could be recovered back where the assessment was, after the payment, annulled on certiorari.

A tax collected without any assessment whatever may be recovered back. Shewalter v. Brown, 35 Miss. 423.

1. Lyons v. Cook, 9 Ill. App. 543.

2. Hennel v. Vanderburgh County, 132 Ind. 32; Sumner v. Dorchester, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 361; Inglee v. Bosworth, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 498; Dow v. First Parish, 5 Met. (Mass.) 73.

But if the payment be in satisfaction of a judgment for taxes, it cannot be recovered until the judgment is set aside. First Presbyterian Church v. New Orleans, 30 La. Ann. 259.

3. In Brownlee v. Marion County, 53 Iowa 487, and Parker v. Cochran, 64

Iowa 757, such redemption was held to bring the case within the Iowa statute (Rev. Code, 1888, § 870), but in Sears v. Marshall County, 59 Iowa 603, where the land was sold for taxes which had already been paid, it was held that the owner should have proceeded against the holder of the certificate or tax deed, to have these instruments canceled.

In Pennsylvania, redemption money paid for land illegally sold for a tax levied a second time, may be recovered. Clapp v. Pinegrove, 138 Pa. St. 35.

Purchase, from the county's assignee, of the outstanding certificates and the taking of quit-claim deeds for lands conveyed to him by tax deed, have been held in Wisconsin not to constitute a voluntary redemption, and hence in such case the owner can recover under the statute. Marsh v. St. Croix County, 42 Wis. 355.

Payment, after sale of land for an assessment for an improvement afterwards abandoned, has been held not voluntary, even when made after the abandonment. Valentine v. St. Paul, 34 Minn. 446.

4. Sears v. Marshall County, 59 Iowa 603. See last note.

In Shane v. St. Paul, 26 Minn. 543, where the sale was under a void tax judgment and the owner had full knowledge of the character of the sale and the facts affecting its validity, he could not recover the money paid.

In Phillips v. Jefferson County, 5 Kan. 412, certain Indian lands, not legally taxable, were assessed and sold for taxes. One who had title to the land, paid the taxes, though denying their legality, in order to prevent tax deeds from being issued. This payment was held to be voluntary, the court saying, "The money was not paid on compulsion or extorted as a condition. A tax deed had been due for nearly two years. Had the plaintiff desired to litigate the question, he could have done so without paying the money; even had

If a tax be partly illegal, and the illegal portion can be separated, it may be recovered if paid under duress, provided the legal tax be first tendered and refused.¹ No recovery will be permitted in cases of overvaluation, where the taxpayer neglected to pursue his ordinary remedies before payment;² but in the case of illegal taxation, no proceeding to set aside the assessment is necessary.³

The protest made should be sufficiently definite to notify the tax collector of the illegality which the taxpayer claims to exist;⁴ but it need not state facts of which he has notice.⁵ Prior demand for repayment is required by statute in some states,⁶ but this is exceptional.⁷

The action, which under common-law pleading is one of assumpsit,⁸ may be maintained against the county, town, city, a deed been made out on the tax certificate, it would have been set aside by appropriate proceedings. There was no legal ground for apprehending any danger on the part of the plaintiff."

In Wabaunsee County v. Walker, 8 Kan. 431, it was held in a similar case, that not even illegal interest paid on the taxes could be recovered back.

In Lamborn v. Dickinson County, 97 U. S. 181, the owner had full knowledge of the facts, but was misled by an erroneous decision of the state supreme court (afterwards reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court), and in consequence redeemed the property. The redemption was held to be voluntary, as there was no absolute necessity for it.

1. Bank of Mendocino v. Chalfant, 51 Cal. 471.

In Michigan, this may be done in the case of a tax properly levied but excessive. Lake Superior Ship Canal Co. v. Thompson, 56 Mich. 493.

2. Hemingway v. Machias, 33 Me. 445; Waite v. Princeton, 66 Me. 225; Huggins v. Hinson, Phill. G. (N. Car.) 126; Wharton v. Birmingham, 37 Pa. St. 371; Cloud v. Norwich, 57 Vt. 448; Stanley v. Albany County, 121 U. S. 535; Williams v. Albany County, 122 U. S. 154; Balfour v. Portland, 28 Fed. Rep. 738.

As to recovery after unsuccessful application to board of review, see James v. New Orleans, 19 La. Ann. 109.

But where a tax was assessed against a former owner of a building (assessed separately from the land), the fact that he never petitioned for abatement, was held not to affect the subsequent owners' right to recover the tax paid them under protest, there being no personal obligation on them, nor any lien on the building. McGee v. Salem, 149 Mass. 238.

The fact that a city charter gives a right to appeal from a tax assessment, does not prevent an action to recover a tax paid in reliance on fraudulent misrepresentations. The former remedy is not exclusive. Harrison v. Milwaukee, 49 Wis. 247.

3. Bruecher v. Port Chester, 101 N. Y. 240; Ross v. Cayuga County, 38 Hun (N. Y.) 20; Galveston Gas Co. v. Galveston County, 54 Tex. 287; 72 Tex. 509.

4. Meek v. McClure, 49 Cal. 624.

A protest that "the lands are unequally and unjustly assessed, and the township and highway taxes are illegal and unjust," is insufficient. Peninsula Iron Co. v. Crystal Falls, 60 Mich. 79.

5. Smith v. Farrelly, 52 Cal. 77.

If payment be resisted because the property taxed is outside the limits of the taxing district, a general protest is sufficient, as the collector is bound to know the limits of his district. Mason v. Johnson, 51 Cal. 612.

6. In North Carolina, a demand within thirty days of payment is required in all cases, and the fact that it has been made must appear in the complaint. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Reidsville, 109 N. Car. 494.

7. Arapahoe County v. Cutter, 3 Colo. 349; Babcock v. Granville, 44 Vt. 325.

8. Garland County v. Gaines, 47 Ark. 558; Phelps v. Thurston, 47 Conn. 477; Boston, etc., Glass Co. v. Boston, 4 Met. (Mass.) 189; Loud v. Charlestown, 99 Mass. 208; Grand Rapids v. Blakely, 40 Mich. 367; Daniels v. Watertown, 55 Mich. 376; Greene v.

or other municipality that has received the money,¹ or against the collector, if he still retains it,² or has been notified not to pay

Mumford, 5 R. I. 472; St. Mary's Church v. Tripp, 14 R. I. 307; Babcock v. Granville, 44 Vt. 325; Brown v. Greenhow, 80 Va. 118.

Under code practice, the action is still essentially an action at law. Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54; Rugles v. Fond du Lac, 53 Wis. 436.

If the tax be void in part, assumpsit lies to recover the void portion, but not the costs of serving the warrant. Torrey v. Millbury, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 64.

1. Baker v. Allen, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 382; Dorr v. Boston, 6 Gray (Mass.) 131; Boston, etc., Glass Co. v. Boston, 4 Met. (Mass.) 189; Loud v. Charlestown, 99 Mass. 208; Daniels v. Watertown, 55 Mich. 376; Vicksburg v. Butler, 56 Miss. 72; Greene v. Mumford, 5 R. I. 472. And the liability of such local body cannot be removed by any agreement between it and the collector. Loring v. St. Louis, 10 Mo. App. 414.

In Wyoming, money received by a county can only be recovered by an action against the county treasurer, a county not being a municipal corporation within the meaning of the statute authorizing a recovery from such bodies. Powder River Cattle Co. v. Johnson County (Wyoming, 1892), 29 Pac. Rep. 361.

It must be proved that the authorized officer of the body sued received the money, whether paid to him directly or through a collector. Chicago v. Fidelity Sav. Bank, 11 Ill. App. 165; Smith v. Readfield, 27 Me. 145.

If a county directs and empowers a person to collect and receive taxes for it, a collection made by such person is received by the county. Galveston County v. Galveston Gas Co., 72 Tex. 509.

If a tax levied by a city be paid to an officer acting under color of municipal authority, and be received by the city, it cannot defend, in an action to recover illegal taxes paid, on the ground that the money was not to be used for municipal purposes. Grand Rapids v. Blakely, 40 Mich. 367.

Where a county collector had paid certain taxes into the county court pending litigation as to their legality, and on the separation of a city from the county the fund was paid over to the city, it was liable to those who had paid the taxes, they being illegal. Loring v. St. Louis, 10 Mo. App. 414.

The action lies against a county, town, city, or other municipality, only when its treasurer has received the money for its own purposes. Thus a town can be sued only for town taxes paid into the town treasury. Slack v. Norwich, 32 Vt. 818.

It cannot be sued for money in the hands of a township treasurer for a ditch tax, such tax not being a township affair. Camp v. Algansee, 50 Mich. 4.

If a county treasurer receives the proceeds of an illegal tax for the benefit of school districts, the action is against him, not against the county commissioners. Pawnee County v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 21 Kan. 748.

It has even been held in New York, that illegal taxes collected in a town (a species of a municipality not having a treasurer) and paid over to the county treasurer and partly applied by him, could not be recovered back. Rochester v. Rush, 80 N. Y. 302, reversing 15 Hun (N. Y.) 239.

And in Iowa, a county is not liable for money collected from illegal taxes, paid into the county treasury, not for county purposes generally, but for particular funds to which the tax was apportioned when collected, e. g., township taxes for roads, schools, etc., except to the extent of these funds remaining in the treasury. Stone v. Woodbury County, 51 Iowa 522; Iowa R. Land Co. v. Woodbury County, 64 Iowa 212.

But in Michigan, a township is liable to one who has been forced to pay an illegal tax, even though the money has been paid away on highway and school orders. Byles v. Golden, 52 Mich. 612.

In Connecticut, it is held that where the money of a town is illegally appropriated by a vote of the town, an injunction will lie. The legal remedy, by a suit to recover back the tax paid, is not adequate. Webster v. Harwinton, 32 Conn. 131.

2. Hardesty v. Fleming, 57 Tex. 395; Brown v. Greenhow, 80 Va. 118. If the county supervisors have paid over the proceeds of an illegal railroad aid tax, it cannot be recovered from them (Butler v. Fayette County, 46 Iowa 326), even where such tax is illegal in it over.¹ The right of action is limited by such reasonable restriction as to time as the legislature may establish.²

The complaint or declaration must state the facts constituting the alleged illegality of the tax,³ but need not state the precise amount of the money illegally exacted.⁴ If the claim be valid, the taxpayer is a creditor of the taxing district, and may recover in whatever manner the law may provide, but he cannot have his claim made a set-off against future taxes.⁵ Interest is usually recoverable from the date of payment.⁶

g. REMEDIES AGAINST PUBLIC OFFICERS—(See also PUBLIC OFFICERS, vol. 19, p. 378)—(1) Official Liability in General.—A public officer is not liable for injuries resulting to individuals from acts done in the exercise of a discretionary authority, either inherent in the office, or conferred upon it by law in the particular case, without the clearest proof of corrupt and malicious motives,⁷ one township only, and they have in hand money lawfully collected from other townships and not yet paid over. They have no authority to make a set-off of this character. Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Lowry, 51 Iowa 486.

1. Vicksburg v. Butler, 56 Miss. 72; Taylor v. Board of Health, 31 Pa. St. 73.

2. Plumer v. Marathon County, 46 Wis. 163.

In Iowa, the limitation under the refunding act, is five years from the date of payment. Brown v. Painter, 44 Iowa 368; Callanan v. Madison County, 45 Iowa 561; Hamilton v. Dubuque, 50 Iowa 213; Beecher v. Clay County, 52 Iowa 140.

And if part of the claim be barred by the Statute of Limitations, recovery may still be had for the part not barred. Magnolia Dist. Tp. v. Boyer Independent Dist. (Iowa, 1890), 45 N. W. Rep. 907.

In Arkansas, the action is subject to the three years' limitation of actions of assumpsit. Garland County v. Gaines, 47 Ark. 558.

In Michigan, the limitation is thirty days, but this only applies in the case of assessments against the plaintiff or upon his property. Babcock v. Beaver Creek, 65 Mich. 479.

3. Pelton v. Bemis, 44 Ohio St. 51. See People v. Cone, 48 Cal. 427. But it has been held that a recovery may be had on other grounds, the payment being involuntary. Babcock v. Beaver Creek, 64 Mich. 601.

If non-residence be alleged, residence elsewhere must be proved. Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Saco, 60 Me. 196.

If illegality in the object of the tax be alleged, application of the tax to the illegal object need not be proved. Gillette v. Hartford, 31 Conn. 356.

4. Meek v. McClure, 49 Cal. 624.

Counts may be joined, alleging invalidity in the whole and in part. Rugles v. Fond du Lac, 53 Wis. 436.

5. McVeigh v. Lanier, 50 Ark. 384.

6. Grand Rapids v. Blakely, 40 Mich. 367; Galveston County v. Galveston Gas Co., 72 Tex. 509; Erskine v. Van Arsdale, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 75. And see Boston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 63 N. H. 571.

7. That an assessor is not personally liable for errors in an assessment, the result of an honest exercise of the discretion and judgment vested in him by law, has been frequently held. Sanford v. Dick, 15 Conn. 447; Macklot v. Davenport, 17 Iowa 379; Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33; Dillingham v. Snow, 5 Mass. 558; Colman v. Anderson, 10 Mass. 119; Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Baker v. Allen, 21 Pick. (Mass.) 382; Griffin v. Rising, 11 Met. (Mass.) 339; Durant v. Eaton, 98 Mass. 469; Wall v. Trumbull, 16 Mich. 238; Edes v. Boardman, 58 N. H. 580; Odiorne v. Rand, 59 N. H. 504; McDaniel v. Tebbitts, 60 N. H. 497; Easton v. Calendar, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 90; Weaver v. Devendorf, 3 Den. (N. Y.) 117; Vail v. Owen, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 22; Brown v. Smith, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 419; People v. Reddy, 43 Barb. (N. Y.) 539; Vose v. Willard, 47 Barb. (N. Y.) 320; Bell v. Pierce, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 51; Barhyte v. Shepherd, 35 N. Y. 238; Western R. Co. v. Nolan, 48 N. Y. 513; Williams or of his having exceeded his jurisdiction.¹ Omissions of duty, or want of ordinary care and skill, in the performance of purely ministerial acts, will, however, impose a personal liability, as every officer is bound to know his duty and to do it;² but even in the case of ministerial acts, personal liability is avoided

v. Weaver, 75 N. Y. 30; Oregon Steam Nav. Co. v. Wasco County, 2 Oregon 206; Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20; Wilson v. Marsh, 34 Vt. 352; Cooley on Taxation 794.

An assessor is not liable to an action, for neglecting to commit the tax list to the proper collector of taxes, if he commits the warrant to himself under an erroneous view of the law. Lincoln v. Chapin, 132 Mass. 470.

Highway commissioners, in determining the opening of a certain road to be a public necessity, have been held to incur no liability. Sage v. Laurain, 19 Mich. 137.

Assessors are not liable to a parish for neglecting to assess a tax equal to the amount voted, where they acted under the honest belief that they were carrying out the views of the parish. First Parish v. Fiske, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 264.

It seems that an individual taxpayer has no right of action against a supervisor for assessing property on a false valuation, except on the ground of fraud or malice. Moss v. Cummings, 44 Mich. 359.

Township trustees, acting without corrupt or malicious motives, are not liable for a refusal to issue a certificate of compliance with the conditions upon which a tax has been voted in aid of a railroad. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

Where the mayor and councils of a city, with malicious intent, by resolution declared a non-resident merchant to be within an ordinance, and his property was seized for a tax assessed under the ordinance, which was afterwards declared to be invalid, it was held he might maintain an action against the city for the tort. Gould v. Atlanta, 60 Ga. 164.

1. Where, however, officers exercising the judicial function lay their acts open to complaint on grounds going to the jurisdiction, as where they exceed their authority, or wrongfully assume powers not conferred, they are no longer exempt from personal liability for injuries resulting, and redress may be had by the taxpayer by an action appropriate to the injury sustained. It is to such extrajudicial acts by assessors, that injuries in tax proceedings are principally referable.

That assessors cannot acquire jurisdiction by deciding that they have it, is well settled.

"Where assessors have no power to act at all in a given case, either as to person or property, their acts are void. So, when their right to act depends upon the existence of some fact, which they erroneously determine to exist, their acts are void. So, in performing a ministerial duty, their acts are void, if not in accordance with law." National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 49; Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261; Matter of New York Catholic Protectory, 77 N. Y. 342. 2. Kellogg v. Higgins, 11 Vt. 240; Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20.

In Illinois, the remedy for the omission of tax assessors to list and assess all property liable to taxation, is, by an action for the damage, sustained. The objection is not available as a ground for impeaching the entire tax. Dunham v. Chicago, 55 Ill. 357.

"Where an officer, in performing an act within the scope of his authority, commits an error, or even abuses the confidence which the law reposes in him, he is still entitled to the protection of the statute." Brown v. Smith, 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 419, ruling that where a farm was situated in two counties, and the assessors had jurisdiction as to the part lying in one county, their error in determining the residence of the owner, to his injury, could not subject them to a personal action. See Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261; Matter of New York Catholic Protectory, 77 N. Y. 342.

Where supervisors have jurisdiction to issue the tax warrant, they will not be liable in trespass because they have erred in allowing an improper item. Parish v. Golden, 35 N. Y. 462; Wall v. Trumbull, 16 Mich. 228; Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78.

Where a justice of the peace, on application duly made by the committee of an ecclesiastical society, with a rate bill, regular and valid on its face, grants a warrant for the collection of a tax, he acts within his jurisdiction, and by strict obedience to the requirements of a statute, or the apparently legal commands of a superior authority,¹ unless the officer has knowledge of facts rendering such commands illegal.² This distinction in the liability resulting from discretionary and from ministerial acts applies even to town assessors and listers.³

although the writ was not legally imposed, he is not liable in trespass. Prince v. Thomas, 11 Conn. 472.

1. Lott v. Hubbard, 44 Ala. 593; Sanders v. Simmons, 30 Ark. 274; Thames Mfg. Co. v. Lathrop, 7 Conn. 550; Prince v. Thomas, 11 Conn. 472; Shaw v. Dennis, 10 Ill. 405; Allen v. Scott, 13 Ill. 80; Hill v. Figley, 25 Ill. 143; Noland v. Busby, 28 Ind. 154; Ford v. Clough, 8 Me. 334; Kellar v. Savage, 20 Me. 199; Tremont v. Clark, 33 Me. 482; Caldwell v. Hawkins, 40 Me. 526; Judkins v. Reed, 48 Me. 386; Bethel v. Mason, 55 Me. 501; Nowell v. Tripp, 61 Me. 426; Colman v. Anderson, 10 Mass. 105; Stetson v. Kempton, 13 Mass. 272; Holden v. Eaton, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Little v. Merrill, 10 Pick. (Mass.) 543; Sprague v. Bailey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 436; Upton v. Holden, 5 Met. (Mass.) 360; Aldrich v. Aldrich, 8 Met. (Mass.) 102; Lincoln v. Worcester, 8 Cush. (Mass.) 55; Hays v. Drake, 6 Gray (Mass.) 387; Howard v. Proctor, 7 Gray (Mass.) 128; Williamstown v. Willis, 15 Gray (Mass.) 427; Cheever v. Merritt, 5 Allen (Mass.) 563; Underwood v. Robinson, 106 Mass. 296; Cone v. Forest, 126 Mass. 97; Clark v. Axford, 5 Mich. 182; Wall v. Turnbull, 16 Mich. 228; LeRoy v. East Saginaw City R. Co., 18 Mich. 233; Bird v. Perkins, 33 Mich. 28; Byles v. Genung, 52 Mich. 504; Turner v. Franklin, 29 Mo. 285; Glasgow v. Rowse, 43 Mo. 479; St. Louis Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Lightner, 47 Mo. 393; State v. Dulle, 48 Mo. 282; Walden v. Dudley, 49 Mo. 419; Ranney v. Bader, 67 Mo. 476; Henry v. Sargeant, 13 N. H. 321; Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209; Beach v. Furman, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 229; Alexander v. Hoyt, 7 Wend. (N. Y.) 89; Reynolds v. Moore, 9 Wend. (N. Y.) 35; Bennett v. Burch, 1 Den. (N. Y.) 141; Abbott v. Yost, 2 Den. (N. Y.) 86; Patchin v. Ritter, 27 Barb. (N. Y.) 34; Doolittle v. Doolittle, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 312; Sheldon v. Van Buskirk, 2 N. Y. 473; Bellinger v. Gray, 51 N. Y. 610; Woolsey v. Morris, 96 N. Y. 311; Bailey v. Wortsman (Supreme Ct.), 2 N. Y. St. Rep. 246; Smith v. Mosher, 9 N. Y. Supp. 786; 56 Hun (N. Y.) 643;

State v. Lutz, 65 N. Car. 503; Gore v. Mastin, 66 N. Car. 371; Loomis v. Spencer, 1 Ohio St. 154; Moore v. Allegheny City, 18 Pa. St. 55; Cunningham v. Mitchell, 67 Pa. St. 78; Peckham v. Bicknell, 11 R. I. 596; State v. Jervey, 4 Strobh. (S. Car.) 304; McLean v. Cook, 23 Wis. 364; Erskine v. Hohnbach, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 613; Bailey v. Railroad Co., 22 Wall. (U. S.) 604; Cooley on Taxation 797.

A collector's warrant protects him against all errors but his own. Carville v. Addition, 62 Me. 459.

Where an officer having several processes in his hands, some valid and some invalid, levies under all of them upon the property of the party against whom they are issued, this does not alone constitute the officer a trespasser, although the invalidity appeared upon the face of the invalid processes, or was known to the officer. Woolsey v. Morris, 96 N. Y. 311.

In Vermont, however, a regular tax bill and warrant are not, of themselves, a sufficient justification to a town collector for distraining property. He must show the legality of all previous proceedings. Collamer v. Drury, 16 Vt. 574; Downer v. Woodbury, 19 Vt. 329; Downing v. Roberts, 21 Vt. 441; Spear v. Tilson, 24 Vt. 420; Shaw v. Peckett, 25 Vt. 423; Wheelock v. Archer, 26 Vt. 380. See Hathaway v. Goodrich, 5 Vt. 65.

In an action of trespass against a supervisor of taxes, the justification must be proved by showing his jurisdiction to impose the taxes and to issue the warrant for their collection. Proof that the assessment roll came into his hands, and that the various taxes had been required by competent authorities, is sufficient for this. Clark v. Axford, 5 Mich. 182.

For the effect of a replication de injuria, etc., to a plea of justification, see Downer v. Woodbury, 19 Vt. 329.

2. Teachman v. Dougherty, 81 Ill. 324.

3. The setting in the list personal property, such as money, debts, etc., is a matter resting in the discretion of listers, and they are only liable for

(2) Tort (Trespass).—Agreeably to these general principles, an action of tort (or trespass) has been held to lie, where persons undertook to act as assessors without having been elected as such;¹ where assessors entered on the roll, as liable to be taxed, the names of persons not liable in the particular district,² or, where, after the deposit of the roll for examination, they changed the character of the property assessed;³ or assessed a farm, situate in two towns, in the town where the owner did not reside.⁴ The action lies against assessors for making an assessment without proper authority,⁵ or for a larger sum than was voted,⁶ for errors purposely made, out of malice to the party injured. Stearns v. Miller, 25 Vt. 20.

For malfeasance in office, assessors, as well as other officers, are liable criminally. Dillingham v. Snow, 5 Mass. 558.

1. Allen v. Archer, 49 Me. 346.

2. Ware v. Percival, 61 Me. 391; Martin v. Mansfield, 3 Mass. 419; Agry v. Young, 11 Mass. 220; Gage v. Currier, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 399; Inglee v. Bosworth, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 408; Withington v. Eveleth, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 106; Freeman v. Kenney, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 44; Lyman v. Fiske, 17 Pick. (Mass.) 231; Kelley v. Noyes, 43 N. H. 209. Even though, at the time of assessment, the question as to the individual's residence was, from the facts brought to the knowledge of the assessors, fairly one of doubt. Dorwin v. Strickland, 57 N. Y. 492.

In assessing property not taxable, the assessor acts ministerially, and not judicially, and is personally liable. Ford v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 446; Whitmore v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 451.

3. Bennett v. Buffalo, 17 N. Y. 383; Clark v. Norton, 49 N. Y. 243; Westfall v. Preston, 49 N. Y. 349. See Overing v. Foote, 65 N. Y. 263.

4. Dorn v. Backer, 61 N. Y. 261. But not where the owner was assessed in the wrong town at his own request, Pease v. Whitney, 8 Mass. 93; nor where, from his course of conduct, it appeared he acquiesced therein. Hilton v. Fonda, 86 N. Y. 339.

5. E. g., where the assessment exceeded the legitimate powers of the town to make (Paine v. Ross, 5 Me. 400; Drew v. Davis, 10 Vt. 506), and this, notwithstanding the assessment may have included other sums lawfully voted and raised by the town. Stetson v. Kempton, 13 Mass. 271; Inglee v. Bosworth, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 498.

So where the tax was irregularly voted, it was held that the assessors were liable, while the collector, being a mere ministerial officer, and acting in pursuance of a regular warrant from a tribunal acting on a subject within their jurisdiction, was not liable, and the action would not lie against the town, because they did not require the defendants to assess the tax, and had not received the fruits; nor against the district, because in the very limited corporate powers and duties with which school districts are invested, a liability to such suits is not imposed on them. Little v. Merrill, 10 Pick. (Mass.) 543.

Where the clerk of a school district wrongfully certified to town assessors that at a legal meeting of the district it was voted to raise a certain sum, whereupon the assessors assessed the same, it was held, that one arrested for not paying the tax could not maintain trespass against the clerk, the injury being but a remote consequence of his act. Taft v. Metcalf, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 456.

The assessors were held liable for assessing a tax for a school district which was not legally established. Withington v. Eveleth, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 106; Dickinson v. Billings, 4 Gray (Mass.) 44; Judd v. Thompson, 125 Mass. 553.

Where an unauthorized tax is collected by levy and sale, and the taxpayer recovers a judgment against the town in assumpsit, for the proceeds of the sale, he cannot sue the assessors. Ware v. Percival, 61 Me. 391.

6. Libby v. Burnham, 15 Mass. 144; Joyner v. School Dist. No. 3, 3 Cush. (Mass.) 567; though the excess be of a few cents only. Huse v. Merriam, 2 Me. 375.

And if other taxes, legal in themselves, are blended and incorporated with such illegal tax, the whole are uncollectable, and the assessors are liable for the full value of property distrained and sold. Drew v. Davis, 10 Vt. 506.

making an informal assessment,¹ for malicious overvaluation,² for assessing exempt property,³ or that of a non-resident,⁴ and for delay in filing their abstract of the list.⁵

The action lies against collectors for collecting taxes under an uncertified roll,⁶ or on a void levy,⁷ or from a non-resident,⁸ or from a person exempt from taxation,⁹ or for selling more property than was required to pay the tax,¹⁰ or for selling it in the wrong place.¹¹ It lies against trustees of a school district for adopting an erroneous basis for fixing the amount of tax to be paid;¹² for omission to give statutory notice, where they did not adopt the valuation upon the last assessment roll.¹³ It lies against a county treasurer who seizes property to pay a tax assessed without color of law, or under an unconstitutional law;¹⁴ against selectmen who, without right, doom one liable to taxation;¹⁵ and against a town supervisor or other officer for knowingly giving an illegal warrant to the collector.¹⁶

(3) Case.—In those states which retain the common-law distinction between trespass and case, the latter is the proper action where assessors enter on the roll the names of persons not liable to taxation in the particular district,¹⁷ or increase the valuation of property after the list has passed beyond their control,¹⁸ or make an assessment which is in any way excessive or illegal.¹⁹ It also

1. Colby v. Russell, 3 Me. 227.

Similarly, for omissions from the assessment, Eames v. Johnson, 4, Allen (Mass.) 382.

2. Parkinson v. Parker, 48 Iowa 667.

An averment that the overvaluation was made "willfully and against law," does not charge that intent to injure, which is necessary to sustain the action. Ballerino v. Mason, 83 Cal. 447.

In Moss v. Cummings, 44 Mich. 359, it was said that the making an assessment on a false valuation should be punished criminally.

3. National Bank v. Elmira, 53 N. Y. 49.

4. People v. Chenango County, 11 N. Y. 563; Mygatt v. Washburn, 15 N. Y. 316; Wade v. Matheson, 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 158.

5. Thames Mfg. Co. v. Lathrop, 7 Conn. 550.

